BETWEEN ELECTIONS

Main changes in the revised Ontario Driver Demerit Point System taking effect July 1 are illustrated in the above examples of driving infractions. While the suspension level has been raised from 12 to 15 points, in most cases the same number of violations under either system will bring suspension because of the upward revision on the point scale and the addition of 10 new infractions. The advantage of the revised system is the increased gap between the nine-point interview level and suspension. For the top two illustrated infractions, a motorist loses a total of 10 points for (top left) racing and (top right) following too closely and so must attend an interview with Department of Transport examiners. Under the old system the driver would have only seven points and after incurring the extra points to reach the interview level, might be off the road with a further violation before an interview could be held. The value of the interviews in correcting driving habits is evident in the fact that only 15 per cent of drivers interviewed go on to lose their driving privileges.

Influence Of Negro Seen By Architects

The Chicago Chapter, American Institute of Architects, announced that it is co-operating with the Architectural Association of Chicago in assembling information and data on the role and contribution of Negro architects in the architectural heritage of America. The program is being conducted in preparation for an architectural exhibit planned as part of the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation of 1863.

A century of Progress tribute to the American Negro is being sponsored by the American Negro Emancipation Centennial Authority, Inc. A true and comprehensive report of the history and contributions of the Negro since the founding of the nation, will be presented through exhibits and pageantry. The Exposition is scheduled for Chicago's McCormick Place in 1963.

The Architectural Association of Chicago have been selected to compile information pertinent to the Negro Architect as part of the Fine Arts category. Interested persons, organizations, and institutions who are knowledgeable or now active in this area are requested to submit information that would cover the Negro in architecture, both past and present, his contributions and position in the profession to 1963.

The material compiled will be edited for the architectural exhibit in the Exposition, and an informative publication of historical facts will be made.

Louis Urges Prizefighter Legal Aids

Los Angeles — Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, speaking from the witness chair before the California assembly committee investigating boxing and safety proposals for the sport, urged legislation to protect prizefighters.

He stated that prizefighters should be required to set aside a percentage of their earnings so they would be able to pay income taxes at the end of the year. This would be equivalent to putting fighters on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Louis' recommendations on establishing a procedure for boxers were accompanied by suggestions that promoters donate part of their revenues from fights to a welfare and pension fund for needy boxers. There was also a recommendation for creating a national boxing commission to regulate boxing. Both Louis and Aileen Eaton, co-promoter of the Olympic Auditorium, recommended the commission.

Dr. Louis E. Benson, former state athletic commission physician, who examined Archie Moore in 1957, brought up an "arrhythmic" heart condition he had discovered at that time. Archie was allowed to continue his career, however. He has had 22 fights since 1957.
