

It would also be possible for us and for Dean Lee, if he returns, to take on some of the lectures now entrusted to other lecturers on subjects in which the law is common to the whole Dominion or practically so. These subjects would be Shipping and Carriers, Insurance, Negotiable Instruments and Banking, and Private International Law. These subjects are all lectured on in alternate years, and the present cost of them to the Faculty amounts to $1125-00 in the two years. All these lectures are for all students.

Dr Mackay's lectures on Constitutional Law were formerly given by Dean Lee, who also gave private instruction last year to a couple of students ^(the English law of) on Real Property. Apart from that no provision has hitherto been made for the subjects on which ~~Dr. Mackay~~ will lecture, nor for the lectures on Pleading and Procedure which I will deliver. In future it will always be essential that our lecturer on Real Property should be familiar, as Dr Mackay is, with the law of Western Canada.

From what I have said it is obvious that we have not hitherto been able to offer an efficient course of instruction in English law, and our registration for this course has naturally been extremely small. In the future I believe that our course will be the best in Canada, provided our standard of teaching is sufficiently high. Professor Falconbridge of Toronto admitted to me the other day that our course was much ^{more comprehensive} ~~better~~ than that given by Osgoode & Hall. The new development has already excited much interest. The outline of our curriculum published in the "Gazette" of the 1st November was widely reproduced in Western Canada, and the current issue of the "Canadian Law Times" contains a paragraph of cordial congratulation to McGill upon its decision. It is therefore reasonable to expect that there will be a considerable registration for the "B" course next session, and in the
