EDITORIAL

CBC Television
Panel Show

We note in Sept. 10 edition of the London Free Press an article from Toronto "Allege CBC Stupidity After Speaker Loses Racial Tirade on T.V." That civic and religious officials attacked the racial segregationist views expressed by a participant in a C.B.C. T.V. panel show, and well they might. It seems to us that strict precaution should be taken to whom the participant is, what he is to speak on, or represent. Canada is made of a great number of nationalities, some born here, others naturalized. We don't believe that the C.B.C. was put into existence to allow its listeners whoever they are, to be insulted as thus. If the show is to be of any advantage or of any intelligence the parties responsible should or must show better judgement or let some one more capable do the show to make it a credit. Why wasn't this part of the show cut when it was known what was taking place?"

African Nationalists to Picket United Nations

The United African Nationalist Movement sent out the following call by distributing 10,000 circulars which read, "Wanted, 500 black men and women to picket the U.N. on behalf of a free Africa in general and Algeria in particular on September 15 at 1 p.m." The circular also appealed for voluntary contributions to pay picket signs and transportation.

James R. Lawson, President of the UANM, said: "Not only are we demanding a free Algeria but we demand the immediate and unconditional release of Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, Dr. Hastings Banda of Central Africa." Mr. Lawson then demanded the immediate release of all the Algerian leaders kidnapped from a Moroccan chartered plane, including his personal friend Hussein Ait-Ahmed, a Vice-Premier of the Provincial Algerian Government.

The UANM President then announced that the newly appointed international organizer for the African Nationalist, James H. Thornehill, will start touring the Caribbean on September 8 on the program of Unity and self-help and demand complete independence for the West Indies as a Republic.

The United African Nationalist Movement holds indoor meetings every Friday night 9 p.m. at Hotel Theresa, 125th St. & 7th Ave., New York City.

James League, Secretary of the UANM, said that among the organizations expected to help picket the UN are the Muslim Brotherhood U.S.A., the Brooklyn and Staten Island divisions of the United Sons and Daughters of Africa; also the North African-American Society and the African and Arab Student groups, the Black Brotherhood, Ethiopian World Federation and Garvey Club.

Ragweed Pollen
And Hay Fever

Most hay fever sufferers are allergic to ragweed pollen. However, there are a number of other substances which also cause typical hay fever symptoms, such as sneezing, wheezing, coughing, burning eyes and runny nose.

Physicians can, through allergy tests, determine just which substances are the offenders. They are then able to reduce sensitivity and prevent further attacks by injection of certain materials.

For those hay fever sufferers who cannot tolerate desensitizing injections, the pharmaceutical manufacturing industry has provided a number of medicines which do offer relief for hay fever victims. Antihistamines are the best known of these products. They are believed to provide relief from symptoms in from 70 to 95 per cent of cases. Cortisone, hydrocortisone, prednisone, prednisolone and corticotropin are also administered by physicians in certain cases.

Although rarely fatal, hay fever is not a disease to be taken lightly, the HNI says. If not attended to promptly, it may well develop into bronchial asthma. The Allergy Foundation of America estimates that at least 16,000,000 man days of working time are lost every year by hay fever sufferers.

Second Belafonte Film
Gets Critics' Approval

The second Harry Belafonte pix in which he combines as producer-star was previewed in Chicago past week before large audience of radio, television and press representatives and the reaction was a "loud" approval.

Picture titled "Odds Against Tomorrow" stars Belafonte and features Shelley Winters, Ed Begley, Gloria Grahame, Will Kuluva, Kim Hamilton, Mae Barnes, Richard Bright, Carmen DeLavallade and Lou Gallo. The entire cast performs admirably in their all important roles.

"Odds Against Tomorrow" is a bank robbery story with action from curtain to curtain. It brings Belafonte into the gun slinger field via an attempt to get himself out of the trap of a loan shark who is merciless in his demands for payment that Harry cannot make.

During the unreeling Belafonte is shown drawn into a robber mob when all other means of financial aid around his person are exalted. He even goes to the victim and begs for a chance to "pay little less at a time" before finally joining the mob in robbery of a bank and aiding in a scene where murder is committed.

Suggests Need for Human
Progress in Space Age

A Buenos Aires scientist, who shared the 1947 Nobel prize in medicine, said in an address here Thursday that "development of teachers, investigators and competent technicians in adequate number is fundamental to human progress in the scientific era in which we are now living."

The speaker, Dr. Bernardo A. Houssay, professor in physiological research at the University of Buenos Aires, and president of the Argentinian Council of Scientific and Technical Research, addressed the Second World Conference on Medical Education in the Palmer House. He was one of the medical educators from 51 different countries, who have been appearing on the program this week. "The health, welfare, production and wealth of countries," he said "depend upon their scientific, as well as their technical and industrial development in democratic, cultural and peaceful areas."

DISCUSS TEACHERS

"One can be an investigator without an aptitude for teaching, but the best modern teachers are active investigators," he said.

"One of his greatest virtues is generosity; a deep and paternal willingness to aid students; a desire to assist research, hoping only for new findings and not caring to appear as author of such undertakings."

Dr. Houssay said that in order "to train scientists, one needs seed, soil and water, or in other words vocation."

al desire, environment and means." "Science is one international activity and it produces discoveries and advances everywhere. For this reason international relations should be promoted with views to: a) exchange of data; b) aid from more developed to underdeveloped countries."
