British Investment Will Improve Mining Markets

TRANSACTIONS SMALLER EXCEPT IN SPECIALTIES

British Enquiry For Properties and Stocks the Favorable Influence For the Future.

The transactions in the mining market are gradually dwindling away. On occasions such as that of the midweek, when, for some unaccountable reason, large blocks of Foster were thrown on the market, there is activity, but otherwise the market shows a disposition to get down to a stagnant and semi-dormant state until some matters arise to arouse pubtil some matters arise to arouse pubtil enthusiasm. From the camp, and lie enthusiasm. From the camp, and lic enthusiasm. From the camp, and from those who have recently visited the mineral area, it is learned that the impassable condition of the roads there now are a practical barrier to any but the smallest shipments, and these from only those mines which are in close proximity to the railway. This appears to be the controlling factor in the minds of thuse investing in the mining stocks, and until ore ehipments of a greater volume are forthcoming from the camp, the incentive to purchase even the best of the shares will not be strong. The best feature of the market recently has been the statement that British investors are enquiring after some of the leading properties and shares. Negotiations along this line will act as a stimulant to the market, and if conclusions are reached should assist materially in giving a stronger undertone to the better class of stocks. The buying power amenable to the present reach of the market's influence is about exhausted, amd an enlargement by placing blocks of stocks in the London and other European markets would serve at once to relieve the congestion. The fact that the market is congested is not an argument that values are too high, but it certainly must be accepted as a reason against buoyancy, and if not relieved may even lead to price reductions owing to the gradual growth in the apathy of traders.

Larder Lake Prospects. Stanley. Walker of Toronto and Cobalt tells: The World that he has just returned from Larder Lake after spending the winter there.

He and his friends have got control of 568 acres of mining property, on which he believes he has found very valuable ore. One vein is 2½ feet wide another 4½ feet wide and a third 2 feet wide. Assays have been made on all these veins and they show fair traces of gold and silver.

He thinks that he will form a company and ask for subscriptions in order to get and ask for subscriptions in order to get sufficient money to do extensive development work.

All of this work was done before the first fall of snow so that in purchasing this property we know that we have the best that could be procured in the Larder Lake region.

The claims all have a number of large quartz veins, showing values in Gold, Silver and Copper. Assays ranging from $8.40 in silver, and $122.00 to $1,868.00 in gold have been recorded. It is acknowledged on all hands that our property is the heaviest miner-
