A DEATHBED CONFESSION.

SATURDAY MORNING

An Interesting Legal Point-Raised by the Defence Gounsel.

Bolton, Ont., Aug. 19.—Some sensational developments are reported in connection with an affair which took place in Albion township about a year ago. Last summer the barns and crops of Mr. Isaac Bowes were destroyed by fire and several of his cattle were poisoned about the same time. The guilty party was not detected. This week a young woman, a daughter of John Bowes of Albion, who was married some few years ago to a man named Charles Spofford, has confessed that her husband fired the barn and poisoned the cattle. Mrs. Spofford's husband was working for Isaac Bowes at the time. He afterwards rented a farm, but threw it up this summer, deserted his wife, and his address is not now known. Mrs. Spofford is seriously ill and not expected to recover, hence the confession. She has kept silent until now because of threats made by her husband against her life.

GOVERNMENT PRINTERS PROTEST

Against the Use of Slugs to Show

Against the Use of Slugs to Show

ottawa, Aug. 19.—There is considerable feeling among printers at the Government Printing Bureau against a proposal which it is reported is to be put into operation. The proposal is to revert to the use of slugs, each printer having a numbered slugs which will show how much matter he has set up. The immediate cause of the trouble is said to be the fact that this year one room at the Bureau took over 400 hours longer to set up the banking reports than another room took to do similar work last year.
