

CONTENTS.

v

PTER XXX. of Mecca,
PTER XXXI. ntains.—Enemy's camp. —Battle at the pass of the the enemy's camp.—Inter- with the nurse of his child. spoil.—Mahomet at the PTER XXXII. s daughter Zeinab.—Birth —Deputations from distant nest in presence of the ptibility to the charms of of the city of Tayef; de- —Negotiation with the Bedouin chief; indepen- er.—Interview of Adnan- homot,
PTER XXXIII. pedition against Syria.— h Ibn Obeid.—Contest —March of the army— of Hajar.—Encampment tion of the neighboring surprises Okaidor and f the army to Medina,
PTER XXXIV. Medina.—Punishment of d to join the campaign— lication.—Death of Abd- ensions in the prophet's
PTER XXXV. the yearly pilgrimage to Ali to announce a revela-
PTER XXXVI. ptains on distant enter- utenants to govern in Ali to suppress an insur- ce.—Death of the proph- n.—His conduct at the ave.—His growing immo- ry pilgrimage to Mecca, preaching while there,
PTER XXXVII. ets Al Aswad and Mo-
PTER XXXVIII. march against Syria.— asama.—The prophet's he troops.—His last ill- the mosque.—His death stances,
PTER XXXIX. Mahomet, and specula- career,
ENDIX.
	PART II.
	CHAPTER I.
	Election of Abu Bekr, first Caliph, Hegira 11th, A. D. 632,	PAGE 79
	CHAPTER II.
	Yeneration of Abu Bekr.—Traits of his char- acter.—Rebellion of Arab tribes.—Defeat and death of Malec Ibn Nowirah.—Harsh measures of Khaled condemned by Omar, but excused by Abu Bekr.—Khaled defeats Moseilma the false prophet.—Compilation of the Koran,	81
	CHAPTER III.
	Campaign against Syria.—Army sent under Ye- sed Ibn Abu Sofian.—Successes.—Another army under Amru Ibn al Aass.—Brilliant achievements of Khaled in Irak,	83
	CHAPTER IV.
	Incompetency of Abu Obeidab to the general command in Syria.—Khaled sent to supersede him.—Peril of the Moslem army before Bosra. —Timely arrival of Khaled.—His exploits during the siege.—Capture of Bosra,	84
	CHAPTER V.
	Khaled lays siege to Damascus,	86
	CHAPTER VI.
	Siege of Damascus continued.—Exploits of De- mar.—Defeat of the imperial army,	88
	CHAPTER VII.
	Siege of Damascus continued.—Sally of the garrison.—Heroism of the Moslem women,	89
	CHAPTER VIII.
	Battle of Ainzadin,	90
	CHAPTER IX.
	Occurrences before Damascus.—Exploits of Thomas.—Aban Ibn Zeid and his Amazonian wife,	92
	CHAPTER X.
	Surrender of Damascus.—Disputes of the Sara- cen generals.—Departure of Thomas and the auxes,	93
	CHAPTER XI.
	Story of Jonas and Eudocia.—Pursuit of the ex- iles.—Death of the Caliph Abu Bekr,	95
	CHAPTER XII.
	Election of Omar, second Caliph.—Khaled su- perseded in command by Abu Obeidah.— Magnanimous conduct of those generals.—Ex- pedition to the convent of Abyla,	98
	CHAPTER XIII.
	Moderate measures of Abu Obeidah.—Reproved by the Caliph for his slowness,	100
	CHAPTER XIV.
	Siege and capture of Baalbec,	102
	CHAPTER XV.
	Siege of Emessa.—Stratagems of the Moslems. —Fanatic devotion of Ikremah.—Surrender of the city,	103
	CHAPTER XVI.
	Advance of a powerful Imperial army.—Skir- mishes of Khaled.—Capture of Derar.—Inter- view of Khaled and Manuel,	104
	CHAPTER XVII.
	The battle of Yermouk,	106
	CHAPTER XVIII.
	Siege and capture of Jerusalem,	107
	CHAPTER XIX.
	Progress of the Moslem arms in Syria.—Siege of Aleppo.—Obstinate defence by Youkenna. —Exploit of Damas.—Capture of the castle.— Conversion of Youkenna,	109
	CHAPTER XX.
	Perfidy of Youkenna to his former friends.—At- tempts the castle of Aazaz by treachery.—Cap- ture of the castle,	112
	CHAPTER XXI.
	Intrigues of Youkenna at Antioch.—Siege of that city by the Moslems.—Flight of the em- peror to Constantinople.—Surrender of Anti- och,	113
	CHAPTER XXII.
	Expedition into the mountains of Syria.—Story of a miraculous cap,	115
	CHAPTER XXIII.
	Expedition of Amru Ibn al Aass against Prince Constantine in Syria.—Their conference.— Capture of Tripoli and Tyre.—Flight of Con- stantine.—Death of Khaled,	116
	CHAPTER XXIV.
	Invasion of Egypt by Amru.—Capture of Mem- phis.—Siege and surrender of Alexandria.— Burning of the Alexandrian library,	118
	CHAPTER XXV.
	Enterprises of the Moslems in Persia.—Defence of the kingdom by Queen Arzemia.—Battle of the Bridge,	121
	CHAPTER XXVI.
	Mosenna Ibn Haris ravages the country along the Euphrates.—Death of Arzemia.—Yezde- gird III. raised to the throne.—Saad Ibn Abu Wakkas given the general command.—Death of Mosenna.—Embassy to Yezdegird.—Its re- ception,	123
	CHAPTER XXVII.
	The battle of Kadesia,	124
	CHAPTER XXVIII.
	Founding of Bassora.—Capture of the Persian capital.—Flight of Yezdegird to Holwan,	126
	CHAPTER XXIX.
	Capture of Jäbulä.—Flight of Yezdegird to Rei. —Founding of Cufa.—Saad receives a severe rebuke from the Caliph for his magnificence,	127	