TREATY WILL NOT GIVE PEACE TO ITALY.

Fighting in streets of Berlin --- Allies Possess Right to Punish Ship Sinkers --- Ramsay McDonald Absolves Germany---Treaty May be Signed Saturday.

CONCERNED ABOUT LITTLE WILHELM.

PARIS, June 26. The news of the escape of the former Crown Prince caused considerable stir in the Peace Conference. While it is not felt that he is a great danger, nevertheless his act is regarded as an event of considerable significance, in view of other German recalcitrancy.

ITALY'S POSITION.

ROME, June 26. The position of Italy at present is less favorable than at the beginning of the Peace Conference. The Italian delegation has approved all that Great Britain and France had asked in Asia and Africa, while those Powers have not acknowledged the claims of Italy, Foreign Minister, F. Tittoni, declared in an address to the Senate to-day. If this situation should continue, he added, Great Britain and France would be at peace and free to demobilize and to heal their wounds while it would be impossible for Italy to do so because she would not be at peace.

DISORDER INCREASING IN BERLIN.

LONDON, June 26. Disorders are increasing in Berlin, the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam reports. Many streets there are barricaded and there have been engagements between government troops and mobs.

JUST WHERE GERMANY STANDS.

PARIS, June 26. Germany has been notified in a note sent to-day by the Allies that they possess the right to punish the persons responsible for the destruction of the German ships and to collect reparation for their loss. The sinking of the fleet is denounced as a violation of the armistice and a deliberate breach in advance of the conditions of peace.

SESSION WILL BE LENGTHY.

VERSAILLES, June 26. The session of the Peace Conference for the signing of the Peace Treaty with Germany probably will require more time than had been anticipated because of the necessity of affixing signatures to four different documents. Besides the main peace treaty as delivered to Germany, the representatives of the Allied Powers and Germany must sign also the protocol or annex covering the points raised by Germany after the delivery of the original text, the Rhine convention, and the Polish treaty providing for the rights of minorities.

CHEAP POLITICS.

SOUTHPORT, Eng., June 26. The British Labor Party conference to-day adopted a resolution calling for the speedy admission of Germany to the League of Nations and the immediate revision by the League of the "harsh provisions of the treaty, which were not consistent with the statements when the armistice was made." There was only one dissenting voice.

WILL HOLD GERMANY RESPONSIBLE.

PARIS, June 26. The German Peace delegation has been informed in a note from Premier Clemenceau that the German Government will be held strictly responsible for the unofficial support of any movement against the Polish authorities in the territory given Poland in Posen and in East and West Prussia.

GETTING BACK TO NORMAL.

WINNIPEG, June 26. In all phases of civic, industrial and commercial activity, rapid advancement toward resumption of normal business conditions was being made this forenoon. While the sympathetic strike terminated at eleven, the metal trades and building workers disputes are not settled. However, it is likely that negotiations will be reopened and an early adjustment agreed upon.

Germany must bear the result of her bitter actions, but her punishment should not be in the form of revenge. utent Noe LN

TO SIGN THE TREATY.

BERLIN, June 26. Hermann Mueller, Foreign Minister, and Dr. Bell, Colonial Minister, it was announced to-night, have been selected as German envoys to sign the peace terms. They will leave Berlin Friday.

AT 3 p.m. SATURDAY.

PARIS, June 26. Efforts were being made to-day to arrange for the signing of the Peace Treaty at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Council of Three is apparently satisfied with the semi-official assurances that the Germans would be on hand.

It Helps Others Will Help Me

With This Belief Many Thousands Have Learned the Exceptional Value of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

You hear people talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. You read about it in the newspapers. You wonder if it would benefit you. And while you are hesitating others are using it to great advantage.

This treatment for the restoration of the blood and nerves is so different to most medicines that you may not realize why you can be so certain of benefit from its use.

In order to maintain the vigor of the nervous system an abundance of pure, rich blood is necessary. When the nervous system becomes exhausted and you are easily tired and suffer from headaches, nervousness, irritability or indigestion, it is because the blood is failing to supply proper nutrition to the nervous system.

By forming new rich blood, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food naturally and certainly restores the vigor of the nerves. Since it works hand-in-hand with nature, it cannot fail to be of benefit, and there is no reason why it will not help you just as it has the writer of this letter.

Mrs. Stephen G. Thwaites, Box 205, Jordan, Ont., writes: "For about a year I was troubled with nervousness and took doctors' medicine, but it did not seem to relieve me. I could not sleep nor content myself to do anything. I had severe headaches, was tired all the time and afraid to stay alone. I also tried several nerve medicines until almost discouraged. At last I discovered Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found relief. I had only taken one box when I began to feel better. I continued using this treatment until my nerves were restored to perfect health. I think the Nerve Food splendid for nervous troubles of any kind, and cannot recommend it too highly."

(Rev. F. Coffman, Vineland, Ont., states: "This is to certify that I know Mrs. Thwaites, and her statements are correct.")

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.75, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be misled into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Parsons' Mill Burned.

(Western Star.)

The saw mill of Chas. E. Parsons was totally destroyed by fire last Wednesday evening. The mill was in operation up to 5 p.m. and Mr. Parsons and his men were around the mill for half an hour after that attending to matters and there was no sign of fire when they left for tea. Shortly after, however, when the fire was discovered the building was all ablaze. The day had been warm and everything was dry, and there was sufficient wind at the time to make the progress of the fire rapid, and although a large crowd gathered it was impossible to stop the conflagration until the mill had been razed to the ground. By the persistence of a bucket brigade, however, the fire was prevented from spreading to other property. The Church Lads' Brigade had a narrow escape, the having caught on fire several times by the flying embers. The loss of the mill is a severe blow to Mr. Parsons and will also be severely felt by the community owing to the scarcity and big demand for lumber.

Coopers' Pay Increased.

A large number of members attended the special meeting of the St. John's Journeymen Coopers' Union in the L.S.P.U. Hall last night, when it was announced that the question of an increase in wages had been settled and that the rate in future will be 40 cents per hour, with time and a half for overtime. This is an advance of 70 cents per day, or $4.20 per week.

Church Lads' Brigade.

The Brigade mustered 151, all ranks, at last night's roll call. Lieut. Col. Goodridge, O.C., was present and Capt. J. A. Winter, Adj. H. A. Outbridge, Lieut. R. G. Ash, Lewis, Fletcher, Emerson and Rendell. The C.L.B. Boat Club had a meeting in the N.C.O.'s Mess, President Charles E. Hunt in the chair, with Vice-Pres. Carnell and Secretary Barnes, and a good attendance of the special business were discussing the special business of this year's Regatta. Lieut. Emerson was busy with his educational class, as well as Lieut. Reeves, R.A. M.C., with the ambulance squad. L.C. Johnson was busy with his bugle band, and the lads were keeping up their end of the work in good shape. Battalion orders for the week are as follows: The battalion will parade on Tuesday, July 1st, for the purpose of attending the Royal Nfld. Regiment's Memorial Parade. All ranks will muster at 8.30 a.m. The Lt.-Col. commanding has been pleased to award good conduct stripes to the following lads of C Co.: Section 1—Ptes. R. Mercer, R. Hiscock, L. Sheppard. Section 2—Ptes. G. Mackenon, W. Kent, W. Marshall, C. Dawe, F. Wareham, L. Ellis, G. Crosbie, R. Anderson. Section 3—Ptes. M. Jones, H. Downton, J. Gould, A. Baird, J. Baird, M. Tifford, E. Wood. Section 4—Pte. G. Lewis; and in K Co., Section 1—Ptes. G. Hynes, J. Dowden, W. Cook, W. Rees, Tom Anderson, M. Feaver, F. Chalk, Section 2—Ptes. A. Howard, D. Long, W. Calk, Alan Goodridge, J. Canning, M. Willar, No. 3—Ptes. G. Stirling, J. Greive, T. Hibbs, R. Colyer, S. Wood. Section 4—Ptes. F. Press, W. Tifford, W. Lockyer, R. Phillips, J. Ayre and C. Press. The Regimental Chaplain, Rt. Rev. Bishop White, has been pleased to appoint Rev. Arthur B. S. Stirling, Rector of St. Mary's, as Chaplain attached to a Co. Orde-ly officer for week ending July 3rd is Lieut. Miles; Chaplain, Rev. A. Clayton; Orderly Sergt., Corporal Hooker; Guard No. 3 Section, F Co., Bugler L.C. Adams; next for duty, Lt. Phil. Rendell, Corp. Hammond. The battalion band had been given permission some time ago to proceed to Wabana, Bell Island, for July 1st and will not parade with the St. John's companies on Memorial Day, but will take part with J Co.'s celebration there. The Memorial Day Parade will see the battalion lined up at the Prince's Rink at 9 a.m. The detachment of the Royal Naval Reserve will lead in the parade. —Q.

Now Raises 600 Chickens

After Being Relieved of Organic Trouble by Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oregon, Ill.—"I took Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound for an organic trouble which had been down me. I could not put my foot to the floor and could scarcely do my work, and as I live on a small farm and raise six hundred chickens every year it made it very hard for me. I saw the Compound advertised in our paper, and tried it. It has restored my health so I can do all my work and I am recommending it to my friends."—Mrs. D. M. ALPHEUS, R. R. 4, Oregon, Ill.

Only women who have suffered the tortures of such troubles and have dragged along from day to day can realize the relief which this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound, brought to Mrs. Alters.

Women everywhere in Mrs. Alters' condition should profit by her recommendation, and if there are any complications write Lydia E. Finkham's Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

Boosting Petrie's.

The Standard Oil Company have decided to make a distributing centre of Petries, Bay of Islands, and the erection of a large 40 by 100 feet warehouse will be commenced immediately. A 130 foot dock pier will also be built, this to facilitate the work of shipping and receiving goods.

CAPLIN IN CONCEPTION BAY.

There was an abundance of caplin in Conception Bay yesterday. They were ashore on the beaches in several places, and farmers and fishermen were busy in landing them.

The Ballet Entertainment

The children's ballet entertainment in the Casino Theatre last night, in aid of the Spencer Home and of Jensen Camp, was attended by a large audience, among whom was the Governor, Lady Harris and Miss Harris, who were accompanied by the Private Secretary. The first part of the programme consisted of the "Dance of the Four Seasons," in which the sprites of Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter were represented by Miss Betty MacNeil, Miss Margaret Mitchell, Mrs. J. B. Urquhart and Miss Dorothy Johnson, respectively. The dance, which was written and arranged by Miss Johnson, delighted the audience, the leading characters being supported by a troupe of pixies, flowers, etc., whose dancing was grace itself. The stage settings and costumes were unusually pretty and evoked the highest praise of all. The singing of "Starlight" by Mrs. Riggs was perfect and was received with much applause. Part two consisted of a Quaker Dance by Miss Gertrude Collis and Master Hartley Ayre, a Dutch dance by Misses L. Wood, G. Bolt, M. Collins and G. Blandford, songs by Miss Mary Ryan

Newfoundland Methodist Conference.

CARBONEAR.

The thirty-sixth session of the Newfoundland Methodist Conference was opened at Carbonear on Wednesday, June 25th, at 9:30 a.m., the President, Rev. L. Curtis, D.D., in the chair. After singing hymn 224, the Secretary, Rev. H. Royle, read the Scripture and prayer was offered by Mr. W. J. Scott, J.P., and the Rev. W. Swann. Hymn 145 was then sung.

Dr. Curtis, the retiring President, then gave a brief address.

"The past year has been the most momentous in the history of the Methodist Church. Last Conference we met in the midst of the great war. Then there were grave fears as to the future, but since that time the armistice has been signed and we are looking any moment for the signing of the Peace terms. The General Conference of our Church has also met, and among other things passed legislation admitting women to every office of our Church except the ordained ministry. We recall the visit of the Evangelist, Mrs. Demarest, and the impetus for souls that the Church there received. If we have not a 'passion for souls' we cannot be true to our Church and Kingdom. The Educational Campaign was a worthy outcome of Mrs. Demarest's mission."

"As we survey the past year, truly we can say that we are living in momentous times. We cannot fully understand them, only the prospective years will fully reveal the real greatness of the year just past."

The Conference proceeded to the election of its officers.

The Rev. G. J. Bond, B.A., LL.D., was elected President by a great majority.

The Rev. H. Royle was re-elected Secretary of Conference, and he nominated the following as his associated secretaries: Rev. H. Coppin, Journal Secretary; Rev. E. Broughton, Statistical Secretary; Rev. W. J. Morris and Rev. C. R. Blount as Assistant Secretaries.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was then partaken of by the members of the Conference.

The morning session closed by the reading of the first draft of the Stationing Sheet.

Educational Meeting.

The Educational Meeting of the Conference was held in the Methodist Church on Wednesday night, June 25th, at 8 o'clock. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Curtis. After the singing of the Doxology and the National Anthem, Rev. H. Royle offered the Invocation. After the reading of the Scripture by Rev. H. Royle (Pa. 19), Rev. J. T. Newman offered prayer, hymn 224 following.

Then Dr. Curtis, in a brief address, explained the purpose of the meeting. Among other things he said: "Educational meetings are not always popular, yet I believe that the world is waking up to the value of education. In every walk of life its value is seen. It is seen in the commercial world as well as the religious. If greater emphasis is being placed on education, then the men of our pulpits, men who have to deal with theology, the 'Queen of Sciences,' must be trained men."

Hymn 633 was sung.

An address was then given by the Rev. N. Cole of Victoria, who said:

"Religion and education are inseparable. In all ages they have walked hand in hand. Christ may be said to have brought new life into education. His disciples, in order to be successful, began to study that they might be more efficient in leading men to the higher life. The world-to-day asks from the Church sympathy in education. It is looking to the Church for its leaders, and whenever the representatives of the Christian Church denounce a thing as wrong, the world generally puts it at one side as a thing unclean. Life has often been compared to a casket. Its beauty and value largely depends upon what has been put into it. If the Christian Church is to be a leader of living enterprise it must pay greater attention to education; it must be led by men capable of meeting the great demands of the hour, not men who live in the past. It is deplorable to find so many men who are unable to keep abreast with the times because of past influences. The Christian Minister must not live in the future, he must face life's problems to-day. His work calls him to different classes, therefore his education must be general and broad. To obtain this general education one must attend a University. Every Minister must have a University education if he would be a successful leader of men. Education is also supplied in the hard fought school of life. In the college men are often superficial and artificial, but in the hard school of life you see man as he really is, a bit of humanity. Here we find men, considered outside the Church, thoroughly Christian—men willing to share the last cup of water; willing to sacrifice themselves for a right motive—and they have done so—and yet they belong to no church. How shall the Church help the men it seeks to save? The services of the week will not meet the needs. Could we not learn a lesson from England, where the Church is laying great emphasis on the social life of the people? They are meeting this new demand by opening the Church during the week to the Guilds, concerts, &c. But to do this our ministry must be trained along social lines. We must see men, study men in the workshops, if we would help them. Old-fashioned ideas will not serve the present age. The old methods of warfare had to be discarded during the past great war and new methods employed. So the Christian Church must not cling to the old ideas but must change with the changing times. Christian education must be general. Not only probationers for the ministry, but all students must seek a Christian education. We believe that only such an education will meet the demands of life. In our own land we have a field most favourable for such an education. If our Dominion is to keep alive we must put our best into education."

Hymn 635 was then sung.

The next speaker was the Rev. Eli Anthony, B.A., from Fogo.

He gave some amusing instances of his college life. Mr. Anthony emphasized the fact that one must be willing to adapt oneself to the new surroundings. The probationer must not cease to be a Christian, but he must leave behind those ministerial airs which he has assumed while on probation. He must be a man among men, and many have so adapted them-and helpful address on "The Christian Ministry."

An American periodical once stated that its aim was to be Positive, Poignant and Procreative. Brethren, that should be our aim also touching the ministry unto which we are called.

(1) Positive.—In some quarters it is thought that scepticism is the offspring of scholarship—doubt the daughter of deep thinking. Bacon sets us right on that point when he says "a little philosophy unlineth man's mind to atheism; but depth of philosophy bringeth men's minds about to religion." 'Tis an easy task to disturb faith and generate doubt. 'Tis a harder task by far to build up conviction and to give to the people the faith by which they live, and requires strong men to do it. Let ours be the harder task. If we have doubts let us wrestle with them, not in the pulpit but in the study. That is the place to face the spectres of the mind and slay them, and thus come at length to find a stronger faith in our own. The world not only needs but wants a positive ministry. With Goethe it is crying out: "Give us your convictions, as for doubts we have enough of them already." Talk faith, the world is better off without your muttered ignorance and morbid doubt.

If you have faith in man, or God or self, ring it out. If not, press back upon the shelf of silence your doubts till faith shall come. No one will grieve because your lips are dumb.

(2) Poignant.—Toothless generalities are no good. It is easy to be pleasant and pointless. It is difficult to be direct and yet discreet, faithful and yet considerate. But here the harder task must be faced, and we can only face it well by getting acquainted with our people by faithful pastoral work.

(3) Procreative.—We must never forget that our main business is to save souls, to release spiritual forces in the community. If we are not doing that our ministry is a dismal failure. I confess that there is a danger of our forgetting it in the day of multiple organization and great financial campaign. One day when Mr. Hunt was out with his pupils sketching a landscape bathed in the glory of the setting sun, he noticed a young man intently sketching and painting the shingles upon a barn which stood in the foreground. Going up to him he said, "If you spend so much time in painting the shingles on that barn you will never have time to paint that sunset." Our business is to bathe the community with the sunshine of God, the glory of heaven. Let us not fall because we are too busy painting shingles and serving tables. God help the minister—and the people to whom he ministers—who is only an apostle of the dollars and cents.

In the process of world reconstruction great complications and problems lie before us. Someone has said that the more complicated the world's machinery becomes the more competent must be its engineers. In like manner the more complicated and problematic human society becomes the more competent must be its spiritual leaders. The competency will be gained not only in the study, not only in first hand knowledge of social conditions gained by pastoral work, but by communion with God. If behind the Positive Ministry lies the study and behind the Poignant Ministry strong pastoral work; behind the Procreative Ministry lies the closest—and there only there will we get our inspiration and our help; there and only there our passion and our power. For hands that would touch the world's great need to Christ must cling. Brethren, the work of God demands consecrated hearts and hands. In the fine words of Bishop McDowell "We cannot do spiritual things without spiritual power. We cannot do Christlike things unless we are ourselves Christlike men. We cannot lift

Wedding Bells.

BADCOCK—PIERCEY.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock in Cochrane Street Methodist Parsonage, when Mr. Herbert Badcock, second son of Mr. H. Badcock of Upper Gullies, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Violet Piercey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Piercey of 8 Murray Street. The bride was beautifully attired in navy blue silk, with hat to match. She was attended by her sister, Miss Sadie Piercey, who wore a beautiful fawn costume and Mrs. S. Piercey, sister-in-law of the bride. The groom was ably supported by his brother, Mr. Edgar Badcock. After the ceremony had been performed the happy pair went for a pleasant drive returning to the home of Mrs. R. Piercey, where a quiet but enjoyable reception was held. The bride received a large number of costly and useful presents. Mr. and Mrs. Badcock will reside at Bell Island. The Telegram adds its felicitations to the happy couple.

ON PETTY FEUDS

One often hears of the country dweller make fun of or criticize the custom of the average city dweller of living for years without ever speaking to his next door neighbor or even to the man in the apartment across the hall. Of course, it isn't a natural way to live.

But what of the country dweller who lives years without even speaking to his next door neighbor or to the man in the house across the way. And who keeps silent not because he doesn't know him but because there is some sort of a feud between them. Is that a better or more rational way to live?

When The City Person is Surprised. Whenever a city bred person goes to live in the country one of the things which strikes him is the great number of petty feuds which exist among the people in the country or in a small town.

It is hard to tell whether these feuds are more unlovely or more ridiculous. When one sees two neighbors passing each other looking fixedly at the other and knows that the reason they refuse to be friends is that nine years ago they had an argument over the pedigree of a dog belonging to one of them, one hardly knows whether to smile or be sad. It is so absurd and ridiculous that one can't help being amused. And yet it is such an unbecoming, unhappy way to live that one cannot help being sorry.

They Embroil The Whole Town. Often the principals in such cases manage to get a lot of people to side with them and thus a small feud will involve half the town.

ON PETTY FEUDS.

One often hears the country dweller make fun of or criticize the custom of the average city dweller of living in a house with a door neighbor or even to the man in the apartment across the hall. Of course, it isn't a natural way to live.

But what of the country dweller who lives years without even speaking to his next door neighbor or to the man in the house across the way. And who keeps silent not because he doesn't know him but because there is some sort of a feud between them. Is that a better or more natural way to live?

When The City Person is Surprised.

Whenever a city bred person goes to live in the country one of the things which strikes him is the great number of petty feuds which exist among the people in the country or in a small town.

It is hard to tell whether these feuds are more unlovely or more ridiculous.

When one sees two neighbors pass each other looking fixedly the other way and knows that the reason they refuse to be friends is that nine years ago they had an argument over the pedigree of a dog belonging to one of them, one hardly knows whether to smile or be sad. It is so absurd and ridiculous that one cannot help being amused. And yet it is such an unbecoming, unhappy way to live that one cannot help being sorry.

They Embroil The Whole Town.

Often the principals in such cases manage to get a lot of people to side with them and thus a small feud will involve half the town.

A letter from an elderly man who has been my letter friend for many years started me on this train of thought. He is a successful farmer, evidently self-educated and one of the best thinkers I know. He set me to thinking about feuds not because he writes about any feud of his. On the contrary, here is the passage from his letter.

"I have lived here all my life and I am on friendly terms with everyone I know. I won't be any other way. When anything gets crossed I think out a way to straighten it out."

Could You Make That Boast?

How many people, country or city, could make a boast like that?

Elsewhere in the letter is another passage which helps to explain this. "I used to think I had to do a mean thing to get even when I was mad with anybody but I found out that was the wrong way as it made a mean act coming or going all the time. So I started doing a good one for a mean one, the first opportunity at the time they expected a mean one. They will then try to do a good one which makes good acts forever afterward. I have only one neighbor that didn't stop the bad ones for all time."

Sometimes we will have to get him to tell us how he deals with that one neighbor, won't we. That will make another chapter on petty feuds.

Mars Again!

From time to time scientists kill the inhabitants of Mars, so to speak, and from time to time other scientists come forward to recuscitate them. It is not long since it was definitely established that life on Mars did not exist. Now a new report from Boston says that human beings may live there after all.

At least, they do not put it quite as definitely as that. "Indications of the existence of intelligent life on Mars" is their guarded phraseology, and the assumption is based upon the discoveries of a group of noted astronomers. It is stated that there is a low area on Mars which reveals the appearance of seasonal changes. Polar ice, which periodically melts in the southern portions, has also been discovered.

Adding to these factors the one hundred and thirty-one canals and the fourteen lakes that have been definitely identified, may we deduce that life really exists? And, if so, will our scientists ever evolve a means of getting there? The day may dawn when kings, opening Parliament, will include in their speeches this significant phrase: "Our relations with foreign planets continue to be friendly."

Just Folks

THE BITTER AND THE SWEET.

Don't expect all of the joy to come your way.
Don't expect trouble to pass up your doorway.
Don't look for blue skies forever above you.
Rejoice in the few friends who trust you and love you;
Make much of the roses that fall to your reaping.
But don't lose your faith when it's your time for weeping.

Don't expect life to be sunshine and laughter.
There's seldom a joy but a care follows after.
Make much of the loved ones who don't expect trouble and heartache to miss you.
Be ready for grief; it may find you to-morrow.
Don't call life unjust when it's your time for sorrow.

The sorrows of life are as sure as its pleasures.
And each in his turn shall drink out of both measures.
Drink deep of the sweet when it's your day for sweetness.
But still be prepared to know life in completeness.
Don't rail at your God when it's your day for sighing.
And don't lose your faith when your soul He is trying.

Murdered by Microbes.

WHOLE VILLAGES WIPED OUT.

It is estimated that, up to the present, over twelve million deaths have resulted from the greatest and worst of influenza epidemics.

An appalling death-rolle to be sure, but although the number of cases has been so gigantic, the percentage of deaths is not estimated to be more than seven or eight per cent. It must also be borne in mind that white races suffer less than black. News has lately come from Canada that fifty per cent. of the inhabitants of Northern Labrador perished during the winter from an epidemic of influenza.

No Survivors.

One village, with a population of over two hundred, was wiped out, while at another—Hebron—only a few of the two hundred inhabitants were left to tend the sick and dispose of the bodies of the dead, medical aid being unobtainable.

In some South African kraals the deaths have numbered forty per cent. of the cases. In England they are hardly three per cent.

The greatest mortality from any disease at the present time is from cholera, of which there is an epidemic in Bombay. One in every two cases is fatal.
Small-pox among unvaccinated races is deadly in forty cases in a hundred. In Samoa small-pox broke out in the village of Hapaa, and killed one hundred out of four hundred. It was followed by tuberculosis, and at the end of twelve months there were only two survivors left.

More Fatal Than Bullets.

In the Pacific Islands measles is terribly destructive, whilst in Madagascar, during a recent epidemic, thirty per cent. of those who caught measles died.

At its worst scarlet fever kills ten per cent. Typhoid fever is much less to be feared nowadays than was the case twenty years ago. In the Soudan, in 1884, a very large proportion of our forces contracted it, and thirty-nine of all cases proved fatal. On the Nile, in 1898, when Kitchener smashed the power of the Mahdi, typhoid proved fatal to twenty-eight per hundred, and the average was much the same in the South African War.

The mortality from typhoid is now down to seventeen per cent. of cases, but inoculation appears likely to put an end altogether to this much-dreaded disease.

Killing The Union.

Every daily newspaper published in St. John's has, in regular sequence, been accused by the Advocate of endeavouring to kill the Fishermen's Protective Union, commercially, so much so that it has become an obsession with our contemporaries, whose parrot-like cry of "Killing the Union" is repeated in each succeeding issue. And not only is the Advocate editorially responsible for this black untruth, but it publishes day after day, letters and contributed articles of a similar nature, the sole object of which is to keep the falsehood alive. No one knows better than the editor of the F.P.U. journal and the President of that organization how ridiculously absurd is this charge, but, under orders, it must be kept up, because were it permitted to drop, disaster in another direction would ensue. That most, if not all the letters written the Advocate on this subject are inspired no further proof is needed than the following instruction of the President of the Fishermen's Protective Union, written by his own hand, or dictated by his own lips:

"I would like the Chairmen of Councils to write the Press (meaning the Advocate) on behalf of Councils, endorsing our action in forming a new National Government, and backing me, as it will strengthen my hands with the Executive and in other channels. It will also nip in the bud the idea that a new party if formed up would stand any chance to defeat us next Spring."

The above, of course, was written about the time that the first Coalition Government was formed in 1917, and had its requested effect. It naturally follows then that similar instructions to Councils to write letters, assailing divers papers and persons for attempting to kill the Union would be followed and heeded without any enquiry whatsoever into the bona fides of such a charge.

There has not been any attempt to kill or to injure the commercial prosperity of the Union Trading Company or any of the business ramifications arising out of the formation and incorporation of the Fishermen's Protective Union. As a factor in the trade and commerce of the dominion the Union Trading and other companies connected with it have no more against which to contend than any other firm or company engaged in buying and selling in Newfoundland. To say the contrary is absolutely false, and base, and to raise the cry that the ruin of the shareholders of the press is deliberately misleading and detestable. No one, as we said before, is better aware of this than the President of the Union, but it serves him to have a catch cry of some sort, and to get others to repeat it. Here is the whole secret:

"The fight against the F.P.U. political control of public affairs," wrote the President, in 1918, "is as bitter as ever. Three papers, backed by Water Street are butting us daily as hard as possible, but with injury to themselves and benefit to us. We will get through if we remain united and firm."

The National Government led by Sir William Lloyd had been formed at the time the above was written, and if the paragraph quoted does not mean that absolute political control by the F.P.U. party was the sole ambition of the writer, then the English language is capable of saying funny things without meaning. As a matter of fact, the only thing the Union Trading Company is up against is the competition of its trade rivals, and properly conducted and managed it has as big a commercial future before it as that of any concern in the country, and no person or paper wishes to see it other than succeed. The Killing of the Union is being done by those within it who are attempting to barter the bone of financial substance for the shadow of political power.

An Appreciation.

Editor Evening Telegram,
Dear Sir:—I beg to inform you that the handbag advertised in your paper was handed to me at 5 o'clock—a record, I think. I wish to publicly thank the lady who picked it up, and also appreciate the medium of your valuable paper in finding this article.
Yours truly,

Libel Suit.

Growing tired of denying that he ever said that "the people of Newfoundland were too green to burn," the Hon. Mr. Morine has taken a libel suit against the Star, which yesterday repeated the hoary headed jibe once too often. Mr. Morine has publicly and frequently disputed ever having used the words, did so in fact in his place in the Assembly a few weeks ago, but in spite of all denials unscrupulous opponents keep repeating it, and it is time the matter was laid at rest.

The Advocate has gone a step too far; it insinuated yesterday that Mr. Morine as Attorney General is secretly in the pay of the Reid Newfoundland Company, and this morning has been served with a writ for defamation; by costly experience the Advocate is going to learn that an insinuation is as libelous as a plain assertion.

Broke Collar Bone.

While motoring out from Twenty Mile Pond, Portugal Cove, at 11.30 yesterday, Mr. Harry Peddigrave, proprietor of the drug store on Military Road, met with a bad accident which resulted in his collar bone being broken and his head considerably bruised. In trying to avoid a ditch he overturned the car, falling underneath it. The fall left him unconscious for a few minutes, and in the meantime a young lad, who was with him, ran to the nearest telephone, Baird's Cottage, a distance of 4 miles, where he phoned to Mr. Gib Parsons, King's Road, who immediately motored to the scene of the accident. Some road laborers, meanwhile, seeing the car overturned, came and extricated Mr. Peddigrave, after he had spent some 15 or 20 minutes under the car, and carried him to a nearby house, from which Mr. Parsons drove him to town. Mr. Peddigrave is now staying at his home, Military Road, and today was resting fairly comfortably.

"Ferm" Arrives.

The S.S. Ferm, accompanied by the tug Ingraham and whaler Cabot arrived at seven o'clock this morning from King's Cove to go in dock for repairs. The damage caused by collision with the ice before she went ashore was patched with canvas so that she could come on here, but she is considerably strained as a result of being aground. The Ferm, at the time of her stranding was bound from Mobile, Alabama, to Rotterdam, via Sydney, with a cargo of pitch pine.

At the Majestic.

Much against her wishes, Madge Kennedy had to go back to paint and powder properly to portray her role in her newest Goldwyn picture, "A Perfect Lady," from the Rose Stahl stage success by Channing Pollock and Remond Wolf which comes to the Majestic Theatre beginning to-day. In "A Perfect Lady" Miss Kennedy is required to use gobs of paint and powder—probably twice as much as is used by any other star in a single production. It isn't the paint and powder, however, that give Madge Kennedy a strikingly different appearance. A little beauty spot on her cheek is responsible. All of which makes Madge Kennedy as pretty a leading woman as ever graced the boards of a burlesque house. Though "A Perfect Lady" compels her to use rouge, enamel and kindred things, the Goldwyn star is highly enthusiastic about the story and found the role of a burlesque star even more exciting and interesting than that of Ruth Betts in her previous Goldwyn success, "The Kingdom of Youth."

Reids' Boats.

The Argyle arrived at Marys town at 5.30 p.m. yesterday.
The Clyde left Westville at 7.40 p.m. yesterday, coming to Port Union.
The Dundee left Seldom Come By at 7.15 p.m. yesterday.
The Glenora left Port aux Basques at 8.30 p.m. yesterday.
The Home left Tilt Cove at 4.30 p.m. yesterday.
The Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 8.45 a.m. to-day.
The Meigle left St. Jacques at 5.45 p.m. yesterday, coming to Placentia.
The Sagona is in port.
The Petrel left Clarendville this a.m.
The Terra Nova arrived at Webber's Harbor, Labrador, at 2 p.m. yesterday.

McMurdo's Store News.

Some people find our Aromatic Casca Compound the ideal laxative for them—indeed it is a combination which is antecedently likely to be of great value in that way, as the ingredients it contains are designed to act in a gentle but sufficient manner upon the whole length of the intestines, and so produce the maximum of action with the minimum of drug taking. Again, it tends to strengthen the muscles of the bowels and increase peristaltic action. Besides all this, the compound is pleasant in taste, sets without griping, and is effective in small doses. It is thus easy to see why our Aromatic Casca Compound is a popular household remedy. Price 30c. a bottle.

Taking it Easily.

The assembling of the giant Handley-Page aeroplane at Handley-Page-On-The-Sea having been finished over a week ago, the mechanics are now taking things easily, spending their time in foister, boxing and other sports. A couple of them were in the city to-day, while Mr. J. A. Pritchard, the expert of the Marconi Wireless Co. who installed the "Martins" wireless, has come to the city for the purpose of installing the wireless of the Martinside biplane.

Weather and Ice Conditions.

St. Anthony—Moderate S.W. wind; no ice in sight.
Coachman's Cove—Ice still slack; wind west, light breeze.
Seal Cove—Wind west, moderate; ice still getting loose.
LaSalle—Wind S.W.; ice going off shore.
Horse Islands reports loose ice north of there; number of fishing schooners passing north.
Nipper's Harbor—Calm; ice loose; no fish or salmon.

Steamers for Botwood.

The steamers Alconda and Lake Medford, which have been detained in port for a considerable time owing to ice conditions in the north, is expected to get away to-morrow for Botwood. The former will load paper and pulp for England. The latter has a cargo of sulphur which she will discharge at that place.

Train Movements.

Yesterday's east bound express left Badger Brook 8 a.m.
Kyle's express left Port aux Basques this a.m.

Personal Mention.

Mr. W. Billingsley, of Bell Island, was in the city yesterday.
Mr. J. A. Strong arrived here last night from Little Bay Islands.
Mr. E. Simmons arrived in town yesterday from Hr. Grace, and is registered at the Crossie.
Mr. C. L. Kennedy, of Harbor Grace, who was in the city for a couple of days, returned home yesterday.
Mr. J. P. Kiely, of the Nickel Theatre, who spent several weeks in Canada and America, arrived by last night's express.
Mr. D. J. Jackman, of Bell Island, and Mrs. Jackman, returned from Canada and America by last night's express and crossed to the Island to-day.
Mr. W. J. Gardner, of Knowling's West End Hardware Dept., who has been seriously ill for the past month, is, we are glad to say, much improved.
Miss Sadie Riggs, of this city, who has been teaching at Lockton, T.B., during the winter, arrived here by the express last evening, and will spend the summer with her friends.
Mr. J. W. Forbes, of the Natural Resources Dept. of the Reid Nfld. Co., is seriously ill at St. George's, and Dr. Campbell left by yesterday's express to consult with Dr. Fisher, who is in attendance.

Turning to the Tasks of Peace.

For four and one half years our country has labored under the spur of a great purpose and to help to accomplish a great task. Now that task is done; the trappings of war become relics; we lay them aside and turn to the tasks of peace.
During this long and weary period we have had but one thought and aim—to contribute our utmost for the winning of the war. Great sailing devices, new markets for our industries opened up. Sources of supply discovered that were before unknown. Due to this development made necessary by war, our country is to-day capable of handling the industries of peace to a greater extent than ever before.
The great industrial era which our country faces, insures the certainty of there being ample opportunity for rendering this service. The use of ships have been built, new methods devised, new markets for our industries opened up. Sources of supply discovered that were before unknown. Due to this development made necessary by war, our country is to-day capable of handling the industries of peace to a greater extent than ever before.

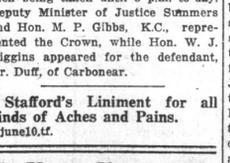

Began Enquiry.

The enquiry in connection with the death of the lad Willie Dunphy, who was killed at Holyrood last week by an automobile, began yesterday afternoon before Judge Morris. Messrs. F. H. Balfour, H. E. Cowan and S. C. Duder were examined, adjournment then being taken until 3 p.m. to-day. Deputy Minister of Justice Summers and Hon. M. P. Gibbs, K.C., represented the Crown, while Hon. W. J. Higgins appeared for the defendant, Mr. Duff, of Carbonear.

Presentation to Mr. H. D. Carter.

A very pleasing function took place at the Bank of Montreal yesterday afternoon, after it had closed for business, the occasion being the presentation of a valuable piece of plate, suitably engraved, to Mr. H. D. Carter, Assistant Manager, who retired from Active Service on the first of June. The presentation was made in the Manager's office, by Manager Paddon. In making the presentation he referred to the splendid work of Mr. Carter during the past 24 years, and of his wide knowledge of local affairs, which had been of invaluable service to the various managements and staffs generally. Not only this, but he had also worked in perfect harmony with his brother employees, which is one of the essentials necessary for the good conduct of any business. He, with the others who had united in offering this slight testimony of Mr. Carter's sterling qualities, regretted his retirement, but would always look back with pleasure on the day of their association. Mr. Carter, who was deeply touched replied briefly. He thanked the present staff and former fellow workers for their gift, which to him would always be a pleasant reminder of the happy days spent with loyal workers of a quarter of a century. He felt sorry that he was obliged to seek a rest, and sever his connection with the bank, but he hoped that he had done his duty. Mr. Carter is probably one of the oldest bankers in years of service in the two Dominions, being for a long period attached to the Union Bank, previous to 1895.

BOWDEN—KENDRICK.
A quiet but pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at Topsall, when Mr. Percival Bowden was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Beatrice B. Kendrick, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Kendrick. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jas. Nurse, Mr. T. Soper performing the duties of father-giver. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. T. Soper as matron of honor, while Mr. C. Bowden acted as groomsman. After the ceremony the party motored to the residence of Mrs. Hollands, where a sumptuous repast had been prepared. The happy couple joined the train at Topsall this morning for Placentia where the honeymoon will be spent.

The MODERN PULPIT

(Being an Essay Written by J. SINCLAIR TAIT, M.D.)

It has been said that "the war has drawn an indelible mark across the history of our times."

For a thousand years we have been waiting for the advent of the avenging comet to sweep away all undue authority, and that heap of vague, empirical deductions which have so long fettered thought and beclouded religious belief. That an enlarging mind is opening up to us new avenues of thought is apparent to all. We stand to-day in the presence of a force which is reconstructing the world, and in the march of events the old must speedily give place to the new.

There is no doubt but that man's belief in the old order has been rudely shaken, and there is a wide demand for a re-statement of current values. Thoughtful people to-day are convinced that a change is inevitable. Nowhere is this more obvious than in the realm of Theology, and in dealing with this subject, men fall to see why we should be guided by any considerations different from those which would be thought appropriate to any other problem. Like most other problems, Theology has a history, and this history is a product of the human mind as much as any other branch of art, or science; and if we find in this history untrustworthy and conflicting evidence, why should not modern thought and criticism be applied as in all other cases? It is obvious that scientific discovery and historical criticism are fast predominating over dogmatism and false interpretation to such an extent that Ethics and Theology are beginning to part company, and the leaders in these departments of thought are now asked for a re-statement in forms more rational and consistent with modern methods of research and experience.

In the trend of social evolution everywhere visible, men look in vain to the pulpit for a complete unification of religious belief considered as the indispensable basis of human order and progress. While the great underlying ideal of human thought is the complete ordering of life in accordance with the spirit and truths of religion, yet, to the modern mind, before complete acceptance is possible, there are opposing forces which must be concentrated and harmonized into a system of living, operative truth consistent with human progress, and the evolution of an enlarging experience. In the trend of the world's advancing culture, the age is waiting for new light, so that humanity may live in a larger and freer atmosphere. Up to the present time, many people have been impressed that through material accumulations, mankind was to become satisfied; but the world of man's consciousness is larger than his outer environments, so that the present unrest will continue until more thought is given to those great, persistent and directive forces which rule and govern the Universe and their laws, or modes of uniform action; for upon a proper appreciation of these laws, all the interests of man, both theoretic and practical, will ultimately depend.

To a people whose history has been one of orderly development, the revision of diverse and contradictory categories of belief so common to the past, will come as a rude awakening; and nowhere will the struggle be greater than in the reconstruction of the origin, growth and development of conflicting systems of religious faith. In the potency and promise of further development, we can only hope that the outcome will be in accordance with social evolution and scientific discovery, so that the churches may be judged by their deeds rather than by their doctrines. With the passage of time much that was formerly believed has now become unscientific and obsolete; so that the modern mind is no longer content to accept all that the pulpit teaches, any more than they are to believe and accept, all that History or Science may strive to unfold.

The leaders in religious thought stand confronting the problems of the age without any clear faith of their own, so that they remain to a large extent unmoved, by the evolutionary progress of social and economic advance; they fail to see that the world is rapidly moving beyond their standpoint; and, for this reason they fail to respond to the progressive tendencies and wider knowledge of the times. To further attempt to bolster up the tottering heritage of devout but unscientific ages, is only to battle with defeat—the result of which will be only to exhaust time, and secure no measurable rewards. To help carry the Church forward through these unsettled times, and to establish in it a larger and truer conception of what religion really is, will require the utmost patience and the highest type of scholarship. Neither ecclesiastical authority nor institutional connection should in any way influence the weighing of evidence, or the portrayal of results. This is not a question of sectarian prejudice, but a question of historic fact, and of impartial sociological comparison.

The two great movements of the past century which have affected most the inner life of humanity are the doctrine of Evolution, and the advance of Historic Criticism. The Church has now fully arrived when the time has come to address itself to both of these questions in an attitude unbiassed by dogma, and a mind free from all that is legendary and traditional. To this end more attention must be paid to the laws of nature which have existed throughout all time—controlling the course of events, and influencing life in all stages of its development. Religion can never be studied apart from Science and social order; and in view of what we are accustomed to distinguish as the natural order, men must eventually recognise that their power, large and progressive as it is, is not a power of subversion, but a power of subvention; and that the exercise of this power, to be fruitful, must depend on discernment and acceptance.

The tendency of religion in the past has been to concern itself too much with man's possible state in the next world, rather than to observe and try to remedy his actual state in the present world. While the Church of the 20th century is at one with the Apostolic Church in the belief of the gospel of Christ, yet the grounds of that belief have not always been regarded as valid, so that the leaders in this department of thought are called upon for a re-statement of religious belief, not as a system of definitions or abstractions, but as a system of accomplished facts and working forces, compatible with modern forms of thought and experience. To further attempt to keep new wine in old bottles will only result in destroying the bottles and spilling the wine. The Bible must be treated, not so much as of supernatural origin, but as a natural production of the early Church, and it should be approached in precisely the same spirit in which Luke tells us that he produced his Gospel, in which he considered it his duty to exercise his own judgment in dealing with all sources of valuable information.

The explanations of a production which remain so homogeneous in character, and yet so heterogeneous in form, appear meaningless to a responsive and critical age, and the world-philosophy of to-day cannot longer maintain its order and interest in those aesthetic productions and pantomimic performances handed down as relics of a former age, and in substitution thereof, it looks for a more rational and scientific re-statement of facts consistent with modern thought and historic criticism, as well as the progress of scientific civilization. In order to effect this, Religion must be studied more in the mind of its founder, and less in the colleges and councils of theologians. If it is true that Religion is "the life of God in the soul of man," then this life in humanity is one of continuous progressive change, according to certain divine laws, and the forces inherent in humanity itself. This regular and orderly sequence may be discovered in all forms of thought consistent with practical experience, conduct and spiritual advancement. The various measures which have improved education, emancipated trade, extended the franchise, abolished slavery, and secured religious freedom—have all been fought out as great national and economic questions, and not altogether on religious grounds. Our civilisation is a developing, organic growth, and its life history must be studied as a whole.

Society in the past has been more religious than intellectual, and by this means, in the evolution of thought, various ethical systems have arisen which, by the law of natural selection, require a considerable readjustment from the standpoint of which the progress of society has been hitherto regarded. Truth can never be the isolated discovery and declaration of a single separate mind; or a separate body of men, or of a single separate age. The civilised world to-day is thronged with eager minds, all seeking for new and abiding truths. It deplores that self-deception and narrow-mindedness, which disregards new facts of late development, and resists the introduction of new and valuable facts, which tend to raise the standard of scientific fitness and practical achievement.

The present war has done more to open the minds of the blind than all the creeds of Christendom, so that the modern mind is no longer held in servile bondage to dogma and tradition, but is free to look forward to a better adjustment of life and its laws. It has opened up to us a new era, and thrust upon us higher standards, and newer types of thought, to which we must give respectable consideration. Our boys in the trenches have broken forever the trifling differences of denominationalism, and revealed to us the wide difference existing between the essentials of religion and the refinements of Theology. While our lives cannot always become what we would wish them, yet when we are taught to accept the lawful and orderly ways that come to us from a knowledge of true religion, and a proper understanding of the fitness and adaptation of life, then only will the abiding foundations of our belief become, not only a matter of material concern, but a question of spiritual advance.

The master lesson yet to be learned is that mankind has been equipped in every way—spiritually, mentally and physically to work out all his problems, whether they be great or small, and through the doing of this, to enter into the fullness of life. To help effect all this, the pulpit of the past has lamentably failed. "The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life." Let us, then, frankly admit that the old order is rapidly passing away, and the reign of the new spirit has begun. Altho' the age is "Dark with excessive bright," Yet further light shall shine, And order from disorder spring.

[Note by Editor.—The foregoing essay will shortly be followed by Part II, entitled "The Modern Pulpit."] DO IT NOW.

If there's work that should be done, do it now; if you wish to borrow money, do it now; putting off from day to day is a foolish, slipshod way, and such methods never pay—do it now. If you'd ply a deathless pen, do it now; if you ought to set a hen, do it now; if you're billed to trim the lawn, do not wait the morrow's dawn; you may then be dead and gone—do it now. If you'd build yourself a home, do it now; if you'd write an epic poem, do it now; oh, so many fellows cry, "We have plans for by and by!" If you'd climb to places high, do it now. If you'd renovate your life, do it now; if you'd cheer your weary wife, do it now; it is vain to sit and wait till you get your mood on straight; if you ought to pull your freight, pull it now. If you'd buy next winter's coal, buy it now; if you wish to save a roll, save it now; for no man can rise and say what may happen when to-day is worn out and laid away; do things now. If you'd demonstrate your grit, do it now; if you hope to make a hit, do it now; for the idler cuts no ice, and the dreamer lacks the price; if you'd get there once or twice, do it now.

A Misunderstanding.

Mr. John De Grey, the London police-court magistrate who has recently retired, has a good stock of legal anecdotes.

One of the best concerns a brother magistrate in the country in the district where poaching was all too prevalent.

For the sixth time (says Mr. De Grey) a certain youth had been up before him on the charge of stealing game, and the magistrate, seeing the father present, anxiously awaiting the result, made up his mind to appeal to him on the boy's behalf. "This boy of yours," he said, "has been charged so many times with poaching that I'm absolutely tired of seeing him here."

"Ain't as tired of seein' 'im 'ere, sir, as wot I am," replied the father.

"Then why don't you teach him better?" said the magistrate. If you show him the right way he won't be coming here!"

"I have showed him the right way," was the reply, "but the young fool's got no brains. He always gets caught!"

His Recommendation.

"Have you any one in court who will vouch for your good character?" asked the magistrate of a man charged with a petty offence. "Yes, sir," said the defendant; "there is the head constable." The head constable was amazed. "Why, Your worship, I don't even know the man," he protested. "Now, sir," broke in the culprit, "I have lived in the town for twenty years and if the constable don't know me yet, isn't that a character for you?"

MILLEY'S.

Visions of the Future.

(From The New York Times.)

There was a providence that took care of those aviators, aloft they knew not where. The feat will always be wonderful, and posterity will say that no stouter-hearted men, no men greater of soul, ever faced a hazard on land or sea with more indomitable spirit. There is the kind of honorably won fame that the bravest men will always envy them. With the success of this flight across the wide Atlantic comes a realization of the service that may be expected of aviation as its instruments are improved. Captain Alcock had one-third of his fuel left when he landed in Galway; he might have gone on for almost another thousand miles. We know that any well-engined airplane can fly the Atlantic in clear and fair weather with a competent pilot at the wheel. The task set inventors is to provide a plane that can get across in any but the most tempestuous conditions, and there will follow a regular air service. Lord Northcliffe in his message of congratulation to Captain Alcock said that he looked forward to the time when London morning newspapers would be selling in New York in the evening. Let no one make light of the prediction. Twenty years ago who would have dreamed that the Atlantic would be crossed in the air in about sixteen hours? It is evident that the cable, which for the delays has fallen under criticism of late, will one day have a competitor as to much of its business in airplanes darting across the ocean in a comparatively few hours.

The Atlantic Air Route.

Commander Towers is quoted as saying that in about five years from now there will be a regular service of airplanes across the Atlantic, but he also says that such a service will be dependent on the establishment between shore and shore of a line of lightships something like 300 miles apart, each of them a well-equipped meteorological station, sending constant weather reports both east and west.

Perhaps if the Commander had been a little more fortunate himself in his recent flight he would have shortened this period by a year or two. He speaks, however, from knowledge and with authority, and his prophecy has weight.

He admits that the maintenance of his lightships will be expensive, but says that they would be worth their cost, and be beneficial to surface craft as well as airships of all kinds. Apparently he did not see any insuperable difficulty in keeping the lightships at their appointed stations. Yet to do so would not be altogether easy, for there is not anchorage in midocean or at any rate there never has been any, and Atlantic storms are apt to drive small vessels fast and far.

He is unquestionably right in the importance he ascribes to obtaining more and better knowledge of aerial conditions. Upon this systematic investigation of the air, over land as well as sea, is largely conditioned, and the present sources of such information are of demonstrated inadequacy. If men knew as much about cyclones as do the migratory birds, air traveling would be far safer and dependable than it is now.—New York Times.

The Union Jacks.

(From The Westminster Gazette.)

Mr. Magee is one of the protagonists in a story still told in Oxford Senior common rooms. In 1888 Lord Morley went to the Union to propose Home Rule for Ireland, and young Magee, then in his second term, but already known as the son of the witty Archbishop of York, was put up to oppose him. As a matter of fact, Lord Morley lost the motion, largely as the result of a most powerful appeal made shortly before by Lord Randolph Churchill; but the best remembered incident of the evening occurred at the close of the debate. An undergraduate who had been dining to well at the Clarendon succeeded in entering the hall, waving in violent fashion a Union Jack. Immediately the President was asked, "Is it in order, Sir, for the Union Jacks to wave the Union Jack?"

At the City Hall.

The Municipal Council held its regular weekly session last evening. The Mayor presided, and Councillors Morris, Tait, Brownrigg, Ayre and Vinnicombe attended. After reading of minutes, etc., the following business was gone through:

The Colonial Secretary wrote that the Government were willing to let the Council purchase logs held by the Hr. Grace Shipbuilding Co. for the building of Workmen's Houses. Cowan & Co. drew attention to the condition of the pavement opposite 274 Water Street. The parties responsible for this bad spot will be written to have repairs made immediately.

W. & G. Rendell wrote explaining that the sample roofing submitted at a previous meeting of the Council, was classed by the Board of Fire Underwriters as fireproof. The Board will be asked for views on this matter.

S. G. Collier offered a piece of land 1,000 square feet, next to Victoria Park, provided Council would erect paling fence. This was referred to the Park Committee.

W. & G. Rendell asked permission to repair gallery rear of building occupied by L. M. Trask, Water Street. Council has no power to grant permit for any structure except in conformity with the law, which provides that all buildings within the fire limit must be built of unflammable material.

Request of W. & R. English to build garage on LeMarchant Road was deferred until plan is submitted.

Plan of additional storey to the White Clothing Factory passed. James Murdoch's plan of house to be built on Patrick Street, also passed.

Approval was given to James Murdoch to make alterations to building foot of Hamilton Street.

Plan of extension to garage on Carnell St., submitted by Augustus Lester, was approved.

C. T. Chauncey submitted plan of alterations to building on Alexander St. Passed.

Bishop, Sons & Co. submitted sketch of repairs to building rear of 343 Water St. This was deferred until proper plan and specifications are submitted.

Mrs. Escott, Central St., applied for water and sewerage installation under Small Homes' Act. This will have further inquiry.

Michael Walsh asked permission to repair building No. 5 Cochrane St. Permission could not be allowed as this building does not conform to the law.

A letter was received from the Secretary of the N.I.W.A. regarding matters in connection with the sanitary staff. In relation to this a motion was made and carried that the collection of night soil on Saturday nights be abolished after the first Saturday in July.

A. Harvey & Co. requested permission to use the hydrant opposite their premises for the purpose of sprinkling the street in the early morning. This was referred to the City Engineer for arrangement.

The City Engineer reported on water and sewerage work Belvidere St., Mullock St.; work progressing favorably for the installation of the Venturi Meter at Headquarters. He also reported on road work east and west ends.

The Health Officer's and Plumbing Inspector's weekly reports for the past week were read.

The building of the Workmen's Houses was considered at length, and consultation was held with the Architect over the whole matter, with the view of preparing the way for building. It was decided to start at once by the engaging of Mr. John Coaker to build five double houses, and tenders to be called for the construction of five more, in all twenty houses.

After disposing of some routine business and passing the pay rolls and bills, the meeting adjourned.

Reply to "Sailor Chap."

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir:—In answer to "Sailor Chap's" reply appearing in your issue of the 24th inst., referring to Sailors' Gratuities, I must still adhere to my statement and also say that the war retainer that "Sailor Chap" refers to had been deducted from the daily rate of pay, and the only augmentation of pay was the separation allowance granted to dependents of Royal Naval Reserve ratings by the Admiralty. And as "Sailor Chap" seems to be so familiar with "Admiralty Weekly Orders" he really should have sense enough to know this. What was referred to, Mr. "Sailor Chap" was Post War Gratuities, not separation allowances. And really I should not have published my opinion of the matter only that I thought the foolish notion of sailors having received a gratuity or war bonus should be dispelled; but perhaps Mr. "Sailor Chap" has an interest in fostering this belief in the minds of those who are not aware of the real facts.

And now thanking you in anticipation for time and space in your paper, Mr. Editor, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
JAS. W. GREY,

To Reform the Calendar.

Current Opinion, of June, has the following interesting proposition for a radical reform in the Calendar:—

The time-honoured Gregorian calendar is shortly to go by the board if the American Equal Month Calendar Association, incorporated by fifty leading Minneapolis business and professional men, is to have its way with Congress.

Under this new form, we read in a statement issued by the Association, all holidays and anniversaries will always fall on the same day of the week.

Under this new form, we read in a statement issued by the Association, all holidays and anniversaries will always fall on the same day of the week. A promissory note given for any number of weeks, months and years will always come due on the same day of the week it was given.

Wanted—A Light.

Many complaints have been heard, and are still being made, because of the absence of a light in Post Office Square, opposite the steps of the main entrance, and the placing of a couple of lamps either on the stone railings or immediately in front of the steps, at the kerb, would be a great boon to the public who have business at the office after nightfall.

CAUTION.

Getting Peace Signed.

(By J. R. SMALLWOOD, of the "Telegram" Reportorial Staff.)

I had hardly returned from Europe, after successfully having the Armistice signed, it seemed to me, when I received this wireless message from Lloyd George: "Can you manage to come over immediately and help us get this Peace Treaty fixed up? I'm stuck." I had barely thrown it in the wastepaper basket, when I was handed the following radiograph: "Having gotten the Armistice signed you might as well give us a lift with the Treaty. If you don't we'll be here forever, Clemenceau." Exactly three hours later, I remember, Orlando (a man I never could take to) wired me as follows: "If you don't help us we're done. Another war seems inevitable." It was my friend Wilson's request that decided me. "The Press of America is calling you," he said. "Will you come?"

You remember the items you read in the St. John's papers, a couple of weeks ago, telling how a large number of people had been heard to state that they saw a third person get into the cockpit of the Vickers-Vimy bi-plane, just before she took off? The newspapers ridiculed the suggestion, and the truth of the matter is published now for the first time.

Alcock, Brown and I had a rather tiresome trip across, and personally, I think, I found time to pass more slowly than either of the others. All they had on their minds was the successful flying of the bus, whereas I was trying to think up some scheme for the successful signing of the Treaty, a copy of which I took along with me, having received it from Lloyd George by code radio.

We were met at our landing place in Ireland by a small Sopwith Paul Camel, which had been specially constructed for me when I had been in

"It's an easy matter to get them here, tho, if you want them," interposed Clemenceau. "I'll wire right away."

"Never mind," I replied. "I'll see them later."

"What do you want them for?" asked Wilson. Then, as he saw my face darken, "Of course you needn't tell me if you don't want to."

"Need't I?" I asked, sarcastically. "Very kind of you, I'm sure!"

"No offence meant," said Wilson, miserably. "I just asked."

"Yes, you just asked," I returned, rather enjoying his discomfort, for Wilson is a smart man, taken all round. "And as you're so curious I'll tell you. They are to be the German Peace Delegates. You see now why I want them."

"Haniel and Mueller!" exclaimed Orlando. "Are you sure?"

"I am. I arranged that part before I left St. John's. It is not known, yet, that they are to be the German delegates, and the first newspaper to announce it will be La Liberte of Paris. I promised the editor that I'd let him in on some good news next time I was in Europe. He did me a good turn, once. However, we are wasting time. Let's to Berlin!"

"What!" ejaculated Lloyd George. "I have an appointment with the King in an hour."

"Then you'll have to cut it," I replied easily. "We are off for Berlin. Get the R-35 to Brooklands immediately."

Haniel, in great surprise. "Who are you, that you presume to dictate to us?"

Muller crossed over to him and whispered for a second in his ear. When he had finished, Haniel's face cleared.

"It's alright," he said, pleasantly. "I'm sure your request is alright—quite proper. It will be done!"

"Let me propose the health of our great friend," said Mueller, looking at me for a second. "Rise, gentlemen, and drink in foaming bumpers of lager!"

The six of them stood to their feet instantly, while I gazed at them in amusement and contempt.

The return to London by the big gasbag was pleasant enough, the time being filled with the incessant questioning of my four companions. To all of their questions, however, I turned a deaf ear, for I was not disposed to talking.

And now, that I am once more back to dirty old St. John's, I propose to tell you how I got the promise from Mueller and Haniel. I do this, not to satisfy your curiosity, but merely to prevent the inrush of mail that would be forthcoming.

I am the owner of the greater part of the beer industry of Germany. If I gave the order I could deprive the population of all Germany of their favorite drink—a fate that a German would do anything to avoid.

I thank you.

We found Berlin to be exactly the same as when we had been there last. Perhaps there was an air of depression, but we took no notice of it. It was Haniel and Mueller we were interested in.

We found them in a beer shop, drinking lager and eating sauerkraut. Mueller rose instantly and bowed profusely. Haniel did bow, but not so much as his confrere.

"I want to get this Peace Treaty signed," I said, looking at Mueller. "I want to get it signed quickly. The quicker it is signed the better I will like it. Do you understand?"

"What do you mean?" demanded

"I have an appointment with the King in an hour."

"Then you'll have to cut it," I replied easily. "We are off for Berlin. Get the R-35 to Brooklands immediately."

Does the Work of 50 Typists.

In every office and factory there are hundreds of ways in which our ROTOSPEED duplicator can save time and money. The average office boy without previous experience can print 30 copies per minute of any form-letter, circular or price list, and the average cost is 50 cents per thousand copies.

There are only three simple operations—preparing the stencil, attaching stencil to machine, printing.

Only one model—no extras to buy—no adjustments to make—no worry, no trouble, no fuss, no delay.

PRICE completely equipped $55.

Salmon are not very plentiful at Robinson's River.

Local fishermen have secured some salmon at Middle Barachois.

One party on the Lower Grand River, secured two salmon a week ago.

At Harry's River one sportsman has arrived. Latest reports state there are no salmon yet.

There are several parties fishing the Overfalls and Fork Pools on the Codroy River. They are camped at South Branch.

The Roberts party, four in number, of Roberts Simpson Co., Liverpool, are camped on Robinson's River. They have secured fifteen fish in three weeks.

Steamer Strikes Iceberg.

A message was received yesterday morning from the steamer Maskinonge to the effect that on Wednesday evening west of Cape Pine, she struck an iceberg while steaming slowly in a dense fog, and damaged her bows. The Captain enquired if repairs could be effected here, but was answered in the negative owing to the dock strike being on. So he decided to continue on to Halifax.

The accident occurred about 5 o'clock Wednesday evening, as at that hour the Maskinonge was talking to the S.S. Sheba which arrived here two hours later, and reported that the Maskinonge had struck a berg and damaged seven plates. She was bound from Sydney to Bell Island for a load of ore.

One striking evening turban showed a heart-shaped, jeweled ornament in the middle front.

Straight waistcoats worn with golf capes and skirts are mostly of suede cloth or gun club checks.

 New Relief For Constipation,
 "LES FRUITS"

Physicians agree that with the modern habits of living, constipation is likely to be always with us. They also agree that the constant use of any drug for the relief of constipation is exceedingly unwise—unwise for two reasons. First, a drug constantly used loses its effect and requires a constantly increased dose. Second, because the constant use of any drug is bad anyway.

So the cry is constantly going up from the constipated, "What can we do?" It will be interesting to a great many to know that an answer has been found in the re-discovery of a method which was used with great success by our Forefathers, and in Arabia far back in the twelfth century. The food is called "Les Fruits" because it is composed entirely of figs, dates, prunes, raisins and the leaves of each with the substitution of the Alexandra leaf for the raisin leaf. The taste is pleasant, if not to say delicious, and the effect is exceedingly satisfactory. Try it and be convinced.
