THE meat stalls at the Hamilton central meat market were simply swarming with flies, says the Spectator of Aug. 13th, but owing to efforts put forth by the medical health officer there isn't one fly now to a thousand a week ago. One of the things that has assisted the butchers in their clean-up efforts was the introduction by the Wilson Fly Pad company, of its pads in the various meat stalls of the market. Representatives of the company called on the meat stalls of the market. Represent-atives of the company called on the butchers and pointed out to them the advantages of using the pads. They were given a trial and have proved so satisfactory that their continued use is assurred. In conversation this morning assurred. In conversation this morning with several of the market stall butchers, the Spectator was informed that the mode of using the Wilson pad had been to place the pads on the counters after closing hours at night. When they open for business next morning they say dead flies are so thick they can gather them up by the peck. This is followed up every night, and a stroll through the market this morning finds a vastly improved condition to that of a week ago.

Rev. E. B. Horne, M. A., Preaches Farewell Sermon Sunday, and is Presented with a Purse Monday.

The Rev. B. B. Horne, M.A., pastor of the Presbyterian Church here for the past eleven years, left for Renfrew on Wednesday.

His farewell sermon was delivered on

His farewell sermon was delivered on August 18th, a peculiar coincident in consideration of the fact that it was on the 18th of August eleven years ago he preached his first sermon as minister of the congregation.

A very large audience attended both the morning and evening services, and the congregation unanimously regret his departure, yet found some consolation in the words spoken by the Rev. gentleman in his evening address, taking as his text Eccles. 7-8.—"Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof." And also in the morning sermon of." And also in the morning sermon the text being taken from Philippians 3-13, "Forgetting the things which are behind."

He pointed out that a thing was not finished until it was fulfilled, and he urged that the congregation would not consider his work of the past had come to an end, although finished. The sermons of the past are gone, the work of the past is gone. Therefore he urged that we would not live there, but to take the lessons from the past. The chusch the lessons from the past. The church and this community, he said, had a bright future and that patience would bring us to a successful end.

At a social gathering held in the church Monday evening the congregation presented Mr. and Mrs. Horne with WE are prepared to show you the new purse accompanied with an address. a purse accompanied with an address.

Although taken by surprise Mr. Horne replied at some length and gave vent to his feelings of regret at leaving a people and church that had become, as he expressed it, "part of himself." Viewing the large number assembled it could be seen also that the regret was indeed mutual, and yet while they regretted be seen also that the regret was indeed mutual, and yet while they regretted his departure the people are also indeed grateful that Mr. and Mrs. Horne ever came into their midst.

Following is the address:—
To Rev. E. B. Horne, M.A.:—On behalf of the Session, the Board of Managers, and the Congregation of the Watford Presbyterian Church in bidding goodbye, with our friend and Pastor of eleven years, do so cheerfully, and hopefully years, do so cheerfully and hopefully, for you leave us without a cloud to dim the horizon of our relationship.

the horizon of our relationship.

We look upon your call as the voice of Providence, asking you to work in a larger field, and no doubt, He has special work for you and your success in that field is assured by whatever experience you have gained with us in our mutual work here. Wherein we have succeeded or wherein we have failed, or wherein we have honestly tried they have had we have honestly tried, they have had a lasting impression on all of us. So we may claim some little share of your maturity,

You do not go alone, part of us go with you and we also are conscious that part of you will always stay. Because your high ideals and moral powers remain with us. We have imbibed some the essentials of Righteousness and Truth. You have made us hate the empty sentiment. We can never forget to do justly, to love kindness, to walk humbly with God.

Whatever differences have ruffled the current they goog more from our ladie.

current, they arose more from our Indiv-idualism and Independence proving it more a mark of excellence than anything else.

But we always found a true Israelite in whom was no guile. In short, we say you have learned from us and we have learned from you and have grown up into the Master together. The results vet to be seen in Watford and Renfrew You must succeed and we cannot ail. We are still in the same Province, in the same church and in the same Blessed Spirit. Our mutual prayers shall be answered, and as you continue to preach the old Gospel, may you do so easier and clearer

Gospel, may you do so easier and clearer with joy.

We also desire to convey our earnest good wishes to Mrs. Horne, for her kindly assistance in all church work, especially the choir, from which she will be greatly missed. We present you this purse as a mark of our sincere respect and appreciation and pray that God's richest blessing may accompany you both in your life work.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION. - On ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.—On Monday evening, August 19, 1912, Mr. Henry Waugh and family were taken completely by surprise when almost the entire congregation of the Warwick Methodist church, accompanied by their pastor, Rev. H. Kennedy, took possession of their hospitable home. The evening was very enjoyable scent in a ways. ning was very enjoyably spent in amuse-ment, singing and social chat. During the evening, Rev. H. Kennedy called Mr. Waugh and family together, when Miss Alma McRorie read an address and Mr. Alma McRorie read an address and Mr. Waugh was presented with a handsome leather chair. A quick program was called and impromptude speeches were made by Messrs. Wm. York, Thos. Brush, Robt. Wilkinson, Wm. Morris. Wm. McRorie and others, who have known Mr. Waugh for upwards of fifty years, he having resided in Warwiel: for that length of time. All spoke of the Sterling qualities of Mr. Waugh and though they thought the step he was taking was a wise one and that he was worthy of a retirement for the rest of his life, yet retirement for the rest of his life, yet they regretted the removal of a family who was ever prompt at the call of duty whether in the interests of the church or of the community. Mr. Waugh and family are active members of the Sabbath school, Epworth League and church, and school, Epworth League and church, and the gap which is to be made by their removal will be one which will be hard to fill. Mr. Waugh feelingly responded and thanked his many friends for their kind words and good wishes and gave them a hearty welcome to his home in Watford. A very sumptuous lunch was served by the ladies and the very enjoyable evening was brought to a close by singing "God be with you till we meet able evening was brought to a close by singing "God be with you till we meet again." Below is a copy of the address: Mr. Henry Waugh and family.

Dear Friends,—We, the members and friends of the Warwick Methodist church and surrounding vicinity, have met at your home this evening to bid you farewell, as you are about to leave u your home in Watford. It is with deep regret that we say farewell, for during your many years of residence in our midst you have endeared yourselves to us as true friends and loyal citizens. Your faithfulness to the church and devotion to the cause of Christ have been such that your going away will leave a gap that will be hard to fill. Please accept this gift as a slight token of our love and respect, and may God's richest blessings be yours, and may His kind hand lead you all in your new home and in your future labour of love in building up His Kingdom among men.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Carefully prepared statistics show that last year new churches were estalished in the United States at the rate of eight a day, and that saloons went out of business at the rate of thirty a day. Is this a case of cause and effect?

The new standard Fire. Insurance Policies which took effect on Aug. 1st. as revised by the Provincial Legislature at its last session, will, according to the new statutory conditions contain a lightning and dynamo clause. Mercantile and dwelling risks in towns and cities will be free from all variations to statutory conditions. Policies on farm risks will contain a vacancy clause, steam and gasoline threshing permits, instructions regarding proof of loss of live stock when killed by lightning which will also be covered while on pasture land rented by the assured and while going to market or to stable. Agents will be authorized to vary the limits of loss from $75 to $150 in the case of horses, from $30 to $40 on horned cattle planter.

wired. The animals should be ciall insured by name.

Sprinkled over Eastern Canada may be yound exceptionally good farmers who have made ten, twenty and forty thousand dollars at dairy-ing, and hog-raising, fruit-growing or mixed husbandry, and better opportunities than they had are still open. In the West, such examples would be blazoned forth in immigration literature, written up in the papers, and heralded far and wide to indicate the resources of the country. What the East needs is self-discovery through advertising.

The assessors of Owen Sound fixed the sum of two thousand dollars as the income assessment on the salary of Judge C. H. Widifield, and the latter appealed to the court of revision with the result that the assessors were upheld in their action. An appeal was at once entered before County Judge C. T. Sutherland, and the case was threshed out. The contention of the appellant was that the salary of a civil servant could not legally be taxed. There was precedent for this view, in a case that was adjudicated upon at Ottawa. There was also another case of a similiar nature where a directly opposite decision was given. In his finding Judge Sutherland held that the town had power to tax the income of a civil servant and dismissed the appeal.

The following item from the pen of Peter McArthur, the versatile farmer-journalist, hits off the situation in Lambton country to a nicety: -"Once more I am impressed by the suddenness of the wheat harvest. One day we were looking at the yellow fields and the next at the rows of shocks. Perhaps it was because I was so busy in the haying that I did not notice the farmers at work, but one morning in looking around I saw that the transformation had taken place, and it seemed as we had passed from summer into autumn overnight. It will be only a short time until the oats are harvested, and then the season's work will be practically over. And it seems only a few days ago since I was fussing with the seeding in the spring. Certainly there is nothing like being entirely busy to make the time slip by quickly. Perhaps it would be different if I once got ahead of my work, but all season I have been from three days to a week behind, and that has kept me on the jump.'

STORY OF A CHURCH.

Curious History of an Unfinished Edi-fice In England,

There is a curious history regarding an unfinished church which stands at Hassall, near Sandbach, England. A former resident at the local hall, a Mr. Lowndes, painfully conscious of the lack of provision for the spiritual wants of the people in the neighborhood, determined to bulld a church at his own expense. After carefully choosing a site he gave instructions for the erection of a structure in the modern style capable of seating 400 er 500 persons.

Work on it was begun in the summer of 1836 and was pushed on steadily until the day on which Queen Victoria was crowned, by which time the building was well advanced. The crypts, about ten in number, had been put in, the walls and roofs were complete, and the scantlings for the floor were fixed. Indeed, partly in consequence of the national rejoicings and partly to celebrate the progress which had been made, the building was smothered in flags and decorations and was the center of local festivities.

Next day Mr. Lowndes was seized with an filness which quickly proved fatal, and with his passing all work on the church ceased. Though the building could have been finished at doned, and it has not been used since except by tourists, whose names "hallow and adorn it," as Mark Twain said of those on the ruins of Cain's altar, by the thousand.-Wide World Magazine.

LOOSE SHOES.

Those Not Fastened Tight at the Instep Cause Foot Trouble.

Seven persons out of ten suffer excruciating pain at one time or another with their feet. A single corn no larger than a grain of sand can take all the "snap" and vitality right out of you.

Two-thirds of modern foot troubles are due to the fact that almost every one—man, weman and child—wears his shoe too loose. The shoe itself may be correct as to size and shape, but it is not fastened tight at the only point of control-namely, the instep.

When you set your foot upon the floor or pavement in the act of walking the shee adheres, and if it be loosely fastened over the instep the foot pushes down into the toe of the shoe. At certain spots on the foot this slipping causes friction. The spots are the soles of the feet, the tops, ends and inner sides of the toes, the great and little toe joints and oc casionally even the back of the heel. When the friction thus caused is continued hour after hour and day after day one or more of these spots are almost sure to become inflamed and sore. A slight thickening, called a "callous," is formed. As the friction and pressure go on the resulting callous may thicken up unevenly; then it is called a "corn."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Satan of the Greeks. The Greek conception of the evil one, whom they call Yama, makes that personage one of the most satanic of the whole evil tribe. According to their ideas of him, he is 240 miles high and the bairs on his body stand out like palm trees on a mountain side. He punishes the doomed beings submitted to his charge by putting them in beds of boiling oil, sawing their bodies in two, pouring molten lead in their ears and such other little pranks as pulling out their tongues, toe and finger nails and gouging out their eyes. He is a heartless old fiend of the most fiendish kind and has many other exquisite lit-

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise sequired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is mothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Hearthurn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

Humor Proved the Victor In the Duel at the Spout.

A TALE OF OLD TIME POLITICS

Colonel Fitzhugh's Chivalry In Scoring Both Whigs and Democrats Won Him a Challenge, and the Weapons He Selected Averted the Meeting.

In a book long out of print a contributor to the New York Sun has found a tale of old Maryland politics which shows that, the knight of La Mancha to the contrary notwith-standing, an almost extravagant ideal of chivalrous conduct is not incompatible with a keen sense of humor. Colonel Fitzhugh of Calvert county was a pattern of generosity and nobility of character. He was once a candidate for office. In those days it was the custom for rival candidates to stump the county together and speak from the same platform.

On a certain occasion Colonel Fitzhugh and his opponent were to speak in joint debate. When the day came his rival did not appear. The people assembled and grew impatient. Finally Colonel Fitzhugh, taking out his big watch and glancing at it, got up and delivered his speech. In it he took all the libertles that a gentleman of the Democratic party might take with Whig principles and closed amid pro-

As he was concluding he received a essage that the rival candidate was critically ill. Colonel Fitzhugh looked round for a representative of the Whig party who might take the place of the sick man, but could not discover one.

Finally the colonel rose again with the announcement that he believed in fair play. He said that as his oppoment could not be there to reply to the arguments that he himself had advanced and as there was nobody of his political faith to take his place he would himself deliver a speech for the sick man. He added that he would keep his watch open before him to see that he gave just as much time to his opponent's cause as he had given to

He then began. If he had scored the Whigs he now scarified the Demo crats. If the Whigs had been men of broken promises, of smirched reputations, tricksters and rogues, the Democrats were now liars, thieves and murderers.

From the Whig point of view the address was masterly. But among his own partisans there were some who refused to see that the colonel was doing anything chivalrous and who were unable to appreciate the real humor of the situation.

One Democrat in particular, whose name tradition has not handed down, was much offended. The next morning he sent his seconds to the colonel with a challenge. As no explanation would satisfy him, the colonel reluctantly named his seconds, who accepted the challenge. The Spout-a stream of water that gushed from the side of a hill on St. Leonard's creekwas selected as the place of the duel. The time appointed was the following morning at 8 o'clock.

When the challenger and his seconds rode up to the Spout a little before 8 o'clock they found the colonel and his Guide-Advocate Ads. are Business Bringers seconds, but could see nothing that looked like weapons of any kind. On the beach near the Spout, however, there was a big iron kettle steaming away over a fire that was being indus-triously fed with cordwood by two of the colonel's darkies.

"Where are the weapons?" demanded one of the challenger's seconds.
"Colonel Fitzhugh, as the challenged party, has the right to select the weap-ons," was the reply. "They will be produced at the proper time."

When the seconds agreed that the time for the duel had come Colonel Fitzhugh approached the pot, holding his hands behind him. The challenger, advancing in turn, demanded to know what the weapons were to be.

"Mr. Blank," said the colonel, "the ammunition is in the pot. The weapons are behind my back. This pot contains boiling pea soup. Here are two ladies. I propose to give you one of them, and I will keep the other. I propose that you take your stand on the other side of the pot and that we fling hot pea soup at each other until one or the other has had enough." "But this is ridiculous, sir, ridiculous!" exclaimed the other. "Not more ridiculous, sir," gently remonstrated Colonel Fitzhugh, "than your quarrel with me!"

The other saw the point, and they shook hands.

Concrete Well or Tank

THE FARMER, above all others, appreciates good water. He drinks more water than the city man. The city-dweller is dependent upon the public water-supply for the purity of his water, while the farmer can have his own private source of water, and thus be sure that it is pure and healthful.

MAN hasn't found a better drink than cool water, properly collected and stored. But in order to keep water fresh and pure, a tank or well casing that will keep out every possible impurity must be used.

CONCRETE IS THE IDEAL MATERIAL FOR TANKS AND WELL-CASINGS.

IT is absolutely water-tight, protecting your water from seepage of all kinds. It cannot rot or crumble. It is easily cleaned inside. Time and water, instead of causing it to decay, actually make it stronger.

Britain's Panama Protest.

Great Britain's friendly protest against the Panama Canal bill now before the U.S. Senate is receiving strong support in that country. Senators Root and Burton have taken the lead in oppossing the passage of a measure which plainly violates the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. The latter contains this explicit clause :-

"The canal shall be free and open to vessels of commerce and war of all nations observing these rules on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any nation or its citizens and subjects in respect of the conditions or charges of tariff or otherwise. Such charges shall be just and equitable.

A number of enterprising Congressmen propose to exempt certain American boats from all charges whatsoever. They argue that the United States has a perfect right to favor its own vessels doing business from coast to coast, and that this will not mean discrimination against the foreigner, because no competition will be involved. This threadbare fallacy is easily penetrated by the average newspaper reader. The important point is that it is a direct violation of an international pledge. The passage of the Bill will result in a speedy appeal to the Hague, and no one doubts that the decision of that tribunal would be a defeat for Uncle Sam. It is regrettable that friction of this kind should arise on the eve of the completion of this great achievement, which marks an epoch in the history of the world. Universal commerce will reap rich rewards from the inauguration of a new waterway which has been the dream of constructive enthusiasts for generations. It represents the supreme feat of latter day engineering, and in farthering it the United States takes another big step forward as a nation of progress.

DARK ROOM TESTING

Every child on reaching the age of seven years should have the eyes examed. Many children have defective vision, and it often happens that one eye only is affected. This throws all the work on the better eye while the other through disuse frequently loses its func-tion entirely. With proper lense correc-tion this trouble will be wholly overcome. If accompanied by parents we will be glad to examine children's eyes free of charge.

Lucky! That's how to express it. We were lucky in getting a slice of a big consignment of china and glassware that had been put on the market by two unfortunate overstocked chinaware and glass works.

For the first time in the history of this store we can offer you bargains in china and glassware that are, in most cases, worth many times what we ask. Come in to-day and let us show you some of the finest ware that ever came to this town. Every piece is up to date and the best that ever came out of a kiln,

Sudden Death of Sarnia Lady.

Sarnia, Aug. 19 .- Death came with terrible suddenness this morning to Mrs. Jane Elizabeth Ackerman, wife of Wilbert Ackerman, Grand Trunk conductor, at the family residence on Rusell street. Mrs. Ackerman arose at the usual hour and prepared breakfast. After the morning meal she went into one of the bedrooms to get her daughter's little baby, who was staying with her. The next seen of the infortunate woman she was dead, lying on the floor, having fallen face downwards on top of the little child. Medical aid was summoned but to no avail. Death was evidently due to heart disease. Mrs. Ackerman was aged fifty-two years, and leaves to mourn her loss a husband, two sons, Clarence and Ralph, and one daughter, Mrs. Albert Chambers. At the time of the accident Mr. Ackerman was away from home. Jane Elizabeth Ackerman, wife of Little Kenneth Mackey, aged three, was left alone in the rig. The same horse had run away a couple of weeks before, and in some way took fright again. It dashed down the lane facing the hotel and turned a steep and sharp curve up another road, above a precipice to the river. It was a miracle that the rig was not thrown down the hill. However, after turning, the buggy was overturned and the little boy hurled through a barbed wire fence near the location of the old cheese factory. The lad was picked up on the other side of the fence without any apparent injury, except a few scratches on the face and legs. Medical attendance was not necessary. attendance was not necessary

> Friend It Was to Be

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Bad luck had followed Joe Pebble for three years-in fact, ever since he had tired of the monotony of supporting his wife and her father on his wages as a cattle herder and had suddenly deserted them to follow the call of his old free life

He had simply disappeared to let them think what they would of him. He had left all the money that he possessed except a single silver dollar, and he had used his own horse to ride away from them.

Bad luck had followed him in his rovings. He had been unhappy in his freedom. His heart ached for the sweet companionship of Gertrude, his wife, and for the placid philosophy of the good natured old man, her father, Today he was riding down a ravine among the Tepee hills. Once more he was free. He had discharged himself from a ranch on the western side of the watershed and was riding forth on one of those strange, restless quests for new scenes which had become a habit with him since he had deserted his wife. Happiness he never expected to regain.

He drew rein there and looked through an opening down upon a pleasant alluvial plain dotted with cattle A low adobe ranch house was there surrounded by barns and a corral. Smoke wreathed up from a chimney. It looked very peaceful and pleasantthe sort of home he and Gertie had planned before. A lump came into his throat, and he brushed his brown hand across his wet eyes. Then his young face sank into those stern, brooding lines that had replaced the old careless expression.

Joe Tribble, as he called himself, rode on. A few yards farther on his horse stumbled and fell so suddenly that Joe was pitched over his head, to fall in a crushed heap among some rocks. He lay very still, while the horse scrambled to his feet, sniffed at his master's unconscious form and then limped away for assistance, whinnying pitifully.

Joe opened his eyes upon darkness. There was a bandage over his eyes, and he could see nothing, but he knew that he rested upon a soft bed. A large cool hand touched his wrist, and a finger pressed upon his pulse.

"Doctor," Joe huskily whispered.
"Aha!" said a mellow voice. /'Coming around, are you? Feel pretty well banged to pieces?"

"Pretty sore," admitted Joe. "What's the matter with my eyes?"

"You fell on a lot of broken rocks and got some splinters in your eyes. You can't come into the light until they've healed up a bit. Nothing to worry about; mere scratches. You have got a broken ankle, though."
"Where am I?" was Joe's next ques-

"At a ranch close by the spot where your horse threw you. Pretty intelli-gent beast, that horse! Came limping down here to the ranch and almost told Mr. Smith what had happened. You can bet he's well taken care of too!"

"Poor old Starbrow!" murmured Joe. Then, turning to the doctor, he asked in a low voice, "Where can I stay

"Oh, yes! You can't be moved until your ankle is better," said the doctor decisively.

The doctor left the room, and los heard him talking to some one in another room. There were other voices that seemed to vibrate strangely on his hearing. What memories of the past they revived! Whose voices did they resemble?

He tormented himself with these questions until he fell asleep from sheer exhaustion. He was awakened after a refreshing sleep by the sound of a pump handle creaking outside Shortly afterward a heavy, deliberate football entered his room, and he was conscious that some one was bending

"Well, stranger," said a deep, reso nent voice. "I reckon you're awake "Who are you?" was Joe's hurried question. There was a little pause before the answer came. "My name's Smith

"Nothing, only I thought it sounded -like-somebody I used to know.' murmured Joe, sinking back upon his pillow.

"I wonder if you wouldn't like me to help you outer those clothes you got on and get you into bed in a decent way?" went on the voice, and when Joe grate fully assented the owner of the voice helped him with a woman's tenderness to undress and clothed him in clean underwear and a clean coarse nightshirt.

"I'm mightily obliged to you, stranger," murmured Joe drowsily as he sank on his pillow after swallowing a "You're welcome," said the other olemnly, and, tiptoeing out, he closed the door.

Joe did not awake again until the next morning. He knew that the windows were wide open, for he breathed the fresh, sweet air, and he could hear the song of birds. His eyelids felt very stiff and sore, and he was grateful for the bandage that covered them. Mr. Smith came in presently and. after a pleasant greeting to the infured man, bathed his face and hands and brought some breakfast to him.

Joe bit into a hot corn mussin, and his hand fell upon the counterpane. He turned his blindfolded eyes toward the stranger. "Who made these muffins?" he asked in a choking voice.

There was a hesitating silence before Mr. Smith replied. Then. "My daughter made them," he replied.

"Your daughter! Why-who-excuse me," stumbled Joe, "but they are like those my wife makes, and I never tasted any others like 'em!" He hastily resumed his breakfast, and the portion of his face below the bandage glowed Mr. Smith said nothing.

When the doctor appeared he de-clared that Joe had a little fever, and he changed his medicine. Once more Joe heard three voices in consultation in the next room. He could now recognize Smith's voice and that of doctor, but the third one was that of a woman, pitched low and soft, and eluded his searching mind.

"Where have I heard that voice be fore?" he asked himself again and again as the days passed by, but the answer did not come-then.

During those long days and nights of pain and helplessness Joe Pebble had leisure to think over what he had done, and he resolved that when he recovered that he would go north again and endeavor to become reconciled to his wife and her father.

The thought of this coming journey did much to hasten his recovery. On the evening of this particular lay-a Sunday it was-he lay there alone in the room. Presently Smith came in and talked to him. They talked on various matters, and finally Joe told him about his former life in Wyoming and ended by confiding his sin to the old man. He told it all-of his wild longing for freedom, how he had fought it for days before making up his mind to leave his wife and how, after the irrevocable step had been taken, of the remorse he had suffered. "I think of them two helpless ones day and night," he groaned. "What has become of them? A coyote wouldn't have acted meaner'n I did. Don't God ever give folks a chance to make good when they've sinned?"

The elder man did not answer for a long time. Then he arose and bent over the bed for a brief instant. believe he does, son; I believe he will," he said solemnly, and Joe heard him pass from the room and close the door. From the room overhead he heard the murmur of voices long into the night. They were talking when he fell asleep, and once he started wide awake because he thought he heard a woman's sobs. "Don't cry, Gertie; ev-erything is all right," he murmured drowsily and went to sleep again. The next day the doctor came and removed the bandage.

After the doctor had gone Joe waited impatiently for Mr. Smith to come in. He was eager to see the face of the man who had been so kind to him. All at once a bulky form alled the doorway, and Mr. Smith's slow, deliberate step approached the bed. In the dim light Joe's eager eyes did not at first recognize him; then he sat bolt upright in bed and stared with whitening face into the kind, forgiving eyes of-his father-in-law. "Father!" he murmured brokenly and hid his face in his hands.

"Son!" said the older man solemnly, and he laid his hand upon Joe's dark hair in the old familiar caress, for the two had been very fond of each other.

"It has been you all along?" asked. Joe after awhile.

"Yes," said the other. And in a few words he told the repentant man that after his desertion Gertrude and he had left Wyoming and come down into Texas to start anew. The old man had a little money, with which he bought the ranch. They had never expected to see Joe again. When they recognized him in the injured stranger whom Starbrow had led them to they had hastily assumed the name of Smith for the time being.
"And Gertrude?" asked Joe brokenly.

"Can she remember me and believe me to become what she's worthy of?"
"I'm here, Joe!" came Gertrude's voice in answer.

Quaint Signposts.

In the neighborhood of Warmbrunn, in the Silesian Mountains, there are to be found some very curious signposts. One seen by a writer in The Wide World represents a farm laborer sharpening his scythe, on which is inscribed in the old Silesian dialect, (The Citerral Page 2019-2019). The "To Giers village, one hour." The signpost is well carved and painted in natural colors, so that it appears anne district represents a schoolbey carrying a slate bearing the name of the nearest village, toward which the boy is pointing.

Cows Tried For Murder. Old documents of the middle ages

tell us of numerous cases where ani-mals were put on trial for serious example, in 1370 three cows were tried for having killed a boy. The whole herd were arrested as accom-plices. Good Luck For Turtles at Least. The Chinese have a peculiar custom with regard to turtles, which they consider as very good joss. Almost any day one can see these creatures, some of them of huge size, being carried on board the river steamers, not to be on board the river steamers, not to be taken to Canton for culinary purposes, but to be dumped into the sea and restored to liberty and freedom. Good luck is thought to follow.

Ways of Making Household Duties Less Laborious.

CARE WHEN HEATING MILK.

Simple and Inexpensive Appliance That Will Prove Helpful to the Busy Laundress on Wash Day Is a Little Device With Two Wooden Rollers.

It is the little things in life that smooth the pathway of the workaday world, that make the important tasks seem less strenuous, the hard day's work less fatiguing.

If housekeepers would observe more closely the small helps in their department of the great scheme of things they would be very much more apt to take pleasure in their work instead of moaning and complaining about the eternal round of dull monotony which is necessary in the care of a house and home.

Here are a few things that may aid in making the pathway of some wom-an easier. One of them is to rinse with cold water the utensil in which milk is boiled before putting the milk in it, and there will be no sticking or scorching in the bottom of the nan.

When heating milk, however, care should be taken not to place it over the hottest part of the stove. Set it at one side so it will heat slowly and come to the boiling point gradually. If you are in a hurry, then put it over the hot part of the stove, but watch it constantly and stir frequently, or before you know it the milk will boil over and not only ruin the stove lids, but will make a very unpleasant odor all through the house

It is best always to add a pinch of salt to boiled milk.

The busy housekeeper will be glad to learn a quick and easy way to make candles fit into her candlesticks. Should the ends of the candles be too thick for the stick simply dip them in boiling water for a minute. The heat will melt the wax so it can easily be pushed firmly into the candlestick

For centuries women have bruised their knuckles on the ridges of the washboard, but this is no longer necessary. A convenient little device with two wooden rollers may be rubbed up and down over the clothes and washboard, and the knuckles will not be the least bit shiny, red or distorted after a day's washing.

Watercress a Tonic.

There is no green that is eaten with greater relish in the early spring, when the system craves such herbs as horseradish, watercress and dandelions. Not only is it useful as a tonic, but it makes a most appetizing garnish for meats and fish.

A wholesome dish is made with this green by boiling and serving like spinnach with egg dressing. It is also tasty as a salad combined with diced cucumber and French dressing. A savory cream soup is made by chopping finely two bunches of watercress and cooking for five minutes in two tablespoonfuls of butter, then adding two cupfuls of white stock and boiling for five minutes. Thicken with one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour cooked together, adding salt and pepper seasoning, and just before serving put in one-half cupful of milk and the yolk of one egg, slightly beaten. Serve with slices of French bread browned in the oven. Cress may also be used with diced cucumbers and French dressing to stuff tomatoes. The tomatoes should be peeled and placed on a bed of crisp lettuce. Sandwiches of white or whole wheat bread with crusts removed and the greens mixed with French dressing and filled between thin buttered slices and rolled make a tasty luncheon dish.

To Clean Wall Paper. The only way to clean your wall papers, according to a certain very house proud woman, is also a new way.

Boil a quart of water. Let it get cold. Boil it up again, and when quite boiling shave half a toilet sized cake of pure fine white soap into it. As soon as the soap is dissolved and while the water is still almost but not quite bolling stir in flour slowly until the whole is a thick paste. Let it

If the mixture is not now the conmake it so. Separate it into pieces top of the wall and work down in long parallel strokes. As the mixture be-comes soiled fold in the dirty part and begin again with a clean surface.

A Useful Invention.

A man has invented a stocking with a pocket in it. Now why did not some woman think of that long ago, as she has been using her stocking as a receptacle ever since pockets went out of

Boil one or two medium sized lob sters and pick to pieces when cold. To make the dressing for them beat the yolks of two raw eggs with one teaspoonful of salt, a pinch of red pepper, half a tablespoonful of powdered sugar and one teaspoonful of mustard moist ened with vinegar. Add gradually one cupful of olive oil. When quite thick whip in the strained juice of one lem-on. Beat five minutes before adding two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Just before serving add to the dressing a quarter of a cupful of sweet cream whipped to a froth, stir all well together, then into the lobster. Line a salad bowl with the crisp heart leave of lettuce, put in the seasoned meat and cover with a little more whipped cream. If a little more acid is liked four tablespoonfuls of vinegar may be

To Keep Milk.

A little carbonate of soda or fifteen grains of carbonate of magnesia put into a quart of milk will preserve it. Scalding by placing it in bottles or jugs in cold water and bringing it to the boil will also keep it. If the bottles are immediately corked when taken out of the boiling water the milk will keep some time, but should be used directly the bottles are uncorked.

For the Glue Bottle. To save trouble, after opening a bottie of glue or cement rub mutton tallow upon a sound cork before inserting it in the bottle.

Montreal Man So Ill With Dyspepsia Thought He Would Die.

No more convincing evidence was ever put on paper than the following letter from one of Montreal's well-known citizens. Mr. D. R. Larose, of 338 Joliette street.

"Permit me to write you a few words concerning Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for five years. I suffered so much that I could hardly attend to my work. I was weak and lost alt courage. I enjoyed no rest until I decided to follow your treatment. after having read your advertisement in the paper. To my great surprise I immediately began to feel better. I am now using the second box and I feel so well that I want to tell you that I owe this great change to your femous pills. I recommend them to every person who is suffering from dyspepsia. Your grateful servant, D. R. Larose, 328 Joliette st., Montreal, P.Q.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhœa, dysentry, cholera infantum, and stomach disorders come without warning and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the home where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will cure the baby. Mrs. Adelore Quillette, St. Bruno, Que., writes:—'My baby was troubled with his bowels, but Baby's Own Tablets soon set him right again.' The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Free Aid for the Blind.

The principal of the Ontario Institute for the Blind at Brantford has sent out a notice to the readers of this paper requesting the names of any children in this vicinity who are blind, or whose sight is to defective that they cannot be effectively taught in the public schools, together with the names and post office addresses of parents or guardians. The notice, in part, follows: "There are in every country many more blind adults than blind children, and the Institution at Brantford provides to all applicants free appliances by which the adult blind can be taught at their homes to read with their fingers. Children can be taught much more easily, and more thoroughly taught in the school for the blind."

Wintry Weather in England.

The weather is colder than in many Octobers, and the heavy. constant many Octobers, and the heavy. constant rain is ruining the crops and rotting vegetation. The holiday season, usually now at its height, is completely spoiled, and the seaside towns are almost deserted. The harvest has been delayed, and every day makes the rural outlook worse. The hay harvest, which promised to be a bumper one a month ago, is now absolutely ruined, and the hay lies dying on the ground. The wheat and barley crops will be the worst for a generation, while even the root crops are soddening under the constant rain. It's but seventy-two years since the first photographic portrait was made in America—a picture of Miss Dorothy Catherine Draper—made by her brother, Professor John William Draper, of the University of the City of New York. It took an exposure of five minutes in the full glare of the noon day sun.

To-day it takes but a frac-tion of a second, even in the softly modulated light of a studio. Clever photographers and fast plates and lenses have made having your picture taken a rather pleasant experience these days.
