SALISBURY, N. B., June 17 .- Th re-opening of the Methodist church a this place on Sunday drew togethe quite a large number of visitors About four hundred dollars has been spent recently on the interior of the edifice, and it now ranks and it now ranks ame handsomest churches in the country. The ceiling overhead is covered wit hardwood veneer put on in sheets about 3x4 feet square with a neat moulding around each sheet. From the celling to the side walls is arched and the arches covered with spruce sheathing, at the base of which is a heavy moulding extending all the way around the building. The mouldings are all rosewood stain, which blends well with the light and dark natural woods. The walls from the wainscoting to the arch are painted in terracotta. The Gothic ends of the eight windows have been filled with stained ass. New chairs have been added to church furniture, and altoget the improvements are marked and ing to the eye.

The services of the day were con-tucted by two able members of the fethodist ministry, Rev. Geo. W. lisher of the Central Methodist church, Moncton, who preached in the morning, and Rev. R. S. Crisp of the Wesley Memorial church, Moncton who conducted the services afternoon and evening. Both these clergyn had been former pastors of the church and the large numbers who turned out were not only pleased with the sermons, but were glad to have the pleas ure of listening to their former pas-tors once more. Rev. J. E. Tiner of Salisbury Baptist church was present and took part at the morning service, having cancelled his own ser vice for the day. A choir of fifteen voices under the leadership of Mrs. (Rev.) C. H. Manaton, who also acted as organist, rendered splendid service during the day. Mrs. Chas. McCarthy and Miss Wortman, sopranos, of Moneton, and Chief of Police Tingley, tenor of the Baptist church choir Moncton, kindly assisted. The rendering of The Holy City in the afternoon by Mr. Tingley was greatly admired. Several leading members of the North River Free Baptist and Methodist choirs also assisted the home choir during the day. Quite large collections were made during the day, which makes the debt a very small matter. The Methodist people of the place are to be congratulated on the greatly improved appearance of their church and on the general success of the re-CHATHAM, N. B., June 17 .- Work
