A fire extinguishing apparatus is being installed. Around the building there are chemical extinguishers and water buckets. There is a water closet on each floor. The employes have a separate room in which to take their lunch, but they don't take advantage of it. When asked if he could not compel his employes to use the separate room. Mr. Brown said he did not think he could. Brown was not in favor of a factory act. He did not think it was necessary in St. John.

EVENING SESSION.

At the evening session all the cornmissioners were present, including Kilgour Shives of Campbellton, who was absent from the morning session. PETER C. SHARKEY.

C. Sharkey, a freight handler, who had been strongly urged by the Fabian League to do all in his power to have a factory act placed upon the statute the cotton factory, where sanitary arrangements were not satisfactory. There was no arrangement for carrying off the dust and the conditions were not such as would be conducive to good health. Last winter it was particularly severe. The conditions as represented by him were denied by the owners. He was delegated by the Fabian League to ascertain the facts, but was refused admission and was unable to go through. He met employes of a large baking firm in St. John and from the looks of the children he judged that the conditions were not as they should be, and that they were not properly taken care of. He had seen children faint as they came into the open air after being at work He thought the conditions in

The delegation from the League also found hat in some factories where edibles were manufactured, diseased persons were employed, in one instance four at time. The rolling and wood-working factories made no pretence at all to having sanitary arrangements. He also found that many run machines who have little or no knowledge of the machines they are working upon.

It would create better satisfacjoining the girls' clothes room and two tion with both employers and emon the ground floor. A number of girls ployes. Among the latter it would give less discontent and would be conducive to their comfort. He had never visited the factories and could not cite specific instances of discontent Girls should not be compelled to get up so early in the mornings, such as 6.30, in order to be at work on time. He has heard great dissatisfaction expressed by factory hands with their present state, still he admitted that this is the general tendency of the times, and people should even be aided in protecting themselves against themselves WILLIAM GRIOTT.

William Griott, moulder, stated that many parts of his occupation were dangerous, and such can sometimes be guarded against. Where he works the ventilation is good, and he does not find the fumes dangerous. There are occasional accidents, sometimes from carelessness, but often from defective machinery. Many employes take their meals in the building. In case of fire it would be easy to escape, for mouldng is done on the ground floor. He had no grievances in connection with his work. In only one shop in the city, however, is there a washroom. Generally the men go home to wash. None work where he does under 16 years of age. The sanitary conditions

R. J. MURRAY.

R. J. Murray, barrister, was of the very decided oninion that a factory act is needed for the following reasons: First, there is no provision whatever governing the hours of labor either of women or children, nor any legal condition respecting sanitary as public nuisances. The sanitary con-He knew of children who had ditions in the poorer class of factories books. He knew of children who had been compelled to work extra time in the cotton factory, where sanitary ariences for men and women where they are employed together. In his opinion, as competition becomes more keen, in the better factories the conditions are improved, but because of this very fact complaint to him of what the employe the better factories the conditions are the condition of the poorer factories becomes worse. One of the most important reasons for a factory act is that there should be some regulation fixing a minimum age limit at which children might be employed. Again employes should have some authority to which they can appeal, competent to regulate grievances which exist on account of causing injury to health, or undue competition between men and women, and between adults and children. This should not be delayed because grievances which have become chronic elsewhere are not yet felt here. And it is desirable to place this province on a par with the more enlightened parts of the world while it is yet easy to do so. St. John is almost on the verge of the sweat shop stage. In some shops in hot weather the conditions are not, to say the least, very good. He had in mind a specific in stance, and here the sanitary conditions were not at all good. He knew only from report of children under fourteen years at work in the factories. JAS. R. WOODBURN.

Jas. R. Woodburn, machinist, was next called. His was office work. At present his firm has 9 or 10 employes. The building is a one story structure Only one employe is under 18 years of age. There is a row of windows on each side, and also there is ventilation in the roof. In some businesses he thought it necessary that there be a room for lunch, also separate closets for men and women. In his small shop he did not think a lunch room necessary. The province should have a factory act, for the factories should be under proper public control, especially in St. John. He knew of no children employed under 14 years of knowledge about factories.

Mr. Murray wished to add that at the present time there are no provisions respecting the safeguarding of employes against moving machinery. All factories should be compelled to stand on an equal footing here. One to 90 workers, many of whom work out has only to go into laundries, machine shops and some of the mills in St John to be impressed with the need of protection against moving machin-

> Mr. Sharkey stated in addition what he had already said that it had been found that many employes had been unwilling to give evidence for fear of prejudicing their positions.

Thomas Fitzgerald, carpenter, though not summoned, gave some evidence, He had worked in a woodworking factory about 10 years ago. There are cases, he thought, in which a factory act would be beneficial. Some places are very dusty, especially about the sandpaper machines of woodworking factories. Mr. McCristall, printer, thought factory act was necessary for New Brunswick. The sanitary arrangements were poor and the thirty-five employes were somewhat cramped. He talked with a number of the employes and they expressed themselves as dissatisfied with the existing conditions. The factory he had in mind was an axe factory W. F. Hatheway, wholesale grocer, was the next witness. He was of the opinion that a Factory Act was necessary and gave some reasons for such egislation. In many of the factories the doors opened inward, the stairways were dark, dust was abundant, machinery was unguarded, and sanitation was unsatisfactory. One great reason why there should be a Factory Act was that in many places there were children under 14 years of age employ-

After describing his visits to several factories, Mr. Hatheway said, in answer to a question of Mrs. Fiske, that he kept what could be classed as a factory. He had seven employes packing tea. He admitted that considerable dust was encountered by the workmen and he had often talked with his foreman about methods of providing against it.

Here Commissioner McDonald jumped on Mr. Hatheway. It was a very remarkable thing, he said, that a man posing as a labor leader, and a reformer and pretending to be so terribly concerned about the welfare of his that a state of affairs similar to those Jas. Rev. H. H. Reach said that he was interested in the movement for factory legislation, and believed that it was needed in this province. He instanced cases of parties sending their children to work in factories when they should have been sent to school. The board of health might look after the matter of sanitation.

At this stage the commission took recess, owing to a lack of witnesses. After recess, T. S. Simms, of Simms & Co., brush manufacturers, gave information respecting his factory. He did not think some of the Jewish clothing establishments should be allowed to exist in St. John. He knew of several sweat shops in the north end-three from the corner of Mill to Brooks street, and others in other places. In one that he had visited children were allowed to run about among the machinery. In other a man had seven rooms in which he and his employes lived and worked at making clothing. One girl in a certain establishment was making $8 or $4 a fortnight, and crossed the ferry night and morning. Had there been a factory act when he was young he would have had a better education and his condition would have been better low. A lady had been talking with him recently, an employe of a cotton factory, and had stated that but for her fear of losing her job, upon which her mother as well as herself is largely dependent, she would like to ap-pear before the commission and state the wretched conditions which prevail where she works.

H. C. RANKINE.

Rev. S. A. Fraser of Trinidad was the preacher at St. Stephen's church last Sunday. In opening, Mr. Fraser said he would take it for granted that most of those present knew of the origin of the Trinidad mission. He explained that many Hindus are imported by the government to work on the sugar plantations, and that after five years they are free to work in any way they choose. After ten years they are given, if they wish it, a free passage home, but only about one-third avail themselves of this privilege. These people belong to the old Aryan race. Originally they worshipped one god, but later named this god after his works. In this way they had become polytheists, and gradually pan-Finance-Mrs. Agnes Edgett, Miss theists, who saw God in everything. Later they attempted to explain the inequality of the positions of men This they did by explaining that they had had former lives, and from that life they are condemned to be born again in a higher or lower condition This made them fatalists and caused them to have little fear of crime, for they thought that everything was written in the brain, and was an effect of something done in a former life. Another effect was a fear of killing any Stalker, J. H. Mosher, Mrs. Louis animal for fear of kiling an ancestor. There are at present six missionarie Mrs. Annie McCausland, Miss Kate and two lady teachers in Trinidad. Native boys are educated in the schools and the training college, and afterwards make good teachers. Mr. Fraser mentioned one little girl of six years of age who could repeat the whole of the Presbyterian Shorter Catechism without a mistake. Among the apostles there was one hypocrite, but Mr. Fraser does not think there is one hypocrite in twelve among the Trinidad Christians. Many, he knew, have

THE COSSACK MODE OF FIGHT-ING.

Cossack tactics are modelled after those of the regular cavalry. The sotnia is formed in two ranks, sixty-four files to the front. It is divided into four sections. The sotnia is manoeuvred by sections, and on the road travels by threes or sixes. The Cossacks still retain, from the days of their tribal wars, a formation called the In forming the Lava, whe-"Lava." ther the force is a regiment, or only a sotnia, one-half is deployed in a single line. REV. PROF. KIERSTEAD

Preached in Leinster Street Baptist Church Yesterday.

Rev. Prof. Kierstead of Wolfville, N. , was the preacher at Leinster Street Baptist Church Sunday morning. He took as his text the words: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God. to them that are called according to his purpose."—Romans 8: 28.

The fact that all things were for the use of man, and that they were good for man, were fully in accord with the teachings of modern science. The preacher went into detail about these facts. If a man wished to see anything in England he had to give a good many tips, but if he were to have the favor of the King, then all these underlings would become subservient, and he would have no difficulty in seeing anything. It was far easier to obtain the favor of the Heavenly King, and then everything was given free. spoke of the evolution of the world. saying that the change was far more in men's hearts than in anything else. He then spoke at some length of the power of the love of God in the human soul. The idea of good would depend on the personality, and in the surroundings, and on the dominant idea in a person's mind.

It was not good in business to en deavor to make money only, but a man should try to make his life more full of the idea of true manhood. The true idea should be Christ. They should strive to become members of the divine family and look on Christ as brother. The love of God in the soul was the highest good. Some never loved anything. They were ashamed of enthusiasms. But the only way to become good was to give oneself up to something larger and more powerful. The love of the highest intensifies and enslaves the mind of the one who loves. The love for good in the soul expelled sin, and sin being expelled, there was more harmony with what was pure and righteous. The same It saved a person iating one, but making one more hum-

They were quickly quieted, however, and the commander of the Czarevitch was informed that it was necessary that the Russian flag be hauled down and was then lowered amid impressive formalities, after which Capt, Trup pel visited each of the three destroyers whose flags also were lowered. It is thought that if the Russians persist in repairing their ships they eventually will have to dismantle them because of the vastly superior force of the Japanese which is waiting for them outside the harbor. According to the regulations which govern situations such as the one existing here, the destroyers will not be permitted to leave in a body, but must go out at intervals of six hours. It is believed here that the Russian cruisers Fallada and Diana have reached Vladivostok. A DECISIVE BATTLE.

The battle between Admiral Togo's fleet and the Russian squadron which came out of Port Arthur should have been one of the great sea fights of history. Russia had six battleships, four cruisers, and a number of smaller craft in action. The Japanese squadron first in action, comprised five bat tleships and two cruisers Other cruisers formed a second detachment, but it appears that for a considerable period only the battleships were engaged, ships with lighter armor havwould not appear that the two sides the Japanese victory a foregone con-erate, chiefly on merchants' account, clusion. It is believed here that the least Japan can do is to surrender the destroyer, unless she wishes to place herself on record as defying the most categorical provisions of international law, with the possibilities of ultimate complications. Russian, Japanese and Chinese sions all agree that the vessel was captured in a neutral harbor. The charge of cowardice and complicity brought against the Chinese admiral is based alike on his fallure to protect an unarmed vessel, and on his permitting the Japanese destroyer enter the harbor. The Last Day of Summer was repeatedly recalled. The Bachelor's Dream also drew great enthusiasm, the bachelor keeping an astonishing wonderful restraint on his manly feelings till all the beauties but one having passed by, he led her to the front of the stage. The chief event of the evening was the comedietta. The Rival Burglars, written by Mrs. Robert Randall. The play was bright, the costumes fetching and the acting of great credit to the actors. The leading lady's plot for catching the supposed burglar unawares by getting him interested in a thrilling personal story, was very clever, and worked the audience up to a state of nervous curiosity. The infinite care with which the real burglar examined his field of action was worthy of a medical student in the dissecting room. The blood-curdling risk the rejected lover ran in the role of a burglar, and the bravery he showed by attacking a defenceless woman, gained for him his reward, a resting place on his loved one's heart. It was the premier's misfortune to have but one or two men in his cabinet valty, but because he placed little onfidence in their discretion. This was the chief reason why the premier was to be found in his place on almost all occasions save when social engagements that could not be disregarded caused his absence, and then only for a few hours at a time. Hon. Mr. Fielding, no doubt. Sir Wilfrid regarded as safe lieutenant, but the preparation of the budget speech and the arrangement of the tariff changes made such heavy inroads on the time of the finance minister that it was not always available to fill the post of acting leader. Lord and Lady Minto will be greatly missed by Ottawa society and by residents of the capital generally, for they made themselves beloved by their good works. Lord Minto possesses more than the ability to win popularity and respect. He is gifted with that tact which is generally supposed to be an indispensable attribute of a British coming next to Hon. NOTICE TO FARMERS Who Intend Sending Their Dressed

FIRST.-We want all hogs over 180 bs. to be well fatted; the lighter weights, 100 to 130 lbs., for bacon purpose, quite lean and fleshy. The weights between 130 and 180 lbs. are not desirable for our business, as they are not suitable for either bacon or T. T. LANTALUM, mess pork. SECOND .- We wish to call your attention to the above cut, showing the proper way to dress all hogs over 200 lbs. or even less, when they are fat. During the hot weather, splitting the backbone all the way down allows the animal heat to escape, preventing bone rot, turning green and spoiling. Leave the back fat to hold the sides together. Spread well open and throw plenty cold spring or ice water on them when dressing, and occasionally for two hours after dressing.

When shipping, take out the spreads and tie the legs together, with a few lumps of ice inside, or put on a carwe are now booking orders for September delivery.

AMERICA AND TURKEY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 14.-After olonged pour parlers and considerable haggling on the part of the Turks, a, satisfactory solution of the Ameri can school question has been arrived at. The matter, which is the most important of the American demands, was settled by extending to American schools the same treatment as that accorded to schools under the protection of other powers.

A settlement of other matters affecting American interests in Turkey of condary importance has also been effected, and Minister Leishman has telegraphed to Rear Admiral Jewel, in command of the U. S. squadron sent to Smyrna, instructing him to salute the batteries on land and depart. The sitting of the council of ministers at which the settlement was agreed upon was a long one, and it was not until near its close that an agreement was reached. The delay in the settlement is believed to have been caused by the intervention of the palace functionaries, whose policy, in order to retain the sultan's favor, consists of combatting the rights and privileges of foreign subjects.

The spruce lumber situation is a trifle more encouraging here. The demand has improved of late, prices are firmer and shading of agreement rates is becoming less pronounced. From the regular prices of both frames and randoms there are still concessions. but they are by no means so frequent as they were, and at the moment it looks as though they might be destined to disappear altogether. Orders at the yards are coming along well and timid sellers are taking heart again. Spruce and hemlock boards are selling fairly at prices within the range of the quotations.
