

- (3) to analyze data and determine which events were explosions and which earthquakes, and
- (4) to regularly supervise the operations of national observatories which were registered as part of the international seismic monitoring system.