PROPOSE COST BAD ROOFS BE SPLIT 3 WAYS

Board Advises Commission,
Contractors and Architect
Share Liability.

H. C. MCBRIDE RELUCTANT

Finds Majority Pine Lawn
Houses Not Properly Constructed.

"Split the cost three ways: Between the London Housing Commission, Hayman and Willis, contractors, and H. C. McBride, architect."

This is the proposed manner by which defective roofing on the city's houses at Pine Lawn will be replaced, it was learned Friday.

The allotment in each instance would be approximately $1,750, it is explained further.

Seemingly Reluctant.

The only party to take exception to this prospective solution, the Advertiser has been informed, is the seeming reluctance of H. C. McBride to view the situation in the same light as the housing commissioners and the contractors.

The latter have evidently expressed willingness to become a party to the arrangements, while the commissioners decided in special session Friday that, "to avoid further fuss, and to have a long drawn controversy settled," they would also shoulder a third of the cost.

But the architect demurs, it is reported, and just what the next move by the other principals in the case cannot be determined at this juncture.

In the meanwhile the members of the conciliation board, called to iron out the dispute in question, have practically concluded their activities, and after a final session Friday afternoon, Building Inspector Walton, who represented the city on that board, will leave for home.

The commissioners trust that they will now be in a position to reach an amicable understanding with all parties concerned, obviating all necessity for final action through the courts.

Not Properly Constructed.

The board of conciliation found that the roofs of certain, if not all of the city's 48 houses in the Pine Lawn area, were not properly constructed.

The contractors, it is said, are willing to make amends, and the claim is now entered that the architect was also responsible in the same measure for any defects or inferiority in construction that may have been noted by the arbiters.

The present problem is one of more than a year's standing, having its inception as early as the early summer of 1921.

No written statement has been submitted by the arbiters to date, their report being confined, it is explained, to general remarks. No declaration will be forthcoming except in the event, it is pointed out, that it is deemed impossible to create an amicable understanding between the principals involved.

KING CONGRATULATES CAPTAIN OF BLUENOSE

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—(By the Canadian Press).—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, premier of Canada, last night wired Capt. Angus Walters of the schooner Bluenose at Gloucester, Mass., the congratulations of the government and people of Canada in successfully defending their trophy. The premier's message follows:

"Permit me to extend to you and to the individual members of your crew the congratulations of the people of Canada upon your achievement in again winning the championship of the North Atlantic seaboard and thereby successfully defending the International Fishermen's Trophy."

"(Sgd.) W. L. MACKENZIE KING."

Maintenance-of-Way Men Protest Cuts

UNREST GROWS OVER PROPOSED WAGE SLASHES

CLAIM STRIKE POSSIBLE

Maintenance Employees Think Roads Should Follow Example of U. S.

BULLETIN.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—Frank McKenna, vice-president of the Division No. 4, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, stated this morning that when the referendum ballot of Canadian railway shopmen from coast to coast is counted in Montreal next Wednesday, it will be known whether a general strike will be called or whether negotiations will reopen between the shopmen and the companies.

Although up to the present no definite action has been taken considerable unrest has been manifested among the ranks of the 800 odd maintenance-of-way men employed on the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways in this district, because the Canadian roads are contemplating a cut ranging from one to ten cents an hour, despite the actions of the United States Railway Board one week ago, which ordered an increase of two cents an hour for maintenance-of-way men in that country.

Between 8,000 and 9,000 maintenance-of-way men are employed by the railroads operating in Canada, and according to the reports of union chiefs who have passed through the city within the last week or so, the situation is none too bright, and the men all over the Dominion are becoming restless.

Feel Optimistic.

R. H. Hessel, a well-known labor man of the city, and member of the maintenance-of-way protective board of the Grand Trunk System, was inclined to take an optimistic view of the situation. Mr. Hessel returned two weeks ago from a 17-days conference of the maintenance-of-way heads from all over America and held in Detroit.

The local official pointed out that the Canadian chiefs will probably call a conference in Montreal as soon as arrangements have been made to discuss the latest turn of affairs, and also decide what action will be taken in Canada if the cut is enforced.

It is an established fact that the Canadian roads nearly always follow the actions of the United States Railway Labor Board in any nationwide ruling regarding pay and working conditions, and if Canadian railway officials decide that the reduction from one to ten cents an hour will be enforced, while the American railroads are boosting the pay of their men two cents an hour, a precedent will be established in Canadian railroad history.

Strike Inevitable.

Maintenance-of-way employees in this city point out that it would be

CLAIMS CANADIAN FULLY OWNS BRITISH GOVERNMENT

CREDIT LORD BEAVERBROOK.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The New Leader, which recently took the place of the Labor Leader as a weekly organ of Labor opinion here, and edited by Henry N. Brailsford, the well-known author and journalist, declared that Bonar Law would not be premier today, and would probably have retired altogether from politics but for the eager energy of his friend, Lord Beaverbrook, also a product of the maritime provinces.

"That extraordinary product of success in Canadian finance, rising from the most humble circumstances, and with a remarkable genius for friendship," says the New Leader, "has been determined on one thing only in politics for the last ten years, and that is to make Bonar Law prime minister. The new government is a Bonar Law-Beaverbrook government, and although Lord Beaverbrook may remain behind the scenes, it will be his decisions which will count."

"He assisted in breaking up the Liberal party in the first coalition, and pitched Bonar Law, neck and crop, while the latter was timorous, shivering on the brink, into repudiation of H. H. Asquith by a second coalition. In this last week, when Bonar Law was timidly preparing to resign, rather than make his speech against Austen Chamberlain, we think it will be found that Lord Beaverbrook took the decision for him."

OPPOSE BUYING CITY RAILWAY

Ald. Dr. Holmes Would Not Purchase System From Company.

Alderman Claims Road Faces Bankruptcy; Should Be Left Alone.

Ald. Dr. Holmes lined up Friday with those members of the city council who propose to wage a battle against the proposed purchase of the London Street Railway, "lock, stock and barrel."

Holding to similar opinions as Ald. Drake and his associates, Dr. Holmes would strongly disapprove of any concentrated action to purchase the road from the company under any consideration.

Certain members of the city council can discern, they assert, the present precarious situation of the London Street Railway.

The latter is faced by inevitable bankruptcy, they contend, if conditions are allowed to pursue the present course. The company sees "the Turn to Page 2, Column 1."

GEDDES MEETS WITH PREMIER

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador at Washington, will arrive at Ottawa tomorrow and will be a guest at government house.

It is understood that Sir Auckland Geddes' visit is for the purpose of discussing matters concerning the Rush-Bagot treaty with Premier Mackenzie King.

CHARGE HERBERT WILSON WITH ASSAULT TO KILL AND ROBBERY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—Herbert Wilson, convicted slayer, and Guido Spignola, alleged robber, who, with Adam Blaszyk, convicted slayer, broke out of the Los Angeles county jail for a day last week, yesterday were charged with assault to kill and with robbery as the result of the break.

The assault to kill charge came from their attack upon a jailer in making their escape, and the robbery accusation came from their commandeering two postoffice employees' automobile.

Both were arraigned, bonds were fixed at $15,000 each, and preliminary hearings set for Oct. 31. Blaszyk has been sent to San Quentin penitentiary to begin serving a life sentence.

GIRD UP LOINS FOR ELECTIONS

London Labor Party to Name Candidate at Next Meeting.

J. S. Woodworth to Visit City November 6 in Interest of Workers.

London labor is preparing to battle for supremacy at the forthcoming civic election.

Meeting in regular session Thursday night at the Labor Temple, members of No. 1 branch of the London Labor party considered at some length several questions of vital importance to the local political movement, incidentally drafting plans for the approaching campaign.

As Nov. 10 has already been set as nomination day for the entire labor element, the members of No. 1 branch, at their next regular gathering, Thursday, Nov. 2, will select their favorites for the municipal race and instruct their delegates accordingly.

There was considerable discussion following a motion by Delegate William Stewart, that the nomination convention be open to all individual members of affiliated bodies. A resolution to this effect was passed for consideration of the members of the central body, upon the stipulation that the same would not be submitted there until after this election.

This precaution was taken to insure that the general business of the nomination session would not be delayed, as this proposal is bound to create certain criticism, and may, in fact, suffer complete defeat.

Ald. H. B. Ashplant spoke briefly with reference to the appearance here, Nov. 6 or 7, of J. S. Woodworth, federal member of parliament for Winnipeg.

He explained that the latter is touring the eastern provinces in the interests of Labor, with a view toward building up the political phases of the Labor movement, and was scheduled to speak in this city early in November. Arrangements for his reception were left to the discretion of the executive.

SAY SHAUGHNESSY SLATED AS AMBASSADOR TO U. S.

Rumors at Washington Claim Canadian Baron to Have Important Post.

New York, Oct. 27.—(By the Canadian Press).—A report that Baron George Shaughnessy of Montreal would be offered the post of Canadian ambassador to the United States was circulating in Washington last night, according to the New York Times correspondent.

British embassy officials, however, said they were without official confirmation of the report.

Says the Times: "The Canadian government has been desirous of having direct diplomatic representation in Washington and the probability is that this will come in the near future, but it is not believed the Canadian representative will have the rank of ambassador, or even that of minister, but rather that of high commissioner."

"There has been a report that Sir Charles Fitzpatrick of Ottawa was to be offered the post of high commissioner here."

WAGES OF U. S. MALE FARM LABOR $28.97 MONTHLY

Department of Agriculture Reports Show Supply of Help Exceeds Demand.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The average rate of wages of male farm labor for the entire United States, Oct. 1, was $28.97 a month with board, according to the first of a regular series of quarterly reports from 1,300 county crop reports to the department of agriculture. The average rate for the year 1921 was $30.14. By the month without board the average, Oct. 1, was $41.5, compared with $43.32 the average for 1921.

Day wages with board, Oct. 1, were $1.57, compared with $1.68 last year, and day wages without board was $2.08, compared with $2.18 in 1921.

Of the 1,300 reports 36 per cent stated that the labor supply exceeded the demand at current wages, 39 per cent stated that the demand exceeded the supply, and 25 per cent reported an even balance.

ADVANCE QUOTATIONS ON NEWSPRINT IN U. S. $5 TON

New York, Oct. 27.—A new price of $75 a ton for newsprint paper, an increase of $5 over the prevailing price for the first half of the current year, covering contracts calling for delivery during the first half of 1923, has been announced by the International Paper Company. The new price is the same as that announced last week by the larger Canadian producers.

Gushing Challenge To Critics!

WATER pours today from the city's well at Broughdale at the rate of at least 1,000,000 gallons daily, while the actual output cannot be determined until the utilities' experts have placed larger pumps in position for the test. This is a direct challenge to critics who have been opposed to the city's well-digging proposition, an effort to seek a greater water supply of spring water.

N. Y. SHIPS GOLD TO MONTREAL

U. S. Bankers Declare Large Quantities of Metal Left Country.

Predict Reduction in Value of Canadian Dollar in January.

New York, Oct. 27.—Canadian Press.—Local bankers predict that the publication of the gold movements for October will show that considerable metal has gone from New York to Montreal since Oct. 16, according to the Wall Street Journal. The Canadian exchange rate is now at a point where gold shipments are profitable, the paper says.

Foreign exchange dealers expect the strength in Canadian funds to be maintained until around the first of the year, but predict a reduction in the value of the Canadian dollar in January.

It is probable the trade position will change somewhat for the worse around the first of the year, the Wall Street Journal continues, due to the regular winter slump, effects of our tariff, and higher prices caused by appreciated exchange.

Bond flotations in this market have been an important factor, which show few signs of abating, although the relatively fewer Canadian dollars receivable for bonds payable in New York will have a deterring effect. Illegal liquor dealings have also caused a considerable demand for Canadian exchange.

"Interest payments on Canadian securities held here, payable the first of the year, will be added to the seasonal trade factors, which will work for a decline in the rate around that time. Bankers say there has been no talk in Canada concerning probability of removing restrictions on gold exports from there."

3 BURN TO DEATH WHEN TRAPPED IN BEDROOM

Toledo, O., Oct. 27.—Three persons were burned to death here late last night when fire destroyed the home of Adam Popek in the thickly populated Polish district. Other occupants of the house escaped in their night clothes. The victims, asleep upstairs, were trapped in their bedrooms.

INCORPORATIONS INCREASE

Toronto, Oct. 27.—Authorized capital of $15,342,900 is represented by companies whose incorporations were reported to the Monetary Times during the week ended Oct. 21, as compared with $12,251,900 the previous week.

SUGGESTS SITE FOR CITY HALL

Ald. Holmes Would Use Custom House Property for Alternative.

To Be Used If Citizens Vote Down Spencer Block Bylaw.

Should the electors voice disapproval of the Spencer Block as a suitable site for the new city hall the city council would be well advised to consider the customs house site, declares Ald. Dr. Leonard Douglass.

While insisting that the coming year should not pass without the addition to the city of new municipal offices, no matter what the location may be, Ald. Douglass entertains the belief that the next best selection to the present site would be the government building at the corner of Queen's avenue and Richmond street.

He believes that this question could be taken up with the federal authorities and a satisfactory deal consummated should the citizens desire the purchase.

"This location would be ideal," reasons Dr. Douglass, "providing of course that the ratepayers desire the suggested city hall bylaw, and it will become imperative to look further afield for suitable space."

The alderman for Ward 2 incidentally voices strong exception to the proposal to establish a street railway terminal on the federal square. "It would be impracticable," he states decisively.

REPARATION COMMISSION TO SIFT GERMAN FINANCES

Lay Plans for Coming Visit to Berlin for Inquiry Into Conditions.

Paris, Oct. 27.—The reparations commission yesterday decided unanimously on its program for its coming visit to Berlin. Final decision on what new reforms will be demanded, however, were delayed until after the Berlin inquiry, as some of the members expressed the view that the uncertainty of the present situation in Germany made it impossible for the commission to lay down any fixed demands upon Germany until they had seen for themselves what could be done.

The commission voted to make a thorough investigation of Germany's internal finances, with special reference to budget expenses, the collection of taxes, what has been done to prevent the removal of capital from the country and the depreciation of the mark.

DEFER AWARDED CUP TO BLUENOSE

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 27.—Award of the international fishermen's race trophy was delayed today when the sailing committee in charge of the races voted to refer to the international committee for tests against the schooner Bluenose of Canada, the apparent winner of the series after yesterday's victory. H. R. Silver, chairman of the trustees of the cup, said the trophy would not be handed over until the certificate of award had been signed by the international committee.

PLAN ATTACKS ON WIRTH.

Toronto, Oct. 27.—A special cable from Berlin to Toronto says: Soldiers and detachments of heavily armed police were rushed to Wilhelmstrasse when it was learned that attacks on President Ebert and Chancellor Wirth were planned for today.

PIRATES FOUR SEIZE SHIP, CREW AND CARGO IN RIVER

ARRESTED IN WRECK.

HAMBURG, Oct. 27.—A quartet of twentieth century pirates climbed from their rowboat aboard the motor schooner Lertha in the lower Elbe yesterday and in broad daylight seized the captain and his crew and started down stream with the vessel.

They were better pirates than navigators and soon ran the vessel aground, causing its destruction and the loss of its cargo of quebracho valued at 20,000,000 marks.

The four pirates bound the captain as soon as they got aboard and after securing the crew by firing their pistols, it was easy to imprison them. Then the four intruders put on seamen's clothing, hoisted the anchor and set off toward the sea. When the ship went aground the prospect of drowning in the wreckage so frightened them that they climbed the mast and signalled for help from a passing schooner.

Once the rescuers were aboard the distressed schooner the skipper with a wink and a gesture tipped them off to the character of the four men who were seemingly in charge of affairs. They were taken into custody and identified as having escaped from the Hamburg jail.

Lunenburg Goes Wild Over Final Victory of Bluenose

LUNENBURG, N. S., Oct. 27.—Lunenburg may be described as having "gone wild" last night over the final victory of their vessel, the Bluenose, in Gloucester. Flags went up, bells rang, fog horns belled, and the fishing vessels, which had been lying silent in the harbor since their last trip to the banks, boomed forth their jubilation from small cannon. It sounded like a bombardment.

There was a monster parade with bands and floats. The town of Lunenburg was represented by a car in a regatta of cabbages and sauerkraut, and with five fishing skippers seated in it.

Donor of Trophy Suggests Yachtsmen Be Debarred in Contest.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 27.—International fishing vessel contests of the future will be conducted solely for fishermen, by fishermen, and in accordance with fishing practices, if the views of W. W. Heintz, previously declared himself in favor of changing the deed of gift so that most set rules would be eliminated. Fishermen should race as they fish, he said, wearing their working set of sails, whether large or small, carrying as much or as little ballast as they wish, changing to meet the varying conditions of wind and weather. These things they do every day while fishing. It is not necessary to make rules in order to bring the fishermen into the race, he said. True allowances even might be considered a fairer arrangement than the present one, he said.

COUNCIL HEARS BECK DISMISSES ROAD VALUATOR

Mayor Cancels Meeting of Transportation Commission Scheduled for Saturday.

SIR ADAM MAKES REPLY

Declares Bunnell's Report To Be Given To City Next Week.

In a direct message to The Advertiser from Toronto late Friday afternoon, the chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission announced: "A. E. K. Bunnell is unprepared to submit his final report in connection with the valuation of the London street railway until next week."

London's transportation problems, involving notably the London Street Railway and Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Commission, are creating more of an uproar and the scenes than is popularly supposed, and if all indications prove correct, the ratepayers will not be asked at the next civic election to commit themselves upon the proposed purchase of the railway lines in question.

"Has Sir Adam Beck actually discharged Bunnell?" was a query from another alderman at the city hall Friday morning, following the announcement from Mayor Dr. Cameron Wilson that the special session of the London Transportation Commission, scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, was "all off."

"The survey of the street railway system is completed," Mayor Wilson explained, "but they are unable to have the figures in readiness for consideration Saturday, as expected."

This statement is remarkable in view of the fact that declarations, purporting to be recommendations by A. E. K. Bunnell, who conducted the local appraisal at the instigation of the commission, have already been advanced as correct.

"Sir Adam has ordered Bunnell to be relieved of his duties," was the next report to reach members of the council, although Mayor Wilson declined to offer comment upon the phase of the suspected developments.

The latter was unable, however, to anticipate just when the suggested session of the local commission would be held, and, as a matter of fact, disclaimed any useful knowledge of the situation, other than that the final figures were not ready, and he did not know when they would be forthcoming from Toronto.

Questions Right.

"If it is in the event that Bunnell has been relieved of his duties as valuator, by what right has Sir Adam done this?" questioned Ald. Dr. Holmes, who is incidentally one of the chief opponents to the proposed purchase of the road.

"Sir Adam Beck is only one of the local commission, and I feel confident that the other members would not stand for such 'high-handed measures,' as such they are, if correct," he added.

"Don't send the proposition to the people at all," declared Ald. G. B. Turn to Page 2, Column 1.

WANTS CHANGE IN FISHERMAN'S RACE

Donor of Trophy Suggests Yachtsmen Be Debarred in Contest.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 27.—International fishing vessel contests of the future will be conducted solely for fishermen, by fishermen, and in accordance with fishing practices, if the views of W. W. Fishermen should race as they fish, he said, wearing their working set of sails, whether large or small, carrying as much or as little ballast as they wish, changing to meet the varying conditions of wind and weather. These things they do every day while fishing. It is not necessary to make rules in order to bring the fishermen into the race, he said. FASCISTI MAY GAIN CONTROL OF ALL ITALY

Rumor States Anti-Red Movement Will Secure Reins of Government.

LEADER CALLED TO ROME

Premier Facta Summons Mussolini to Conference On Cabinet Situation.

Rome, Oct. 27.—12:30 p.m.—Benito Mussolini, leader of Fascisti, is expected to arrive in Rome today, having been called here by Premier Facta, who wishes to discuss the situation with him.

This action has again caused rumors to circulate that the formation of another Fascist cabinet with the participation of the Fascisti is a possibility.

All speculations concerning the solution of the crisis agree that it will result in the advent to power of the Fascisti either alone or with Giolitti, Orlando or Salandra, in case the Facta cabinet previously mentioned is dissolved.

King Victor Emmanuel will arrive in Rome tonight. He has expressed a desire to consult tomorrow on the situation with Signors Tittoni and DeCola, the presidents respectively of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies; with Benito Mussolini, the leader of the Fascisti, and with Luigi Federzoni, leader of the Nationalist party.

Former Premier Giolitti will also be in Rome tomorrow.

The Communists and Fascisti have been burning one another's diaries. The Communists set fire to diaries belonging to the Fascisti near the boundary between the provinces of Milan and Pavia. In reprisal the Fascisti not only set fire to Communist diaries, but banished all the Communists in the area, and also the Socialist deputy, Belotti.

MAINTENANCE-OF-WAY MEN PROTEST

utter folly for the roads on this side of the border to attempt the cut enforcement, as the men would not stand for it. It is hoped, however, that the Dominion railway officials will have enough foresight to know that a strike would be inevitable if such action were taken, and leave the men on the present scale of wages.

The conciliation board, investigating the grievances of the shovellers, clerks, freight handlers, roundhouse, store, station employees, brought in the verdict that a reduction was not warranted by present living conditions, and the maintenance-of-way employees hold that a reduction in their case would be just as unjustifiable.

The increase to maintenance-of-way men in the United States will affect 451,911 employees, and will amount to $22,125,562.40 a year. The new schedule was put into effect on Oct. 15.

hand-writing on the wall," they say, and is only too willing to grasp at a chance to unload the entire proposition upon the city at a handsome figure and "get out while the getting is good."

Motor buses as a solution for London's transportation problems is growing in favor among the members of the council, who contend that, in any event, the elections next December will vote down the proposed purchase, should the same be submitted to them for an opinion.

Acting Mayor Johnson holds that the purchase price should be set by a special competent arbitration commission, and that the parties interested should abide by the decision.

MAY ABANDON ST. RAILWAY PURCHASE

Drake Friday. "I consider that it would only be a waste of time. The people will only vote down the proposal by a big majority. The advocates of this contemplated purchase will realize that next Dec. 11."

Give Bus Service. "Let the citizens have a good bus service, and even if you have to pay a little more, you will be giving them real service and it will pay for itself in the end."

Ald. John Ashton is inclined to scoff at any attempt to estimate the probable value of the road at about $1,000,000. "Why, we have $650,000 worth of rails that have been laid down within the past five years," he said.

Ald. Ashton is also of the opinion that the local system is in just as good shape as the Border City railway lines.

"And look at the money that Windsor had to pay the D. N. R. to get out of that community," he points out significantly.

May Decline Bailot. From the present indications it is now considered not unlikely, in civic circles, that the council will yet decline to send the question to the people to be decided in December.

The report, as to be submitted by A. E. K. Bunnell, formerly of the Toronto Transportation Commission, is again delayed, with no assurance that any data or information will be at hand in the immediate future.

Enemy Guns Fail To Drive Utility Commission Into Action

THE enemy guns will stand undisturbed in Queen's Park.

While the storm rages across "No-Man's Land" there is a remarkable calm behind the public utilities lines, and the engineers seem but slightly concerned about the deep agitation in certain sections to have the field-pieces removed to what is claimed as a more secure position.

Public utilities officials reported Friday morning that the guns were still where they were placed after the parade on Armistice Day, and there they will remain as far as they are concerned. They do not propose to direct their removal elsewhere, disclaiming all responsibility for the same.

Public utilities officials have repeatedly urged for more haste in view of the nearness of the municipal election date. There is but little time left for the thorough question of the removal of the guns, and the ratepayers' time should be allowed the ratepayers to receive and digest all transportation data, in order that they may be enabled to vote intelligently.

Critics of the proposed undertaking have also charged that nothing will receive the best attention of the local commission other than the data in request to the contemplated purchase and the operation of the road by a city commission. Motor buses by a city commission, or other suggested solutions will not receive adequate consideration, they assert.

News From City Churches

CONCERT AT SOUTHERN CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

Most successful was the social evening and concert given Thursday night at the Southern Congregational Church under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary.

Rev. H. B. Storey, the pastor, was in the chair, and a delightful program was given by the Brunswick Trio, with readings by Miss Mary Daniels, Miss L. E. Mortimer, and vocal solos by Miss Ellen Walter and Miss P. Poole.

At the close of the evening, refreshments were served by a committee, consisting of Mrs. S. Angles, Mrs. Rodda and Mrs. J. Bacon.

SPLENDID SOCIAL AT EMPRESS AVE. METHODIST

Under the auspices of the Sunshine Class, the Hallows social, held on Thursday night at Empress Avenue Methodist Church, was a complete success.

The congregation was well represented and there were in addition a number of visitors. The church was prettily decorated, and pumpkin pies and doughnuts, which formed the major part of the splendid refreshments, carried out the Halloween effect to a delightful degree.

Interesting games formed a part of the program and there were in addition some fine readings by Mrs. Eckhardt and solos by Arthur Rossiter, as well as selections by the Sunday school orchestra.

Mrs. George Rossiter, the class teacher, was in charge of the affair, with the entire co-operation of all the class members.

Mrs. Rossiter also acted as chairman.

CENTENNIAL TUXIS BOYS ENTERTAIN.

With the president, William Gerard, in the chair, the Tuxis boys of Centennial Methodist Church, Thursday night, arranged a very jolly affair, at which the girls of the Cavell Club were guests.

Following a delightful supper, games and a musical program were enjoyed.

HALLOWEEN PARTY AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Under the leadership of Miss Lilian Wooley and Miss M. C. Girdlestone, the class teachers, a jolly Halloween party was held by two junior groups of the St. John's Church Sunday School Thursday evening.

Following high tea at 6 o'clock, games and contests formed the program.

Miss Dolly Burgess was awarded the prize for the best costume. Miss Wooley and Miss Girdlestone were assisted by Miss Muriel Jarvis in the party arrangements and the pretty Halloween decorations.

Rev. A. G. L. Clarke, the rector, and Mrs. Clarke were guests of honor.

HYATT AVENUE GOOD CHEER CLASS ENTERTAINS.

Each member inviting a friend for the occasion, the Good Cheer Class of the Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church formed a merry group Thursday night, when, under the leadership of their teacher, Miss Tisdale, they held a Halloween party in the Sunday school room.

In masquerade costume, both members and their friends entered heartily into the festive spirit of the affair, and the evening, spent in games and contests, was most enjoyable.

Halloween decorations were used in profusion, and the dainty lunch also carried out the Halloween idea. Miss Verna Hopper and Miss Helen Myrick were responsible for the decorations, while Miss Dorothy Williams convened the committee which looked after the refreshments.

APPOINTED TO ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. William Williams, M.A., formerly of Carmangay, Alta., has been appointed by the Bishop of Huron to St. John's Church, Glencoe, Mr. Williams will take charge at the first of December.

Rev. Basil P. Colclough, of Halifax, has been appointed to Bayfield parish, and will take charge Nov. 1.

DEAN FOX BEGINS REVISION OF ART ALUMNI RECORDS

Organizing Permanent System So That Whereabouts of All Graduates Will Be Kept Track Of

W. Sherwood Fox, dean of the Arts College, Western University, is at present engaged in the work of revising the records of the arts alumni. "We are reorganizing the record system," stated the dean, "and putting it in permanent shape. When completed, it will permit the periodic addition of new names and will always be up-to-date."

Dean Fox explained that the new system would embrace four separate forms of records, each with an index of its own. The names will be indexed alphabetically on master cards; they will be indexed as to class, denoting the year of graduation; as to assumption and other affiliated schools; and as to the distribution of graduates over the world.

In the early future, a list of arts alumni will be sent to each graduate in order that each may keep in touch with other graduates of the university. The request will accompany the list, that each graduate inform the university authorities of any changes in location or occupation of other alumni, as well as his own changes.

It is estimated by officials at the university that such a system, as years go on, will be of extreme value to the institution.

ST. THOMAS MAN ON DEATH ENGINE

Drives Locomotive Which Kills Man in Car in Buffalo Yards.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 27.—Hurled from his automobile when it was struck by a locomotive at New York Central Railroad crossing here, at Jersey street, early this morning, George Drummer, 37 years old, of 314 Abbey street, Buffalo, is reported to be lying in Columbus Hospital here.

Drummer was thrown about 75 feet, coming down between the north-bound and south-bound tracks, the automobile being carried about 100 feet up the track and then thrown upon the south-bound tracks.

A watchman at a near-by pumping station hurried to call the ambulance, and while he was gone a Grand Trunk freight engine struck the automobile, which was pushed down the track, and Drummer was caught by it as it passed him, again being dragged nearly 50 feet, while the automobile was wrecked.

The men operating the first locomotive were Engineer James C. Tanner of St. Thomas, Ontario, and Fireman Charles C. Stafford of Sheridan, Ontario, near Hamilton.

CLAIMS LABOR UNDERPAID, UNCARED FOR, EXPLOITED

President of Metropolitan Insurance Company Sees Need For Employers to Change Methods.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Not until employers completely revolutionize the system of "treating their employees as mere machines will the problems of industrial strife be overcome," Halley Fiske, of New York, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, told a gathering at a banquet last evening. The occasion was the 21st Dominion convention of field representatives of the company.

Mr. Fiske referred to the relations of capital and labor when speaking of group insurance and its benefits to corporations and their employees. "Recent industrial disputes have terminated in riots, incendiarism and even murder," he said. "During the last fifty years labor has been disastrously underpaid, uncared for and exploited."

BRIGANDS ROUT POLISH CAVALRY

Warsaw, Oct. 27.—A Polish cavalry detachment sent against the bands of Ukrainian terrorists who had destroyed crops and torn up railroads in protest against Polish control of Eastern Galicia, drove them back into the Ukraine, but failed to disperse them.

The troopers lost their commander who was captured by the marauders. The robbing and pillaging carried on by the invaders when they crossed the border when they went as far as Lemberg, has aroused considerable criticism.

Many Ukrainians are showing an increasing disposition to co-operate with the Polish government.

U. S. PAYS HOMAGE TO ROOSEVELT

New York, Oct. 27.—The United States today in one celebration paid homage to its sea forces and commemorated the birthday of one of its most illustrious statesmen—the late Theodore Roosevelt.

The North Atlantic fleet anchored in the Hudson River today and New Yorkers flocked to the scene to celebrate Navy Day. Elsewhere in the city services were being held to observe the anniversary of Roosevelt's birthday.

Broadway was gay in tri-colored bunting and patriotic colors. In school houses the occasion was observed by the children.

LOOK FOR U. S. TO FREE LIQUOR SHIP

Officials State No Evidence Canadian Schooner Infringing Law.

Washington, Oct. 27.—Release of the Canadian schooner Emerald, seized by prohibition officers last week eight miles off New York, was forecast today by high treasury officials. While they still await a final report on the seizure against which the British government has protested, officials said preliminary investigation indicated that there was not sufficient evidence of intent to violate the United States prohibition law to warrant holding the craft.

There was no evidence, it was stated, that the schooner established communication with the shore by means of its own boats or crew. Seizure by prohibition agents under direction of a prohibition officer was made after a motorboat had been found near the schooner with packages of liquor on board bearing the same markings as liquor packages on the Emerald. The British protest has not been answered, state department officials having determined to await more complete reports from prohibition and custom officers.

NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH IN SAWMILL

Harry Davidson of Tillsonburg Has Arm Mangled in Machinery.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 26.—Harry Davidson, who lives seven miles south of town, had a very narrow escape from death today. He owns a portable sawmill, and while taking a belt off the pulley his left hand got caught, and his arm was wound around the machinery. Only the prompt stopping of the engine saved his life. Four doctors were soon on the scene, and it was found that two bones of the forearm were broken and protruded through the flesh, pulling two of the tendons out of the hand and some of the muscles. The arm was also broken above the elbow, carrying away the muscles and one of the principal nerves. Although there was a difference of opinion, it was decided to make an effort to save the arm, but it is feared, however, that amputation will eventually be necessary.

Speaker Claims Broken Family
Ties Creates Delinquency
Among Children.

Charges Unhappy Homes Responsible for Great Problems of Civilization.

Centering his remarks around the question of dependent children, and the enormous problem encountered in dealing with it, Brother Barnabas, now of Toronto, in his lecture Thursday night at St. Peter's Parish Hall, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, stressed the point that most of the delinquency among children, and a great deal of the dependence of children upon charity, was the direct result of the breaking up of family ties.

Brother Barnabas is at the present time superintendent of Affiliated Charities in Toronto. Previous to his coming to Toronto he was for 30 years connected with welfare work in the United States. He was the founder of the National Conference of Catholic Charities in that country, and later organized a child welfare movement in the Archdiocese of New York, under Cardinal Farley.

"Much has been accomplished since it was recognized some years ago that something was wrong with the methods in vogue in caring for dependent children," said Brother Barnabas. "In those days there was no system. The number of almost helpless adults, who as children were cared for in charitable institutions, was multiplying by thousands. And so we set out to find the cause."

Root Was Found.
The speaker stated that the root of the trouble was found in broken-up families. When a child was separated from its mother for three or four years, and placed in a charitable institution, there was very apt to be a break between mother and child, if the child ever was restored to its parents. In almost every case the child never regained the family life that was rightfully his or hers.

"We began to check up to see what became of these boys and girls. Millions of dollars had been spent on charitable institutions. The lives of the religious, who were in charge of the children were lives of almost martyrdom. With never a holiday, never any rest, the religious certainly could not be to blame. And so we looked to the methods."

"We found it that a boy or girl, after five or six years in an institution, was not able to support himself or herself. Why was it that that boy or girl would not get on with others in a community? And in checking up we found that almost every boy or girl turned out into the world from these

Leaves For Orient

COL. W. M. GARTSHORE.
The department heads of McClary Manufacturing Company, at a banquet Thursday night, presented Col. W. M. Gartshore with a handsome club bag as a farewell gift.

Col. Gartshore leaves a week from Saturday for a trip to New Zealand, Australia and the Orient, expecting to arrive home some time in April or May next.

ENDOWS COT IN KIDDIES' HOSPITAL

A much-appreciated gift from New York for the War Memorial Children's Hospital has come to the men's quiet canvass committee, a check for $500 from J. S. Rich, to endow a crib in memory of his wife's mother, Mrs. Jane Baker Hayman of London.

In bestowing so generous a gift, Mr. Rich expresses gratification that he is "privileged to do so."

Failed to Develop.
"There were too many in groups in these institutions," said the Brother. "No attempt was made to introduce anything like family life. In the institution where there were 150 children, 150 went together everywhere. They ate together; they prayed together; 150 marched here and marched there. There was no opportunity for the child to develop initiative."

Consequently when the child was sent out to take his or her place in the world, that child, now almost an adult, did not fit in. Never having provided anything for himself he did not know how.

Brother Barnabas stated that from that time forward efforts were made to bring conditions as near to the model of family life as was possible, and the results watched, and tabulated. But not until 1912 was any real progress made. The old system of dressing all children alike was discarded, and children were placed in smaller groups. Every working was done to encourage and develop initiative. Where possible the groups were restricted to contain not more than twenty children. And the plan bore fruit.

Open Ideal Home.
"Twenty-two years ago," he said, "we took 30 boys and opened a small ideal home. We followed the plans I have just outlined. We had the boys go out to church, instead of marching in a long line to chapel. And we insisted on their mingling with the people of the parish. We even took the trouble of having them meet girls of the parish. Today 73 per cent of those boys are thorough-going citizens, married, and bringing up good practical Catholic families."

Brother Barnabas stated that there were 75,000 children in charitable institutions throughout the United States, and for years not one of these institutions knew what the others were doing. Now there is an annual conference.

The speaker stated that in conferences, Canada was held up as a model when the matter of divorce was mentioned. The terrible cancer of divorce had become worse than a contagion in the United States, he said. In Canada the percentage of divorces was very small. Out of all the delinquent children in reformatories, 62 per cent are children whose homes have been broken up by divorce, he continued.

"I was surprised to know that 80 per cent of Londoners own their own homes," stated Brother Barnabas. "You ought to thank God that you have such a wonderful condition in your city."

The speaker went on to state that where there was only one family under one roof, 75 per cent of social evils disappear. Tenements were a curse, he said, and the conditions obtaining in large cities where many families lived in one building, resulted in the breaking down of family life.

"Do everything possible to keep London a home city," said Brother Barnabas, in concluding. "Most of the conditions I have related are not applicable here, but as your city grows things will change. Don't let people build tenements if you can possibly discourage them. Rather build shacks, for in the family life and private family life, is the remedy for social evils of this age."

Rev. Mons. P. J. McKoon replied briefly to Brother Barnabas. At the conclusion of the lecture a vote of appreciation was tendered the speaker. Mrs. J. Leech was in the chair.

MEET TO HONOR COL. GARTSHORE

Department Heads and Foremen at McClary's Banquet General Manager.

Make Presentation on Eve of Departure For Long Journey.

On the eve of his departure on an extended trip to New Zealand, Australia and the Orient, Col. W. M. Gartshore, president and general manager of the McClary Manufacturing Company, was the guest of department heads and foremen of the plant at a banquet in the company's dining hall on York street Thursday evening.

Gathered around the table were more than 100 men who had been directly associated with Col. Gartshore for more than forty years, and the occasion was taken advantage of to express the heartfelt goodwill to their chief, who is loved by all, and whose genial presence will be greatly missed during his absence from London.

Mr. J. B. Walton, superintendent of the foundry, who has been in the employ of McClary's for more than forty years, acted as chairman and toastmaster, and in a few well-chosen remarks expressed the feelings of the gathering towards the guest of the evening.

Mr. F. H. Westbury, superintendent of the sheet metalware factory, had the pleasant duty of presenting, on behalf of those present, a beautifully fitted club bag as a slight expression of the esteem in which Col. Gartshore is held by not only the heads of departments, but all the men in the works with whom he comes in contact.

Mr. Westbury took occasion to express the feeling of those present when he gave full credit for the great expansion of the McClary works through the fact that while others may have been considered the power still it was Col. Gartshore's vision which made it possible to develop the business to the point where today it occupies the enviable place of being the largest stove and furnace factory under the British flag.

Col. Gartshore responded to the toast to himself, accompanied by the presentation, in some very heart-felt words. It was quite evident that the party, although only for a limited time, is felt by him very keenly owing to the very pleasant relationship which he had enjoyed with all those associated with him for so many years.

The evening was rounded out by community singing, dispersed with some excellent selections by the Sun-set Male Quartet.

ADJOURNS MARTINCHUK CASE ON SHOOTING CHARGE

Court Forced to Defer Action Pending Recovery of Accused From Wounds.

Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon was again forced to adjourn the case of Powell Martinchuk, charged with shooting with intent to kill and with having a revolver in his possession, because the prisoner still lies wounded in Victoria Hospital as the result of a running gun battle he had with a police officer. Adjournment of one week was ordered.

Martinchuk is expected to be in condition to be moved at any time. His condition is much improved, and it is all likelihood he will be removed to the jail within a week. The crime with which he is charged are alleged to have been committed several weeks ago, when he battled with police officers after he had fled from a Bathurst street house when a police squad arrived to investigate a complaint of disorderly conduct.

TWO CITY MAYORS DECIDE WHO'S WHO

The city remains in safe hands. There are still two mayors "on the job."

The first noticeable hitch in this unique arrangement was noted Friday morning when both incumbents, Acting Mayor John Ashton and Mayor Cameron Wilson, proceeded to leave the city hall simultaneously.

"There are some papers in there for you to sign," remarked the Mayor pleasantly as he reached for the door.

"What do you mean, papers?" questioned the acting mayor sharply, "whose on duty today, you or me?"

It developed apparently that the latter was still on duty, and the other mayor departed forthwith.

REPORTS RETAIL TRADE IMPROVING

Reports to Bradstreet's say that retail trade in London is becoming more active as the season progresses, while wholesale orders at local wholesale houses are showing a satisfactory increase.

There is not much buying of goods for future delivery yet, but the sorting orders are increasing nicely both as regards number and volume. Business in the surrounding territories is good and merchants generally are looking forward to a good year. Clothing, boots and shoes and groceries are all in good demand, while there is also a good inquiry for certain lines of hardware which are generally active in the fall when the householder is preparing for the winter season. Collections are showing some improvement.

Crops—There is little change from last week's report. Fall wheat acreage is estimated by some to be lower than last year.

If "W. E. G." in Thursday's "I Spied" column will call at The Advertiser office today or Saturday, he will be given two tickets to the Grand Theatre Saturday.

ASK FUNDS FOR LUMBER MISSIONS

Rev. Thomas Joplin in City to Make Appeal for Lumberjacks.

Including London in his annual campaign for the Lumberjacks' Mission in Northern Ontario, Rev. Thomas Joplin is in the city and will probably be heard in some of the city churches.

Special assistance this year will be needed for the men who were caught in the fire zone. Mr. Joplin explains that while volunteers are available, funds are still necessary to carry on the work among the lumbermen, which includes visiting them, holding services, providing literature, writing letters for them, and the numerous things which go to make life more worth while for these men, who spend the greater part of the year practically apart from the benefits and comforts of modern life.

It has already been found that splendid results follow the work of the mission, and it is expected that as far as possible a generous response will be made to their appeal, especially in view of the drastic conditions wrought by the fire.

During his brief stay in the city, Mr. Joplin will be with Mrs. Massey, at 315 King street.

URGES SUPPORT OF NURSES' NEW HOME

Col. Gartshore Stresses the Necessity at Kiwanis Weekly Luncheon.

Speaking to the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon in the Tecumseh House Friday, Col. W. M. Gartshore urged the members to support the bylaw at the coming election calling for the expenditure of $300,000 to build a new home in connection with Victoria Hospital.

Col. Gartshore stressed the necessity of such a building in London, pointing out that the present home, built some twenty years ago, is now entirely inadequate to house the large number of young women, which is increasing every year, that enter the training school.

"The nursing profession is one of the noblest callings for women on earth," he said, "and these girls give up three and four of the best years in their life without practically any remuneration for the benefit of humanity. When all these things are taken into consideration, I think that appreciation of their work should be shown by the people of London in the form of a nurses' home."

Speaking briefly on the War Memorial Children's Hospital, Col. Gartshore stated that the building was practically paid for, thanks to the efforts of the ladies of the city, and that in a short time it would be handed over to the city free of debt. Kiwanian George Sinclair, speaking on behalf of the Intermediate O. R. F. U. rugby team, asked the moral support of the Kiwanis Club in making the team a success.

Chief of Magistrates Mayor Wilson Refuses To Serve Woman As Counsel

Mayor Wilson announces that he is not a lawyer, explaining that his powers as a legal authority are but limited, despite his appellation as "chief magistrate" for the city.

Stating that she is suing a certain local organization for alleged back pay, a citizenship called at the city hall Thursday to solicit the aid of the mayor in this respect.

As the contest is slated for a decision in the courts, the fair petitioner concluded that as "chief magistrate," Mayor Wilson could constitute the ideal counsel for the prosecution.

The request came to the attention of Acting Mayor Ashton, who consulted with Mayor Wilson, with the result that the two decided that it would not be advisable for them to dabble in law while there were so many others more qualified for the purpose.

NOT QUITE SURE IF WIVES CAN VOTE

City Officials State New Law Not Effective Till January.

There appears to be certain misunderstanding as to whether wives of property owners may vote at the next municipal election.

City authorities point out that legislation, recently passed in this respect, does not take effect until Jan. 1, thus depriving about 100 persons, male and female, of their ballot until next year by reason of the fact that the local election is a month earlier than usual.

The amendment to the act provides that wives of property owners may vote after Jan. 1, exercise their ballot without their husbands favoring them with a joint-deed.

The same is noted with respect to men, about the same number of whom are affected. In the past, where the wife owned the property, the husband had no voice at the election, unless his wife chose to grant him a joint deed.

After Jan. 1 next, about 30 husbands who were in this predicament will be allowed to vote, despite their wives' attitude in the matter.

LIONS CLUB HOLDS BIG LADIES' NIGHT

Bungalow Inn, Springbank, Is Scene of Successful Season's Event.

Bungalow Inn was turned into a veritable jungle Thursday night, when 25 members of the London Den of Lions with their lioness friends trekked to Springbank to stage the first ladies' night of the season. To say that the evening was a roaring success would put it very mildly, as the evening constituted only a very small part of the variety program.

Thursday night's entertainment was in the form of a fancy dress masquerade, and although some of the costumes were so fancy that they were laughable, the practice of utilizing the appearance of some of the younger and not so wise in the ways of the world clubs, soon wore off, and all turned to the task of making the evening the most successful ladies' night in the history of the local den.

The banquet tables were artistically decorated in black and orange with novelty favors for the lionesses and musical toys for the lions. Several of the latter had to be reprimanded for paying too much attention to their presents and not enough to their fairer members in the jungle.

In the past, the den has been different periods in furniture history. Miss Mills was awarded first prize. The musical part of the program was ably looked after by the Versatile Orchestra, and through the evening the club musicians who officiated delighted and even surprised the merry-makers with their excellent rendering of old ballads, as well as the latest hits in popular music. After the most strenuous part of the program had been completed dancing was indulged in. Cub Graham acted as chairman for the evening.

G. T. R. CLAIM PREVENTION CAMPAIGN IS SUCCESSFUL

Out of $5,000,000 Freight Revenue Less Than $25,000 Paid in Claims.

The freight claim prevention campaign inaugurated by the management of the Grand Trunk Railway has met with notable success. Figures covering the last thirty day period show that while freight revenue amounted to approximately $5,000,000, less than $25,000 was paid in freight claims, or only half of 1 per cent. Freight claims on the Grand Trunk, in proportion to earnings are now the lowest of any railway on the North American Continent.

"Our employees are doing their utmost in the careful handling of shipments and cars, and in other directions, to prevent damage and loss," said one of the principal operating officers of the road today. "The campaign is being urged by the general manager, Mr. W. D. Robb, has been most enthusiastically supported. Employees from various sections of the railway are meeting together each month to discuss new ways of claim prevention, and specially trained inspectors are working on each division to instruct and supervise all men engaged in handling freight."

SOFTBALLERS WILL PLAY BENEFIT FOR FIRE VICTIMS

Games To Be Staged At Armories Tonight At 7:30.

London's softballers will stage a benefit ball tonight at the Armories for the benefit of the fire sufferers in Northern Ontario.

Smallman & Ingram Thistles meet All-Stars, picked from the Y. W. C. A. Softball League. In the opening game, and W. O. R.'s meet London West Stars in the second of their three-game series for the city championship. W. O. R.'s were the victors in the first game last Saturday, but the London West team hopes to even up the series tonight at the Armories. All the proceeds will go to the sufferers from the devastating fire which recently swept Northern Ontario, and will be put in the hands of a competent committee for disposal.

The games start at 7:30 o'clock.

8 MISSING IN SAN BERNARDINO FIRE

Flames Devour Heavily Timbered Mountain Area in California.

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 27.—Eight men are missing in the San Bernardino mountain section, where a forest fire has been raging for several days. The men left the main body of fire fighters when the flames jumped the fire-break where the firemen were making a final stand to keep the fire out of the heavily timbered section near Lake Arrowhead and the Fleming Valley.

The fire has been burning several days. Last night it swept over the crest of the San Bernardino Range. At midnight a newspaperman who started toward where the eight firemen fled, was turned back by dense smoke and the blazing trees that fell about him.

Fifty more firemen were sent from the Lake Arrowhead village early today.

The region is noted for its summer homes, and represents heavy investments. Immense timber abundance in some places the flames, as they topped the range, were estimated to be 400 feet high. There was hope today that the summer colony at Lake Arrowhead would be saved.

QUERIES TENDERS ON NEW REGISTRY

Aldermen Claim Ignorance of Plans Ever Having Been Prepared.

Why is it that tenders have been asked for the construction of London's new registry office while final approval of the plans and specifications has not been sought from the members of the city council, questioned members of that body Friday.

"I have not seen these plans," Ald. John May, Ward One, declared, "and as I understand that tenders have been asked for and every thing made ready for immediate construction, why have these plans not been submitted to us? I have never seen the final scheme."

Ald. Dr. L. S. Holmes adheres to a similar view. "I did not even know that the plans were in the city, let alone see them," he commented Friday. "We don't want these things rushed through at the last minute. There has been too much of that sort of thing in London in past years. We have just had an example of that in the housing commission's undertakings."

MASQUERADE AT WINTER GARDENS

The management of the Winter Garden have arranged a masquerade dance for Halloween.

Cash prizes will be given for the best costumes. The previous masquerades have been very successful, but it is anticipated this one will surpass them all. The orchestra this season has been greatly appreciated by the numerous patrons who have congratulated the management on its excellence.

The New Premier.

BONAR LAW, premier of Britain, at least for the present, may have been born in Canada, but he speaks with the tongue of a Scot, and thinks as a Scottish iron master. Even his political enemies admit that he is a good enough businessman—in fact, it was the idea of him being a shrewd businessman from Glasgow who had made a fortune that caused him to be favorably regarded as the leader for the Conservative party. The only thing wrong with this was that his fortune was left to him by a relative, a member of the Kildston family.

BONAR LAW came to the head of the Conservative group more through his advocacy of tariff reform than anything else, and his idea of tariff reform was to get free trade England to cease being free trade and cast in her lot with the tariff nations of the world. It is GARDINER, in his "Pillars of Society," who claims his tariff talk caused the Conservatives "to fling the mantle of enthusiasm over him in a moment of enthusiasm." That is about as charitable a statement as GARDINER makes about BONAR LAW. His satire is pronounced as he draws the lesson that a sledgehammer in the hands of a strong man is a dangerous weapon, but in the hands of a child, the child may get hurt by the sledge falling on its toes. Then, pursuing the same idea, he says: "A contest between ASQUITH and BALFOUR was a contest between two brilliant swordsmen—but a contest between Mr. ASQUITH and Mr. BONAR LAW is a contest between a cat and a mouse, a very indiscreet mouse."

The writer of BONAR LAW's sketch is scant in admitting that he might possibly have any good points at all. He speaks in a negative way all through, claiming that BONAR LAW "is as unimaginative as the ledger in his counting-house. His speech is dry and colorless, his voice thin and unmusical." Unlike Mr. BALFOUR, whose movements are as flexible as his voice, he stands at the table stiff as a grenadier, his right arm by his side, his left making automatic up-and-down motions from the elbow, his eyes fixed before him and filled with the sadness of incommunicable things. He is as innocent of humor as a dirge, and has never made an epigram.

GARDINER admits, though, that "he can sting, and number among his qualities an unhesitating fluency, an orderly argumentative progression, a certain businesslike exactness, and an unaffected sincerity."

Likewise, writers are fond of contrasting BONAR LAW with the polished BALFOUR in combat with ASQUITH in previous days. ASQUITH had the faculty of digging pits into which the Conservative leader fell readily. When Mr. ASQUITH tried his familiar arts on Mr. BALFOUR, though, the latter used simply to step on the table and look up at the ceiling with an air of childlike abstraction. It did not mean he did not hear, but simply he was determined not to walk into the ASQUITH interrogations.

It is on this man that the mantle of premiership has fallen. It would be hard to imagine two men more diametrically opposed than BONAR LAW and LORD GEORGE, who has so recently relinquished office. The new premier, the embodiment of the quiet, things-as-they-are type, calculating, and yet none too cautious for a practical politician—the ex-premier, a flaming torch, brilliant, a master of sarcasm, and knowing as well as any man of his time just how to measure the approval or disapproval of the crowd.

The British political situation furnishes a great field for contrasts, and it also furnishes a good example of British speed, for although the resignation of the government took place late in October the election is to be held by the end of the second week in November.

Factories In Canada.

THE secretary of the British Federation of Industries has written a letter stating that many British industries are interested in locating branches in Canada.

This is good news, and it may also imply that they are in a state of mind to pay more attention to the Canadian market. If they do not, the chances are that there will not be much of it left for them to look after in a few years more.

It is not many years ago that British makers sent about the same amount of steel and finished steel into Canada as came from United States. Today the amount sent to Canada from Britain is only a very small fraction of the shipments taken in here from United States. The reason is very easy to trace. The United States steel man has been on the job all the time, studying the Canadian market, and seeing to it that he was well represented here all the time. Geographical location helps him in this, of course. Many British manufacturers have a very vague knowledge of Canada and the possibilities here. Trade commissioners are not backward in telling what they find out on their visits in England, and we had a fair sample of it a few days ago, when they were making arrangements for a British Empire Exhibition in London, England. Then the statement was made that Canadian wheat was not of a high enough standard to make good bread, and also that Canadian timber was not good enough to do some of the building required for the exhibition.

The unfortunate part of such a thing is that these statements are apparently made in all seriousness, and being made by men of some standing in the country are apt to be accepted as matter of fact.

British manufacturers have not made any great advances so far in putting branch factories in Canada. They prefer to open distributing points here, and take advantage of the preference in the tariff extended to them. Industrial expansion in Canada is largely being carried on by United States firms putting up branches on this side of the line.

The field is open for the British manufacturer to do the same thing, but he has been a long time getting started, and the longer he waits the more will the field be occupied on his arrival.

Get It Over.

THE Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec has been in session in Toronto for some days. The world looks on at such a gathering and expects to see a meeting where men and women will come together and discuss business, and conduct affairs in a manner that is superior to that encountered in the everyday routine of business.

Instead of that the impression is given that the gathering has been turned into a bear-garden on the crumpled discussion of what has happened or what has not happened at McMaster University.

Last year the convention was held at St. Thomas, and although the storm did not break there, as it has in Toronto, the gathering was conducted throughout with the expectancy that something might happen at any time to bring the whole matter to the attention of the convention.

The storm center of the whole gathering is Rev. T. T. SHIELDS, pastor of Jarvis Street Church. He is a man of exceptional endowments, is a forceful speaker and a powerful gospel preacher. Added to that is the fact that he is possessed of a mind that is keen enough to make it advisable for few men to match wits with him on any point in which there may be controversy.

Dr. SHIELDS has turned his own church on Jarvis street upside down, and is making progress, despite the fact that many of the older and well-to-do families have withdrawn their membership from the church. Now he is attacking McMaster University, the theological headquarters of the Baptist denomination, charging that some of the professors there are, or have been, not teaching with an eye single to the purpose of the school in the first place.

Dr. SHIELDS seems to be in a hopeless minority, but as a campaigner he can face the crowd and give as much as he takes.

It may be all very necessary, and there may be a very great deal of good done in the end by all this controversy. At the same time it is not a desirable thing that the annual convention of a large religious body should be marked as having been the scene of meetings where men denounced each other, and where hard words were spoken.

It is highly desirable for the Baptist people that they should get this controversy cleared up and cleared up quickly.

All By Itself.

IT IS quite well worth looking at the stock and financial pages now.

It will be seen that there is a list of the value of the money of the world as seen from Wall street, New York.

They go on to state that the French currency is worth so much, the British, Mexican, Italian, and so on. Even the German mark gets mention sometimes when they have plenty of figures and space to state the rate for the day.

Then in a line all by itself at the bottom is the Canadian dollar, quoted as being the only money in the world that is worth more than one dollar in New York today.

That ought to make you buck up and see to it that we keep these good things at home.

Hon. T. W. Taylor, chief justice of Manitoba, has been knighted.

It is stated on authority that a branch of the Bank of Montreal will be opened shortly in St. Thomas.

The people of Essex County are up in arms against the plans of the Standard Oil Company to pipe natural gas into Ohio. They think the supply of gas is limited, and wish to reserve it for themselves.

To be declared mad brings death to a dog which bites, but often life to a man who slays.

But don't forget that one DAVID LLOYD GEORGE may be around when the ballots are being counted in the British election.

THE ADVERTISER has received from Berlin, Germany, a copy of resolutions passed by the Egyptian National Congress. The drift of these are anti-British all through. The strange part of it is that Berlin, Germany, should have been selected as the meeting place for the gathering.

Some people are gluttons for punishment. Now comes CHRY CLEAK BAKER to advocate 40 aldermen as a life-sized city council. Now, then, we are waiting with a club for the one to file a suggestion for a double school board.

RAYMOND HITCHCOCK has decided that most Americans who go to theatres have a vocabulary of only 500 words—such as yes, no, listen, radio, love, money, papa, mama, prohibition and say. Maybe it's for the best. Even with a vocabulary limited to 500 words, most of us talk too much of the wrong kind of stuff. What would it be like if we had the whole dictionary at our tongues' tips?

ROBERT CARONE, owner of the March Hare tea room in Boston, gets an order for a 50-plate banquet for college sorority girls. They change their minds. CARONE is "stuck with the cats." He goes out to round up 50 starving unfortunates in Boston parks. The offer of a free meal lures only 15. Hundreds of others, solicited, yawn as they bask in the sun and say they are so full already that they couldn't eat another mouthful. Now the financial writers and statisticians will land on this to prove that hard times and hunger have departed from the bean zone around Boston.

After forgetting about over his tea, the youth suddenly blurted out: "Can I go out tonight, mother, to see my lass?"

"Yes," said his mother grudgingly, "but come back in half an hour." At the expiration of that time the youth returned.

"And did you see your sweet heart?" asked his mother.

"Yes, mother; and she would have seen me, too, if I hadn't bobbed down behind the hedge!"

Just a Formality.

"I want some money, daddy," announced Perry.

"Money!" daddy exclaimed. "I never saw such a boy to want money; well, how much do you want this time?"

"I don't care," Perry replied. "Don't care!" daddy echoed. "Well, that is peculiar. You want money, but you don't care how much or how little?"

"None; don't care," Perry repeated. "Well, I don't understand," daddy announced. "Tell me why you don't care?"

"Cause," Perry explained, "I got to put in it in the Sunday school collection, anyway."

Zeph, the Optimist.

"I see you've got a new boss, Zeph," the mail carrier in a small town said to one of the inhabitants who was brushing a chestnut mare.

"Ye-up," replied Zeph. "Do you trade often?"

"Ye-up," Saturday I swapped three times.

"You must be doing pretty well."

"Ye-up, pretty good; generally come out second best—that isn't doing very bad, is it?"

THE CHRISTIAN GUARDIAN.

Q.—What is "The Christian Guardian?"

A.—The Christian Guardian, the organ of the Methodist Church of Canada, was established in Toronto in 1829 and is, therefore, the oldest existing paper in that city.

HENRY HUDSON.

Q.—Who was Henry Hudson.

A.—Henry Hudson was an adventurous English explorer, who, in 1609, made his way up the Hudson River, and, in 1610, navigated Hudson Strait in "The Discovery," thus discovering Hudson Bay. Part of his crew mutinied and put Hudson and his little son and eight loyal followers in an open boat and cast them adrift. They were never heard of again.

DO YOU KNOW—

What race first peopled Madagascar?

Answers in tomorrow's installment of H. G. Wells' "Outline of History."

The Chow emperors had become the traditional high priests of the land in the place of the Shang Dynasty and claimed a sort of overlordship in Chinese affairs, but gradually the loose ties of usage and sentiment that held the empire together lost their hold upon men's minds.

The Age of Confucius.

Hunnic people to the north and west took on the Chinese civilization without acquiring a sense of its unity. Feudal princes began to regard themselves as independent. Mr. Liang-Chi-Chao, one of the Chinese representatives at the Paris conference of 1919, states that between the eighth and fourth centuries B. C. there were in the Hwang-ho and Yang-tse valleys no less than five or six thousand small states, with about a dozen powerful states dominating over them. The "age of confusion."

In the sixth century B. C. the great powers in conflict were Ts'ui and Ts'in, which were northern Hwang-ho states, and Chu, which was a vigorous, aggressive power in the Yang-tse valley.

We Europeans knew very little at first of the ethnology and pre-history of Southern China. There the Chinese mingle with such kindred peoples as the Siamese and Burmese, and seem to bridge over toward the darker Dravidian peoples and toward the Malays. It is quite clear from the Chinese records that there were southern as well as northern beginnings of a civilization, and that the Chinese civilization that comes into history 2000 B.C. is the result of a long process of contact, mingling and intermingling between a southern and a northern culture of which the southern may have been the earlier and more highly developed.

The southern Chinese perhaps played the role toward the northern Chinese that the Hittites or Sumerians played to the Aryans and Semitic peoples in the west, or that the settled Dravidians played toward the Aryans in India. They may have been the first agriculturists and the first temple builders. But so little is known as yet of this attractive chapter in pre-history, that we cannot dwell upon it further here.

The Original Huns.

The chief foreigners mentioned in the early annals of China were a Ural-Altaic people on the northeast frontier, the Huns, against whom certain of the earlier emperors made war. Chinese history is still very little known to European students, and our accounts of the early records are particularly unsatisfactory. About 2700 to 2400 B.C. reigned five emperors who seem to have been almost incredibly exemplary beings.

There follows upon these first five emperors a series of dynasties, of which the accounts become more and more exact and convincing as they become more recent.

China has to tell a long history of border warfare and of graver struggles between the settled and nomad peoples. To begin with, China, like Sumer and like Egypt, was a land of city states. The government was at first a government of numerous kings; they became loosely feudal under an emperor, as the Egyptians did; and then later, as with the Egyptians, came a centralizing empire.

Shang (1700 to 1125 B.C.) and Chow (1125 to 250 B.C.) are named as being the two great dynasties of the feudal period. Bronze vessels of these earlier dynasties, beautiful, splendid, and with a distinctive style of their own, still exist, and there can be no doubt of the existence of a high state of culture even before the days of Shang.

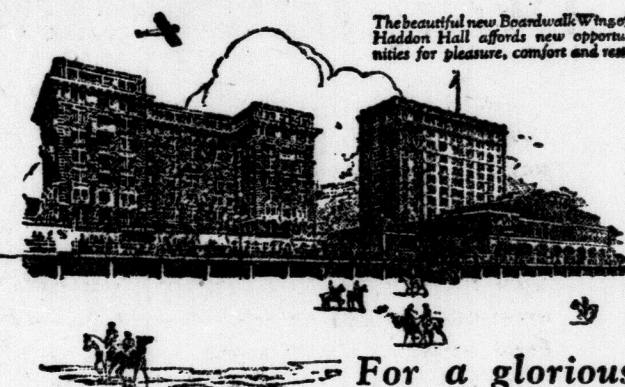

Bonds of Unity.

It is perhaps a sense of symmetry that made the later historians of Egypt and China talk of the earlier phases of their national history as being under dynasties comparable to the dynasties of the later empires, and of such early "emperors" as Menes (in Egypt) or the First Five Emperors (in China). The early dynasties exercised far less centralized powers than the later ones. Such unity as China possessed under the Shang Dynasty was a religious rather than an effective political union. The "Son of Heaven" offered sacrifice for all the Chinese. There was a common script, a common civilization, and a common enemy in the Huns of the northwestern borders.

The last of the Shang Dynasty was a cruel and foolish monarch, who burnt himself alive (1125 B.C.) in his palace after a decisive defeat by Wu Wang, the founder of the Chow Dynasty. Wu Wang seems to have been helped by allies from among the southwestern tribes, as well as by a popular revolt.

For a time the China remained loosely united under the Chow emperors, as loosely united as was Christendom under the popes in the middle ages.

RUTHVEN

Special to London Advertiser. RUTHVEN, Oct. 26.—It has been many years since all the farmers in this district could say that they have been favored with such exceptionally fine weather as they are enjoying all over this section at present. Crops such as the alfalfa and sweet clover are now coming up for the fourth time this season, and the barns and other buildings are capacity filled with corn, hay and other first-class feed for winter.

The root crop and especially the late potatoes are being hauled to the root houses and cellars this week by the hundreds of bushels. Late pears, of which there are quite a number of trees here, are all loaded down to the breaking point and these will not be picked for two weeks yet. At many places apples are being put into pits, and those who have tried this plan many times before say the fruit comes out in the spring in the pink of condition. Mr. and Mrs. Jason Malott are making preparations to leave here about the middle of next month for California, where they will be the guests of their son Everett and two daughters, Miss Grace and Mrs. T. Quick, for the next five months. The recent light frosts which visited this section did not do any great amount of damage, as the crops were all harvested.

William Chalk of Windsor and Mrs. A. Denhardt of Kingsville were guests of their relatives here on Sunday. A few years ago Adolph Fox of Olinda planted several English walnuts. It was soon noticed that tiny shoots were breaking through the ground. They were carefully cultivated, and this fall the first crop of nuts were gathered, amounting to about five bushels. Mrs. Maude Wilson, who has been to Montreal on a business trip for the past week, arrived here on Monday. She has purchased a ladies' fancygoods store at Windsor, and will open up for business on Nov. 1. Craven Hillman, who has been seriously ill for the past three months with dropsy, is reported improved in health. Mrs. Thomas Teskey and daughter Miss Ruth are the guests of her sister, Mrs. William Chalk, here this week. Mrs. Wallace Derbyshire of Windsor is the guest of Mrs. James Moore. Mrs. Bruce Fox, who is so seriously ill with internal cancer, is gradually growing weaker, and her recovery is not anticipated. A Halloween card party is slated to be held in the I. O. O. F. here on Thursday evening. An excellent lunch has been prepared. When word reached here that the fire had wiped out many towns and villages in Northern Ontario our people got busy at once to do their bit, and to date there has been sent over $700 in bedding and clothing and a cash donation of over $200 and there is yet more to follow. The township scraper has been started on all of our roads in this section, and already they are beginning to be put in fine condition for the fall traffic. Orville Duke, who has had many varieties of his famous apples and peaches to all the county fairs this year, is now receiving his many first prizes in cash. He was successful at every exhibition.

PARKHILL

Special to London Advertiser.

PARKHILL, Oct. 26.—A car in which were Frank Waldeck and John Walker and family collided with a cow near D. Barnes' farm, 18th concession, on Sunday last. F. Waldeck had his arm broken, J. Walker was injured and the children, who were thrown out of the car, were badly shaken up. The car was badly damaged.

Rev. F. A. Steven, a returned missionary from China, but now of London, preached to an interested audience in the Baptist Church Sunday evening. He reviewed the causes of unrest in China, and told of many of the customs of that land. He paid a tribute to the education and civilization of China, and made a plea to young people to give their lives to the work of preaching the gospel in foreign lands.

Mr. and Mrs. William Leary, Miss Rene and George will leave for their new home in Hamilton next week. They will be missed by a large circle of friends in the church to which they belong, and the baseball fans will miss George on third next summer.

A car driven by Lloyd Lang, who was motoring from Ridgeway to Parkhill, ran into an open culvert on Tuesday night. Mr. Lang and a friend, who was with him, were both badly injured.

A shower was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McKinnon, on Tuesday evening, to Miss Effie MacIntosh, the bride-elect of Thursday. Her girl friends gave her many useful gifts.

PASTOR DIES OF INJURIES RECEIVED IN AUTO CRASH

CALGARY, Oct. 26.—Rev. G. H. Cobblestick, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Hillhurst, Alberta, died last night from injuries received earlier in the day when the automobile he was driving stalled on the street car tracks and was carried 80 feet on the fender of a street car. He was born in McGillivray Township, about 25 miles from London, Ontario, 60 years ago. He graduated from Toronto University in 1885. His first pastorate was a small country church. Later he held pastorates at Guelph, Brussels, Glencoe, Chatham and Woodstock in Ontario. He spent a term in Quebec City, from which place he came to Lethbridge, then to Edmonton, and from Edmonton to St. Paul's Church, Hillhurst. Mr. Cobblestick is survived by a widow and three children.

"Intimate Strangers" by Mr. Booth Tarkington Delights At Grand.

Miss Elsa Ryan Heads Capable Cast of Players.

Booth Tarkington in his "Intimate Strangers," shown last night at the Grand Theatre, has chosen a captivating manner of expressing what seems to be his sole indictment against the modern flapper—that is to say, her lack of charm.

Through his hero, one William Ames, he questions broadly what charm there can possibly be in a young rowdy, in breeches and with a flask of home-made gin on her hip? Then through his heroine, Isabel Stuart, he proceeds to portray in contrast most convincing, a woman from whom charm positively radiates, transparent yet mystifying, elusive, lovely.

Booth Tarkington's humor has come to be known as inimitable. He has seized upon the outstanding characteristics of modern youth, coupled with them the instincts of youth, since youth was, and made of the two adolescents who are unbelievably real.

In "Intimate Strangers," there is the flapper and her youthful satellite, but they are forced to second place, while the stalwart, clever, over-thirty hero woos the lovely, gracious, capable and something-just-under-thirty heroine.

The plot itself is of novel, albeit, simple construction—just the mystification of love at first sight, in the case of a couple, who are stranded in a lonely railway station with only a hard-boiled egg and a chicken sandwich between them and with a few puzzling facts about marriages and ages and dates thrown in to enhance the general effect. In the role of Isabel Stuart, Miss Elsa Ryan was ideal, living up in adorable fashion to what might have been the highest expectations concerning her.

Fascinating of appearance in the first place, she had little difficulty in weaving her own personality round a role which called for so much of grace and charm, and of the whimsical humor which must really be an indispensable factor of her own nature, she was able to endow her lines with quaint twists and flashes of bright comedy. There are, too, brief moments when the play drops into mood, other than light humor, and when a thought or two of Tarkington's philosophy is driven home. Always Miss Ryan is perfection itself.

The supporting cast is not large, and each is given opportunity to stand out in effective characterization.

Coates Gwynne, as Ames, with feeling and skill, brings out the admiration of a thinking man for the woman of poise and charm; and his resentment against the noisy, hedonistic young thing, who, for the sake of what she terms freedom, has sacrificed the all-important quality of charm.

Play Parts Well. In Mary Wall was seen a flapper against whom the audience, however much they agreed with the hero in his opinion, still could not bear his resentment. Her satellite, Johnny White, was played by Don Harrington, whose portrayal of the callow adolescent was both clever and amusing.

Lila Leigh carried well the air of aristocratic dignity which emanated from the role of Aunt Ellen. Minor roles were well taken by Harry K. Fowler, Fred Couter and Rene D'Arcy.

In the last act of "Intimate Strangers" there is a lighting arrangement which makes an old-fashioned drawing-room, with its glowing fireplace, more a reality than an effective stage setting. Here, too, Miss Ryan's acting reached its very finest point.

Remembering the play, there are so many quaint and pretty and humorous things about it that one may best express one's self by a cordial indorsement of "Intimate Strangers" as a play too very much worth while to bear missing.—Olivia.

GET READY FOR THE CHASE.
SPECIAL TRAIN FOR HUNTERS.

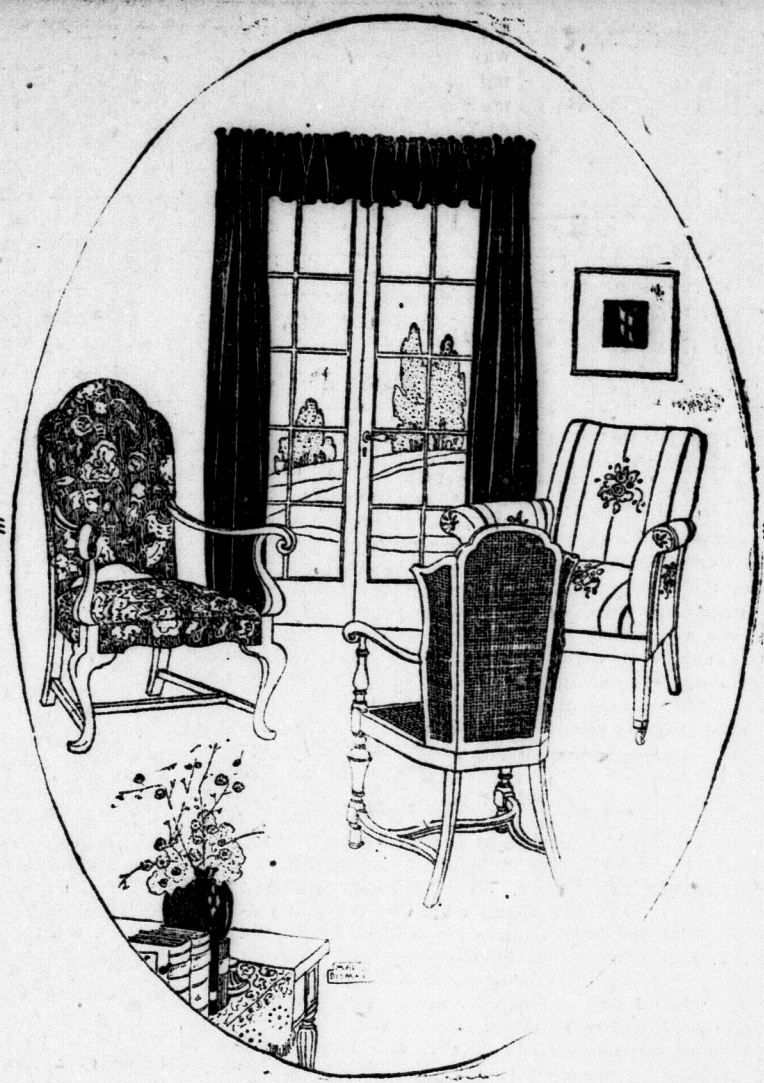

The open season for hunting deer and moose in Northern Ontario is rapidly approaching. South of the French and Mattawa rivers, Nov. 5 to Nov. 20 inclusive; north and west of these rivers, Oct. 25 to Nov. 30 inclusive. North of the Trans-continental Railway line, the season is from Sept. 15 to Nov. 15 inclusive. The Canadian National Railways traverse the finest hunting territory in this country. This fact, with their special and regular train service, makes "The National Way" the premier line for the hunter. The hunting grounds are so vast there is game for everyone.

The selection of grounds is a most important matter, and one which requires careful study. The territory reached by the Canadian National lines, north of Parry Sound, is already a favorite one, but the new country east and west of Capreol is as yet comparatively little known to the hunter and should, therefore, be highly attractive to the follower of the deer and moose.

The Canadian National Railways are providing special train service, which, with regular trains, will meet the needs of hunters. Special trains will be operated as follows: Leave Toronto Union Station 11:15 p.m. Oct. 31, for Capreol and intermediate points, and 11:15 p.m. Nov. 2, 3 and 4, for Key Junction and intermediate points. The usual ample accommodation of sleeping cars, baggage cars and coaches will be provided.

The Annual Hunter's Leaflet, issued by the Canadian National Railways, is now ready for distribution, and may be obtained on application to any agent of the company, or write General Passenger Department, Room 607, Royal Bank Bldg., Toronto. Adv. O13.17.20.23.27.31

TELLS OF SINKING OF MISSION SHIP

General Secretary's Description Read to London Grenfell Auxiliary—Musical Planned.

A letter from Miss Anne Warner, general secretary for the Dominion, telling details with regard to the sinking of the mission ship, "The Strathcona," was a feature of much interest to the members of the London Auxiliary to the Grenfell Mission, at the first meeting of the autumn season, held Thursday afternoon in the First Presbyterian Church school room. Business for the afternoon included arrangements for the public meeting to be addressed by Miss Warner on November 15, and also for a musical and tea, for which Mrs. Ray Lawson is opening her home November 9.

The letter, which was addressed to the president, Mrs. A. T. Little, was as follows: "The Strathcona sank when being taken to winter quarters at Robert's Bay. After twenty years of service, her plates were thin, and she sprang a leak in a terrible gale, and filled so rapidly, in spite of the fact the pumps were being kept going all the time, that she had to be abandoned by the crew, and sank in half an hour after they left her.

"We are sorry to lose the boat, but hope insurance will cover the loss. I personally am most grateful that she did not founder before this, and drown the doctor and the staff.

"I expect, however, Dr. Grenfell will feel the loss, for he was attached to her through long association.

"Dr. and Mrs. Yeates are doing wonderful work at Harrington. Sister Bailey at Forteau was most helpful to the crew of the British cruiser, "Raleigh," when she went ashore last February. It has been demonstrated again and again that hospital stations are a great safeguard to human life."

Miss Minnie Raymond has consented to look after the musical, and the following committee appointed to take charge of the tea: Mesdames Sherwood Fox, convenor, Bluetner, George Gillespie, Archie McPherson and Miss Bertha Clark. The annual meeting for election of officers will be held November 27.

Keeps Kiddies In Bed For Lack of Stove

How would you like to be obliged to keep four little children under nine years in bed, just because the house was too cold for them to get up? That is what one brave little mother in London has been obliged to do, even so early in the season, and with the prospect of a cold winter before herself and little brood.

She has been left alone in the world to fend for her young family, provide them with food, clothing, and shelter, and withal to prevent them chilling to sickness. The Mothers' Allowance Board is helping out as far as possible, in bringing up the children to be strong, healthy and good citizens.

Stove Needed.
Very much needed just at present is a stove that will furnish adequate heat, and roast to cook a meal. The only stove the house boasts in a tiny affair, on which the whole top is taken up when the tea kettle and tea pot camp there together. The allowance board insists the children shall be properly fed. That is the chief reason for giving government aid to mothers. But how can a poor woman cook meals if she has no place to cook them?

Anyone who has a small cook stove not immediately needed might make it possible for a very worthy family of promising children to be comfortable, even when out of bed. Information regarding such a stove may be telephoned to phone number 761, or left at the Social Service Council office, Bank of Toronto Chambers, corner of King and Richmond streets.

Can't Down the Scotch.
"You can tramp on the rose, Crush the leek, Destroy the shamrock, But you can't step on the Scotch Thistle."

was the refrain of the Optimistic Club, to the groan of improvised bagpipes, as they took the opportunity to thus extend a public welcome to many of their number who have recently arrived from Scotland, and other Scotch newcomers whom they hope to have join them. Added realism was lent by the Scotch thistles they carried.

The "Count On Me" girls gave spirited Mother Goose interpretations. Scotch dancing, Sir Roger de Coverley, ghost stories and typical Halloween refreshments caused the hours to speed by on wings. Prominent as leaders in the fun were Miss Marion Morton, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Mrs. Mattie Rose Crawford, industrial extension secretary, and Miss Ruth Lucas, federation president, and the leaders of the girls' clubs.

SOUTH LONDON LIT ELECTS OFFICERS
After quite a spirited contest the Literary Society of the London South Collegiate carried its elections through to a happy conclusion on the afternoon of October 24.

The executive will consist of the following: President, Miss Helen Temple; vice-president, Miss Donna Gracey; secretary, Miss Marguerite Doring; treasurer, Mr. Robert Franks. Representatives from middle school: Miss Jean Watt, Mr. Arthur Hill. Second year: Miss Ruth Tanton and Mr. Jack Ferguson. First year, Miss Marion Callendar and Mr. Edwin Kennedy.

The society looks forward to a year of great interest in developing the musical and literary ability of the students, and providing many happy occasions for social intercourse.

WITH THE BRIDES
ARMSTRONG—NOBLE

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Noble, Maryborough Township, on Wednesday, when their daughter, Myrtle Minnie, became the bride of Mr. Ross Armstrong of Kenilworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Armstrong, Moorefield. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a lovely gown of white silk with a string of pearls and carrying a sheaf of asters and fern. The young couple were unattended, the ceremony being performed under an arch of autumn leaves and roses by Rev. G. C. Mitchell of Rothsay, with Miss Pearl Brown playing the wedding march. After the ceremony and congratulations, the bride led the way to the dining-room, where a dinner was served.

The happy couple left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a pretty dress of steel gray taffeta, trimmed with oriental blue, with large picture hat and a long coat to match. Upon their return, they will take up residence in the groom's home at Kenilworth.

FEDERATION CLUBS GIVE CLEVER SKITS

Scores of Girls Make Merry At "Y" Halloween Frolic.

A genuine Halloween frolic was enjoyed by the scores of girls who attended the party held Thursday evening by the Federation of Girls' Clubs at "Lenmore," a fascinating and spooky place, with its ghost lights, jack-o-lanterns, witches, black cats, and the masqueraders in their mirth-provoking costumes.

Clubs vied with one another in presenting stunts which revealed exceptional cleverness, originality and histrionic ability.

The new note in "Y" activities was sounded insistently in one skit, originally by the Polyanna girls, which might have been carried to the descriptive legend, "Off with the old and on with the new." A fearsome, enormously tall ghost of the dying Y. W. C. A. appeared in the gloom to chant its swan song. With little respect for hoary age, a merry band tripped in to dance and sing in the dawn of a new Y. W. C. A. building.

Personals

Miss Elsie Mills is recovering from her recent illness.

Miss Bonita Ryan of Toronto is the guest of Mrs. St. Clair McEwen, 567 Queen's avenue.

Miss Margaret Healey of Stratford, Ont., is visiting her cousin, Miss Phyllis Ashwell of 26 Craig street.

Mrs. M. Flannigan, and daughter Margaret, of Alvinston, are spending a few days with Mrs. William McGuire of Glebe street.

Miss Anna Webb of 98 Horton street has returned home after spending a few days in Brantford, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Schur.

Mrs. T. A. Rainie gave an informal luncheon Tuesday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. E. Young of Bermuda, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles Reid, Waterloo street, for several weeks. The table was adorned with marigolds, artistically arranged.

Mrs. George Lang, Mrs. August Lang and Mrs. Reinhold Lang motored over from Kitchener on Thursday to assist Mrs. St. Clair McEwen in her first reception since coming to make her home in the city. Mrs. Louis Lang was also over from Galt for the day.

Miss Margaret Wade has purchased a home in Windsor, and is removing there permanently, her sister joining her in the course of a few weeks. Since assuming her duties in connection with a bond firm in the border city she has been returning to her London home for week-ends.

Mrs. Nellie Brown Macleod, a clever western newspaper woman and member of the Canadian Women's Press Club, has been in town for a little visit, on her way to her home in Swift Current, Saskatchewan. Mrs. Macleod came east some weeks ago to visit relatives in Toronto.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Taylor, 541 Nelson street, was the scene of a double birthday party this week, in honor of their two daughters, Marion and Muriel. In the afternoon fifteen young children made merry with Marion, who had achieved her fifth birthday. Twenty-five young people were entertained in the evening for Miss Muriel. Both received a number of beautiful presents, the host and hostess serving dainty repasts.

An enjoyable event for the members of the St. George's Chapter, I. O. E., and numbers of guests on Thursday afternoon was a benefit bridge for the chapter funds, held in the spacious home of Mrs. Charles White, Dundas street. Eleven tables were in play, the proceeds amounting to $40. At the tea hour the hostess, Mrs. White, and the only married member of the chapter a former resident, Mrs. David Nichol, presided over the dainty tea table.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Willoughby, 281 Egerton street, on Wednesday, when friends and family gathered to celebrate the fortieth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess.

The couple were recipients of a number of lovely presents. The evening was spent in games, cards and in old-fashioned dance, in which Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby took part.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ellis of Racine, Wisconsin.

A happy event of Wednesday evening was a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. A. H. Clinger at her home, 43 Ridout street, in honor of Miss Marjorie Croden, a Saturday bride-to-be. The rooms were cleverly decorated in the Halloween colors, pumpkin and black, the season's favors also being effectively used on the cluny-covered supper table, centered with a bewitching doll bride. During the evening the groom was a messenger asking for Miss Croden. When she got there she found awaiting her on the steps was Eleanor Pollock, a pink-frosted elf, who presented her with ribbons attached to an overflowing Halloween basket. Pulling the offering into the living-room, Miss Croden drew from it the many useful and attractive gifts. A guessing contest, appropriately "a floral wedding," bridge and other amusements were enjoyed by the twenty or more young guests.

An inviting setting, gracious hostesses, a charming and artistic program, and a large and appreciative audience combined to make a great success of the musicale and tea held under the auspices of the Loch Lomond Chapter, I. O. E., on Thursday afternoon, in aid of the War Memorial Children's Hospital fund. Mrs. Frank Jones, Richmond street north, opened her home for the event, receiving with Mrs. Robert Tagg, regent of the chapter. The living-room, in which the program was presented, was decked with yellow and white chrysanthemums, while the tea table in the dining-room was dainty and attractive, centered with a basket of pink roses.

The artists taking part in the program were Miss Dorinda Abbott, Mrs. Ernest Tremere, soloists, and Miss Stevens, pianist. Mrs. Lewis Austin and Mrs. Ernest Tremere did the honors in the tea-room, assisted by Mrs. Roy Brown, Miss Ida Russell and Miss Madeline Jones. Little Edith Jones was a winsome door attendant.

A number of friends calling in response to invitations on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Croden, 279 Hill street, were afforded a peep at the fascinating troupeau of the charming young daughter of the house, whose marriage takes place late Saturday afternoon to Capt. Milton Ashton of this city.

In the living-room, inviting with a glowing open fire, potted plants and vases of roses, and the mellow glow

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

For the third time that day, beautiful EVE STRAYER faced death as an innocent victim in the battle for possession of the priceless gem, the Flaming Jewel.

First stolen from the refugees COUNTESS OF ESTHONIA by the great international thief, QUINTANA, and then stolen from Quintana by MIKE CLINCH, who hoarded it in his disreputable hunting camp in the Adirondacks as the sole means of giving his beloved Eve the "education of a lady," the jewel was now in Eve's possession.

Facing her was Quintana and his gang. A prisoner with her was STATE TROOPER STORMONT, the man she loved.

In the surrounding forest, Clinch and his men were man-hunting, savagely intent on killing Quintana and his gang. Under the window was JAMES DARRAGH, who under the name of HAL SMITH, had earned Clinch's friendship, but whose secret intent was to restore the gem to the beggar countess. Smith had just killed.

SALZAR, one of Quintana's men, in a fight, and now, dressed in Salzar's clothes, awaited an opportunity to aid Eve and Stormont.

Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER IV.

OUTSIDE in the rag-weed patch, Hal Smith rose, stole across the grass to the kitchen door and slipped inside.

"Now, senorita," said Quintana gaily, "my packet, if you please—and we leave you to the caresses of your faithful gendarme—who should thank God that he still possesses two good hands to fondle you! Alons! Come then! My packet!"

One of the masked men said: "Take her downstairs and lock her up somewhere, or she'll shoot us from her window."

"Lead out that gendarme, too!" added Quintana, grasping Eve by the arm.

Down the stairs tramped the men, forcing their prisoners with them.

In the big kitchen the glare from the burning oil-house fell dimly, the place was full of shadows.

"Now," said Quintana, "I take my property and my leave. Where is the packet hidden?"

She stood for a moment with drooping head, amid the somber shadows, then, slowly, she drew the emblazoned morocco case from her breast pocket.

What followed occurred in the twinkling of an eye, for as Quintana

JACK then went outside the store and ate his lunch. Shortly he walked to the outskirts of the little town until he came to an oak tree. The treasure is in this vicinity, said Jack to himself. Then he spied a tramp on the roadside watching him.

through which the tile had been set. Under it a black hole yawned. It was a tunnel made of three-foot aqueduct tiles; and it led straight into Star Pond, two hundred feet away.

Now as she straightened up and looked sidlingly at Stormont, they heard the tramp of boots in the kitchen, voices, the bang of gunstocks.

"Does that drain lead into the lake?" whispered Stormont.

She nodded.

"Will you follow me, Eve?"

She pushed him aside, indicating that he was to follow her.

As she stripped the hunting jacket from her, a hot color swept her face. But she dropped on both knees, crept straight into the tile and slipped out of sight.

As she disappeared, Quintana shouted something in Portuguese, and fired at the lock.

With the smash of splintering wood in his ears, Stormont slid into the smooth tunnel.

In an instant he was shooting down a polished toboggan slide, and in another moment was under the icy water of Star Pond.

Shocked, blinded, fighting his way to the surface, he felt his spurred boots dragging at him like a ton of iron.

Then to him came her helping hand.

"I can make it," he gasped.

But his clothing and his boots and the icy water began to tell on him in mid-lake.

Swimming without effort beside him, watching his every stroke, presently she sank a little and glided under him and a little ahead, so that his hands fell upon her shoulders.

He let them rest, so, aware now that it was no burden to such a swimmer. Stupor and silent swimming over, the girl slipped lightly through the chilled water, which washed his body to the nostrils and numbed his legs till he could scarcely move them.

And now, of a sudden, his feet touched gravel. He stumbled forward in the shadowy overhanging trees, and saw her wading shoreward, a dripping, silvery shape on the shoal.

Then, as he staggered up to her, breathless, where she was standing on the pebbled shore, he saw her join both hands, cup-shape, and lift them to her lips.

And out of her mouth poured diamond, sapphire, and emerald in a dazzling stream—and, among them, one great, flashing gem blazing in the starlight—the Flaming Jewel.

Like a nalaad of the lake she stood, white, slim, silent, the heaped gems glittering in her snowy hands, her face framed by the curling masses of her wet hair.

Then, slowly she turned her head to Stormont.

"These are what Quintana came for," she said. "Could you put them into your pocket?"

HE WAS GONE, NOW, THE GALLOP STRETCHING INTO A DEAD RUN.

shooting, hallooing in the starlight like a pack of leaping wolves.

But Quintana had not followed far. When he had emptied his automatic he halted.

"Something about the transaction suddenly checked his fury, stilled it, summoned his brain into action.

stirring, every atom of intelligence in terrible concentration.

Presently he put his left hand into his pocket, fitted another clip to his pistol, turned on his heel and walked straight back to the house.

Suddenly she heard Quintana's step in the kitchen. Cautiously she turned the pantry key from inside.

Stormont heard her, and instantly came to her. At the same moment Quintana unbolted the door from the outside and tried to open it.

"Come out!" he said coldly, "or it will not go well with you when my men return."

"You've got what you say is your property," replied Stormont. "What do you want now?"

"I tell you what I want ver' damn quick. Who was he, thees man who rides with my property on your horse away? Eh? Because it was not Nick Salzar! No! Salzar can't ride thees way. No! Alors?"

"I can't tell you who he was," replied Stormont. "That's your affair, not ours."

"No? Ah! Ver' well, then. I shall tell you. Senor Flie! He was one of yours. I understand. It is a trap, a cheat—what you call a plant! Thees man who rode your horse he is disguise! Yes! He also is a gendarme! Yes! You think I let a gendarme rob me! I got you now. I want you now. You shall write your gendarme friend that he return to me my property, one day's time, or I send him by parcel post two nice, fresh-out right hands—your sweethearts and your own!"

Stormont drew Eve's head close to his:

"This man is blood mad or out of his mind. I'd better go out and take a chance at him before the others come back."

But the girl shook her head violently, caught him by the arm and drew him toward the mouth of the tile down which Clinch always emptied his hootch when the Dump was raided.

But now, it appeared that the tile which protruded from the cement floor was removable.

In silence she began to unawer it, and he seeing what she was trying to do, helped her.

Together they lifted the heavy tile and laid it on the floor.

"You open thees door!" shouted Quintana in a paroxysm of fury. "I give you one minute! Then, if God, I kill you both!"

TOO FAT? DON'T STARVE YOURSELF!

Proper Clothes Will Rid You of Avoirdupois.

THE TYPE OF FROCK HARRY COLLINS SAYS IS UNIVERSALLY BECOMING AND WILL SUBTRACT POUNDS FROM THE STOUT FIGURE.

BY MARIAN HALE.

THERE are two ways to get rid of your superfluous flesh—diet it off or dress it off. Calories or crinolines, take your choice.

If the spirit of the early Christian martyrs is not entirely corrupted within you, you can get surprising results with the first method.

If you can't bear to make others unhappy seeing you exist on spina-when they know your inner longings you may profitably try the latter.

It's surprising how many women are doing it successfully.

"Figures may not lie, but the right sort of clothes will," says Harry Collins, the fashionable New York costumer, to whose palace on Park avenue come women who want clothes of quiet elegance, or the most extreme dressers of the New York social and theatrical sets.

Realism vs. Idealism. "Men are realists about their clothes," he explained. "They accept themselves as they are. Women are idealists. No woman wants ever to look as she actually is, but as she would like to be. The successful dress maker appeals to a woman's ideals as well as her husband's wallet.

"At least 55 per cent of the women of this country believe they are overweight. Only about 40 per cent really are."

"So 40 per cent must be made to look lighter than they really are, and the other 45 per cent must be made to look as slim as they would like to be. The remaining 15 per cent must be made to look curved."

As I watched the slim, graceful mannequins that parade about the show rooms like lovely peacocks, it occurred to me they must really be slim—there could be no illusion about them.

All Sorts of Tricks. "They are the size the average woman would like to be," Collins said, reading my thoughts. "When a woman buys a gown her first impression of it is on her ideal self—the tall, slender, floating creature that dwells in her mind.

"In the old days of the tight-fitted princess frock there was not much chance to do anything for the overweight woman. Today there are all sorts of style devices and tricks that will subtract flesh from any particular part of the body where it seems desirable to eliminate it.

"Drapery, skilfully manipulated, will conceal bad lines or emphasize good ones. Loose panels add height and take away width. Uneven hem-lines and longer skirts will reveal lovely ankles or artfully conceal those that are not beautiful.

"Side panels apparently reduce any hip line, and the present style of blouse makes it possible for nearly any woman to appear a perfect 36."

"Remember this about clothes. You can wrap up a hat in a cardboard box and make a big package out of it, or in tissue paper and make a small one. Smartly-gowned women this season are preferring to look like small packages."

New Collar Effect

ONE of the season's most interesting collar effects is shown here. It is plainly a compromise between the high and the low, but such a compromise as only an artist could have made. Second in interest are the diagonal bands of black braid, and the embroidered belt, which add to the decorative quality of the frock.

SALT CODFISH

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.

THERE is much fun had at the expense of people living on the ocean side of Maine and Massachusetts because of their liberal use of codfish. Where is there a dish more appetizing than "picked up" fish with a baked potato, done to a turn?

Or those delicious fish balls, or cakes, but with no tomato sauce. There is a great difference between an ordinary tomato sauce and a good tomato catsup when served with salt codfish.

1 cup salt codfish
2 cups potatoes
1 tablespoon butter
1 cup rich milk
Paprika to taste

Soak salt codfish over night and cook till tender. Cook potatoes with jackets on, and let stand over night.

Shred codfish, peel potatoes and cut into small cubes. Place butter in saucepan. When melted, add codfish and potatoes.

Pour over milk, dust with paprika, and cook until milk is absorbed. Add more milk if necessary. Cook slowly, stirring with fork occasionally.

ARMY TANKS MOVED BY RADIO.

The problem of moving army tanks into battle by radio has been practically solved. A hidden operator in each tank receives directions by wireless from an officer in another tank and movements are made practically without sight. The officer directing the tank movements is shown above.

WHEN winter comes, radio regains its popularity. Static section, daylight lasts longer and to the backwoods, while the cool, clear nights make radio reception a pleasure.

Static alone is not responsible for his unpopularity. There are other conditions that make static the out-cast that he is. Among these, and perhaps most significant, is summer with its accompanying sun's heat and long days.

Scientists have estimated that the hot rays of the sun absorb about 70 per cent of the strength of radio waves. During summer, the sun is at maximum strength in the northern section, daylight lasts longer and therefore absorption of the strength of radio is at its highest.

Summer heat greatly influences the amount of electricity, or static, in the air. That produces the atmospheric disturbances that cause so much interference to radio reception. During cool nights, however, radio fans have been able to enjoy broadcast programs without much static interference. But the nights have been too short.

Autumn and winter mean less of the sun's heat and longer nights, when the atmosphere is cool and clear, and there is so much less chance for static to interfere.

ORNAMENTS.

The craze for barbaric ornaments continues. It is the fad to catch up the front drapery of the new frocks with them, or to use them with long fringes of beads or silk.

CHOKERS.

Soft choker collars, made of the same material as the bodice, are seen on many of the smart fall costumes.

Battle Between Coats and Capes Ends In a Truce

THE case of capes vs. coats has been settled satisfactorily for both factions. Capes win! Coats win! Other seasons' fashion has refused to be divided. It must be one or the other. This season both are to be worn.

The coat pictured blouses at the waist and droops from the shoulder wappily—but that is due to the very new sleeve.

Collars this winter are high, more for smartness than for warmth, yet fashion is to be thanked for combining the two.

For those who like the comfortable, voluminous folds of a cape there is the style illustrated. Panel-like trimmings are the real reason for its very popular and fashionable existence.

LEATHER HATS.

Leather sports hats are quite the vogue. Usually these come in bright shades of green, rose or blue, as well as tans. They are self-trimmed.

SEND $400 BALE TO NORTH.

The ladies of the W. M. S. of Guthrie Presbyterian Church, Melbourne, met at the home of Mrs. Duncan McGugan during the week ending Oct. 21st, and packed nine bales of clothing for the sufferers in Northern Ontario. The sum of $69.75 was collected in the village and surrounding community. With this money material was bought and warm garments were made. Second-hand clothing was also sent. The total value of the bales was $400.

PROVIDES LAYETTES.

Two layettes were contributed by the members of the Ladies' Guild of the Embro Methodist Church to the box sent by the Women's Institute for the relief of fire sufferers in Northern Ontario. The guild held its October meeting at the home of Mrs. Bell, when much time was devoted to business. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will take the form of a quilting bee on Nov. 11 in the home of Mrs. Albert McBurney.

TEMPO W. M. S.

The W. M. S. of North Street Presbyterian Church, Tempo, met recently in the Sunday School room. After devotional exercises the members spent the afternoon quilting. Mrs. (Rev.) J. D. Barnantyne of Bethel, Ont., will address the ladies at their thank offering meeting in November.

HARRIETSVILLE W. I.

Harrietsville Institute assisted by the Gladstone and Harrietsville Ladies' Aid shipped a large bale of clothing to the fire sufferers in Northern Ontario on Saturday. The bale was valued at about $280, most of the goods being new. The Institute wishes to thank the ladies who helped so splendidly in this work.

SARNIA SCHOOL TO OPEN TODAY

Cadets Will Conduct Visitors Through New Collegiate Institute.

Board of Education Extends Invitation To All Citizens.

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, Oct. 26.—Friday afternoon the formal opening of the new Sarnia Collegiate Institute and Technical School takes place, and arrangements have been completed for very suitable programs in observance of the important occasion.

The board of education has extended to the citizens of Sarnia an invitation to attend the collegiate after 1:30 in the afternoon, when school cadets will escort visitors through the building, the various classrooms, workshops, laboratories, etc., being opened for inspection. The members of the board will be on hand to give information and aid to visitors who are anxious to familiarize themselves with Sarnia's splendid new collegiate.

The program for the day will be divided into two parts, the afternoon gathering in the auditorium at 3 o'clock primarily for the benefit of students, and an evening program at 8.

The event of tomorrow promises to be one of the greatest importance, and well-known education visitors will include Dr. F. W. Merchant, Toronto, director of technical education for the Province of Ontario, and A. M. Overholt, principal of the Brantford collegiate, and a former Sarnia principal. A number of visitors from various points in Western Ontario are expected, though the Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, is unable to be present.

The charge of assault brought against Harry Brown by Constable George Seal was dismissed by Magistrate C. S. Woodrow of Sarnia yesterday. Mr. Brown had witnesses in D. Stevenson and Ben Whitelock, who testified that he was not in Sarnia at the time the assault occurred. Mr. Seal had only his own evidence. He said that Mr. Brown was one of his assailants. Magistrate Woodrow dismissed the case, saying that Constable Seal did not have sufficient evidence. Warren Balle will be the successor of George Seal as night constable.

That the magistrates in the various towns of Lambton will revert to the status of justices of the peace since the appointment of C. H. Woodrow as county magistrate is indicated in a circular letter sent out from the attorney-general's department of Ontario, a copy of which was received by City Police Magistrate Henry Gorman, who is also a justice of the peace for the county.

SAVED HER FROM AN OPERATION

So Thinks Mrs. Tracey of Ontario, Regarding Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Knightsbridge, Ontario.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the change of life for troubles that women often have at that time. I had not been well for a year and was not really able to do my work. A friend who had taken the Vegetable Compound recommended it to me and I think its use saved me from an operation. I highly recommend it to all women who have troubles like mine, and am willing for you to use my testimonial."—Mrs. D. Tracey, Knightsbridge, Ontario.

Some female troubles may be through neglect reach a stage when an operation is necessary. But the more common ailments are diet, the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious displacements, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same.

When disturbing symptoms first appear take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious troubles.

Lenine Gets Back On the Job

MOSCOW, Oct. 26.—Nicolai Lenine (1) attends the first meeting of the "Sovnarkom," the peoples council, since his recent illness. Trotzky, his chief aid (2), is seated at the table where signs prohibit smoking because of Lenine's physical condition.

Judge Criticizes Verdict of Jury That Freed Self-Confessed Slayer

NELSON, B.C., Oct. 26.—Strong criticism of the verdict of the jury which recently acquitted Charles Bequin, an Argentinian rancher, on the charge of murdering Henry Mark Denoreaz, at the latter's place on Aug. 31 last, was made here yesterday by Chief Justice Hunter, in rejecting the application of Bequin to return to him the weapon with which he admitted, at the trial, slaying Denoreaz.

"A self-confessed slayer was allowed to go scot free by a jury of his peers, and for the first time, so far as I know, a special kind of lynch law has been sanctioned in this country as it makes no difference in principle whether the victim is slain by one man who lurks in ambush, or by a mob who openly attacks him," his lordship said. "I am now asked to add further discredit to the administration of the law by returning the weapon to the assassin. I reject the application."

12 APPEAL AGAINST TAX AT BRANTFORD

Assessor States Small Number Proves System of Valuation Satisfactory.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 26.—A. G. Ludlow, of the assessment department, announced this morning that there were only twelve appeals against really assessments to come before the sitting of the court of revision on Nov. 1. For the past two years there have been thirteen appeals.

In regard to the appeals, Mr. Ludlow stated: "According to the number of appeals in the last three years, when you take into consideration that the assessment during this period is nearly seven million dollars, it looks as if this is the best evidence that the assessment department could have that the present system of valuation which has been used for the past number of years is satisfactory to the ratepayers. There is no other city or town in the Dominion that has had so few appeals against the assessment as Brantford."

November 5 marks the opening day for the hunting season. Many local sportsmen are busily engaged getting together their various equipment for the great occasion. As has been the case for many years, C. J. Mitchell, 49 Dufferin street, has a number of permits to issue to those intending to go north. It is expected that the first party will leave about November 2. A number have signified their intention of going north of Cochrane, where the claim is made that moose and caribou are plentiful. It is expected that a new electric washing machine will be installed at the House of Refuge if the sub-committee appointed to look into the matter by the board of governors approves of the suggestion. The grand jury made a recommendation at the last sitting of the supreme court of Ontario that an electric washer was needed at the House of Refuge, and the matter was discussed and the committee appointed when the governors met on Wednesday.

It is now definitely decided that Canada Blauet Company will locate in Brantford. The company took possession of the factory site this afternoon and the key was turned over to them then. It is reported that the company has opened an office on the first floor of the Temple Building.

CAMLACHIE

CAMLACHIE, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Ellen Lunan, who has been making her home with her brother Andrew of the Egremont road for some time, underwent a serious operation in Sarnia hospital on Tuesday morning. Dr. McMillan of Sarnia, assisted by Dr. Brown of Camlachie, performed the operation.

The conveners of the different committees of the Build Better Society, met at the home of Alex Watson Monday evening, and selected other members of their committees as follows: Devotional committee, Miss M. Farris, convener, Mrs. F. W. McCordic, P. McG. Brown and Lorne Wellington. Entertainment committee, Alex Watson, convener, Anna Somerville, Aggie Paton and A. W. Brown. Social committee, Miss M. Cairns, convener, Katharine Paton, Charles Farris and Wye Fisher. Editorial staff, Edward Patterson, editor, Beattie McFarlane, Anna Wellington and Duncan Allan.

Arrangements are being made for a meeting to be held on the evening of Thanksgiving Day.

SISTER AUXILIARIES MEET IN THAMESFORD

District Presbyterian Reports Show Lively Interest in Missions.

Financial statements, which revealed very much alive organization and keen, practical interest in missions, were presented on Wednesday this week in Thamesford, at a district presbytery meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, which included the auxiliaries and bands of Thamesford, Crumlin, Dorchester and Kintore.

Mrs. W. F. Galbraith presided, Mrs. C. Sutherland, president of Kintore auxiliary, giving a talk on "Free-Will Offering and Prayer." Mesdames Frank Ballantyne, secretary of supplies; J. H. Chalmers, press secretary, and Mrs. Sugden Pickles, vice-president, represented the London Presbytery Society executive.

Mrs. Pickles read a letter from Mr. Heinerman, missionary among the Finns in Northern Ontario, expressing gratitude for supplies forwarded. Mrs. Frank Ballantyne stated that 16 bales and 11 outfits had been sent this year to Vegreville, Sask.; 21 bales, weighing 510 pounds, to the Birtle Indian School, and 17 bales, with a total weight of 1,000 pounds, to Matheson, in addition to 40 quilts. Thamesford, through Mrs. Dwyer, reported $208 for the emergency fund, $228.98 as the thank-offering, $104 further offerings. Quilts and second-hand clothing amounting in value to $214 were forwarded for relief in Northern Ontario. A sale of home cooking, lantern-slide entertainment and autograph quilt brought enough for three life memberships and one memorial.

Started by "Ralph Connor's" Mother. Mrs. George Saul stated the Crumlin thank-offering was $43. The sum of $72.40 was sent to the general council, $52 to the emergency fund. The auxiliary was organized June 5, 1887, by Mrs. Rogers of London, beginning with a membership of 12. Three of the original members are still engaged in the work.

The story of the organization of Kintore auxiliary by Mrs. Gordon, mother of "Ralph Connor," the former moderator of the general assembly, was told by Mrs. B. Chalmers. Mrs. R. E. McDonald stated that Kintore thank-offering this past year amounted to $81.43. A life membership for Mrs. B. Chalmers added to this $25.

Mrs. McCallum, reporting for Dorchester, announced that the Easter thank-offering there was $32.20; the emergency fund for the deficit, $12.80. A bale was sent to Birtle Indian School valued at $55. Receipts to date amounted to $172.50. Twenty-one members of Thamesford auxiliary were present, 19 from Kintore and four from Kintore Mission Band, 13 from Dorchester auxiliary, and one from the mission band, 10 from Crumlin auxiliary and one from the band.

Solos were given by Miss Gee of Crumlin and Mrs. Silcox, Dorchester.

ACTION AGAINST MOUNT FOREST MAN TRAVERSED

Charges of Reckless Driving Preferred by Residents of Holstein Village.

Special to London Advertiser.

HOLSTEIN, Oct. 26.—An interesting court case came up before Magistrate Cresson in the village of Holstein the other day, when a man named Noonan, from near Mount Forest, faced two charges of reckless driving, preferred by Mrs. J. A. Ferguson and her daughter of Holstein.

It appears Mrs. Ferguson and her daughter were driving along the road with a horse and buggy on Sept. 21, when a car driven by defendant, in attempting to pass, collided with their rig, throwing both occupants out, causing bodily injury. The plaintiffs claim that Noonan was trying to pass them on the wrong side of the road when the accident occurred. Two charges of reckless driving were laid against Noonan, one by the mother and the other by the daughter.

After hearing the evidence available the magistrate adjourned the case until Nov. 2.

Two Daughters Are Wedded On 25th Anniversary of Parents' Marriage

Special to London Advertiser.

KITCHENER, Oct. 26.—St. Matthew's Church here was the scene of an unusual nuptial event this morning, when two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Michel of this city were wedded on the 25th anniversary of their parents, and by the same clergyman who made their parents man and wife.

The principals of the double nuptials were Miss Bertha Michel, who became the bride of Wenzel Zelinka, and Miss Ida Michel, who wedded Oscar Geisler. Rev. C. Zarnke of Conestoga, formerly of Kitchener, performed the ceremony. The couples alternated as bridesmaid and groomsmen, adding a unique touch to the ceremonies. Following the services at the church a joint double wedding reception and silver anniversary was enjoyed at the home of the brides' parents.

FARMER SUFFERS BURNS OPERATING TRACTOR PLOW

Special to London Advertiser.

AILSA CRAIG, Oct. 26.—Fred McLean, son of Mr. Alex. McLean, townline west, got very badly burned the other day as he was working a tractor plow on his father's farm. In some way or other the oil was thrown over his clothes, and they immediately took fire, and only for his presence of mind in tearing his clothes off he might have been seriously burned. One side is very sore and also his hands.

RAISE STATUS OF CHINESE WOMEN

Rev. Newton, "A Gentleman From China," Addresses London District Convention.

Strong Missionary Moral Features Play Presented by Askin Street.

A happy wind-up Thursday evening for a most successful all-day convention of the London district Methodist Women's Missionary Society was a visit from "A Gentleman from China," introduced to the hundred and more delegates and a number of others in the Robinson Memorial Methodist Church by Mrs. H. Childs, presiding officer. With the evening devoted to Mission Circle reports and problems, Mrs. Childs, secretary of the London branch, was asked by the president, Mrs. W. G. Young, to take charge.

The "Gentleman from China" provoked much amusement by showing a Canadian audience how upside-down methods, manners and customs of Canadians appear to visitors from the Orient.

Reports Missionary Progress.

Becoming serious, he told of the reaching after the Christ of the Canadians by the Chinese, and progress there in missionary activities. Gravely, the speaker removed his wig and revealed in a strange country "Rev. Mr. Newton," returned missionary from China, proud of the fact that he is a Canadian.

Mr. Newton ably substituted for Miss Eitelwein Chase, missionary from Wabasca, Alberta, who was unable to be present.

Another most entertaining and awakening feature of the evening was the presentation of a one-act play with a real missionary moral, "Aunt Martha's Neighbors," with members of the Junior Mission Circle of Askin Street Methodist Church taking the various roles.

Reports were presented from the fourteen district circles, interesting discussion on work and methods taking place. Mrs. W. N. Manning conducted the devotional exercises.

Status of Women Raised.

In the afternoon Dr. Wallace Crawford, returned missionary, told the story of the raising of the status of women in China, answering many questions at the close of his address.

Mrs. Gordon Wright, conference branch president, gave an illuminating sketch of the recent general board meeting in Toronto, describing and quoting the the missionaries who spoke, referring especially to a joint meeting with the Methodist General Conference, and the fact that for the first time, women were numbered among the delegates to the general conference.

That the majority of women on the general board had acquired skill in public speaking in the W.C.T.U.

Lauds Strangers' Department.

Dealing with the subject of "Our Duty to the Stranger," Mrs. Douglas of Wardsville called attention to the manner in which the strangers' department is developing in rural communities, the follow-up work that is done on behalf of young people leaving to study or take positions in towns and cities, the welcoming of newcomers in church and communities.

Mrs. W. M. Westcott took up the subject of Mission Band leaders, referring to the great difficulty met in securing leaders for the work.

Mrs. Sutcliffe conducted the devotional exercises in the afternoon. Miss Wainwright and Mrs. Treasler gave enjoyable solos.

At the noon hour the delegates were entertained at luncheon by the Robinson Memorial W. M. S. Mrs. F. W. Marshall, the president, extending a gracious welcome, ably responded to by Mrs. J. H. Tennant. In the evening a beautiful tea was served.

Ironized Yeast Will Ironize Your Nerves

To Produce Great Natural Nerve Strength, Yeast Should Be Ironized and Not Merely Mixed With Iron. There is Only One Ironized Yeast in the World.

Now, Mr. Man, tighten your fist and clasp your jaws tighter. Now still tighter. As tight as you can. Notice how weak the tightest you can go? Vitamins and iron in your body made it possible for you to do these two things. If you had this more vitamins, ironized, you could tighten your fist and your jaws almost as tight as a vise. Ironized Yeast will enable you to do it, because ironized yeast combines concentrated iron, in such strength that it gives amazing power to nerves and organs in half the usual time. It is the most powerful reconstructive in the world today for tired, exhausted men and women. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron, but is all by itself. Give your nerves the natural food-strength they lack. They do not need stimulation, they need natural force. Here it is, Ironized Yeast! This will give you great blood power, great nerve power, an avalanche of energy, brain clearness, stronger muscle, firmer flesh, a clear eye and memory—and you'll smile the smile of health and power. Ironized Yeast is sold at all drug stores at $1.00 a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Farmers Unable To Sell Large Potato Crop.

Special to London Advertiser.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 26.—A number of complaints have been heard from farmers to the effect that they cannot sell the large number of potatoes which they have on hand.

A local dealer stated this morning that the reason they could not sell was the high price being charged. He pointed out that there was not a great demand for potatoes, but that all could be sold at a reasonable price.

$2,600 DAMAGE AT DUTTON FIRE

Herculean Efforts On Part of Hand Brigade Prevent Disastrous Blaze.

Special to London Advertiser.

DUTTON, Oct. 26.—The garage and warehouse of James Black & Son, Dutton, was badly damaged by fire early this morning, and the contents, a large quantity of new farm machinery, implements and automobile supplies were badly scorched, and also damaged by the dense smoke and water. The fire is believed to have originated from a box of refuse, outside at the rear of the building, and to have been caused from a cigarette carelessly thrown away. An alarm was given by dancers in the hall adjoining the garage, and a brigade with the fire engine soon got the fire under control. A high wind was blowing at the time and the flames spread very quickly, and only the prompt work of the fire engine and brigade saved the town from a disastrous fire. Mr. Black's loss will exceed $2,000, and L. J. Leask, who occupied a portion of the building as a vulcanizing room, will have a loss of $800, both are partly covered by insurance.

HENSALL

HENSALL, Oct. 26.—The rains of the past week, while operating against the paving of our street, has benefited the farmers greatly for plowing.

Our businessmen have already found the benefit of the paved street being thrown open for use on the west side of the track and the block from the Commercial Hotel to the postoffice corner will soon be thrown open to use, and as the company are now on the last block at the east end and adjoining the London road, the work will soon be all completed.

A meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held on Wednesday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Dougall. There was a fair attendance, and very interesting reports of the convention recently held at Oshawa were given by the delegates attending from here, namely, Miss Ethel Murdoch and Mrs. G. P. Marshall.

Roy Webber is repairing a harness and general repairing shop in A. Murdoch's block immediately west of the town hall.

Miss Greta Lammie, who has been in Sarnia and district during the past week or two assisting in musical concerts and visiting friends, returned home on Tuesday evening last.

The Rev. J. A. McConnell of Carmel Presbyterian Church, preached anniversary sermons in Burns Church at Londonborough on Sunday last, the Rev. Mr. Abernethy of Londonborough taking Rev. McConnell's services here morning and evening.

Mrs. Wes Caldwell, who has been here for a number of weeks visiting her mother, Mrs. Thomas Sherritt, returned to her home in Listowel on Tuesday.

At the dance, held under the auspices of the G. W. V. A., on Tuesday evening last, in the town hall, in the neighborhood of $100 was raised for the fire sufferers of New Ontario.

On Friday evening last the Choral Society of South Huron, under the leadership of Professor Anderson of St. James Street Methodist Church, Exeter, rendered "The Messiah" in Carmel Presbyterian Church to a very appreciative audience, but not as large as the splendid rendering of this fine sacred cantata merited.

There were 15 voices taking part, and the rendering gave evidence of most painstaking practice and well-trained voices.

The Hensall Quartet of Carmel Presbyterian Church and Miss Oia Cook of this village, took part in the program at the fowl supper at the Presbyterian Church at Thames Road on Monday evening last, receiving much credit for their musical and elocution numbers.

The Presbyterian Church of Hensall are organizing a club for the young people of that church, and held a very successful meeting on Tuesday evening last, when there was a very good attendance, showing the interest taken in the work, and will meet again on Tuesday evening of next week.

John Coulter and Mrs. Coulter and daughter, Miss Ida returned on Monday evening from Toledo, O., where they had been attending the funeral of Dr. W. J. Coulter's wife.

Mrs. Pauline of Montana, U.S.A., is visiting her mother Mrs. Thomas Sherritt.

ANTICIPATE CHANGE IN IMMIGRATION LAWS

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—With the return of Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior and immigration and colonization from the West tomorrow, a final settlement of the recommendations of the transportation interests for changes in the immigration laws is expected shortly. It is understood that this is one of the first matters Mr. Stewart will take up, and the representatives of the transportation companies will likely be recalled to Ottawa for further discussion within a few days.

AWAITS PATENT ON NEW PLANE

Kincardine Man Expects To Revolutionize Industry With Invention.

Declares His Machine Will Rise Vertically From Ground.

The helicopter idea of flying machine has been bothering inventors and airmen for quite a number of years, and many have striven to construct a machine that will rise vertically from the ground; and yet be as efficient and speedy in the air as the ordinary flying machine.

A Kincardine inventor, William Welsh by name, comes out with the assertion that he has perfected what hundreds have been striving to do for years. He is at present waiting a United States patent, so that he will be able to market the machine.

Mr. Welsh claims that his machine is constructed entirely differently from the ordinarily accepted idea of helicopter, and besides being able to rise vertically from the ground can fly straight away as well.

The machine has no tail and is also without a car to check the concussion when alighting. The beauty of the machine, according to its inventor, is in the fact that it does not require a twenty acre field to rise from, but can take the air any place where there are no overhead obstructions.

Four propellers supply the driving power, two in the front and two in the rear. The shafts of the front propellers are longer than the other two so that they may control the manoeuvres of the plane. The underlying motive is that the plane will follow the pull of the front propellers just as the wheels of a wagon follow the pull of a horse.

Near both extremities of the wings proper are two light rudders, easily pulled against the wind, thus retarding that end of the machine that is obstructed. The plane is fitted with a balancing rod with a sliding weight, which may be readily adjusted by cable to any angle required.

If the new invention proves to be practical the honor of revolutionizing flying will fall to a Canadian. Aviation experts admit that one of the biggest drawbacks to the plane of today is that it requires a large field to take-off, and it is partly on account of this fact that the modern machine is not used to any great extent for commercial purposes.

TARA ANGLICANS HOLD SUCCESSFUL CARNIVAL

Impersonations of Young People Prove Pleasing Entertainment.

TARA, Oct. 26.—Members of the Tara A. Y. P. A. held a very successful entertainment in the parish hall, which took the form of a carnival. Each person was dressed representing the title of a book. Some of the representations were: "Red," "Black," "Corporal Cameron," "The Woman in White," "Little Women," "Love Letters of a Rookie," "Red Pepper's Patients," "Happy Hawkins" and others. A splendid program was given and games, such as family coach, provided much merriment.

In a guessing contest, in which those present were called upon to guess the titles of the books represented by the characters, Percy Ruff won the prize for guessing the largest number correctly. Miss Mary White received the prize for the best costume, "Red Pepper's Patients."

The meeting closed after a delicious lunch and the singing of the Doxology.

ALLEGED DEFECTIVE ROAD CAUSES DAMAGE ACTION

Special to London Advertiser.

EXETER, Oct. 26.—Charles Chapman of London has entered action against the township of Hay to recover damages to his car. While driving north of town the plaintiff contends his car was damaged by a hole in the road, and later wrecked by a collision with another car which he met.

The remains of the late William Andrew Rowell, aged 82, were interred in Exeter Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. A. A. Trumper conducted the funeral services. The deceased was a pioneer of this vicinity. He leaves to mourn his loss one son Tom and two daughters, Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Hackney.

THE BLADE ACHIEVEMENT THAT ANTIQUATES OLD WAYS

"Strops its own blades"—Shaves, cleans, strops without removing the blade.

Now Comes the World's Fastest Shave!

78 Seconds from lather to towel!

—We offer it to you

We worked for years to make the following facts true.

Now if you'll lend us a few seconds, reading them, we'll pay you back with interest compounded to-morrow.

They change the whole situation. Old methods are supplanted.

A New Shaving Era

We've processed a barber's edge—the keenest cutting edge known—on a safety razor blade!

That's the story in few words.

Now we offer you the world's fastest shave—a velvet shave in 78 seconds from lather to towel.

We talk in terms of time, because the only way to get a quick shave is with a super-keen blade.

Old-time ways won't do it. Put your watch before you and prove it to yourself.

Valet Auto-Strop Razor

REG. IN CANADA

Sharpens Itself

We recommend you using our famous Strop for the same reason a barber strops his razor. It keeps up the keenness. It works as a part of each razor—there if you care to use it, or, if you choose, you can just insert new blades as you feel the need. Self-stropping is a patented Valet AutoStrop feature. It helps to give you the world's fastest shave every day.

Prove It—by the Clock

Pick up a Valet AutoStrop Razor at your dealer's. Then give it a whirl to-morrow. Shave with your watch before you.

Note the time—78 seconds for a velvet shave!

That's our proposition.

To you, it will prove a revelation.

AUTOSTROP SAFETY RAZOR CO., LIMITED • TORONTO

Once over the face—that's all

With this new edge, you run over your face one time—only. A second is not needed. And that's where you cut shaving time one-half. And spare your face, for dull-edged blades injure the skin. Three men in four, past 35, skin specialists tell us, look ten years older than they are because of improper methods of shaving. No scraping. No after-shave smart. No shaving lotion needed—this new way.

$1.00 or $5.00

Valet AutoStrop comes in two styles, $1 and $5. The four-dollar difference is in the superior finish of the latter. The 18-second shave, you'll find in either one you choose. Gold plated and sterling silver fitted sets—ideal for gifts—are priced up to $25.

PREMIER BONAR LAW OUTLINES HIS PROGRAM

Receives Rousing Welcome

REVIEWS SITUATION

Confident That Settlement
Will Be Reached in Near East.

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada's attitude in the matter of attending a conference on economic and trade questions of the Empire, such as outlined by Right Hon. Bonar Law in his speech at Glasgow today, will not be determined officially until the formal invitation from the new British Government is received, according to members of the cabinet who are now in the city.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 26.—A rousing ovation was given Prime Minister Bonar Law when he arose to address an audience of 1,000 persons in St. Andrew's Hall tonight, and set forth the principles upon which his party stood. He devoted the opening of his speech to an explanation of how he came to resume the leadership of his party.

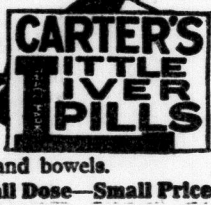

This came about, said the prime minister, when it was realized that the coalition was losing ground and a split in the party was inevitable, not through intrigues, but owing to discontent in the constituencies throughout the country, which were clearly determined to terminate the existing Parliament and start afresh under different conditions.

Mr. Bonar Law said he believed it would have added to the strength of labor to have set up a party, on the one hand representing opinions opposed to labor, and on the other a party representing labor alone.

Mr. Bonar Law's speech largely covered the same ground as his afternoon speech and his election address. He emphasized the necessity of a Near East settlement, and the necessity for showing an intention of being equally fair to both the Turks and the Greeks. He believed there was no danger of either Turkey or Greece declining to accept the decision of the peace conference.

Hopeful of Settlement.

The real difficulty in foreign affairs was the reparations question, but he did not despair of its settlement; he could not agree that Germany was unable to pay anything. There was no difference in aims as between England and France in this question, but only a difference in the means of attaining them. In general European interest, England and France must remain together.

Again insisting on the importance of maintaining good relations with the United States and bringing the United States into the League of Nations, thereby strengthening the league, he said the government did not intend to make Gallipoli a second Gibraltar, and expressed the hope that the treaty with Turkey would enable England to bring her troops home.

He then turned to internal problems, and promised that the government would observe patience while the Irish government was trying to carry out the Anglo-Irish treaty. The government would try to improve the plans for dealing with unemployment; but the only real cure was restoration of trade. He believed further economies could be effected by readjusting the work of the government departments, and it was his purpose to abolish the ministry of pensions.

Generally speaking, the premier advocated minimum legislation and more or less leaving things alone. With reference to Mr. Lloyd George's expression of surprise at the statement that a man good in war was not necessarily good in peace, Mr. Bonar Law observed:

"Different diseases need different specialists."

Repeating his suggestion of an intention to summon an economic conference of the dominions with a view to developing the empire's resources, the premier remarked that he could imagine nothing better than settling a suitable number of unemployed overseas.

Referring to possible co-operation between the Conservatives and Liberal Unionists, he could see no reason why in certain constituencies they should not come to an arrangement with regard to contests.

In conclusion, he reminded his hearers that whatever government was returned there would be bound to be disappointed, but if his party came into power they would do their best to face the inevitable problems.

GAS TANK ESCAPES FIRE, PICTURE TO BE EXHIBITED

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 26.—A picture showing a gas tank which, strangely enough, is claimed to be the only structure which passed through the Halesbury fire will be shown members of the fire committee of the city council by Alderman E. O. Boehmer, when at their next meeting a decision will be made as to whether the Imperial Oil Company will be allowed to keep their large gasoline storage tanks in their present place near the city.

Numerous complaints have reached the committee from residents in the neighborhood of the Wabash-Grand Trunk Railway on account of the proximity of the tanks, which contain several hundred thousand gallons of gasoline.

The city engineer has been asked to write the fire underwriters regarding the matter, and his report will be tendered at the next meeting.

GIVE LLOYD GEORGE ROUSING WELCOME

Mayor of Colchester Entertains Group of Noted Politicians.

COLCHESTER, Oct. 26.—Former Prime Minister Lloyd George, Lord Birkenhead, the lord chancellor of the late cabinet, the lord mayor of London and a group of his sheriffs were the principal guests given a rousing welcome among a party entertained by the mayor of Colchester here today.

Lord Birkenhead, introducing Mr. Lloyd George at the banquet, said the former premier and himself, with a fuller realization than their opponents of the difficulties of the government's problems, would afford the government every help within their power, and would put country before party. Mr. Lloyd George followed with a brief speech.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO PREACHERS

Lloyd George Speaks To Large Gathering in Whitfield Tabernacle.

Former Premier Tells of Interviews With Famous Clergymen.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(By the Associated Press).—"There are some people who are doomed to be in tempests and storms," began former Premier Lloyd George before a large tonight.

"My life is one perpetual crisis after another, and I had hoped that when I ceased to be responsible for them I would enjoy a little leisure and repose."

After paying tribute to the great movement led by John Wesley and George Whitfield, he declared Whitfield as the greatest orator produced by the English race.

"I am not talking about Wales," he added, "for undoubtedly during the 18th century and the first part of the 19th century, Wales produced a larger number of popular orators of the first water than any country whose history I have read."

"A short time ago I had the privilege of talking on John Wesley at a Methodist gathering. I pointed out the effect of the Whitfield-Wesley movement upon the political outlook of England and America, in comparison with the attitude of continental countries.

Cheers Remarks.

"The training is the same. How can you feel it? America responds to practically the same appeals as England does; you could see recently in the attitude America adopted towards the Near Eastern question, America was the only country in complete sympathy with the attitude of England, and that sympathy was overwhelming and real. It was certainly attributable to the fact that the moral training of America was identical with ours—the old Pilgrim Fathers, reinforced by the great ideals of Whitfield and Wesley."

"I don't know the exact figures of our debt to America; I am told it is a thousand millions at the present moment. It is nothing to the debt America owes us. I should like to write the balance-sheet—debit, one thousand and ninety millions; credit, John Wesley and George Whitfield."

"I am not talking about Shakespeare, Burns and Milton, who are all in the account, and Roger Williams and the Pilgrim Fathers. Oh! I could run up a bill against America which would bankrupt even that rich country. They don't keep these accounts in the exchequer, but they are things which matter. Whitfield and Wesley broadened America into the war with instinct; the result of their preaching and their teaching was to move America to come to our aid."

"George Whitfield and John Wesley are going to take America by the hand and lead her through the golden portals to the League of Nations. The ex-premier's remarks were greeted with prolonged cheers. The remainder of his speech consisted of reminiscences of clergymen he had known and breakfasted with at his Downing street residence.

ST. PAULS

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. PAULS, Oct. 26.—The St. Paul's Women's Institute held their monthly meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. J. Bradshaw, and a large number of members and visitors were present. The members decided to send $50 to the fire refugees in the North. Three delegates were appointed to attend the convention in London in November, namely, Mrs. Geo. Wood, Mrs. Robert Aitchison and Mrs. Chas. Ober. A good program of instrumental and vocal solos were rendered, and splendid papers by Mrs. William Waidie and Mrs. O'Connell were given on "How to entertain autumn friends in the country." These papers were very much enjoyed by all present.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ober motored to Kitchener on Sunday, and spent the day there.

O.R.F.U. Club Hold Final Workout Tonight For Saturday's Opener

IS LONDON TWO-SPORT TOWN? QUESTION ASKED

O. R. F. U. Club Hope To See Answer in Saturday's Crowd At Rugby Opener.

Is London a two-sport town? That's the question that the London O. R. F. U. rugby footballers are trying to solve this autumn, and Saturday, when they open their home season against Patroia Hard Oils at Tecumseh Park, they'll have their ears perked up for the answer, and it must be in crowds.

Baseball and hockey are the two sports that have never lacked support in London, and pretty well all through past history that has been a fact beyond dispute. Now rugby is taking another crack at the citadel, and this year with more chance of success apparently than ever before. "Where there's smoke there's fire" is a wise crack that has to be proven Saturday more or less. There is plenty of rugby smoke in London, more than there ever was in the city's history, with the London O. R. F. U. warriors and Western's gladiators leading the march ahead of four teams from the Central Collegiate and the Independent Elks team.

Therefore, the London O. R. F. U. club are banking on there being a smouldering fire somewhere that will show itself in a constantly increasing following for rugby in London. Today President Judd of the club will address the Kiwanians on the situation—what the O. R. F. U. club is hoping to do for rugby in London, and he will probably point to the number of young teams in the city as an argument for having O. R. F. U. football as an incentive for these youngsters, especially for those who will not continue on into university. Last night a big squad turned out under Coach Rowan, and they went at their work with more pep than they had shown before. Practically all the positions are filled, and the last signal practice, the coach will announce his Saturday line-up. The team has high hopes of winning over London's old rivals, the Hard Oils, Saturday, and they should, on the dope, as the team the Oils could do against Wallaceburg was 13 to 0 on their own ground. Officials will also be announced to-night.

McLACHLAN'S NINE BEAT GREER'S SOFTBALLERS

Frank McLachlan's nine outplayed Jack Greer's "Never Satisfied" in a scheduled game of the Kiwanis Indoor Baseball League at the armories between 5 and 6 o'clock on Thursday evening. The score was 25-21. The winners got off to a good start when they netted seven runs in the first inning. The Greer aggregation gave them a few anxious moments in the seventh inning when they pulled up to within six runs. The teams were: McLachlan's team—Frank McLachlan, Bud Manning, Kibbie Kiborn, Bill Davidson, Bill Cough, Jordan Bridgman, Art Taylor, Frank Morrow and Bert Weir. The battery was Art Taylor and Frank McLachlan. Greer's team—Jack Greer, Herbert Easton, Art Harrison, Bert Hearn, Geo. Chantler, Gib. Ward, Seale Holmes, Bill Wortman and Purdon Love. Herb Easton and Jack Greer were the battery. Umpire—Jack Nash and George Arty.

EDMONTON ESKIMOS WIN ALBERTA RUGBY TITLE

EDMONTON, Oct. 25.—Edmonton Eskimos won the Alberta rugby championship yesterday, defeating the Harlequins for the second time this season, the score being 24 to 0. The game was a scrappy contest, and the Eskimos being penalized more than a dozen times.

PLAY IN MANITOBA LEAGUE. WINNIPEG, Oct. 25.—The application of the Port Arthur and Port William teams for admittance to the Manitoba Amateur Hockey League was accepted at a meeting of the Manitoba body here last night. A schedule was drafted, in which the Thunder Bay teams play eight games each at home and the first and second teams will play off for the championship.

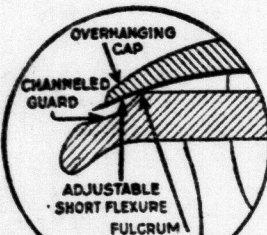

The greatest shaving advance in your lifetime

Until the advent of the new Improved Gillette there has been no improvement in device or method of shaving since the original Gillette was invented twenty years ago.

Now the New Improved Gillette has made a big step forward in shaving service and satisfaction.

No matter how tough your beard or tender your face, the New Improved Gillette will give you the finest shave you have ever experienced.

Those dealers who are in touch with the public say it is the only razor they ever sold that meets and overcomes the skeptical men who are hard to suit on shaving.

Have you asked your dealer about the New Improved Gillette?

CRICKET LEAGUE IS NOW COMPLETE

Probably Meet in London Next Week To Organize.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 25.—The secretary of the Oxford Cricket Club has now received a favorable reply to the invitation he sent out to five other clubs regarding the formation of a new league, the London Hospital and St. Thomas acceptances having been received today. This completes the circuit, and a meeting will be arranged for next week in order to carry out the organization and get the new league going. It will be comprised of the following six clubs: London Hospital, Royal Canadian Regiment, Mitchell, Stratford, Sons of England and St. Thomas Monarchs.

Girls Line Up To Cage Teams

"Billie" Graves is New President of Girls' City League.

The Girls' City Basketball League went ahead and organized at their meeting in the Y. M. C. A. last night when they had a hard time to get the season off when they find space to play in.

Through nothing definite has come through regarding the use of the Horticultural building at the fair grounds, and should have come earlier to make it to be made to make it suitable for basketball. It is felt by the league that they will get a favorable reply from the Western Fair Board.

PLAY M'UTCHEON CUP

St. Andrew's and Maple Leafs Meet Saturday at Carling Heights.

St. Andrew's and Maple Leafs meet at Carling Heights Saturday at 1 o'clock in a semi-final M'UTCHEON Cup game. The mix promises lots of good football, and as both teams have a large following the crowd which gathers at the Heights should be big.

OTTAWA ATHLETES ARE UNEASY OVER CHARGES

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—The St. Patricks baseball team of Ottawa will now play the M-O League during the 1923 season as Ed. Stein's official statistics show "Jack" was in the line up a hundred and twenty times in 1922. The result of the Galt-Belleve series became known. Manager Allan Grimes of the Hamilton club stated that the first game of the playoff would be next Saturday in Guelph.

OPERATION MAY SPOIL TILDEN'S NET CAREER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Wm. T. Tilden II, national tennis champion, is in a local hospital today, awaiting the outcome of an operation which will remove a tumor from his right arm. The operation was performed yesterday afternoon, and the patient is now in a comfortable condition. It is expected that the operation will not spoil Tilden's net career.

Ukulele Is Pipp's Hobby

WALTER PIPP.

WALTER PIPP.

EVERY ball player has his pet hobby.

Walter Pipp of the New York Yankees is strong for the ukulele. One day last summer in a game at St. Louis Pipp did something that displeased Ruth. Some tobacco words passed between the two. Ruth was very rough in his criticism. Pipp replied it.

Pipp always a mild-mannered individual, seldom gets into trouble. One day last summer in a game at St. Louis Pipp did something that displeased Ruth. Some tobacco words passed between the two. Ruth was very rough in his criticism. Pipp replied it.

After the game or in the evening, Pipp would be seen at the hotel where the Yankees are staying. The ukulele is his constant companion of the field.

"Music makes you forget the worries of the ball field," explained Pipp. "Which caused Babe Ruth to remark: 'You don't call strumming the 'uke' music, do you?'"

Water Pipp, by the way, was perhaps the most valuable player on the New York Yankees the past season. Pipp's timely hitting and fine fielding won many a game for the Yankees.

There is a little story back of the sudden improvement in Pipp's play, which has Ruth as the central figure.

CANUCK BOAT IS NEVER HEADED

Walters Chivalrously Reduces Sail When Yanks Lose Toppail.

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 25.—Captain Angus Walters of the champion fishing schooner Bluenose, tonight declared positively that he would meet the Henry Ford, the greatest challenger, no more this year. "We have won the cup," he said. "That is what we came here for. If the Henry Ford wins the elimination races next year and sails down to Halifax, we'll take her on again, if we are the defenders at the time."

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 25.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada today retained her hold on the international Fishermen's Trophy, emblematic of the North Atlantic seaboard, when her Lunenburg-built schooner Bluenose, skipped by Captain Angus Walters, defeated the United States flyer, Henry Ford, skipped by Captain Clayton Morrissey, for the second time in two consecutive days' racing.

The trophy will be awarded tomorrow. The Canadian's lead at the finish line of seven minutes, fifty-one seconds, won after five hours of strenuous racing in a wind ranging from ten to twenty-eight knots, could have been considerably increased had not Captain Walters reduced his canvas.

Central Collegiate Raise Fourth Rugby Team, Which Makes Debut Next Week

Word was received in Lucan last night by Manager Fairless of the Lucan Irish Nine that the play-off with Peterboro in the third and deciding game for the intermediate O. B. A. title of the province would be held Saturday afternoon.

When Director Blake issued a call for candidates for a fourth team it looked like a miniature edition of the charge of the Light Brigade, as they really are, when it comes to weight. NOMINATE GREER TO O. H. A. OFFICE

Alerts' Meeting Believes Londoner Has Excellent Chance.

Jack Greer has been nominated to the O. H. A. executive by the Alerts' Club, and it would not be surprising to see the Londoner elected at the annual elections of the hockey governing body.

Greer has done much for hockey in this part of the province, and it is believed will be well supported by the clubs in the vicinity of London and by the northerners as well outside the London radius.

London has not been represented on the O. H. A. executive for some years now, and Greer's election would be a timely one.

Considering the rink situation in London, the nominees could hardly be accused of being anything but neutral in his work on the O. H. A. executive. Jack Greer has been a member of the local intermediate groups for quite a few years in succession, and his work in this regard has brought him the respect of all those clubs with whom he has had to deal, and this fact should be another great boost for the Londoner.

WORTLEY GIRLS BEAT RYERSON

Ryerson School girls' basketball team went down to defeat at the hands of Wortley Road girls in a match played for the Free Press Cup which was donated for the championship team of the city public schools by the score of 17 to 13.

On Monday Wortley girls will meet Simcoe Street, and if they are defeated by the latter it will necessitate a play-off between the three schools. If Wortley Road wins on Monday they will capture the cup.

The game was one of the best brands of playing since the opening of the contest, and both teams showed marked ability. The winners displayed more combination, but the baskets scored by the Ryerson girls were all earned, while their opponents' shots were not clean.

Margaret Laing, captain and forward of the Ryerson team, scored nine baskets, and played a clean and snappy game, while Anna Milne, forward and captain of Wortley Road, played a good game, and Marjorie Walsh of Wortley Road was a star. She checked, Jean Bolton, check of Ryerson, played a fine game, and Phyllis Muir, centre for Ryerson, was a star. The line-up: Ryerson—Forwards, Margaret Laing, Mary Sawyer, centre, Phyllis Muir, Margaret Curtis, checks, Jean Bolton, Helen Prince.

Wortley—Forwards, Anna Milne, Elizabeth Hume, centre, Helen Prince, Lillian Lyons, checks, Marjorie Walsh, Marie Graham.

The Kaiser's Memoirs

By WILHELM VON HOHENZOLLERN,
(Former Emperor of Germany)

IN the Algeras conference the outline of the great war was already visible. It is assuredly not pleasant to be forced to retreat politically, as we did in the Morocco matter, but Germany's policy subordinated everything to the great cause of preserving the peace of the world.

We tried to attain this end by courtesy, which was partially resented. I recall the journey of my mother, the Empress Frederick, to Paris. We expected a tolerably good reception, since she was an English princess, and went, as an artist, to be the guest of French art. Twice I visited the Empress Eugénie—once from Aldershot at her castle of Fernborough, the other time aboard her yacht, in Norwegian waters, near Bergen. This was a place of politeness that seemed to me perfectly natural, something that was still out of the ordinary, but was done with the best intentions. I brought French female and male artists to Germany. All this sort of thing, of course, was a trifle in the great game of politics, but it at least showed our goodwill.

With regard to Russia, I went to the utmost trouble. My letters, published in the meantime, were naturally never sent without the knowledge of the imperial chancellors, but always in agreement with them and largely at their desire. Russia would doubtless never have got into a war with Germany under Alexander III, for he was reliable. Czar Nicholas was weak and vacillating; whoever had last been with him was right; and, naturally, it was impossible for me always to be that individual.

I made every effort with this czar also, to restore the traditional friendship between Germany and Russia. I was moved to do so not only by political reasons but by the promise which I had made to my grandfather on his deathbed.

I most urgently advised Czar Nicholas, repeatedly, to introduce liberal reforms within his country, to summon the so-called great duma, which existed and functioned even as far back as the reign of Ivan the Terrible. In doing so it was not my intention to interfere in Russian internal affairs; what I wanted was to eliminate, in the interests of Germany, the ferment going on in Russia, which had often enough been deflected before to foreign conflicts, as I have already described. I wished to help toward eliminating at least this one phase of the internal situation in Russia, which threatened to cause war, and I was all the more willing to make the effort since I might thereby serve both the czar and Russia.

The czar paid no heed to my advice, but created a new duma instead which was quite inadequate for coping with the situation. Had he summoned the old duma he might have dealt and talked personally with all the representatives of his huge realm and won their confidence.

When the czar resolved upon war against Japan, I told him that I would assure him security in the rear and cause him no annoyance. Germany kept this promise.

Grand Duke's Visit.

When the course taken by the war

did not fulfill the czar's expectations and the Russian and Japanese armies finally lay before each other for weeks without serious fighting, the young brother of the czar, Grand Duke Michael, arrived at Berlin for a visit. We could not quite make out what he wanted. Prince Bulow, who was then chancellor, requested me to ask the grand duke some time how matters really stood with Russia; he said that he, the prince, had received bad news and thought it was high time for Russia to bring the war to an end.

I undertook this mission. The grand duke was visibly relieved when I spoke to him frankly; he declared that things looked bad for Russia. I told him that it seemed to me that the czar ought to make peace soon, since what the grand duke had told me about the unreliability of troops and officers appeared to me quite as serious as the renewed internal agitation.

Grand Duke Michael was grateful for my having given him an opportunity to talk. He said that the czar was vacillating, as always, but he must make peace and would make it if I advised him to do so. He asked me to write a few lines to the czar to that effect for him to deliver.

I drafted a letter in English to Czar Nicholas, went to Bulow, told him what the grand duke had told me, and showed him the draft of my letter. The prince thanked me and found the letter suitable. The grand duke informed the Russian ambassador in Berlin, Count Osten-Sacken, and, after he had repeatedly expressed his thanks, went direct to the czar, who then had peace negotiations begun.

Count Osten-Sacken told me, when next we met, that I had done Russia a great service. I was glad this was recognized, and felt justified in hoping, on account of this, that my conduct would contribute toward bringing about friendly relations with Russia.

In acting as I did I also worked toward preventing the possible spread of a Russian revolution, during the Russo-Japanese war, across the frontiers of Germany. Germany earned no thanks thereby; however, our conduct during the Russo-Japanese war is another proof of our love of peace.

The same purpose underlay my suggestion which led to the Björko agreement (July, 1905). It contemplated an alliance between Germany and Russia, which both the allies as well as other nations should be at liberty to join. Ratification of this agreement failed through the opposition of the Russian government (Isvolsky).

It remains to say a few words about America. Aside from the Gentlemen's Agreement already mentioned, which assured America's standing beside England and France in a world war, America did not belong to the entente cordiale created by King Edward VII at the behest of his government, and most important of all, America, in so far as it is possible at present to judge events, did not contribute toward bringing on the world war. Perhaps the unfriendly answer given by President Wilson to the German government at the beginning of the war may have had some connection with the Gentlemen's Agreement.

American Factors in Defeat.

But there can be no doubt that America's entry into the war, and the enormous supplies of ammunition, and, especially, of war materials, which preceded her entry, seriously hurt the chance of the central powers to bring the war to a successful termination by force of arms.

It is necessary, however, to avoid all emotional criticism of America also, since, in the great game of politics, real factors only can be considered. America was at liberty (despite the Gentlemen's Agreement) to remain neutral or to enter the war on the other side. One cannot reproach a nation for a decision as to war or peace made in accordance with its sovereign rights so long as the decision is not in violation of definite agreements. Such is not the case here.

Nevertheless, it must be noted that John Kenneth Turner, in his already mentioned book, "Shall It Be Again?", shows, on the basis of extensive proofs, that all Wilson's reasons for America's entry into the war, were fictitious, that it was far more a case of acting solely in the interest of Wall Street high finance.

The great profit derived by America from the world war consists in the fact that the United States was able to attract to itself nearly 50 per cent of all the gold in the world, so that now the dollar, instead of the English pound, determines the world's exchange rate. But here also no reproach is at all justified, since any other nation in a position to do so would have resorted to attracting to itself this increase of gold and of prestige in the world's money market. It was certainly regrettable for us that America did not do this stroke of business on the side of the central powers.

But just as Germany objects with perfect justification to having had her peaceful labors combated by the entente, not with peaceful, but with warlike means, so also she can and must enter constant protest against the already tried policy of means of published material—against America's violation of the right at the close of the world war.

Personally I do not believe that the American people would have consented to this. America's women, particularly, would not have participated in the denial of President Wilson's fourteen points, if they could have been enlightened at that time as to the facts. America, more than other countries, had been misled by English propaganda, and therefore allowed President Wilson, who had been provided with unprecedented powers, to act on his own initiative at Paris—in other words, to be beaten down on his fourteen points. Just as Mr. Wilson omitted mention, later, of the English blockade against which he had protested previously, so also he acted with regard to his fourteen points.

The German government had accepted Wilson's fourteen points, although they were severe enough. The allies likewise had accepted the fourteen points, with the exception of those on reparations and the freedom of the seas. Wilson had guaranteed the fourteen points.

Fourteen Points Abandoned.

I fail to find the most important of them in the Versailles instrument, but only those expressing the tent's policy of violence, and even part of these in a greatly falsified form. Relying on Wilson's guarantee, Germany evacuated the enemy territory occupied by her and surrendered her weapons—in other words, made herself defenseless. In this blind confidence, and the abandonment of the fourteen points on the one side, and in the outbreak of the German revolution on the other, lies the key to our present condition.

According to Turner, the fourteen points, as far back as the drawing up of the armistice terms, were, to Wilson, no more than a means of making Germany lay down her arms; as soon as this end was achieved, he dropped them.

Already a very large part of the American people has arrayed itself against Mr. Wilson and is unwilling to be discredited along with him. I am not dreaming of spontaneous American help for Germany; all I count upon is the sober acknowledgment by the American people that it has to make good the gigantic wrong done Germany by its former president. For the atmosphere of a victory does not last forever, and later on, not only in Germany but elsewhere, people will remember the unreliability of the American president and look upon it as American unreliability.

That is not a good thing, however, for the American people. To have the policy of a nation branded with the stigma of unreliability is not advantageous. When judgment is passed hereafter on American policy, people will forget that Mr. Wilson, unversed in the ways of the world, was trapped by Lloyd George and Clemenceau.

I have met—particularly at the Kiel regatta—many American men and women whose political judgment and caution would make it impossible for them to approve such a flagrant breach of faith as was committed by Mr. Wilson, because of its effect on America's political prestige. It is upon such considerations of national consideration, that I base my hope, that Germany's burden will be lightened from across the ocean.

Besides the injustice in the abandonment of the Fourteen Points, it must also be remembered that Mr. Wilson was the first to demand of the German reigning dynasty that it withdraw, in doing which he hinted that, were such action taken, the German people would be granted a better peace. Before the government of Prince Max joined in the demand for my abdication of the throne, which it based on the same grounds as Mr. Wilson—that Germany would thereby get better terms—(prevention of civil war was used as a second means of bringing pressure on me)—it was in duty bound to get some sort of a binding guarantee from Mr. Wilson. In any event, the statements made, which became continually more urgent and pressing, contributed toward making me resolve to quit the country, since I was constrained to believe that I could render my country a great service by so doing.

Accepted "Sight Unseen."

I subordinated my own interests and those of my dynasty, which certainly were not unimportant, and forced myself, after the severest inward struggles, to acquiesce in the wish of the German authorities. Later it transpired that the German government had obtained no real guarantees. But, in the tumultuous sequence of events during those days, it was necessary for me to consider the unequivocal and definite announcement of the imperial chancellor as authoritative. For this reason I did not investigate it.

Why the entente demanded, through Mr. Wilson, that I should abdicate is now obvious. It felt perfectly sure that, following my being dispossessed of the throne, military and political instability would necessarily ensue in Germany and enable it to force upon Germany not easier but harder terms. At that time the revolution had not yet appeared as an aid to the entente.

For me to have remained on the throne would have seemed to the entente more advantageous to Germany than my abdication. I myself agree with this view of the entente, now that it has turned out that the Max of Baden government had no substantial foundation for its declaration that my abdication would bring better terms to my fatherland.

I go even further and declare that the entente would never have dared to offer such terms to an intact German Empire. It would not have dared to offer them to an imperial realm upon which the parliamentary system had not yet been forced, with the help of German Utopians, at a very moment of its final fight for existence, to a realm whose monarchical government had not been deprived of the power to command its army and navy.

In view of all this, heavy guilt also lies on the shoulders of the American ex-president as a result of his having demanded my abdication under the pretence that it would bring Germany better terms. Here also we certainly have a point of support for the powerful lever which is destined to drag the treaty of Versailles from where it lies behind lock and key. In Germany, however, Mr. Wilson should never be confused with the American people.

In setting forth my political principles in what follows, I am actuated solely by a desire to contribute toward proving Germany's innocence of having brought on the world war.

From the outset of my reign German policy was based upon compromise of the differences which it found existing between nations. In its entirety, therefore, my policy was entirely peaceful. This policy of peaceful compromise became apparent in internal politics, at the very beginning of my reign, in the legislation desired by me for the protection of the workers. The development of social legislation, which placed Germany at the head of civilized nations in the domain of governmental protection, was based on a like foundation.

The fundamental idea of a policy of compromise went so far within Germany that the strength of the army would have remained far less than universal compulsory military service and the size of the population made possible. Here, as well as in the matter of naval construction, the curtailments demanded by the Reichstag were put up with by the crown and the government. Already at that time the question of Germany's capabilities of defence was left to the decision of the people's representatives. A nation that wished and prepared war would have adopted quite different tactics.

Inadequate Preparedness.

The more apparent the Entente's policy of encirclement and attack became, the more the means of protecting our welfare should have been strengthened for defensive reasons. This idea of natural and justified self-protection, by means of defensive measures against a possible hostile attack, was carried out in a wretchedly inadequate manner.

Germany's desire for peace, in fact, was unable to develop this protection by land and sea in a manner compatible with her financial and national strength and with the risk which our welfare was bound to run in case of a war. Therefore, we are now suffering not from the consequences of the tendency toward aggression falsely imputed to us, but actually from the consequences of a well-nigh incredible love of peace and of blind confidence.

The entirely different political principles of the Entente have already been described by me, also our continuous efforts to get upon friendly terms with the individual Entente nations.

I do not wish to ignore completely the least important work done by Germany, also included within the framework of politics on a large scale, which was always inspired by the same purpose; to effect compromise of existing points of conflict. The Kiel regatta brought us guests from all the leading nations. We sought compromise with the same zeal in the domain of science by means of exchange professors, and foreign officers were most willingly allowed to inspect our army system. This latter might be adjudged a mistake, now that we can look back, but, in any event, all these points are certain proofs of our honest desire to live at peace with all.

Moreover, Germany did not take advantage of a single one of the opportunities that arose for waging war with a sure prospect of success.

I have already pointed out the benevolent neutrality of Germany toward Russia at the time of the Russo-Japanese War.

At the time when England was deeply involved in the Boer War we might have fought against England or against France, which, at that time, would have been obliged to forego help from England. But we did not do so. Also, while the Russo-Japanese War was in progress we might have fought not only against Russia, but also against France. But we did not do so.

In addition to the Moroccan crisis already touched upon, in connection with which we set aside the idea of going to war, we also gave evidence of our desire for peace by overcoming the Bosnian crisis by diplomatic means.

When one considers these plainly visible political events as a whole and thence the declarations of Entente statesmen, such as Poincaré, Clemenceau, Isvolsky, Tardieu and others, one is bound to ask one's self, in amazement, how a peace treaty, founded upon Germany's guilt in having brought on the world war, could have been drafted and put through. This miscarriage of justice will not stand before the bar of world history.

Blames France for 1870. A Frenchman, Louis Guérin, delegate from Lyons to the Society for the Rights of Man, recently made this statement:

"If we once look upon events without prejudice, with complete independence and frankness, without bothering about which camp chance placed us in at birth, the following is forced upon our attention first of all: The war of 1914 is a consequence of the war of 1870. For, ever since that earlier date, the idea of revenge, more or less veiled, has never left us."

"The war of 1870, however, was prepared and declared by the French government. The French Empire, indeed, needed it very badly in order to contend against interior troubles and its steadily growing unpopularity with the public. Even Gambetta, the wild tribune of the opposition, exclaimed: 'If the empire brings us the left bank of the Rhine, I shall become reconciled with it.' Thus, it was a war of conquest, nobody bothered about what the conquered populations might have to say about it. 'We shall bend their will to ours.' Thus it is written in the law of the victor."

"And now, suddenly, the opportunity for doing this was to escape France. In view of the political difficulties and dangers of war caused by his candidacy, Prince Leopold declared himself ready to withdraw. That is bad. Without a pretext there can be no war."

"It was the same with France as with the milkmaid and the broken pincer in the fable, only instead of 'farewell, calf, cow, pig, hens,' it was 'farewell, bloody profits, glory, victory, left bank of the Rhine, even Belgium'—for the latter, too, lay on that left bank of the Rhine which France coveted. No, that would have been too hard, the disillusionment would have been too great, the opportunity must be created anew."

"I Had Terrible Backache From Kidney Disease"

Mrs. M. A. McNeill, Canaan Sta., N.B., writes: "I was troubled for years with terrible backache, resulting from kidney disease. At times in each month I remained in bed, the pain was more than I could stand, and to walk was almost impossible. I used about $50.00 worth of other medicines, but with little results. Now I am completely better, after using only five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Delicious Genuine Sweet Cream in Cans

IMAGINE a whole month's supply of rich, fresh cream and milk on your pantry shelves! It's enough to make any woman glad! Keepsweet makes it possible. Just fancy! Suddenly you need some cream or some milk. Fling wide your pantry doors and there is the Keepsweet supply—Keepsweet Cream and Keepsweet Milk. Delicious, genuine, sweet cream and milk in cans!

When Keepsweet comes into the home the days of the erratic milkman are numbered. Nothing else will take its place. Keepsweet Cream, you see, is a super-cream, really! It lends to dessert or fruit, puddings or pies, a wondrous appeal to the palate. It gives a velvet richness to porridge, and imparts to coffee a smoothness that only such a rare cream as Keepsweet could add! Try it on your family as a secret. Put it in their coffee, and hear their exclamations of wonder and pleasure. Let them discover how wonderfully good Keepsweet Cream is before you tell them.

Keepsweet Milk for the Children

Then give the kiddies a great big glassful of Keepsweet Milk. Watch their eyes! Watch 'em enjoy it. Hear them smack their lips when it's through! If you have an ailing baby in your home put the child on a Keepsweet Milk diet and watch him thrive.

Keepsweet Milk is wonderful for babies and growing children. Splendid for invalids or old folks. It's so nourishing, so marvelously wholesome. And it's pure—100% pure—free absolutely of all germ life. After using Keepsweet Milk, ordinary milk will seem rather weak and flat, rather tasteless. Keepsweet Milk is the whole milk, not condensed, not skimmed, and undiluted. All the cream is there. That is why it is so creamy, so rich and delicious! It is much superior to ordinary raw milk, just as Keepsweet Cream is superior to ordinary raw cream!

Mix the two in equal quantities and you have an excellent light table cream similar in strength to the "top-of-the-bottle" grade. Ask your grocer for Keepsweet. He has it.

JURY DISAGREES IN MURDER CASE

Robert Stevenson Remanded in Custody Until Next Assizes.

Judge States He Has No Power To Be Lenient.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—The jury sitting under Mr. Justice Lennox in the criminal assizes at the trial of Robert Stevenson, farmer, charged with the murder of his wife on April 29 last on his farm, could not agree, and was discharged tonight, Stevenson to be remanded in custody until the next assizes, when he will be tried again. Stevenson is alleged to have attacked his wife with an axe after she had refused to sign a mortgage. He also is said to have attacked his two stepdaughters, but they escaped, although one was badly wounded.

When the jury returned to the courtroom after being out almost three hours the foreman submitted the disagreement, and inquired what would be the result if a verdict of murder with a recommendation to mercy were brought in. The judge pointed out that he had no power to be lenient in such an instance, that the recommendation might have weight with the authorities, but emphasized that the only course open to him would be to pronounce sentence of death.

Judge Lennox made it clear that the jury had to make it clear that Stevenson either knew he was doing wrong at the time he committed the deed or that he was not aware of the responsibility attached to the taking of a human life. Before sending the jury back for the last time he stated that it would be impossible for a verdict of manslaughter to be returned in Stevenson's case.

Had To Send Mile For Jailer Who Had Key To Leg-Irons On Prisoner

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 26.—Before the trial started this morning of Nelson Miracle, crack Indian jail-breaker, County Judge J. S. Campbell said he wished to make an observation. He said that he had noticed in the press that when Miracle was arraigned before him last time he was brought into court with leg-irons on. He had been very much shocked, as he had not noticed this. A person is innocent until found guilty, and it was no way to use any person brought in court for trial. This morning when I came into court I noticed that the accused had leg-irons on him. I at once ordered them taken off, when it was found that the key of the irons was in the hands of the jailer, nearly a mile away. Delay in opening court was because we had to send for the jailer. I could not countenance such a thing as that. Miracle was found guilty of having stolen goods, and the judge said he would sentence him Saturday.

Miracle pleaded guilty to twice escaping from Lincoln County jail.

Youth.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Brooding over the fact that he had failed in his examinations at high school recently is said to be the cause of 19-year-old William Tucker leaping to his death over the ravine bridge at Sherbourne and Bloor streets tonight. Death was instantaneous. With Tucker at the time he went over were William Riach, Richard Andrews and George Griffin. Tucker went to his death shortly after 10 o'clock. The four youths were walking along the west side of the bridge, when without warning Tucker placed his hands on the top rail and essayed to vault over. Before he could complete his design, however, his chums grasped him and pulled him back, at the same time trying to dissuade him from such a foolish act. For a few minutes it seemed as if he had taken their advice and put the desire from his mind, when, all of a sudden, he broke away from them, rushed to the east side of the bridge and, to their horror, vaulted over and disappeared into the darkness.

They hurried down into the ravine and found him lying, a mangled heap 50 feet below.

PASTOR INDUCTED IN OXFORD CHURCH

Rev. John Smith Assumes Charge of Duties At Showers' Corners.

Special to London Advertiser.
WOODSTOCK, Oct. 26.—Rev. John Smith was yesterday inducted into the pastorate of Showers' Corners Presbyterian Church. There was a large congregation present. Several ministers from the Paris Presbytery took part in the services. Following the induction a chicken supper and concert was held.

Howard Trueman, local agricultural representative, is arranging for a county stock judging competition, the winners of which will be specially trained to take part in the judging contest at the Guelph fall stock show. A team of five men who have been previously winners will also be selected to compete at the royal show in Toronto.

Some time ago the magistrate imposed a fine of $2.25 on C. K. S. McDonnell of the provincial highways department for leaving his car at night on the wrong side of the road without a light. The city council on Monday night refunded the amount. Today Mr. McDonnell wrote the city clerk thanking the council for the spirit of fair play shown in refunding the amount. He states that the department was singled out for persecution, while dozens of other cars are every evening allowed to escape with the same offence.

The death took place last night of Mary Glendennan, relict of the late Henry Green. The deceased was born in the township of West Oxford 48 years ago, and had lived all her life in Oxford County. She is survived by three sons and one daughter.

UNION CHIEFS PROTEST ACTION OF RAIL BOARD

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—While Hon. George P. Graham, acting minister of railways and canals, will place recommendations made to him yesterday by officers of railway unions before the Canadian National board of management in a sympathetic manner, he will not interfere with the decision of the board, it was stated here today.

The union chiefs protested against the letting of contracts for Canadian National rolling stock to outside firms. They also charged that the Canadian National Railways were being used, perhaps unconsciously, to assist in breaking the railway strike in the United States, inasmuch as Grand Trunk engines were sometimes run on the Central Vermont Railway beyond St. Albans, the Grand Trunk terminal.

One Day's Doings In Gt. Britain's Political Arena

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(By the Associated Press).—The king at Sandringham today signed a proclamation, dissolving Parliament, which had lived four of its constitutional five years, and summoning the new Parliament to meet on Nov. 20. The country is now without a parliament, but has plenty of candidates for the next one.

The only notable event of the day was the issuance of Premier Bonar Law's manifesto. This contained no remarkable surprises, and the greater part of it was devoted to enlargement of his policies outlined at the Unionist meeting which elected him leader. He proposes to abolish the cabinet secretariat, which has been criticized as expensive and unconstitutional by the opponents of the late government, and to transfer British representation at the League of Nations to the foreign office. He intends to ratify the Irish treaty and call the British dominions to a conference to develop empire affairs. There was no statement of policy in the management of British affairs in the Near East, and that is likely to be demanded by Mr. Bonar Law's campaigning orifices.

The prime minister made his first campaign speech today at Glasgow, where, being of Scotch extraction, he had an enthusiastic welcome. He reaffirmed the points of his manifesto.

The former premier, Mr. Lloyd George, did not waste his day. He spoke before a large audience of nonconformists in Whitfield Tabernacle in London, where there was plenty of cheering. Mr. Lloyd George was in his breeziest form.

Earlier in the day he and Lord Birkenhead were guests at the annual oyster feast given by the Colchester municipality. Although it was supposed to be a nonpartisan social affair, Lord Birkenhead made a defense of the Conservative members of the cabinet who stuck by Lloyd George. The former premier made a few remarks without bringing in politics.

NATIONAL TROOPS REPULSE REBELS

DUBLIN, Oct. 26.—A large force of irregulars attacked a national post at the upper bridge, Ballina, County Mayo, last night.

After several hours firing, the irregulars withdrew. There were no national casualties.

CLANDEBOYE MAN HURT WHILE ASSISTING AT BEE

CLANDEBOYE, Oct. 26.—Benjamin Marr is suffering from several fractured ribs, numerous bruises and shock as the result of a severe fall at George Cunningham's threshing, Mr. Marr was climbing into the mow when a scaffold pole slipped, letting him fall on the threshing machine, which was running at the time.

TWO WILL EXPIATE CRIME ON GALLOWS

Welland Men Take Sentence Calmly, Declaring Themselves Innocent of Crime.

WELLAND, Oct. 26.—At 12:40 today His Lordship Chief Justice Meredith passed sentence of death on Nick Thomas and Harry Rutka, who were found guilty by a high court jury yesterday of the murder of Adam Salton of Thorold last August. They will be hanged on Jan. 12 next.

Both men took the sentences calmly. Rutka said simply that the witnesses who swore he had a knife told lies. "I had no knife," he stated. "I didn't see the fight. I wasn't there." Nick Thomas spoke at greater length before sentence was passed upon him. He said he was surprised that the jury should have found him guilty. "If anyone were to ask me now," he said, "what complexion Adam Salton had I wouldn't know. I never saw him or knew him." Rutka's wife and two daughters were in court when the sentence was passed, and showed no signs of emotion.

ELMWOOD RESIDENT PASSES IN 82ND YEAR

Special to London Advertiser.

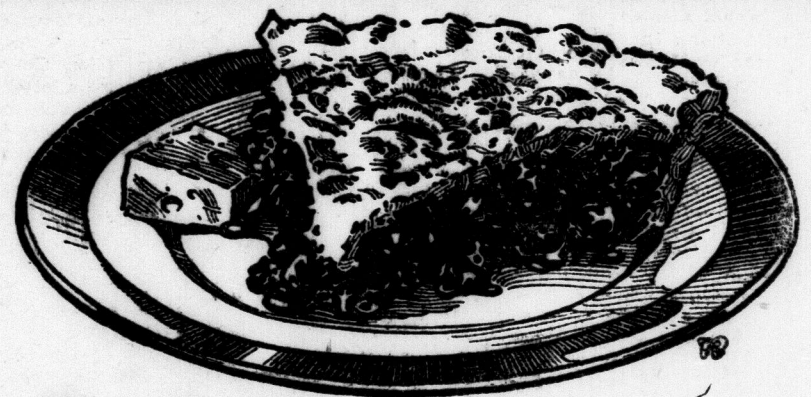

ELMWOOD, Oct. 26.—The death occurred on Sunday of Fred Kreuger, an old and highly-respected resident of Elmwood, in his 81st year. The late Mr. Kreuger, along with a brother-in-law named Schmidt, chopped down the big soft elm tree which Elmwood is called after. This soft elm was the largest tree of its kind that ever grew in this part of the country, measuring ten feet in diameter. It stood about the center of the village now known as Elmwood.

CAR OVERTURNS IN DITCH, FARMER ESCAPES INJURY

AILSA CRAIG, Oct. 26.—What might have turned out to be a very serious accident happened this afternoon, when Dr. MacArthur of East Williams was driving home from Nairn Church. As he was nearing Sutherland's Hill he happened to take a look at some cattle in a field, and as he did so the car turned and went completely over, smashing the top, the windshield and one wheel. After the car stopped Mr. MacArthur managed to get out of the car without even a scratch, only a bad shaking-up.

TURK I NISTER RESIGNS.

"Every Pair Guaranteed not to Rust, Break or Tear"

To make corsets which will live up to this guarantee—that, for fifty years, has been the standard for Warner's

Rust-Proof
Corsets

Cloths that will stand the strain of constant wear. Boning and steels of suppleness, but which will not break or "set." Workmanship and construction that will hold the corset in its proper shape. And, above all, designs that will so perfectly fit the figure that comfortable, healthful support, reduces the wear and tear on the corset.

These standards, and the guarantee, can only be maintained by proper materials. Warner's Rust-Proof are not the cheapest, but we believe them to be the most economical corsets you can buy. They are made in Canada, and sell for as low as $1.50, although the additional value in models at $2, $3, $4, $5 and above is well worth the extra cost.

PLEADS CAUSE OF SCHOOL CHILD

Asst. Inspector Wreable Addresses Tecumseh Mothers' Club.

Points Out High Marks Does Not Always Indicate High Ability.

"If your child's marks are low in the school reports, do not jump at the conclusion he is not putting forth his best efforts. Take the matter up with the teacher and find out. Perhaps his lower marks indicate better work than the higher marks of another child."

Habits of Work.
The foregoing was the advice given to a large audience at the October meeting of Tecumseh Mothers' Club by Assistant Inspector G. A. Wreable Thursday night. In the course of his address, he emphasized the importance of forming, in children, habits of conscientious work. The chief aim of education, he declared, is to form of proper habits. He pointed out ways in which parents can aid the teacher in achieving this end; impressing the importance of parents and teachers keeping closely in touch with one another, in order to promote the best interests of the children. Mr. Wreable substituted for Inspector V. K. Greer, who was in Toronto.

A social hour was given prominence, arranged in honor of the teachers of the senior grades and the mothers of the senior grade pupils. The teachers expressed their appreciation of the opportunity thus afforded of becoming acquainted with the mothers of their pupils, declaring that the human element in their work was thus emphasized.

The Lyric quartet furnished enjoyable numbers, and a pleasing solo was given by Miss Gladys McEvoy. Mrs. E. Westland gave a reading.

Mrs. Mason was elected pianist for the year, and Mrs. A. Knowles appointed to represent the club on the London Child Welfare Association. Ten dollars was voted for the relief fund for Northern Ontario fire sufferers.

Was Generous One.
Though the program was a generous one, the club, of which Mrs. S. J. Martin is president, established a record by being ready for "lights out" by 10 o'clock. A substantial share of credit for this was due to the efficiency of the social committee, Mesdames Sam, Harry Storey, and C. Boyce, and the promptness with which they served the refreshments.

BROUGHDALE M. C.
"Books That Children Should Read" was the subject of a helpful address given by Miss Louise Gahan, Normal School librarian, on Thursday evening at the monthly meeting of Broughdale Mothers' Club.

The speaker drew attention to the importance of developing in children the reading habit and love of good literature, through having them read good literature from their earliest years. The value of good illustrations in helping to form the reading habit was emphasized, and several books with illustrations were shown.

The Broughdale club has decided to pay a series of visits to other mothers' clubs of the city, to get ideas with regard to methods of conducting meetings and other points which make for success and efficiency. Officers or other members free to do so will act as representatives and bring back reports.

The proceeds of a home-cooking sale Saturday for the benefit of the fund to improve the school environment amounted to $12.15. Mrs. Owen Mooney presided, and the attendance was gratifyingly large, considering that a number of the members were attending the London district Methodist W. M. S. convention in a neighboring church.

PREDICTS LOSS TO CITY IN MILK LAW

Mayor Wilson Declares Outside Dealers Will Reap Harvest.

In the recent passage of the by-law insisting upon the tubercular test for all cows supplying milk for this district, Mayor Dr. Cameron Wilson foresees the possibility of outside dealers in pasteurized milk "reaping a veritable harvest" in London to the detriment of local dealers.

It is announced that representatives of concerns in neighboring communities, engaged in the sale of pasteurized milk, will meet with local dealers here Friday night to discuss contemplated business relations of some description.

His worship fears that the local dealers will be faced with this outside competition, all created indirectly by the passage of the much-contested milk by-law.

He explains that he was questioned Thursday night by certain parties from out of the city, who desired to know if there would be anything to prevent the importation into London of pasteurized milk in any large quantity.

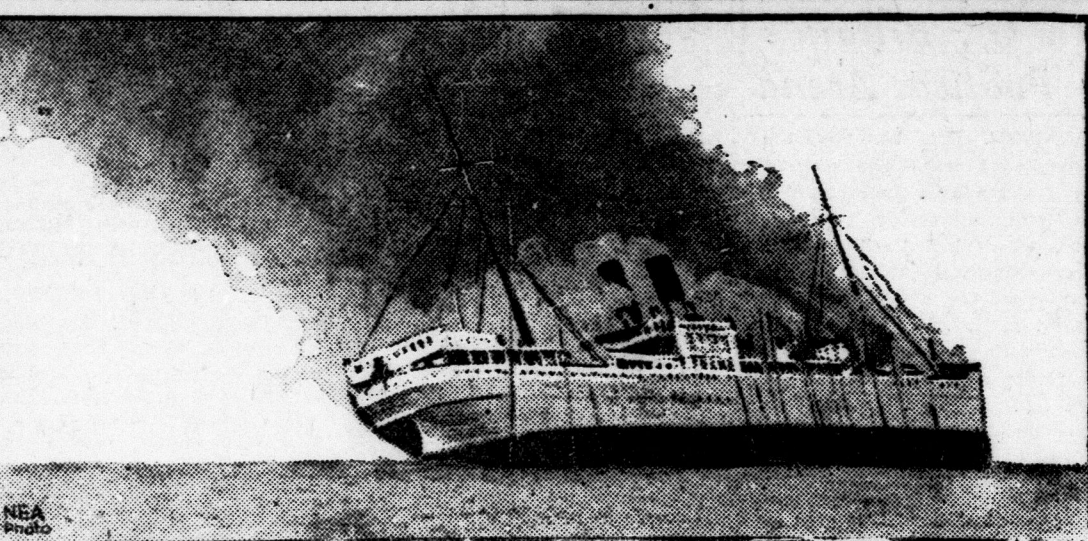

Mayor Wilson points out that there is no course but to allow the milk to be brought in and sold, but incidentally deplores the possibility that the London and district dealers will be the losers.

IS ARRESTED ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Arrested Friday noon by Detectives Harry Down and Thomas Bolton, Mrs. May Johnston of 53 Adelaide street will appear in the city police court Saturday morning on a charge of bigamy, preferred by her husband, Henry Johnston.

The latter asserts that during his 18 months' absence in the west she was married in St. Thomas to C. Herne. The date of the alleged illegal ceremony is set down as July 23, 1921.

Remarkable Rescue Pictures Taken From Lifeboats

HERE are more remarkable pictures of the City of Honolulu, taken from the lifeboats into which the passengers and crew were driven by the fire destroying the ship in mid-Pacific. Upper picture shows the burning ship listing as she started to sink. The center picture shows the doomed steamer, also part of the occupants of the last boat, save the captain's, to leave the blazing vessel.

At the left are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barber and their two children, passengers on the City of Honolulu. The kiddies thought the lifeboat experience a real delight.

Dares Opposition Leader To Name Ministers Who Would Run Liquor

Quebec, Oct. 27.—Canadian Press. Replying to the attack by Arthur Sauve, leader of the opposition, Premier Taschereau dealt with the claim that he wished in 1920 to become the associate of ministerial politicians in a secret liquor traffic. He might have made a fortune, Premier Taschereau speaking in the legislative assembly yesterday challenged the leader of the Opposition to name the "ministerial politicians" who offered to associate with him in a fraudulent and secret liquor traffic.

He added: "I have not the right or the pleasure to tell him that what he said was untrue, but I have the right to tell him that an honest man would reject such an offer and would at once publicly denounce those who proposed it to him."

In a general review of the work undertaken by the government, Premier Taschereau dealt with the liquor law. He said it had been most successful, both from a moral and from a financial standpoint.

In its first year of operation it had realized a net profit of $4,000,000, which had been applied to colonization, road construction, agriculture, education and redemption of part of the provincial national debt.

He claimed that prices of liquor were lower in Quebec than in the rest of the Dominion, while high prices were due to high customs and excise duties, in respect of which a sum of $8,000,000 had been paid within the year to Ottawa.

NEW HAMBURG
Special to London Advertiser.
New Hamburg, Oct. 26.—D. Gledhill of Kincardine has purchased the Schwoob stock here.

George Bean sold his household effects by public auction a few days ago, and left on Monday for Waterloo, where he will spend some time at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Motherall.

A well-known and prominent resident of New Hamburg passed away on Tuesday evening in the person of John Buckel, in his 67th year. The late Mr. Buckel was born in East Zorra, and came to New Hamburg about forty years ago. For many years he conducted the Imperial Hotel here, and was well and favorably known among the traveling public. He had been ill for the past two months, and his death is deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends. He leaves to mourn his departure his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Clayton Stumpf of Kitchener. Interment took place at the Catholic cemetery.

The death of Magdalena Eshleman, wife of Moses B. Groff, occurred at her home on Monday morning. She had been in failing health for some time, but her death came as a shock to the community. The late Mrs. Groff was born in Wilmet Township, and was a faithful member of the Mennonite church. Surviving members of her family are her husband, two daughters, Emma and Sylvia at home, one sister, Esther of New Hamburg, and one brother, Rev. David Eshleman of Eldorado, Ohio.

Rev. H. R. Mosig and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Piene left for Buffalo last Tuesday to attend the biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church of America, as delegates of the Lutheran Church here.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Becker were appointed delegates by the Baptist Church to attend the annual convention of the Ontario and Quebec Baptists, to be held at Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto.

Miss Martha Kalbfleisch and Dr. A. F. Dales spent the week-end at Drayton with the latter's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Feick of Preston spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Feick.

Mrs. Arthur Cross of Simcoe is visiting with Mrs. V. C. Wenzel.

Miss Dora Debus, Miss Hilda Stauch, Lloyd Appell and George Grundenburger motored to London on Sunday and spent the day with Rev. and Mrs. M. Bruer.

Dr. Anderson was a business visitor at Toronto last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Combs and little daughter Mary motored to Simcoe and spent the week-end with friends there.

BRUSSELS

Special to London Advertiser.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 26.—Miss Lizzie Burgess, who died in London, was buried in the family plot in Brussels Cemetery last Monday afternoon. The family formerly lived here.

Next Sunday morning Rev. Dr. Hartwell, a missionary home on furlough from China, will conduct the service in the Methodist Church.

Two cars of horses were shipped to Northern Ontario from Brussels this week, one by J. H. Galbraith, and the other by W. A. Lowry.

Word was received of the death of William Blaskill, a former well-known Brusselsite, who carried on a successful butchering business here, and built the Blaskill block. He died at Ann Arbor, Mich., where his son lives.

A son and two daughters survive. Deceased retained his membership in the C. O. F. here up to his demise.

This week Adam Smith left with a carload of household effects for his former home in Dand, Man., where he will resume farming. He had the place rented for several years while his family resided in town.

Last Monday George and Mrs. Colvin celebrated the 45th anniversary of their marriage. In the enjoyment of a good degree of health, they have five children living and sixteen grandchildren. On their wedding day they drove to their new home in a sleigh, sixteen inches of snow having fallen, which remained until the next spring.

Alex McIntosh has grown pears this season that weighed a pound each, large well-shaped fruit.

Grand Trunk Agent Chownen and wife are away to Toronto to spend two weeks' vacation, granted to former by the company.

East is east and west is west, and when the train meet at football there is an awful mess.

HOLDS JUVENILE COURT IN OFFICE

Although offices for the juvenile court have not been equipped yet, and Magistrate Graydon has not heard of any plan to buy furniture or obtain some of that used in civic offices, the magistrate, who was appointed juvenile judge has acted in that capacity a number of times recently, holding court in his own office.

Magistrate Graydon is willing to continue to act as judge. However, he has not heard of any definite plans for the opening of a court in offices adjoining the police station being pushed as yet.

Do you know what is paved with good intentions? Well, that is what streets are that are paved only with good intentions.

Department of Agriculture To Put Ban On Old System of Retail Trade.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—That it was the intention of the department of agriculture to do away altogether with the gallon and other measures when the new "root vegetables act" came into force, Capt. L. F. Burrows of the department of agriculture told the Retail Grocers' Association at a meeting here last night. The act could only be successfully operated when the system of measures hitherto in force was forgotten and people got used to ordering vegetables by the pound, he said.

In answer to questions, Captain Burrows declared that farmers, hucksters and peddlers could not be compelled to carry scales, but that the consumers could demand that the goods they purchased be weighed. The department of agriculture was

and for many years resided in Dutton, moving to Dutton six years ago. She is survived by three daughters and six sons, three of whom reside in Dutton, Mrs. Stacey, and Edwin and Alexander Wright. The funeral will be held tomorrow to Fairview Cemetery, Dutton.

Nellie C. Anderson of Clinton has been engaged as fifth teacher at the Dutton High School owing to the increase in attendance this year. Rev. J. A. Snell and Mrs. Snell of Dutton celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding on Friday last, when many friends called to extend congratulations. The ladies of the Methodist Church presented the couple with a dainty basket containing 25 silver dollars. Many other useful gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Snell.

FIRE LOSSES INCREASE.
Toronto, Oct. 27.—Fire losses in Canada during the week ended Oct. 25 are estimated by the Monetary Times at $604,200, compared with $81,000 the previous week.

Department of Agriculture To Put Ban On Old System of Retail Trade.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—That it was the intention of the department of agriculture to do away altogether with the gallon and other measures when the new "root vegetables act" came into force, Capt. L. F. Burrows of the department of agriculture told the Retail Grocers' Association at a meeting here last night. The act could only be successfully operated when the system of measures hitherto in force was forgotten and people got used to ordering vegetables by the pound, he said.

In answer to questions, Captain Burrows declared that farmers, hucksters and peddlers could not be compelled to carry scales, but that the consumers could demand that the goods they purchased be weighed. The department of agriculture was

and for many years resided in Dutton, moving to Dutton six years ago. She is survived by three daughters and six sons, three of whom reside in Dutton, Mrs. Stacey, and Edwin and Alexander Wright. The funeral will be held tomorrow to Fairview Cemetery, Dutton.

Nellie C. Anderson of Clinton has been engaged as fifth teacher at the Dutton High School owing to the increase in attendance this year. Rev. J. A. Snell and Mrs. Snell of Dutton celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding on Friday last, when many friends called to extend congratulations. The ladies of the Methodist Church presented the couple with a dainty basket containing 25 silver dollars. Many other useful gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Snell.

FIRE LOSSES INCREASE.
Toronto, Oct. 27.—Fire losses in Canada during the week ended Oct. 25 are estimated by the Monetary Times at $604,200, compared with $81,000 the previous week.

Will abolish measures, force buying by weight.

PRESS COMMENTS.

London, Oct. 27.—(By the Associated Press).—The latest development in the electoral campaign is an understanding reported to have been reached in some districts under which the Conservatives have agreed not to oppose coalition Liberal candidates under the Lloyd George banner, who will pledge themselves to give their general support to Prime Minister Bonar Law.

Several such bargains have been reached in London and neighboring constituencies, but in the northern districts it was said that most of the Lloyd Georgians had refused to enter into any such arrangement. At Dundee the Unionist Association declined to support Winston Spencer Churchill, who was secretary for the colonies in the Lloyd George ministry, and J. A. M. MacDonald, another coalitionist Liberal.

Referring to these deals, the Times says that the coalition Liberal party is in danger of breaking in two, and attributes this condition to "lack of a decisive lead by Lloyd George."

While in some places the Lloyd George followers are aligning themselves with the Conservative party, others, especially in the north, are seeking a union with the Free Liberals. The newspaper understands that Lloyd George has been urged to give his party definite guidance in the speech he is to deliver next Saturday at Glasgow. Lloyd George made no reference to the question of these new inter-party deals in a message which he sent to the Daily Mirror today. In this message he said he had a "profound conviction shared by the most experienced and distinguished leaders in the Conservative party that the manifold difficulties ahead of the country can best be solved by those who put the interest of the country above party considerations."

Further Friction.
"I regret that the only appeal that the distracted state of Europe and the world makes to many is an appeal for further friction and disunity at home," the message said. "Such a path I cannot follow. The course I intend to take will be directed by no personal considerations, and in no factious spirit. I shall continue devoted by my best to serve the country, heedless of all personal advantage."

Comment on the manifesto and speech delivered yesterday by Prime Minister Bonar Law is being evenly divided in this morning's newspapers. The Times has "no hesitation in commending them to the public's approval." The Morning Post also urges the public to give the utmost support to the Bonar Law program for bringing about rest and tranquility. That newspaper describes the manifesto "as the plain statement of an honest man backed by honest men."

Commends Speech.
Commendation of Bonar Law's speech yesterday as calm, restrained and reassuring, is given by the Daily Express, but it urges the electorate to insist that the government completely withdraw from the Near East. The Daily Chronicle, supporting Lloyd George, says that the utterances of his successor do not show

KAISER'S MEMOIRS

The entire chauvinistic press, the entire clan of boasters set to work and soon found a way. Gramont, minister of foreign affairs, sent Ambassador Benedetti to visit Emperor William, who was taking his cure at Bismarck, and demand from him a written promise that, in case Prince Leopold should change his mind about his withdrawal, he would, as head of the family, would take issue against this.

"The withdrawal of Prince Leopold was announced to France in a valid manner and officially accepted by the Spanish government. There could be no doubt as to its genuineness. Nevertheless, the Paris newspapers, almost without exception, clamored for war. Chancellors were called upon to state their attitude, and the emperor himself, like Robert Michels, in the Constituent, expressed his pleasure at the prospect of peace, and declared himself satisfied, was insulted on the subject. Gambetta shouted at him: 'You are satisfied? What a base expression! Copies of his newspapers were stolen from the news stands, thrown into the river, buried in his face. Emile de Grandville wrote to him: 'The opportunity is unique, unexplored; if the empire misses it, the empire is lost!'

Voices like this also, which are not unique either in France or England, must be added as evidence that the gulf is not over. "Mistaken, but Not Guilty." Our political and diplomatic operations in the course of decades were not, it must be admitted, faultlessly conceived or executed. But where we made mistakes they were caused invariably by the too great desire to maintain world peace. Such mistakes do not constitute guilt.

As I mentioned elsewhere, I even considered the Congress of Berlin a mistake, for it made our relations with Europe worse. The Congress was a victory for Russia, an Anglo-Russian victory over Germany. Yet, think of all that has been done since then to make up with Russia! I have partly enumerated these in my memoirs. Bismarck's sole intention in bringing about the Congress of Berlin was, as I have pointed out, the prevention of a general war, and also, who had strict orders from the war cannot be put upon us simply because our opponents profited by our mistakes. Bismarck had the blame for the war, but he was not to blame for the war cannot be put upon us simply because our opponents profited by our mistakes. Bismarck had the blame for the war, but he was not to blame for the war cannot be put upon us simply because our opponents profited by our mistakes.

Red Deer Are Plentiful
In Ontario This Season

By BEN C. ROBINSON.

THE first flushes of a late summer dawn were streaking the eastern sky over the spruce and yellow pine of the blind river marsh across from where the canoe containing Jack Ryan and myself drifted on the oily swell of the lake.

I was rigging up a large reel with three hundred feet of copper wire, preparatory to the morning's fishing for the game trout for which the lake is noted. We were far away from the haunts of man, hunted deer, and the bush, as I had hoped to be after a heated, brain-fagged spell of town life down in "the States," and I was happy.

As I finished running the wire through the last guide on the reel, Jack touched me on the arm. I looked up, and silently the guide pointed toward the grey-green lattice work of the blind river marsh which diverged into the lake a few hundred yards to our left. A wide opening in the shore, where waters high, bluff, hard-rock hills covered with as dense a growth of pine, spruce and hemlock as any man would want to see, gave way to a gap, filled with leaning, stark grey pine that had long since given up the struggle to maintain themselves against the moist, marshy nature of the ground which had resulted from the beaver dams which had been built there in seasons gone by, when these animals had tried to stop up the little river that flowed into the lake at this point.

In this wide, open gap the lush marsh grass grew waist high, and formed a veritable happy feeding ground for the red deer of the north country. I looked, at the guide's direction, toward this little glade in the greenwood shores, and there I saw what I at first supposed to be a canoe paddled stuck upright in the marsh grass close to the shore. On this paddle blade, though, strange to relate, were two abnormally prominent ears. I looked more carefully. There was not a sign of life about this thing, and yet somehow I sensed that wild life was staring at us from the swale.

It was a deer, buck with its head erect, gazing curiously and steadily at the approaching canoe. To save my life I could think of nothing that the deer, first sighted in cover such as that along shore, so closely resembled as a canoe paddle stuck upright in the brush, or high marsh grass of the swale.

There is no movement, and I know of no game belonging to the Great Outdoors that I had observed as either the red deer or the moose watching your canoe from the shore.

"What is it, Jack?" I asked, to make sure.
"A Buck Deer," Ryan replied. "Silently, carefully he is dipping the paddle, and we shot toward the shore. Not a rifle disturbed the waiting, curious deer, and we came within hundred yards before the buck, sporting a beautiful set of antlers, wheeled with that peculiar, sideways flit of the body, and whisking its white flag, bounded off into the bush."

Of all the wild animals of our northern woods, the deer is without doubt the most thoroughly and unmistakably "wild." There is a movement about the startled buck of the northland that suggests the freedom, the grace, the fascination and thrill of the wilderness ways. It is to be noticed in the crashing rush or the lumbering run of the bull moose and the ooww and the peculiar ambling run of the black bear, but there is in the flit of the deer that unexplainable suggestion of utter wildness, untouched in any way by man or by civilization, that most strongly appeals to the person who dwells in towns and cities.

7 MARKET LANE. If you are contemplating building, buy a lot now, for lots in the spring will be in great demand and it is demand that causes the increase. We have lots in all parts of the city and would advise that you see VAUXHALL PARK and FOX BAR SURVEY.

One of our best lots is on the grounds at VAUXHALL PARK on Saturday afternoon with a plan of this survey. Many houses are already built here and the present prices and terms will be greatly increased six months from now.

I am willing to give advice free at any time, and thousands have profited greatly upon accepting it.

$4,750—East near Dundas St., red pressed brick bungalow, with three large bedrooms and three-piece bathroom upstairs, living-room, dining-room and kitchen, furnace and large veranda, and on the right side of the street. The interior is perfect in detail and bound to be a source of comfort to any housewife.

I have six exceptionally good lots in the Maple Grove Survey, the owner of which is willing to sacrifice for immediate cash and will sell one or more at $250 each. Next spring will see a big demand for building lots and I expect a big advance in values in this survey.

$4,600—East, 1½-story red brick, 3 bedrooms, 2 clothes closets and two trunk rooms, 3-piece bathroom, full basement and furnace, gas heater, hydro, gas, water, nicely decorated, veranda, hall, three living-rooms, and dining-room, cement foundation, driveway. Lot 161 feet deep.

$5,200—$2,000 down, Hamilton Rd., 1½-story red brick, 3 bedrooms, 3 clothes closets and 3-piece bathroom, living-room, dining-room, kitchen, full 3-part basement with furnace and laundry tubs, hydro, gas, water, fireplace, decorated, oak stairway, veranda, grade entrance, driveway and garage. Lot 361 feet.

$3,500—Two-story business block in South London, now doing an exceptionally good business; must be sold immediately. Price has been reduced over $2,000 for immediate sale. The store is a hot water heater, now rented at $40. All new oak fixtures with large new refrigerator, weighing scales, etc., also gas tank goes. The store is a hot water heater and at this price is an exceptionally good buy.

BAPTISTS CALL FOR REVISIONS
IN PENAL CODE

Delegates At Toronto Convention Advocate Closer Cooperation of Prohibitionists.

O. T. A. IS COMMENDED

Many Important Questions Discussed At Closing Session of Conference.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Vigorous attacks on race track gambling, mixed dancing in high schools and cigarette smoking, commendation of the Ontario temperance act, and advocacy of fair wages for workers, were the outstanding actions of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec in the closing session today.

In the report of the social service committee, which was adopted, reference was made to the split in the prohibition ranks throughout the Dominion, in the following words:

"At the end of last March we had the spectacle of two Dominion temperance bodies presenting differing, and in some respects contrary memorials on prohibition to the Dominion government. Some provision has been made for a conference of these two bodies, though no action has yet been taken."

After stating they were out after Dominion-wide prohibition, the declaration was made that: "Foremost among our immediate demands should be that made of the Dominion government that in any prohibition measure the sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes is forbidden the manufacture of such liquors for beverage purposes should be permitted, and also that there should be consideration of the policy as an act of national goodwill, of prohibiting the exportation of liquor from Canada to the United States."

Condemns Race Track Betting. In regard to the province of Quebec, an attack was made of the system of government control in operation there, on the ground that it "perpetuates the evil and makes us all partners in it."

Taking up the question of betting on race tracks, it was stated: "One of the blot on the life of our Dominion, which, as Christians we should be tireless in seeking to remove, is that the statutes of our Dominion legalize the business of betting on race tracks. We are convinced that neither heavy taxation or receipts from the business, nor any other method of toleration can deal adequately with this wrong, but only making it a crime as the business in other places than on race tracks, and as it was in Canada up to the year 1910. We would urge this annual meeting of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec to send forward to the prime minister and the government of the Dominion a strong resolution asking that such amendment be made to the criminal code as will eliminate the provisions which exempt horse race meetings from the prohibition against the carrying on of gambling as a business."

Attacks Mixed Dancing. A strong appeal against war was made in which the statement was put forth that: "The militarist spirit is all too prevalent among us. There is great need that the churches be more persevering in preaching peace and peace, and we must not only preach it, we must seek peace and pursue it. We must untiringly assert our Christian conscience against war."

Rev. Dr. W. T. Graham of Toronto, chairman of the social service committee, led an attack on mixed dancing in the high schools, and the convention adopted a resolution strongly protesting against the continuance of this practice on the school premises, with the concurrence of the school authorities.

A resolution was also adopted, pointing out that cigarette smoking is on the increase among boys and girls, and urging upon the pastors, the Sunday school superintendents and the teachers the necessity of constantly instructing the young in the evil effects of the use of the cigarette.

The report of the home mission board, presented by Rev. H. C. Schutt, stated that next year was to see a tremendous increase in church expansion, as many churches had postponed their building operations until next spring in the hope of better prices. The financial statement

Fined $200 For Burying
Liquor in Cellar

Special to London Advertiser. GALT, Oct. 26.—For having liquor, illegally secured, buried in his cellar, Alexander Storey was fined $200 and costs in the Preston police court this morning, with the alternative of three months in jail.

Storey maintained that while living in Hamilton he had secured the liquor legally from Montreal, and announced his intention of appealing the court's decision.

O. A. C. LIVE STOCK
SALE NETS $8,000

Breeders and Dealers Present From All Parts of Province.

Special to London Advertiser.

GUELPH, Oct. 26.—The annual sale of surplus livestock at the Ontario Agricultural College took place this afternoon, with breeders and livestock dealers from all parts of the province present. Although the sale was not as large as some previous ones, it was most successful in every respect, and Professor Wade took away greatly pleased with the prices secured. The sale netted the college a little over $8,000. There were five lots of Shorthorns, which brought an average of $331 per head, the top price being $650 for the two-year-old heifer, College August 10th, purchased by E. T. Stephens of Richmond Hill. C. Currie of Morriston, paid $400 for Roan Lady, O. A. C., an aged cow.

There were three lots of fat cattle, which sold at an average of nine and one-half cents a pound. These were all of high quality, and went to local butchers. Nine Holstein females sold at an average of $113 per head, the top price being $190, paid by C. H. Harris of Rockwood for Margaret Cornucopia 5th.

There were also nine lots of Leicester breeders, 13 lots of Shorthorns, averaging in price from $13 to $17.50, with J. B. Brien of Ridgeway, paying $30 as the top price for a ram lamb.

In 57 lots of Yorkshire swine exceptionally good prices were obtained, averaging in the neighborhood of $60. D. Hart, Woodstock, paid the top price for a sow, $92.50. The average price in 26 lots of Berkshires was $50.

Special to London Advertiser. ST. THOMAS, Oct. 26.—Admitting the theft of a bicycle and some clothing from Charles Swan, Preston Smith, a local youth, was on Thursday morning remanded a week for sentence after a severe lecture by Magistrate Maxwell. Swan informed the police Tuesday night that he recognized parts of his stolen wheel on another machine standing in front of a local theatre. The owner of the wheel declared to the police that it had been purchased from Smith.

LAYING OF ASPHALT has now been completed as far as Princess avenue, and the street will be finished within the next few days, it is expected. The work is reported to be in excellent shape, and adds greatly to the appearance of streets, which have been decidedly unkempt looking the last few years.

TOO MANY cooks spoiled the soup when in a local cafe Thursday night a local man, dissatisfied with his meal, and slightly the worse for wear, stamped into the kitchen and attempted to show the Chinamen how food should be cooked. What looked like the beginning of a race war was quelled by the man's friends, who carried him off.

BUSINESS ASSESSMENTS for next year are practically all made, and the tax slips left with the property holders. The assessments are about the same as last year, it is believed, and complaints will no doubt be few.

Robert McGuire left the city Thursday afternoon in charge of County Constables Hugh Ostrander and William Wardle for Kingston, where he will spend fourteen years for burglary of the home of A. E. O. Boehmer, 2 Albert street, in the early morning of Sept. 12. He was convicted by a supreme court jury at the fall assizes Tuesday, and was sentenced by Mr. Justice Latchford Wednesday.

REPORTS KENT
JAIL IS FILLED

Governor John Davidson States Prison Has 21 Inmates.

Number Will Be Removed To Guelph Reformatory Shortly.

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, Oct. 26.—The Kent County jail is filled to capacity; not another prisoner can be accommodated, according to a statement issued by Governor John Davidson today. There are 21 inmates, including one woman who are serving time for various offences. A number of these will shortly be removed to Guelph prison farm.

Dr. J. W. Rutherford was elected president of the newly-formed Kent County Medical Association following the meeting of the Ontario Medical Association here last night. Other officers are Dr. T. K. Holmes, who is honorary vice-president; Dr. E. C. Rieborough of Chatham, secretary-treasurer. Following the meeting the visiting physicians and surgeons were entertained at the home of Dr. J. W. Rutherford on Wellington street west.

John Watershot of Chatham Gore Township reported to the county police by telephone this afternoon that nine head of cattle were stolen from his farm last evening. The county police are investigating the theft, and also several others where livestock is alleged to have been driven off the farms at night.

MAY ORGANIZE

Detroit Experts Confer With Stratford Man Regarding Utilizing Peat For Fuel.

Special to London Advertiser.

STRATFORD, Oct. 26.—With a view to organizing a company, under whose direction the millions of tons of peat in Ellice Peat Bog can be utilized as cheap fuel, J. Campbell Morrison, M. E., heat expert of Detroit, and Berter R. Hayden, engineer of Detroit, are in the city today conferring with W. W. Camp, a local citizen, who has secured an option on the property. A demonstration will be given by these gentlemen in the MacDonald Thresher Company factory tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. It is figured that the peat can be produced for $2.50 a ton at the plant, which can be operated 300 days a year.

Following the recent decision of the park board, to build tennis courts along the river, plans are under way for the formation of a tennis club. At the next meeting of the park board, representatives of the proposed club will meet the board.

The local police today are endeavoring to secure information as to the identity of a motorist, at present unknown, who collided with Dr. J. P. Rankin, M. P., at 11:45 last night, and then sped away from the scene of the accident at a fast pace.

The accident occurred at the corner of Erie and Cambria streets, one of the most dangerous intersections in the city. Dr. Rankin was going west on Cambria street, and the unknown driver was speeding south on Erie street. The force of the collision knocked Dr. Rankin's car right up on the boulevard, and badly bent the hydrant at the corner.

With the completing of Erie and Huron street highways, police today issued a warning against motor speeding.

BULLET WOUNDS

William Ferris Accidentally Shoots Self While Hunting Near Normandale.

Special to London Advertiser.

SIMCOE, Oct. 26.—William Ferris, aged 16 years, whose widowed mother, Mrs. M. M. Ferris, resides at Turkey Point, died at his brother's home in Normandale last night at 9 o'clock, the result of gunshot wounds inflicted accidentally at Turkey Point yesterday morning at 11:20 o'clock.

The lad was shooting ducks on a neighbor, Clyde Stroger, driving past to the Point. Hailing him, young Ferris requested that he wait until he (Ferris) could secure his gun, and ride to the Point with the driver. According to the story told by deceased, who remained conscious for about two hours, he lifted the fireplace with the muzzle pointed towards himself, when the trigger was accidentally clicked and gunshot entered the unfortunate lad's thigh and abdomen.

He was hurriedly conveyed to his brother's home in Normandale, where Dr. F. E. B. McGilvery attended him, but it was a hopeless case, and the lad expired about 9 o'clock. Deceased had numerous relatives in South Norfolk, all of whom are expert duck hunters. Richard and Charles Ferris of Normandale are brothers. No inquest will be held. The funeral will be held from the residence of his brother, Charles Ferris, Normandale, on Saturday afternoon.
