

MARGUERITE'S SECRET

CHAPTER I

"Beautiful!" "Glorious!" "Celestial!" Such were the exclamations murmured through the room, in low but earnest tones.

Compton. He was a stranger to most persons in that saloon, and it was simply her appearance as she passed and took her place at the harp that had elicited that restrained burst of admiration with which this chapter opens.

"Oh, yes, monsieur. I have that distinction," said the affable Parisian, with a low and smile. "And her name is—"

"And then I saw—oh, Gabrielle! the mercy of God! I saw an angel appear in his way, a messenger from heaven—"

"The next day but one was a memorable day in Philadelphia. It was the occasion of the public and final farewell of George Washington and the inauguration of his successor. From an early hour the city was thronged with visitors, who came, not so much to witness the installation of the new, as to take a fearful last look at the deeply-venerated President."

"To cure a cold in one night—use Vapo-Cresolene. It has been used extensively during more than twenty-four years. All drug stores."

"The play had already commenced when they entered, and the scene in progress was that of the ball at old Capulet's house. It seemed to confine the attention of the audience, but as for Lord William Daw, the mimic life upon the stage had no more power than had had the real drama of the morning to draw his attention from the magnificent Marguerite. He spoke but little; spellbound, his eyes never left her, except when, in turning her regal head, her eyes encountered his—when, blushing like a detected schoolboy, he would avert his face. So, for him, the play passed like a dream; nor did he know it was over until the general rising of the company informed him."

EAST BRANCH OF Y. M. C. A.

First Annual Meeting Was Held Last Evening.

Work of the First Seven Months Very Satisfactory.

Much Money Spent on Permanent Improvements.

The first annual meeting of the East Hamilton Branch Y. M. C. A. was held last evening, Vice-President E. S. Vansickle in the chair. He explained that although the Association had been organized only about seven months, it was necessary to hold the annual meeting in May to conform to general Association rules.

Special mention was made of the good work done by the basketball teams, which were formed in January. The senior team stood second in the City League. The Maple Leafs had been victorious in many matches in which they played.

The financial statement showed receipts from all sources $1,242.75 and expenditures $3,711.00. The large debit balance was due principally to repairs, permanent improvements, payment on mortgages and furnishings.

The following were elected the Committee of Management for the coming year: Messrs. W. Frank Coote, W. D. Connor, W. Cline, Paul Dresback, H. Banwell, J. L. Hopkins, F. L. McLean, Chas. Emery, E. Henderson, E. S. Van Sickle, C. P. McGregor, J. Moffatt. Two vacancies are to be filled later.

TIGERS TRIMMED BY TORONTOS.

Eastern League Beat International League 6 to 1.

A Fair Exhibition of Ball at Britannia Park Yesterday Afternoon—Guelph Won From Niagara Falls.

Hamilton was honored yesterday by a visit from the Toronto Eastern League nine and the fans were permitted to see Mister McCaffery's braves perform with the Tigers at 50 and 75 cts. per, according to the comfort desired. Nearly 1,000 persons took part in the squeeze play at the gate, as it was termed by many, and saw a fairly good exhibition of ball. Whether they got their money's worth or not is an open question, and it will likely be debated at the next regular meeting of the Contrary Club. The game did one thing, however; it showed that the leading team in the International League is hours slower than the third team in the Eastern. While the Tigers were running on Central, the former team the Torontos were doing things according to Eastern time.

While the visitors did not extend themselves to the limit, they had the safety valve open all the time when heaving to bases, and there was not steam enough in their strokes to keep the ball straight, they won the game by a score of 6 to 1. At the same time the visitors did not play "tag." Once the second baseman took a somersault after catching a fly, but he was the only one in the team that cut up. Several of the Torontos were not in their regular positions, so there is no telling what would have happened to Paige's Pets had the visitors done their best.

The Tigers did not exhibit any fear at the Toronto Giants, and they did their knitting just as complacently as they would have on their mothers' knees. Killeen, who is attached to the Toronto No. 3 road car, did the heaving for the visitors, and he did pretty good work according to the Barton street ball yard standard. Although four hits were charged against him, strictly speaking he was only touched for three hits, and some of the scorers thought to keep the correct figure. The local scorers were generous with the Tigers, however. McMillan's three-bagger in the ninth was handled by Weidensaul in left garden, but the Swiss dropped it after stepping into a hole. It was a pretty hard fly, however, McMillan got the benefit of the doubt.

The visitors started in to count in the second innings. Weidensaul walked and stole second. The next man up, Cockman, made a hit, and the Swiss reached the red light bag, coming home on Brennan's error, on which Erick reached first. Brown binged and Cockman galloped over the plate, giving the Torontos their second run.

The next innings saw the Torontos do the easy mathematical problem of adding one to two. Shafley reached first on an error of short stop second. He finished the circuit while the third baseman was making an error.

In the fifth the visitors tallied one more. Gettman was given free transportation, reached third on shortstop's error, and came home on Mertes' sacrifice.

In the sixth they scored another run. Cockman started out like the last two, charity. He stole second, reached third on Frick's hit, and came home on Brown's sacrifice. The visitors were kind enough to take just one in the ninth. Frick, the first up, went out on a dribble to short. Brown made a safety and Rudolph binged. The former stole third and came home on Rudolph's hit.

The only scoring done by Hamilton was in the ninth. McMillan sent the horsehide to the left garden and reached third bag before it was recovered. Bradford followed with a nice hit, and Mac came marching home in the second. American hero was loudly cheered, as was also Bradford. Bradford was caught at second, and the next two went out like the snuff of a candle. The score was as follows:

KILLED BY A BASEBALL.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 29.—In a game of baseball in this city early last evening Chas. Lempe, aged 14, was struck under the heart by a pitched ball, and was almost instantly killed. Lempe was a member of the local Y. M. C. A. boys' nine, which was playing another juvenile team. Walter Spross, aged eight, was the pitcher. It was almost dusk when Spross made a wild pitch, the ball striking Lempe under the heart. He started toward first base, ran about fifteen feet and fell to the ground. Doctors stated that death was almost instantaneous.

PHOTOGRAPHER'S LIVERPOOL CUP.

Hendrie Entry Beaten In Yesterday's Feature Race.

Toronto, May 29.—Hon. Adam Beck's good old Photographer earned new laurels in his second appearance at Woodbine yesterday. He was in the Liverpool Cup, a weight for age race at a mile and a sixth, for Canadian owners and was returned the winner after a struggle, in which he showed the utmost gameness, in addition to his well-known speed. This race, as the list of previous winners will show has often fallen to good horses, and this year's winner will do no discredit to the distinguished company in which he is now found. The weights were not trivial, and the lowest was 119 pounds, carried by Kelpie. The Valley Farm pair, Glimmer and Kelpie, were the opening choice, but before post time Photographer supplanted them in public favor. Mr. Dymont withdrew Uncle Toby with the intention of running him to-morrow in the Toronto Cup, and Mr. Seagram left Throckmorton in the stable, probably for the same reason. Gold Note was the other absentee, and Mr. Bryan added St. Clair, who eventually ran a real good race, and was prominent for a great part of the distance. Glimmer looked after a winner as he came through the stretch, and Mulcahey did not rouse him till the efforts of Walsh, on Photographer, had brought the son of Photo almost level. For the last sixteenth it was a struggle of the keenest sort, and only at the very end, when Glimmer seemed to waver, did Photographer get his nose-in front to win in the closest finish of the whole meeting. The time, 1:49 1/5, was a good performance at the weights, and on a track which was not made for fast time.

Mighty Colin Has Broken Down and Will Be Retired to the Stud.
New York, May 29.—Colin, J. R. Keene's unbeaten colt, will never race again. As a lightning bolt from a clear sky came this unwelcome news from Trainer James Rowe yesterday, and when hundreds learned the fact they could hardly realize they had seen the last of the great three-year-old.

It was only last Saturday that Colin won the Withers Stakes in fine style, a performance that warranted the belief that he would win all the rich three-year-old steeplechase races, and perhaps the $200,000 mark in stake earnings.

Colin came out of the Withers apparently sound, and it was decided to start him in the $25,000 Belmont Stakes on Saturday.

To get the horse on edge, Rowe took Colin out at Sheepshead yesterday morning for a work-out. The track was harrowed for the trial, and with Marshall, a colored boy, up, Colin was sent away.

When Colin pulled up he was apparently sound, and when he had cooled there seemed to be nothing wrong. He was led to the barn for a rest. A half-hour later the bandages were removed, and Rowe then discovered Colin had bowed each front middle tendon. A call was sent to Dr. Shepard, who said Colin was in practically a hopeless condition. It was at once decided by Mr. Keene and Rowe to end Colin's racing career. He will be sent to the stud.

BASEBALL FANS ARE FICKLE.

When they win: Ever see more headwork done behind the bat? Ever see the fielding peachier than that? Guess those steals were sloppy, guess those hits weren't fine! Guess they ain't a-coming, guess that ain't a-ning!

When they lose: Ever see such lobsters? Gee! their heads are fat! Give that dub a shovel, maybe he can bat! Famed again, by thunder! Wow! Ain't he a shine? Rotten! Rotten! Rotten! Go and get a nine!

No man ought to derive advantage from his own wrong.—Law Maxim.

Genius is a combination of aspiration and inspiration.—London Truth.

CELT BEAT JACK ATKIN.
New York, May 29.—Celt making his first appearance of the year, easily won the Jockey Club weight-for-age race at Belmont Park yesterday. He was 3 to 5 in the betting, and held the race safe all the way. Celt jumped into the lead in the first furlong, leading by one length over Jack Atkin. Celt continued to show the way to the stretch, where he bore out, carrying Jack Atkin with him, but Nutter gave Celt the whip, and he drew away, to win by one length. Trance won the Gaiety Stakes.

Those That Were Not Buried.

"I have not buried a case of pneumonia in the past ten years," remarked a physician noted for not hiding his light under a bushel, to a fellow practitioner.

"I have heard many of your deceased patients are being cremated," said his friend, who does not like to call a man a liar.

COMMENT AND GOSSIP

"Ain't it awful, Mabel!" Toronto 6, Hamilton 1.

The Toronto World is trying hard to outdo the Telegram in the matter of slandering Hamilton. Here is one job that appeared in to-day's World:

"The rubes in Hamilton are said to have gazed in wide-open wonderment yesterday at a real live baseball team."

In another column the statement is made that the shooters whose names have been sent to England as the Canadian clay bird team, are from Toronto, Montreal and Sherbrooke. As a matter of fact, of the 11 men mentioned, three are from Hamilton, and members of the H. G. They are J. E. Overholt, ("Dr. Wilson") M. E. Fletcher and Geo. Beatty.

Sandwiched in with the foolish paragraphs in the World is one timely article. It reads:

"Some trainers who visit this track have an evil reputation of tampering with jockeys, whether it is merited or not. One rider was disciplined yesterday, which is good as far as it goes, but the manipulators higher up are the men the lovers of clean racing would like to see the stewards get."

At the Woodbine course in Toronto, drinking water costs 3 cents the swallow, while the real sport can take home a lovely one after his day's outing for the trifling additional cost of 20c.—Chicago Record Herald.

The Hamilton Jockey Club has opened a permanent office in the Court House building, where all business pertaining to the race meetings will be transacted. The telephone is No. 1466.

The following is from the London Advertiser:

"Our local morning contemporary publishes the following and credits it to the Hamilton Spectator:

"The London Advertiser, which, for reasons of its own, has been knocking the league, came out last night with a long-winded article on umpire baiting, forwarding dire ruin for the league. Our friends on 'The Advertiser' is evidently troubled with a grudge which has made him sore on mankind. Perhaps it is that he is trying to pose. If so, we will let him exhibit himself in peace."

"In reply, the writer would state that at all events, knicker, or no knicker, he is no mouthpiece. cat's paw, but carrier for the London management. All that is asked is that the people of this city receive the worth of their money in clean, fast baseball."

"It might also be mentioned that if the above item, ever appeared in the Spectator it was run in the ad column or some other out-of-the-way place."

The news that George S. Lyon, the Canadian champion, had been defeated by Colt 5 up and 4 to go in the "Olympic" golf contest was received with consternation in Ontario goldom.

However, the consolation is held out that the defeat was in round two of the British amateur golf championships and not the Olympic contest. This is the opinion of well-informed golfers here, who say that the Olympic golf contests will not start until next week.

A cable by the Canadian Associated Press says that Lyon's defeat was due to misfortunes on the greens. In one instance he took three puts to three yards. The Canadian's long shots were excellent.—Globe.

TEAM PICKED FOR THE MONTREAL TRIALS.

Toronto, May 29.—Ontario's representatives in the final Olympic trials were selected at a meeting of the Board of Governors of the C. A. A. U. held at the Toronto Rowing Club last night. President Stark was in the chair. These men will compete in the hurdles, jumps and sprints up to and including 1,500 metres. The name of M. J. Creed, of the Irish-Canadians, does not appear in the list, because the committee was given to understand that Creed's hip, which has been bothering him for some time, was in such condition as to preclude the possibility of his competing.

At Rosedale on June 6 the finals in the weight events, pole vault and all distances over one mile will be decided. The five mile Meadows, Galbraith, Sellen and McNair will represent Ontario. The Ontario Marathon aspirants will be Lawson, Goldsboro, Cotter of Burlington; Simpson, the Peterboro Indian; Wood of Brantford, Sellers, Sellen, Adams, Neer and Jack Caffery, the Hamilton veterans. pleased with the showing of the locals. The score was overwhelmingly in favor of Hamilton.

Fink, the new centre fielder, was under inspection last night and came out with a good deal of credit to himself. He is a heady and speedy player and will be a tower of strength.

Cornwall has been tumbling over itself to get back Fid Cummings. Its latest offer is a job for life. Fid left for Cornwall last night to see if he cannot arrange matters so as to enable him to stop in Hamilton for this season.

The management has had the grand stand cleaned up, has installed a new score board, and has arranged for a car service, all of which will be appreciated by the patrons.

The records from three to ten miles made by Goulding in the walk will be placed in the Canadian official record book, as well also the records made by Worthington, in the hop, step and jump, and Barber in the standing broad and standing high jumps.

The application of the Toronto Swimming Club to hold the Canadian Swimming and diving championships here during the summer was granted.

WHAT HE THINKS OF BABIES.

Editor Has Opinions of His Own About the "Well Springs of Pleasure."

A baby serves a manifold purpose in the world. He can be proven by his mother. A baby that would eat carpet tacks, brass-headed nails and young kittens is a nuisance. Babies are to be loved and honored. They control the first word, sing with the swiftness of lightning over the counties, and take everything that comes their way without asking any questions. All babies are supposed, properly, to come from heaven, particularly when they are born, scolding and the rest of the celestial population. Do for sleep has never been inquired for. Boy babies are sweetest at 4 and 5. Girls are at 21.

A baby is a joy forever until he begins to talk out of the second-story window, turn over the water glass, hammer the clams to pieces with his fork and investigate the medicine bottles on the shelf. Every baby is eternally trying to find out more than he has any business knowing, and the habit of asking questions lasts through life. KIDNAPPER SHOT DEAD.

Stole a Woman and Was Killed by His Brother-in-Law.

Forced With Revolver the Woman Into Automobile.

Ligonier, Ind., May 29.—William Patterson kidnapped Mrs. Sargent yesterday and was shot dead by one of several pursuers.

The fatal shot was fired by Patterson's brother-in-law, after he himself had been wounded by the abductor. Patterson lived at Lake Wawase and Mrs. Sargent also lives there, being a warm friend of Mrs. Patterson. Recently Patterson and his wife separated and Patterson blamed Mrs. Sargent for causing the trouble.

Yesterday Patterson got an automobile and compelled a Ligonier hotel clerk to go with him to the home of Dr. Franks, the father of Mrs. Patterson, where Mrs. Sargent was staying. On the way, they met a carriage containing Dr. Franks and Mrs. Sargent. Patterson drew a revolver and forced Mrs. Sargent to get into the automobile with him. Then he headed for Millersburg at full speed.

News of the abduction spread rapidly and several men, headed by Dr. Franks, Franks, Patterson's brother-in-law, started in pursuit in a big touring car. Patterson's automobile was overtaken near Millersburg. Patterson opened fire and shot his brother-in-law in the thigh. Franks returned the fire and Patterson fell dead at almost the first shot. Mrs. Sargent was not injured.

How the Mountains Were Formed.

In recent years theories of mountain formation have changed like everything else scientific. The ancient belief that the mountains were the "muscles" or the "backbone" of the continents never was scientific at any time. Instead of being an extra layer of rock that binds the continents together, they are the ragged edges of the cracks in the masonry, or folds in the crust, or extrusions of internal matter through the cracks. They are points of the crust's weakness rather than its strength. The new theories hark back to the original formation of the earth. This conception of a hot drop of molten magma, the nucleus, actually cooling and forming a shell as smooth as a billiard ball, has been partly abandoned. The nebular hypothesis has been modified, the so-called meteoritic hypothesis has been found inadequate, and the more plausible planetesimal theory of Professors Chamberlain and Salisbury has been put forth.

This latest theory argues the formation of the world by gradual accretions from planetary bodies. It assumes the origin of our solar system in a common spiral nebula—the nebula being in a thin solid or liquid state, as suggested by the spectrum analysis of it. The knots or portions of the nebula showing the greater concentration, are the nuclei of future planets, and the thinner haze the portions from which the knots are formed. All these knots move about the central mass (the sun) in elliptical orbits of considerable eccentricity. The planetesimals are gathered in and through accretion form such a world as ours, by the crossing of the elliptical orbits in the course of their inevitable shifting.

DURUM WHEAT.

Grows Where Other Kinds Won't—Makes Lots of Muscle.

There is a steadily increasing production of durum wheat in Northern Minnesota and North Dakota and in the arid or semi-arid sections of other States. The big flouring mills here not yet adapted their machinery to its proper grinding, says the Minneapolis Tribune. They find it too rich in gluten and too hard for their present instalment of rollers. The elevator men don't handle it freely because it necessitates special bins. But the exporters take it eagerly, and it is most nutritious as well as light and appetizing.

There is no reason why it should not be. Gluten is a muscle former. In 100 ounces of lean beefsteak there are 18 parts of muscle formers. In 100 ounces of ordinary bread there are seven to eight ounces of gluten. In 100 ounces of macaroni, two ounces, in 100 ounces of milk four, but in 100 ounces of macaroni or bread from durum wheat there are said to be from eighteen to twenty ounces of muscle forming material.

Admitting the food value of this variety, the temptation to the farmer whose land is adapted to it to plant it is almost irresistible. It is a plant that stands drought much better than other wheat plants. It is so hardy and thrifty that it is usually exempt from rust and smut and bugs.

The average yield is high—often from 50 to 100 per cent. greater than that of the old varieties of wheat grown in the same district. It seems certain that durum is destined to prove a blessing to the farmers in sections where the rainfall is deficient or unreliable. It makes a most nutritious food for domestic animals, upon which they will thrive and attain a degree of health that will make them command high prices either from butchers or stock fanciers.

Ask any blind man how he feels, and he will tell you he is out of sight. Never say die. Up, man, and try it—Latin. That fish will soon be caught that nibbles at every bait.—Italian. GRAFTERS ON CHINA COAST

Ports Where Adventurers of All the World Meet.

The China coast, from Singapore to Vladivostok is the pasture for the gentleman adventurer, the confidence man and the beachcomber from every parallel. They take in the coast coming and going. If ever there is a bit of unpleasantness with the police of Berlin, St. Petersburg, Chicago or San Francisco, the greatest highwayman makes for the land that lies east of the 180th meridian, there to come to a sure reward that is golden and take a little pleasure in passing.

All this comes about because the colonies of Europeans scattered from the Straits up along the coast to the frozen circle are always gullible, owing to their insularity, and the more pliable portions of the globe from long living away from the whirl of things in Europe and America, the people who constitute the little foreign colonies in the various ports of China, Japan and the Straits Settlements fall easy prey to the suave tongue and the polished manners of the wayward wanderers.

After one colony is fleeced the discriminating rogue moves on to another, leaving behind a broad track of bitter memories. There is the instance of the polished gentleman who dropped into Yokohama a few years ago with a batch of letters of introduction from hypothetical persons in India.

This Captain Blank was so dashing a fellow that the English set in Yokohama took him up with gusto. He lived at the best hotel, ordered expensive suits from Tom the Chinese tailor, and was dined on the bluff with all the comical sort that is the English colony colonial.

Then Capt. Blank consented to take the leading part in some private theatricals. He wooed the daughter of a bank manager at rehearsals, borrowed 5,000 yen and a diamond ring from the girl's father, and on the eve of the performance slipped her the ring and the money. He cast the girl off at Hong Kong and travelled light into the unknown waters beyond.

Hardly had Yokohama society recovered from the shock of this experience when Mme. Nemo, the belle of the town, fell well as any of the Russo-Japanese war. Mme. Nemo said that she was accredited as a correspondent of the London Mail to write some of the real inside history of the war. She bore a letter, subsequently found to be forged, from a London writer on things Japanese and wife of a former Minister of Great Britain to Japan.

Mme. Nemo came to town in November. It was chilly, but the engaging lady with the slight Scandinavian accent wore her summer lawn. Shortly after she arrived the story crept up the coast that her trunk had been held for a board bill by the Astor House in Shanghai.

Mrs. Frazer and others who had accepted the lady as genuine flouted the story, and she obtained a temporary advance from some of her admirers among the ladies of the English colony. She blossomed out in new suits, and her faded beauty was brightened by the change. She attended all the exclusive functions given in Yokohama and Tokio and was high in social world when suddenly she left town.

at the far end of the house and plunged through all of the shoji, or paper partitions, as a circus rider plunges through the paper hoops, until he came up against the wood-work at the far end of the building. He said the damages gladly the morning after. It was worth the fun, said Reilly.

Touchingly pathetic in its humor was the instance of the homesick American who took noisy farewell of Yokohama after his had been fished and shriveled by the English aloofness of the place. From Chicago was this American, leaving about Japan on pleasure bent.

When he struck Yokohama he discovered that he was a boonder. Being a boonder he could not get put up at the United Club, he could not get an invitation on the bluff, he could not do anything but play billiards and drink Japanese Martini cocktails at the Grand Hotel bar.

This gentle American learned to hate the English with a consuming hatred, and in justice to him it must be said that the type of Englishman who makes the eastern ports his home lays himself out to dislike because of his overbearing priggishness. But after all, the man from Chicago, finding that he could not break into Yokohama society with a cold shied, decided upon retiring to the smoky warmth of his native city. He arranged to have his farewell grand one.

On the morning that the steamer sailed there was a sound of revelry about the bluff. Members of the United Club and guests at the hotels along the wide water street hurried to their windows.

They saw the Chicago man reclining luxuriously in a rickshaw, with another similar vehicle following piled high with his luggage. Before him marched the ever-ready band of Japanese musicians who played evanescent airs on the Grand Hotel verandah of nights.

"Hail to the Chief," "The Star Spangled Banner," "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town" were the tunes that shocked the ears of Yokohama as the Chicago man made his triumphal way to the ship's pier.

That man left behind him the reputation he had established. He certainly was a boonder.

QUININE AS A UNIVERSAL DRUG

Its Value to the Human Race by No Means Fully Appreciated.

I assume that every one in the civilized world has taken a dose of quinine. It is the universal drug, its value is unappreciated by the masses, who use it only for colds and fevers—the same thing. As a tonic it is unsurpassed. As an alternative it has no equal in the materia medica. I heard a distinguished surgeon say: "If I wanted to ferment a barrel of cabbage in less time than anybody else could do it I would put in an eighth of an ounce of quinine. A little quinine in the disordered stomach acts just about as it would in the cabbage. It hastens the assimilation of the food and restores the normal conditions. Habitual users of quinine are slaves to it, but derive little benefit from it. Men with malaria eat it by the ounce, and still keep the malaria. The world is
