TWO TESTIFY BRAKE DEFECTIVE ON DEATH CAR

Sidney H. Jones, Former Home Bank Auditor, Is Found Guilty

CAR DRIVER FACES JURY FOR DEATH

Thomas Clare Charged With Manslaughter Following Car Crash.

TURNED SHARPLY

Witnesses Declare Foot Brake
Was Not Working Properly.

The case of Thomas Clare, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Charles Lane, who died from injuries received when a motorcycle on which he was riding was struck by a motor car driven by Clare on the night of June 4, will be in the hands of the jury at 3 o'clock this afternoon, supreme court officials state.

Clare's trial commenced at 9 o'clock this morning before Mr. Justice Riddell, all evidence for the crown being in by 12:10.

Practically every witness who saw the accident stated that Clare who was driving his car south on Waterloo street turned sharply to the left at Hill street, striking Lane's motorcycle at the northeast corner of the street. Two witnesses stated the prisoner would not have struck the motorcycle had he turned past the center of the intersection.

Fourteen witnesses were called by the crown, physicians giving evidence stating that Lane's death was due to injuries received in the accident. Thomas Terry, motor car expert, and Constable Finch both stated the foot brakes on Clare's car were not working properly.

Crown Prosecutor V. A. Sinclair of Tillsonburg stated that the case of Sylvanore Sansone, charged with incest, was concluded at the trial of the case of Thomas Fox will then be tried on a charge of rape, with the manslaughter charge against him being continued to the last of the criminal cases.

Mr. Sinclair prosecuted in the case, while H. R. Cluff acted for the defence.

There were ten farmers, a gardener and a grocer on the jury. They are: Albert Elliott, farmer, North Dorchester; Elsie Haskett, farmer, Widdulph; Malcolm Henderson, farmer, Delaware; Wm. H. Berryhill, farmer, London township; Daniel Campbell, farmer, Lobo; Basil McCandless, grocer, Strathroy; Robert Springett, farmer, London township; F. G. Brook, gardener, London township; R. W. Bogue, farmer, Westminster; John Bogue, farmer, Adelaide; Barker, farmer, Lobo; Archie Leitch, farmer, Exford.

Hubert C. McBride, architect, was the first witness called by the crown, stating he saw the motorcycle and car had lights on. He didn't know the position of the car.

Questioned by Mr. Cluff, counsel for defence, Brown said he had heard Lane was 17 years of age. He stated Clare had visited him in the hospital, but they had not talked of that accident particularly.

John Riches, 106 Waterloo street, said Clare's car took a sharp turn for the east at Waterloo and Hill streets and ran into the motorcycle a car's length off Hill street. The motor car gave no warning or signal, witness declared. He would have heard it had there been one.

Brown was living on the sidewalk. Please See Page 9, Column 4.

Why I Shall Vote O.T.A.

T. H. YULL,
President of the Federal Advertising Agency and President of the London
Kiwanis Club.

"I am voting for the O. T. A. because I am convinced that every retailer in the province has benefited from it by having turned into his cash register money which previously went for liquor.

"I am greatly impressed with the statement of a long list of manufacturers, who were asked three specific questions as to the effect of the O. T. A. on their employees and who were all overwhelmingly in favor of the act, claiming that it operated beneficially in every way.

"Another factor is the increased prosperity of the working people since the act came into force, as demonstrated by their becoming investors and owning their own homes to a large extent and having savings accounts as well.

"A final and clinching reason why I am going to vote for the O. T. A. is that, witnessing the so-called government control in Manitoba, Quebec and British Columbia, I am assured personally that the alleged remedy is no solution of the problem, but rather renders it only more acute."

Prince Dances To Early Hour

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Oct. 14.—Upwards of one hundred young society people attended the dinner dance at the exclusive Saddle and Cycle Club, where the Prince of Wales was a guest last night. The prince, introduced to the guests very informally and during the course of the evening danced at least once with nearly all the young women present. At 12:30 the dance was still in progress, and it was announced that the prince's special train, which had been scheduled to depart at 12:30 o'clock for Detroit, would not leave until 3:30 in order to give him a longer stay at the party.

SANITARY CONDITIONS IN CITY IMPROVING

Inspector Sanders Finds Better Facilities Employed in All Places.

Sanitary conditions in London are improving, according to R. H. Sanders, medical officer of health. During September, he made 823 inspections of all sorts of private and business establishments, and reports better conditions generally.

Barbers are doing away with old-style hair brushes and up-to-date, sanitary equipment is being used. Only one laundry was found to be below the requirements. The proprietor was told to "clean up or he would be closed up." Owners of stables have generally promised to cooperate in carrying out the by-law, and plumbing connections are being bettered throughout the city.

Reports are rife in some sections of the city regarding downtown restaurants. One yarn was a regular "wildcat" story, it being charged that backyard cat was served up as chicken stew and in meat pie. The report was found to be absolutely groundless.

Only one restaurant was found to lack necessary attention in the kitchen and cellar. The owner was warned to clean up the place. A noticeable improvement has been made, Mr. Sanders says, in the handling of produce by one wholesale butcher. Very little had not been discovered this season.

Fruits exposed for sale are not receiving the right attention, Mr. Sanders points out. However, grocers have brought up-to-date business places and fruiterers and candy men have seen the worth of clean establishments.

Hoteles are sanitary. Ice cream manufacturers have comparatively faultless means of handling their production.

DIRIGIBLE CHANGES TO NORTH LANE

Direct Course From Azores to
U. S. Taken by Giant Zeppelin.

WEATHER GOOD

Airship Expected To Reach Destination Early Tomorrow Morning.

Associated Press Despatch.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Apparently having switched from a previously planned southern route by way of Bermuda, the giant airship ZR-3 today was steering a bee-line course across the Atlantic from the Azores Islands to Lakehurst, N. J., in its flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Word that the dirigible was following a direct course to its hangar at Lakehurst was received by the navy department here early today in a delayed message from Capt. George W. Steel, United States naval officer on board. The message, sent after the air cruiser had passed over the Azores yesterday afternoon, said she was then running with only three of her six engines, to save fuel, and was averaging a 48-knot speed.

Officials at the department estimated that if the favorable flying conditions forecasted for the next 24 hours obtain, and all goes well on the airship, she would reach the morning mast of her new home station at Lakehurst some time between 6 and 11 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It was presumed the department had the decision to steer a direct course from the Azores was reached as a result of a favorable weather forecast for the more northerly passage.

CAUTION RULES ISSUED.

Zeppelin Hangar, Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N.J., Oct. 14.—Drastic safeguards against possible inflammation and explosion of the hydrogen-inflated ZR-3 went into force at this station today at orders of Acting Commander M. R. Pierce.

From now until the giant dirigible arrives and can be emptied of the treacherous gas which bore her here, every lesson taught by the tragic fates of her predecessors, the R-38, the Roma and the Dixmude will be kept in mind by every man on Lakehurst field.

Some of the new rules are:

"No smoking by anybody on landing field while ZR-3 is on the field. No smoking any place in hangar, shops or offices opening directly into hangar.

"No automobiles, nor aeroplanes to enter hangar. Aircraft engines not to be run in hangar until satisfactory ventilation has been provided.

"Flashlights not to be used in hangar. Gas light, miners' lamps, will be permitted.

"No one will go aloft except when wearing rubber shoes. Men going aloft are cautioned of danger of sparks from tools."

Canadian Press Despatch.
Prince Rupert, B.C., Oct. 14.—Addressing a luncheon audience here yesterday under the auspices of the board of trade, Premier King described the recent imperial conference in London as an assembly of the representatives of free peoples for the discussion of common problems, without anything binding on any of the dominions. Referring to the exchange of ratifications of the halibut treaty between Canada and the United States without the signature of the British ambassador, the premier said the tendency was becoming more common to have the dominions act for themselves, independently of Great Britain, where matters of purely dominion concern were involved.

CAPT. HOLT WILL CONTEST

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Oct. 14.—The Liberals of the Epton division of West Ham will support Captain Holt, Conservative, son of Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, Montreal, in the fight in that constituency. CAMPAIGN WARMS UP

Every Effort Being Made to Oust the MacDonald
Government.

Associated Press Despatch.

London, Oct. 14.—Labor's chance of success at the polls on Oct. 29 are seriously affected by agreements between Conservative and Liberal associations in steadily growing numbers not to put up candidates against each other where supporters of the MacDonald government are standing. The conclusion of such an agreement in Paisley, in Mr. Asquith's favor, has been followed by wholesale agreements in Glasgow, where thirteen Conservatives and two Liberals are engaging in straight fights against labor. In Mr. Asquith's case a prospective Conservative opponent has been wooed by the constituency for about a year, but he has now transferred his political activities to the neighboring constituency of Renfrew.

Sir Donald MacLean, president of the Scottish Liberal federation, in an equally accommodating spirit, has relinquished his candidature in the Kilmarnock division of Ayr and Bute, and has gone as far as Cardiff, the commercial capital of Wales, in search of a constituency. The successful candidate in Kilmarnock last year when Sir Donald MacLean ran there in the Liberal interests, was R. Clime, Labor.

In two Portsmouth ridings represented in the late parliament by Conservatives, there is a somewhat different situation. The Liberals have decided not to run candidates there, and the Labor party hope to benefit in consequence.

Notwithstanding the almost invulnerable conservatism of the city of London, where there are two seats, the Liberals have decided to contest both seats.

Opposition will be offered to Lloyd George in Carnarvon by Professor A. E. Zimmer of New College, Oxford, in the Labor interests. Dr. Christopher Addison, a former Liberal and minister of health in the Lloyd George coalition government, 1919-21, will fight the Conservative member for South Hammersmith in the late parliament, Sir William Bull, as a Labor candidate.

HOME BANK AUDITOR IS CONVICTED

Sidney H. Jones Found Guilty on a Charge of Negligence.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Maximum Penalty Provided in Case of Conviction Is Three Years.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 14.—Sidney H. Jones, former auditor of the Home Bank of Canada, which failed in August, 1922, was found guilty today by Senior County Judge Emerson Coatsworth on the charge of negligence in regard to the statement of the bank's condition furnished to the federal minister of finance.

Sentence was deferred as in the case of Ocean G. Smith, former chief accountant of the defunct institution, who was found guilty on a similar charge two weeks ago. It is noted that Jones is found guilty of negligence, but not of wilful making and use of a false statement.

The maximum penalty under the "wilful" clause is five years, while under the ordinary negligence count it is three years.

The judge was severe in his comments. He finds in his judgment that the auditor failed entirely to use the care and caution which the shareholders' representative should have exercised.

"In fact," said his honor, "had he been employed by these in charge of the business transactions of the bank to protect them from the prying eyes of shareholders, he could not more effectively have acted as their screen."

Might Have Saved Bank.

Judge Coatsworth says that if Jones had applied the test to the yearly statement of the bank, the most important document coming before him, he might have detected the warning of a bank disaster, or at least ended the methods which led to its ruin.

He finds also that there was enough in the branch and liability returns to warn him of the reckless manner in which the funds and the business of the bank were being handled.

His honor intended to hear some of the cases of the directors before he hands out the penalty on the convicted officials. At the conclusion of the verdict the judge said that it is to be regretted that the auditor must be found guilty, but under the circumstances a verdict of guilty on the negligence count is the least that could be found.

His honor remarks that Jones should never have taken the post of auditor of the bank, but that, having taken it, he was responsible for the position.

Judge Coatsworth read his decision when the court opened this morning in the case of Lieut.-Col. Clarence W. Smith and others, the first of the directors to be tried.

Dealing with an objection raised that the accused did not send the statement of the bank's condition to the directors, and that because of this the crown's case failed, Judge Coatsworth said:

"I rule that the truth or falsity of the statement is the real issue and the charge sheet is sufficient."

Elected Shareholders' Auditor.

Commenting on Jones' position as auditor, his honor says:

"The accused was in 1914 elected as 'shareholders' auditor' for the Home Bank.

"The evidence before me did not disclose upon what grounds the bankers' association saw fit to recommend to the minister of finance as one deemed by them to be competent," the accused who was then about 30 years of age, and according to his own testimony, "a young man with training as an auditor, having been a clerk of a college."

"In my view he should not have been recommended for the position of bank auditor, and ought not to have taken it, but when he did so assumed the full responsibilities attached by law to a shareholders' auditor."

GOVERNMENT SALE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

(One of a series of twenty articles following impartial investigation of government sale of liquor as practised in Manitoba, Alberta, British Columbia and Quebec.)

UNPOPULAR B.C. LIQUOR LAW
ALMOST KILLS GOVERNMENT

Oliver's Party Suffers Near Defeat As Result of Law Forced Upon Them When Public Shows Resentment Against Conditions Following Government Sale.

POLICE HEAD WARNS AGAINST SYSTEM

ARTICLE NO. 15.
British Columbia has a new Conservative leader in the person of R. H. Pooley, a lawyer practicing in Victoria, but representing the provincial riding of Esquimalt. I conversed with Mr. Pooley in his office. Mr. Pooley is successor to Mr. Bowser in the Conservative leadership. The general impression here is that with another leader than Mr. Bowser the Conservatives would have carried the province last June. But many Conservatives who did not like Mr. Bowser went into the formation of a new party, called the Provincial party, which only elected three members but seriously split the vote. As it was the government had a close call and both the premier and Mr. Bowser were defeated.

The association with liquor interests which the people's vote for government control forced upon the Oliver party is blamed for the government's decline. Temperance people say that anyone who has any regard for the good of his own party will keep it away from the government control system.

The new Conservative leader explained to me that he had been against his party when it had supported prohibition. He was sorry to say that politics had crept into the enforcement of the government control law and that present conditions were bad. He cited the case of a scow tied up to the government wharf at Prince Rupert, to which some 40 fishing craft moored at one time when he was there. Liquor was openly sold on the wharf. Fishermen were "rolled" before they got ashore. While he looked on, a fight between several tipy men had occurred on the scow. He had raised the matter in the legislature and the government acted. But things were going on now as before.

Eighteen "Shabeens."
In his own riding of Esquimalt 18 "shabeens" or bootleggers got their supplies from one brewery and had hundreds of customers. Local authorities failed to move and the provincial police stepped in. That showed that the government could not take shelter behind the municipal police and blame non-enforcement on them. It could act in any place where the law was not being enforced and could charge the cost up to the municipality.

Mr. Pooley mentioned three places close to his office where bootlegging went on in spite of government control. He said many drinking men were willing to pay a little more to the bootlegger if they could have sociability along with their liquor. He denied the truth of government contentions that the delivery of beer was monopolized by the government. He said that someone would arrange with the government to get a barrel of beer. The government store would phone the brewery, which in turn would notify the customer. And the customer might tell the brewery to increase the order to two or three barrels. Only one barrel would appear on the records, although the government had inspectors on the job. None of the beer supplied by the 18 Esquimalt bootleggers appeared on the records.

The Conservative leader declared that during the recent Nelson by-election, in which Premier Oliver had secured a seat, several ministers had gone into the riding, and the liquor law had been violated on all sides, government members being among the offenders.

Mr. Pooley has long condemned the use of stool pigeons by the government in seeking convictions, which continues under the government control law, as formerly under prohibition.

Anglican Clergyman's View.
I heard many opinions, pro and con, about government control in British Columbia, but none more interesting than that of an Anglican clergyman, Rev. A. H. Sovereign, of St. Mark's church.

Mr. Sovereign is a young looking and vigorous man, almost belying the fact that he has been longer in harness in Vancouver than any other minister. He has been working there for eighteen years, and this year was honored by his brethren of all denominations by being chosen as president of the ministerial association of Greater Vancouver. He has intact a cultured English accent. His reputation is that of a broad-gauged man, not given to fanaticism, who would judge on its merits any system of dealing with the liquor problem that might be tried. Here is the verdict of Mr. Sovereign:

"The system is simply not working; it is not controlling. Bootlegging is very prevalent. The debauchery in the hotels, where women and liquor are taken, is terrible and the hotels and police cannot stop it. Men who only want a liquor and soda are compelled by the system to buy a whole quart of liquor and take it home. Bootlegging is worse than it was under prohibition. "The government has located a liquor store for the Chinese in the Chinese section. It has located another one for sale to loggers, miners and fishermen. Anytime the loggers' boat is about to pull out from the Union Steamships' wharf, drunken men lie around on all sides. On one occasion out of more than 100 loggers going north on the steamer only two were sober.

Had to Guard Girls.
"Three weeks ago I brought back from the north a lot of girls who had been attending a girls' camp. There were so many drunken men around the Union Steamships' wharf that I simply had to stay on the job to save the girls from molestation.

"The export warehouses are largely to blame for the conditions, for they supply the illicit trade. Attorney-General Manson told the ministers that there was no holding the brewers; that they paid no attention to anything but a big club.

"Personally, I would like to see continental prohibition tried for a ten-year period to see whether that is not the best method available. Until now prohibition has not had a fair trial."

Government Controller Talks.
The task of controlling the sale of liquor in British Columbia is largely in the hands of Chairman A. Johnson of the liquor control board, with headquarters in Victoria. He is a man who flashes a ready answer to any question.

"What is your greatest difficulty in enforcing the law?" I asked. "Bootlegging."

"Why do men go to the bootlegger when it is so easy to get good liquor from the government?" "They want conviviality and sociability, and will go behind a grocery store, a candy counter or into some dive to get it. They also like to do the thing that is forbidden. It's more than the liquor they want."

"Does that suggest that Quebec has the best system of government control?" "No, it's all a matter of nationality, temperament, environment. Quebec is French and used to that sort of thing. What may suit Quebec may be all wrong for Ontario or Alberta."

Mr. Johnson said Dr. Butler, the well-known American educationist, had been to see him and had said that he wanted to devise a really constructive liquor policy for the United States.

"I told him he had bitten off more than he could chew," observed Mr. Johnson. "That I wondered whether there was any solution or measure of a constructive tendency."

British Columbia's liquor control chairman is credited with saying that the brewers can't play fair, that "give the brewers a bung and they'll want a whole barrel. Open but a crack of a door and they'll push in and take possession of your whole house as they are doing in B. C."

Police Commissioner's Opinion.
I had an interesting talk with Robert (Sandy) McPherson, the new police commissioner in Vancouver, appointed by the government in response to the public demand for a clean-up. Many years ago he was a Labor member of the legislature, although he told me that he had been connected with the Liberal party during most of his 35 years in Vancouver. Mr. McPherson is a quiet-spoken man of character, with a Presbyterianian contempt for humbug.

When I told Mr. McPherson that Ontario was to vote on government control and that my mission was to find how the system into the new police commissioner's eye.

"There's no control about it," he declared. "You can buy all you want. Go to a government liquor office and you can get $100 worth or more. It's not government control, but government sale."

"Is there much drunkenness?" "Quite a lot."

"How about the social evil in Vancouver?" "Bad."

"Would you advise Ontario to adopt government control as you have it in B. C.?" "I would not."

In interviews with local papers Mr. McPherson said a wave of crime was sweeping Vancouver, the city was wide open, bootlegging and disorderly houses flourished, and that some raids appeared to have been tipped off. Just before I reached Vancouver an Italian accused of bootlegging charged that police frequented his club and got free beer. Commissioner McPherson is agitating for a real clean-up. At his instigation the Vancouver police commission is urging that the long horse racing season be curtailed.

"THE FIRST YEAR"
A LAUGH-MAKER

Grand Offers Comedy On Married Life—Its Troubles and Pleasures.

No theatre manager or critic could make a mistake in recommending Frank Craven's "The First Year," as this is the Grand Opera house last as a cheerful tonic to the world at large.

Not for years has such a merry, happy, laughter-compelling comedy as this been offered to London theatre-goers. From the first curtain to the lowering of the last, from the courting in the first act to the healing of the quarrel between the young husband and wife but a year married, the audience laughed and enjoyed itself immensely.

There has not been such a genuinely humorous comedy of married life written and played in many seasons. There's a jolly, healthy chuckle in every line. It's as infectious as love in spring. It's the turning back of youth's happiest days, and turned by the mature fingers of a man who knows humanity from preface to postscript. The benefit of being the comedy produced by the same company which played the "First Year" for a year in New York, and the best that the clever little play is brought out. It's sly sallies are given their proper value, and it's undercurrent of dry philosophy is maintained throughout the three acts.

Real Love Working.
It is the story of the courting and first year of married life of two youthful country swains. The husband is in the small town in Illinois, and in Joplin, Mo., where the love nest of the Tuckers is built. The vicissitudes of the "Tommy" Tuckers in their attempts to keep up a tiny fire on the real estate earnings of the husband, of a wonderful deal, which he eventually succeeds in putting over, and the various minor incidents as most of them do from nothing, but nerves and worry, and of the reunion in the home of the bride's father, and the delicate shadow of another life, are all touched with the wand of magician, with quiet humor and a quaint wistful appeal, which balances the laughs now and then with a threatened tear, soon to be lost in another smile.

Bert Chapman, as Tommy Tucker, the indomitable yokel who turns from his small estate business into a man of means overnight by a brilliant coup, but who is so much better as a businessman than a lover, and Lucille Sargent, as Grace Livingston, the daughter of the country town merchant, who wants to rise in the world and "travel to London and see a dear and completely adorable figure, share the honors of the play. They are so well suited to their parts that one imagines Mr. Craven knew them beforehand and wrote the story after.

Play Well Received.
Then there is Mary Marble as Hattie, the colored maid engaged by the young couple as maid to wait at dinner on the evening when two most painful moments are expected. She proves herself a comedian in a class by herself. She makes a wonderful colored maid. If she was real, and attended to her duties as a maid, their worries would be less.

John P. Braun as Mr. Livingston, a typical merchant in a "nowhere town," and Stella Boniface Weaver as Mrs. Livingston, his wife, just as much married, but without having lost the attraction of youth and drolery in each act.

Ray L. Royce as Dr. Anderson, a country practitioner of the old school, with a well-matured view of life, and still interested in the affairs of young people, gave a finished performance of a type all too rapidly passing away.

Paul McGrath as Dick Loring, an unsuccessful suitor, and Earl McMillan, and Mr. Jeffery as Mr. and Mrs. Barstow, visitors at the home of the Tuckers, rounded out the performance with well played parts.

The play was exceptionally well received last night and the constant claps of laughter were proof of the fun in the play and the genuineness of the players.

Re-Draft Plumbing Bylaw.
On the motion of Alderman Douglas a recommendation was made that the city council hold a special meeting with the board in order to conclude re-drafting of the plumbing bylaw. A session of the two bodies met and interested folk were held last month but the bylaw was not completed. The health board is pressing that the plumbing status be put in shape before the 1924 council passes from power.

Chairman C. Mitchell and Dr. Downham were named as delegates of the board to attend the annual convention of the American public health association at Detroit on October 21, 22 and 23.

Dr. Downham called attention to the fact that the departmental year closes the end of this month and annual reports for the provincial department will have to be sent in within a few weeks' time.

Reports for August and September were presented by Dr. Downham, by Plumbing Inspector Young, by Dr. Tamin, Inspector of Doses and Milk, by Sanitary Inspector Sanders and on tuberculosis and on communicable diseases.

The action of the exchange was precipitated by the financial difficulties of various houses some time ago, and Mr. Smith is of the opinion that compulsory auditing will prove more satisfactory than the questionnaire plan of the New York stock exchange.

54 Not Elderly
Judge Declares

A man is only as old as he feels, and sometimes not that ancient, W. B. Henderson, one of London's younger lawyers, considers that fifty-four is an elderly age, but His Lordship Mr. Justice Riddell does not believe it.

Bringing out evidence in a damage action at the courthouse yesterday afternoon, Mr. Henderson asked a witness if he could not see that the woman ahead of him was elderly.

"You can't judge these days," Mr. Henderson, reminded Jared Vining, counsel for defence. "I wouldn't call fifty-four elderly," declared his lordship, "and I don't think the jury men would either," he added, gazing at the bald head of one of the "twelve good men and true."

CANADIAN WILDS
FEATURED IN FILM

"Empty Hands" Attraction at Loew's, Filmed in North Country.

A photograph that smacks of the pen of Arthur Stringer's "Empty Hands," a Victor Fleming production for the Paramount corporation, now being shown at Loew's Theatre. The feature film opened a three-day run at Loew's yesterday afternoon and balanced well the lighter offerings on the bill.

Jack Holt and Norma Shearer take leading parts in the thrilling film tale of Canadian wilds and New York society life. In fact the picture is very strongly a two-part affair, though the supporting cast offers some light comedy that is closely linked with the story itself. The plot concerns chiefly enforced banishment from civilization, by reason of their becoming lost in the heart of the Canadian wilds, of a young mining engineer and the gay young daughter of his employer.

Fortunately they find themselves with sufficient courage to pass the horror and the hero of the story, like Robinson Crusoe, has a sword, a knife with him. He, a serious, resourceful, and a living out of the doors, finds his ideals challenged by the pretty, yet flippant, young thing with whom he is forced to face the task of getting out of the bush for many months. Cupid comes to shatter the high stone walls of dislike, the society maid is transformed and the climax is a real bit of film art.

Nace and Carlyle open the vaudeville half of the bill with a pleasant song and piano offering. The two girls have personality and their work is appreciated.

Crest and Carrell glow over the hilarity of most everyone in the house when they come through with their basketful of parodies.

Quite a treat is the "bow-wow" study of Alfred Lattell, who appears with Elsie Vokes. Lattell, disguised as a grown-up bulldog, puts a wonderful and a little touch to all his limitations, and the skit has strength.

In the Pathe news film this half of the week, there are some good pictures of the Prince of Wales and Montserrat. The appreciation of movie audiences for pictures of Prince Edward is marked.

Hal Roach's short comedy film "Political Pull" present the noted "Spot Family" in another comic tragedy.

HERBERT WILCOX DIES
AT CLIFTON SPRINGS

Well-Known London Businessman Victim of Nervous Breakdown.

Herbert S. Wilcox, prominent businessman of London, a member of the firm of Benson-Wilcox Electric Company, Limited, died at Clifton Springs, New York, early yesterday afternoon. Mr. Wilcox enjoyed a large circle of friends, and many Londoners will mourn the loss of this leading citizen.

Mr. Wilcox had been ill since January, 1923, when he suffered a nervous breakdown, and since that time had never enjoyed good health. He went to Florida last winter, thinking that the climate and the rest would prove of benefit to him. He regained some of his former good health, but was again stricken about three months ago. Since that time he had been in Clifton Springs, Mrs. Wilcox was with her husband at the time of his death, having gone there several weeks ago, when he took a turn for the worse.

He was born in Bridport, Vermont, in 1869, to Edwin and Francis Wilcox. His early education was received in the public schools of Vermont and New York, but his parents moved to Tiltonburg, Ontario, when he was 15, entering the grocery business. In 1890, Mr. Wilcox entered the employ of D. S. Perrin and Company as a traveller. In 1901 he became the agent of a manufacturing concern in London.

Hydro had just made its entrance into London in 1910, when Mr. Wilcox and Mr. Benson started the firm of Benson & Wilcox, electrical supplies and contractors. They were one of the first firms carrying on this type of business in London, and were many of the largest buildings in the city.

He was a member of Mocha Temple and the Rotary Club. His wife, formerly Miss Edith M. Waite, survives.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

JUDGMENT ON CROW'S NEST

Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, Oct. 13.—Judgment of the railway commissioners in the Crow's Nest Pass rates is expected this week. According to current gossip, the decision of the board will probably not be unanimous.

LEW KELLY'S PUP
STILL ROLLS OVER

Roger and Dope Continue To Delight Burlesque Patrons.

Lew Kelly, the renowned "Dope" of burlesque, is at the Majestic Theatre for the first half of this week. With him is his faithful pup Roger and a burlesque company.

We mention the dog before the company for reasons of sentiment. We first saw this bound of the dope fiend's fertile imagination perform some 15 years ago. From time to time since we have seen him roll over and do his other little tricks, and so feel more or less attached to him.

There is no doubt that Mr. Kelly is one of the most original humorists in burlesque. His every word, gesture and facial expression shows how thoroughly he has mastered the role he has chosen. His imitations never get within grasping distance of his material.

Nor has he had to change his lines to hold his following. He still goes up in the balloon. He still drives a horse across the ocean. He still gets tired he gets out to walk. His imagination still soars. Roger still rolls over at the command of the master, and Lew Kelly still whispers secretly in his ear in order to teach a dog tricks one must know more than the dog.

The humor in the world and vague imaginings of Fuller Hoppas, as Kelly chooses to call himself, is not altogether in exaggeration. His stories are whoopers. They are wild ravings, but in among mental lapses are spread some shrewd observations that strike home.

In the scene entitled "Mrs. Johnson's Husband," Mr. Kelly and Miss Gertrude Lynch pass some snappy backyard gossip from one front porch to the other. A mock trial wherein Fuller Hoppas is on trial for murdering Truth carries a liberal measure of fun. A revival meeting, a travesty on giving testimony, was funny. In fact, every time Lew Kelly stopped into the scene, whether as a sailor or a racehorse track tout he had as many laughs as Kellar had cards.

Dot La Mont offers two good specialty turns. Her treatment of the rustic proved her a clever eccentric comedienne, while her scarecrow dance was one of the bright bits of the bill.

There is but one singer in the cast. She is a nameless but attractive girl who with her sister chorus girls opened the second act. She should graduate to a place among the principals at an early date, for the production needs a voice to strengthen it.

JUDGE SNIDER TO PROBE
CHARGES BY SETTLE

Created Commissioner Under Public Inquiries Act.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Oct. 13.—An order-in-council was passed by the Ontario government today formally appointing Judge Snider of Hamilton, a commissioner under the public inquiries act, to inquire into the matters contained in the letter written by E. Clarence Settall, former secretary to Sir Adam Beck, to his former chief.

With this official authority, Judge Snider will tomorrow take first steps toward the proceedings of inquiry into the Settall letter and probably will commence by visiting Settall at Hamilton to ascertain what bases there are for the allegations and if Settall has anything to substantiate them.

Although nothing of an official nature has been forthcoming it is understood that the proceedings will be very brief and that there is a likelihood of Settall withdrawing his letter.

WOMEN and THE HOME

POLITENESS IN OTHERS MAY BE INSPIRED—JULIA HOYT

Children Should Not Be Taught Suspicion of Behavior of Others.

EXPECT RESPECT

By JULIA HOYT.

In a recent article I said that in my opinion one generally receives what one expects. Isn't it true that if you look at someone with the expectancy of impertinence or rudeness in your eyes the idea may be put in the head of the person addressed. It is also true that many have been taken aback and deterred from their originally intended behavior by meeting the expectancy of something totally different. It sounds rather sentimental, yet I believe that many have been inspired to do the nice thing by coming in contact with someone who takes it for granted that they are going to be nice.

Why are most people straight and kindly with children? Not because they of necessity love children, not because they particularly care what happens to them. It is because the implicit confidence of the child in their goodness and kindness inspires in them a self-respect, a desire to prove that the child is not wrong in its confidence, a desire, in other words, to live up to that unexpressed belief in them.

Inspire What You Want.

Very much of the same thing can occur between adults. Expect politeness, consideration or respect from someone, who, as a rule, meets with suspicion and defensiveness and you will very often surprise and inspire them into giving you the thing which you expect.

Don't form quick conclusions of people from their superficial and outward appearance. "A good slogan, I do not generally do this, but I had a rather amusing example some weeks ago of how mistaken one can be when one does it. I picked up a taxi in the middle of the afternoon, and as I looked at the chauffeur, I said to myself, "Well, if I were taking this man late at night I might feel a little nervous." His outward appearance was certainly that of one of the thugs one reads about.

On the way down to my house, however, I got into conversation with him and very soon he was telling me in detail about his wife and two little boys and his many extremely sensible ideas on the bringing-up of children.

Appearances Deceitful.

He was one of the nicest men I had met in a long time and it brought home to me again the absurdity of forming superficial opinion. Here was a man who through being unshaven, wearing no collar, etc., undoubtedly looked the part of a thug; instead, he was a home-loving, intelligent and kindly father.

I think that sometimes parents make a mistake in bringing up their children to be suspicious of the intentions and probable behavior of others towards them. We are bound to have disappointments, no matter what our attitude may be, but nothing can convince me that confidence in a person's better self will not, in the long run, gain more than an expectation of bad things and the so-called "chip on the shoulder" in one's attitude.

CLUB NEWS

MOTHERS HEAR DR. BARKER.

The Central collegiate auditorium was filled to the last seat for the meeting called yesterday afternoon by the London Rotary club for the mothers of London. The speaker was Dr. Charles Barker of Grand Rapids, Mich., eminent health authority and health advisor to ex-President Taft of United States for a number of years. His subject was the story of life and how it should be told to small children.

Hooty the Great Horned Owl Hunts at Night For a Dinner

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Hooty the Great Horned Owl was hungry. For most of the day he had slept. Now he impatiently waited for jolly, round, red Mr. Sun to go to bed behind the Purple Hills and for the Black Shadows to come creeping through the Green Forest. It was bed time for most of the little people of the Green Forest, and Hooty the Owl, with them he can hear the faintest sounds, sounds that you can't hear with your ears. With-out those wonderful ears Hooty would not live long he wouldn't be able to get food enough.

Just as Hooty was settling for his little feathered and furred neighbors, who slept through the night, to get settled and doze off. He was waiting for his little furred neighbors, who like himself, prefer night to day, to start out hunting for food. The Black Shadows came hurrying faster and faster through the Green Forest, and it grew darker and darker. Hooty's big eyes grew bigger and bigger. Perhaps I should say that the centers of the green wider and wider. They are eyes made for seeing at night.

At last Hooty decided that it was time to try his favorite trick. He hooted as only he can. It was very still there in the Green Forest, and Hooty's voice was loud and startling. He meant that it should be startling. He knew that if there were any little people who had just gone to sleep anywhere near they would be wakened very suddenly, and they would be almost sure to move. If they moved they would be likely to rustle a leaf or make some other tiny sound as they stirred. His wonderful ears would tell him where that tiny sound was made. Then he would know just where to look with those wonderful eyes.

So the instant he hooted Hooty opened those ears of his very wide and listened with all his might. There was just the faintest rustle of dry leaves as they stirred. On a noiseless wings, for big as they are those wings of Hooty's make no sound when he uses them, he seemed to actually float right over to that Heavy, Clumsy Stones.

New York, Oct. 13.—Heavy, rather clumsy, stones, of the semi-precious sort, have come back. These are made into archaic-looking necklaces, huge earrings, bracelets that look as if they might have come down from the stone age.

Prevent tooth decay below the gum-line

As the soil nourishes the tree roots, the gums nourish the teeth. And as the tree decays if you bare the roots, so do the teeth decay when gum shrinkage starts in. This condition—one of the first stages of Pyorrhea—is very common and something that ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to prevent. If not checked promptly it will lead to loss of teeth and serious organic diseases.

If used in time and used consistently twice daily, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress. It will preserve the gums in their pink, normal, healthy condition, safeguard your health and keep your mouth clean, fresh and wholesome. Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes. Formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S. Can She Stabilize a Gambling Husband?
How to Humiliate an Enemy—Some Advice to Mothers About Winning Their Sons Away From Company of Married Women.

Dear Miss Dix—My husband and I have been married four years and am happy, and have two children. This is my trouble: My husband is a gambler and has a good-paying position, but he is never satisfied. He gets rich quick and to make money gambling, but he has little luck. Now, he has suggested that we sell all the contents of our beautiful five-room apartment and he put the money in bank. He wants me to take the children and go and live with my father and mother on their farm, which is out of town, while he lives in the city cheaply and comes to see me on week-ends. He thinks we can save enough this way to buy a beautiful home and new furniture, but I am sure he would be no more contented in a fine home than he is in our nice apartment. Besides, my father and mother have brought up eight children, who are now all married and gone. My mother is in poor health, and I do not think that I should inflict the noise of my small children on her. Please let me have your opinion. DOUBTFUL WIFE.

Answer:

My earnest advice to you is to sit tight in your apartment and refuse to let your husband sell your furniture and shunt you back on your parents. That is best for you, as well as for him. Evidently he is a man whose wife must be a stabilizer, and who must prevent him from doing the foolish things suggested to him by his erratic fancy.

You are right in not wishing to burden your parents with your children. Rearing one family is enough work for any man and woman. They are entitled to peace in their old age, and their children have no right to disturb this if they can avoid it. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—A certain woman I know hates me and tries to make things disagreeable for me. If we are in the same company she gets every one away from me and gossips with them in corners, and people do not seem to want to cultivate my friendship any longer. I feel embarrassed in a group when she is present. What would you advise? If only you could suggest a good way to get back at her and make her feel as humiliated as she has oftentimes made me feel, I would be always your grateful friend. HUMILIATED.

Answer:

Why, humiliated, it seems to me that you are imagining things. You have got morbid on the subject, and it is your own attitude toward this woman that makes you feel self-conscious and embarrassed when in her presence. Because she talks to people in corners is no indication that she is talking about you. She may have private affairs to discuss with special friends.

Just forget her. Ignore her. Make yourself entertaining and agreeable and she will not take any one away from you.

As for humiliating her and making her ashamed of herself, if she is treating you badly, I'll tell you a sure way to do that. Do something perfectly lovely for her. Show her some special attention. Do her some kindness. Pay her a compliment. Tell her how pretty she looks, how charming her new dress is, what wonderful children she has, how popular she is.

No suffering is like having coals of fire piled on your head. Nothing chagrins you like having an enemy be generous to you. You can't fight back at that. It leaves you helpless. And it is eternally true that a soft answer turns away wrath. Try it. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My son, a fine young man—has always been so strict and careful of his company, but for some time past he has been keeping company with a married woman much older than himself. This woman is compelled to support herself and does not live with her sick husband, who is cared for by paid people. Is it right for her to lure my son into taking her out to lunches and theatres? I am at a loss to know what to do. Please tell me. AN ANXIOUS MOTHER.

Answer:

I presume that a mother in your situation has said everything that is to be said—and then some—to her son about the folly of falling under the spell of an elderly siren and the wickedness of making love to a woman whose husband is still living.

Therefore, my advice is to quit nagging him on the subject, because, under the circumstances, every word you say makes him the victim of his own passion and the more determined to follow his own desire. The only remedy in a case like this is time.

If you let him alone the chances are that he will get tired of her, and some day he will see her wrinkles, and her dyed hair, and her make-believe kittenishness, and he will leave her of his own accord. Ridicule is also a good weapon, but it must come from one of his own age, not you.

Also, it would be advisable to try the counter-attraction of a pretty young girl on him. But if a mother saves her son from a vampire of age and experience she has to do it subtly, not openly. No man takes his mother's advice about his love affairs. DOROTHY DIX.

BIG WAITING LIST AT NURSERY

Thirty Children Are Cared For Daily at Popular Creche on King Street.

The day nursery board met for the first time this season at the Creche, King street, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. C. J. W. Karn presiding. With every month the attendance at this very necessary institution is increasing. The number of children daily looked after is now 30, with a large waiting list, because the Creche is unable to accommodate more. With the increased attendance the supply of bibs, wash cloths, towels, soap, etc., has not been sufficient and the board is making an appeal to the citizens of London for donations along this line. Soap, bibs, and towels are a necessity—and without which 30 children cannot be cared for properly.

To raise money for the nursery the board is planning a rummage sale to be held at the nursery on King street on the evenings of Oct. 24 and 25. And interested friends are being asked to contribute towards it, such contributions to be called for if the nursery is short of anything. The nursery is located at 113 King street, and has been in operation since 1918. It is a very popular institution, and is a great help to many mothers who are unable to care for their children at home.

THE SEA HAWK

By RAFAEL SABATINI.

She looked at him and she seemed to measure him with her unwavering glance.

"You speak of the past?" she echoed, her voice low. "You speak of the past and to me? You dare?" "It is that which I have fetched you all the way from England; that at last I may tell you things I was years ago called to speak of. I could serve by lying to you now. Consider further that I have come to loathe you for your unfaith; that I despise you as much as to punish you for that and for all its bitter consequences to me; that I have brought you hither to exact payment from you for the wrongs you have done me. What then can I serve by falsehood?"

"All this being so, what end could you serve by truth?" she countered.

"To make you realize to the full the injustice that you did. To make you understand the wrongs for which you are called to pay."

"I do not suppose," said he, "that you would care to prevent you from conceiving yourself a martyr; to make you perceive in all its deadly bitterness that what you have done is the inevitable fruit of your own faithlessness."

"I swore to you then that I was not his murderer," he reminded her in a voice that shook.

"And I answered that you lied." "Aye, and on that you dismissed me—the worst of the man whom you professed to love, the man whom you trusted to weigh in for naught with you."

"When I gave you my trust," she retorted, "I did so in ignorance of your true self, of a headstrong willfulness that would not be guided by what all the world said of you and your wild ways. For that blind willfulness I have been punished, as perhaps I deserved to be."

"Lies—all lies!" she stormed. "Those were mine—and God knows they were none so wild, when all is said—I abandoned when I came to love you. No lover since the world began was ever so cleansed, so purified, so sanctified by love as I was!"

"Spare me this at least!" she cried on a note of pleading. "Spare you?" he echoed. "What shall I spare you?"

"The shame of it all; the shame that is ever mine in the reflection that for a season I believed I loved you."

"If you can still feel shame, I shall overwhelm you ere I have done. For you shall hear me out. Here there are none to interrupt us, none to throw your sovereignty. Remember what a pride you took in the change you had wrought in me. You were welcomed, even flattered, that tribute to the power of your beauty. Yet, all in a moment, upon the priestly grounds, you believed me the murderer of your brother."

"The priestly grounds!" she cried, protesting almost despite herself.

"So patry that the justices at Truro would not move against me." "Because," she cut in, "they counted that you had been sufficiently provoked. Because you had not sworn to them as you swore to me that no provocation would ever drive you to raise your hand against my brother. Because they did not realize how false and how forsworn you were."

He considered her a moment. Then he took a turn on the terrace. Lionel crouching ever by the rose tree was almost entirely forgotten by him now.

"God give me patience with you!" he said at length. "I need it. For I desire you to understand that things this night, I mean you to see how just is my resentment; how just the punishment that is to overtake you for what you have made of my life and perhaps of my hereafter. Justice Balne and another who is dead knew me for innocent."

"They knew you for innocent?" There was scornful amazement in her tone. "Were they not witnesses of the quarrel between you and Peter and of your oath that you would kill him?"

"That was an oath sworn in the heat of anger. Afterwards I thought me that he was your brother."

"Afterwards," said she. "After you had murdered him?" "I say again," Oliver replied calmly, "that I did not do this thing."

He considered her for a long moment; then he laughed. "Have you ever," he asked, "known a man to lie without some purpose? Men lie for the sake of profit, they lie out of cowardice or malice, or else because they are

RAMSAY-JARVIS.

A marriage of interest to Londoners was quietly solemnized on Sept. 25 at Oadley church, Leicester, England, when Miss Gladys Jarvis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jarvis of "Cliveden," Leicester, England, became the bride of Dr. George Ramsay of this city.

WOODSTOCK ENACTS TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

Woodstock, Oct. 13.—The city council at its meeting this evening passed a new traffic bylaw which puts into effect, sets aside safety zones, parking areas and restricted traffic zones. It also includes a clause limiting parking hours on Dundas street to half an hour on Saturday evenings from 6 o'clock to 11 o'clock.

ST. GEORGE W. I.

Paris, Oct. 13.—The St. George branch of the North Brant women's institute met in the Methodist church, with the president, Mrs. W. H. Kerr, in charge. Mrs. J. A. Bannister gave a demonstration of planting Dutch bulbs; Mrs. Morley Jackson read a paper on the cultivation of iris and paeonies; piano solos were rendered by Mrs. C. M. Burtland and Mrs. J. Gilchrist; and a vocal solo by Mrs. H. C. Nixon. An invitation was received from the Glenmore institute on October 16.

truth," she answered fiercely, and there she stood, her white lips set in a mood of resentment and vindictiveness.

She had shown herself, he thought in that moment of reviving anger, too weak to believe what told against him.

"The truth?" he echoed, and eyed her boldly now. "Do you know the truth when you say that? You shall discover. For by God's light you shall have the truth laid stark before you now, and you shall find it hideous beyond all your hideous imaginings."

There was something so compelling now in his tone and manner that it drove her to realize that some revelation was impending. She was conscious of a faint excitement, a reflection perhaps of the wild excitement that was astir in him.

Yell, he began, "met his death at the hands of a false, wicked woman I loved, towards whom I had a sacred duty. Straight from the dead he came for shelter. A woman he had taken in the struggle left that trail of blood to mark the way he had come."

OLIVE HIVE BANQUETS SIR KNIGHT GREEN

Provincial Commander Pays Official Visit to London Hive of Maccabees.

The member of Olive hive, Order of the Maccabees, entertained Sir Knight Green, provincial commander, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Cooper of Toronto at a banquet given last night in Alma Block. Preceding the banquet, the guest of honor instructed the members of Olive hive in the drill of the order.

Between the afternoon and evening meetings, the members and their guests spent a social time playing cards and carpoolball. During the evening session the initiation work was expedited under the direction of the provincial commander.

Olive hive has a novel scheme for increasing the attendance at meetings. Into a box before each meeting is put a certain sum of money and slips of paper on which are written the names of the members of the hive. During each meeting a slip is drawn from the box, and the member whose name appears on it, happens to be present, the money goes to her. If not, it is returned to the box and is added to a similar sum for the next meeting's drawing. Mrs. Annie Sproule was the lucky woman last night. But was not present, so the money will be returned to the box.

The banquet was arranged under the able convensership of Mrs. J. H. Moyer and Mrs. Harry Haring. The hive is planning a dance and euchre for the evening of Oct. 27. The committee in charge including Miss Vera Lucas and Mrs. David Thomas.

Schedule For Remaining Sarnia-London O.R.F.U. Group Games Still Undecided

LOCAL INTERMEDIATES KEEPING IN CONDITION

No Traditional Layoff Follows Win Over Sarnia Twelve.

DATES UNDECIDED

So far the dates for the next tilt between Sarnia and London have not been decided upon. Saturday's game concluded the two-game schedule decided upon by both clubs when Petarola stepped out. Whether to play a series on a points-to-win basis or to resume the schedule was a point at issue at an informal meeting held after the game and left undecided. The meeting was held at the Sarnia hotel and was attended by representatives of both clubs. It was decided that the game should be played on a points-to-win basis. Meantime the London team lost no time in getting back to work, and a drill was staged last night. The customary—almost a tradition—with local teams to celebrate a victory by a game of pool or a similar pastime. The London team has this year been particularly successful in its play. Sarazen's Jockey Is Given $5,500

George Babin Receives Second Big Fee of Year.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II is generous. George Babin, Sarazen's jockey, will receive a riding fee of $5,500 for his performance in the third International Special at Saratoga Saturday. After Mrs. Vanderbilt's excitement and thrill in seeing her three-year-old beat Edward, Max Play, Altawood and the other horses, she sent word to Max Hirsch to give to Babin 10 per cent of the $55,000 prize. Babin is a quiet, hard-working boy who has never acquired the betting habit. He did not wager a penny on Sarazen. Larry, who gallops and works Sarazen in the early mornings and in the greatest heat of the world, however, was more sporty. He had been saving up for just this chance, and he still congratulating himself and telling the world how good he is.

WOODSTOCK HIGH JUNIORS WIN 6 TO 1

Will Meet Stratford Students in Wagon City Friday.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Oct. 13.—The Woodstock collegiate rugby team won its first game in the junior W.O.S.A. series this afternoon by beating Woodstock college 6 to 1. The victory was a decisive one and is all the more meritorious because of the fact that the winners were without the services of Scallie, their crack half, for more than three-quarters of the game, this player being injured five minutes after the start, just as he raced across the college line for a touchdown. In the second quarter the C. I. lost ground on a loose ball, and Wilson kicked to the dead line for a point. Just before the quarter ended Sinclair kicked to the dead line for the college and made the score 6 to 1. In the final quarter, Stevenson tried a drop kick, but failed, and the ball went to the dead line. The final point came from a kick to the dead line by Sinclair.

The C. I. boys now meet Stratford here Friday, while the college team goes to St. Thomas Wednesday. The teams: College—Halves, Lockhart, Scallie and Sinclair; fly wing, St. John; quarter, Stevenson; snap, Ross; inside, Corless and Carr; middles, Geddes and McLeod; outside, Kestell and Hammond; spares, Martin, Bailey and Milburn. College—Halves, Ferris, Wilson and McGregor; fly wing, Bryce; quarter, Thomson; snap, Harrington; inside, Chambers and Cook; middles, Trovati and Kelly; outside, Brunell and Adams; spares, Tarr, Johnson and De-nant. Referee, Major Wilcox; umpire, M. L. Entwistle; head linesman, Cuthbert.

By defeating the East collegiate 2 to 1 at Tecumseh park yesterday afternoon, the De La Salle gridders eliminated the east crew, and qualified to enter the play-offs of the Junior "Wossal" series.

The game was close throughout, the booty of Barratta featuring. Until the last five minutes the score was the 1-1, when through several East C. I. players the ball to the 10-yard line of the Eastenders, when Barratta kicked to the dead line for the necessary point to win. In the first period the collegiate counted on a kick by Sinclair to Barratta, who was brought down behind the De La Salle goal line for a yard. Barratta tied the score with a kick to the dead line from the 30-yard line. Again in the third quarter Barratta made a sensational run of about 30 yards. Armstrong booted well for the Eastenders, but Walker was good on the plunges. Ryan made several nice plays for the De La Salle. Sinclair made several gains on end runs for the London East outfit. In the first quarter he made a gain of 25 yards.

On the Side Lines

With C. S. G.

THE SMOKE OF SIMPLICITY. The very simplicity—dumbness even—of the recent baseball scandal is its worst feature. It was so matter of fact the way O'Connell, without question almost, and much as he'd take an order during play, nonchalantly offers a bribe.

As described in cold print, O'Connell probably realizes the enormity of his crime, but when he was performing the act, his general actions gave the impression of it being all in the day's work.

McConnell's part will go down in baseball as one of the dumbest ever played by a ball player, but at the same time, it reflects the general atmosphere around a team when a player would act on a suggestion without any more apparent questioning than the Coast League star gave it.

There should be sympathy for O'Connell, and perhaps in time a chance to redeem himself. But there shouldn't be any glossing over the set of circumstances nor the environment which made it possible for O'Connell to be such a rather simple species of goat. Those and it should be deeply probed.

FOR HOME CONSUMPTION.

One of the officials here Saturday stated after the Sarnia-London game that the brand of rugby displayed was easily senior. There is no doubt that a judicious assortment of both teams could make any team in the senior Dominion battle hard, for between the two camps there are nearly a third of the players available who have played senior and starred at it. Perhaps the club individually would make a better showing than many fans think against a senior team right now, and the official's remark may not have been entirely for home consumption.

THE TWO-HEADED COIN.

Luckily for the magnates the ceremony of flipping the coin for the last game, if any, resulted in the selection of Washington. The seating capacity of the Polo Grounds is about 50,000 better, and the fans, grown cynical, were convinced that the coin would land in favor of the larger seating capacity.

There was a legend of a two-headed coin used at these ceremonies, for the decision used to be always in favor of the larger seating capacity. Some insist that this was mislaid, but the magnates should be given the benefit of the doubt.

ONE THAT NOAH MISSED.

Crazy quilts are more or less passe nowadays, but it appears that in Toronto at least the tradition lingers ever green.

According to reports from Galt Terrier officials who took the trouble Saturday to carefully inspect the Hampden park diamond, the O. B. A. A. seniors were ordered to meet Oslers in the second game of the O. B. A. A. title series, it would appear that this playing field was laid out with the express purpose of preserving a pattern from which all crazy quilts made by any future generation might be copied.

The Hampden park diamond is all right, claim supporters of the Queen City team.

"Sure," is the opinion in Galt, "and outside of the fact that the right field is only seven feet shorter than regulations call for and that the distance between first and second bases is but four and one-half feet less than is required, it is quite the go-cart's got up."

What player can continue to hit his proper stride when he has to extend himself to make first base on an infield hit and then finds that the only requisite for stealing second is to take a deep breath and roll over once?

First Round Must Be Completed by Saturday of This Week.

USE NEW COURTS

Western University will use its own tennis courts for this year's annual tournament, for which the draws have been completed. The courts are up to date and of real concrete. They are north of the science building, and, with the medical school gym, which was used last year, are the second unit of the athletic plant to be completed.

The winners of the first round must complete the event by Saturday of this week. Two sets out of three shall determine the winners. The choice of referees, if required, is left entirely to the players. All results of matches must be reported to L. A. Meredith by the winners.

While it is a partly go-as-you-please tourney, yet players in the draw are asked to look up opponents as early as possible and arrange for games. The draw:

TRAFFIC IS DEMORALIZED AS PRINCE VISITS CHICAGO

Several Extra Squads of Police
Necessary To Extricate
Royal Visitor.

VIEWED STOCKYARDS

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Edward David Windsor, heir to the British throne, was Chicago's guest on a private visit for seventeen crowded hours today. At every stopping-place the enthusiastic welcome of cheering throngs turned the affair into a cordial public reception. Lusty cheers and big-throated automobile horns saluted him at every turn.

"My word!" said the prince to his host during one of the day's brief stops. "These Americans are enthusiastic and vigorous." He doffed his hat and smiled graciously in response to every greeting.

Chicago picked up the prince enthusiastically at Lake Forest, a suburb, soon after 8 o'clock in the morning. He was the guest of Louis F. Swift, the packer. He was whisked along the lake shore and through ever-growing throngs to the stockyards for an hour's inspection tour, and to the University of Chicago for a somewhat formal reception by college officers, city officials and some 200 invited representatives of the community. After luncheon in Hutchinson Commons on the university quadrangle the party next stopped at the Field museum, where the prince was afforded a fleeting view of the exhibits.

Traffic Demoralized.

When the party stopped for tea at the Chicago Club the boulevard quickly knotted itself so thoroughly for several miles that extra police squad were called to extricate the private visiting party.

At the stockyards the prince abandoned his motor and mounted a horse for his inspection trip through miles of cow alleys, sheep barns and big repositories. Work halted momentarily in virtually every department of the yards.

Ernest Dewitt Burton, president of the University of Chicago, formally welcomed his highness in the name of the luncheon guests.

Foster Friendships.

"We all heartily wish that he may live long to symbolize and foster the friendship between Great Britain and the United States," he said.

The prince acknowledged the toast with a smile and a nod of the head.

At the Field museum eight world war veterans of the British armies, most of them with decorations of the empire upon their breasts, saluted the prince. His highness walked quickly to the spot where they stood at rigid attention, shook hands with each and thanked him individually in the name of the empire for his services to the British people.

Charles Smith, a colored witness for the defence in the Lavery damage action, at the court house yesterday, was determined that W. B. Henderson, counsel for plaintiff, was not going to put anything over him. Mr. Smith testified positively that the truck which ran down Mrs. Lavery was not going more than ten miles an hour.

Mr. Henderson wanted to know how he arrived at the rate of speed. "By the thermometer," declared Mr. Smith, showing a set of nearly teeth in a wide smile.

"You didn't have a thermometer with you that day, did you?" choked Mr. Henderson.

"No, sir, I just judged by my head," replied witness.

ed, the prince was the guest of Wolcott Blair, a personal friend, at a private dinner party.

The prince's schedule provided for his arrival at Detroit early tomorrow morning, to be the guest for the day of Henry Ford, and his departure thence Tuesday night for Toronto. Beyond that none in the party would outline the itinerary, but it was understood that there had been no change in the plans within the last three days.

TWO FOUND IN CELLAR OVERCOME BY FUMES

Toronto Couple Found Unconscious by Young Son—Man Succumbs.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—Adam Ogilvie, 50, and his wife, aged 41, were found unconscious in the cellar of their home when their 10-year-old son Bruce returned from school at noon today.

The cellar was filled with gas fumes from a small water heater. Mr. Ogilvie died before the ambulance could convey him to the hospital. Mrs. Ogilvie, it is believed, will recover.

QUIET AT OFFICE.

Siesta time enfolded the unemployment offices here some days ago and the quietude continues. Demand for labor of any kind has slumped, while the score or more who daily visit the office, many from force of habit, are not as ardent in their search for endeavor as once was the case. If appearances tell the truth.

LERNER OBJECTS TO PRESENT LAW

Sends Letter to Premier on the Action of United States Government.

Complaint is made of the existing laws governing immigration by naturalized Canadians into the United States in a timely letter from Max Lerner of London, addressed to the premier. Mr. Lerner states the case of all naturalized Canadians, especially those of British descent, who are unable at present to enter the United States, except under the quota laws as they apply to the country of their birth.

He objects to the moral side of the law, as discriminating unjustly against the naturalized citizen, as being a breach of the Canadian naturalization agreement, and as being a policy dictated by a foreigner with prejudicial interests to this country. The letter follows:

"Hon. Mackenzie King,
Prime Minister of Canada,
Parliament Buildings,
Ottawa, Ont.

"Sir, As well as other thousands of naturalized Canadian subjects, have been eagerly scanning the daily periodicals for an announcement from the government on its attitude toward the law enacted in the city of Vancouver, prepared by Chief of Police H. W. Long, state that for the nine months of the year ending Sept. 30, breaches of the law against liquor at numbered 1,475; the number for the same period in 1923 are given as 1,096, showing an increase of 379. There is also a big increase in the number of gambling, disorderly house and drug act cases. The total amount of fines collected in 1924 in criminal cases amounted to $25,431.18, against $26,314.37 for 1923.

Following on the capture of the steamer Quadra off San Francisco, with cargo of opium valued at $400,000, with which she cleared from Vancouver ostensibly bound for San Francisco, the law enacted states that a native-born can enter America and settle there for the pursuit of his personal aims without being hampered by any quota. The naturalized Canadian subject, if he desires to follow his personal pursuits in America, must come under the quota allotted to emigrants from the country of his birth of which previously he has waived his rights of domicile personally, as well as other thousands of naturalized British subjects, whose voices have not yet been heard, do not object to this law for material purposes, but from a moral point of view, and protest of the opening of a channel of discrimination in our country. It savors of a policy dictated from another country for Canadians to follow, which I am sure is not conducive to the welfare of our dominion.

"This is not in concord with the principles of our constitution. Our constitution deliberately emphasizes and guarantees the naturalized subject protection, physical and spiritual, with no distinction or discrimination on a native-born. It behooves our government to see that the rights of our constitution be respected by other governments. If such a state wish to enact a law to serve their own purpose, they have no right to discriminate among the populace of our country.

"We, the naturalized Canadian, feel that our government is not carrying out the solemn agreement which is protected by the honor of British virtue in allowing such distinctions to be made. We have at least expected a mild protest from our government on this wrongful act. Of course, sir, you may say that I do not understand international law and that I maintain that a wrong has been committed, an insult to Canadian constitution and Canadian rights. It is expected, as we have a right to expect, that our legislators should protest and fight for those rights. We naturalized Canadians, in particular, have a right to demand a judicial court on the virtue of our oath and the obligations of Canada. Respectfully yours,
MAX LERNER,
"502 Hill street, London, Ont.

MAN AND WOMAN FINED ON DISORDERLY CHARGE

Mrs. Agnes Reidy Fails To Attach Any Blame to Graves.

Mrs. Agnes Reidy and Edward Graves were fined $25 and costs in police court this morning when they were found guilty of having been disorderly. A surprise was sprung when Mrs. Reidy failed to blame Graves for her downfall, as she has done frequently in the past.

"Mr. Graves has been behaving quite properly," Mrs. Reidy told the court. "He reformed."

"You've always said he was responsible for your downfall," the magistrate said, "yet you persist in your friendship with him and his family."

The pair were arrested at Graves' house when constables heard profanity emanating from the abode. Last night Graves stated that Mrs. Reidy came to attend his daughter, Mrs. Mitchell, who was sick, and added: "I don't know what we would have done but for Mrs. Reidy."

On her last appearance Agnes was warned to leave this city for Detroit, and promised to do so. She stated today, however, that circumstances over which she had no control forced her to remain here.

"I should send you both to the reformatory," the court said, "but I'll fine you $25 and costs or 21 days in jail. It's too bad you can't keep away from Graves. Every time you are arrested you claim his influence is what leads you astray."

The following officers were elected at a recent meeting of the Robinson Memorial choir: Hon. president, Dr. K. P. R. Neville; president, Mr. Bradley; vice-president, Mrs. Tremer; secretary-treasurer, Miss V. Kirby; librarian, Mr. Abraham; registrar, Miss M. Gandy; press reporter, Miss E. Jeffery; choir representative, Mrs. Tramer; social committee, Mrs. Glyn; conveners, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Leonard, Mr. Leonard and Miss Webb; auditor, Miss V. Kirby.

FIRST METHODIST W. M. S. The W. M. S. of the First Methodist church took the form of a rally meeting. There were 71 present. The meeting opened by prayer by the president, Mrs. J. S. Barnard, after which a hymn was sung, fol-

Vancouver, Oct. 14.—Eighteen cases of infraction of the government liquor act were dealt with by Magistrate H. C. Shaw in the Vancouver police court Monday. Fines of $50 or one month's imprisonment were meted out to three men found guilty of selling beer. Two men forfeited bail of $100 each on a charge of selling beer. John Pulos, charged with selling liquor and out on bail of $100, failed to appear, and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. Bail was also forfeited. Sakl Chi Ba was sentenced to six months' imprisonment without the option of a fine for selling liquor in a city hotel. His method was to use small bottles and sell in one or two drink quantities. Five drunks paid $25 each, and six cases were remanded for further evidence. Crime figures in the city of Vancouver, prepared by Chief of Police H. W. Long, state that for the nine months of the year ending Sept. 30, breaches of the law against liquor at numbered 1,475; the number for the same period in 1923 are given as 1,096, showing an increase of 379. There is also a big increase in the number of gambling, disorderly house and drug act cases. The total amount of fines collected in 1924 in criminal cases amounted to $25,431.18, against $26,314.37 for 1923.

Following on the capture of the steamer Quadra off San Francisco, with cargo of opium valued at $400,000, with which she cleared from Vancouver ostensibly bound for San Francisco, the law enacted states that a native-born can enter America and settle there for the pursuit of his personal aims without being hampered by any quota. The naturalized Canadian subject, if he desires to follow his personal pursuits in America, must come under the quota allotted to emigrants from the country of his birth of which previously he has waived his rights of domicile personally, as well as other thousands of naturalized British subjects, whose voices have not yet been heard, do not object to this law for material purposes, but from a moral point of view, and protest of the opening of a channel of discrimination in our country. It savors of a policy dictated from another country for Canadians to follow, which I am sure is not conducive to the welfare of our dominion.

"This is not in concord with the principles of our constitution. Our constitution deliberately emphasizes and guarantees the naturalized subject protection, physical and spiritual, with no distinction or discrimination on a native-born. It behooves our government to see that the rights of our constitution be respected by other governments. If such a state wish to enact a law to serve their own purpose, they have no right to discriminate among the populace of our country.

"We, the naturalized Canadian, feel that our government is not carrying out the solemn agreement which is protected by the honor of British virtue in allowing such distinctions to be made. We have at least expected a mild protest from our government on this wrongful act. Of course, sir, you may say that I do not understand international law and that I maintain that a wrong has been committed, an insult to Canadian constitution and Canadian rights. It is expected, as we have a right to expect, that our legislators should protest and fight for those rights. We naturalized Canadians, in particular, have a right to demand a judicial court on the virtue of our oath and the obligations of Canada. Respectfully yours,
MAX LERNER,

The members of the Marion Keith Club of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church met last evening in the Forum. The supper was in charge of Miss Peggy Casselman and the committee. The meeting opened with a hymn, after which Miss E. Hardy read the Scripture, and Miss Gladys Mitchell read a prayer. The minutes were read, and a report on the work of the club was given. The discussion was on whether the members of the Marion Keith club should be represented at the federal convention of young Canadians. Macgregor was appointed the club representative till the first of December, after which Miss Hazel Currie will take up such duties. Another discussion of interest was that of arranging to raise funds to help establish a cottage in Formosa for Dr. and Mrs. Gushue-Taylor, missionaries for St. Andrew's church. The program of the meetings for the remainder of this year was drawn up, and the meeting closed with the benediction.

CHALMERS CHURCH M. B. The regular meeting of the Chalmers Presbyterian mission band was held yesterday afternoon in the schoolroom. May Duncan presided. Billy Weames gave the Scripture lesson by memory, and twenty-two Psalms. It was decided to hold the thank offering on the 25th of this month, and that same day to have a service of canned goods to be given to the day nursery. The choir were practiced for the thank offering. Violet Howard, a member of the mission band, is ill, and the children agreed to send her a basket of fruit. The attendance was 39.

DUNDAS CENTER W. M. S. The W. M. S. of Dundas center Methodist church met yesterday for their regular meeting in the schoolroom of the church. Mrs. W. E. Millson, president, presided. The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. L. Tait, which was followed by sentence prayers. Mrs. McAuliffe was appointed the representative at the W. M. S. convention at Colborne street church on Oct. 30, with Mrs. Godwin as alternate. Under the direction of Mrs. Allen, who is in charge of the program for the month, the following numbers were given: Solo, Miss Nettie Jones; an excellent address by Mrs. McAuliffe on the subject, "The foreman in our midst," "Temperance nuggets" by Mrs. John Jones, and an interesting address on "Temperance" by Rev. W. E. Millson. There was a large attendance.

MANOR PARK TEAM. The recently organized hockey team of Manor Park attended the services at the church of Epiphany in a body last Sunday. Rev. W. M. Shore, rector of the church, preached a very helpful sermon. There was a large attendance.

TALBOT ST. BAPTIST CHURCH. A very interesting speaker, Rev. Dr. A. J. Vinling, who has been connected with the Armenian relief fund for several years, will occupy the pulpit of the Talbot street Baptist church next Sunday. Dr. Vinling resigned for his Armenia work quite recently, and has accepted a call to the College street Baptist church, Toronto. He is a former Londoner.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES. Two Methodist churches are now having evangelistic services. Evangelist Brown is at Hyatt avenue Methodist church, and Evangelist Matheson is carrying on successful meetings at Grace Methodist church. A great deal of interest is reported from both congregations.

WELLINGTON ST. SERIES. A series of New Testament studies for the weekly prayer meeting services have been arranged by Rev. G. T. Watts, pastor of Wellington street Methodist church. They are being received with much appreciation. Since the beginning of the series the mid-week services have been largely attended, and much interest is being shown by the members.

NORMAN R. HOWDEN BELIEVES WEST CLEAR

Huron and Erie Director Returns From Trip Through West.

Norman R. Howden, president of the D. H. Howden Company, Limited, and a director of the Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation, who was one of the party of directors returning to London on Sunday from a six weeks' tour through the west, regards the general outlook of the prairie provinces as hopeful and a decided improvement on the position in October of 1923.

"I believe that in general the farmer in the west will be able to clear off his debts this year, thanks to the high price of wheat," said Mr. Howden. "There are, of course, spots where hail and frost have completely wiped out the wheat crop, but this is always the case in the west, and is always evident in isolated places. The average farmer is glad to know that he has come through a trying and difficult time as well as he has, and though he may not start 1924 with much of a balance, he will, I believe, in the majority of cases at least be able to start clear."

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 14.—Blind mendicants on the city streets have been making a good living, and in two cases at least have been big patrons of the liquor vendor, according to information that has been gathered by the city police, who have been investigating the poisoning case of John M. Rodgers, who was taken to the hospital and found to be suffering from poison. According to the statements given the police by his chum, Charles English, Rodgers had been drinking heavily for some days, and a liquor permit in the possession of English showed that in less than a week there had been purchased seven bottles of gin.

Admissions by Mrs. Virginia Brotherton and Mrs. Frances Stacey that they had taken part in the crime of poisoning Rodgers, and the women are now held by the police on charges of vagrancy.

Police inquiry reveals that Rodgers had taken a quantity of quantity of chloral hydrate, which he was accustomed to take in small doses to aid him in sleeping. It would appear that he had taken too many doses on Friday with disastrous effect. The man is still living and is expected to recover from the effects.

RUMOR DENIED THAT PARTY WIPE OUT IN ARCTIC FLOWS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Calgary, Oct. 13.—Any rumors of disaster to the government party sent in to erect a wireless station at Herschel Island because of the wreck of the steamer Lady Kindersley in the Polar ice floes, are groundless, declared B. H. Segre, dominion land surveyor, who reached here Sunday night from Edmonton.

NERVES AND FAINTING SPELLS Sent Woman to Bed. Great Change After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sarnia, Ontario.—"After my girlie was born I was a wreck. My nerves were too terrible for words and I simply could not stand or walk without pains. I suffered with fainting spells until I was no longer any good for my household duties and had to take to my bed. The doctor said I should have an operation, but I was in a fit condition at that time. My neighbor said, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? I am sure it will do you good and will save those doctor's bills.' So I was advised by my husband to try it after I told him about it. I am very thankful to say that I was soon able to take a few boarders for a while as rooms were scarce at that time. My baby is 17 months old now and I have not yet had an operation, thanks to your medicine. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to a few neighbors and have told them the good it has done me. I know I feel and look a different woman these last few months and I certainly would not be without a bottle of your medicine in the house. You can use this letter as you see fit, as I should be only too glad for those suffering as I have to know what it has done for me."

Mrs. ROBERT G. MACGREGOR, R. R. No. 2, Sarnia, Ontario.

A recent canvass of women users of the Vegetable Compound report 98 out of 100 received beneficial results. C

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:
"I was a great sufferer from enlargement of the liver for ten months, and finally I had to quit work. I would wake up in the mornings with a bitter taste in my mouth, had frequent headaches, yellow complexion, and pain in my right side, and between the shoulder blades. It was almost unbearable, and terribly weakening. I could not sleep at night and my heart also bothered me. But the whole trouble has now left me, thanks to that wonderful medicine, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Mrs. Gertrude White

IF YOU ARE NOT WELL
HERE IS YOUR KEY TO HEALTH!

Battonford, Alta.—"Being rundown after the flu" I was in a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and shortness of breath, followed by faintness. The middle age period made things seem as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous Golden Medical Discovery I sent for a bottle, followed the directions, and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for the restoration of my health so I could remain with my family, and I gladly recommend this Discovery of Dr. Pierce's, for it is so pure, and worth a trial to any one who is rundown."—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package of tablets.

Write Dr. Pierce, Prest, Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.—Adv.

What's Best For A Bad Stomach?

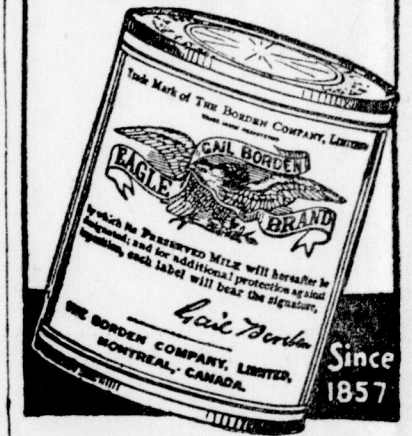

Nine-tenths of all stomach trouble—indigestion, sourness, gas pain, heartburn, etc.—are caused by an excess of acid in the stomach. Artificial digestions, such as pepsin, are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids, and instead, neutralize the acid that has upset your stomach with a spoonful or two of tablets of Dr. Cassell's Magnesia, taken with a little water. This instantly sweetens the stomach and stops the pain and discomfort and your food digests as nature intended. For quick, positive relief from Acid Stomach.

MOST PEOPLE PREFER BISURATED MAGNESIA

GOULD'S W. I. Special to The Advertiser. Mitchell, Oct. 13.—Between forty and fifty ladies were present at the Gould's women's institute meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. T. S. Ford. The main feature of the meeting was an address by Dr. Fischer of Stratford on "Child Welfare," which was full of good points and which was listened to with keen interest.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE TO BE HELD AT BYRON

Premier Ferguson Will Attend To Unveil Memorial to Lady Beck.

The annual Armistice Day services usually held in St. Paul's Cathedral will be transferred this year to Byron sanatorium on the occasion of the unveiling of the G. W. V. A. memorial tablet to Lady Beck which will take place on No. 9.

Premier Howard Ferguson has consented to be present and will unveil the memorial in commemoration of the noble part the late Lady Beck played in the establishment of the soldiers' hospital at Byron.

Plans for the event are progressing well, Harry Wray, president of the G. W. V. A., said this morning.

PORT STANLEY CHURCH PLANS FOR MEN'S CLUB

Christ church parish room, Port Stanley, was the scene of a picturesque gathering last evening, when all the men gathered together for a smoker and discussed the possibilities of a men's club.

This being the first meeting, there was not enough representation to elect the officers, but this will take place at the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 22.

H. M. Ellison, a prominent member of the church, who attended a recent meeting of St. John's Anglican men's club, St. Thomas, said that men who were never interested in church affairs before had become enthusiasts of the church through this club.

It was decided to journey to different parishes in the diocese during the winter months and enjoy an evening with the men's clubs of Aylmer, St. Thomas, Yarmouth Heights, Tyngemere, Dutton and West Lorne, when games and addresses from prominent men would comprise the entertainment.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Special to The Advertiser. Delaware, Oct. 13.—The young people's league meeting at Komoka took the form of a missionary service. Preparations for a special program had been made and as a result a large number of friends were in attendance. The accident which took place earlier in the day in which eight young people from the village had met with serious injury, had cast a gloom over the crowd, yet it was a good service. Solos, trios and choruses were rendered. Readings and other items gave much missionary information. Mr. Hamlin of Lambeth gave an address on the work of the missionary society of the Methodist church during the past one hundred years in this locality of Komoka. Mr. Bignell presided with acceptance. The league is making preparations for a social evening on Oct. 31, when a dime concert will be given by local talent.

SMALLMAN & INGRAM LIMITED

The dawn of a new season is announced and nature is revealing the glory of that change in her own way which is hers exclusively. This store is collaborating with nature in the glory of color, variety of style and superbness of fabric in the display of new fall modes from day to day. Yours is now the opportunity to see and ours is the appreciation that you come to view the things we have for months been gathering for your approval.

FASHION NOTES FROM COSTUMES SEEN ON THE AVENUE.

First, an informal ensemble is completed with an unbound felt hat in the following way: The soft monotone of a natural-colored kasha coat (there are many of them now) has for contrast a ruddy henna lining, which is turned back in a wide rever.

On the small felt hat of exactly the same neutral shade, the feather pompon above the brim also matches the kasha, while the pompon brushing the wearer's cheek, below the brim, matches the henna of the lining.

When a tall, slim woman throws back her coat at luncheon at the Ritz, a novel way of looping pearls is disclosed. One strand, the longer, hangs straight. The other is clasped just at the point of the V neck-line with a pearl bar-pin—a creamy white pearl on either side of a larger pearl of smoky grey.

Another woman who promenades in the October sunshine has one of the many endless chains of pearls that are being worn now, wound several times about her neck. And to make the strands fit more closely, she has looped her long string in four parts and caught the ends with a rhinestone bow-knot pin, close about her throat.

Pearls are worn in many ways, and so are pins, and pins and pearls may be combined for even greater variety.

Graceful mannequins in exclusive shops—as they stroll about in the new evening frocks—wear artificial flowers tied with slender ribbons to their wrists. And on the Avenue a smart debutante pins a tawny orange rose to the soft fur cuff of her brown coat, thus proving that the wrist flower may be worn with daytime costume, too.
