POOR PEOPLE PAID PIPER

While he Chanted of the City
Wood Yard he Raised the Price of That Fuel.

A Few Facts Seriously Stated
By an Experienced Dealer—
What he Sold Wood for.

"It were better for the poorer people of Chatham if the city had never brought a stick of wood into the city."

Such is the statement of John Cooper, the St. Clair woodyard keeper.

"As soon as the city advertised for wood the farmers immediately sent their prices up and made it almost impossible to buy it."

"I had my wood and have not raised in price, and deliver to my regular customers 16-inch wood of fairly good quality at $1.75 per cord. But, of course, I can't take on many extra customers and the supply is limited."

"A load of wood was passing down the street the other day and the person who was with me said he thought it was from the city woodyard and it, I assure you, was the poorest load of wood I ever saw."

"I was in Detroit on Monday, having taken a cargo of soft cordwood there on my boat. The wood was sold for $4.00 per cord."

"Who did the city send out to buy the wood? How much is he making out of it?"

"Oh, well," concluded Mr. Cooper, "the city's rich. It can afford all this."

ELECTION VOID IN NORTH GREY

Liberal Member Loses his Seat
and Premier Ross is Minus Another Supporter.

Charge of Hiring a Rig Proven
Counter Charges Dismissed
Without Costs.

Owen Sound, Ont., Nov. 11.—The North Grey election trial was called at 2 p. m. to-day before Justices McEwen and MacMahon.

Charge number forty was first called.

Wm. Robinson, of Meaford, swore that he hired a rig for Mr. McKay, the Liberal candidate, to drive some electors over to Owen Sound to vote.

The charge was admitted by Mr. McKay's financial agent.

The trial judges declared the election of A. G. C. and Eric Arnott, the other charges and counter charges were dismissed without costs.

Another despatch from Owen Sound says:—

The North Grey election protest and scrutiny opened this afternoon at two o'clock before Justices MacMahon and MacLennan, and resulted in the unseating of Alexander G. McKay, the Liberal candidate, who held the seat by a majority of five.

Mr. George M. Boyd, who claimed the seat, was represented by W. D. MacPherson, K. C., assisted by Walter Cassels, K. C., and Eric Arnott, of Toronto; H. G. Tucker, W. S. Middleboro and Wm. Masson, of Owen Sound, and C. T. Sutherland, of Meaford. For Mr. McKay, Geo. Watson, K. C., appeared, assisted by W. J. Hatton, George A. Ferguson and R. Christie, of Owen Sound.

The court room was crowded to the doors with interested spectators. The first witness called was William J. Robinson, of Meaford, who admitted that he was an agent of Mr. McKay's, and on the night of May 28th hired a livery rig to convey several voters from Meaford to Owen Sound.

Mr. W. J. Hatton, financial agent for Mr. McKay, admitted agency, but said that he was not aware of the irregularity until recently, and had entered the accounts in good faith as legitimate expenses of the Meaford association.

Mr. McKay, the Liberal candidate, admitted the agency of Robinson and said that he could not deny the charge. He was not aware of the irregularity until about three weeks ago, and did not believe there was anything to support ninety per cent. of the other charges.

The counsel then addressed their Lordships, pointing out the great expense that would be incurred in maintaining five hundred witnesses for any length of time. Mr. MacPherson said that if it was hopeless to uphold the election, in the interests of both parties, they would not ask costs of petition.

Justice MacLennan said that where the majority was only five, the result "several" voters might affect the result. The petition was upheld and the election of Mr. McKay was voided without costs, the other charges and counter-charges being dismissed.

NO NEVER

New York, Nov. 11.—In speaking at the banquet of the Minnesota Society in this city last night, Archbishop Ireland expressed the belief that Canada eventually will be under the domain of the United States. The transition, he said, would come without conquest, without war. After telling of the growth of America in comparison with other great nations, the Archbishop said:—"I do not want to be belittled, but I say this for myself: As sure as fate, although you and I may not see it, the starry banner will wave mistress over all the territory from the Gulf to the Bay. There will be no conquest, no war. The hearts across the border are already beating with love for us, and commerce and agriculture are calling for emulsions."

BAER'S REPLY TO MITCHELL

Coal Operators' Side of the Controversy is Now
Set Forth.

Demand of the Mine Workers
Denounced as Arbitrary, Unreasonable and Unjust.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The reply of President Geo. F. Baer, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal Company, to the charges of President Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, which has been presented to the anthracite coal strike commission, was made public to-day. Mr. Baer makes no reference to Mitchell as the president of the miners' organization, but refers to him simply as an individual.

Taking up the specifications in Mr. Mitchell's charges serially, Mr. Baer first admits that his company owns thirty-seven collieries, and that before the strike it employed 33,829 men. Following is a brief summary of the response to Mr. Mitchell's other specifications:

Second—The demand for 20 per cent increase in wages on piece work is denounced as "arbitrary, unreasonable and unjust." The company contends that after making all necessary allowance for different conditions, that the rate of wages paid for the mining of anthracite coal is as high as that paid in the bituminous coal fields.

Third—The company denies that the present rate of wage is lower than in past years in other occupations in the same locality and controlled by like conditions.

Fourth and fifth—Mr. Baer says that the earnings of the anthracite workers are less than average earnings for other occupations requiring skill and training, and also the charge that the earnings are insufficient because of the dangerous character of work in the anthracite mines.

Sixth—The specification made by Mr. Mitchell is referred to as too vague for specific answer, but in a general way it is stated that the anthracite regions are among the most prosperous in the United States.

Seventh—The company pronounces as unjust and inequitable the demand for a reduction of 20 per cent. in hours of labor without a reduction of earnings for the employees, and this demand is pronounced impracticable. In this connection the following statement is made:—"Because of the injury to the mines by the strike of the specified mine workers, cost of production of coal has been greatly increased, and a temporary advance in price was made by this company, but it will be impracticable to continue such increase when mining operations become normal."

Eighth—Mr. Baer says that his company has no disagreement with any of its employees about the weighing of coal because the quantity is usually determined by measurement and not by weight.

Ninth—Replying to the fourth demand made by Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Baer says since the advent of the United Mine Workers' organization into the anthracite fields, business conditions there have been intolerable; that the output of the mines has been destroyed; that strikes have been of almost daily occurrence; that men have worked when they pleased, and that the cost of mining has been greatly increased. He also takes the position that the jurisdiction of the commission is limited to the conditions named by the coal company presidents, which excludes United Mine Workers from any recognition in the proceedings. He says, however, that "when a labor organization limited to anthracite mine workers is created which shall obey the law, respect the right of every man to work, and honestly co-operate with employers, trade agreements may become practicable."

Tenth—Replying to the fourth demand made by Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Baer says since the advent of the United Mine Workers' organization into the anthracite fields, business conditions there have been intolerable; that the output of the mines has been destroyed; that strikes have been of almost daily occurrence; that men have worked when they pleased, and that the cost of mining has been greatly increased. He also takes the position that the jurisdiction of the commission is limited to the conditions named by the coal company presidents, which excludes United Mine Workers from any recognition in the proceedings. He says, however, that "when a labor organization limited to anthracite mine workers is created which shall obey the law, respect the right of every man to work, and honestly co-operate with employers, trade agreements may become practicable."

Eleventh—Replying to the fourth demand made by Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Baer says since the advent of the United Mine Workers' organization into the anthracite fields, business conditions there have been intolerable; that the output of the mines has been destroyed; that strikes have been of almost daily occurrence; that men have worked when they pleased, and that the cost of mining has been greatly increased. SOME GRAVE CHARGES MADE

In the Lennox Election Cross
Petition Against the Ross Candidate.

If Half What is Alleged is True
the "Machine" did Fine Work in the Riding.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—Particulars have been filed in the Lennox election case, both of the petition and cross-petition. The trial will be held at Napanee, Nov. 25th. The petition is against T. G. Curran (Conservative). Its chief charges are payments to voters and that a quantity of liquor was stored in Napanee and used on election day.

In the cross-petition against M. S. Maddole (Liberal), it is charged that he personally gave a receipt to Samuel Davey for an account on which nothing was paid. A general charge is made that Hon. J. R. Stratton paid Geo. M. Sutherland to go into the riding and organize it; that Sutherland paid many men for votes; that Sutherland and other conspirators got ballots out of the Napanee express office; that no track was kept of the ballots after their printing and before their distribution to deputy officers, and further, that the deputies, in accordance with instructions from Sutherland, switched and tossed ballots after the polls, brought their ballot boxes, etc., to Sutherland, in whose custody they remained for some time before being returned to the returning officer.

In the cross-petition against M. S. Maddole (Liberal), it is charged that he personally gave a receipt to Samuel Davey for an account on which nothing was paid. A general charge is made that Hon. J. THE SERVANT GIRL PROBLEM.

In Chicago originated the first domestic servants' union to regulate wages and the relations between mistresses and servants. Now the conditions in that progressive city have evolved a Housewives' association to regulate matters from the other side. It proposes to grade servant girls according to their individual efficiency as "satisfactory," "good," and "remarkably efficient," and, presumably, to pay them accordingly. The new association is having a good deal of newspaper humor fired at it, but it is based on a sound business proposition. No doubt there are questions of wages and business relations which the servants' union finds advantageous to have dealt with as an organization the same as most trades and professions, but there is one vital point that it apparently overlooked and which the counter organization has been brought into existence to regulate: Every trade or profession which undertakes its protection assumes responsibilities commensurate with its rights. It can lay down a scale of wages or fees, but it also assumes a moral obligation to guarantee that employers who pay such rates or fees and submit to its regulations shall be furnished with the worth of their money. The trades unions and the members of professional associations undertake the responsibility of furnishing such safeguards in regard to the training of the individuals whom they authorize by card or parchment as members of their organizations to charge certain wages or fees as to enable employers to depend that they are capable of the duties for which such wages or fees are exacted. The servant girls' unions have not, so far as we have heard, shown any desire to assume this responsibility. All that was necessary to become entitled to the union scale of wages and secure the protection of the walking delegate was to join the union. This was manifestly unfair because nothing varies more than the standard of efficiency in domestic service, and it would be manifestly unjust to exact the same wages for a practically untrained domestic as for highly trained and efficient service. It is to deal with this phase of the problem that the Housewives' association has been formed, but it is undertaking work that should be done by the union.

As a matter of fact a Domestic Servants' union properly conducted should be an important factor in solving the servant girl problem. If the union would undertake that the union card should be a guarantee of efficient training to employers so that they would be assured of getting the service they paid for few people would object to submitting to reasonable conditions or paying reasonable wages. But the exaction of certain wages and conditions with-

Nothing Tastes Good

And eating is simply perfunctory—done because it must be. This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dyspepsia, few would suffer from it long.

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give vigor and tone to the stomach and the whole digestive system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cured Mrs. Frances Blodin, Pembroke, Ont. Ben. Webb, Clinton, Ont. and W. A. Nugent, Belleville, Ont. all of whom suffered greatly from dyspepsia. Mrs. Blodin writes, "I am fully cured." Mr. Webb, "It worked like a charm, restored a healthy appetite and toned my whole system." and Mr. Nugent, "I cannot praise it too highly for the good it has done me."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Don't wait till you are worse, but buy a bottle today.

WHOLESALE ADVICE.

Henry Ward Beecher upon one occasion wrote a letter to his son, which contained some advice with which the consideration of all young men. The trouble with the average young man is that he imagines those who tender him advice are old-fashioned and more or less of a joke. However, the smartest Aleck that ever manipulated a cigarette or a briar-wood pipe may read and digest the following words of warning with profit. Here are a few of Henry Ward Beecher's bits of advice:

"You must not get into debt. Avoid debt as you would the devil. Make it a fundamental rule—cash or nothing. Make—but few promises. Religiously observe the smallest promise. A man who means to keep his promises can't afford to make many."

"Be scrupulously careful in all statements. Aim at accuracy and perfect frankness—no guesswork—either rothing or exact truth.

"When working for others, sink yourself out of sight; seek their interest. Make yourself necessary to those who employ you by industry, fidelity and scrupulous integrity. Selfishness is fatal."

"Hold yourself responsible for a higher standard than anybody else expects of you. Demand more of yourself than anybody else expects of you. Keep your own standard high. Never excuse yourself to yourself. Never pity yourself. Be a hard master to yourself; but lenient to everybody else."

"Concentrate your force on your own business; do not turn off. Be constant, steadfast, persevering."

"The art of making one's fortune is to spend nothing; in this country any intelligent and industrious young man may become rich if he stops all leaks and is not in a hurry. Do not make haste; be patient."

"Do not speculate or gamble. Steady, patient industry is both the surest and the safest way. Greediness and haste are two devils that destroy thousands every year."

What a grand back-handed advertisement Canada is getting from the Doukhobor antics may be judged from the despatch from London stating that, "The accounts of the Doukhobor movement are doing harm here. An English lady called at the Canadian Government office yesterday. She was alarmed lest her son should be killed by the homicidal maniacs of the Northwest."—Ottawa Citizen.

The departure of the Most Rev. Domènec Falconio for the United States—official notice of whose transference was received in Ottawa on October 30—will be regretted by his many friends throughout the Dominion. During his short sojourn here he has endeared himself to bishop and priest, to state dignitary and to private citizen. And we speak no idle words of eulogy when we say that the assignment of the Most Rev. delegate to Washington will be regarded as a personal loss by all who have the pleasure and honor of his acquaintance.—Catholic Record.

Although it is a common custom in Canada to speak of an Anglican or a Roman Catholic prelate as "the lord bishop," and to address him as "your lordship," the title is merely a courtesy title. In the current number of the Queen's Quarterly, Frank Ford points out that Lord Kimberley, in a despatch of September 30, 1881, which was issued in consequence of certain disputes as to the precedence of Roman Catholic and Anglican bishops, at state ceremonies, laid it down that no colonial bishop is legally entitled to either territorial designation or to be addressed as "lord bishop."—Hamilton Herald.

THE CROP OF CALENDARS.

Philadelpia Record.
The dealers in calendars are now getting ready for the great rush of business that finds them at the first of the year. There are a number of firms that make calendars from one year's end to the other, and practically all the business of their distribution for the twelvemonth takes place in a few weeks. A calendar dealer said yesterday that 40,000,000 free calendars were distributed annually in the United States. They range in cost from $10 to $500 a thousand. A considerable proportion of them are given away by the insurance companies, one of which each year, puts out no less than 4,000,000. The biggest calendar factory in the country is in Newark, New Jersey. There is one in Philadelphia and there are several in New York. The makers keep a year ahead of the trade. Thus they have completed their sample calendars for 1904.

INFANT FEEDING.

The first years of our life are the most important in our existence. That is the time to build the foundation for sturdy manhood in the future. Infancy is, therefore, the most vital period for proper nourishing. A baby secures the best possible nourishment from a healthy mother, but unfortunately very few mothers can nurse their children. What, then, is the next best food?

Cow's milk should not be solely depended upon for it lacks a proper amount of what a child needs most—cell-building substance. Moreover, it is said by authorities on the subject, that the frequent handling such milk undergoes, from the cow to the time it is fed to a child, robs it of much of its original value. Its quality varies and its grades are numerous; the stomach of an infant is much too delicate to make up such defects in its food supply. Scott's Emulsion simplifies the food problem for children and counteracts these defects.

The artificial foods that are so largely used very rarely contain milk, hence they imperfectly nourish the child. Even a small amount of Scott's Emulsion, one-fourth to a half teaspoonful, in the child's bottle seems to be of special value in adding a very important element to the food. Its beneficial results are quickly seen.

Scott's Emulsion is based on this true food principle. It provides nourishment for a child in the easiest, quickest and most palatable form. No baby is too young, no stomach too delicate to receive and retain Scott's Emulsion. Even a few drops in a child's milk seems to provide considerable nourishment that cannot be otherwise secured except in a mother's milk.

If a mother whose milk is not furnishing a child with proper nourishment will herself use Scott's Emulsion it will greatly improve the quality of the milk. It benefits the mother as well as the child.

A child of any age will be benefited by Scott's Emulsion. It furnishes the means to meet and overcome the strain of growing. Being prepared for easy digestion Scott's Emulsion does not tax the stomach or disturb the digestive organs of children.

Its great value as a child's food comes from the nourishment it gives, the ease with which it enters the system, the quickness with which it brings about a change for the better and the permanency of its benefits. The child who is not doing as well as it should needs Scott's Emulsion.

We'll send you a sample free upon request.

The World Burning Oil for Fuel

Clear-sighted, hard-headed financiers like J. Pierpont Morgan and the Rockefellers find no difficulty in reading the signs of the times in regard to the oil situation. With steamships, locomotives, factories and millions of homes burning oil for fuel, the price of oil stocks will advance.

Present Allotment of Eastern Consolidated Oil Co. Stock at 50c a Share is ALMOST GONE, and is Certain to be Oversubscribed. The Chances Now Are That the PRICE WILL ADVANCE TO $1.00 a Share by DECEMBER 1.

Scarcely one month—probably less time—to get in your orders before the price advances 100 per cent.

Facts That Force Up The Price of This Stock

Dividends—This Company has paid 20 per cent. on the investment to stockholders in 10 months.

Immense Holdings—Over 21,000 acres of rich oil land in Ohio and California, valued at over half a million dollars.

Enormous Production—107 richly producing oil wells, with production sold for cash.

Development—Over $150,000 already expended for development of oil properties.

Korn River—Two big wells now, expect 15 wells by Christmas. Land worth $10 an acre three years ago, now valued at $5,000 an acre.

Ohio Field—1300 acres proven oil land—105 oil wells. Thousands of barrels of oil monthly.

Oversubscription of present allotment at 50c a share is sure. Orders filled in the order in which they are received.

Certainty—No "ifs," "ands" or guesswork, but solid facts. Those who subscribed a year ago took all the risks. You have a chance to pick the plums.

Brains, Energy, Push and Perseverance

Have made the Eastern Consolidated Oil Co. what it is today. Such men as the Hon. Earnest Cady, ex-Lieutenant Governor of Connecticut, for President; Hon. Chas. A. Noyes, speaker of the Massachusetts Legislature for five terms, and Hon. Lewis A. Corbin, prominent envelope manufacturer, on the board of directors give weight and character.

NEW STORE

Mrs. Weldon, proprietress of Chatham's fancy goods store, has moved from the Taft Block to her new premises, in A. I. McCall's old stand.

Mrs. Weldon is one of Chatham's most energetic business women and the stock she carries in her store is of the very best procurable.

A short time ago she started a woman's exchange in the Taft Block and has since succeeded in building up a lucrative business. She has now enlarged her stock and in her new store she will conduct a fancy goods trade.

She has now been in her new quarters for about a week and is still busily engaged in straightening up her stock in preparation for the late fall business. She will now handle all kinds of fancy goods, souvenirs, ladies' and children's wear, corsets, wools, etc. A specialty will be made of children's wear, of which a beautiful array will be found to choose from.

Mrs. Weldon is well deserving of the patronage she receives and it is generally believed that her business will continue to grow and expand.

GRABBED HAT

Student W. E. Cruickshank did Not Wish to Leave any Evidence.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The row between the medical students and the police on Halloween is being investigated. Several Chatham boys were in the crowd.

The investigation into the charge brought by Dr. Reye and the medical faculty of the University of Toronto against the police of rough treatment of the musical students on Halloween, was opened before the police commissioners with the exception of Mayor Howland, who was absent.

Lieut. Col. Grissett, chief of the police, was also present in the interests of the force.

The purpose of the evidence was that the students to the number of 400 or so had been entertained to a dinner on Halloween by Dr. Reye in the University gymnasium building.

When it was over, about 11 p. m. those who lived in the east-end of the city, where most of them live, started by two on the fourth side of College street. They were singing college songs and occasionally indulging in a college yell.

At the corner of University Ave. Sergt. Goulding and three mounted men were stationed. The sergeant said to them, "Now boys, you had better go along more quietly and not have any trouble."

This the sergeant swore was all he intended to say or do to them, when a stone was suddenly thrown and struck him on the left arm. Thereupon he said, "Come now you will be to clear the street," which he proceeded to do, followed by the other mounted men.

The evidence of the subsequent proceedings was to the effect that the mounted men rode the boys down on the sidewalk, and even in the Conservatory of Music lawn, chasing them hither and thither and striking them with rawhide whips, although they offered no resistance and had not previously abused the police. No arrests were attempted to be made.

Several students swore to having been struck with the whips, and some to having been struck by the fists of one or two dismounted men, who were also on the corner. A number of the students complained to Dr. Reye, who remonstrated with Sergt. Goulding, but not until the students had been thoroughly scattered did the police assist.

Among those who testified to having been assaulted by the police was President G. E. Wilson, of the University medical faculty, who swore that he was first struck by a policeman on the cheek without any warning, however, and immediately afterwards received a blow from a man's fist on a broken rib. Nothing was said by the policeman, and no attempt was made to arrest him.

The Mail-Enterprise gives this account of the evidence of W. E. Cruickshank, a Chatham boy:—

HAD EXPERIENCE IN SCRAP.

W. E. Cruickshank, a tall, red-headed student of cheerful visage, furnished no little amusement by the unintentional humor of his narrative. When the police charged upon them at College and University streets he was almost ridden over, and either stumbled or was ridden down. In the melee his hat fell off and he grabbed it in an effort to leave anything by which he could be identified.

—Laughter. In doing so he got a bat over the side of the head. Judge McDougall—Who struck you?

Mr. Cruickshank—"Oh, ask me."

—Laughter.

"It was a policeman, however," he Judge McDougall—Did you see any arrests made?

Mr. Cruickshank—I didn't wait. I cleared out at once. I was in a scrap with the S. P. S. a year ago, and had a rib broken, and made up my mind that I would be caught in no more.—Laughter.

Lieut. Col. Denison—Why did you object to your hat being found, if you had not been doing anything out of the way?

Mr. Cruickshank—Excuse me, gentlemen, I have been a reporter and I know what the police say after these things happen.—Laughter.

OTHERS WHO WERE STRUCK.

Other students who swore to having been struck without offering resistance, and without any attempt to resist them, were E. T. Jessop, J. D. Sproule, (who said he was also seized by a policeman and thrown to the ground), W. J. Sheridan, Wm. Brown, F. W. Hall, son of Dr. W. R. Hall, Chatham, Wm. Eccles, F. W. Stevenson and Chas. Hurburt.

Tea!!

A Young Hyson Tea to sell for 25c a pound is almost a curiosity, that is a tea that we would sell for 25c. We have one, but it is not up to our standard for 25c Hyson. But for all that we'll venture to say that it will hold its own against any 30c Hyson in the city. The reason is this. In order to get a Hyson Tea to sell for 25c we have to buy a very large rough coarse looking leaf that in the rough state could not be sold for tea at all; but as we have a tea cutting machine purposely for these large teas, along with our experience in the tea business, we are in a position to offer a much better tea for less money than most dealers. For a fact, no other grocer in the city has one of these machines, so that we know positively that we are safe when we say that no other dealer can touch our 25c Hyson, even at 30c.

Men's Clothing With the Austin & Co. Character

Correct and handsome clothes are not necessarily expensive at Austin's. Style and character are matters of expense in employing of brains for the making of models, but cutting cloth over good patterns costs no more than waiving it on bad ones. The best brains in the trade plan Austin & Co.'s. You pay for nothing beyond fair price for materials and workmanship.

By that we mean that equal qualities are selling for those prices elsewhere. Choice tweeds, serges, worsteds and cheviots are embraced; the patterns are neat, noble and dignified exclusive in weave, such as will be accepted by good and critical buyers. On sale all this week.

TOOK REVENGE

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Dr. W. H. Kimberlin, a pioneer citizen and a prominent oculist, was shot and killed in his office in this city this afternoon by John Scanlon, formerly a policeman, who shot and killed him. The bodies of both men were found in the doctor's office. Dr. Kimberlin was shot three times, and both men must have died almost instantly.

Scanlon, who is the brother of a prominent local politician, asserted it is said that Kimberlin had caused him to lose his eyesight.
Scanlon left a note on the dresser, in which he had written "Notify my brother at city hall that I did this because he destroyed my eyes."

Scanlon had been receiving treatment from Dr. Kimberlin for about two weeks. He entered the physician's office unseen and his is not known how long he had been there. Another patient, who was waiting in an outside office said:

"I heard Scanlon go into the doctor's private office and I heard him and the doctor talking. There was no quarrel or loud words, however, until Dr. Kimberlin cried out: 'Oh, don't, John!'"

"The shots followed immediately. A bullet came through the wall and passed over the chair from which I had jumped when the shooting began. The first person to enter the room was Dr. Kimberlin's son, also a physician, who is proprietor of a drug store on the ground floor of the building. Both men lay on the ground floor, covered with blood and dead. Scanlon had shot himself through the temple, the bullet tearing away the upper part of his face.

Dr. Kimberlin was 58 years old and had practiced in Kansas City for 30 years. Scanlon was 37 years old and unmarried. He lived formerly at Breckinridge, Mo. He had worked as fireman on the Burlington railroad, and later as petroler on the Kansas City police force.

AN EASY WAY

To Keep Well.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all important thing is to keep the stomach right and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite, and a feeling that the favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wicelhold gives pretty good advice on this subject, he says: "The stomach is the most important organ of the body, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep in healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but daily for the past eight years I have made it a practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets."

The physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but took only the natural digestive, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease and the safest, best known and most wisely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized paks, at 50 cents, and for a week's trial a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars worth of good.

BOY IN TROUBLE

Two lads were arraigned before His Honor Judge Houston this morning on the charge of swearing on the street contrary to the city by-law. There was no evidence against one lad, but the other was convicted. The boy found guilty was a little fellow whose head only reached above the railing in the prisoner's docket. He said he was fifteen years old but he didn't look to be ten. The evidence of six other lads showed that the prisoner was angry and had used some pretty fierce language. The judge told the judge that there was a party at his home and his mother had lost a present she had for him. This made him feel bad and he was provoked when he met the other boys. The little fellow kept his face straight until he learned that he was fined a dollar and costs, then his will-power failed him and he wept violently. He was a brave little fellow. Although his mother wasn't in court, and he was left to bear his trouble alone, he held up bravely, but the prospect of jail was too much. "Let me go, I want to do it again," passionately cried the boy between sobs that choked his utterances. "Please let me go," sobbed the boy. "Oh, my God, am I all alone?" The lad was retained at the police station to see if his fine would be paid and to give the judge a chance to consider how long a time he would give the lad in jail.

LETTER BOX

THAT MANIFESTO.

To the Editor of The Planet:

Dear Sir,—In the Wine and Liquor Journal it is advised that those personally interested in the trade appear as little as possible, but that it be made to appear to be a contest between the prohibition citizens and the non-prohibition citizens. Acting on this suggestion a so-called manifesto, circulated by those interested in the trade has been published in The Weekly Planet and Banner-News, purporting to be the spontaneous expression of opinion from the business men of Chatham in opposition to the pending prohibition vote. Even if it were not known to be the work of those interested, the purely mercenary character of the appeal would betray its parentage. Some who signed it say they did not see what they were asked to sign, and have never even read the Act. Others are apologizing for the firm endorses it, which is incorrect. For instance, in the Banner-News Mr. McKay is described as "Manager of The Planet Printing Co.," whereas that paper has in no way expressed itself as opposed to the Act, and in the manifesto in its columns Mr. McKay's name does not even appear.

The objections to the Act are easily answered. The law goes as far as the Legislature has power to go. Its design is to stop the selling of strong drink by retail. If strictly enforced it will prevent nine-tenths of the present drinking. That will be an immense gain.

Regarding drinking in private houses, sumptuary legislation is always condemned by opponents of prohibition, but now they object because this act is not of that character. To make the meaning of the law clear a sharp distinction is made by the Act between a private dwelling house and a place of any other kind. All sale or offering of liquor is prohibited except by licensed druggists for certain purposes considered necessary, and all giving of liquor is prohibited except the giving for such purposes or the giving in a private house to an adult friend of liquor that has not been unlawfully procured. The occupier of the house will be responsible for all violations of the Act committed in his dwelling, and his conviction of which proscribes the premises, so that liquor may no longer be received in it, except for medical purposes, while he resides therein. Drunkenness, disorderly conduct, resort of bad characters, giving to a drunken man or to a minor by other persons than parent or guardian, the presence of appliances used in a barroom, or of more liquor than is reasonably necessary for the inmates of the dwelling, are all violations of the Act and subject the occupant as well as those who may be directly guilty to the risk of heavy fines or imprisonment.

For selling or giving liquor, or keeping liquor for sale, contrary to the law, whether by a person not duly licensed or by a licensed druggist in unlawful places or hours, or to persons to whom it is not lawful to sell, the penalties are: For a first offence a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1,000, and in default of immediate payment, imprisonment for not less than three nor more than six months; for a second or any subsequent offence imprisonment for not less than three nor more than six months.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space, yours for a prosperous country.

THE KENT TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION.

Note.—So far as Mr. McKay's signature is concerned, it may be stated that he signed the manifesto simply for himself and as a private citizen. Mr. McKay gave no more than six months for the establishment of the use of the name of the establishment with which he is identified as superintendent.—Ed. Planet.

THIBODEAU & JACQUES

HIS DOMESTIC LIFE.

"THE PRIVATE LIFE OF EDWARD VII,"
A RECENT PUBLICATION.An Affectionate Husband and a Loving Father Who Has Never Received Full Credit for These Qualities—As a Churchman—About His Clothes—What His Majesty Eats and Drinks.A recent publication entitled "The Private Life of Edward VII," by a member of the royal household, contains many interesting facts pertaining to the domestic life of the King.
The writer speaks of the King as an affectionate husband and a loving father, who has never received full credit for these qualities. The book, which first appeared when the King was still Prince of Wales, says of him:"The romantic love that induced him, when little more than a boy,
to overcome all obstacles to his union
with Princess Alexandra of Denmark, has never waned. During the illness which in the late sixties kept her for many months bound to her couch, his devoted attention to her sufferings and his delight at her restoration to health, were proofs of his sincere affection. It was practically at the Prince's instigation that the long holiday that followed her convalescence in Egypt, Palestine, Turkey and Greece was planned, and he more than once expressed his delight that the journey, which lasted for many months, proved so successful in restoring the Princess to complete health.""The same touching affection which existed between the Prince and Princess of Wales was again displayed
during his own illness, when her Royal Highness scarcely ever left her husband's bedside. Other trials that must come to all people who undertake to journey through life together, be they Prince or peasant, were fully shared by these two hands
of affection that unite the royal pair."Under the head "The Prince is a Churchman," the writer says—
"When the Prince of Wales was quite a young man traveling abroad,
and while the love of sport of all kinds was running high in his veins,
a friend of his, hoping to give him pleasure, proposed to arrange a shooting expedition for a particular date. The offer was exceedingly tempting, but the Prince, after a moment's grave thought, replied, 'It is impossible that I should come, for the date you mention falls on a Sunday.'"The keynote of the Prince's observance of that day is struck in these simple words. From his youth up he has of his own free will, and not from any convictions, kept Sunday apart as a day that should be devoted to religious exercises,
quiet family life, and such occupations as entail the least labor. On those who are in his service. Sunday at Sandringham is, in fact, the ideal day of the English country gentleman. A holy peace and calm reign over the whole estate, and the shots from sportsmen's guns, and the whir of the latest improvements in agricultural machinery, is broken
only by the sound of the bells ringing the royal household and the peasants alike to service in the little church that stands within how-shot of Sandringham House.When the establishment at Sandringham is in full swing the list of visitors who are invited to stay there from Saturday till Monday;
generally includes a notable divine,
who is expected to preach on Sunday. Men of almost all opinions have stood up in the carved pulpit, but the Prince follows the Queen's example in preferring short to lengthy sermons. At the same time, whether the preacher be brilliant or dull, the demeanor of the royal family in church sets an excellent example to the rest of the congregation. The Prince's natural gravity is always heightened at these times,
and he is most attentive to and observant of the entire service. The Princess of Wales' devotion when in church is most touching. Prince Edward, whose likeness to his mother, extended to more than outward resemblance, was always very thoughtful and attentive, and the young Princesses follow the service with devout attention."A chapter of the book is devoted to "The Prince and His Clothes."
In this chapter it is made known that the tailor whom the King employed so many years, and whose popularity was established by the Prince of Wales' patronage, owed his own fortune to a slight incident.
The writer says that Albert Edward was at the theatre one night to see Fechter as Robert Macaire. "The adventurer's coat was apparently a mass of rents and patches, but the Prince's keen eye quickly noted that the garment was singularly well cut.
After the play the King sent for Fechter and asked him who his tailor was. The actor told where his tailor was, and the next day the next day the tailor received an order to call on the Prince of Wales, "and,"
as the author puts it, "from that hour he was a made man." He adds—"The Duke of Clarence had great faith in the Prince's taste, and always modelled his dress on that of his royal father. The Duke of York's taste is also largely ruled by that of the Prince of Wales. When the Prince requires new clothes, patterns of materials are sent to him. He has a correct eye for effect, and can tell at once how a piece of stuff will look when made up, which is in itself an art. He takes a very few minutes to make up his mind, always chooses a soft,
light material, and for country
clothes and 'dittos' suits has a preference for broken checks. He also makes up his mind with commendable quickness as to fit and alterations. About the former he is most particular, though his clothes are made of a sensible looseness. The Prince's extraordinary memory has also served him more than once with regard to minor details of his wardrobe. On one occasion when some trousers were accidentally made from a material that he had not chosen
he immediately found out the mistake although he had only once seen
the pattern of the material he had ordered."ABSOLUTE

he immediately found out the mis-
take although he had only once seen

Eats and Drinks," the writer shows that Edward VII. pays much attention to this subject—When the Prince arrives at the opera for early performances, such as those of Wagner's great cycle, which commence as early as 6.30, his Royal Highness is seen in his omnibus box as the curtain rises, and a short dinner is served to him in his private room at the back of the box
during the twenty minutes' interval between the first and second acts of the performance. This brief meal is followed by a cigarette, and then the Prince is once more in his place."The writer says also—
"The Prince has a dislike, which he does not attempt to disguise, to seeing ladies take more than a very little wine, so particular indeed, is he on this point, that he has been the various shrews, all of which are flavored strongly with liquors and spirits and by his express orders, I should judge, the Princess and her daughters set an example of extreme moderation. The Prince also of sending champagne and other bottles to the ladies' dressing-rooms. Except in cases of rare necessity such a thing is never done at Sandringham."It is largely owing to the fact that the Prince likes to smoke when he has finished dining that after-dinner drinking has gone entirely out of fashion during the last twenty years;
for what is done at the Prince's
table rules in all classes of society.
As soon after dinner as is possible
cigarettes are handed round, a practice which must be attributed to royal influence. The Prince popularized cigarettes some years ago."The book contains chapters on the

Donald, son of the postmaster here, is prominent among those in this district who swear by Dodd's Kidney Pills as a sure cure for those terrible pains in the back that are one of the surest symptoms of Kidney Disease. And Mr. McDonald has good reason for the stand he takes.
While at work in the coal pits he strained his back and was sent home in an agony of pain. The nearest doctor, twenty-five miles away, was sent for, but he could do little to relieve his suffering. This was in October, 1901, and he couldn't do a hand's turn of work till the spring of 1902.
Then a hotelkeeper advised him to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. That hotel-keeper didn't see him again till last August and then his first question was "Angus, how's your back?" "As well as ever it was," answered Angus.
"What cured it?" "Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me completely."And the Postmaster at Indian Brook is always ready to testify to the truth of his son's statement.

Some years ago a young London solitor, in order to win the girl of his choice, carried out a task which all but those of unusual courage would have shirked. The lady rejected his attention on the ground that she would only marry the man who undertook to find her brother, who had left home some years previously, and restore him to her mother.
As the runaway had been last heard of in a South American copper mine,
the solicitor had no important clues to aid him in his work. Nevertheless, pocketing a photograph, he gave up his business and set out only to return to England in despair when two years were over and he had come to the end of his resources with a sac-cess. But just as he was leaving a London terminus a man passed him in the street who bore a small resemblance to the photograph, and he inquired his name. Judge of his astunishment when the stranger replied that he was the individual in question, and the reunion of the family was followed shortly afterward by the announcement of the solicitor as a fully qualified member.Freaks of Language.
A peculiar kind of blundering known as "folk etymology" is responsible for some of the queerest freaks of language. An easy example will make this clear, says Harper's Magazine.
Our American word "carryall" for a kind of vehicle is not a compound of "carry" and "all," but a slight distortion of the French "carriole," a distinctive car. The change was made in obedience to the universal tendency to assimilate the unknown to the known,
to make words mean something by associating them with others which they resemble in sound. Often there is no etymological relation between the words associated, as when sparrowgrass is made out of asparagus. This particular corruption was once a good colloquialism, and Walker, the lexicographer, wrote, "Sparrowgrass is so general that asparagus has an air of stiffness and pedantry."

A Precedent Established.

A Methodist clergyman in the upper portion of the city encountered a Celt
one recent rainy Sunday standing close to the wall of the church in an effort to utilize the coping as a shield from the storm."Come inside," said the clergyman
cheerily. "You'll be out of the wet, and you can have a seat while you're waiting for it to clear.""No, thank ye," said the Celt emphatically. "O'll not go into th' house uv me inmates.""Well, that's rather harsh," answered the clergyman. "When our Lord was on earth, did he not go among his enemies?""Yis; he did that," assented the Celt with growing warmth, "and ye didn't do a ting to him, ayther?"
A Story of Charles Reade.
Charles Matthews was fond of telling a story of Charles Reade when the curtain fell at the old Queen's theater in London on a pronounced failure called
"A White Lie." There was no shadow of a call for the author. The curtain divided the audience from the author, who stood on the stage shaking his fist
at the invisible foe, still smiling blandly
and in mellifluous accents saying:
"Infernal idiot! When shall I teach you to respect Charles Reade?"

Very Polite.

"Here's an account of a man," said Mrs. Gadsby, "who hasn't spoken a word to his wife in three years."
"That's rather a rigid adherence to one of the rules of politeness," said Gadsby.
"Rules of politeness?" said Mrs.
Gadsby in a scornful tone.
"Yes; never interrupt a lady when she is talking."

The Musk Ox.

In systematic zoology the place according to the musk ox is intermediate between those of the sheep (ovis) and the ox (bos), and for its special accommodation a new genus has been created, "Ovis." Most writers notice its resemblance in many ways to the bu-falo or bison, and it undoubtedly has much affinity with this species.

Counter Irritant.

"Still bothered by that amateur cornet player next door?"
"No, I bought a dog."
"What had that to do with it?"
"Well, this was one of those dogs that howl frightfully every time they hear any sort of music."—Exchange.

Theatrical

Moving pictures at the Grand tonight, under the auspices of local Oddfellows. St. Thomas Journal of Nov. 1st, says—

After the excellent entertainment given by Colonial Moving Picture Co. at the Duncombe Opera House last evening, there is no doubt but that large audiences will be present at this afternoon and evening presentation of the stirring scenes shown. All of the advertised numbers were given strictly as announced and their merits were not overdrawn in the slightest. The coronation of King Edward was a means of obtaining a glimpse into court life, such as ordinary mortals are never privileged to witness. The reality, while the representation of Mount Pelée in eruption, simply magnificent. One could almost feel the suffocating heat of the subterranean fires and hear the bubbling, hissing and roaring of the molten lava as it came in contact with the cool waters of the ocean in the harbor of Martinique. Any one who visits the Colonial Moving Pictures will view one of the most realistic and instructive productions on the road.

Eight years of consecutive success in the principal theatres of the United States, supplemented by an equal amount of popular favor in Great Britain, Australia, Germany, and France is the record attained by that masterful melodrama, "The Span of Life," and no other play, except those of Shakespeare, has ever been so widely played, or so universally popular. Strong interest, exciting climaxes, thrilling situations, natural dialogue, genuine humor, fine stage settings and competent acting, are the features that have made this play the best of modern times. It will be presented at the Grand Opera House to-morrow night by the strongest company ever seen in a melodrama and with an entirely new equipment of scenery and effects. A great feature of the production will be the marvellous Domazettas, the most skillful and daring acrobats in the country, who will form themselves into a bridge 30 feet above the stage, and three people will pass across their interlocked bodies.

Royal Marine Band of Italy, Grand Opera House, Friday evening. Ettore Martini, the great leader—who has been especially engaged by Signor Ferrocio Giannini, the manager of the Royal Marine Band, of Italy and Grand Opera Company—is a nervous, excitable little chap who is a revelation to watch. He not only leads with his baton, but also with his head and stamping with his feet draws forth wonderful music. Those who may have seen the wonderful little leader will be surprised to see his lips move as if he was singing. One would naturally think that Signor Martini, speaking to his musicians, but in this they would be mistaken. He never interferes with his men during a performance—as critical as he may be at rehearsal. But he is singing. Having lead and sung most of the grand opera at home, he is familiar with every part which is sung. Consequently in leading a band concert in which every

But out there the farmers have such great fields—many have lands a mile square, 640 acres—all in grain. "The grain is of a very fine quality and like the western country very much."

Malta-Vita
"The Perfect Food" for Brain and Muscle
PURE, PALATABLE, POPULAR
Millions Are Eating MALTA-VITA "The Perfect Food"
Made in Canada, from Canadian grown wheat, by Canadian workmen.
REMOVES THE CAUSE OF DYSPEPSIA AND INSOMNIA
Malta-Vita is the vital, life-giving food; the invigorator of brain and body.
Malta-Vita is rich in phosphates, or brain food. Malta-Vita is the original and only perfectly cooked, thoroughly malted, flaked and toasted whole wheat food.
Malta-Vita contains all of the gluten of the whole wheat, and is the peer of all prepared foods as a bone and muscle builder.
Perfect Health is Sustained by a Perfect Food
Malta-Vita, "the perfect food," eaten for breakfast and supper, insures perfect digestion, and removes all cause of insomnia and dyspepsia. 90% of the ills of life are due to poor digestion. Perfect health, sound restful sleep, clear complexion, bright eyes, clean, white teeth, sweet breath, are the blessings that follow a regular diet of Malta-Vita.
Beware of imitations. Insist on getting Malta-Vita, "the perfect food." Requires no cooking,—always ready to eat.
Malta-Vita is so prepared as to be easily digested and assimilated by old and young, sick or well. Large packages at your grocer's.
