The Man In The Street
ONE ST. JOHN MAN WHO WAS BOUND TO GET TO FRONT

Getting Recruits
Husky young men at door of Imperial Theatre turned away because house was full. Immediately after, elderly gentlemen with group of ladies presented tickets and went in.
"This," said the husky young men, "must be a social function. We are not wanted. Good-night."
Recruiting Item
Recruits are wanted for the St. John police force. Acting Premier Clarke will tell applicants to whom they should apply.
Is the Police War over, or has it only begun?
The man who said "ach" and left the Imperial Theatre as soon as Bishop LeBlanc began to speak last evening must be a German.
Bishop Richardson last night told of a young man who said he could not attend the big recruiting meeting because he had to attend his dancing class. But perhaps the dancing class was going to do "The German."
The report of a certain bowling match in one of the city leagues a day or two ago was not unlike an official message from Berlin. It gave the name of the team, but because they happened to fall ignominious defeat, not one of the members gave his proper cognomen in the line-up.
How many presents have you bought thus far? Do it early.
One of the troubles with the Kaiser is that he thought it would be as easy to lick the world as it was for the police to lick hotel lobbies.
If ivory is worth $125 per pound, what would be realized from the sale of the Kaiser's headpiece? Do it yourself, we haven't time.
If a heavy explosion should be heard in the direction of Fredericton today it should cause no alarm. It will merely be the Dugal report.
Has your resolution to send some tobacco to the soldiers gone up in smoke? If not, send the goods to 28 Sydney street.
Did a sniff of the keen morning air make you think of the Belgians?
The slogan "Out to the front door, please," may be all right in its way, but it doesn't make those new street cars any warmer.
The presence of that bear cub as mascot for the New Brunswick soldier boys means that there's more trouble brewing for the Germans.
After the recruiting meeting last evening an elderly gentleman was heard to remark to a young stalwart: "Well, my boy, would this be the last of those stirring addresses you should be joining the colors?"
"Ah, you ain't think so if you want to, but 'would be ain't it' was the only answer."

CAPTAIN JOSEPH H. WELDON DEAD IN STATES

The death of Captain Joseph H. Weldon, formerly of this city, occurred yesterday in Dighton, Mass. The sad news was received here in a telegram to his sister, Mrs. John Johnson, of Acadia street.
For a long time Mr. Weldon was in command of schooners sailing out of St. John, and was well known to shipping men in this port. He retired about three years ago and then removed to Massachusetts. His wife died two years ago. He is survived by five sons and two daughters. Mrs. Johnson, who had no intimation of her brother's illness until the arrival of the telegram announcing his death, will leave for Dighton this evening.

HEADS OF RIVAL CREWS GIVE EVIDENCE IN GRAIN SHOOTING INQUIRY AT FORT WILLIAM

Fort William, Ont., Nov. 18.—In the inquiry into alleged shooting in grain cargoes shipped from terminal elevators here to ports east, the most important evidence yesterday was obtained from Robert McCullum, foreman of the union of grain trimmers, and from W. J. Wolvin, manager of a rival gang.
McCullum said that his gang was paid on a percentage basis for trimming the boats and it was to their advantage that the boats get every bushel coming to them. They made it a practice to shake out every particle of grain from the elevators. Part of their pay was received from the steamboat companies and therefore they were paid to look after the interests of the carriers.
Wolvin said that his men trimmed vessels belonging exclusively to the Canada Steamship Lines and that their duties did not include shaking out the shipping bins. This caused Doctor McGill, the chief commissioner, to remark that they evidently did not try to protect steamboat companies.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A very pleasant evening was spent at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Frazer, 65 St. David street, on November 17, in honor of their 3rd wedding anniversary, about twenty young friends called, each bringing a present. The evening was enjoyed with music, games and luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Winter of 11 Harding street have the sympathy of many friends in the death of their infant son, Murray P., who died today.

Business Egotists

A business egotist is one who believes his business is so good it is not possible for anything to make it better.
Business egotists have no use for advertising—but eventually they keep the sheriff's auctioneer from having a sincere.
There is a vast difference between an egotist and a man with "self confidence."
The self confident man believes in his goods and his service.
He believes business is just as good as he makes it—and he uses newspaper advertising day in and day out to bring prosperity to his doorstep.
