SERG. J. H. BROWN HOME.
Reception to be Accorded He and Pte. Upton To-morrow Night. Sergt. J. Horace Brown arrived home on an early train Saturday morning, having been detained longer than anticipated at Quebec. He has entirely recovered from his wounds and looks every inch a soldier. His two years service has developed him physically and he returns more of a man in appearance. We understand he will receive a commission in the 240th battalion, and hopes to return to the front again before the war is over. As a consequence of Sergt. Brown's not getting here on Friday evening, as expected, the reception prepared by the Speakers' League had to be postponed, and will be tendered to-morrow night. The programme, as outlined, is as follows:— The high and public school cadets, and Boy Scouts, headed by the Bugle band of the 240th from Renfrew, will assemble at the town hall at 7:30 and form in procession, to be followed by members of the Town Council, Speakers' League and citizens generally. They will proceed to the home of Mr. J. M. Brown, where Horace will be picked up, then cross the river to William street, where Pte. H. Upton will be called for, and then return to the town hall, where an address and presentations will be made and a programme of music will be rendered. Everybody is invited to turn out and make the welcome as cordial as possible.

Mrs. S. Burns has bought Mrs. Wm. Lewis' house on Frank street. George Pepper has taken over the management of the Victoria Hotel, Danark, from his father. Mr. Thos. Nesbitt, of the 9th Line Beckwith, is on the sick list, having received a stroke on Sunday. Mrs. Chas. Jolly and baby boy, of Toronto, have been spending a few days with Carleton Place friends. Mrs. J. E. Armstrong, of Ottawa, has been spending a few days in Carleton Place, the guest of Mrs. David Gillies. Mr. Geo. Watters, of Montreal, is spending a few weeks here, the guest of her father, Mr. Peter Cram, and other relatives. Capt. J. H. Bates, who took a special course in the Royal Military College at Halifax during the summer, attained his majority, and is now Major Bates.

Is your name on the Columbia Dealer's mailing list? Every owner of a disc machine should receive the monthly supplement. Call in and have your name put on the list. W. M. ALLEN, Columbia Dealer.

Mr. D. B. Oliver, manager of the Union Bank here, left for Quebec on Saturday morning, where he will join a party of friends for a fortnight's outing in the Lake St. John district. The body of Sergeant-Major Joseph Durocher, of the 230th Voltigeur Battalion, C.E.F., was found in the Rideau Canal, at Ottawa. He was a married man and enlisted at Blind River, Ont. An inquest will be held. Mr. Jeffrey, for some time past organist in Cornwall Presbyterian church, has been engaged as organist in Pembroke Methodist church, succeeding Mr. C. J. L. Rickwood, who resigned last winter to enlist with the 136th battalion. Several members of the 130th have been making home visits the last week. Among them we have noticed Geo. Cameron, John Hill and Ed. White. From Kingston, of the Queen's Ambulance Corps, Dawson Emerson and Wesley Peever have been down. Dr. J. J. McGregor, who has been License Inspector for the past ten years for North Lanark, has received the appointment of Inspector for the whole County under the Ontario Temperance Act. As the new position will require his entire time he has closed his veterinary office here. The Doctor's experience should qualify him for the more important office, and we congratulate him upon his promotion.

Death of Gilbert J. Johnson.
Sad indeed was the death of Mr. Gilbert J. Johnson, accountant in the Hawthorn and Bates & Innes mills, which occurred on Thursday afternoon last at his home on Neelin street. Typhoid fever was his fatal ailment. The deceased was 37 years of age, and came to Carleton Place about 18 months ago. On the 11th July he was married at Hamilton to Miss Edith Walker, and the young couple were quite happy in making a home for themselves when illness overtook the husband, and notwithstanding all that could be done to overcome the disease the result was fatal. Mrs. Walker, sen., and Mrs. Johnson, sen., were both present when the final summons came. The remains were taken to Hamilton for interment, leaving here by the 11 a.m. train Friday. The local Oddfellows, of which Order deceased was a member, furnished the pallbearers, Messrs. D. Smythe, W. J. Hughes, J. M. Barber, Robt. McLaren, W. M. Allen and D. S. Cameron officiating. They also placed a wreath of flowers upon the casket. During Mr. Johnson's residence in town he made many friends, and his demise is very deeply lamented. To the bereaved wife and other relatives the deepest sympathy is extended in their hour of sorrow.

Corp. Mitchell of Smiths Falls Home
Corp. Roy Mitchell who made almost as great a sacrifice as those who gave their lives for Canada and Empire on the battlefields of Flanders, is home, arriving on Tuesday night. His mother, sisters, and brothers wanted the hero to themselves for a few days and therefore no public reception was extended but a fitting reception and presentation will be tendered in a few days. Roy, who lost a leg from shrapnel wounds and had the other badly shattered is now in good health and speaks in glowing terms of the treatment and attention given in France, at the Canadian and English rear hospitals.—News.

Parth Man Loses an Arm.
While working in the railway yards at Perth, Patrick McGlade had his right arm taken off when he fell under the wheels of the Perth local express. The train was backing into the station preparatory to starting, when McGlade slipped and fell under the wheels, his arm being completely severed near the shoulder.

Boat Hand Drowned near Pembroke.
A sad drowning accident occurred a week ago at the entrance to the Culbute channel, the victim being James Brown, who has lived in Pembroke for a number of years past. The unfortunate man was employed on the Steamer Powell for the past few weeks, and was letting the boat out through the boom when he met his death. He had released the tow line and was going to let off the bow line when he suddenly fell backward into the water. He sank without making a struggle, the water at that point being about twenty feet deep. The body did not rise at all, and was recovered some time later by the boat crew near the point where he went down. Brown was about 28 years of age, of medium height and stout build, with fair complexion and crooked eyes. Some time ago he enlisted with the 230th battalion, Ottawa, but was rejected on his final medical examination.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reverses dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

THE ELDER SISTER.

There is no character in the home circle more useful and beautiful than a devoted elder sister who stands side by side with the toiling mother, lightening all her cares and burdens. How beautiful the household machinery moves on with such efficient help. Now she presides at the table in her mother's absence always so neatly attired that it is with pride the father introduces her to his guests as "our oldest daughter." Now she takes a little troop into the garden with her and amuses them, so mother may not be disturbed in her work or her rest. Now she helps the boys with their hard lessons or reads father's paper aloud to rest his tired eyes. If mother can run away for a few days' recreation she leaves home without any anxiety, for Mary will guide her house wisely and happily in her absence. But in the sick room her presence is an especial blessing. Her hand is next to mother's own in gentleness and skill. Her sweet music can charm any pain and brighten the weariest hours. There are elder sisters whose presence is not such a blessing in the home. Their own selfish ends and aims are the main pursuits in life, and anything that stands in the way of these is regarded with great impatience. Such daughters are no comfort to a mother's heart. Which kind of an elder sister are you in the household?

TWO PATHS IN LIFE.

Just in front of every young man and young woman who reads this department are two paths leading into the future, and it is for them to select which path they will journey in. To aid them in selecting are their neighbors, some of whom in early life selected one path and others the opposite. The neighbor who made the wise choice can be seen returning to his home for the evening meal, his face radiant with joy as the children meet him at the gate, each one endeavoring to get the first kiss. The other neighbor goes home thru the alley, his step is unsteady, his face flushed from disipation, the children flee to the mother as he approaches. These two neighbors had an equal start upon life's voyage, the difference now so plainly visible is caused by the paths they selected to travel in at the beginning of journey. A few years of training in our schools upon the one hand, or on the streets upon the other hand, will make all the difference you see in the neighbors.

Young men, black your own boots and bid every man black his. Keep your own hands in your own pockets. Pay cash, take cash. Never marry an accomplished lady. The latest meaning of that word "accomplished" is "rinsed." The truest type, for you, of blessed

Skirts to be Longer.

Women's skirts are to be narrow and there will be more of them. Representatives of women's clothing houses returning from France to New York stated that the fashionable fall girl will be the silhouette girl. Long and narrow is the silhouette girl, her skirt will have an opportunity to become acquainted with her shoe-tops, and the "hoops my dear" effect that was so given to ballooning is now at fault.

Twin C.P.R. Yards at Smiths Falls

The C.P.R. will have one of the biggest terminals of the system at Smiths Falls in the near future. On Saturday 200 men were brought here to work at track laying in the east end yard and as quickly as the work can be done it will be pushed to completion. For two or three months Mr. Macdonald, the contractor, has been excavating the rock in the new part of the yard, and the company has been hauling innumerable train loads of gravel to fill in the low places. A good deal of the ground is now ready for the tracks and the work of putting them down began yesterday. The immediate addition to the yard will provide about four extra miles of track, making accommodation for 500 cars, but it is understood a much bigger extension of the yard is under contemplation. When the present work is finished, what may be called the "Twin Yards" at Smiths Falls will be as large as the largest single yard on the eastern system. The 200 men now at work in the new yard are chiefly foreigners. For their accommodation a string of Italian sleeping cars has been placed along the tracks and in these they live very comfortably. There are about fifty of these moveable boarding houses.—Rideau Record.

Part of the Brutalizing Effect of War.

While the Crimean war was on the elder Chambers of that day published, in the Journal bearing his name, some reminiscences of the Napoleonic wars. One of the incidents mentioned in these reminiscences occurred in London. A couple of officers, on leave from Wellington's Peninsula campaign, were delayed in reaching a theatre by the dilatoriness of their cab driver. As punishment one of the officers promptly ran the offender through with his sword. A somewhat similar incident occurred in Glasgow the other day. A wounded and discharged soldier named O'Hara, angered by the noise of a crowd in rear of his tent, hurled a live bomb into their midst and a man and girl were killed and a dozen injured. There is no "sanctity" of human life in war time.

WINE JELLY.

Directions How to Make This Delicacy For Your Dinner Dessert.

Half pint of lemon juice, one-fourth pint of sherry, one and one-fourth pints of water, one-half pound of cube sugar, one and one-half ounces of gelatin (unless in warm weather; then two ounces), whites and shells of two eggs. Peel the rind of the lemons very thin and put them in a clean saucepan which has been rinsed out with boiled water and not dried. Put in the sugar, gelatin and two-thirds of the liquid and stir gently until all are dissolved. Take the whites and shells of the eggs, the shells slightly crushed, add the rest of the liquid and whip until there is a froth on top. Then mix in with the gelatin and continue whipping until the whole froths well, but be sure to stop beating before it comes to a boil. Let it continue boiling gently for about five minutes, then leave to settle before straining. If you have not got a regular jelly bag strain through a double fold of cheesecloth, but whatever you use be sure to scald it well by pouring boiling water through before putting in the hot jelly. Empty the bowl under the jelly bag, drain well, but do not clog. Ladle the jelly into the cloth very gently, and do not do the straining in a cool place or in a draft, as it must be kept hot. If it is not quite clear at the first straining let it run through a second time.

Get Plenty of Sleep.

There is nothing so fatal to beauty as sleepless nights. Give up tea and coffee entirely. If possible, all mental work must be laid aside for a few hours before going to bed. Do not have any amusement that will excite the nerves. The things that you can do to induce sleep are many. Take plenty of brisk exercise in the open air. Before retiring take a hot foot bath. This will draw the blood away from the brain, which is a necessary condition for sleep. A cold douche on the spine is another method you can give with a bath spray. General baths should be warm. Sleeping rooms should be well ventilated and cool. Do not eat immediately before retiring. A glass of warm milk will overcome insomnia after other suggestions have failed.

Plain Loaf Sponges Cake.

Break the five eggs into a bowl; add one cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt and beat for fifteen minutes. Sift the flour and add to the eggs and sugar, folding in very lightly; do not beat after adding the flour. Line a pan nine inches square, or a brick pan, with paper, pour in the mixture and bake for forty minutes. Flavor to taste.

Delight Cake.

One cupful of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, sifted together; one table-spoonful of butter in cup, melt. Break egg in butter, fill up with milk. Flavor. Beat all well. This cake calls for only one egg. Bake in moderate oven.

Embroidered Chiffon.

Chiffon embroidered in self color or contrasting color in large flowers is much used in combination with plain taffeta or crepe for afternoon frocks.

TESTING SEEDS SIMPLE MATTER.

Two methods for testing the small seeds, such as timothy, orchard grass, clovers and the like, vary only in the materials used to keep the moisture near the seeds. Sometimes blotting paper is used and at other times cloth. Two plates are taken and a sheet of blotting paper put on each plate. The two papers are moistened quite a little, the counted seed placed upon one paper and the plate with the other paper inverted over the first plate. The plates tend to hold in the moisture, but they should be examined every day until the test is finished for fear the blotters get too dry.—Farm Progress.

SUDAN GRASS IN KANSAS.

Good Results From Trial Plantings in That State.

Sudan grass, the new sorghum that received such widespread notoriety last year, is showing up well again in Kansas this year. The result of the trial plantings in all parts of the state shows that it is a crop that has come to stay.

In the western part of the state, where other tame grasses cannot be grown, Sudan grass can be used successfully. Although the grass is primarily a hay crop, careful tests from the standpoint of a pasture crop have been made by the branch experiment stations at Hays and Dodge City as well as by many farmers, and the results have been found promising.

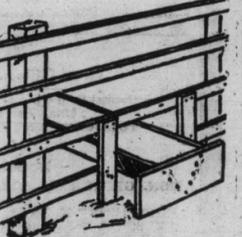

Western Kansas farmers feel that in Sudan grass they have a crop that will add thousands of dollars to their profits every year, since it will afford a hay crop to the upland farmer that will mean as much to him as alfalfa means to the bottom land farmer. The crop has been successfully grown in Shawnee and other eastern counties.

Sudan grass bids fair to replace millets and canes as a hay crop in some sections of Kansas. Experiments have shown that under normal conditions two crops can be depended upon. The yield is larger than millet, being from four to five tons an acre. Furthermore, horses and cattle are fond of it and will leave almost any other kind of roughage for Sudan grass, cleaning up heads, blades and stalks. One farmer said in a letter to the agronomy department of the college in regard to the feeding value of the hay, "It makes good hay that horses and cattle fall in love with at first sight."

Some of the most desirable characteristics of Sudan grass are its drought resistant qualities, its ability to produce on thin land and its quick maturity under ordinary conditions. These qualities, coupled with the seemingly superior palatability, make the crop reasonably sure of a permanent place in Kansas agriculture.

Trough For Pigs.

The feeder can pour slops into this trough without having to stoop and overhanging litter of pigs climbing his bootlegs and spilling the feed from the bucket. It extends possibly a foot on the outside of the pen and makes feeding easy and simple. The two uprights will be needed to hold the trough in place. That common accident of having part of the slop spilled by the hogs or having them thrust head and shoulders under the stream from the pail will be prevented by this.—Farm Progress.

Where to Plant Orchards.

A year or so ago a young farmer was told to set his orchard on a hill where the trees would not be so likely to suffer from late frosts as they are down in a valley. The cold air settles down into the valley and drives the warm air up, which protects the trees on high ground, while those on the low ground may suffer. The young farmer now says that he notices the buds on the trees down in the valley are the first to swell. That is another reason for keeping fruit trees up on high ground. Trees that are down in a valley, protected from cold winds, are apt to start early, and the buds, being early, are all the more likely to suffer from late frosts. Plant orchards on high, sloping ground where are good air and drainage, and less trouble than otherwise will be experienced with late frosts.

Need Men on Farms.

Employment agents in the cities are besieged with requests from farmers and gardeners for farm workers and milkers at from $25 to $30 a month, with board and lodging. For every ten demands made for this class of employees only one man is supplied, and frequently he is inexperienced and unable to perform the duties required. Employment agents are doing their utmost to obtain farm and garden workers by offering highly increased wages, but their appeals are unheeded.

Cost of Food in Germany and in England.

A neutral press correspondent, who was lately in Berlin, says that in German restaurants a dish of milk, rice and potatoes, or fish hash with sauerkraut, cost 50c. A herring with buttered potatoes costs 62c. A light meal to-day costs twice as much as a full one before the war. A chicken costs $3.75 as a minimum, a goose $12.50 to $15. A very little box of sardines, formerly 12c, now costs 45 cents, and sausage is $1.50 a pound. Rice is nearly 40 cents a shop. There are no more pastry cook shops and no more confectioners, owing to the scarcity of sugar, flour and milk. Milk is strictly reserved for children and hospital patients.

Even in the United Kingdom, despite the fact that the seas are open to the latter, food prices have reached an altitude undreamed of before the war. The price of bread is 18 cents the quarter loaf. It is expected that bread prices will go higher before the war ends, because Britain has less home-grown wheat than she had last year, and supplies available from Canada and the United States, the principal outside sources drawn upon, are at least 40% less than in 1915.

All kinds of food-stuffs are up in England. The London mail says that beef is up 61 per cent. above its prewar price, bacon 41 per cent., flour 44 per cent., potatoes 91 per cent., sugar 163 per cent., milk, 38 per cent., butter, 24 per cent., and tea 51 per cent. The Westminster Gazette believes that these advances are largely the result of extortion by middlemen. The Government, it says, can buy beef for the army at 6d. per lb., while private consumers pay 8d. or 9d., and wants to know why the Government cannot do the buying for the whole community. Another step towards State Socialism.

ROWELL AND THE TEMPERANCE ACT

Toronto, September 16.—The following statement was made by Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.P.P., Leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, on September 8th before leaving London, England.

"September 16th marks a new era in the industrial and social life of the Province," said Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Leader of the Liberal Opposition in Ontario in speaking to The Globe today with reference to the coming into operation of the new Ontario Temperance Act.

"When the war is over, and our gallant soldiers who survive the conflict have returned to their homes, and normal conditions have been re-established, the people of the Province will have the opportunity of saying whether they wish the law to continue, or to revert to former conditions. I am convinced that if the law is well enforced, it will be as permanent as our local option laws have proved to be, and the benefits to the whole Province will be as great as or greater than those which have accrued to citizens in local option communities."

Presence of Mind. Gitz-Rice is a pianist. So anyone will concede who ever listened to him drawing melody from the key-board. He is also a diplomat and a person of resource.

Some time ago he was entertaining an English battalion. For a start he slipped them a string of the syncopated stuff, rag-time of the raggiest sort. Applause was lavish. Then with the fatal ease of long practice, he pulled a solemn face and said: "Gentlemen, when I visited in London, I visited St. Paul's Cathedral. The venerable, old pile seemed to breathe of peace and piety. With hushed step and bowed head I stole into a vacant seat. I shall now endeavor to give you an imitation of what I heard if you'll 'stand for it.'"

What he really meant to do was to give them a series of musical gymnastics, chimes, that sort of thing.

To his surprise, at the words "if you'll stand for it," the Colonel rose and all the officers and men stood up. With admirable presence of mind, Gitz-Rice struck the opening chords of "Nearer My God to Thee," which he played through with tremendous expression.

The Colonel thanked him, saying it was "one of the most impressive things he had ever listened to."—Listening Post.

WAR LOAN DOMINION OF CANADA YIELDING PRACTICALLY 5.35% As with the previous Loan, we predict a great success for this issue. During this period of stress our Government needs our help and counts upon our patriotism.

PRICES IN CANADA, 1915.

The great rise in prices during the war, which became very steep after the middle of 1915, is shown in the report just issued by the Department of Labour, entitled "Wholesale Prices in Canada, 1915," which also contains information regarding retail prices and prices in other countries.

In Canada the wholesale prices of 272 commodities averaged over 8 per cent higher than in 1914, and 9 per cent higher than in 1913, while the retail prices of some thirty foods were 2 per cent higher than in 1914 and 7 per cent higher than in 1913, allowing for the importance of each article in family consumption.

By December, 1915, however, the steep rise had brought the index number of wholesale prices to a point 20 per cent higher than in July, 1914, while retail food prices had risen 10 per cent during the same period.

The index number of wholesale prices stood at 148.0 for the year as compared with 136.1 for 1914, and 135.5 for 1913, but by December, 1915, had reached 161.1 as compared with 134.6 for July, 1914. A weekly family budget of food averaged $7.86 for 1915, $7.73 for 1914 and $7.33 for 1913, but for December, 1915, stood at $8.13 as compared with $7.42 in July, 1914.

It may be noted that the rise in prices has continued during the current year as shown from month to month in the Labour Gazette. The index number of wholesale prices reached 180.9 for May, but declined slightly thereafter, metals, chemicals and certain materials being lower. In retail food prices the weekly budget reached $8.63 for August, there being a decline only in July when mid-summer conditions lowered prices very slightly.

In other countries retail food prices also rose steeply, the rise from the beginning of the war to the end of 1915 being calculated as high as 113 per cent for Austria, 83 per cent for Germany, over 30 per cent in the Netherlands, Norway and Italy, and 44 per cent in Great Britain. In Australia the rise was nearly 30 per cent, as a result of drought, while in New Zealand it was only 16 per cent. In Japan, prices were lower than in 1914 and 1913.

The results of the great rises were considerable increases in the cost of living, particularly in the expenditure on foods. In clothing, house furnishings, etc., stocks in the hands of manufacturers and dealers were often sufficient to prevent great rises for some time even a year or more, but in food increases were immediately felt. At the beginning of 1915 staple foods were substantially higher than before the war though in many cases somewhat lower than the high levels reached during the weeks of uncertainty and speculation which followed its outbreak.

The report shows that the rising prices were accompanied by increased activity in industry and trade. Not only did the needs for the prosecution of the war make necessary increased production in many lines and new production in goods never before attempted or thought of, but production was renewed in many lines and in many districts abandoned previously owing to the poor returns normally obtainable. These changes again had great influence in stimulating other branches of industry and trade, causing higher prices. This reaction was soon experienced in many lines at first depressed by war conditions. In Canada, wheat, oats, flour, cheese, butter packed meats, pulp and paper first felt the stimulation of increased demand due to war conditions but these were soon followed by wool, fish, leather, zinc, copper, chemicals, New Brunswick lumber, linseed oil, and later iron and steel as well as most metals and metal products.

In the latter part of 1915 the upward movement was particularly strong in metals, chemicals and wool, while in jute, silk, rubber, etc., among imported materials the rise was marked.

The largest application yet to the Dominion war loan is by the C.P.R. for $2,500,000 of bonds.

The Provincial Anglican Synod of Ontario endorsed the revised Book of Common Prayer, except the form of recitation of the Athanasian Creed.

Lord Northcliffe says there are 80,000 German agents in Spain, all of them constantly busy flooding the country with propaganda matter against the Entente Allies.

BRITISH COLUMBIA not only turned out an extravagant government but joined the other western provinces by carrying prohibition as well.

THE British provincial elections may likely return forty or forty-one Liberals and six or seven Conservatives. Prohibition is carried so far by over 6,000 majority, and woman suffrage by more than 8,500.

SOME people appear to be timid about taking the new Dominion Government War Loan. They don't seem to realize that the security is gilt edged. The conditions of the loan are that 97 1/2 is paid for a par share with interest at 5 per cent which realizes the investor 5.40 per cent. About the best obtainable in other monetary institutions is 3 per cent. Even post office deposits only pay 3 per cent rate. Any person of small means as well as large revenues would do well to give the matter consideration.

THE CROP REPORT.

Ottawa, September 14.—In a bulletin issued to-day, the Census and Statistics Office publishes the first or preliminary estimate of the yield of the principal grain crops of Canada in 1916 (wheat, rye, barley, oats and flaxseed), as well as a report on the condition of all field crops at the end of August.

EFFECTS OF RUST DURING AUGUST.

Correspondents report that grain crops in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, which were highly promising at the end of July, have been so seriously affected by rust and hot winds during August, that large areas sown will either fail to produce any crop at all, or have been cut green, whilst the yield of grain from producing areas will be very low both in quantity and grade. Whilst the whole of Manitoba and Saskatchewan is badly affected by rust, the conditions are distinctly worse in the southern than they are in the northern parts of these provinces. In Alberta, rust, though present to a certain extent, has not proved destructive, and the grain crops continue promising. Frosts however of August 11 and again late in the month did considerable damage. In Ontario and Quebec grain yields have been greatly reduced by drought in August, but in the Maritime provinces and in British Columbia the condition of the grain crops has continued to be quite favorable.

YIELD OF PRINCIPAL CEREALS.

It is estimated from the reports of correspondents that of the areas sown about 13.7 per cent of spring wheat, 8 per cent of oats, 5 per cent of barley and 1.8 per cent of flax will fail to produce any crop of grain. Of the areas sown, however, 3 per cent of wheat, 5 per cent of oats and a small area of barley have been cut for green-feed or turned into hay. These percentages represent deductions from the areas sown of 1,423,300 acres of spring wheat, 849,000 acres of oats and 69,100 acres of barley. It is consequently estimated that the total yield of wheat this year will be 168,811,000 bushels from a harvested area of 10,085,300 acres, as compared with 376,303,600 bushels from 12,986,400 acres last year and 161,290,000 bushels from 10,293,900 acres in 1914. The average yield per acre is 16 1/2 bushels as compared with 29 bushels last year and 15.67 bushels in 1914. The estimate for oats is a total yield of 341,602,000 bushels from 9,795,000 acres, as against 520,103,000 bushels from 11,362,000 acres in 1915 and 313,078,000 bushels from 10,061,500 acres in 1914, the average per acre being 34.88 bushels in 1916, 45.76 bushels in 1915 and 31.12 bushels in 1914. For rye, the estimate is 1,990,800 bushels from 101,420 acres, as compared with 2,304,100 bushels from 112,300 acres in 1915 and 2,016,800 bushels from 111,290 acres in 1914, the yields per acre being 19.63 bushels in 1916, 21.32 bushels in 1915 and 18.12 bushels in 1914. Barley yields 34,408,000 bushels from 1,326,800 acres, as against 53,331,300 bushels from 1,509,350 acres in 1915 and 36,201,000 bushels from 1,496,600 acres in 1914, the yield per acre being 25.89, 32.33 and 24.21 bushels respectively. The flaxseed estimate is for 8,625,300 bushels from 710,000 acres, an average of 12.15 bushels per acre. For the three Northwest provinces the total estimated yields are for wheat 145,466,000 bushels, for oats 243,114,000 bushels, for barley 24,502,000 bushels, for rye 601,000 bushels and for flax 8,572,000 bushels. The average yields per acre of wheat are in Manitoba 10 1/2, Saskatchewan 16 and Alberta 24 1/2 bushels per acre.

CONDITION OF FIELD CROPS.

At the end of August, the condition of field crops, expressed in percentage of a standard representing a full crop, was as follows: Spring wheat 69, oats, 74, barley 73, rye 80, peas 68, corn for husking 67, potatoes 72, alfalfa 94, corn for fodder 77, pasture 86, hay and clover 108. All other crops ranged between 75 and 78. In Manitoba the condition of spring wheat was marked down to 37 per cent as against 85 per cent in Saskatchewan to 61 per cent and against 94 per cent at the end of July. The percentage of 1916 for Manitoba on August 31 is the lowest on record since the present crop reporting system began in 1908.

GAINS ARE EXTENDED

Both British and French Advance on the Somme.

Total Advance Made by the British in Two Days is From One to Two Miles Deep Over a Front of Six Miles.—French Take Two Villages and Have Crushed in Two Ties of Southern Line of Great German Salient.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Both the British and French increased their gains on the Somme front during the last 24 hours.

The British in further attacks Saturday enlarged ground gained in Friday's great drive. They captured 51 officers and 1,700 men in straightening out their lines. The number of prisoners taken indicates that the progress made in the course of the "ribbling process" is important.

Saturday night Sir Douglas Haig's troops again extended their gains near Courcellette on a front of 1,000 yards, pushing their lines further north-eastward against Bapaume. At the same time they captured the formidable German stronghold known as the "Danube" trench, on a front of about a mile, near Thiepval, and the powerful fieldwork near the Mouquet farm, bitterly contested for many weeks. Sunday Sir Douglas Haig's troops repulsed a series of strong German counter-attacks and consolidated Saturday's gains. They took 249 prisoners, including six officers.

The total advance made by the British in the two days' fighting, according to Sir Douglas Haig's Sunday night report, is from one to two miles deep, and extends over a front of six miles. Altogether the British captured 4,000 men and 116 officers, six guns, fifty machine guns and much material. Sunday's aerial successes brought the number of German machines destroyed since Saturday morning up to 15.

The French after two days of comparative rest resumed their drive south of the Somme Sunday afternoon. They captured the villages of Vermandovillers and Berny, portions of which they have held for more than a week. The day's fighting put the French in possession of the whole ground between the Vermandovillers, Denicourt, and the Denicourt-Berny sectors. At Denicourt the Germans are still desperately defending every inch of ground, but the two tips of the southern line of the great salient have been completely crushed in. General Foch's infantry added still further to this success by capturing a number of trenches between Berny and Barleux. Repeated furious counter-attacks were beaten off by the French curtain of fire. Seven hundred prisoners, including 15 officers, were taken by the French in the day's advance.

Saturday night's report reads: "To-day (Saturday), south of the Ancre we continued our attack in certain localities, and further progress has been made. Since yesterday we advanced to a depth of from one to two miles on a front of six miles.

The number of prisoners taken to-day is over 1,700, of whom 51 are officers. The total number of prisoners captured in the fighting of the last two days is over 4,000, of whom 116 are officers. "Up to the present six guns and over fifty machine guns are reported to have been taken or destroyed, and a considerable quantity of war material has been captured. "Further reports on the aerial fighting on September 15 bring the total of German machines destroyed to fifteen. Another hostile kite balloon was brought down in flames this afternoon.

"Two more of our machines are missing, making altogether six." Sunday afternoon's report reads: "South of the Ancre our troops achieved further success. Last evening we extended our gains on a front of about 1,000 yards. In the neighborhood of Thiepval we obtained a considerable success yesterday evening by capturing the hostile fortifications known as the Danube trench on a front of about a mile. Here the enemy abandoned considerable quantities of rifles and equipment. We also captured the strongly defended work at Mouquet Farm, possession of which had been hotly contested for some weeks past.

"The number of prisoners is increasing. "A number of successful minor enterprises were also carried out by us last night on other parts of the British front."

PALESTINE BOMBED.

British Seaplanes Drop Explosives on Railway Junction.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The following report was issued by the British War Office Sunday: "Between August 25 and 29 a series of attacks and reconnaissances upon the enemy's railway communications in Palestine were carried out by a British seaplane squadron under somewhat hazardous conditions, due to the fact that the railway runs for the most part behind a range of mountains difficult for seaplanes to surmount.

"Bombs were dropped on Afulah Junction, where considerable damage was done to the rolling stock and stores in the vicinity. A railway engine and fourteen carriages were set afire and destroyed. The railway stations at Tulkerim and Arzania and an enemy camp four miles to the north-west were successfully bombed and severely damaged. "On the 26th seaplanes bombed the railway station at Home, 45 miles inland."

BULGARIANS RETIRING

They Cannot Withstand Force of Allied Assaults.

Monastir is the Objective of the Serbian Army Which is Eager to Revenge Betrayal by Bulgaria.—Bulgarian Right Was Easily Swept Back by Irresistible Onrush of Serbs, French, and Russians.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Bulgarian right wing in Macedonia, unable to check the furious onrush of Serbs, French, and Russian forces, is continuing to retire north-westward on both sides of Lake Ostrovo, in the direction of Monastir. Equally great pressure is exerted on their left wing by the British and Italians on the Struma. The Bulgarian War Office late Sunday admitted the loss of Nisepet and Nina, near Lake Ostrovo. The French big guns are keeping up an incessant drumfire against the Bulgarian centre between the Vardar and Lake Doiran, the defenders' guns replying vigorously.

The Serbs during the last 24 hours again defeated the Bulgarians in battles before Vetrenik and Kajmakcalan, east of the Czerna River, according to Sunday's statement from Gen. Sarrail's headquarters at Salonica. They also drove the Bulgars over the Brod River, north-west of Lake Ostrovo. The defenders are "powerfully entrenched" on the right bank of the river, according to the official report.

Meanwhile the Franco-Russian forces forming the link between the allied left and centre are pushing their pursuit of the Bulgarians toward Florina. Their advance guards have arrived before the town, but it is still held by the Bulgarians, though its capture is expected hourly.

Seventeen miles to the north of Florina lies Monastir, the important Macedonian city, the possession of which has for decades been one of the bones of contention between the Bulgars and Serbs. It was taken by the Bulgarians last fall, after terrible fighting, and has been fortifiably fortified during the past twelve months. The Bulgarians are expected to make a desperate stand to hold it, while the Serbians fighting on their own soil, will bend might and main to take it and thus clear the path for the reconquest of their kingdom. They are led by the Serbian air-appeared, Prince Alexander, who has sworn to avenge Bulgaria's betrayal of the Slav cause.

Monastir lost, the Bulgars would be exposed to a flanking attack from the right, for a strong Italian force in Southern Albania is eagerly awaiting a chance to aid from the side in the Macedonian campaign and thus establish a claim for the long coveted "windows on the Adriatic." As long as Monastir is safe, it acts as a blocking stone to a junction of the Italians with the Allies. Sunday Serbian War Office "announcements" foreshadowed the capture of Florina by stating "the Serbians have already descended into the Florina Plains."

Powerful as were the first line defences of the Bulgarian right, it was swept back with comparative ease by the embittered dash of the Serbs during the last five days. An interesting psychological factor is that when General Sarrail some months ago assigned the Serbians to the left wing the Bulgarian general staff felt considerable relief. From that quarter they expected the least danger, for the Serbian army was generally considered irreparably shattered and its spirit broken. The Serbian positions were regarded as defensive rather than offensive. The Bulgarian line was fortifiably fortified in anticipation of drum fire from the French big guns, but open infantry battles were not looked for. Thus the expected Serbian onrush when the signal for the Allied offensive was given took the Bulgars by surprise. How precipitate their retreat has been is indicated by the fact that the pursuers captured thirty-two guns, many as yet uncounted prisoners, and huge quantities of material. Tremendous losses were inflicted on the Bulgars, the Serbian headquarters report says, one regiment alone losing two-thirds of its effectives.

DRIVING ON LEMBERG.

Russians Have Resumed Advance on Galician City.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The Russians have resumed the drive on Lemberg with full vigor. The Petrograd War Office announced Sunday night that the Russians have captured Teuton positions south of Brzezany, 46 miles south-east of Lemberg, taking 14 officers and 557 Turkish soldiers. In an encircling movement against Hallez, 60 miles south of the Galician capital, the Russians have taken 3,174 German prisoners, including 34 officers. The fall of Hallez is expected hourly.

Simultaneously with the resumption of the campaign against Lemberg the Russians took the offensive in Volhynia, on the whole front south of Pinsk. The German War Office stated Sunday afternoon that the Muscovite attacks, launched "mornings, afternoon, and evening" on a front of twelve and a half miles, with "strong forces and in numerous waves," were repulsed everywhere. The Russian losses are termed "monstrous" in official reports from the fighting ground.

Berlin asserts officially that the Russian assaults between the Sereth and the Strypa (Galician front south-east of Lemberg) were equally fruitless. A slight withdrawal of Archduke Karl Franz Josef's front on the Narajovka River is admitted officially by both Berlin and Vienna.

Commission at Prince Rupert. PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., Sept. 18.—Sir George Foster and the Dominion Royal Commission arrived here Friday night.

SOLDIER KILLED AT CAMP BORDEN.

Camp Borden, Ont., Sept. 15.—A bad automobile accident occurred at Camp Borden at 7 o'clock this morning, when Pte. Gordon Mason Suddaby, of the 216th (Bantam) Battalion, was instantly killed by an automobile belonging to the 198th Canadian Buffs. The soldier was killed before the eyes of Lieut.-Col. F. L. Burton, his commanding officer, who had sent him to the road to ascertain the name of a march which the band of the 170th Battalion was playing while passing the lines of the 216th. The private was hurled fifteen feet into the air by the automobile and immediate medical attention was futile. Many bones were broken.

The deceased, who was 23 years of age, was an orphan, but has a sister in Ottawa. He was born in Winchester, Ontario, and enlisted last spring in Barrie. The remains were taken to Barrie to-day for interment. According to Colonel Burton, the car was travelling 25 miles per hour past the marching troops. An investigation has been ordered. The speed limit on the camp streets is twelve miles per hour.

Sir Sam Hughes is visiting Scotland and Ireland.

LANARK.

Mr. Allie Buffam, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Buffam, is another Lanark boy to join the colors in the west.

Lanark Fair records its perennial presentation as one more success added to the long list now standing to its credit.

"Jimmy" Legary left yesterday for Englehart, where he has secured a position in the T. & N.O. shops as "wiper," the initiatory step towards eventually becoming a locomotive engineer.

He was accompanied north by his sister, Mrs. Harvey Thomas, who had been visiting here for several weeks.

Mr. James Yuill of Hopetown, met with a severe accident last Wednesday while on his way home from Middleville cheese factory with a load of whey.

The reach of his wagon broke and the cans fell off, frightening the horses and in the resultant runaway Mr. Yuill had a couple of ribs broken besides being considerably bruised.

Mr. and Mrs. Arch Rankin of Middleville, on their way from home to Lanark Fair last Friday, met with a mishap which prevented them from reaching their destination and gave them a severe shaking up.

The horses shied at some unfamiliar object on the roadside and caused the buggy to keel over, throwing the occupants on to the ground.

Both were severely shaken up and bruised but were able to make their way into Mr. Robert Reid's house. They were forced to abandon their visit to the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cooper returned home this morning from Cobalt where they had been spending a few days with their son, William D., mine captain at the Temiskaming, and incidentally celebrating their golden wedding.

ROLL OF HONOR

Several thousand officers and employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company enlisted for active military duty with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, and the majority of them are now in Europe.

As particulars of Army Reservists are not available, these lists of those who have given up their lives for their country or been wounded in action are necessarily incomplete, and do not therefore indicate fully the extent to which the Company's officers and employees have participated in the great struggle.

Mr. Win. Young, of Carleton Place, is holidaying at the parental home in town.

Mr. McNaught, of Tweed, who succeeded Mr. Stevenson as accountant in the Bank of Montreal here, has returned to Tweed, and has been succeeded by Mr. R. G. Rigby from B. Wmanville.

Mrs. M. McGrath, sr., has been suffering for some time with gangrene in her foot, and lately conditions developed which rendered an operation necessary.

This was performed at the R. M. Hospital on Saturday morning, when the limb was removed at the knee. To one of Mrs. McGrath's years the experience was a severe one, but it is hoped that she will now recover from her painful malady.

On Wednesday a couple of officials of the Merchants' Bank of Canada from Montreal were here arranging for the opening of a branch in Almonte.

Temporary quarters have been obtained in Mr. West's store building, and will be occupied until more suitable premises can be secured. Mr. H. W. Britton of Montreal will be manager.

Miss Agnes Whitelaw had the misfortune to step on a needle on Sunday and ran it into her foot so deep that the doctor experienced some difficulty in removing it. She was taken to the hospital while this was being done.

F. Bissett, Merrickville, has been appointed by the government to the position of instrument man, on the Welland Canal, with headquarters at St. Catharines.

FRANKTOWN.

The funeral of the late James Anderson last week was one of the largest ever seen in this community.

Forty-five members of the Orange Order marched in the procession. The drum, which deceased had carried for fifty-four years, was heavily draped with crape, and was carried by Mr. R. Prescott, of Montague, who played the flute for him fifty-four years ago.

Many floral tributes adorned the casket, including a wreath from the family; crescent, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Anderson, Smiths Falls; wreath, Mrs. A. Houston; bouquet, Miss Elsie McLaren; anchor, Mrs. J. Houghton; bouquet, Miss S. Saunders; wreath, Mrs. D. Cameron; wreath, Mrs. W. J. Saunders. The pallbearers were three sons; William, Ernie and Clarence; two sons-in-law, Mr. W. J. Burchill and Mr. Wm. D. Cameron, and a brother-in-law, Mr. S. Morris.

The service was held in St. James church, conducted by the rector, Rev. Mr. Osborne, and interment was made in the churchyard.

Hon. Robert Rogers, minister of public works, denies the story that will be suspended on the Welland Canal or any other public works to provide men for war work.

Three million dollars worth of cured meats, hams, and pork for the French army, is the nice order just won by the Canadian packers, Pat Burns & Company, Calgary, Alta., in competition with the largest Chicago firms.

There is also a large chilled beef order for the same firm. It is estimated that it will take 250,000 hogs to fill the first contract. Mr. Burns is a former resident of Renfrew.

THE AWFUL TOLL OF DEATH.

During the last three months alone British casualties have totalled over a quarter of a million men.

German losses from the beginning of the war to the end of August are estimated at 3,375,000, of whom the killed alone total 833,000, more than double the entire population of Toronto.

Contemporary Opinion of Beethoven. When the First Trios and the First Symphony appeared the conservative critics declared that they were "the confused explosion of a talented young man's overweening conceit."

The Second Symphony was called a monster, a dragon wounded to death and unable to die, thrashing around with its tail in impotent rage! Later Von Weber declared of the sublime Seventh Symphony that "the extravagance of this genius have reached their apex plus ultra, and Beethoven is quite safe for the madhouse!"

"Famous Composers." A Remarkable Shawl. The empress of Russia was once presented with a shawl of a remarkable kind. It is contained in a box only a few inches square, in which it fits easily, yet when it is shaken out it is ten yards square.

This notable gift was the work of some women weavers in Orenberg, southern Russia, by whom it was presented. The box containing it is of wood, with hinges, hoops and fastenings of beaten silver.

THE THREE MUSKETEERS

THESE three Pals of the C.P.R. staff in London, England (reading from left to right: R. J. Harden, Passenger Department; E. G. Moore, Advertising Department; and P. T. Roberts, Management Department), at the outbreak of War lost no time in offering their services for their King and Country, and within eight days of the Declaration of War they had all been posted to the 24th Company of London Regiment (The Queens).

They trained together, and early in 1915 they crossed together to France. They shared together the privations of trench warfare in the early months of that year, and in the great battles in which their Regiment took part; but in May all three were wounded, Harden and Roberts only slightly, but Moore, in the Givenchy fight, was so seriously injured that he was invalided to England and since his recovery has, to his great regret, been fit for Home service only.

Harden and Roberts had rejoined their Regiment by June and a month later Harden, who had been promoted to Lance-Corporal, was again hit, this time very seriously and since then remained in Wharfedale Hospital, Sheffield, where he has undergone so many operations that he is looked upon as a wonder by his doctors and a darling by his nurses and lady visitors.

Though no longer able to take his part in the strenuous work at the front, he has yet had plenty of opportunity of showing his possession of one of the most soldierly virtues—patient endurance. It is hoped that after fifteen months in hospital he will soon be able to return to the service of the Company.

Roberts, the only remaining member of the trio, was promoted Corporal at the outbreak of the war and was awarded the Military Medal, "for bravery in the field," in an action on May 23rd last. In decorating him General Sir Henry Wilson—the Corps Commander—stated the award was given "for gallantly leading an attack on a flank under very heavy fire, and directing his men in operations for four hours after being wounded." During these operations he was wounded, but has again rejoined his Regiment, and seems to be under the impression that he has not yet done all his bit.

General Brusiloff Reviews

Events of the Campaign
Along the Eastern Front

LUDOVIC NAUDEAU, The Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Russian army headquarters, writes in a recent article: "I have had the honor of being received by Gen. Brusiloff, who said: 'It goes without saying that I felt a deep joy when I heard that Roumania had declared war on Austria. My left flank is now resting on Roumania, with which it has virtually brought itself into contact, and is now undoubtedly secure.'"

"The Roumanian army is a force with which one may reckon. It is under good leadership, an excellent spirit animates it, and it is submitted to a remarkable discipline. Its officers are well instructed, serious, and competent. Above all, the Roumanian army has a magnificent artillery, which it uses with perfect skill. "During the past two years Roumania has had plenty of time to accumulate great quantities of ammunition, and that is a capital point, because the artillery plays in the modern war a role not only enormous, but preponderating, and it would be a great stain for any nation to be without artillery. I expect a great military success."

"If you consider, moreover, that Roumania, in taking part in the war, closes automatically her boundaries to the German and Austrian buyers who formerly found in her territory huge quantities of maize and corn, you will admit that the armed intervention of Roumania, who proudly enters our lists, is an event of the first order.

"The hostile army which I had in front of me in June and July, is almost entirely exterminated or captured, but it has been speedily replaced by a conglomerate army in which are to be found units of every origin. It is composed in the first place of the very last soldiers which Austria-Hungary can still put in the line, and of which some have been hurriedly drawn from the Italian and the western front, and finally some Turks.

"That army is more numerous just now than the one which stood in front of me in June. It is, indeed, the supreme guard, the last living rampart of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. That army resists desperately on its strong positions which must be carried one after another by storm. We are advancing step by step, however, and the spirit of our army remains very bright and very high. Soon the co-operation of the brave Roumanians will facilitate for us the obtaining of definite results."

"I follow with the greatest attention the admirable offensive and the efforts carried into effect on the western front by the Anglo-French armies. I fully realize the huge difficulties which you have to overcome. I understand the enormous obstacles which you have to overthrow, but I am nevertheless fully convinced that your efforts carried into effect on the west-German front. It is for me an absolute certainty.

"The offensive by the French and British armies helps us here in that it prevents the Germans from sending against us too heavy reinforcements. They are, all the same, drawing a certain amount of troops from the west and sending them against us, but not to such an extent that they can have a dethroning influence. They may simply delay our moving forward, that is all.

"By the way, Great Britain, by creating in two years a huge army of four million men has accomplished a marvel which most of the military men before the war would have thought absolutely impossible. It is a great credit to her patriotism, her sense of organization, and to the labor discipline of her population.

"We must consider the present war as being, from the Allies' point of view, comparable to a lottery, in which every number has to win, only we must go on till the end and not have the weakness to think about premature peace.

"Now you will ask me when in my opinion it may be supposed that a true peace will be signed, a peace which the Allies will be able to accomplish with the joy of an entirely fulfilled task. I am no prophet. The future is in the hands of God. But if I had absolutely to make a hypothesis I should be inclined to think that the month of August, 1917, should see the end of our able work."

ENGLAND'S WONDER FARM.

George Caudwell Has 315 Acres of Onions.

The inundation of the Dutch onion-producing area some months ago and the extremely high price which the vegetable has recently commanded suggested to Mr. George Caudwell, of Spalding, Lincolnshire, the idea of growing onions on a large scale. Hitherto the amount of hand labor required (it being essential to keep the ground free from weeds), and the lack of sandy soil which onions need, has prevented Lincolnshire farmers from growing more than an acre or two of onions, but Mr. Caudwell has planted 315 acres, and is anxiously awaiting results. Failure of the crop means not only the loss of some thousands of pounds, but it means that other Fenland farmers will be discouraged from taking up onion growing, and at a time like the present, when every possible endeavor must be made to increase our national resources, this would be very undesirable.

In lieu of sandy soil, Mr. Caudwell decided to try his experiment on the silt stratum near the river Welland, which borders his farm. At great expense, for the ordinary price has been about 2s. an ounce, Mr. Caudwell purchased a ton of seed, and then came the labor problem. Not only is the farm in a remote district, but most of the available men had enlisted, and the necessary woman labor was not to be found in the near locality. Consequently an advertisement was thrown on the screen in picture houses at Boston, the nearest large town, with the result that today 400 women are taken backwards and forwards from the onion fields, a distance of twenty-four miles, in specially adapted motor lorries, while others are brought from nearer places. The women, among whom are sixty war widows, are paid half a crown a day, and for the most part wear trousers and khaki breeches.

Specially designed cottages for the Irish laborers have been erected, and the method of fixing Pat's standing in the social scale is as simple as possible. Those who have one shirt are assigned to one set of apartments, and those who have two to another. Up to the present, Mr. Caudwell's crops have escaped the attacks of the worm which has worked havoc with Bedfordshire onion crops, but the battle is not yet over. The crop has to be harvested. For this purpose Mr. Caudwell has already got into miles of wire netting in place of chitling boxes to expose the crop to the wind and sun, and is constantly trying new implements and materials. Large quantities of London soot are being used to repel the attacks of worms and for mesurial purposes.

The Cossacks.

The millions of Cossacks that serve Russia are divided into eleven voivoks or groups, among which the principal ones are those of the Don, Kuban, Orenberg, Astrachan, Oussouri, Transbaikalie, and Terek. These groups have a double hierarchy, one side being civil and the other military. Established by imperial edicts upon the territory they occupy, they are always ready to vault into the saddle for the defence of the country. Their stannits or villages are their ostroghi or citadels of defence. There are no nobles among the Cossacks, as it is forbidden to anyone to acquire property apart from the possessions of the horde. Certain voivoks are practically communistic. Between the Cossack villages and the Russian peasants the division is complete. Ethnically the peasants and the Cossacks may be of like origin. The peasants conscientiously till the soil. The Cossacks pass their lives on horseback in the service of the Czar and discipline the laborers in the fields. The number of sotnias or squadrons of Cossacks was fixed in time of peace at 894, with about 100 men in a squadron, a total of 89,400. But this number has been greatly augmented since the war began.

German Casualties.

German casualties in the war during the month of August, according to a compilation from the German casualty lists, totaled 240,900. This brings the German total since the beginning of the war as compiled from the same sources, to $3,375,000. These figures include all the German nationalities, but do not include the naval and colonial casualties.

The detailed figures for the month of August follow:

Killed . . . . .	42,700
Prisoners . . . . .	1,800
Missing . . . . .	42,900
Wounded . . . . .	153,500
Total . . . . .	240,900

Detailed figures for the period of the war to the end of August, 1916:

Killed . . . . .	832,000
Prisoners . . . . .	165,000
Missing . . . . .	234,000
Wounded . . . . .	2,144,000
Total . . . . .	3,375,000

Will Modify Taste of Water.

Lieut.-Colonel McCammon, camp sanitary officer, is arranging for the installation of a new system of injecting chlorine into the water of Barrieffield Camp. At times the chlorine has become so harsh that the water is almost unfit to drink, but experiments have improved matters. The latest, and what promises to be the best innovation, is the use of chlorine gas instead of the solid. A specialist from New York is here for the work and new apparatus will be installed, which promises to completely take the taste of chlorine out of the camp drink.

Queen of Holland Aboard "Sub."

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has enjoyed the experience of a plunge under water in a submarine. The Queen was present at the naval manoeuvres recently, according to the Nieuws Van Der Dag, aboard a submarine, which dived twice while her majesty was a passenger.

Earl of Selborne Leads

Campaign to Increase
British Farm Production

ONE of the effects of the war will be seen in a great revival of agricultural life in England and the United Kingdom. The outbreak of the conflict caught the British Isles dependent on foreign commerce for four-fifths of their food supply, barring meat, of which between 60 and 70 per cent. is produced at home. The motto of a few years ago, "Back to the land," thus has given way to the slogan, "England must feed herself." Lord Selborne, the leader of the crusade, declares that the attainment of this object is the country's sacred duty, and he emphasizes the point that the farmer can do as much for the country as the soldier in the trenches.

The Real Huns.

Historians are not agreed as to the origin of the Huns, those migratory, military savages from Central Asia, whose exploits the Kaiser was not ashamed, on a certain historic occasion, to publicly urge his troops to imitate.

Probably they were of Tartar stock for they are first heard of as ravaging China, and warfare between the Tartars and the Chinese was constant in those early far-off days.

A hundred years or so after having captured and sacked Peking, they burst into Europe, and carried fire and sword over the greater part.

They gave their name to Hungary, where a considerable proportion of them settled, after exterminating or enslaving the original inhabitants of the country. But the bulk of the Hunnish armies, under their great leader Attila, known as the "Scourge of God," travelled slowly westward, destroying the country as they went, and leaving it a blackened and depopulated wilderness.

Their weapons were bows and arrows, sabres, javelins, tipped with bone and slings and lassoes; but with these they succeeded in defeating some of the best troops in Europe. Eventually, however, they were overthrown and practically exterminated in a great battle fought near where now stands the town of Chalons, in France.

Repairing War's Damage.

If anyone imagines that there has been exaggeration in the estimates of the probable extent of post-war rebuilding operations, says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, he should consider the havoc in Northern France. Poland, Belgium, Serbia, and East Prussia also have suffered much devastation. But to show the magnitude of the destruction caused by the war it is sufficient to consider only what is taking place in Northern France.

The destruction of Verdun is philosophically accepted by the French as an unavoidable evil. But it is not so easy for them to view calmly the wrecking of historic and beloved towns and villages by the advancing British and French troops. The German report that the Allies' heavy artillery is laying waste the country on the Somme front to a depth of twelve miles behind the German lines. Peronne and Bapaume lie in ruins. A large number of French villages have been wiped out. Systematically and relentlessly the Allies' guns have destroyed every German supply basin and concentration camp.

Food and the Soldiers.

Have you any idea of the space food occupies in the mind of the man at the front? asks Capt. Keene, writing in Cartoon's Magazine. Yesterday I was crossing a bullet-swept orchard with another officer, when I noticed plums! Terrified lest my partner should see them, I suggested that we leave quickly, as the place was too unhealthy. So we crawled away. That night, in the light of a big moon, my cook and I stole into the orchard and gathered two sand bags full of plums. The bullets whistling through the trees hurried the picking.

British Trade Grows.

Figures given out by the British Board of Trade for the month of August show that imports during the month were increased by $6,716,000, while the exports were increased by $15,281,000.

The principal increases in imports were Cotton, $3,000,000; and oils, seeds and fats, $2,250,000. The export increases were made up principally of manufactured articles. Of these cotton textiles increased $3,000,000, iron and steel $2,500,000, and coal, $1,500,000.

AN ANCIENT CHURCH.

It Has Been In Use In France For Over a Thousand Years.

Before dinner we walked for a little in the gray evening and came to an old church—one of the oldest in France, it is said, built in the ninth century and called St. Michael's. (At Nantua, in the French Juras.) It is more than a thousand years old and looks it. It has not been much rebuilt, I think, for invasion and revolution appear seldom to have surmounted the natural ramparts of Nantua, and only the storm beat and the erosion of the centuries have written the story of decay. The hand of restoration has troubled it little.

We slipped in through the gathering dusk and tiptoed about, for there were a few lights flickering before the altar, and we saw the outlines of bowed heads. Presently a priest was silhouetted against the altar lights as he crossed and passed out by a side door. He was one of a long line that stretched back through more than half of the Christian era and through most of the history of France.

When the first priest passed in front of that altar France was still under the Carolingian dynasty—under Charles the Fat, perhaps, and William of Normandy was not to conquer England until 200 years later. Then nearly 400 years more would creep by—dim, mediaeval years—before Joan of Arc should unfurl her banner of victory and martyrdom.

You see how far back into the mists we are stepping here. And all those evenings the altar lights have been lit and the ministrations of priests has not failed.—Albert Bigelow Paine in Harper's Magazine.

Drying an Umbrella.

An umbrella should never be opened in order to dry it, as the ribs get sprung, and it will never roll up neatly and tightly after once dried in this manner. Doing this will also spoil the cover by straining the weave unnaturally. The correct way to dry an umbrella is to stand it on the handle that the water may run off at the points instead of gathering at the ferrule and thus rotting the material.

Selecting a Husband.

I would warn maidens of marriageable age to exercise due caution in the selection of husbands. Choose a real man, not the kind that slaps himself on the wrist and wants to be called Jack instead of John and insists on addressing you as Margaret instead of Maggie or Christina instead of Tiny. Get a man whose masculine actions entitle him to wear trousers.—Zim in Cartoons Magazine.

Fifteen Cent Lunches.

A cashier in a Newspaper row lunch room told me that the average Bostonian spends but 15 cents for his lunch. The fifteen cent key on the cash register is worn smooth and the number "15" entirely rubbed off. Other keys on the machine show little sign of wear.—Boston Post.

Delicacy.

A woman went into a country bakery one hot, sultry summer day. "I'll have some of that nice currant cake," said she to the baker. "That ain't no currant cake, lady," said he, waving his arm gently and to fro over the delicacy.—New York Post.

A Poor Retriever.

Wigg—I hear you've sold your bird dog. He was a good retriever, wasn't he? Wagg—I thought so, but he didn't bring much when I sold him.—Philadelphia Record.

Drove Them Out.

Miss Howler—Did my voice fill the drawing room? Mr. Rood—No, it filled the refreshment room and the conservatory.—Boston Transcript.

REGAINED HIS CASTE.

A Rich American's Bluff in a Land Where Horses Represent Wealth.

"The bal is so rich," said my host of the Siberian steppes (bal is the Kirghis word for lord and master), "that what we have must seem very small to him. But he has seen our herds; does he think our horses beautiful?"

I replied that we admired his horses very much, and that, although they were not so large as ours, their conformation was very fine.

"I have a thousand horses," continued Koormaa. "How many has the bal?" I stammered that I owned five. This information produced a most depressing effect.

"The bal is so rich," he said, "and yet he only owns five horses. I do not understand it. Sultan Djingir has 4,000 horses. Sultan Djumabek has 2,000 and Adam Bal is said to have 3,000, and you say that you have only five! How many sheep does the bal own?"

"I regret to say that I own no sheep," I replied.

"Ah! Probably the bal owns large herds of cattle?" "I have two cows," I said.

The conversation was assuming a most unfortunate turn, and I felt that I was losing ground every minute; something desperate had to be done. I remembered that I had in my pocket a colored photograph of a gorgeous hotel at Palm Beach, which I had lately received from a friend in Florida.

"It is true, my friend," I said, "that I do not own any cattle or sheep or horses, but see the house in which I live when I am in my own country," and I showed them the brightly colored print. The effect was magical; the card was passed from hand to hand with every expression of amazement and delight; my stock bounded upward and never after that fell below par. May I be forgiven for my deception!—E. Nelson Fell in Outlook.

A TALE of RED ROSES

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

"That's what it was for," interpolated Sledge, looking out of the window into the sunken garden and vainly hunting the hand hole in the gate.

"It has served its purpose," granted Allerton, "but taxpayers are becoming greedy. When they see the stockholders of a public corporation making 7 per cent they want some of it and try to make the corporations pay part of their taxes. In every city of importance the voters are demanding pay for street car franchises and making the street railway companies, in addition, bear half the cost of all street improvements."

"It's a bad outlook," agreed Governor Waver. "Frankly, as soon as I receive my new issue of stock I shall have it quietly placed on sale."

Marley looked at him indignantly.

"Why, the street railway company is entering on the greatest period of prosperity in its career," he asserted. "There'll be no trouble about franchises. The city is wild to have the improvements and must have them."

Allerton looked at him wonderingly.

"Waver is right," he stated. "I shall sell my own stock, and I'll venture to say that Sledge has already made at least arrangements for disposing of his. Do you know that the franchises at present granted in this state are revocable and that it is not possible to secure one which is positively safe for longer than ten year periods? When you come to the renewal of your franchises, Marley, you will be met with a demand for pay and will have other restrictions imposed on you. Our present franchise law, in view of the public tendency, is a bad one for investors."

Glider has been making threats against me."

"Has he?" inquired Marley noncommittally.

"Tell him to quit or make good," ordered Sledge.

"Really, Mr. Sledge, I don't see where I can interfere," reproved Mr. Marley. "The matter is entirely between you and Bert."

"He's a friend of yours," charged Sledge.

"Yes," acknowledged Marley, feeling that he could afford to acknowledge it now that the street car reorganization had gone beyond the point where Sledge could stop it.

"How about this marriage with Molly?"

"That's Molly's affair," stated Marley stiffly.

"You know he's broke, don't you?"

"I heard something of the sort," admitted Marley. "He's a clever young man, however, and until he gets on his feet again I have money enough for both."

"You won't stop it, then?"

"Certainly not," declared Marley, feeling that he might just as well make capital for courage out of the fact that he could not in the slightest degree influence Molly. "I might, perhaps, prefer a more brilliant match for Molly, but I do not need to make it a matter of money, and there is no better family in America than Bert's. The Maryland Gliders are the oldest and best stock in this country. Moreover, above all things, I wish to see my daughter happy."

"So do I," asserted Sledge. "That's why she can't marry this pinhead. I want her myself."

"Molly has made her choice," declared her father firmly.

"So you lay down, eh?"

"I decline to interfere."

"Making Bert a bum cuts no ice?"

"His temporary financial condition has no bearing in the matter. I should feel humiliated to think that I had allowed that trifling consideration to be a factor."

"Huh!" grunted Sledge. "You got enough for both, eh?"

"Quite enough," and Marley reflected, with a pleasant feeling of superiority, upon the moment soon to come when this political and commercial bully would be cringing.

"Then watch out for your eye," warned Sledge and, rising, walked out into the drawing rooms.

He found Molly quite busy, but since she was only occupied with a state representative and a local millionaire and the mayor and the young champion of the tennis players' club, he borrowed her.

She was astounded to see how they melted before him and almost had a feeling of wildly clutching at the coat tails of the mayor, whom she heartily disliked.

"I'm sorry for you, Molly," Sledge told her as he pre-empted the piano alcove. "I got to hand you another job."

"You're a fast worker," she complimented him. "But you'll have to work faster. I just gave Willie Walters a hint of the splendid news we are to have for the Glider, and he is tickled to death."

"Good work!" applauded Sledge. "I want that pulled quick."

Molly smiled.

"All right. Go as far as you like," she confidently invited him. "We'll see who gets the worst of it. By the way, maybe you wouldn't mind telling me the new job I am to receive."

Sledge chuckled.

"Your dad says he don't care if Bert is a bum."

"He isn't!" she hotly denied.

"Your dad's a game sport. He says he has enough money for both."

"Good for daddy!" she cried, delighted.

"Sure!" grunted Sledge. "I'm gonna break him too."

CHAPTER V.

Sledge Reduces His Salary List.

"Sure," grunted Sledge. "I'm gonna break him too."

"Let's fix it," suggested Sledge.

"I'm afraid it's too late," protested Allerton.

"Not for a new gag," dissented Sledge. "A new one can be put over quick."

"I fancy that there should be protection somewhere," opined the governor.

"No matter what changes in public sentiment, the investing class, upon which the public depends for prosperity, must always be protected."

"But how?" inquired the senator.

"How in this particular case?"

"Head 'em off," grunted Sledge.

"I'm keeping my stock."

"I'd be glad to hold mine," stated the senator. "But how is it to be made of future value?"

"That's up to you," Sledge replied, rising. "Figure it out and see me tomorrow. Marley, I want to talk to you."

Mr. Marley, today a man worth over a third of a million dollars in the street railway stock alone, arose in offended dignity. He was a trifle too important, too capable and too wealthy to be ordered about like a messenger boy by a man who might shortly be a convicted criminal. Molly had arranged an interview between her father and Bert on the previous afternoon, and Mr. Marley also now knew a thing or two.

"I would suggest tomorrow," he stated coldly. "I should much prefer to talk with you during business hours."

"This ain't business," said Sledge, leading the way into the library, where he took a seat in an alcove.

Marley followed him reluctantly.

"If it is my family affairs"—he began in protest.

"Sit down," directed Sledge. "Bert

"How do I know?" immediately snarled Bendix. "I don't sleep with him."

"He's got a grouch on him a foot thick," complained Doc. "He gave me a cold turndown. Walked straight through me without even a grunt."

"I'll tell Sledge he'd better be careful," sarcastically commented Bendix. "Well, Kelly, what do you want?"

Schooner Kelly, who was afflicted with pink whiskers and a perennial thirst, stopped scratching.

"Two bits," he stated, with admirable clarity. "What's the matter with Big Ben?"

"He's teething," replied Bendix, producing the desired two bits, without which Schooner Kelly would be a nuisance for hours to come.

A low browed thug, with a long and wide scar sunk in one cheek, drew Bendix mysteriously aside.

"The Dutchman down in the Eighth ward has rented his back room to the Hazelnut club," he stated.

"Well?" inquired Bendix.

"Well, the Hazelnut club has Charley Atwood for its president, and Charley is a brother-in-law of Purcell."

"I see," said Bendix. "I suppose Dutch Klein knew this?"

"The Cameron picture's down off his back bar."

"Tell him you told me," advised Bendix, weighing the matter carefully, for of such trifles was political control constructed.

"Is that the worst news I can carry?" demanded the other, disappointed.

"If there's any worse we'll send it out when the wagon backs up," responded Bendix dryly.

"All right, captain," agreed the tale bearer. "Say, can you slip me an ace?"

Bendix slipped him an ace from a fund provided for that purpose.

"Thanks," said the thug. "Say, what's the matter with Sledge?"

"None of your business," snapped Bendix, with a wondering glance at the back room, and he waded through the usual morning lineup with that wonder growing on him. The actions and bearing of Sledge varied by so thin a hair's breadth from day to day that a notable variation meant something.

He found Sledge standing up, and then he knew that there was something in the wind.

"Get Bozzam," directed Sledge, and Bendix went straight out to the telephone.

"Get Davis," directed Sledge when Bendix came back, and Bendix, vaguely pitying somebody, hurried out to the telephone again.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson XIII.—Third Quarter, For Sept. 24, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Cor. iv, 1, to v, 4 (Quarterly Review)—Golden Text, II Cor. iv, 18.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

LESSON I.—Paul at Thessalonica and Berea, Acts xvii, 1-15. Golden Text, Acts v, 31, "Him did God exalt with His right hand to be a prince and a Saviour." May we so see these men of God going from place to place preaching Jesus Christ crucified, risen, and coming again, that we shall decide to do likewise at all costs, knowing that everywhere some will believe, though others believe not.

LESSON II.—The Thessalonian Christians, I Thess. i and iv, 13-18. Golden Text, I Thess. iv, 14, "Them that are fallen asleep in Jesus will God bring with Him." It is refreshing to note how these people received the message, not as from men, but from God; how effectually it wrought in them and how they proclaimed it to others, seeking to please God and not men (I, 8; II, 4).

LESSON III.—Paul at Athens, Acts xvii, 16-34. Golden Text, Acts xvii, 28, "In Him we live and move and have our being." In this gentle city, very religious, but wholly idolatrous, Paul preached Christ as the Creator of all things and the sustainer of natural life in all His creatures, but also as crucified and risen from the dead and the appointed Judge of all mankind.

LESSON IV.—Paul at Corinth, Acts xviii, 1-22. Golden Text, Acts xviii, 9, "Be not afraid, but speak and hold not thy peace." Working at his trade of tentmaking, along with Aquila and Priscilla, he continued at Corinth a year and six months teaching the word of God among them (xviii, 11). The opposition was great, but a night visit from the Lord Himself with the gracious message of verses 9, 10, was an unusual strength and encouragement.

LESSON V.—The word of the cross, I Cor. i, 18, to ii, 2. Golden Text, Gal. vi, 14, "Far be it from me to glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." Although Paul knew much of the wisdom of this world, he renounced it all for Jesus Christ, who had come to him the power of God and the wisdom of God and who was made unto him and to all believers wisdom, righteousness, sanctification and redemption (I Cor. i, 17, 18, 21, 24, 30).

LESSON VI.—The greatest thing in the world, I Cor. xiii. Golden Text, I Cor. xiii, 13, "Now abideth faith, hope, love, these three, and the greatest of these is love—greater than the gift of tongues or understanding mysteries or the power to work miracles, for God is Love, but without faith it is impossible to please God.

LESSON VII.—The grace of giving, II Cor. ix. Golden Text, Acts xx, 35, "Remember the words of the Lord Jesus that He Himself said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' Giving is easy when the love of Christ constrains us, because of His great grace and love to us, and when we remember that we have nothing that we have not received, that all things come from Him and we can only give Him His own which He has first given to us.

LESSON VIII.—The riot at Ephesus, Acts xix, 29-41. Golden Text, I Tim. vi, 10, "The love of money is a root of all kinds of evil." The record of the riot is the least important part of this chapter, but teaches what may happen when business is interfered with. Carrying the word of the Lord into all Asia and bringing the special gift of the spirit to believers, this is something worth while.

LESSON IX.—Journeying to Jerusalem, Acts xx, 16-27. Golden Text, Acts xx, 32, "I command you to God and to the word of His grace." The greater part of this chapter tells of Paul's farewell to the church at Ephesus through the elders who came to Miletus to meet him, with a mention of three months in Greece and seven days at Troas, on his way thither. He reminded the Ephesians that for three years he had taught them the whole counsel of God (verses 27, 28).

LESSON X.—Paul's sorrows and comforts, II Cor. xi, 21-33. Golden Text, II Cor. xii, 9, "My grace is sufficient for thee, for my power is made perfect in weakness." I think that the record of his sufferings, as in xi, 23-28, cannot be equaled in the case of any other mere man. But he must have been sustained by the glory which he saw on the way to Damascus and while he was dead after his stoning at Lystra (xii, 1-5).

LESSON XI.—The arrest of Paul, Acts xxi, 27-40. Golden Text, Acts xxii, 15, "Thou shalt be a witness for Him unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard." The first half of this chapter tells of the remainder of his journey to Jerusalem and his welcome here, with some incidents by the way at Tyre and Caesarea. The last half tells of his failure to pacify law keeping Jews.

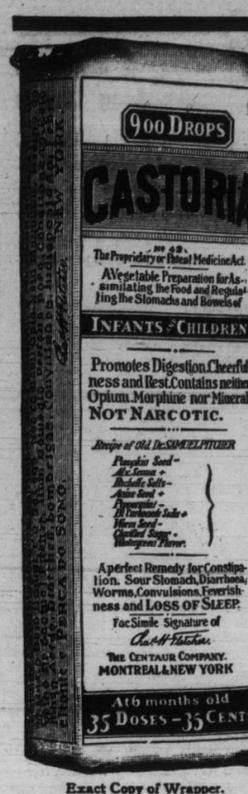

LESSON XII.—A prisoner in the castle, Acts xxiii, 17-29. Golden Text, Ps. lxxi, 2, "He is my refuge and my fortress, my God in whom I trust." The story of Paul's conversion is the real topic of this lesson, and to me the central saying is, "I could not see for the glory of that light." The choice by God of such a man for such a great work and the manner of his call is one of the greatest marvels of the whole Bible story concerning any mere man.

Twelve Pipes a Day. Henri Harpignies, the famous landscape painter, died in Paris the other day at the age of 97. He prided himself on the sumptuous table he kept and on the fact that he could drink three liquors and smoke twelve pipes a day up until the last week of his life.

Henri Harpignies was born at Valenciennes on July 28, 1819. He was a pupil of Archard and did landscapes of note both in oils and water colors. His water colors had the strength and breath of the English school and were widely exhibited.

Belated Wisdom. "What I want to know, Johnny," demanded the stern parent, "is why you picked a quarrel with that bad boy next door?"

"I don't know, sir," replied the injured culprit, "but I s'pose it must have been 'cause I didn't know what a bad boy he was."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

WITH THE MACHINE-GUN SQUAD

Showing How the Soldiers in the Trenches Welcome News From Home.

Dear Friend,—
Your very welcome letter came to hand some time ago and the parcel followed it in due course and arrived in a k. condition.

It is a fact that no matter how great a dub a fellow may be at letter writing he is always glad to receive a letter from the homeland. Sometimes it is not our fault that we do not answer promptly as although we receive mail when we are in the trenches it is impossible to send any out and as a rule if we had the opportunity it would be impossible almost to write.

We have had things rather lively since we came to this part of the line, but so far I have been able to avoid all forms of German frightfulness.

At present we are in a reserve camp, the prettiest camp we have been in since coming to France, and if the weather was a little warmer it would be almost as nice as camping out in dear old Canada in the piping times of peace.

Although the other two fellows that were in the same section as myself, the other two have been wounded, I'm being the first to go and although I have been slightly wounded twice since coming out here I have never missed a trip to the trenches and in another fortnight I will have been out here a year, so although it has been rough at times I have no kick coming. But if they don't send me to England on furlough soon I won't know how to act when I do get back to civilization.

The Hun is getting what is coming to them now though, and before another year has passed it is not impossible that you may be welcoming home the returning warriors instead of wishing the departing troops "God speed," etc.

Thanking you again for your kindness to me.
Your sincere friend,
W. J. BUCHANAN.

TWO MORE CARLETON PLACE MEN WOUNDED

Ralph Simpson and Albert Dowdall.
In the list of casualties issued yesterday morning the names of two Carleton Place men appear—Ralph Patterson Simpson, son of Mr. W. R. Simpson, and Albert H. Dowdall. The latter enlisted in the west.

The list also contains the name of Capt. J. H. McDiarmid, son of Rev. Mr. McDiarmid, of Perth, killed in action. There are names of many from the surrounding district in the wounded, the casualties among the Canadians having evidently been heavy.

Renfrew Man Killed by Train.

Wm. Creagan, an elderly man, was struck on Saturday evening by a shunting freight train at a railway crossing in Renfrew and instantly killed. He was literally cut to pieces. Two trains were approaching the crossing at the time and it is supposed that in watching one he did not see the other coming from an opposite direction. The ill-fated man was a plasterer by trade and was on his way home from work at the time. He leaves a family in Ottawa. An inquest will be held.

R. A. Pringle, K.C., Cornwall, may be made a Supreme Court judge.

The Wiser distillery, Prescott, is now engaged in the manufacture of alcohol for war purposes. Out of a total recent output of 375,000 gallons, 400,000 went to the O'Brien munition plant at Pembroke for war purpose, 200,000 gallons to the legitimate liquor trade in Canada, and the balance 375,000 was sent to England for the purpose of supplying the allowances to the soldiers in the trenches for medical purposes.

The brick of car owned by James G. O'Brien, manager of the Bank of Ottawa, Chesterville, was released by his eight-year old son Sunday afternoon when the car was on an incline at Buttertut Bay, and an accident which might easily have resulted in the death of the child was averted through the presence of mind of some person who grabbed the child from the car as it was moving down the hill. The car ran down the hill, and jumped over a ten-foot embankment where it smashed a hole in the roof of the Dr. J. B. Saunders' boathouse.

"TANKS" PARALYZED HUNS.

They Could Not Stand Against New British Land Monster.

AT THE BRITISH FRONT, Sept. 18.—With ceaseless shell fire from unprecedented concentrations of guns, the battle raged furiously all day, with the British making good their advance of Saturday, while the Germans were rushing up reserves from other parts of the western front. The demoralization of their infantry Saturday by the use of the new British armored cars called "tanks" was freely confessed by prisoners yesterday. "There was no standing against that sort of thing," said one German officer. "Of course we surrendered, those of us who were alive. We fired at a tank with our rifles. Our machine guns were turned loose on it. But the bullets were only blue sparks on the armor. We thought the British slow and stupid, despite their courage and stubbornness, and they gave us a surprise like this!"

A column of German prisoners passing a "tank," rejoicing in the nickname of "Crems de Menthe," which had returned from battle and was resting from its labors, spread out their hands and shook their heads and looked at it, exclaiming in a chorus: "Mein Gott in Himmel! Is it under control? Would it break out and begin firing again? Will we ever forget on the sight of it the thing as it came at us out of the morning mist? Is isn't war using a piece of machinery like that; it is butchery."

To this a British officer replied: "No, it is quite peaceable and tame now. It has just been fed. As for it not being war it is quite in keeping with the Hague Convention, which your gas attack at Ypres was not."

There seems no question that Friday was the most dramatic day in the history of the British army in France. The Germans themselves were massing at many points, and appears, with a view to attacking to recover some of the high ground they had lost. The British anticipated the German attack with their onslaught, assisted by their new machines, whose secret they had been keeping up to slaves for just such an occasion as this.

ITALIANS BREAK THROUGH.

Important Victory for Cadorna Recorded on Isonzo Front.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—In their new drive on the Isonzo front the Italians have broken through the Austrian line at several points and captured in the last two days several thousand officers and men, according to a brief announcement by the Italian War Office Sunday afternoon.

Vienna admits officially that General Cadorna's troops attacking along the whole line from the Wipbach (Vippocco) River to the sea, "gained a little ground."

On the northern wing of the Carso plateau the Austrians were compelled to take back their line, so that it now stands slightly east of San Gerdolmeria. Five hundred prisoners and three machine guns were taken in counter-attacks, it is asserted. In Tyrol the Austrians are violently attacked on the Passane ridge. The capture by Alpine troops of a point of support on the front in ten miles long and lies in a straight line from north-east to the heights of Gorizia to the Adriatic, near St. Antonio. The Austrians held strongly-fortified positions between the western slopes of Monte Santo and Duino Castle.

The first detailed accounts of the new Italian offensive on the southern side three weeks were entirely devoted to the moving up of heavy artillery and the preparation of dug-outs for the bombardiers. The work was done mostly at night-time, as after the fall of Gorizia, the Austrians concentrated against the Italian lines a terrific fire to prevent the preparation of a new offensive.

The new battle front is ten miles long and lies in a straight line from north-east to the heights of Gorizia to the Adriatic, near St. Antonio. The Austrians held strongly-fortified positions between the western slopes of Monte Santo and Duino Castle.

FIVE POSITIONS TAKEN.

Roumanians Occupy Four Villages and an Important Hill.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The capture of five Austrian positions by the Roumanians operating in the Transylvanian Alps was announced by the Bucharest War Office Sunday night. Ten officers and 900 men were taken prisoners. The statement says:

"On the north-western front we occupied Somerod, Almas, Cohalm, and Paogaras. We took 910 prisoners, including ten officers, and captured some war material. In the Streu valley, Bran Hill was captured by us. We took 75 prisoners. Our batteries sank two munitions barges near the mouth of Lor River.

"In the Dobrudja there were engagements with advanced detachments of the enemy."

Belgians Take East African Fortress.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Belgian forces operating in German East Africa have captured Tabora, the principal German fortress in the territory, according to a Belgian official communication received here. The statement follows:

"As the result of severe fighting between Sept. 1 and 11 the brigades of General Molton and Ilsen, belonging to the army of General Tombeur, entered Tabora, expelling the Germans. Tabora, which was fortified powerfully, was the principal citadel in German East Africa, commanding the railway from Lake Tanganyika to the Indian Ocean."

A Double Drowning.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Sept. 18.—Harvey Marston and Miss Hillman, while crossing the St. John River near here Friday night, after attending a political meeting, were drowned. The finding of Miss Hillman's body on the shore Sunday morning was the first evidence of the double tragedy.

Prince Albert, second son of King George, has been invalidated home.

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to cure them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The bear was in poor condition, but weighed about 250 pounds.
