

SUNLIGHT SOAP

Wash oilcloths and linoleums with warm water and Sunlight Soap, rinse clean and wipe dry. The colors will be preserved and the surface unharmed.

Common soaps fade the colors and injure the surface. Sunlight Soap cleans, freshens and preserves oilcloths and linoleums.

Sunlight Soap washes clothes white without injury to the most delicate fabrics, or to the hands, for it contains nothing that can injure either clothes or hands.

Sunlight Soap is better than other soaps, but is best when used in the Sunlight way (follow directions).

NO CHANGE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

"Something more than natural causes is generally needed to effect any great reform in an individual, a city, or a nation. Look at San Francisco. The recent terrible devastation of earthquake and fire, while probably not a punishment for its wickedness, afforded such a lesson in the consequences of that wickedness and in the results of even temporary virtue as no other community ever received. Yet the praiseworthy crowd of its wayfarers is as large as ever. San Francisco has long had an evil reputation for intemperance and its accompanying immoralities. But one of the first things the authorities did after the late disaster was to close up every saloon within their jurisdiction. Not an alcoholic drink was sold for weeks within the borders of the stricken city. The result was marvellous. Never was known in San Francisco such order as prevailed during the prohibitory period. Prostitution was safe and women un molested. Riots were unknown and disturbances of any kind scarce.

No plain a lesson should have been some fruit, one would think. But it did not. Neither in the way of prohibition nor restriction. Last week licenses were issued for 2,600 saloons on the "wide open" system. Night-long day their doors will swing and the iniquitous dance hall amusements will flourish without let or hindrance. And the evil those wrought before the earthquake will be as nothing to the havoc they will cause now. When half the city is still without permanent dwellings, when men have no comfortable abodes of their own for evening resort, and when young girls must look much of the sheltering care that goes with a home

There are a few towns where some tradesman or manufacturer has not made a fortune through advertising; while there are other tradesmen who still plod along, barely obtaining a living, totally ignorant of the value of advertising space—simply because they say, they have never advertised and don't believe in it. Thomas While Mr. Welcome Thomas was coming down Graham Hill last Wednesday afternoon with a loaded team the yoke ring pulled out letting the pole drop to the ground. The horses started on the run, but Mr. Thomas held to them and guided them as best he could until the reins broke when the pole ran behind one of the posts on the iron bridge, bringing them to a standstill. It was almost a miracle that neither Mr. Thomas or the horses were hurt, but they all got quite a scare. Had there been a team in the road at the time—but then a miss is as good as a mile.

Old Home Week

The summer excursions entitled old home week which are being held so frequently in the different parts of the United States should be adopted in Nova Scotia. We have thousands of Nova Scotian born people in the United States who still cherish a warm affection for their homeland. Many visit this country at irregular intervals while others never return.

An old home week in Nova Scotia with arrangements for favorable transportation and suitable attractions offered at the various points of interest between Halifax and Yarmouth would induce many who now seem to be anchored in the United States to drop their work and spend pleasant vacation in the home land. Many, no doubt would come to stay and thus help to build up our country instead of a foreign commercial rival.

What is Nova Scotia going to do about it? If no other body will hold this question then let it come before the Maritime Board of Trade and Provincial Tourist Association and may another season not pass away before a general effort is made on our part to attract to our land many of the two hundred thousand of our sons and daughters and their offspring who now make their home in the Republic.

Canadian failures for the second quarter of 1906, according to Dun's Review, show exactly the same number of manufacturing losses as in the same three months of last year, but a large increase in the amount of failures owing chiefly to a few large defaults in the clothing business.

There is also an increase of about $100,000 in miscellaneous and leather, and small adverse exhibits in wool, hose, chemicals and liquors. The only manufacturing classes showing small or holidays than in 1905 were machinery, wood, printing, milling, and cartwheels. Trading failures in the Dominion made a much better showing, scarcely any differences occurring in liabilities, while as to number of failures, there was a decrease of 26, or over 10 per cent. In but one case was the difference as much as $100,000 yet losses showed more or less increase in general stores, groceries and meats, hotels and restaurants, druggists and tobacco, clothing and drugs. Liabilities were smaller than last year in nearly every class, hardware, jewelry, books, hats and miscellaneous. In the third division of brokerage, real estate, insurance, etc., there were six failures for $109,290, against five last year, and only $13,950 was involved. The largest increase in the trading class was due to a single clothing failure in Montreal for $245,000, and in the manufacturing division one large bankruptcy of a shirt factory was reported at the same place. In the aggregate the second quarter of 1906, as well as 1905, makes a considerably better showing than 1904, both as to the number of failures and the amount of liabilities.

NO VISIT FROM KING EDWARD.

The King's message announcing his inability to accept the invitation of the Canadian parliament to visit this country will be received with deep regret everywhere. As the royal delay in answering and the reports which have come indicating that his majesty was seriously contemplating acceptance had aroused far more hope than was generally entertained when the invitation was sent that he might be induced to visit this greatest section of his empire, the message will also occasion considerable disappointment.

The tone of the letter sent by the colonial secretary, and the reasons given have no room, for doubt that the refusal is really due to inability and that the King's regret is equal to ours. It is obvious that he could not honor Canada exclusively without causing much heart-burning in other colonies which already are inclined to be jealous of the favor shown this country by the imperial authorities, and it is equally obvious that the world is not ready for a visit to all his dominions would be impossible for the busy head of a man of his years and none too sturdy health.

St. Canada will acquiesce gradually to the inevitable and will send to His Majesty, along with its regrets, its sincere sympathy; for the loss to him is even greater than to us.

The Irish Independent, a highly reputable newspaper publisher in Dublin, referring to American canned food on Friday made the statement that a member of the Boston Rural District Council, County Cork, has made a gruesome contribution to the question.

Mr. O'Donovan, the member referred to, is reported to have stated at a meeting of the council that the American trusts were "making cannibals of their customers in Ireland."

He declared that a farmer in a locality had recently discovered in a barrel of American salted beef portions of the thigh of a man. This, he added, could be proved on oath. The farmer was so ashamed and disgusted that he kept the matter secret for a time, and buried the "thigh" in his garden.

Some allowance must be made for business jealousies and rivalries in the circulation of these reports; some allowance must also be made for that quality in human nature which makes each man anxious to tell a bigger fish story or make story than his neighbor. The trouble is that many of these rumors are readily believed, and the wicker tale the more likely does it appear to find supporters, and in the rural districts as well as among the poorer classes in the cities the trade in meats have fallen off to an alarming extent.

A shooting accident occurred on Monday at Hebron. A young man by the name of Surette was working in a field for Frank L. Trask, when another fellow named Crowell came along and wanted to sell him a revolver. Surette expressed his unwillingness to purchase the article, but Crowell seemed determined to dispose of it. On being asked if the revolver was any good he raised it and fired. The bullet hit Surette on a rib and glanced finally lodging in his side. He was immediately driven to Yarmouth for medical aid, the wound attended to, and a warrant issued for the arrest of his assailant. Now Mr. Crowell is behind the bars for six months performing hard labor.
