CITY SCHOOLS TO CLOSE FOR THE SUMMER ON WEDNESDAY

Miss Rosalie Waterman Leads in the City Schools This Year—The Closing Exercises in the High School.

The pupils in the public schools are looking forward to Wednesday when their labors end and the summer vacation commences. The examinations are all over now and as soon as the papers have been finally gone over and the marks totaled, the graduating list will be published. The leader of the school this year is Miss Rosalie Waterman, a niece of one of the youngest girls in the class. She has led her class throughout the year and has shown herself a very bright and clever scholar. The race for second place is very close and the successful one will not be known until the marks have been totalled up. It is probable, however, that boys will be second, third and fourth in the order of standing. Last year the class leader was a girl, but in the two previous years, boys carried off the honor. The graduating class will number over sixty, which is about the average. The winners of medals will be announced after the matriculation results are made known in August. About thirty of the graduates will take the matriculation "exams," which commence on July 7. The result will determine the winners of the Corporation gold medal for leaders and the Parker silver medal for mathematics. The competition for the Governor-General's bronze medal in Grade X, for general excellence has ten competitors. Fourteen scholars in Grade IX, have written papers for the prize in English donated by the Fortnightly Club. Both these examinations were concluded today, but the results will not be made known until August when all will be announced at the same time. The High School entrance examinations closed last week, about 250 writing papers, and the result of their efforts will be known about June 20th.

APPARENTLY EASTMAN'S DEATH NOT SOLE MYSTERY OF MRS. WOODHILL'S MURDER

Coroner's Inquest Will Be Resumed Today and it is Felt That There is Still Much to Be Cleared up—Various Theories as to Eastman's Guilty or Innocence

St. Michael, M. D., June 28.—The coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Edith May Woodhill will be resumed today with several of the jurors still convinced that there was a large element of truth in the letter left by "Lame Bob" Eastman, the fugitive broker and suicide, who declared that there had been a party in his bungalow, and that Mrs. Woodhill had been attacked with a champagne bottle and slain by a jealous woman.

It is not believed now that a definite verdict will be rendered by the jury and it is certain no matter what may be the outcome of today's sitting of the inquest, investigation of the tragedy will be carried forward by the law officers of the state and county, with undiminished energy. Theories as to how, where and why the murder was committed are borne upon every wind. They are built up and thrown down at random. The authorities give credence to a report circulated last night that Eastman tried to induce Mrs. Woodhill to elope to Europe with him, and that she killed her when she refused. This report went on to say that Eastman's hiding place had been discovered and that it was necessary for him again to take flight. As a matter of fact Eastman was in financial straits and did not have money enough to take himself to Europe, to say nothing of Mrs. Woodhill. There are no indications that Eastman's identity was about to be discovered by the authorities. The Baltimore police had not thought the fugitive from justice in New York state. Prior to the murder, Eastman's neighbors would have been prepared to doze him against any imputation of his character, but after all is said, the striking fact remains that Eastman, following the murder, for which he claimed in the letter that he was not responsible, came to Baltimore and pawned the jewels of the woman. Returning to the bungalow after pawnning Mrs. Woodhill's jewelry, Eastman joked with his acquaintances, showed them a roll of bills which he had secured, and conducted himself in the coolest possible manner. He showed no trace of excitement, until after the identity of the body became known and he was told that he had better not leave the country. It is said that he made his plans to escape. The members of the coroner's jury who believe that there is truth in Eastman's letter, are anxious that the mystery of the launch containing two women and three men which was seen coming out of Broad Creek, on which the bungalow is located, shall be cleared up. Three wise and two whiskey glasses which had been used, were found in the bungalow subsequent to the investigations into the identity of persons seen in the launch coming out of Broad Creek on Sunday may lead to an arrest at any moment.

A WOMAN HANGED HERSELF IN JAIL

Tragedy in the Calais Lock-up Saturday or Yesterday—Woman Prisoner Hanged Herself in Her Cell

Calais, Me., June 28.—(Special)—A woman from Milltown named Etta Dinmore committed suicide by hanging in the Calais lock-up Saturday or Sunday. She had been arrested for disorderly conduct in company with "Dingie McDonald," of Milltown, B. and was placed in the woman's cell where she was found a short time afterwards hanging from the bars of the lock-up by means of a rope made from strips of a blanket. She was alive when cut down but died Monday morning. She was about forty years of age. The residence of Robert Mitchell was destroyed by fire early Monday morning caused by the overturning of a lamp. The loss is estimated at $800 with partial insurance.

MORE TROUBLE IN THE NEW WATER SUPPLY

City for Next Few Days Will Get Water from Little River, Owing to Break in Lake Lattimer Pipe

Water troubles are coming thick and fast these days. The repairs to the break in the main at the Marsh Bridge were completed this morning, but now comes word from the portals of the fatherly's domain the lights were extinguished by one fell swoop. He seated himself and as an eye more serious trouble that will necessitate a return to old-time conditions with the Little River reservoir as a source of supply. It was found this morning that a large piece of the concrete pipe running from Lake Lattimer to the Meakins-McVey section of the Little River reservoir again called into requisition. It will probably be some days before repairs are made, and in the meantime the pressure will probably be considerably below the normal.

DIED IN HIS PULPIT
Rev. Thos. S. Vanwart, of Hartland, N. B., Expired Suddenly Yesterday Morning

Rev. Thos. S. Vanwart, the second oldest Baptist clergyman in New Brunswick, died in the pulpit of the Hartland United Baptist church on Sunday morning. The topic of his address at the prayer services was redemption, and in the midst of the discourse he expired and fell. Death is attributed to heart failure. He has been in poor health for some months past. He was born in Hampstead in 1828 and was ordained in 1853. He was forty years in active service. He was thrice married, and his third wife survives with four daughters and one son, F. S., of Calgary.

Rev. J. A. Mosher
Halifax, June 28.—(Special)—Rev. J. A. Mosher, aged 77 years, a retired minister of the Methodist Church, died at Windsor this morning. Goldwin P. Stockton, came in at noon on the Montreal train. Father Carleton, of Peterville, Quebec, county arrived in the city today at noon. Capt. and Mrs. Chayne wish to thank their many friends for the kind and loving sympathy in their bereavement. The mayor and a committee from the school board will visit the manual training and domestic science school this afternoon. The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Salter was held this afternoon from her late home, 181 Princess street. Service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Flanders and Rev. R. W. Weddall and interment was in Cedar Hill. The body of Mrs. Mary Nagle came in from Boston at noon. Accompanying it were her husband, Martin Nagle, her mother, Mrs. George Magee, and David Nagle. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2:30 from her mother's residence, 157 City Road.

WASH WINDOWS IN PROPER TIME
Several prominent citizens have complained to the mayor about the windows in the city. The matter will probably be dealt with at the meeting of the board of works tomorrow afternoon. If there is not now a law governing the practice, it is probable that a law will be placed on the books making it compulsory to wash windows before 8 o'clock in the morning or after sunset at night. Who mentioned chloride of lime was compelled to apologize. CIVIC CATECHISM Why is the long grass permitted to grow in the Old Burial Ground? Because it refuses to stop growing. How can you tell when asphalt is of the right consistency for a sidewalk? Get a hen to walk over it. If she leaves the print of her feet the asphalt is hard enough for use. Why were the dandelions who went to board the street cars? Because that was what they wanted to do. When will the water department have

TROUBLE EXPECTED ON PITTSBURG CAR LINES

Strike is Not Settled Yet and Clash Between Strikers and P. is Feared—Will Keep Order Any Cost

Pittsburg, Pa., June 28.—Following three joint conferences last night between officials of the Pittsburg Railway Co. and National President Mahon, of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway employes and the district grievance committee, all negotiations looking towards the termination of the street car strike in greater Pittsburg were declared off and therefore the strike now is on in earnest. Mayor Magee, however, is making an effort to bring about a speedy settlement, and to that end has invited the traction officials and leaders of the striking employes to meet in his offices this forenoon to discuss the questions at issue. Beginning this morning bunks were placed in all the car barns to house the strike breakers expected here during the day. Officials of the company say they are prepared to protect those who take the place of striking motormen and conductors. The police have announced that reserves are now on duty at all precinct stations ready for immediate service. The sheriff has already sworn in deputies and has placed men at the various car barns throughout the city. The sheriff's action followed a receipt of a communication from President Mahon of the car company, calling the sheriff's attention to the fact that the car company would hold the County of Allegheny responsible for loss of property at the hands of the strikers.

FRIENDS WILL GIVE BANQUET TO DR. INCH
Retiring Chief Superintendent of Education Will Be Entertained in Fredericton.

Fredericton, June 28.—(Special)—Friends of Dr. Inch, the retiring chief superintendent, will tender him a complimentary banquet at the Queen Hotel Friday evening. Governor Tweedie has consented to preside. D. H. Waterbury, of the Public Works department, is here today, and will recommend a concrete driveway and sidewalk in front of the post office. Miss Bernice Jamieson, of Hopewell Cape, who was for some time employed at the U. S. millinery, is expected here, leaving today for Calgary to meet her fiancé, Chas. Card, formerly of Albert county. They will be married in the latter part of the week and reside in Calgary.

IT SMELLS TO HEAVEN
Warm Weather Finds the Rodney Wharf Dump Especially Active

There is an evil smelling dump at the head of Rodney wharf, West end, near the corner of Union and Rodney streets, in the vicinity of the fountain, that is a crying disgrace. On Saturday and Sunday, when the heat was intense, the odor was something awful. That such a condition of things should be allowed to continue reflects small credit on the city. It is a fine hot bed for disease. It is understood this "plague spot" has already been reported to the Board of Health, and should be attended to at once. In its present condition it smells to heaven.

DROWNED WHILE CANOEING
Fort William, Ont., June 28.—(Special)—The twenty-year-old bride of J. Loughan and her brother, Wm. Ward, were drowned in the Kaministiquia River, about five miles above Katabeka Falls, on Saturday. Mr. Loughan, his wife and brother-in-law went out for a canoeing party. Not only is the river at this point very deep, but the current is very swift, and while Mr. Ward was changing his paddle from one hand to the other, the current swung the little craft around and it capsized. Mr. Loughan supported his wife until she became unconscious, and the eddies swept the woman from his arms. He was rescued by two men just as he was going down for the last time. His Lordship Bishop Casey went out to Riverside, Albert county, at noon.

Worse Than The Jungle
An American citizen who was at Seaside Park yesterday afternoon sent a cable this morning to Roosevelt in Africa, urging him to come at once to St. John. "There is nothing in the jungle," said the cable, "to compare with the struggle of the animals at Seaside Park to get on board the street cars."

THE HARVEST AT HAND
The Rodney street dump was a great attraction yesterday. Thousands who crossed the ferry remarked to each other as they passed that an outbreak of fever might be expected at almost any time. The intense heat of Saturday developed the germs in the decayed matter to a quite remarkable extent, and the odor was extremely active and pervasive. To nostrils not accustomed to dumps there was almost too much strength in it. The people of the west side are confident that they will have a fine outbreak of fever by the time tourist travel has reached large proportions. A physician who mentioned chloride of lime was compelled to apologize.

PRINCESS ZARA
BY ROSSBEECKMAN.

"Alexander was also a coward, and he proved it then. He thought that his hour had come, and that a just vengeance for all the lives that he had taken, was about to fall upon him.

"Do not shoot," he pleaded. "You shall have any demand you wish to make. Everything you desire shall be granted. You only laugh at him.

"Do you know who I am?" you cried.

"No," he replied. "Who are you?"

"You told him your name, and he covered lower in his chair, begging for mercy as a hungry dog begs for food; and all the time you laughed, repeating at every pause he made, those words so terrible for him to hear: 'I have come to kill you because you killed Yvonne.'

"Once he attempted to leave his chair, but you warned him to remain seated. You rehearsed the evils he had done, and was doing. You told him of the night when your sister was arrested. You related how the police had invaded her room. You went over, again, the story of your pleading with him. You described how he had turned the buttons from your coat and disgarded you because you loved your sister. You left no detail unrecited concerning that time of weary waiting you had undergone, while seeking tidings of your sister. You described the long journey to Saphallen, and the appointments that awaited you when you arrived. And all the time he cringed lower and lower in his chair, expecting each moment that you would work your will into the additional frenzy that was necessary to make you pull the trigger of your weapon. Ah, you made him suffer tortures such as he never endured, before or since, even if you did not succeed in killing him. Then, slowly, and with due earnestness, you related the story of the months of wandering over Siberia searching for Yvonne, and finally you came to the climax, where you told of her discovery and her death, at your own hands. You had approached her nearer to his dismembered body. Twice there had been a summons at the door of the cabinet, but each time frustrated by your pistol, she had ordered that he was not to be disturbed. Now, as you came to the end of all you had to say, as you told how you had returned to St. Petersburg, and why you had waited so long before the killing, hoping also to put the pistol almost in Alexander's face, and with a loud laugh of exultation—for you were mad, then, mad—you pulled the trigger.

CHAPTER XVII.
Love, Honor and Obedience.

The princess paused and bent her head until it almost touched me. I waited, wondering how it could be that the case still lived. When death was so near, within a few inches of his face, what could have saved him?

"Hush!" she continued. "The end is not yet—not quite yet. You pulled the trigger, but the charge in the pistol did not explode. That is what you thought, when you leaped backward and raised the hammer for another trial. But it was not so. The charge in the pistol was not exploded; the pistol was not loaded. Your poor mind, so overburdened all, and you had not prepared your weapon for the work it had to do. You discovered your error too late; but the case had recovered it also."

"He was bigger and stronger than you. With a bound he was upon you. He seized the pistol and tore it from your grasp, and then, while he held you—for you were still weak and he always was a giant—he struck you with it, bringing it down again and again upon your unprotected head, until your brains were battered out, and were scattered upon every floor, the walls, and even the ceiling of the room. And then, when you were quite dead, killed by the hand of the czar himself, when he for once in his life was spattered with real blood, with blood that he had shed in person and not by deputy. His Imperial Majesty staggered to the door, called for assistance, and fainted."

Again she left me, this time crossing the room and throwing herself upon a couch where she cried softly, like one who has an incurable sorrow which must at times break out in tears. After all, tears are the safety valves of nervous expansion and there are times when they save the heart and the brain from bursting. I knew that, and I left her to herself. But I also believed that she had not yet told me quite all; that there must be a sequel to this, and I was soon to hear it.

Panel effects are the craze this season, and the long lines given by these trimmings are in every case exceedingly becoming. On this pretty little frock for a small girl, embroidery insertion is used in combination with lace to form a vest and panel effect, this panel being carried out over the shoulders by the bretelles of embroidery edging. PURSE OF $800 IS GIFT TO FR. O'DONOVAN FROM PEOPLE OF CHURCH OF ASSUMPTION

Silver Jubilee of Popular West Side Clergyman Was Celebrated Yesterday—Recognition of His Good Work by Congregation.

In honor of the completion of twenty-five years in the priesthood, Rev. J. J. O'Donovan yesterday was made the recipient of a purse of $800 and an address from the congregation of the Church of the Assumption, Carleton. The presentation took place at vespers after the Benediction and was presided over by Father O'Donovan in an eloquent and forceful address, in which he referred to the pleasant relations which had always existed between himself and his people, and their many acts of generosity and kindness.

"You know it, you know it," she cried. "Tell me how you know it?"

"I guessed it only just now. I guessed it from the expression of your eyes when you greeted him last night, that is, coupling that expression with the recital of his many acts of generosity and kindness. He is a nihilist. He has just returned to the city. All these years he has been absent, and had Stanislaus waited for his coming, your story, and mine, would have had a different ending. But Stanislaus did not wait. The man you mean is Captain Alexis Dumrie."

ness during the years he had been among them.

A very large congregation was present at the presentation of the purse. Father O'Donovan from other parts of the city. Special music was rendered by the choir. The address, which was read by Rev. J. J. O'Donovan, chairman of the committee, was as follows:

Reverend and Dear Father:

We, the members of the Parish of the Assumption, feel that we could not allow the 25th anniversary of your ordination to the priesthood to pass without giving public expression of our love and respect for you as a faithful priest and of our loyalty to you and appreciation of your services as our pastor for upwards of twenty years.

Carleton has always had energetic and devoted priests. The people have always been cognizant of that fact. We feel that you are the peer of any of your predecessors, and that none will hold a more enduring memory in our hearts, or leave more substantial evidence of untiring industry and faithful discharge of duty. We have many proofs to show that the highest esteem in which you are held by your parishioners is shared by members of other denominations.

You have always been most attentive to the sick, and ever on hand to bring spiritual consolation to the last hours of the dying, and comfort to their sorrowing friends. The fatherly interest you have always manifested in your spiritual children, either to encourage the struggling, reprove the wayward or reclaim the erring, has earned a gratitude and affection that will remain as long as life endures.

The erection of the beautiful parochial residence, the well kept grounds and building continued us of your good taste and executive ability. Never was that ability put to a greater test than when the lightning stroke deprived us of our church with which so many fond associations were entwined. When we despaired, your fortitude recalled our courage. Again we took heart and felt that with you as a leader we would be able to surmount any difficulties.

The result has shown that our trust had not been misplaced, as we have now this beautiful stone church which is not only a model of comfort but an ornament to the west side and an object of admiration to everyone who passes by.

Your genial manner and kindly disposition have won you popularity throughout

ICE BLOCKS THE BELLISLE STRAITS

Pilot Back From Attempt to Navigate Them; Reports Hundreds of Bergs

North Sydney, N. S., June 27.—Captain Saul Bonnell, who went as pilot on the government steamer Minto on her trip to the Marconi stations the Strait of Belle Isle, has just returned to North Sydney and reports the straits still almost blocked with ice.

The Minto went as far north as Belle Isle, and had considerable difficulty in forcing her way through the ice, especially at the northern end of the strait, where hundreds of immense bergs were met with.

Captain Bonnell states that in his many years experience in Newfoundland waters he has never seen such great quantities of ice at this season of the year. It will be at least a month before the Belle Isle route will be available for transatlantic steamers.

DROWNED IN THE LACHINE CANAL

Montreal Man Leaped in to Escape Police and Perished

Montreal, June 27.—A remarkable drowning fatality occurred in the Lachine canal on Friday night, details of which transpired today. Alfred Charette, one of a party of merry-makers who were disturbing the peace on the bank, jumped, fully dressed, into the canal to avoid arrest when police pointed down on the revelers. He was not seen again, and the police thought he reached the other side of the canal and escaped in the darkness. Today, however, Charette's body was found floating in the water. He was an expert swimmer.

EAST WIND ENDS SIX DAYS OF RECORD HEAT

Boston, June 27.—The six hottest consecutive days in June ever recorded by the Boston weather bureau came to an end last night and today with a cool east wind and a maximum mercury twelve degrees lower than yesterday's. The six days of terrific heat, when the mercury soared from 80 to 97, resulted in thirteen deaths and 175 prostrations in Boston, while hundreds of men, women and children were forced to sleep in the public parks and even on the bridges over the city.

The mercury today stood at 78 degrees while the east wind, with a velocity from eight to twelve miles an hour, made the day delightful.

LASTING CLOTHES BRUSH

Brushes Made From Palmetto

Imagine a clothes brush that lasts a lifetime! That is the claim made for the palmetto brush, seen frequently in the South. They are not, of course, of the market. If they were the brushmakers would have to quit after supplying the country.

They are made in round and square forms, for bath use and clothes cleaning, and a coarse variety may serve as a broom. Novelty and souvenir shops in the Southern coast resorts dispose of many of them to visitors, the price ranging from a quarter to a half dollar. Brushes and holder are all one. By coming out of the woody portions for half an inch from the bottom, the hard fibres remain and constitute the bristles. They can't come out.

On the Pacific coast the redwood bark is sometimes two and a half feet thick. Its color is a rich red brown, and when cut up into hand brushes it has a velvety feel, and is particularly useful for smoothing out silk hats. It isn't every community that finds its brushes growing on trees.—Harbersdasher.

J. S. BACHE & CO. ON THE MARKET

The Outcome of the Crop is the One Development to be Watched for Assurance of Prosperity.

New York, N. Y., June 28—Mr. Hamilton, just having crystallized attention upon the outcome of the crop as the one development to be watched, for assurance of a most prosperous and since then observers of conditions have taken on the attitude of the farmer intent upon daily weather happenings and prospects. The reason for this is apparent: the granaries of the great agricultural states are swept clean of wheat, and many mills have not enough to keep them going until the new crop comes on. At no time since statistics have been carefully compiled has the supply of wheat been so near exhaustion as this year.

The new wheat will begin to move from Kansas shortly. The yield from that state is estimated anywhere from sixty-five to eighty millions, compared with seventy-five millions last year. The total winter wheat crop will, on account of the large area abandoned during the winter, be considerably less than last year. Spring wheat prospects are excellent, and should not happen in the way of supply, the total out-turn may be sufficient to supply domestic needs, and leave some millions for export.

It would not be unusual to have a crop scare over the spring wheat is made, and either this or wet weather in the southwest during the early part of next month might send the signal for a rapid advance in wheat prices, and a sympathetic decline in the stock market. Whatever may happen to wheat, however, it should not be forgotten that a bumper crop is in prospect—perhaps the largest ever given.

While the stock market has been experiencing a reaction which amounted to about four points' average, business throughout the country has been steadily progressing, and fundamental conditions continue sound. We are drifting toward the period when summer dullness should set in, and while the security market acts generally favorable conditions have been possibly more than offset by the pressure of the tariff settlement. The tariff settlement is still further added to by the introduction of the corporation tax matter, and it will evidently be some time before business is relieved of this undoubtedly hampering condition. Small merchants are waiting for immediate needs until the question of future prices controlled by the tariff is thoroughly settled, and as a consequence—except in the case of the large corporations—trade must depend upon the daily wants of the masses. General stocks of shares will not begin until next year.

Further changes in the railroad map—some of them long ago arranged—have still some after the fact to be announced. Whether this will be done now—or gradually—or later on, it is impossible to say. The condition of the bond market shows that investors are waiting, and not as is nearly always the case anticipating a July disbursement of money. These disbursements are this year figured at $188,000,000. The recent reaction in the case of the bonds has only been partially recovered, affords some opportunity for better buying than for some time back. But investors, as indicated by correspondence throughout the country, regard stock prices as much too high; and whether or not with any real reasons, are confidently waiting for a substantial break. The safe alternative is to buy on the way down, and in the trading market which is now prevailing, this may be as good a method for the speculator as well. This, however, is advice which is commonly taken by the investor, but rarely by the speculator, who prefers to buy on a rising market.

The facts are that good margins, around present levels, are likely later on to give good accounts of themselves, if held through any amount of temporary depression.

Another Case in Which Dr. Hamilton's Pills Saved a Life That Physicians Despaired Of

What a pitiful sight it is to see a handsome man being grided up by a disease that attacks the stomach and bowels. Such cases are frequent—the one here described being that of E. P. Lascelles, a well known Printer's Supply man, residing in Hamilton. "About six months ago I began to notice a worm, tired feeling coming over me. I was unable to shake it off. It was not the fatigue that follows hard work—it was a sort of unaccountable feeling that assailed me. I was anxious to work but didn't have the energy. Something was dragging me down, robbing me of my health and spirits. I got tired of taking prescriptions that did me no good, and used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Their action soon proved to me that I was suffering from a terribly congested liver and acute indigestion. Dr. Hamilton's Pills brought back my appetite, cured the heavy pain in my side and back, gave me a new grip on life. I gained in weight and now I am stronger, look better, work better than ever before. I was convinced, Dr. Hamilton's Pills really cured me. They cleanse, purify, tone, strengthen—make the sick well, give this grand medicine a fair trial. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all druggists, or The Catarthozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

AMENDMENTS TO U. S. TARIFF ARE STILL BEING DISCUSSED

(From our Regular Correspondent.) Washington, D. C., June 24—At the conference at the White House on Tuesday evening, composed of the president, Secretary Knox, the attorney general, Senator Payne, Representative Dwigitz, the Republican whip, and the Republican members of the finance committee of the senate, was considered the proposed amendments to the tariff bill, now popularly known as the corporation tax, and it met with the cordial and unanimous approval of all present at the conference. The principal features of the amendment have been decided on by a few slight changes were needed to perfect the draft. In brief, it provides that the tax of two per cent on the net earnings of all corporations, each of which is required to submit a complete statement of its gross net earnings, interest due on bonds, etc., except that the first $5,000 of such net earnings shall be exempt from taxation. Corporations are required to pay such tax on their net earnings funds sufficient to pay the interest on bonds not in excess of their capital stock, except that this does not apply to debenture or income bonds, or to bonds into which the capital stock of the corporation has been converted. National and state banks are subject to the tax, except that in the case of national banks there shall be deducted from the income tax they are required to pay such amount as they have paid already as taxes on their circulation. The secretary of the treasury is empowered to order an investigation into the affairs of any corporation which is suspected of any attempt to evade the tax. All returns made by corporations must show of course the gross and net earnings of the corporation, and the interest due on bonds, and must be sworn to. The corporation tax will become effective immediately and there will be no time limitation as was proposed some time ago.

THE NAVAL PAGEANT

The Times prints today a stirring article by Mr. E. W. McCready, editor of the Telegraph conveying his impressions of the great naval review at Spithead; and with it an article by John Leyland, in the London Chronicle, describing in some detail that which stirred the hearts of the press representatives from the overseas states. It was the greatest fleet ever assembled in the world's history. Eighteen miles of fighting ships, fully armed and manned, took part in a great pageant and mimic battle arranged by the lords of the admiralty. Even Englishmen, accustomed to naval pageants, were conscious of a new sensation on that day. This is well indicated by the following paragraph by Mr. Arnold White, in the London Chronicle:—"As eighteen miles of well-chosen arguments in favor of peace were being through the Solent sea, I think we were all conscious of a note vibrating in this inspection or review that was unfamiliar. At all events, I don't remember on any previous sea pageant what children call the 'funny feeling' that came when looking at the Australians and the other kinsmen watching the lines of ships stretching from Spithead to the Bosphorus."

THE CABLE QUESTION

In view of the resolutions adopted by the imperial press conference on the question of a state-owned system of communication between the different parts of the empire, announced in Saturday's papers, a review of the situation as set forth in the Canadian Annual Review for 1908 will be of great interest to Canadian readers. It is comprehensive and enables the reader who has not paid much attention to the subject to become acquainted with some salient facts. "Toward the close of the year (1908) a sudden impetus was given to the question of cheaper empire cable. Mr. Henniker Heaton, M. P., on Nov. 10th read a paper before the Royal Colonial Institute on a penny-a-word cable. It was a rather vivid address, as the speaker was advertising cheaper world-cables at the same time. The Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Canadian postmaster-general, was the succeeding speaker, however, and in a few words he gave a turn to the subject which created wide interest and discussion. He said:—"Imperial penny-postage was established for this very purpose of unity. We must in the field of science, speculation and literature commune with each other. The intellectual preference idea was conceived and shared by the whole world. As a Canadian I am personally and chiefly concerned with what I think Canada might do for herself and the empire of which she forms so important a part. Canada's interest is defined by her geographical position. Lying as she does in the western hemisphere, Canada is the link joining Canada and Australia. The All-Red line will be one instalment in the right direction. Would not an All-Red cable be another? Let me point out that confining herself within the limits of the British empire, Canada has had a principal share in the great movement which resulted in the Pacific cable. This cable, owned by the governments of Great Britain, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, is operated under the direction of a board, made up of representatives of these governments. The mere announcement of this new cable caused a drop in the rates of the eastern cables from 90 to 84 per cent, and when the cable was laid there was a further drop to 36, thus practically saving the consumers by this last reduction $1,000,000 a year. Without dwelling at any length on what can be done on the Atlantic side between Canada and Great Britain, I venture to say that still more hopeful results can be achieved. "Cable companies and United States interests took up the discussion of the subject, and Mr. Lemieux's proposal was dealt with very seriously. In Canada it was generally approved. On Dec. 11th the Lord Mayor of London presided over an important meeting at the Mansion House to consider the subject, and among those present were the Duke of Argyll, Lord Milner, Lord Strathcona, the Earl of Jersey, the colonial agents-general, and Messrs. Lemieux, Fisher and Borden of the Canadian government. Mr. Lemieux, after a tribute to Sir Sandford Fleming in this connection, said:—"From what I read in the daily press of the United Kingdom very little information is given concerning the dominions beyond the seas. The life, opinions and aspirations of our fellow-subjects in both hemispheres should be known to us, and they practically are, a closed book. We should be more particularly concerned with a state-owned cable service across the Atlantic. It is the logical sequence of the establishment of a Pacific cable. This one step would be of incalculable importance. It is a feasible scheme and one that could be worked on a paying basis. Britain and her premier colony should lead and not follow. A state-owned cable across the Atlantic would immediately lower the charges 50 per cent. It is believed there would eventually be a uniform charge not exceeding ten cents a word. It would immediately bring charges on messages between England, New Zealand and Australia to half the present exorbitant rates. It would be a harbinger of a pan-Britannic cable and telegraph system encircling the globe. "The support of the Fisher government in Australia was announced and a resolution was passed calling upon the imperial government to summon a conference of empire postal authorities to discuss the question of state-owned and controlled cables. Everywhere, Mr. Lemieux described the Pacific cable as a success, and its rates as having been reduced, so far from $2.25 to 75 cents a word, as between Great Britain and Australia. "As stated in Saturday's papers, the offer is now made of a still further reduction in the Pacific cable rates. How much more, therefore, would a state-owned cable reduce the Atlantic rates. And as Mr. Ross of Ottawa has pointed out, the world cable does not convey the whole story. There is the wireless telegraph to be taken into the reckoning. "The Standard vainly tries to break the force of the correspondence which shows that Premier Hazen is responsible for at least a year's delay in the matter of the Valley Railway. What is Mr. Hazen doing about it now? Has he displayed any recent anxiety concerning it? "Lord Bessford and Lord Esher agree that Canada should have a local navy. This will sadly disconcert those Conservatives who have been shouting for Dreadnoughts and denouncing the Canadian government for lack of sympathy with the mother country in regard to naval defence. "If Hon. Mr. Morrissey should withdraw from the House, cabinet there would be much Conservative rejoicing. It may be hoped, however, that physical infirmity will not force him out of public life. "The Liberal convention this evening to select the man who will defeat Mr. Mosher is an affair of the country, but all Liberals are interested in the outcome. BEAUTY OF THE MORNING

O, beauty of the morning! It shows its splendour down From the crimson robes of sunrise, the aure mountain-crown; It smiles amid the waving fields, it dapples the streams; It breathes its sparkling music through the rapture of our dreams. It floats upon the limpid air in rainbow clouds of mirth; It ripples through the glowing skies in pearl; It gleams in every burnished pool, it riots through the grass; It splashes waves of glory on the shadows to their pass. It steals among the nodding trees, and to the forest crown; It wails its plaintive, 'neath wailing plenniluns; It crows on the wooded brake, the hills and tangled ferns— A world of life and mystery—swarm with its trembles in the perfumed breeze, and a thousand light-winged choristers pant forth their orisons: A thousand echoes clap their hands, and from their dewy beds A million scarlet-throated flowers peer forth with startled heads. O, beauty of the morning! It rains upon the spheres; From planeted wood and leafy vale its tune— Till all the earth is drenched in light. And all the world in song.—Eliza Safford.

HERE FOR LEE CHU Verdict After Systematic Hunt is That Wily Chinaman is Not in City. In consequence of a report that the Chinese, Lee Chu, who recently disappeared from Halifax, had reached St. John, detectives of the Canadian Detective Bureau have been keeping a close watch on all Chinese in the city during the last two days but no trace of the missing Lee Chu has been found. The Bureau is offering a reward of $50 for his capture. L. J. Ehlers, superintendent in Montreal, who is in charge of the search, is in the city and will return to Montreal today. Speaking of the affair yesterday, he said every Chinaman's place had been visited and he thought the report that Lee Chu was heading for St. John was merely a scheme to throw the detectives off the track. He doubted whether the missing Celestial had left Halifax. Lee Chu, he said, is now wanted in Montreal on the charge of subornation of perjury and also has fines to the amount of some thousands of dollars against him for selling cocaine. It is claimed by Mr. Ehlers that Lee Chu was recently in jail in Halifax on a civil charge trumped up by another Chinese to enable him to avoid arrest under a warrant and that he was aided in his escape by a constable. Lee Chu is described as about forty-five years of age and weighing 150 pounds. He dresses in European style and speaks fluent English. His hair, which is silver grey, is cut short and he wears a grey moustache. In appearance he is more like a Japanese.

CHINAMAN TEASED BY OTTAWA CROWD SLASHES A BOY

Ottawa, June 27.—A row between some boys and a Chinaman created some excitement in Ottawa tonight. A number of Chinese were standing on a street corner when some youngsters began pelting them with gravel. One of the Chinese rushed at them and drawing a knife slashed a light wound. One of the Chinese blew a whistle, and within a few minutes there were fifty of his countrymen on the spot. A crowd of several hundred whites gathered and for a time it looked as if there would be serious trouble. The Chinese, who cut the lad, disappeared and his example was shortly followed by the others. The police say that the Chinese look so much alike that they have little hopes of apprehending the offender.

JURY RETURNS A VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DROWNING

Conflicting Evidence is Given at Inquest Into Death of Frederick L. Robinson—Life Belts are Recommended on Yachts

At the coroner's inquest into the death of Frederick L. Robinson, held at Westfield on Saturday afternoon, after hearing some rather conflicting evidence the jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Mr. Sinclair said he heard some one enquire if the anchor of the yacht was broken but was informed that it was not. A cap which had dropped overboard drifted toward the salmon boat and the witness asked Robinson to secure it. The latter got the cap with his pike pole and gave it to Sinclair. A few seconds later the witness heard a splash and saw Robinson in the water.

MR. E. W. MCCREADY'S IMPRESSIONS OF THE GREAT NAVAL SPECTACLE

Daily Telegraph's Editor Writes for London Mirror a Pen Picture of a Spectacle Never Equalled in History—John Leyland Also Writes Description of Stirring Scene.

(London Daily Mirror, June 14). The delegates to the Imperial Press Conference attended the great fleet review arranged in their honor at Portsmouth on Saturday, and one of them, E. W. McCready, has given the Daily Mirror his impressions of the great spectacle, which will be found below.

Mr. McCready, who comes from St. John's, New Brunswick, and is editor of The Daily Telegraph there, was a war correspondent during the Spanish-American war, and therefore has had some experience of the work of fleets.

All the world, most of all, the British peoples overseas, will be quick to seize the significance of the picture of power spread on the grey, rain-plashed canvas at Portsmouth on Saturday, when the imperial press delegates saw for themselves, and for the dominions whose eyes they stir, the striking power of the empire, concentrated, sombre, ready.

Yet had Nelson taken his old place on the Victory's quarterdeck after his guns had saluted the admiralty flag, clapped his glass to his good eye and swept the sea before him, it occurs to one overseas observer that he might have been struck by the absence of something, and have gazed expectantly.

For there was good anchorage space and to spare beside and beyond that mighty fleet, even though it presented an unbroken parallel; and one did not find without the surmise that Nelson would have expected to discern, steaming in through the seaward gate, the auxiliary fleets of Canada, of Australia, of New Zealand, of the Cape. One's eyes were not plunged down to holding ground, and the sailor of sailors had seen that one and all had paid his shot, seawards, in the current imperial salute of the hour, one thinks that the great figure here conjured up would have shut his telescope and smiled content. His was the great heart of the empire, concentrated, sombre, ready.

Well, one widespread conviction growing out of the events of the last ten days is that the shot will be paid. It is so pregnant and powder-burning, even upon so magnificent a scale, were happily conceived.

Saturday's was a picture for Veret-chagin, who won immortality seeking the final canvas in the crash of battle. It had been the good fortune of some of the John Fisher's guests to have seen other fleets in stirring days elsewhere, but one and all of them had borne in upon them the common and abiding realization of the gigantic and various armada of Britain dwarfed the fleets of the world, alike in power and in

Each had his own long range conception of the navy; but the thing itself, grouped in its might under the eye, in stately sweep away all previous impressions and left a new, a living and enduring picture, whose forming the basis of innumerable articles in the press of other Britain, cannot fall of its own accord. It is so perfect, the very perfection of the admiralty's arrangements and one's recognition of the quick and far-reaching from the King's head, the most visible and speaking story of the day to the millions who honor the common flag, but who live remote from the sea, unacquainted with the names of the ships, it is possible for them to work out their destinies untroubled by the stroke of war carried to their own thresholds.

Not a few of the press visitors had heard evidence a whisper that England was faltering, that the best of the heart of the empire had become weaker. They have seen what to them is abundant evidence that the best of the heart of the empire has become weaker.

They find the motherland both alert and resolute, greatly bolstered, but more greatly resolved and fitted to play the grim game out, by its demands that they may.

And among this evidence of Britain's sound heart and high purpose we must count no contribution more convincing than the sight of the grey ships at Spithead, the most visible and speaking story of England's great spirit since "Drake went down to the Horn."

In their own way, but without delay or trafficking, the outlying dominions will come into line. Until they do (and the forthcoming defence conference will mark a common and effective agreement) one of Portsmouth's Saturday visitors will still be aware of a figure in blue on the deck of the Victory, his expectant gaze trained upon the seaward gate.

(By John Leyland in the London Chronicle.) Every vessel of the 144 at Spithead—battleship, cruiser, destroyer, and submarine—was a really live vessel, completed to the last man in his complement, the whole fleet aggregating something like 40,000 officers and men. It is certain that every one of the vessels will bear the strain throughout the coming manoeuvres.

Five years ago all vessels not in commission were laid up in "reserve" with certain shipkeepers to look after them, their machinery rusting, with the inevitable result that, when new complements were rushed on board a considerable number of the vessels proved "lame ducks" and were entirely broken down. The system of maintaining nucleus crews in the ships has been splendidly vindicated, and has contributed enormously to the fighting value of the fleet.

The fighting efficiency of the fleet is demonstrated by nothing so completely as by the great advance in gunnery, which has attained a marvelous degree of accuracy. On this subject it would be easy to write columns. Notwithstanding that in the gunlayers' test a much smaller target is used, and that the battle practice is in rough seas, the accuracy, speed and range, and on an unknown course, the advance in efficiency continues unintermittedly. Indeed, in the battle practice, the target being of the length of a torpedo boat, the accuracy was such that most of the ships in the last test would have put every shot into a Dreadnought. Some of the ships made excellent practice in rough seas, the shells following weather, and the indomitable put eighteen shots out of thirty-two into the target with her 12in. guns at a range of 8,000 yards.

GUNNERY EFFICIENCY Such surprising accuracy is due in part to the extraordinary keenness and precision in gunnery matters that pervades the fleet, and in part to the advance in the use of the "all-gun" principle, which controlling fire and sighting guns, upon which accuracy depends.

Something may now be said about the qualities of the ships themselves. The representatives of the Imperial Press had an opportunity of seeing the Dreadnought which, as a type, is so much in the public mind. She herself, and her three sisters in the line, are by far the most powerful and most lethal ships in the world. Their guns entirely outrange those of the German fleet, and, apart from this consideration, they are the most powerful and most accurate in the world. The Agamemnon, which were next astern of them in the line, are more than equal to the whole of the German fleet in the number of their big guns.

AN INTRUDER ON THE GOLF LINKS Moose, Chased by Dogs Ran on Moncton Links and Fell in Midst of Startled Players.

Moncton, N. B., June 27.—In soccer football league match here Saturday afternoon between Moncton and Springhill the latter won by a score of two to nothing. Local Masons this morning marched in a body to the Presbyterian church, where an appropriate sermon was preached by Rev. D. MacDermid.

The death of Edward Wood, of Portland (Me.), occurred at Coverdale, Albert county, this evening. He was brought here a few weeks ago for special outdoor treatment. Deceased, who was 52 years old, leaves a wife and one son. He was more than a cordial member of the Hope-well Club, but had lived in Portland some years. Heart failure was the immediate cause of death. The body will be taken by Mrs. Wood to Portland (Me.) tomorrow for interment.

A moose which is in the habit of feeding in the vicinity of the Moncton Golf Club links, one mile west of the city, created some excitement Saturday afternoon by taking the unusual liberty of roaming over the course while some twenty golfers, including a ladies' team, were playing. The animal got started from its usual haunts by dogs and ran through the fields into the city. Then it doubled back and passed down over the golf links, paying no attention whatever to the golfers who were scattered all over the field. It passed over a corner of one green where two ladies were playing before its approach was noticed, and at another point ran so close to one of the green's mowers that he could reach it with his stick.

In descending a steep hill on the links the moose fell and was so exhausted from the dogs chasing it that it lay five minutes unheeding by golfers while a caddy, more daring than the others, approached and put a hand on its head. Eventually the animal leisurely arose and walked off in the direction of the woods.

AN IDEAL EVERY DAY CLUB Rev. C. W. Townsend Delivered an Excellent Address at Every Day Club Last Night

Despite the heat a large audience assembled at the Every Day Club last evening to hear an address by Rev. C. W. Townsend, who is supplying St. John's Presbyterian church. An Ideal Every Day Club was the topic. He said he liked the name of the club because it implied that the members believed in the solidarity of the human race. Nothing appealed to the speaker so much as the coming into touch with the life of the people—all the people. They had no titles class among them, and members were all alike.

He held up as good examples men like Lincoln, who rose from the common people to serve the people in the highest capacity, and men like the late President McKinley, who served the people in the highest capacity. He said he believed in the inspiration of every effort to uplift humanity.

CUT OUT ROTHESEY STOP, ON EXPRESSES Beginning today the C. P. R. express for Halifax and the C. P. R. through train from Halifax to Montreal in the afternoon, will be discontinued.

The armored cruisers Indomitable, Inflexible, and Invincible (deserved to be noticed as much as the Dreadnoughts) are, in effect, Dreadnoughts of higher speed, being nominally of 23 knots, as compared with 21. Each of these three cruisers is equal to any foreign battleship yet completed. The Indomitable conveyed the Prince of Wales to Quebec, and she is now on her way to the Mediterranean and back, and the Invincible has steamed at 28 knots and kept it up for eight hours at a fast wing, and, indeed, and powers hitherto unthought of. What are such cruisers to be used for? For any purpose of sea warfare, perhaps, of a battle-ship, falling on one end of an adversary's line with destructive concentrated power. For a ship of war, to be a battleship, cruiser-battleship, or ordinary cruiser, armored or unarmored, is no more than a huge gun-mounting, many more than a huge gun-mounting, many more than a huge gun-mounting, many more than a huge gun-mounting.

OTHER VESSELS The destroyers were forty-eight in number, all swift messengers and destructors, as presented to them—to see as a fast wing, though the range of the torpedo-firing was short. Most interesting to most people were the attack submarines, of which there were thirty-five, representative of the newer classes B and C. One regarded as the defensive weapon of the weaker nations, these strange vessels of war are now the offensive weapon of the strongest, and are possessed of a power that is both moral and material. No one can tell whether they carry or whether they go, and thus they come with them the menace of the unknown.

Less noticed than they deserved were the Fleet repair ships at the end of the line. These are the work of a new spirit in the Navy, which forbids the warship to resort to a dockyard for any but a considerable work of repair. By their own

QUEEN STREET FIRE

The fire departments responded to an alarm from box 38 on Sunday morning about 2 o'clock for a fire in the house at 222 Queen street, occupied by Edward Jones and Henry Brandy. On the firemen's arrival they found the outside of the east end of the house in a blaze, but a stream of water soon confined the fire to the peak and this, too, was soon extinguished. Considerable chipping had to be done to get at the fire between the walls. The building was a light wood two storey one. After half an hour, or so of work the last trace of fire was extinguished. The water supply was poor, consequent on the trouble at Marsh bridge. There is talk of a suspension of incineration in connection with the fire.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF SPORT

John S. Dovey was chosen president of the Boston National Baseball Club at a meeting of the board of directors at the club's offices in the Paddock building, Boston. He succeeds his brother, the late George B. Dovey, and will continue as treasurer of the club, a position he has held since the Dovey interests assumed control in November 1906. The appointment of a secretary will follow. The plans and policy of the former head of the club will be carried out by the new president. There will be no change in the management of the team, Frank Bowdman continuing to direct its destinies.

Mr. Dovey has several players in mind who will soon be seen on the field at the old ball park. He is firm in his belief that younger blood of major league caliber can be secured and is out to get the best players for the Boston team. He has two new men in the infield, Coffey and Autry, and Roy Thomas was reported yesterday by the club. He resigned on Saturday. Thomas is a clever outfielder, bats left and is a sure man on bunt and place hitting. He is somewhat famous through his ability to tire pitchers during the long and was large in the field. He joined the Philadelphia club in 1907, coming there from a ball club in New York. Not so many years ago he was in the public eye as a prospective purchaser of the Boston National Club. He is an excellent "work" for "the Prince" and Barney Dreyfus to give him his usual unconditional release. Thomas should strengthen the Dovey materially.

President Harry F. Pulliam of the National League was in Boston on Friday spending much time with Mr. Dovey at club headquarters, later attending the game. Mr. Pulliam has much improved in health, his visit to Boston being personal though his interest in baseball and especially his desire to see the team do well, caused him to interest himself in the club's affairs.

Bobby Kerr, writing from London, gives some interesting stuff regarding Reggie Walker's new style. He says: "I have just come in after a good morning's workout at Stamford Bridge. I have arranged with a chap by the name of Harris, who is good for 10 seconds in the 100, to work out with me every day, and it will be of great assistance. Walker is at the grounds every day training hard. He had Duncker, the hurdler, to work out with. Some days they are down in the afternoon as well as the morning. Today, it was Harris and Walker and Duncker race at Stamford Bridge tomorrow, still they were down working out, something we would hardly think of in Canada."

"Walker, while in South Africa, had been training with Postle, the great professional sprinter, and although I have never seen Postle running, they tell me that Walker has copied him to a great extent." "The following athletes, prominent in British athletics have retired this year: J. W. Morton, four times British sprint champion; Lieut. Hallwell, the great 440 yard man; J. Lamer, champion walker of the world. With regards, "R. KERR."

10 Years' Rheumatism In Left Knee Treatment at Hot Springs and Years of Experiment with Noted Physicians Failed. "Nerviline" Cured Quickly. Nearly every old person is troubled more or less with rheumatism, and few actually escape its manifold tortures. Some it deforms, others it disables, many it completely destroys.

"I was born with a strong and predisposing tendency to rheumatism, my father and mother both having had it for years," writes J. H. Hunter, from Saratoga. "The aches, the pains, the throbbing muscles,—I endured them all,—but it was in my left knee that the disease had the worst hold. Pains of the most agonizing kind shot through my knee as if hot irons were piercing my flesh. Nothing did me any good till I used Nerviline. I rubbed it over the sore place four to five times each day and bound on warm flannel cloths. Every night I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water. My cure was completed after several months and I have never since had a single twinge. I am stronger every summer from my rheumatism disease. Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Toothache, or Earache to treat Nerviline. I know its power over pain is simply magical."

There is not an ingredient in Nerviline that isn't good for pain. Young and old can use it internally or externally. Safe, sure and 20 years in use. Beware of the dealer who offers you a substitute on which his profit is larger than on Nerviline. Large 25c. bottles at all dealers.

ST. PETERS WON OVER THE A.O.H.

Saturday's Society League Game Was a Good Exhibition.

There was a good game of base ball on the Shamrock grounds Saturday morning when the St. Peters defeated the Fairville A. O. H. team in a six inning game by the score of 5 to 4. Both teams played good ball and a great improvement in fielding and general playing was shown by the A. O. H. boys. The Fairville team started out well and made three runs allowing their opponents only one. In the second inning this order was reversed, the St. Peters taking the lead and the A. O. H. one, which made the score tie. The St. Peters got one more in the third, but were unable to score in the fourth and fifth. The Fairville boys were unable to run in any more and the game ended 5 to 4 in favor of the North End boys. The game was, perhaps, one of the best that the A. O. H. have yet put up, and the team is showing a steady improvement day by day. The teams were:

MARATHONS WON IN SATURDAY'S GAMES

They Defeated the Quoddys of Maine, in Two Slashing Games

The game on the Victoria grounds on Saturday afternoon between the Marathons and the Quoddy Indians resulted in an easy victory for the Marathons by a score of 13 to 0. The game was very much one-sided, the Indians never having a look in. They were certainly off in play and made a lot of errors which looked like safe ones. Mitchell pitched for the Marathons. He had eight strikeouts. Dr. Malcolm, of home run fame, fanning twice. Neblis pitched for the Quoddys. He had four strikeouts and only one lone single was made off him during the afternoon. His support was excellent. The score was:

LONGBOAT WON

Indian Ran Alfie Shrub to a Standstill in Toronto Saturday Night

Toronto, June 27.—The race between Longboat and Shrub at the Island last night was a pretty close imitation of the former race between the two in New York. Again the Englishman started off and ran fifteen miles like a winner. He led the Indian by a full quarter of a mile at one time and by an eighth at the end of the fifteenth.

VAGABOND WINS THE LOVITT RACE

The annual race for the Lovitt cup, open to Class B yachts of the R. K. Y. C., was sailed from Millidgeville on Saturday afternoon and was won by Dr. A. H. Merrill's Vagabond. Savitar was second, and Edith third. Fel Yuen was also in the race, but was disqualified for fouling the Milkish buoy in the second round.

GREAT REDUCTION OF EXPENSES—INCREASED BENEFITS—LOWER RATES INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its Industrial policies by reason of a heavy reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience. During the past three years the Company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof—and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

Ratio of Expense to Premium Income Has Been Reduced 8 Per Cent. Representing an Annual Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Convertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid-up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues. The Company is richest in the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency. Westfield Outing Association had a Big Day Saturday—The Pavilion Opened.

For the first of the series of three races for salmon boats for the Woodman Point place was sailed at Westfield on Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Westfield Outing Association and resulted in victory for the Chinook (Church Bess), by one minute and forty seconds. Wabeno was second, Mona third, Lolita fourth and Lillian fifth. The officers of the day were: Staggs, Dr. H. G. Wetmore, judges, John Lewis and W. C. Rothwell. The race was sailed in a light southwest breeze. Hounding the first mark, Chinook, Wabeno and Mona were bunched with the others following. At the second mark Chinook and Wabeno were together in the lead and the positions were practically unchanged until after the third mark had been rounded, when Chinook took first place. Wabeno pulled up towards the finish but not enough.

ST. JOHN CRICKETERS DEFEATED BANKERS

The St. John cricket club defeated the Bankers at Rochesay on Saturday by 57 runs in the first innings in the return match in the series for the Horn cup. The game was keenly contested and resulted in some excellent cricket. The features of the match were the bowling of Sturdee and Cannel and the fine support given by the latter by his team when any catches were put off. The St. John team played 22, and also made a sensational one hand catch in the slips. Williams and Dempster also deserve special mention for their prompt returns which saved many runs for their side.

THE RIFLE RANGE

The St. John Rifle Club held their usual Saturday afternoon match on the range, beginning at 1:30 o'clock. The P. R. A. silver medal was the chief prize competed for, together with the sterling silver spoons given to the highest scores made in the several classes. The following was the result:

THE HOME AND ITS MISTRESS

One of the most unpleasant things with which the mistress has to contend in the home is the stain on the children. In no instance should one child be treated better than another. All should be given equal privileges in keeping with their ages, of course. Children are very sensitive, and giving the little daughter a privilege that is denied the brother often causes needless strife. If a child gets of the opinion that his brother or sister is being favored, bad feeling often takes its place in his heart and not even years can dislodge it.

MOOSE PAID A VISIT TO CITY

Two Large Moose Swam From Crouchville to the Foot of Orange St. This Morning

With moose at your back door yard, who will say that this is not a big game country. If those preferring to go up to the New Canaan section or any of the hunting grounds, will just build a lean-to against the garden fence, or take up their bed and walk with it to the summer house and arrange with the cook to bring out the meals, they will have all the excitement brought right to them.

At any rate residents of Orange street think so to a man, and why shouldn't they, when two magnificent specimens of the moose family swim right up to the front of the street from Cotenay Bay? It was bright and early this morning when, from the Crouchville shore, the pair started "for town." Now, these were moose of the better class for they decided that there would be no hobnobbing with the cows on the Lower Cove grass lands; no, sir! they were to give a real live wild woods show to "the people, and walk with it to the summer house and arrange with the cook to bring out the meals, they will have all the excitement brought right to them.

They became excited and commenced throwing things. At first, Mr. and Mrs. Moore thought that it was just a premature outbreak and they swam back and forth for nearly two hours, but as the moose became larger they dejectedly put about and plowed the briny deep back for Crouchville, and now Orange street is preparing for the hunting season.

AN ELOQUENT SERMON

BY REV. GEO. TITUS

He Exchanged Pulpits With Rev. A. B. Cohoe Yesterday Morning and Preached on "The Eye That Can See."

The eye that can see was the desirable thing in mankind to which Rev. George Titus directed attention in a very thoughtful address in Brunswick street. Baptist church yesterday morning. He and Rev. A. B. Cohoe exchanged pulpits for the morning service.

Rev. Mr. Titus, by simple yet effective illustrations showed the difference in people with regard to what he termed the eye of the soul. There are multitudes who see only the commonplace, only the surface of things. Jesus looked deeper and saw the divine possibilities. So we should strive to cultivate that power of vision which sees even in the outcast something of good to which an appeal may be made, in the effort to bring him up to our own level, or higher. What Jeremiah saw in the life of Israel in his time; what Jesus saw in impetuous Peter, in Matthew the publican, in Saul of Tarsus, in every human being around Him—something of that we may see if we but cultivate the power of vision God has given us. One man sees in a rock, a forest, a piece of ore, only common things. Another sees in them the finest product of the manufacturer's and builder's art. So in the realm of the spirit, Jesus saw in the blind beggar a man. He saw in the heart of man the possibility of the Kingdom of God. Mr. Titus made a fervent plea for the exercise of this faculty in our own daily contact with those about us.

TAKE YOUR HOUSE TO THE COUNTRY

New Plan Which Went Into Effect on the C. P. R. Yesterday Made Many People Think

It has at last come to it. No more morning out to the summer home in the country, but combine the two and let it back to the city, yes, and the home if this case not only means the family circle, but the shack or the entire house "go out under your own roof" will be the way the rail road people will boom the new order of things. But like the first horse car followed by the first electric street car, it is a funny just now.

Residents of Westfield who beheld the initial trip yesterday, where, like the old lady looking out her first railway train, they were completely unstrung. A fine large two story house, mounted on trucks, sweeping slowly and gracefully along the bank on the railway track. There would compel more than a home to sidestep men. One resident tells that while enjoying the early morning air he suddenly perceived things moving. Feeling that he had been over-slept by a weak spell he made his way indoors to consult his wife. They both had a look. Yes, a house was on the move, for no part of it leaned above the bank on the railway track. Then suddenly it came into full view around a curve in the track, and there was no mistaking it—no two story house was being hauled by a locomotive.

At Lingley there were more visions. The wife of a prominent summer resident peeped out into the beautiful morning and for a certainty a house that was not there the day before, not even the night before, was there before her. Her husband being called, looked hurried back for his glasses and looked again, and it was resolved in that household that wonders would never cease.

Everything was swept before it, even the overhead bridge at Lingley was removed to let it by, and of course replaced in its time. The C. P. R. are trying the experiment with one of their own houses, which is being taken from Grand Bay to Clarendon, and wires and everything else will be moved down to get it there, so it is said, costing in all about $200.
