FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

NOT OF THAT KIND.—"Was your husband on the stand yesterday?" asked the lawyer of a woman in a case in which husband and wife were witnesses. "No," she answered with a snap, "he wasn't on the stand. He was on the set. That's the kind of a man he is, whenever there is anything to set on, from a sat-in sofy to the top rail of a worm fence."—Ex.

DEADLY WEAPON.—. A totty legal question has arisen in the State of North Carolina, which may have to be decided by the Superior Court of that State. All of this because a coloured man called a brother descendant of Ham a liar, and the offended party belaboured the head of the offending negro with the only available weapon, which chanced to be a ten pound mud turtle. The question to be decided is whether or not a mud turtle is a lethal weapon. The court is fully competent to struggle with this problem, one of its learned judges having already decided that a ball dog is a "deadly weapon."—Washington Law Reporter.
