Cold Region Crops Agriculture's northern challenge

by Paul Tisdall or Dr. Walter Bushuk, the University of Manitoba's Associate Vice-President of Research, the problems of farming under Canada's hostile climate conditions are painfully real. Bushuk, who emi- productivity under the cool, shortgrated from Poland with his family as season conditions of the Canadian a small child, grew up on a mixed farm Prairies. near Garland, Manitoba, some 400 km north of Winnipeg. The family farm cant limiting factor facing Canadian suffered "freeze-outs almost every agriculture. In fact, in many ways to scratch out a living," Bushuk recalls. Given this personal history, it's hardly surprising that Bushuk now heads a program at the University of Manitoba aimed at improving crop

- 10-

Severe climate is the most signifisecond year and we barely managed Canada's role as a breadbasket coun-

