GRIP of the 25th has a skit upon the rumor that Hon. George Brown was to have been the next Lieut.-Governor if Mr. Crawford had not been appointed. It is entitled—"The political Mother Hubbard, and John A's dying iniquity." Mr. Mackenzie is Mother Hubbard, and the dog sitting near has the face of Mr. George Brown. "Mother Hubbard" is looking with a rueful face into the empty cupboard, in which lies a paper bearing the words "You'll Remember Me—John A." In the distance is another dog, with Mr. Crawford's face, running off with a bone labelled "Lieut.-Governorship of Ontario." John A. is peeping round a corner, holding up a paper labelled "Official Gazette, 100 appointments."

OWN SOUND.—On Friday last an accident occurred in the township of Wydenham, by which a son of Wm. Waterton nearly lost his life. He was working in Scott's sawmill, and was lifting a board across the mill, when the board hit the saw, throwing Waterton against it, cutting off his right arm about three inches below the shoulder, and also a deep gash in his side, above the hip. There is little hope of his recovery.

Here is an order lately received by a music dealer:—"Please send me the music to 'Strike the harp in praise of God and paddle your own canoe.'" It is almost as unique as the title page of a new piece of music, which reads: "Hark! sister is dying with piano forte accompaniment;" or like the sheet of music hung in a shop window, entitled, "You may kiss me on my lips darling" for 25 cents.

WINTER AT MONTREAL.—The intense cold of Saturday night, with falling snow, caused an immense quantity of ice to form in the locks of the Lachine Canal, which, floating down with the current, jammed across the St. Gabriel locks. The proprietors Alma Munro, of Port Stanley; Calabria and Armenia, of Hamilton; Columbia, Mark Twain, Bruno, Shickluna, Prussia, are all stuck fast; they are making strenuous exertions to get down. A powerful harbor tug has been sent up to give them all the assistance possible. Forty barges, laden with grain and wood, have also stuck. The ice is so firm that men can walk across the canal on it. Such an early opening of winter here is unprecedented.

Town Council.

The Council met on Monday night, the Mayor in the chair; present also Messrs. Howard, Heffernan, McLagan, Crowe, Richard Mitchell, Hogg, Davidson, Coffee, Chadwick.

COMMUNICATIONS. From the St. Andrew's Society, asking for the use of the Council Chamber on Dec. 1st, the day of the celebration.—Granted, on the motion of Messrs. McLagan and Crowe.

Mr. Howard presented a petition from Mrs. Hill, asking for remission of taxes. By Mr. Heffernan, from Ed. Carroll, Toronto, asking for a lease or license of occupation at a nominal rent for a portion of his property which stands about six feet on Devonshire Street.

By Mr. McLagan, from Jane Lewis, asking for further charitable aid. By Mr. Crowe, from J. Anderson, asking for a reduction of assessment on his property, and pointing out errors therein.

From Mrs. Esther Hill, in reference to assessment. From W. A. Husband, treasurer of Preston, asking the Corporation of Guelph to wait until the first of March next for payment of debentures held by Guelph against Preston—as the latter's proportion of the Municipal Loan Fund indebtedness will not be paid until February.

The foregoing were referred to the proper committees. REPORTS OF COMMITTEES. Mr. Richard Mitchell presented the report of the Road & Bridge Committee. The Committee could not make any recommendation as to the petition of Mrs. Dawson and others on Surrey Street, it being a ward street. They recommend the granting of Jacob Puhry's petition for a crossing on Macdonnell Street, opposite Sandiland Street. They also recommended the granting of F. J. Chadwick's petition for a sidewalk on Yorkshire and Gladwin Streets, half the cost of which he offers to defray; on condition that he deposit $65 with the town treasurer, the half cost named.

Mr. Davidson submitted the report of the License Committee. Regarding the petitions of the Sons of Temperance and Good Templars, the Committee found that the Committee were not in a position to enforce the law; they understood that the Police Magistrate fined all that were brought before him; the inspector on the second day offered to lay an information against the same parties, which the Police Magistrate refused to take until the previous cases were disposed of, and nothing further was done. The petition of Messrs. Goldie and others it was now unnecessary to deal with.

Mr. Hogg presented the report of the Central Exhibition Committee, giving details of the expenditure on the building and grounds, to the amount of $1,117 odd. The appropriation of the Committee having been $800, a further sum of $317 was asked for, to defray the sum spent in excess of the appropriation.

Mr. Heffernan complained of the way in which the Committee had overdrawn their appropriation, and a vote of censure ensued between him and Mr. Hogg. Some remarks were also made by Messrs. Chadwick and McLagan. It appears that the account included a sum of $297 on interest account, which, deducted from the $317, left only $20 spent in excess. It was stated, also, that the Committee of the Agricultural Society had usually paid this interest, but this year they had spent over $250 on the cattle shed, and the Council had agreed to pay the interest account this year to compensate them for the outlay. The question then arose, whether this $250 was intended to be included in the grant of $800 or not. Messrs. Hogg and McLagan said it was not; Mr. Chadwick said it was. The confirming of the report was then carried on a division.

The reports of the Road and Bridge and the License Committees were also passed. Mr. Howard suggested for the consideration of Mr. Chadwick whether it would not be better for his sidewalk to be laid on the street above Yorkshire Street.

BY-LAWS. On motion of Mr. Mitchell, seconded by Mr. Chadwick, leave was given to introduce a by-law for the appointment of Returning Officers for the ensuing municipal elections, and the by-law was read accordingly. The Council then resolved into a Committee of the Whole, Mr. Davidson in the chair. The blanks were filled up with the names of the Returning Officers who officiated last year, and the Council resumed, when the by-law was read a third time, passed, and numbered 239.

On motion of Mr. Mitchell, seconded by Mr. Chadwick, leave was given to introduce a by-law to regulate the proceedings of the Town Council and for other purposes. It is a very lengthy one, containing 80 clauses. The clerk read it a first time.

WOOD. On motion of Mr. McLagan, the clerk was instructed to advertise for a supply of wood for Corporation use during the winter.

The Council then adjourned until Friday the 28th inst.

The North-West.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3. Information was received to-day at the Department of Justice from Lieut. Governor Moritz that true bills for murder have been found by the Grand Jury against Riel and Lepine.

The Government are understood to have information of serious disturbances amongst the Indian tribes in the North-west. A collision between the Blackfeet and Crees has resulted in a loss of life. Some uneasiness in consequence is felt in the settlement, the more so because of a suspicion that the half-breeds are more or less connected in fomenting the disturbances.

There is a good deal of talk just now about Conservative organization. A few years ago it was all No-Party. The mask is being thrown off.

Arabs and Turks Fighting.

MacMahon and the Prolongation. The Virginius Affair. Meeting in New York. Reduction of Wages.

London, Nov. 17.—A special despatch from Aden to the Daily Telegraph says: An encounter took place recently in the District of El Ahsa, between bodies of Arabs and Turks, in which 300 of the former and 70 of the latter were killed and wounded. It is probable that, in consequence of this occurrence, the British force at Aden will interfere, and prevent encroachments by Turks upon the territory of surrounding tribes.

Paris, Nov. 17.—President MacMahon has sent a message to the French Assembly, saying that if his term of office be prolonged to seven years, he thinks it would be best for the country that the prolongation should take effect immediately, and not wait until after the discussion on the Constitutional Bills. The Committee on Prolongation were agreeable to the seven years' term, but refused to yield to the request that the debate on the bills take place after the prolongation is confirmed.

Havana, Nov. 17.—The report received from Cienfuegos, that 57 more of the Virginius prisoners had been executed, is not confirmed by later advices from Santiago.

The following despatch has been made public here: Santiago de Cuba, Nov. 12. There have been no further developments. The man of war Isabella la Catolica has arrived here to convey the Virginius to Havana. The attitude of the authorities is unyielding. They insist on their perfect right to dispose of the Virginius as a pirate in accordance with the international law, and that no one has a right to interfere with them. There have been no more executions, but trials are proceeding. The British man of war "Niobe" is still here; it is reported that a correspondence is going on between her captain and Governor Burriel about British and other foreign subjects captured on the Virginius. There are rumors that an American corvette from Aspinwall and another from Key West are on their way here.

New York, Nov. 17.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of American and Cuban citizens was held at Steinway Hall to-night for the purpose of giving expression to their sense of the late Cuban butcheries by the Spaniards and the outrage offered to the American flag. Fully three thousand people were present; Hon. Wm. McEwart presided. Resolutions were adopted to the effect that the war for the suppression of the Cuban rebellion which has been going on for five years without any evidence of success, and that as Spanish volunteers have outraged the rights and persons of American citizens, the people of the United States look to the great soldier now presiding over the Government to take the promptest and most decisive action consistent with the dignity and past precedents of our Government.

Secretary Robeson arrived here at midnight to hasten the preparations for sea now going on at the Brooklyn navy yard. He said that after what had occurred, the United States must have a fleet of observation on the Cuban coast.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Nov. 17.—A practical reduction of the wages of engineers of locomotives on the N. Y. C. Railway went into effect to-day. Engineers generally are dissatisfied.

New York, Nov. 18.—A snow storm, accompanied by heavy wind, rain and sleet, continued all night, but has partially cleared up this morning, leaving the streets in a horrible condition.

The Burned Bavarian.

A Government investigation was opened at Montreal on Monday, before Mr. Risley, C.E., Toronto, into the loss of the steamer Bavarian.

Mr. Henderson, first mate of the ill-fated steamer, deposed that at about 8 o'clock on the evening the steamer was lost, while on deck, he heard a noise which he presumed to have been caused by an explosion, and saw the walking beam, which was thereby broken, fall into the body of the steamer; the latter was speckly in flames. He had a boat at once lowered, and into this the pilot, a Frenchman, and several of the crew sprang. He then ran across the steamer to lower another boat, but being deserted by the crew and assisted only by the second mate, Bradley, he found this to be impossible, and returning, pitched another boat into the water. Into this, which had already been touched by the flames, the second mate and himself descended, and as the boat had been almost filled with water, he set several men, who had thrown themselves into the lake and scrambled over its side, to work to bail out the water. He called to the pilot, who was some 150 yards distant, to return, as they would save all on board. He is not certain that his call was heard, but at all events the pilot did not come. After some delay, having rescued those who were in the water, they pulled towards shore, which was fifteen miles distant.

Gerald Massey, the poet, is in Toronto, and, being a spiritualist, has been invited to give a spiritualistic seance at Messrs. Macpherson's house to-morrow.

There are no less than three distinct seance entertainments being conducted in the city, just now.

Lecture on George Peabody.

Last Monday evening a goodly number of the inhabitants of the Town—yet not so many as might have been expected—congregated in the Wesleyan Church to hear the Rev. Mr. Guttery, of Toronto, deliver his well-known lecture on "George Peabody," under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Osborne, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Association, in the absence of the President, Dr. McGuire, took the chair, and after the usual devotional exercises introduced the lecturer.

Rev. Mr. Guttery began by referring briefly to the boyhood of George Peabody, stating that very little remained to be traced, yet enough to show that even in his early years he possessed some of the traits of character which in after life made him so conspicuous. In 1795 his parents emigrated from England to the state of Massachusetts, and, as might be drawn from the circumstances in which they were placed, George Peabody was no stranger to care and hardship.

He received no classic education, for at the early age of ten he was compelled to leave school and carve a way for himself. As a boy he was filial and affectionate; and at school he was known by the term of a "mother's boy." At the age of 18 the keen business eye of Mr. Stiggs picked out young Peabody as a fitting member for his large commercial business, and by his hard-working, honest, untiring energy George soon worked himself to the head of the firm.

He took no side in politics, his views were too broad for that,—and we wanted in Canada a race of men who would take a high stand in politics—men who could become Prime Ministers but who would be free from the corrupt practices of the Government recently in power here. The first act that brought George Peabody to the notice of the world was his discharging certain liabilities in a very honorable manner during the financial crisis of 1836, in which year he left for England. Speaking of Mr. Peabody's charities, Mr. Guttery referred to the enormous amount of money spent by him on the poor of England and America. Yet though he was a great giver he was a wise giver. He would give no money to beggars—to men who pleaded with him for it. He had fought for his money, had earned it by hard work, and would not squander it on worthless impostors. He called on the rich men of the present day to act in the same spirit as Peabody—to show the same broad, unselfish, noble charity. He was no party man, he was a man made for mankind.

He held none of the selfish petty prejudices of nationalities, but tried to bind firm and to make stronger every tie which bound English and America; and he had left behind him a record worthy of her noblest kings. The English Government, seeing what he had done for the nation, became anxious to confer on him some honour, but George Peabody's broad unselfish spirit refused them. Then another offer came, that was from the hand of England's Queen, asking him what honour he would accept. His heart was touched by this appeal. He replied that there was nothing he so much valued on earth as a letter in the handwriting of his Queen. The letter was sent and with it a portrait of Her Majesty, which cost over $50,000. In 1869 George Peabody made his last visit to America, and shortly after his return the tidings flashed through the two nations that George Peabody was no more. Mr. Guttery touchingly referred to the grand funeral pageant, the lying of the body in state at Westminster Abbey, and its reception in America.

At the conclusion of his lecture Mr. Guttery was heartily cheered, and the chairman called on Mr. Stevenson to move a vote of thanks to Mr. Guttery, which was seconded by Mr. Wood, and unanimously carried. A vote of thanks was then passed to the chairman. Dr. Hogg was called upon to pronounce the blessing, and the meeting dispersed.

WOMAN'S DRESS.—If who would labor for the physical redemption of woman in America must begin with her dress. The prevailing modes constitute an insuperable obstacle to her physical development. Every humane physiologist has argued, expostulated and implored. If American women should sense their feet and those members were in Chinese fashion, or should place a flat stone on the head until the brains were forced into the neck of the neck, we might keep silent; but while they compress that part of the body which contains the organs of vitality—the heart, lungs, liver and stomach—we must continue to resist their madness. In this part of the body is the fountain of life. The slightest pressure immediately reduces the size and activity of that fountain. He who has thoughtfully studied the inevitable results of the effect no surprise at the cold feet, constipation, weak spine, short breath, palpitation of the heart and congestive headache, which are the average characteristics of the health of American women.

Give a live woman a corset and the average tight dress, and the physiologist will denote the morbid conditions I have named. My practical suggestion is that, without corsets, the dress waist should be full and loose, the skirt bands buttoned about the waist much larger than the body, supported on the shoulders by suspenders, such as gentlemen's wear, and attached to the bands at the same points. My wife adopted many years ago the style I advise, and is greatly delighted with the results. The dress is much more artistic and beautiful than the plain waist with the hard iron-like figure at the hand. After twenty years' study of the subject of health and the causes of disease, if I were permitted to select from our many physical ailments, that one which I should most desire to see corrected, I should unhesitatingly name this particular feature of woman's dress.—Dio Lewis.

THE recent disasters in the States, and the consequent throwing out of work of thousands of persons, has caused them to scatter everywhere in search of employment. Many daily arrive in Hamilton, and failing to find work, apply to the benevolent societies for aid. One of these societies have passed to other places and aid to no less than sixteen persons.

Guelph, Nov. 3rd, 1873.

Guelph Evening Mercury

TUESDAY EVENING, NOV. 18, 1873.

The party with the compound name—the Liberal-Conservatives, as their organs delight to call them,—are forgetting all about the No Party principles which they used to talk so much about a while ago. Now that Mr. Hooper, the Lennox County Treasurer, is started on the John A. ticket to run against Mr. Cartwright, the Mail is, of course, hammering away against the new Fingone Minister in a series of editorials. The burden of its song is Treachery to party—Party Recreancy—Renegade to Party. With the Mail now, party fidelity is the highest of all virtues. There is a saying amongst printers "Follow your copy, even if it takes you through the window." It is wise of the Mail to paraphrase this saying and apply it to following one's party; for it is about the only valid reason that can be given by those who still choose to follow Sir John A. Macdonald, despite all the mire he has dragged them through. There are some, however, who still place honor before Party—may their numbers increase.

A correspondent says that the opinion appears to be more or less divided among Toronto Conservatives relative to the prospects of Sir John A. Macdonald accepting the nomination for West Toronto. There are those of his friends who assert that he will not. No additional strength to his party would result therefrom, even if elected there. Kingston would be lost to his party, and he would in all probability meet a foe worthy of his steel in Toronto, and, perchance, fall more ignominiously by deserting his old constituency than if defeated there.

It would seem that John A. has refused the nomination of the West Toronto Tories. The Mail says—"The adjourned meeting of the Liberal Conservative Party was held at Foy's Hall, Richmond street, Monday night, when the utmost enthusiasm and unanimity prevailed. Sir John Macdonald's unwillingness to desert his old friends at Kingston was reported to the meeting, and resolutions were passed having for their object the selection of some other candidate who will carry the election.

The St. Catharines News says that on the Niagara frontier of about thirty miles there are four custom houses, whilst two of them could easily discharge all the duties. It asks that two of them be abolished.

Notes from Ottawa.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.
Hon. Mr. McKellar, of Ontario, is in town. His visit is probably in connection with the Normal School contracts, and also to consult with the Dominion Government concerning the establishment of a comprehensive system of emigration. The present mode, established by the late Government, costs the country $40,000 per annum, which is greatly disproportionate to the results.

The rush of business at the Public Works Department is amazing. People who have been dangling for months on the late Minister find the change highly satisfactory. Among the deputy heads of Departments likely to be superannuated are Messrs Parent and Fuyoye. These gentlemen have long passed the age allowed by the Civil Service Act.

Mr. DeCosmos left town this morning en route to England. He has expressed his intention to support Mackenzie's Government.

The Tory organs still adhere to the statement that there was a conflict between His Excellency and his Ministers on the subject of the recent appointments. It is only necessary to answer again on authority of the Ministers that not only is the statement untrue but it is without any foundation what so ever.

Telegrams received to-day from New Brunswick indicate that Messrs. Smith and Burpee will not be opposed in their elections. The election for Westmoreland (Mr. Smith) is to take place on the 28th inst.

Mr. Develer, the candidate for St. John instead of Mr. Tilley, will be returned by acclamation. He is a Reformer, and will support Mr. Mackenzie's Administration.

Mr. Cartwright, the Finance Minister, is expected here. Notwithstanding the boasts of the Tory organs, the latter gentleman's opponent in Lennox is likely to be scarcely strong enough to make the contest interesting.

It is believed in Montreal that Mr. Poirier will be re-elected by acclamation for the County of Belle Chasse, as the Conservatives have resolved to make no opposition.

The Great Western Railway.
At the recent half-yearly meeting of the Great Western Railway Company, held in London on the 29th October, the President announced that "The system of the Great Western Railway being now complete, and in connection with lines of railway constructed by independent parties, extending into the most fertile districts of the country, the Board consider that no further extensions involving capital outlay on the part of this company will be either desirable or necessary." Referring to this the Hamilton Times says:—"During the last few years, there have been some serious demands made both on the pockets and patience of shareholders. But they have all been of that kind which come not under the head of losses, but of present outlays made to secure future gains, and made, too, with the certainty of not being disappointed. We have, for instance, mention in the President's speech of increased earnings, the doubling of the track between Windsor and Gloucester, car ferry boats, the addition of some thirty locomotives and some thousands of cars, the Loop Line, the Allanburg branch and other improvements of a like kind, to secure which has necessarily cost money and kept down dividends. But there is not one of them that does not give greater facilities for an increased business, which means, of course, an increased revenue and increased profits. Already, the President has been able to announce that, in spite of many obstacles and drawbacks, the Wellington, Grey and Bruce brought to the G. W. R., during the half-year, some $85,000 of new traffic. Well, all those heavy outlays are now over, the staff of the Company has been remodelled, the working of the line has been re-arranged in sub-divisions so as best to secure the desirable combination of efficiency and economy, and under those circumstances we think the President was not rash in promising the shareholders better results in the future. The seed has been generously sown, and they have a right to expect a good harvest."

The Rival Clansmen:

A Scottish Vendetta.
CHAPTER VIII.
AN UNHEEDED APPEAL—WHERE IS FLORA.

Two days have passed since the occurrences mentioned in the foregoing chapters took place, and we now introduce the reader to a new scene—Droghdaire—the residence of Donald Cameron, situated in the centre of the now famous strathpeffer, about a couple of miles from Dingwall. Droghdaire was an old-fashioned, though substantial looking building, situated on the northern slope of the valley, and the view it commanded was very different from that to which its owner's eyes had been accustomed for a day or two back. At Loch Maree all was bleak and sterile—a wilderness of mountains, each looking more formidable, if possible, than its neighbour; but here it was quite different. Away to the south were gentle sloping hills, rich in agricultural worth, while the husbandmen were all around merrily preparing the soil for the reception of the seed; on the left the sea, studded with many sails, rolled gently up the Frith of Cromarty; while to the north Ben Nevis, surrounded by other giant mountains, reared his bald broad head to the sky.

But it is night, and we must notice the inmates of the castle. In a low room on the second floor were seated Donald Cameron and Ian M'Leod. The room was furnished in a style which showed that Cameron was not altogether lacking in taste. The windows were heavily draped with bright crimson cloth, while the walls were finished with a lighter hue, and decorated with splendid paintings. A brilliant light lit up and richly mounted chandelier depended from the roof, and the furniture was massive and richly draped.

The two men were seated on each side of a heavy table made of polished oak, which was placed in the centre of the room, and before them were a large punch-bowl, tumblers, and glasses. Judging from their reddened, inflamed faces, the pleased look about their eyes, and the thick manner of their speech, we should say they had sat there for some time, and had been partaking deeply and freely of their libations.

"I say, Cameron," exclaimed Ian, "it's nearly nine o'clock, and that minister hasn't arrived. I hope he hasn't forgotten that Flora and I are to be made one tonight."

"Oh, no; never fear. John Fender's not the man to stay away from where there's likely to be a glass of good whiskey got. He will remember that, though he should forget all about the marriage."

"I shall be triumphant tonight, Cameron; but I shall have a fuller triumph in a day or two hence. Do you know I am glad I did not take the life of Hector M'Leod when we first met. Had I done so I would not have had the pleasure of seeing his mortification when he learns that Flora Macgregor is my wife."

"M'Leod is in my way at present," muttered Cameron. "I tell you I would hand him over to your tender mercies tomorrow if I could only be assured that I could induce his father and his aunt to agree to my purpose without further communication with him."

"I will starve him out when I have him in my power," was the reply of Ian. "And I will visit him every day to taunt and mock him. When do you leave for Castle M'Leod?"

"Tonight. All that delays me is your marriage. I think it wise to bring it off tonight, so that we may be no longer pestered with doubts and fears about it."

"You are right, Cameron; you are right. Tomorrow Miss Flora will not toss her head so high. Tomorrow she will no longer dream of union with Hector M'Leod."

And both laughed coarsely. At this moment a ghillie entered the room and announced that the Rev. John Fender walked below.

"Show him up; show him up," cried Cameron, while Ian rubbed his hands with irrepressible glee.

In a few seconds more the ghillie re-entered, followed by a man dressed in a clerical suit, and with a downcast, cringing carriage. This was the Rev. John Fender, of Dingwall. He was a reddish-haired, reddish-faced individual, the red culminating strongly at the point of his proboscis, with little, sharp, restless eyes and with an assumed expression upon his face of wit and shrewdness. He bowed profoundly as he entered the room, and extended his hand fawningly to Cameron and Ian, who both rose to receive him. Then he seated himself at the table, and any one gifted with the slightest penetration could in a few seconds have seen in his deportment that Mr. Fender was a sneak—one who loved the flattery of the great—or those he considered great—and who was ever ready to do whatever was asked of him without putting inconvenient questions.

IMPROVE NUTRITION.—The central idea in the treatment of all Chronic and Wasting Diseases, resulting in Nervous Prostration and General Debility, is to improve the Digestion and Assimilation of Food, and the Formation of Healthy Blood. Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Cellulose contains the only agents known that act directly as excitants of nutrition, by imparting tone to the Stomach, Liver and Intestines, the great triad that prepares the nutriment for building up the organs and tissues of the body. The action of this remarkable preparation is extraordinary in strength and vitalizing the constitution, whether impaired by age, exhausted by excess, bad habits, or run down by old complaints that have resisted all ordinary methods of treatment. Being a delicious cordial to take, and perfectly harmless under all circumstances, it is eminently adapted to prostrate anemic women and delicate children.

This is indeed a book for every man. Thousands have been taught by this work the true way to health and happiness. It is the cheapest and best medical work ever published, and the only one on this class of ailments reaching 100th edition, revised, much enlarged, illustrated, bound in beautiful French cloth. Price $1. Sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price. Address: PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, No. 4, RUTLEDGE STREET, BOSTON, MASS., or Dr. W. H.
