After Summer Complaint

In caring for the little convalescent, the mother should remember that a sudden chilling of the body may bring on a relapse, and therefore the body must be kept at as even a temperature as possible. A ribbed silk and wool, cotton and wool, or all wool band will do this better than anything else. Children four years old are not too old to wear these bands for the remainder of the summer, after such an attack. Never should baby wear short stockings, or go barefoot after having bowel trouble. By all this, I do not mean you to pile on a lot of extra clothing and keep the child so warm that he will have prickly heat most of the time. Do not go to extremes.

If baby has been much weakened by his attack, give him sponge baths rather than the full tub-bath. A little salt added to the water is slightly stimulating. After the bath give an oil-rub with cocoa-butter, or olive oil, but remember it is not the substance, but the rubbing that does the most good.

Let the child live outdoors nearly all the time. His blood is thin from his frequent movements and lack of nourishment, and he needs all the pure oxygen that he can possibly get to help him grow strong. If it can be managed a change of air will often prove beneficial. Short trips on open cars and ferries will help too, provided you keep away from crowds. When at home keep the child as quiet as possible, and let him sleep all he will.

Breast-fed babies are not so likely to have summer complaint; if they do have an attack, they generally recover quickly; but in severe cases the baby may be unable to take his mother's milk exclusively, and something will have to be used with it. An ounce of gruel just before nursing will often aid the weakened digestion; or one meal of mutton broth or barley or rice water may be substituted for a nursing until the child is quite well again. In regard to clothing and general management, he should be treated as outlined in these three articles; and do not forget that he needs drinks of water quite as much as the bottle-fed and older babies.

REAP THIS SHOE HARVEST.

Coming events cast their shadows before, is an old proverb, but sometimes the shadows are pleasant and profitable rather than adverse. Now that summer is drawing to a close the fall is being heralded by the usual sale deliveries, and of these none is better worth attending than that now conducted by Levy, the popular shoe man of 260 Yonge street. He has coined the term "Harvest Shoe Sale," and it certainly is a harvest for every resident who wants a bargain in footwear, whether for men or women. His advertisement in another column will show that Levy has exceeded all his previous offers in the way of shoe values.

7922 Child's Dress, 2 to 8 years.

Blouse frocks are always pretty and extremely fashionable but, for the little folk, the one-piece dress has its advantages. This model is all in one, yet gives the blouse effect. The little skirt, or plaited portion, is attached to the body portion and the closing is made at the back while the fronts of the blouse are overlapped. For mid-summer, the round neck and short sleeves are both pretty and comfortable but mothers who are looking ahead will be glad to know that the dress can be made with high neck and long sleeves as well. Blue linen chambray is the material illustrated and it is finished with scallops of white. Dresses such as this are made from any childlike material, the thinner washable ones for immediate wear and heavy linen, pique, serge and the like for the future.

For the 6 year size, the dress will require 2 1/2 yards of material 27, 2 1/2 yards 36 or 2 1/2 yards 44 inches wide. The pattern of the dress 7922 is cut in sizes for children of 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of 15 cents.

OSHAWA HOSPITAL NURSES GRADUATE

Miss Drew of Toronto Given Honors—Exercises Are Largely Attended.

OSHAWA, Aug. 14.—(Special).—A very pleasant and interesting event took place in the town of Oshawa Wednesday night, it being the graduating exercises of the Oshawa Hospital. The function was made more interesting owing to the fact that it was the first event of this character held by the Oshawa Hospital, an institution in which the citizens of the town have taken much pride and interest. Just three years ago yesterday the Oshawa Hospital was opened, and under the very able management of Miss McWilliams as superintendent, has made great advancement.

The graduates were Miss Margaret E. Seeling, of Midway, Ont., Miss Daphne C. Drew of Toronto, and Miss Gladys E. Vernon of Manchester, Ont. Besides winning their diplomas these young ladies were literally showered with scholarships, purses of gold, special prizes from all the medical staff, the superintendent and friends, and bouquets.

The exercises were held in the auditorium of the high school building, and attended by about three hundred citizens, visitors and friends of the nurses. The program was exceptionally interesting, consisting of besides the various presentations, the most important one being the address to the graduating class given by Dr. F. N. G. Starr of Toronto. Miss Annie Scott of Harrison won the John Cowan prize of $25 in gold for highest marks in second year class.

The president of the board of directors, Mr. J. D. Storie, in his address, announced that the plans and specifications were now already accepted for an extension of the hospital building, which will increase its present capacity by 150 per cent. The new addition will include the $10,000 Federal memorial.

REUSS GIRLS FIGHT BACHELORS' TAX

Tell Government They Can Look After Marriage Census Themselves.

GREIZ, Reuss.—The bachelors in the little principality of Reuss have determined to try a "general strike" as a reply to the bachelor tax, which goes into effect next April. A number of young eligible bachelors have arranged to quit the municipality in a body on March 31. One bachelor club is said to have been founded to urge upon the young engaged men that marriages should be postponed because "we men must stick together."

Several wealthy bachelors at Greiz, the principal town of Reuss, have withdrawn public benefactions previously given to the town funds. One elderly bachelor who had offered $10,000 for public swimming baths has withdrawn the gift and threatens to emigrate to America.

The comic opera character of the whole dispute is increased by the fact that the principality of Reuss in the older line is divided into two parts, the nearest points being 20 miles apart and separated by the Reuss younger line, which has no bachelor's tax and refuses to introduce it. The capital, Greiz, is only three miles from the equally important Town of Elsterberg. In the kingdom of Saxony, which also has no such tax. Hence the Greiz bachelors are emigrating to Elsterberg and the villages of the Reuss younger line, whence they can run into Greiz for business.

The latest development is the preparation of a petition by marriageable young women of Reuss begging for the remission of taxation on the ground that the government's action is removing their only hope of escaping spinsterhood. They urge that the Reuss girls are perfectly competent to look after the marriage statistics without clumsy government interference.
