INSURANCE RATES REDUCED TODAY

Twenty-five Cents Knocked Off by Underwriters.

Further Reductions Because of Increased Efficiency May Possibly be Made in the Near Future.

The first move in the direction of cheaper fire insurance in St. John was made today.

Today's reduction, which has long been promised, puts the rates back to what they were when the underwriters a few years ago brought to a crisis the water service situation.

It will not likely be the last. At today's meeting several members spoke of further reductions being made after the chemical engines were purchased.

LOVE AND ESPIONAGE.

Woman Uses Her Beauty to Obtain German Naval Secrets.

What is believed to have been an attempt to obtain the secret of the composition of the new German smokeless powder for the French Government has been frustrated by the Kiel police, and on Wednesday two suspected persons were brought before a court-martial on a charge of treason. The prisoners are Fraulein Petersen, of Hamburg, a handsome woman, who gives her age as forty-four, though she looks no more than twenty-five, and a warrant officer, named Dietrich, who is next the German Explosives Department. Petersen, whose parents conduct a hankery restaurant in Hamburg, has been living in Kiel for some time as a teacher of languages. She made her home at the widow of a German naval captain, and through her introduction got to know Dietrich. The young man became infatuated with the handsome teacher, and it is alleged that she deliberately encouraged his advances in order to obtain the secret information she desired. So that she might meet Dietrich untroubled, she left the widow's house and took apartments on her own account. Her late landlady, who kept up an acquaintance with Petersen, was struck by the frequent visits of Dietrich, and also by the fact that the woman's dress and mode of living were quite out of proportion to the earnings she was supposed to get as a teacher. Then the widow, becoming inquisitive, found that Dietrich occasionally brought what appeared to be official papers for his sweetheart to look over. She therefore conveyed her suspicions to the police. The latter then watched the teacher when she went for a three weeks' holiday to Hamburg, as she said, and traced her to Paris, where she alleged she conveyed certain papers. They also discovered that she was drawing £25 a month from French secret agents by way of Brussels. When she returned to Hamburg was laid, and she was watched both day and night, the police occupying a room adjoining hers, from which they could hear her every word, and their conversations were faithfully reported. The young man was heard which signified that the two had noticed that they were being watched, and were afraid to meet, and they were accordingly arrested without delay. The German police declare that they have overwhelming evidence of guilt.—Lloyd's News.

SERVANTS' PERILS

First Year's Working of New Act Reveals Curious Claims.

LONDON, July 11.—The first year's working of the "Servants' Charter," as the new Compensation Act, which includes domestic workers, was called, reveals many unexpected perils of the home. The number of claims received by various insurance companies during the year was 55,000. Statistics show that the greatest perils are faced by—(1) Cooks, who are liable to burns and cuts. (2) Housemaids, who are liable to fall downstairs or out of the window. (3) Butlers, who are frequently cut while opening bottles. Chauffeurs, on the other hand, are remarkably lucky, and although their premium is heavy, they are safer from accident than many indoor servants. Many curious claims have been received, among them the following:— A servant who drank a mixture of gin and gunpowder by mistake. A housemaid who caught a cold in her eyes by sleeping with the window open. A domestic servant who was scratched and bitten by a cat while trying to prevent it being worried by a dog. A servant who fell into a pool and contracted pneumonia. A girl who swallowed a fish bone eating her breakfast. A cook who got a bit of coal in her throat while in the cellar breaking up the coal. A servant scratched while catching rats. Dozens of cases have occurred of servants slipping on soap left on the stairs, or being burned through lighted fires with matches. Housemaid's knees and the loss of false teeth also figure frequently.

A female weakness or displacement is often brought on and they suffer in silence, drifting along from day to day, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden. It is to those faithful women that LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND comes as a boon and a blessing, as it did to Mrs. W. Barrett, of 962 Morsau St., Montreal, who writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "For years I was a great sufferer from female weakness, and despite every remedy given me by doctors for this trouble, I grew worse. One day a friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and am thankful to say that it has made me strong and well."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, fatigues, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration. Why don't you try it? Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

DROWNED WHILE ON YACHT CRUISE

The drowning of George Cook at Fox's wharf yesterday afternoon is an event which has cast a gloom over the cruise of the Royal Kennebecus Yacht Club on the sea near the wharf boats sailed from Millidgeville. The drowning took place at about five o'clock yesterday, the victim being knocked overboard from the yacht Myrtle by a swinging boom. T. Herbert Edwards, one of Cook's two companions on the yacht, made a noble attempt to save the life of the drowning man and himself narrowly escaped a watery grave. The news of the accident reached the city shortly before seven o'clock last evening, a telephone message being sent to the drug store of T. J. Durick, which is next the home of the deceased, 16 Elm street, North End. To a neighbor was entrusted the task of breaking the news to the widow, who first bore up under the shock, but later gave way and Dr. Roberts had to be summoned to attend her. The details of the accident as received by long-distance telephone are not very full. The yacht Myrtle, her crew consisting of T. Herbert Edwards and George Cook, both employed with Brook & Paterson, and Geo. Vaughan, employed with Vassie & Co., was the last of the squadron to pass Fox's wharf, which is four miles below Gagetown on the opposite side of the river. The boats were sailing with a fair breeze, the mainsails of the Myrtle suddenly jibed and the boom swung, striking Cook on the back and knocking him into the water. Edwards, seeing that Cook could not swim, at once leaped into the water to save his companion. The latter at once began to struggle and grapple with Edwards, and finally succeeded in getting afloat. A boat finally pulled up to the Myrtle in an exhausted condition after Cook had sunk. The late George Cook was in his forty-first year. He was the youngest child of Mrs. Esther Cook, widow of George Cook, who resides at 16 Elm street. The other members of the family are two brothers, Archibald, of Toronto, and Roy, at home, and one sister, Mrs. Albert E. Cox of this city. The deceased had been employed by Brook & Paterson for several years and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

TWO OUT OF 6 ARE SAVED

MARION, Mass., July 12.—Four prominent summer residents of this town and Palmouth were lost in the explosion on the night of the 10th inst. last night, and two others were picked up today after having been in the water for twelve hours. The survivors, Roland Worthington, Boston; John T. Trull, Woburn; Joseph Seal, Milton; George Savory, Marblehead; Edward Parker, Boston. MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 12.—The schooner Dolphin, 40 foot, abashed boat, was owned by P. Tarbell, of 31 Brimmer street, Boston, who has a summer home at Marblehead. Mr. Tarbell, with George H. Savory of Marblehead as engineer, left here in the forenoon yesterday morning to pick up a party of friends at Marion. Savory was a machinist by trade and was 29 years old. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American war, having served in the 8th Regiment, company C.

PREMIER HAZEN BACK FROM TRIP

Premier Hazen and party who have been spending a few days on the Tobique as the guests of the New Brunswick Guides' Association, arrived in the city on Saturday night's Boston train. Premier General Grimmer was also one of the party which came down the Tobique in canoe. The Premier in conversation with a Sun reporter last evening said that his trip had been most enjoyable. Game seemed to be very plentiful, muskrat deer being seen frequently by members of the party. There were also many signs of the presence of beaver. The Premier, however, was excellent as far as the game was concerned, but it was expected that the presidential election in the United States would have the effect of decreasing the number of American sportsmen who would visit the province. The three guides who accompanied the party were Adam Moore, Charles Cross and Arthur Pringle. Victor Lake was the farthest point reached. From that place a portage was made to Bathurst Lake and on to Plaster Rock. The next meeting of the provincial government is to be held in Fredericton this week. The day will be decided on today.

CHIEF CLARK'S FINE ADDRESS

Chief Clark returned to the city on Saturday after attending the annual convention of police chiefs of Canada at Quebec, at which he took a prominent part in the discussion of important matters connected with police work in Canada. Speaking to the Sun concerning the convention, the Chief said that a large number of the distinguished heads of police in Canada, as well as some of the cleverest detectives of the United States and Scotland Yard were present and the information received as well as the experiences related at the meeting were interesting and instructive. While at Quebec Chief Clark was honored by being appointed one of the Chiefs of Police constituting a committee to execute the business of the convention and bring the resolutions before the Minister of Justice. A lengthy and interesting speech was delivered by the Chief at one stage of the meeting on "The Police and the Public." He emphasized the importance of politeness on the part of the officers of the law toward the public, declaring that it helped to control the masses as well as the classes. The Chief concluded his speech by stating that if the populace were treated with courtesy the police would find little difficulty in enforcing the law. In the evening the Chief attended a banquet and was strongly urged to remain for the Tercentenary at Quebec, where leading representatives of the police forces of Great Britain, United States and Canada will be present. At the convention several changes in the Criminal Code were suggested to keep anarchists out of Canada. Chief McEae, of Winnipeg, proposed the subject and considered there was necessity for laws in Canada to prevent Americans or others from saying in Canada what they would not say in the United States.

MAN AND NATURE.

Life in this world is a ceaseless struggle between man and nature. The latter as the guide and teacher is harsh and even cruel at times, yet never continuously so, while man, like a spoiled child, endeavors unavailingly to prove his own supremacy. On his part the fight at times becomes one of existence but the conditions which he finds opposed to him are created for his own ultimate benefit. Thus, for instance, in India, China and certain other countries where the people are by their nature and where they trust only in a slight degree to their own efforts, nature finds it necessary to admonish them. Famines occur, millions of people realize that they are without food, and desperate struggles for life follow. This is nature's way of telling man that he must take thought for the morrow, that too great a reliance on the unaided production of the soil may lead to disaster. The idle, the ignorant and the thoughtless are thus taught dependent upon themselves. Famines do not occur in the more highly civilized countries where people have learned the lesson, and provided in years of plenty against years of want.

In these latter countries nature's duty is different. It is in preventing man from suffering from his own excessive and misdirected energy. Civilization depends on property in those institutions which itself has created. Men have an inherent tendency to thwart their own efforts, and create conditions which, if nature forces were undisturbed would never exist. For instance the depression which has prevailed during the past year in America and which is now beginning to make itself felt in Europe is a direct outcome of man's unwise policy. By too great zeal he has created confusion in the ordinary course of progress, has caused complications which have disturbed prosperity, and in consequence he suffers through want of nature comes to his relief. The present stringency can be overcome only by a bountiful harvest, by an increase in the wealth of those who actually produce and from whose efforts all prosperity must arise. By foolish extravagance we have made ourselves almost bankrupt; yet the earth is now declaring a dividend which will pay all bills and set us up in business again. The crops from the Atlantic to the Pacific, north and south, have never looked better. In our own district hay, the first of all, is about ready for cutting and the yield is abundant. In the west there has been absolutely nothing to injure the wheat, oats and barley. In the United States corn and cotton, which with wheat form the principal products, are the best in many years. It is true that the harvest has not yet been gathered, but there need now be no fear of failure. Good crops are necessary, and will be provided; nature will according to custom, make up for men's mistakes.

One might almost believe that the time for flying had arrived upon reading a despatch from Berlin to the effect that a company has been formed for the purpose of establishing a line of passenger air ships between Berlin, London, Paris, Vienna, St. Petersburg, Copenhagen and Stockholm. Following this the German Aerial Naval League is being organized. These schemes arise chiefly from the success of Count Zeppelin's latest airship. Many have spent any money to more advantage than when her government, a year ago, granted $130,000 to Zeppelin for the purpose of carrying on his experiments. The aged inventor had used up all his own fortune and all the money he could obtain from his friends and was practically reduced to poverty, unable to do any sort of work (and even doubtful as to his own livelihood). The Government's action which was of value not only from the amount of money voted, but as indicating belief in the ingenious citizen, has put Zeppelin on his feet, and he has actually accomplished more in the last year than in all his previous career. He is foremost today among aeronauts concerning balloons, or flying machines, simple in its construction is away ahead of these more complicated contrivances designed by Henry Farman, the Wright Brothers, or Santos Dumont. Half a dozen years ago an occasional paragraph appeared concerning balloons, or flying machines. Now scarcely a day passes without some interesting recital of facts of progress in the conquest of the air.

Then at certain intervals Friendship he will call, Give his mantle unto him Still to hold the thrall. While his slaves patch up their woes He will take a ship And away to Africa On a shooting trip.

SAVED THE VASE.
The little son of an English gentleman, in mischievously playing with a vase, managed after several attempts to get his hand through the narrow neck and was then unable to extricate it. For half an hour or more the whole family and one or two friends did their best to withdraw the fist of the young offender, but in vain. It was a very valuable vase, and the father was loath to break it, but the existing state of affairs could not continue forever. At length, after a final attempt to draw forth the hand of the victim, the father gave up his efforts in despair, but tried a last suggestion. "Open your hand!" he commanded the fearful young captive, "and then draw it forth."
"I can't open it, father," declared the boy.
"Can't?" demanded his father.
"Why?"
"I've got my penny in my hand," came the astounding reply.
"Why, you young rascal," thundered his father, "drop it at once!"
The penny rattled in the bottom of the vase and out came the hand.

A BEAUTIFUL FIEND CONDEMNED TO DEATH

A young woman of remarkable beauty, Grete Beter, the twenty-two-year-old daughter of the former Burgomaster of Brand, in Saxony, was condemned to death at Freiberg on Tuesday for the cold blooded murder of her lover, Chief Engineer Pressler, at Chemnitz.

The trial is the last of a series in which the girl Beter has been the principal figure. Her mother is now serving two years' imprisonment for attempted subornation of perjury on Grete's behalf. Grete herself was recently sentenced for receiving stolen goods, and several women who gave the girl money and opportunities for rendezvous have been convicted. Yet again Grete was on June 5 sentenced to the gallows for the murder of her lover.

Circumstances surrounding the murder for which she has now been sentenced are of the most dramatic character. Pressler, a man of property, and madly in love with Grete Beter, was engaged to be married to her. All she wanted him for, however, was his money, and to secure this she had an artful scheme.

She wrote, according to a confession she has made, to Pressler informing him that she should visit him on May 14 at Chemnitz, and started for the latter place with a bottle of cyanide of potassium, and a revolver she had some time before stolen from Pressler's drawer.

The rest of the story she told to the court in the most callous manner as follows:—"At Chemnitz Pressler met me at the station. He had bought cakes, and we went straight to his room, where he asked me to have a coffee while he fetched cream, which he knew I liked. Then we drank coffee together. I could not put up with the coffee, as I drank that myself as well. Therefore, I had to leave it to him. Pressler was, moreover, very attentive, and after the coffee he invited me to drink a glass of egg cognac. I refused, whereupon he said I might, at any rate, pour out a glass for him. I did so, and quickly left the room. I did not see him again until several times with a spoon, which in my excitement, I very nearly put to my lips. But I remembered in time.

Meanwhile Pressler sat on one side on a lounge chair. I went up to him, and he was aggressive and tried to draw me on to his lap. He was very passionate, and his face was so distorted that I could not look at him without horror. Not quite knowing what I did, I reached him the cognac, and said, 'Here, drink this.'"

THREE FORGERIES.
"He took the glass, and emptied it at the draught. He had barely put it down before he fell over. I did not believe that Pressler was dead. I thought that he was merely unconscious, and would then have dreadful pains. So I took a serviette, tied it round his head, and then I went to the window and shut—placed the revolver into his mouth, which was open, and pressed the trigger.

She had previously prepared three documents, one to fulfil the purpose of her crime, and to do so she had written from herself. The first of these was a forged will, in which Pressler was represented as having left his entire estate to her. In order that she might better imitate his handwriting, she had copied out one of his letters to her. She had then destroyed the original, so that she might not forward the copies to him. The imaginary will was the first of the forged will, which she had written as follows:—"To be opened after my death. As sole heiress of all my property I herewith name my fiancée, Grete Brier, daughter of the Burgomaster of Brand. I ask my relatives to refrain from demanding their legal portion of my estate. I do not regret what I have done. To live miserably and die happy is to cheat the devil. The statement of my first wife is correct. She has already received her legal share. This testament is written in my own hand and therefore legal. I am in full possession of my mental faculties. Farewell and live on happily in this world which I have so richly enjoyed. My fiancée may do with my personal property whatever she pleases. Nobody shall dictate to her.—My diamond pin shall wear herself. She should receive about $750 in cash.

The second document was a forged letter purporting to have been written to Grete by an Italian woman, Pressler's wife. The imaginary writer was made to say that she had attached herself to the engineer in order to avenge her sister, whom he had abandoned; that she had induced him to marry her, but had left him at the altar; and that hearing of his engagement to Grete, she had recognized that he ought to have some one to care for him, and she had written to her.

In order to give this epistle a further semblance of truth Grete prepared a third letter from the mythical Italian wife and placed it where it could be found after Pressler's death, so that it might appear that he had received it and then taken his own life. The letter ran thus:— Herewith I inform you of my arrival here. I have so richly enjoyed my life. My fiancée has written your poor fiancée everything, because I can no longer write. My diamond pin shall wear herself. She should receive about $750 in cash.

THE DALAI LLAMA STILL VISITING FRIENDS Offended Dignitary—Will Try to Send Him Home.

PEKIN, July 13.—In the spring of 1904 Sir Francis Younghusband, of the British Army, led a British column over the mountain passes of the Himalayas and fought his way into the Holy City of Lhasa. In the eyes of all true Buddhists this was desecration and ever since then the Dalai Llama, the religious head of the Buddhist faith, and ruler of the Tibet has been a wanderer over Northern China. He would not stay in his city after the feet of infidels had trodden its sacred streets. Consequently accompanied by numerous retinue, he started on his wanderings through China and Mongolia, and at the various cities where he selected to stop. Now the Llama is coming to Peking, where as a matter of fact, he will be more welcome than he is in other cities. Political expedient will, however, make it necessary for the Chinese authorities to receive him with a show of welcome, but they will do their utmost to persuade him to return to Lhasa and if they can once get him to start for home, they will send a numerous force of troops to meet him as he reaches there without stopping singly on the way.

The Llama has taken his travels seriously, and has had with him a retinue variously estimated at from five hundred to one thousand men. This pomp is perhaps fitting for the head of all the Buddhists but to entertain such a host in, in the luxurious manner they expect is expensive and troublesome. The officials upon whom the Llama has descended and demanded hospitality in the Dalai Llama has started on his travels the Chinese through has tried to break up caravan and send him back to Lhasa but without success. The Chinese Government desires to re-organize the administration of Tibet, but it can do nothing without the Llama's co-operation. The throne is now residing to blandishment to bring him to Peking even if he were not wanted here, in the ultimate hope that they can persuade him to go back home. No Dalai Llama has ever before left the region of Lhasa and with one exception, no Grand Lama, of whom there are three, has ever visited Peking. This exception was in 1773 and the visitor died of smallpox immediately after his arrival. The Dalai Llama is 22 years old and is the thirteenth ruler of the Buddhist Church. His personality is shrouded in mystery and not even his name is known. He is said to be omniscient, and the throne does not expect an easy time in getting him to do what it wants. He has been seen by a few foreigners.

THE SULTAN'S TURN NOW LONDON, July 13.—A special despatch to the Daily Mail from Tehran says that Raschid Khan (who in command of a large force, including several batteries of quick firing guns, entered Taberz in July 5, is now bombarding the revolutionists who are massed in the Khavava quarter. The latter, the despatch says, have telegraphed to the Shah, begging that amnesty be granted.

FABRIZ, July 13.—A revolutionary declaration has been placarded throughout the town, threatening the Russian consulate and the members of the Russian colony with death unless they desist from meddling in Persian affairs.

INDIAN FAKIR IS IN A LONDON JAIL

Man With the Long Name Insulted Young Girls.

He Had Spent Some Time in America But Did Not Meet With Much Favor Here.

LONDON, July 12.—The Mahatma Aganva Guru Paramahansa, who was introduced in England by the late Max Muller and who created a considerable sensation in New York city during his visit to America a year ago, was sentenced today to four months in prison for insulting two young women who had responded to his advertisement in London papers asking for a tylist.

to admit this plea pending an investigation.

New York did not take kindly to the Mahatma's visit. He came in June, 1907, heralded as "half man and half God," the Great Tiger Mahatma, and he departed in August, called an "impudent scoundrel" and other harsh names. The Mahatma was heard of first in Paris, having come, his press agents said, straight from the Himalayas, where for centuries and centuries he has been abiding steadily except for occasional astral excursions into various parts of the solar system.

From Paris he went to London. He was received with open arms. Prof. Max Muller vouched for him and he became a sensation. He gave demonstrations of his power to produce miracles, among them the voluntary suspension of the body's life and its subsequent resumption after any stated period of time. He undertook to do this in the presence of scientific men of Oxford and Cambridge and he got away with it.

ma even more and his expressions of disgust with America and things American reached far beyond the four walls. This bit of doggerel composed by a neighbor went the rounds:

O, mighty men with mighty voice, Your trumpet tones leave us no choice But to offer up this prayer devout: Oh, please, Mahatma, cut it out!

When August was about half gone the Mahatma returned to London. Here is a sample of his philosophy as given by his American press agent: "The world is but a drop; the mind is an ocean. The mind controls all things creates all things. The control of the body is nothing. The control of the soul, an ecstatic and joyous atom quivering in the all pervading divine life of the universe, is everything. Human beings, after assuming the forms of animals, have to pass through 8,000 forms of incarnations before settling to human form again, unless in the course of these incarnations such beings obtain the special favor and consideration of a Yogi on account of some favor rendered by them to the entire satisfaction of such Yogi, such as supply food when he is hungry, etc."

$8,000 WORTH OF BOOTY SECURED

ST. STEPHEN, July 12.—Albert French, one of the Maine Sturgis deputies, visited his old home in Calais yesterday accompanied by a corps of assistants, and his visit, which was quite unexpected, will long be remembered by the residents of the town. He was a hard man to get along with. He was a hard man to get along with. He was a hard man to get along with.

COST OF G. T. P. TO CANADA WILL BE ONLY $26,000,000

OTTAWA, July 12.—A net cost to the country of only $26,000,000 for the National Transcontinental Railway under the terms of the government's contract with the G. T. P., was the kernel of Hon. Geo. F. Graham's conclusive analysis in the Commons on Saturday of the figures presented by Mr. Borden on Tuesday night relative to Canada's share of the cost of the new road. The leader of the opposition then presented what Hon. Mr. Fielding yesterday called "an absolutely and monstrously misleading statement."

Mr. Borden, would cost the federal treasury a total of about $350,000,000. Mr. Graham and Mr. Fielding effectively pointed out that the opposition leader totally ignored the fact that the country would, on the completion of the road, get interest at three per cent. by way of rental from the G. T. P. on the total construction of the government section of the road, and had also included in his estimate the item of fourteen millions for the Quebec bridge and eleven millions for interest charges during the first ten years of the operation of the road, on the ground that the G. T. P. would be doing business at a loss during that period.

Mr. Talbot asked whether, in view of the delay in the approval by France of the Franco-Canadian trade convention, this government intended to take steps to ask the Imperial government to denounce the old treaty respecting trade between France and Canada. Mr. Fielding replied that the delay in the ratification of the treaty was very embarrassing to business interests in both countries. The conditions would probably render the denunciation of the old treaty unavoidable, but the French government was doing all it could to bring about the ratification of the new treaty, and no steps looking to denunciation of the old treaty would be taken by Canada at present.

ABANDON STEAMER TO UNDERWRITERS

Arcola is Submerged in Fifteen Feet of Water at St. Paul's Island

ST. JOHN, N. S., July 12.—The Dominion Coal Co.'s wrecking steamer, Arcola, which when ashore in a fog on the night of July 8, Marine Superintendent McAlpine, of the Coal Company, reports that the steamer is submerged in about 15 feet of water with the tide rising and falling in her. The steamer went ashore on the south side of the island in a cove and lies broadside to the sea. D. E. North, part owner and agent of the Thomsons, and H. B. Saunders, Lloyd's representative, are here and it is understood that the steamer has been abandoned to the underwriters. The Cabot brought up Captain Shaw, of the Arcola, and part of the crew.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

PANAMA, July 12.—The presidential election through the Isthmus of Panama, passed off today without disturbance. Senator Don Jose Domingo de Obaldia, formerly minister to the United States and acting president during the absence of Dr. Amador, was elected president. The supporters of Ricardo Arias, who recently withdrew his candidacy, decided not to vote and as a consequence there was no opponent to Obaldia placed in nomination. There appeared to be an absolute lack of ill-feeling between the former supporters of Senator Arias and the adherents of Senator Obaldia.

BOAT'S CREW LOST

HALIFAX, N. S., July 12.—With her flag at half-mast, for the loss of three of her crew, the Halifax sealing schooner Alice Gertrude, Capt. Ryan, with 1,000 skins, arrived today from the Falkland Islands sealing grounds after a run of 41 days. During a severe storm on the grounds a boat's crew, consisting of Arthur Griffin, the mate of the vessel, a man named Harry Pace, and Lawrence Taff, both of Halifax, were lost.

WILL GO TO J. A. COTE

OTTAWA, July 11.—It is understood that the new position of assistant deputy minister of the interior, for which an appropriation of $3,600 has been set aside in the supplementary estimates, will go to J. A. Cote, chief clerk of the department since 1906. The work of the department has grown enormously during the past few years and the appointment of an assistant to W. W. Cory, the present deputy minister, has been found necessary.

FORT CHURCHILL WILL BE IN THE PROVINCE OF MANITOBA

OTTAWA, Ont., July 13.—In the Commons this morning in preparing the boundary extension resolution, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said the extension had been asked by Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

Lower prices for pig iron are reported in the iron districts but steel men expect normal conditions in the fourth quarter.

THE CHARMING PRIME MINISTER OF THE DOMINION OF CANADA

Current Literature for July contains the following sketch of Sir Wilfrid Laurier: Brilliant and conspicuous as are the personalities associated with this month's celebrations of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of Quebec, it is Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Prime Minister of the Dominion, who is the most conspicuous of them all.

To a combination of the skill of the greatest diplomatists with the confidence of a statesman, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has added the charm of a man whose words are as music to the ears of his people.

Intellectually, the life of Sir Wilfrid Laurier is richer than that of most statesmen. He has been said of him that he has had a brilliant French essayist.

He is quite lacking in the athletic instinct. No one has commended his golf or his horseback riding. He is a man who has never been seen on a horse.

There is a certain grace of his courtesy and a certain charm of his unforced smile. He is a man who has never been seen on a horse.

WILL DOUBLE THE LENGTH OF ST. MARTIN'S BREAKWATER

Public Works Dept. Will Add 360 Feet
This Year to the East Quay Wave Stopper.

It is believed at St. Martin's that in a very short time tenders will be called for the extension of the eastern breakwater at the harbor. This breakwater was originally three hundred feet in length. Some years ago a petition was sent to Ottawa asking it to be extended at least six hundred feet, in order to provide a shelter harbor for vessels caught in rough weather on the bay. As a result of that petition a vote of $34,000 was made and the work given to the Charlottetown Company of Mon-real. For some reason or other the contractors threw up the job. The $34,000 appeared several times in the estimates as a rebate but finally was dropped.

On the first of February of this year, during a terrific storm the outer end of the breakwater, a section some sixty feet in length, was carried away. Along with it went the lighthouse, a massively built structure which, however, was unable to withstand the violence of the sea.

Then the St. Martin's people got busy again with their petition scheme. There had been a sum of $10,000, the survival of the original $34,000, in the estimates for some time. The petition sent forward last spring asked for the extension as formerly proposed.

Three or four weeks ago a grant of $16,000 was made, and a few days ago the Commons passed a further grant of $8,000, both being for the St. Martin's breakwater. These, together with the rebate of $10,000 will be sufficient for the job. The public works department will rebuild the sixty feet carried away in February, and a section some sixty feet more, giving the breakwater a total length of six hundred feet. This will provide a very good harbor for vessels in the bay trade. When the breakwater is completed the marine department will build a lighthouse on the end.

THE TRUE STORY OF THAT LOBSTER TRIP

How a Party of St. John Men Were Two Nights at Sea

George McArthur and His Friends Wandered About in the Fog up the Bay from Friday Till Sunday.

This is the tale of how a party of men went out in a motor boat to catch lobsters up the bay. The weather was fine and all other conditions were delightful. Those on board included in addition to Mr. McArthur, Sandy Phillips, Jas. C. Doherty, W. A.
Munro, Fred. A. Jones, G. H. Phipps, J.
H. Hatfield, R. W. Stanley, George Brittney, N. S. Walker and John Harding. They got along splendidly, and thoroughly enjoyed the sail up to Cape Spencer where they dropped some traps overboard. They decided that the time to be allowed for the lobsters to become victims might be pleasantly spent by the party in a run up to St. Martin's and accordingly the engine was set to full speed ahead. But soon the trouble started. The put-puff acted strangely and soon stopped altogether.

In spite of the manifestations of annoyance on the part of the engineer it refused to do another turn. Helpless in the bay with the fog rapidly thickening, the erstwhile fishermen had only one idea, to reach land and find a man who could make the motor start again.
They wanted to see the wheels go round.

There was nothing left for them but to tow ashore. So some of the men got into a little tender and for hour after hour towed. About eight o'clock they reached land at Brown's Beach, and from there two or three of the stragglers took the motor to the route to St. Martin's, a distance of five miles, being driven across by Alex.
Howard at St. Martin's, guided by Fred Cochrane, who woke up Cyrus Campbell, a heaven born mechanic who had gone to rest, and told him their troubles. He could guarantee nothing but promise to do his best. They drove back to Brown's Beach, and in fifteen minutes the motor was running like a clock. All hands then came up to St.
Martin's, and after a brief rest the return trip was begun, it being then past midnight.

But meanwhile the fog had become thicker and thicker, and the motor boat was completely bewildered. It went in circles, and during one revolving with it went across a woodboat, with which, at home in St. John, it enjoyed only a bowing acquaintance, but which under existing conditions looked like an old friend. "Hall! woodboat!" said the motorists. The woodboat halted.
Then the lost ones went on board to wait for clear weather. After a long while the fog lifted, and they thought it was any time they started for home. This was very early in the morning. They set out once more, full of hope, and in five minutes were completely bewildered. Davidson's fancy skating was nothing to the curves they cut in the bay, but although to all insight a purpose headed for St.
John, strangely enough they landed quite unintentionally on the sea on the St. Martin's from which they had sailed a few hours before. It was amazing, and becoming a trifle monotonous, so that most determined start was made between nine and ten o'clock. It was still foggy, and the lobster traps were still waiting.

At nine o'clock Saturday night anxious friends telephoned St. Martin's for news of the party, stating that the motor boat had not then reached St.
John. What happened all Saturday night is known only to those on the boat, who declined to talk. The party however reached St. John at eleven o'clock on Sunday forenoon. The boat had been out for two nights, and on the first night at least the fishermen had no sleep.

ANOTHER SERIOUS FIRE

RAGING AT UPHAM

Valuable Timber Land Owned by Frank Sherwood is Being Devoted.

A rather serious forest fire is now raging near Upham, some little distance from the line of the St. Martin's Railway. Scarcely had the Porter's Road blaze died down, when on Sunday this other started. It originated a mile and a half from the railway line and the railway is not blamed for starting it. This fire is on land owned by Frank Sherwood, covered with valuable spruce timber and is doing much damage. Up till this morning no buildings had been burned, but there was a rather strong breeze, and it would be difficult to guess where the fire would stop. Rain is sorely needed all over the province.

THE FIRES STANDING STILL

The forest fires which have been raging from Musquash to South Bay and threatening valuable property, are doing very little damage today. The wind having completely died down the flames have not spread any since yesterday and the fires appears to be burning themselves out on the ground already gone over. A gang of men who came from South Bay this morning but were watched that there was no further spread of the flames. A spower of rain would put an end to all danger for the present.

Mr. James Lowell feels that negligence was displayed by the fire wardens in not coping with the blaze when it first started some days ago near Musquash.

GREAT IMPROVEMENTS ON THE STORES BUILDINGS

Militia Department Will Have an Up-to-Date Building for Its Supplies.

Contractors Flood and Bates with a gang of men are making wonderful changes in the military stores building on Sydney street and when the building is handed over to the Government about the last of October, it will be one of the finest structures in the city.
A few stone additions has been made to the old building and another story added. The building is now 16 feet long and 40 feet wide. The new story added is of wood and the roof is coppered.

On the ground floor will be the offices. Sections of the second and third floors are being made into quarters for the caretaker. A large part on the north end of the building will be the armory, where rifles will be repaired.
An electric elevator is to be installed and preparations for wiring the building are now going on. The wiring is being done by the Vaughan Electric Company. All wires are run through small pipes in the walls and the work is something new in this city.

The building is to be heated by hot water. The offices and living rooms will be plastered, while the walls of the other apartments are to be finished in wood.

The roofing is being done by Wm.
Thomas. The stone used in the building is from the Charles Pickard quarry Sackville. F. S. Coughlan is doing the plastering.

The building operations are under the supervision of D. H. Waterbury, Government Inspector, and Wm. Fitzgerald is acting as clerk of the works.
