

stewards of the good things which they possess. Mr. Swabey adds, that, in conjunction with others, he has endeavored to shew long ago that the Church in this Island will be seriously affected unless an Endowment Fund be created.

In the past year, death has deprived them of two of their most influential parishioners, the Honorable James Yeo and Mrs. Yeo. They are not only sincerely mourned by the members of their own family, but they are a very great loss, in various points of view, not only to their minister, but to the Church generally in this neighborhood.

Our Sunday-schools are in a tolerably flourishing condition. Miss Annie Warburton, in particular, takes a very great interest in the one attached to St. Peter's Church, Lot 11; and there is no doubt that the young people under her care have received benefit from her intelligent and unremitting instruction. Unfortunately, these schools must of necessity be closed in the winter; but in this, as well as in other things, it would be well if the minister and people could always act and speak as under the immediate eye of Him who said, "She hath done what she could."

NEW LONDON.

The Rev. J. Cox reports, that by God's blessing he is enabled to speak favorably of his mission. More than a year has elapsed since he took charge of the mission of New London, and he can truly say, that he has endeavored not to neglect any means in his power to advance the spiritual interests of the Church and people. These efforts, he believes, have produced the effect of leading many to take a more lively interest in the great subject of religion; to be more frequent in their attendance on Divine worship, and more attentive to their religious duties. Services have been held regularly at the Parish Church, and at Burlington, Irishtown, on nearly every
