Gaunt hesitated a moment, then took the rad and threw the fly.

"It it there? Ah, yes; I see him." "And have got him!" exclaimed Bobby, with a flash of excitement. "I fully. say, what a fly you throw! That was splendid!"

Count handed him the rod but Rob. hy shook his head determinedly.

"Not much! You hooked him, and you ought to land him. It's a beauty! raised his head and said, quietly: Here. Decie: come and see your first for ever so long."

Decima ran up and stood watching the business, little guessing the skill with which Gaunt was playing the big trout, but understanding enough of the operation to share in Bobby's xcitement.

"Oh, what a splendid fellow!" she exclaimed, as Gaunt brought him to the bank and Bobby slipped the net under him.

"Thank you," said Gaunt, handing the rod back to Bobby. Bobby laughed.

"You throw a beautiful fly, sir," he said. "Are you staying here? If so, I'll ask Bright—the steward—to give you permission to fish Halloo! here he is!" he broke off as a short, thick-set man, with a pleasant, good-humored face, came round the hill. "Hi, Bright! how are you? Just look at this fish! This is my sister. Decima, this is Mr. Bright. This gentleman caught him. Why, what's the matter?" he broke off; for Mr. Bright's face, as he turned to "the stranger," had grown red with surprise and delight, and raising his bat, he came forward with an eager exclamation of-"Lord Gaunt!"

CHAPTER IX. For an instant, but an instant only, Gaunt looked agnoyed and embarrass-shook hands with the stew

"How do you do, Bright?" he said. Taken you by surprise, you see." Bobby stared, then emitted a low whistle, and grinned. But Decima's face wore no smile. It was red for a moment, then very pale, and her eyes sought Gaunt's, then hid themselves under their long lashes.

This man, to whom she had been abusing Lord Gaunt, was Lord Gaunt himself! Humiliation, shame, and confusion fell upon her and seized her in their clutches while one could count twenty; then something like resentment and anger took their place; and she drew back and turned her face away. But she could hear Lord Gaunt talking steadily and slowly, as if to afford time for the embarrassment to

"Yes: I should have written to say was coming, Bright, but I-well, I didn't make up my mind until the last moment."

"Delighted to see you, my lord," said Mr. Bright, "notice or no notice. Of course. I should have preferred a short warning. The house-well, I'm' afraid the house is scarcely fit to receive you."

"That's all right," said Gaunt. "I shall not stay long: half an hour." Mr. Bright looked at Bobby and De-

"This is Mr. Deane, of the Woodbines, a neighbor of yours, my lord," he said.

Lord Gaunt held out his hand to Bobby, upon whose face the grin still flickered. "Very glad to make your acquaintance, Mr. Deane," he said. "Thanks," said Bobby; "and I'm glad to be able to thank you for the permission to fish. This is my sister

Lord Gaunt went up to Decima, who stood perfectly still and without mak-"I can not hope for forgiveness this time!" he said in a low voice, unheard nounced visit. "But you will admit that -the laugh of a girl whose heart is the temptation to conceal myself was still in her keeping, and who has not very strong. If Mr. Bright had not turned up, I should have got away without your learning that I was the heartless' owner of Leafmore." The tears of vexation were very near Decima's eyes. "It does not matter," she sadi, with little, a very little, catch in her breath. "It does not matter in the very least. But-but I think you might have stopped me when I was talking of you yourself, not knowing that—that you were Lord Gaunt."

"I might," he said; "but it would have given me pain to reveal myself; and-well, we men all shrink from would leave her when they reached every trout in the river! What fear- pain, you know. However, you said nothe river, and cut across the meadows ful ignorant things girls are! Keep thing that was unjust or uncharitable; to Bright's house. Half an hour with out of sight; and mind the hook when and if it will console you, let me assure you that the truths you uttered have done me some good. For once, at any Decima withdrew out of the radius rate, I have seen myself as others see

> "Are you still-mocking me?" she said: and there was something in her voice which brought the color to Gaunt's face.

"Mocking you?" he said, and his voice rang deep and low and full of pain. "Great Heaven! don't you see that I am burning with shame of my cowardice? that I would now give the world if I had had the pluck to own up? My dear young lady, there is no mockery of you in my mind; nothing can throw fairly straight, but not so but respect for your denunciation, noprove-"

Mr. Bright approached

"Will you come up to the Hall, my ord? I have so much I should like to say, and-and-you said something about half an hour." He ended regret-

Lord Gaunt was looking at Decima's averted face. He turned his eyes to the ground, and, at last, as if he were awakening from a brown study and had come to a sudden resolution, he

"I will come to the Hall, Bright. I trout being killed. This gentleman's can't give you more than half an hour hooked the beggar I have been trying to-day; but I shall be down in a few days."

"Down?" said Bright, with a flush of eagerness. "Do you mean that-that?" Gaunt nodded.

IT IS TO BE HOPED.

A visitor from St. John's this week told us that it is expected that codfish prices will be very much higher later on than at present, and declared that by the end of the year over $12 would be paid for codfish almost without cull.

There used to be a time when the Advocate urged fishermen to hold their fish. But the Advocate boss is now buying fish himself, and naturally buying it as cheaply as possible.

It looks as though the man who sells last will get the biggest price. On the other hand if one does not get clear of his fish in the fall spring prices are generally very bad and mean a "stick" for the man who does not get his fish shipped in the autumn.

WHY NOT A BOUNTY?

The Labrador fishermen are arriving daily as we write, and the prospect is not of the brightest. Small catches, damaged gear—so expensive to replace—and the tremendously high cost of everything, are going to make fishermen look askance at the Labrador voyage, at least until things assume their normal level again.

It is infinitely to the credit of these men that they took the risks attendant on the Labrador voyage and gave it a try out. Twillingate which depends so largely on the Labrador voyage is indebted to them, but that is small encouragement to the man who comes home after sailing several hundred miles for codfish to find that he winds up in debt.

The only bright spot is that it looks as though Labrador fish will be worth more—proportionately we mean—than Shore, but the Labradorman's expenses are so much more than the Shoreman's that this will not offset. Unless conditions improve very much by next spring we look to see the Labrador fleet dwindle to the vanishing point.

Men will not run the risks attendant on a voyage to Labrador, far away from civilization and friends, out of all touch with the world, and the hardships attendant thereon, and perhaps come home with empty pockets, when they might have been doing only eight hours a day and a pay envelope every fortnight.

From a Kalamazoo paper we get the following:-

Western State Normal has during the past two days registered three crowding. The place is no bigger than men from Newfoundland, who have the shed on the Government wharf been sent to Kalamazoo by the Department of Education of Newfoundand to take special courses in rura education.

These men are William Harnett. Jonathan Davis and Leo E. F. English. They left Newfoundland by steamer, September 18 for New York enroute to Kalamazoo. These men are to be supervisors of rural education in Newfoundland, and it is in preparation for this that they have been sent to this country by their government to take the work in Western Normal's Rural Education department of which Dr. Ernest Burnham is the director.

We understand that Mr. Harnett writes in glowing terms of the treatment accorded them by our U. S. A. cousins and says he feels quite at home in the Western State Normal. -Twillingate Sun.

We may blame the local branch of the business in the fishery regulations, the governsuccession to Manager Redmond, who ment, the profiteers, and the trade in general, but we have all done our share in bringing about the poor times. The trade encouraged the people to spend their money in articles that could well be done without, by importing such goods; the people were prone to spend their earnings in luxuries and put by nothing for a rainy day—the present hard times, the "blue ruin," that is complained of. But we are only meeting with what others have met, struggled with, and are still struggling with. Father Noah toiled along, needless of the jeering mob, nailing shingles with a song-he was Johnnie on the job. When the ark was fit to sail, all the sky grew dark and dour, there were gusts of wind and hail. then it rained three feet an hour. Had he cared for what men said. when he built his Shamrock Five, all the beasts would now be dead which are very much alive. All the elephants and fleas would be resting in their graves; all the cows and bumble-bees would have perished in the waves. If we know we're doing right. hat our goal is safe and sane. we the frivolous and vain. Every man who bravely works at a useful task or trade, finds some cheap, derisive smirks on the loafers' mugs displayed. But he chortles and he sings as There shall be days when hope is are no grievous stings in the empty words of fools.

The Children's Hospital.

Public Meeting To-morrow Night. The citizens of St. John's are most earnestly requested to attend the meeting in the College Hall on Wednesday, October 13th, at 8.30 o'clock. The object of the meeting is for general discussion of business matters, in connection with the taking over of Waterford Hall to be run as a Children's Hospital. It has been the hope and the aim of the Women's Patriotic Association, since its active war work was in the form of a hospital, might be atminent calamity. Only united and whole-hearted devotion prevented that calamity. Can we not unite here in Newfoundland to mitigate in some degree the inroads of disease and death in times of peace? It is only by so doing that we can hope to ever recover from the awful losses of war. The question to be decided on Wednesday evening is whether or not the people of St. John's consider a Children's Hospital a vital necessity. If they do, are they prepared to appreciate the munificent gift of our greatest public philanthropist Sir Edgar Bowring, and work unitedly towards the maintenance of Waterford Hall, which he has presented to the Women's Patriotic Association for a Children's Hospital.

The Government has generously undertaken to provide ten thousands dollars a year. Can the people of St. John's supply another ten thousand, and if they can, will they undertake to do so? We ask them to attend this meeting to discuss the question; we ask them to attend without undue projudice against a country hospital; we ask them not to refuse this splendid gift if they have nothing better to offer the children requiring special medical care and skilful nursing; we ask them to be in the Methodist College Hall on Wednesday evening as a proof of their interest in the health of the coming generation and their it may be towards the Child's Welfare

Special Meeting.

Visiting Brother Received.

There was a special meeting of B.P. O.E., Nfid. Lodge, No. 1, last night, at which the particular business was balloting for candidates. During the evening there was an informal visit from brother W. H. Crowell, Chief Officer S.S. Delco, a member of the American Order of Elks, being attached to B.P.O.E. 547, Rutherford, N.J. Brother Crowell was heartily welcomed to the Lodge room by Esteemed Exalted Ruler Dr. A. C. Tait, and given a reception by the members present. The meeting then took recess and Brother Crowell kindly gave the lodge a talk on American Elkdom which proved most interesting and before the meeting closed he was accorded a vote of thanks. At present there are a number of American Elks in St. John's who are attached to the several U.S.A. steamers in port, and as an open invitation to initiation meeting on Monday night next has been extended to the American brethren, the Lodge gathering should be the largest on record. It will be a real pleasure to all to meet and associate with the B.P.O. E. visitors from the land of the Stars and Stripes.

Congregationalists Excide "Obey" for the Bride.

Recently the Congregational Union of England and Wales published a prayer-book for use in the churches of the Congregational order. The book includes services for baptism, marriages, and burial. Some changes occur in the marriage service. There is, for instance, the omission of the phrase "call upon these persons here present to witness."

As symptomatic of present social conditions, the most important change is the omission of the word "obey" in the question put by the minister to the woman. According to the present book she is addressed in exactly the same terms as the minister uses to the man. The form is given as follows:-

Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy state of matrimony? Wilt thou love him, comfort him, honour and keep him, in sickness and in health, and keep thee only unto him so long as ye both shall live?

It is explained that one of the obects sought in the compilation is to deliver a congregation from the "tyranny of the pulpit," and to free the minister from the tremendous drain on his spiritual resources by the time-honoured custom of extempore prayers.-Glasgow Weekly Herald.

One more masculine stronghold has, we are informed, fallen to the monstrous regiment of women. The Grand Lodge of French Freemasons has declared itself in favor of the admission of women to the craft. How to reduce them.

Complexions otherwise flawless are often ruined by conspicuous nose pores.

The pores of the face are not as fine as on other parts of the body. On the nose especially, there are more fat glands than elsewhere and there is more activity of the pores. These pores, if not properly stimulated and kept free from dirt, clog up and become enlarged.

To reduce enlarged nose pores: Wring a soft cloth from very hot water, lather it with Woodbury's Facial Soap, then hold it to your face. When the heat has expanded the pores, rub in very gently a fresh lather of Woodbury's. Repeat this hot water and lather application several times, stopping at once if your nose feels sensitive. Then finish by rubbing the nose for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

Notice the improvement the very first treatment makes—a promise of what the steady use of Woodbury's Facial Soap will do. But do not expect to change completely in a week a condition resulting from long continued exposure and neglect. Use this treatment persistently. It will gradually reduce the enlarged pores and make them inconspicuous.

Get a cake of Woodbury's Facial Soap and begin tonight the treatment your skin needs. You will find Woodbury's on sale at any drug store or toilet goods counter in the United States or Canada. A 25 cent cake will last a month or six weeks.

Remains of Prominent Nfld. Man Here

The remains of the late John L Slattery, a prominent business man and civic official of St. John's, Nfid. who died this week in a New York hospital, arrived here this morning and will be forwarded to his late late home by the steamer Kyle to-Catherine. Two other sisters of the deceased. Rev. Sister Teresita. of Glace Bay, and Mrs. O'Connell of Halifax, are als ohere, and with the exception of the former, will accompany the remains to St. John's, where a civic funeral will take place. This afternoon special services were conducted by Rev. Etanislaus MacDonald, of Sydney Mines, at which a number of local friends of the deceased's family were present, the services being at the instance of the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Slattery held the office of Secretary-Treasurer of the city of St. oJhn's for many years; in church circles he was always a predominant figure.-North Sydney Herald, Oct. 9.

Bumper Fish Catch.

The French trawlers operating on the banks this year did not meet with the same success they did last season. However, during the past fortnight immense quantities of fish have been taken by the fleet, which this year numbers thirty-three, 12 less than last year. The trawler Provence arrived in port to-day loaded to the hatches, and brings news of the most cheerful kind of her sister ships. In conversation with a North Sydney Herald reporter shortly after the Provence cast anchor, the veterar fish killer jubilantly told of immense hauls being made by every one of the fleet. Asked if the total catch this year would equal that of last year the captain told the Herald that he believed it would, if indeed, it did not exceed the 300,000 quintals taken last year, "For a time," said the Provence skipper, "things looked blue with the trawler fleet, and we all thought our seeson's catch would not pay expenses; but lately, however, the fish struck in immense bodies, and we had all we could attend to pulling in the trawls." The smaller built craft of the fleet will finish their season's work and leave for home about the middle of this month, the heavier ships continuing until the first week in December, or perhaps a little later.—North Sydney Herald.

Contact With Ice.

DAMAGES S.S. PELICAN.

The S.S. Pelican, which arrived in port last week from Hudson's Bay, will have to go on dock for repairs, as a result of encountering heavy ice in Hudson's Straits during last month. Her bow has been stove in and her rudder badly damaged. The ship will lie up here during the winter. The crew have been paid off and left by Sunday's express for their homes. The Pelican, owing to the accident, was anable to visit all her ports of call in the Bay, and the copie is now delivering her cargo at the different ports, thereby causing her to be later than usual in getting back to this port.

Linesmen Injured.

FELL 20 FEET WHEN POLE BROKE.

Yesterday evening, two electric ight linesmen named Donnelly and Dawe had a narrow escape from being killed. They, with others, under the supervision of Mr. John Day were replacing poles near O'Brien's Bridge, Lond Pond Road. The two men were on the arm of the old pole disconnecting the light wires, when without warning it gave way, but luckily the as otherwise they would have been killed. Mr. Day, when he saw that the men were injured, rushed to Smithville, from where a doctor and the ambulance were summoned. Nurse Hiscock, who was passing in the road attended to the injured men until the arrival of Dr. Fallon, who after an examination found that both were seriously shaken up, Dawe having his arm dislocated, while Donnelly's nose was badly battered. They were taken to the hospital in the ambulance.

Wedding Bells.

REID-PAYNE.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Methodist Church, Heart's Delight, on Wednesday, Oct. 6th, by the Rev. E. Broughton, when Mr. William Ernest Payne, of the Western Union Cable Staff, Heart's Content, was united in matrimony to Miss Nellie Reid, of Heart's Delight, a former employee of the same company. The bride looked charming in a costume of navv serge, with fawn georgette hat, and carried a beautiful bouquet of carnations and fern. As the strains of the wedding march were being played by Mrs. (Rev.) Saint, the bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. H. E. Harnum, who acted as father-giver. Check Lined Collars, 15 to 19 She was attended by her sister, Mrs. H. E. Harnum, while the groom was ably supported by his cousin, Mr. G. R. Rabbitts, of Heart's Content. After the ceremony the wedding party Harness Leather, 19 to 24 drove to the home of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of and the usual toasts duly honored. The groom's present to the bride was a set of fox furs, to the bridesmaid emerald and pearl pendant, and to the best man gold cuff links. The bride and groom were Trace Chains, 48, 54, 60, 90 and the recipients of many valuable and useful presents, including a purse of gold presented to the bride from her co-workers of the staff, also many congratulatory messages, showing the esteem in which they were held. The happy couple left on Thursday morning's train for Holyrood and Brigus, where the honeymoon will be spent.-Com.

although seeing the benefits to be derived from a Trust Company's administration, hesitates about canceling any appointment he may have already made, the Montreal Trust Company can be named to act with the Executor or Executors already appointed. In this way the Trust Company co-operates with the Testator's appointees in the administration of the Estate.

This plan is very acceptable when the Testator's wife is named as Executor. Few women have the necessary business training to enable them to carry on the administration of an Estate, but with the co-operation of the Montreal Trust Company the Testator's wife can be appointed with full assurance that the Estate will be well looked after.
