The way the doubt arose was, tho Controller Foster had moved a motion to adjourn, Ald. MacGregor put the fol-lowing motion: "This council now as-sembled present a hearty vote of confi-dence in his worship the mayor as our first citizen as regards patriotism to his country and his King." This was sec-onded by Ald. He declared the council ad-journed, but the majority of the mem-bers desired to put Controller Foster in the chair and pass the motion. Earlier in the afternoon the legal opin-ions regarding the war tax were read; these were from T. G. Meredith, K.C., and City Solicitor William Johnston, and were in reference to the powers of the provincial government to levy and collect a war tax on the municipalities of the province. Both opinions are against Mayor Church, and justify the action of the government. Mr. Meredith says: "If the narrow construction which has been placed upon some of the sections of the British North America Act was explied to sub-section 2 of section 92 of this act it might be held that the Provincial War Tax Act, 1915, did not come within the meaning of this section." and collection by the municipal coun-clis. Quoted John Stewart Mill. City Solicitor Johnston gave an ex-tended review of the B.N.A. Act, the Assessment Act and the privy council decisions. He quoted John Stuart Mill on taxes and comes to the conclusion that the act is valid so far as it pro-fesses to levy and collect the tax from the ratepayers, but is of no effect so far as it professes to make the amount of debt due from the municipality to the treasurer of the province. But he point-ed out if the council pay over the tax there will be no need for the govern-ment to invoke the aid of section 6 of the B.N.A. Act, which, if invoked, would compel payment also. The solicitor does not give an opinion regarding the validity of certain grants by the province, which may be for ob-jects outside the jurisdiction of the pro-vince. ## undertaken in co-operation with a Russian offensive in Galicia. Such progress would not necessarily be a matter of days, but perhaps of months.

** ** ** * In this campaign the service that the Italians are rendering the general cause of the allies has been the retention of an Austrian force of at least half a million men on their frontier and the infliction of a quarter to half a million casualties on the enemy. If these extra Austrian troops, for instance, could have been used, say, at Verdun, with their complement of big guns, the French would have run much graver danger of defeat than they have. * * * * * *

British submarines began their spring campaign against German shipping in the Baltic by sinking at least three German merchant ships after the crews had been saved. Two of these vessels were bound for Germany with iron ore. The vessels sunk were the steamers Herra, Kolga and Bianca. The Kolga resisted search and she was shelled and two of her crew were slightly injured. It is reported from Copenhagen that a great many British submarines are now operating in the eastern and southern portions of the Baltic. That sea is now clear of ice. Last autumn German traffic was paralyzed for weeks by the British submarine squadron under mmand of Commodore Max Horton. * * *

Under the terms of the arrangement between Germany and the United States, Germany can sink as many ships as she likes, providing that her submarines remove the passengers and crews after visit and search. But the effectiveness of the British operation in the Baltic is likely to rouse Germany in renewed fury and to re-open the controversy with Washington. ate ate ate ** ** **

News from the British front received last night shows only normal activity. Thirteen fights in the air resulted in the driving down of one German machine. The Germans gained a mine held by the British on the Vimy ridge after a strong bombardment. A strong hostile patrol was driven back while trying to rush a British post near Wieltje. Artillery was active about Angres and St. Eloi. * * * *

The fighting west of Verdun, round Avocourt wood and Hill 304, was continued yesterday with French gains in attacks and the capture of a small Teuton fort on the northeastern slope of the hill and the repulse of a strong German attack against Hill 304 and Avocourt wood. The artillery action was extremely heavy in this region. In the night French aeroplanes bombarded German munition. depots, railway stations and camps in Alsace and Lorraine.

Australian and New Zealand mounted troops carried out a successful enterprise against the Turks at Bayoud and Mageiba, on the Egyptian frontier above the Suez Canal, despatches received from Egypt announce. The Turks made no resistance and fled at once. Thirty-six camels, a quantity of Turkish ammunition and one Turkish soldier were captured at Bayoud, and the hostile camp there was entirely destroyed.

The French steamer Myra has been sunk, but whether by mine or memarine is not stated. If it was by a mine, it can he safely said that the mine was laid by Germany. This form of piracy, it is to be noted, has never been protested against by the United States or any other neutral. The authorities are not satisfied that their steamer, Batavia V., was Dutch sunk by a mine, as reported. They believe that a submarine did the sinking.

The matter of increases to district and deputy chiefs of the fire department was referred back to the committee. With four items referred back the re-port of the committee of the whole was adopted by the council. His Honor Mayor Church then said that Ald. McBride's remarks had been most unfair, and Ald.
