

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The Librarians beg to report that the past year has been a very satisfactory one, inasmuch as there seems to be an increasing demand for books on the part of the scholars, and the fine collection of books from which they can select has been much appreciated by the children attending the school.

The number of books lost during the past year has been small, and the condition of the books indicates that reasonable care is being taken of them, as a general rule, in the homes of the scholars. About twenty-five new books have been added to the library this year. The Infant class have of late had access to the library, and thus far it appears to be proving a boon not only to themselves, but, in many cases, to the parents.

BIBLE CLASSES.

The Mission Bible-class, which reopened in October, has been carried on with an attendance varying from ten to forty persons during the winter. The disparity in numbers may be partly accounted for by the great severity of the weather on very many of the nights. It is encouraging to note the fixed attention of all present, as with open Bibles they search for the references and texts mentioned. Addresses have been given on two or three occasions by Mr. A. W. Grasett and Mr. Shaw. Any members of the congregation interested in this kind of work will share the earnest desire that those who are in one sense representatives of the lowly Redeemer who "became poor that He might make many rich," may through the study of the living Word have that "accomplished in them whereto He sends it," and be made "rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom."

Teacher of "Mission Bible Class."
