

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Dr. J. C. Ayer and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Purgative, Drops and Soothing Syrup. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhoea, Colic, Wind Colic, Excessive Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of

Dr. J. C. Ayer
The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.

SHIPPING

ALMANAC FOR ST. JOHN, JAN. 9, 1911.
Sun Rises..... 7:40 Sun Sets..... 4:33
High Tide..... 6:02 Low Tide..... 12:13
The time used is Atlantic standard.

PORT OF ST. JOHN.

Arrived Saturday.
Star Monmouth, Avonmouth via Halifax, C. W. E.
Schr Fannie Fry, from the westward, in for harbor. Arrived Sunday.

Star Kanawha, Kellman, London, via Halifax, Wm Thomson & Co.

BRITISH PORTS.

Liverpool, Jan 8—Arr, stmr Empire of Ireland, St. John.
Plymouth—Arr, stmr St. Louis, New York for Southampton.
Isle of Wight, Jan 8—Passed, stmr Rapahannock, St. John for London.
Brow Head, Jan 8—Signed, stmr Sardinian, St. John for Havre and London.
Tombay, St. John for London.
Queenstown—Sd, stmr Lusitania, Celtic, New York.

FOREIGN PORTS.

New York, Jan 8—Arr, schr Cecilia, Dorchester.
Antwerp, Jan 8—Arr, stmr Mount Temple, St. John.
Sd—Sd, stmr Quercia, St. John.
Philadelphia, Jan 7—Arr, stmr Manchester Importer, St. John.
New York, Jan 8—Arr, stmr Megantic, Liverpool; schr Moama, St. John for Philadelphia.
Vancouver, Jan 8—Sd, schr James William, Halifax.

Quick Service on G. T. P.

(Montreal Gazette).
At the close of the first season of traffic over the Grand Trunk Pacific, they are telling stories of quick delivery of freight across the prairie provinces. A gentleman visiting Montreal from the west says it is a common thing for shipments to go from Winnipeg to Edmonton in sixty hours.
One story is to the effect that a Winnipeg wholesaler wrote a retail merchant in Edmonton, saying: "Car shipped to you today." When the merchant had read this letter in Edmonton, he immediately telephoned the freight department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, asking them to look out for his car, and the answer came promptly back over the phone: "Your freight is in the warehouse."

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. Every time I got up in the morning I would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to strain myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, stinging pain. I tried medicine, but it failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes effected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."
Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifying the blood. 10 boxes a box at your druggist's.

RRRR RADWAY'S READY RELIEF CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

Radway's Ready Relief should be well rubbed over a large neck until a glow is produced, with a warming sensation. Few cases require the use of pills. Some do, when a dose or two could be taken. Write for Radway's Ready Relief and be sure you get that you ask for.

TIDAL WAVE OF WINE ON NEW YEARS

New Yorkers Consumed a Lot of It—The Orgies Decried

Hotel and restaurant managers said Monday that the consumption of champagne on New Year's Eve had, if anything, shown an increase over previous years. They had not had time to make exact comparisons in figures, but a rough estimate showed that it would be in favor of this year against its predecessor, it was said.

The neighborhood of Times Square saw the floodtide of it. The Hotel Astor sold 4,000 bottles of wine, while the Knickerbocker, Murray's (in West Forty-second street), Louis Martin, Rectors, Forty-third, and Egan's new restaurant at Forty-third street and Seventh avenue averaged about 3,500 bottles each. The Plaza and the Cafe Martin averaged about the same number, while the Waldorf-Astoria, where 6,000 men and women supped, sold 5,000 bottles. At the principal hotels the guests were allowed to select their own beverages. These included Rector's, the Martinique, Regis, Gotham, Belmont, Manhattan, the Netherlands, Savoy, Holland House, Ritz-Carlton, Wolcott and others, but at the Cafe Martin, Cafe Maitland, Church's and the Cafe des Beaux Arts it was a strictly champagne supper, and many of the revellers did not leave off their festivities until 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mr. Skinner, one of the managers of the Plaza, said that the wine and champagne on New Year's Eve had never before been so popular. He said that the general consensus of opinion among the hotel and restaurant men as to the increase in the sale of champagne on New Year's Eve had become more absolute than the orders for crabs and soda water all day Sunday almost, quelled the demand for wine on the previous evening. The manager of a well-known restaurant in Times Square, who has had many years' experience in the uptown supper district, did not agree with the general consensus of opinion among the hotel and restaurant men as to the increase in the sale of champagne on New Year's Eve.

"It is true," he said, "that the consumption of wine last night was probably greater than it was a year ago, but it was far below the estimate of three years ago. I used to consider that every man and woman spending from five to seven hours in the restaurant would consume two quarts of wine, but that day was passed. Either they don't wish to spend the money or those who go out on New Year's Eve have become more abstemious in their habits, so that there were close upon 100,000 persons at supper in restaurants on Sunday night, but I don't believe that anything like 100,000 quarts of champagne were consumed. Many of the wine stewards who counter the empties this morning were suffering from brain fog from the efforts all day the previous night, and were unable to believe that anything like 100,000 quarts of champagne were consumed."

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, addressed the members of the Free Synagogue at Carnegie Hall Sunday morning on "The Duties and Dangers of Youth." Without mentioning Collectors' Loan, Rabbi Wise referred to the case of "a prominent public man" who had been kept out of a prominent city club because he had a Jewish name. The indulgence and extravagance of New Yorkers on New Year's Eve was discussed, and the young were urged to enter politics for the service that is in it, and Dr. Wise added that the corruption in local politics was due to the fact that so many young men ask regarding public life, "What is in it for me?"

In beginning his address, Dr. Wise said he was going to treat more of the dangers to the strong, of those in affluence and plenty, and less of the dangers that surround the weaker, poorer ones of the world. As an example of the kind, Dr. Wise looked to the case of Andrew Carnegie's Peace Fund bequest which states that the examples, when war has been abolished, shall set themselves toward the banishment of the next greatest evil. Dr. Wise then spoke of the revellers on New Year's Eve. He said: "I can't help thinking that more money was expended last night in one night of drinking and carousing than is contributed in a year to the three great charity organizations of New York city."

TO CURE A COULD IN ONE DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROM QUININE TABLETS. Druggists refuse to supply if it fails to cure. E. W. GRUBBS signature on each box. 25c.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

THE REPEAL OF THE UNION
(Between Great Britain and Ireland)

From his speech on Tara's hill, County Meath, where, it is said, a quarter of a million of Irish had assembled, August 1845, the English statesman, Lord Russell, said: "Ireland is raised from one end to the other. Her multitudinous population has but one expression and one wish, and that is for the extinction of the union and the restoration of her national independence. I have come here, not for the purpose of making a schoolboy's attempt at declamatory eloquence, not to exaggerate the historical importance of the spot on which we now stand; but this is impossible to conceive, for Tara is surrounded by historical reminiscences which give it an importance worthy of being considered by every one who approaches it for political purposes, and an elevation in the public minds which no other part of Ireland possesses. We are standing upon Tara of the kings—the spot where the monarchs of Ireland were elected, and where the chieftains of Ireland bound themselves, by the most solemn pledges of honor, to protect their native land against the Dane and every stranger."

On this spot I have a most important duty to perform. I here protest, in the name of my country and in the name of my God, against the unfounded and unjust union of my country with England. The union is not binding on her people. It is void in conscience and in principle, and as a matter of constitutional law I attest these facts. Yes, I attest, by everything that is sacred, the truth of my assertions. There is no real union between the two countries, and my proposition is that there was no authority given to any one to pass the act of union. Neither the English nor the Irish legislature was competent to do that act, and I arraign it on these grounds. One authority alone could make that act binding, and that was the voice of the people of Ireland.

My next impeachment of the union is its destructive and deleterious effect upon the industry and prosperity of the country. The union of Meath was once studied with noble residences. What is it now? The brick and the ramble attest, the treachery that produced them. You remember the once prosperous linen weavers of Meath. There is scarcely a penny paid to them now. In short, the union struck down the manufacturers of Ireland. The commissioners of the poor law prove that 120,000 persons in Ireland are in a state of destitution during the greater part of the year. How is it that in one of the most fertile countries in the world this should occur? The Irish never broke any of their bargains or their treaties, and England never kept one that was made on her part. There was a union of the legislatures, but I deny that there is a union of the nations, and I again proclaim the act a nullity. The union was carried by the most abominable and unscrupulous bribery, by financial robbery on an extensive scale, which makes it the more heinous and oppressive; and the result is that Ireland is saddled with an unjust debt, her commerce is taken from her, her trade destroyed, and a large number of her people thus reduced to misery and distress.

THE DE BERCEY AFFAIR

BY GORDON HOLMES
Author of "A Mysterious Apparition," "By Force of Circumstances," etc.
(Copyright by McLeod & Allen, Toronto)

CHAPTER IV.—(Continued).
So when Jenkins came with a couple of his men, Rupert brought a third-class ticket. Traveling in a corridor compartment, he heard the Feldhansian doctor, Murray's (in West Forty-second street), Louis Martin, Rectors, Forty-third, and Egan's new restaurant at Forty-third street and Seventh avenue averaged about 3,500 bottles each. The Plaza and the Cafe Martin averaged about the same number, while the Waldorf-Astoria, where 6,000 men and women supped, sold 5,000 bottles. At the principal hotels the guests were allowed to select their own beverages. These included Rector's, the Martinique, Regis, Gotham, Belmont, Manhattan, the Netherlands, Savoy, Holland House, Ritz-Carlton, Wolcott and others, but at the Cafe Martin, Cafe Maitland, Church's and the Cafe des Beaux Arts it was a strictly champagne supper, and many of the revellers did not leave off their festivities until 7 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mr. Skinner, one of the managers of the Plaza, said that the wine and champagne on New Year's Eve had never before been so popular. He said that the general consensus of opinion among the hotel and restaurant men as to the increase in the sale of champagne on New Year's Eve had become more absolute than the orders for crabs and soda water all day Sunday almost, quelled the demand for wine on the previous evening. The manager of a well-known restaurant in Times Square, who has had many years' experience in the uptown supper district, did not agree with the general consensus of opinion among the hotel and restaurant men as to the increase in the sale of champagne on New Year's Eve.

"It is true," he said, "that the consumption of wine last night was probably greater than it was a year ago, but it was far below the estimate of three years ago. I used to consider that every man and woman spending from five to seven hours in the restaurant would consume two quarts of wine, but that day was passed. Either they don't wish to spend the money or those who go out on New Year's Eve have become more abstemious in their habits, so that there were close upon 100,000 persons at supper in restaurants on Sunday night, but I don't believe that anything like 100,000 quarts of champagne were consumed."

Dr. Stephen S. Wise, addressed the members of the Free Synagogue at Carnegie Hall Sunday morning on "The Duties and Dangers of Youth." Without mentioning Collectors' Loan, Rabbi Wise referred to the case of "a prominent public man" who had been kept out of a prominent city club because he had a Jewish name. The indulgence and extravagance of New Yorkers on New Year's Eve was discussed, and the young were urged to enter politics for the service that is in it, and Dr. Wise added that the corruption in local politics was due to the fact that so many young men ask regarding public life, "What is in it for me?"

In beginning his address, Dr. Wise said he was going to treat more of the dangers to the strong, of those in affluence and plenty, and less of the dangers that surround the weaker, poorer ones of the world. As an example of the kind, Dr. Wise looked to the case of Andrew Carnegie's Peace Fund bequest which states that the examples, when war has been abolished, shall set themselves toward the banishment of the next greatest evil. Dr. Wise then spoke of the revellers on New Year's Eve. He said: "I can't help thinking that more money was expended last night in one night of drinking and carousing than is contributed in a year to the three great charity organizations of New York city."

TO CURE A COULD IN ONE DAY

Take LAXATIVE BROM QUININE TABLETS. Druggists refuse to supply if it fails to cure. E. W. GRUBBS signature on each box. 25c.

Loss of Appetite

Is loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a forerunner of a paralyzing disease.

It is serious and especially so to people that must eat, and doing so get behindhand in their work.

The best medicine to take for this is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Which purifies and enriches the blood and builds the whole system.

Get it today. Sold by all druggists everywhere. 100 Doses One Dollar.

He that the Tor? He asked.
"Yes, don't you know? You are visiting Toronto, I suppose."

"Well, I have been here since the day before yesterday, but my local knowledge is nil."

"Well, if I were you I should go home and change my clothes. How did your coat get torn? Are you sure you are not injured?"

He turned to survey the rock on which his feet had slipped. Between it and the umbrella the top of a buried boulder showed above the deep sand, ever white and soft as light-water mud.

"I am inclined to believe that I hit into that fellow during the hurricane," he said. Then, feeling that an excuse must be forthcoming, he added insistently: "I am sure you will find it a little while longer into her face, and he threw a 'Pity' she murmured, and of course, I shall be off to the Swan."

"Sit down at once," she said with ready respect, "I am sure you will find it a little while longer into her face, and he threw a 'Pity' she murmured, and of course, I shall be off to the Swan."

"I must be going home now," she answered. "I can obtain this effect only at a certain stage of the tide, and the tide of the day. You see, the Tor changes his appearance so rapidly when the sun travels round to the south."

"Do you live at Tormouth?" he ventured to ask.

"Will you allow me to carry something for you? I find that I have broken two ribs—two—beneath the Tor. Some day, seeing that those radiant eyes of her had turned on him quick solicitude.

"Pity," she murmured, and of course, I shall be off to the Swan."

"In the opposite direction," she answered. "Ah, well," he said, "I am a useless piece of machinery. Good-bye. May I fall at your feet again tomorrow?"

The absent thought brought him a smile to her lips. She began to reply: "Welcome to headlong—"

Then she saw that which caused her eyes to flash.

"Why, your right hand is smothered in blood—something has happened to the hand of the Tor. Some day, seeing that those radiant eyes of her had turned on him quick solicitude.

"It is a mere scratch," he assured her. "I have been scratched by the Tor. Some day, seeing that those radiant eyes of her had turned on him quick solicitude.

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

A Great Sale of Men's Pants

and, mind you value-giving here does not consist of mere Cheapness—We carefully exclude goods simply made to sell or to trap the careless—Every pair in the whole lot is well made of good material and will give long service. No matter what Price.

MENS PANTS, $1.58, $1.78, $1.98.

AT
CORBET'S
196 Union Street

IS THINNESS EMBARRASSING?

Undoubtedly it is, to many a Maiden and Youth—While Even Those Well Along in Years Prefer Well Rounded Figures.

Prescription Increases Weight

A scrawny, gauntling youth or maiden is almost invariably slighted, overlooked or ridiculed in any social gathering. There is something about a plump or well rounded figure which attracts not only friendship, but love and adulation as well.

People with a proper amount of flesh are favored in all walks of life, while the thin are unloved, unwept and frequently miserable for life. The difference lies in the power of the digestive functions and the ability of the blood and lymph to absorb and distribute over the body the nutrition extracted from the food eaten.

The thin person is abnormal and lacks the power to absorb and retain the flesh and fat elements which the gastric juices of the stomach and bowels should extract or separate from all kinds of food and drink.

Cravings and indigestion are the result of a weak stomach. The stomach is a factory where food is broken up into its constituent parts, and the body is supplied with the elements of life. If the stomach is weak, the body is starved.

Get a half pint of the three ounces of essence of pepsin and three ounces of syrup of rhubarb; the add one ounce of essence of castor; shake and let stand two hours; then add one ounce of lemon juice and shake again. Take before and after meals, drinking plenty of water between meals and when retiring.

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

"I shall be off to the Swan."

STRENGTH COMES

Not From What You Eat, But From What You Digest

A Tablet Digests a Meal. Trial Package Free.

Most people eat most foods without discrimination—it matters little what. Few stop to think what that food does for them. This is the first turn in a critical condition. Reckless disregard of the proper choice of foods, rapid eating and improper mastication, are the causes of all stomach disorders from the slight ache to the malignant cancer.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

There is nothing more revolting than a dyspeptic stomach—a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison through the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.