POETRY

Days on which the steamships sail from Europe and America. TO M. A. Written during a voyage across the Atlantic, 1848
BY J. C. WINTERBOTRAM.

I thought of thee when from the shore, I dimly saw "Old Father Land 4" I thought as I ne'er thought before, My soul these thoughts could not withste I thought can hearts thus torn asunder, Still faithful to each other prove And live; and love, and bless each other With one pure deathless love.

I thought of thee when bright stars shone In heaven's blue vanit above me : I thought thy love would burn as bright, And shine with beams as purely. For stare may fade and darkest night May cloud heavens face with blackness But love must live e'en all expire, Still constant pure and fadel

I thought of thee at midnight hour, When moonlit waves were swelling, I thought those beams would fall upon, Thy humble, peaceful dwelling. Heaven's lovely Queen of silent night, With all her beauteous modesty, Is a true picture fair and bright

And safety's peace was given, I thought of death's dark billows' roar,

And the quiet peace of heaven.

My thoughts still linger all around, Those scenes where thou art dwelling; And when my heart would bound away,

THIS SOCIETY is established on a mutual simplified system—the most approved in England; and founded on a basis so acound as to give the most effectual security to its members.

THE DESIGN OF THIS BOCKETY IS.

First—To enable persons to become their own Landlords, and purchase Frechold or Leasehold Properfy, by advances made by the Society.

(A300 postively advanced for A36 a year for electric and a half years, which sum poys both principal and interest. Other sums in proportion)

Secondly—To provide a safe and pictiteble Fund for Sayisos, or Investitents for small or large sums of money. (This Society afters opportunities in this respect which no other Institution in this Proprocince can do;—Saxings! Banks only poy 5 percent, thereas this Society pays 6 per cent. Compound Interest.)

THE OTHER IMPORTANT ADVANTAGES ARE—
Ist.—No money is lent but on security on Real Property.

2d New Members are admitted up to the tim the Society will end, with equal proportionals ad

the purpose of accommodating persons resident in other parts of the Province, hance Office, or Agencies, are formed—where Theres can be ob-

ACRICES, are formed—where there can be obtained, and all the payments made in the various districts; and Locar Bearns of Management will be established so soon as the number of the retaken in any district render it advisable.

The Funes are procured from the Monthly Subt scription of the Mumbers, and also from Monies invested in Pada up Shares, which will always en ame ample means for meeting the advances required.

aure ample means for meeting the sovances required.

The Profits are certain, because the smoont paid by the borrower, for an advance, must necessarily form the fund for paying the tender.

The Expresses of the Society are small, as the Officers act gratiniously, with the exception of the Secretary and Treasurer.

The Free and Firsts form a Contingent Fund out of which the expenses are paid, and the bat lance, which will be very considerable, will go must be general Fund, which will lessen the duration of the Society.

THE LOST CHILD.

The world was hushed; deep silence reigned
Among the dun clad hills,
And naught was heard save o'er the plains

The music of the rills:
And naught above the earth was seen,
Save here and there with glittering sheen, A peerless star revealed Its gem upon the brow of night, And sparkled far in heaven's bright Illimitable field.

Night's state queen, just risen, appeared
A ball of fiery red,
And myriad hosts of brilliant lamps
Were burning overhead;
But soon bedimm'd with a gathering cloud,
As wrapp'd in death's untimely shroud,
Each starry light expired;
And hid hehind the folds of night, The queenly orb withdrew her light, And modestly retired

The Storm God in his mad career Led ou the howling hiast,
And rustling through the birchin boughs,
The snow fell thick and fast: Till o'er the mountain's hoary head Stern Winter's icy robes were spread, And lost was every path.

She drew her mantle to her breasts, And dared the beating storm,
Till, overcome, she sank to rest.
A pale and helpless form.
She dreamed '--and in her dream, behold,
The seenes of childhood backward rolled To that fair, sunny spot, Where she had 10amed, a weary child, By crystal stream and leafy wild, Beside her mountain cot.

Again the flowers of spring had come, Sweet voices filled the air,
The music of the insect's hum,
She deemed was everywhere: To her the chiming spheres were rife, All nature seemed replete with life; But how illusive were The scenes to which that dream had led Her fancy, and how soon they fled And left her lifeless there!

The storm subsided; winter passed Within you forest glen;
