

right, however, to expect an adequate support and those among whom he labors are just as strongly bound, morally and spiritually, to give him that support as he is to preach to them.

We should go to our work humbly trusting in God, and confidently expecting success. Difficulties may present themselves, and circumstances may be of the most forbidding character, but if we have Christ in our hearts, present him in our sermons, and implicitly trust in Him in our prayers, difficulties will readily be overcome, and circumstances will be so ordered as to conduce to our success.

The difficulties and dangers that beset Methodist ministers in the early days of Methodism were much greater than they are now, but God being with them, these holy men succeeded in planting the standard of the cross even amidst the most violent opposition.

As a people, in the providence of God we must be prepared to spread the Gospel throughout the land; it is the will of God that we should be a people of prayer, and that we should be a people of prayer.

Our souls in this rapidly improving town, where the prosperity, intelligence, enterprise and piety of the community, under various interesting forms, arrest the observant eye, has been both pleasing and profitable.

The joy derived from our hallowed and re-joicing union with each other, after the trials and tribulations of another year, has been severely chastened by the ever-present memory of the unexpected decease of our honored and beloved President, the Rev. William Lockwood Thornton, A.M.

It is with regret that we refer to the falling strength of some of our fathers and brethren in the Ministry, three of whom this year are obliged to retire from the active work.

It is a matter of great thankfulness that fifteen young men, having with honor and usefulness completed their term of probation, have been solemnly set apart, by the laying on of hands, to the office and work of the Holy Ministry.

It is with gladness that we learn that our Educational Institutions in the Collegiate, Theological, and Academic departments, continue to command the support of the Provincial public.

I hope our young friends of both sexes, will not overlook this important mental and moral qualification, for efficient labor in the wide fields of Methodism. If he is lacking, and wide fields are to be won, he must be a man of letters.

Address to Rev. Joseph Hart, Liverpool, July 19th, 1865. The Reverend Joseph Hart, Wesleyan Minister, Liverpool, July 19th, 1865.

We the undersigned, members of the Wesleyan Methodist Church and Congregation at Liverpool, in view of your departure, after a residence amongst us of the full Methodist term of three years, beg leave to express the high respect and esteem we entertain for yourself, and Mrs. Hart, and our high regard for the services which you have rendered to this congregation.

It is a matter of great thankfulness that fifteen young men, having with honor and usefulness completed their term of probation, have been solemnly set apart, by the laying on of hands, to the office and work of the Holy Ministry.

It is with gladness that we learn that our Educational Institutions in the Collegiate, Theological, and Academic departments, continue to command the support of the Provincial public.

It is a matter of great thankfulness that fifteen young men, having with honor and usefulness completed their term of probation, have been solemnly set apart, by the laying on of hands, to the office and work of the Holy Ministry.

It is with gladness that we learn that our Educational Institutions in the Collegiate, Theological, and Academic departments, continue to command the support of the Provincial public.

It is a matter of great thankfulness that fifteen young men, having with honor and usefulness completed their term of probation, have been solemnly set apart, by the laying on of hands, to the office and work of the Holy Ministry.

and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his will. I will close, as I have already said, too much about the model preacher. — Dr. Brown in Zion's Herald.

A Popular Preacher on Popular Preaching. The Rev. Professor Caird, in his address at the ordination of the Rev. George Stewart Burns, late of Montreal, to the High Church of Glasgow, on Thursday, said:—

Dear Brethren:—The extent of few months have placed both the country in a state of great alarm, and hence it becomes necessary to ourselves to our altered relations.

The Doctrines of Great Britain. In view of the solemn and momentous nature of the subject, it is not surprising that the Convention should have taken so much interest in the subject.

The Model Preacher. Pigeons are pigeons still, though perched on Alps. An important subject cannot make a wise head, but only a good one.

A Working Church. Life contemplated from the Christian standpoint is a moral conflict—a race to the end of the field to be fought—a sterile desert to be transformed into a fruitful garden of the Lord.

The Doctrines of Great Britain. In view of the solemn and momentous nature of the subject, it is not surprising that the Convention should have taken so much interest in the subject.

The Model Preacher. Pigeons are pigeons still, though perched on Alps. An important subject cannot make a wise head, but only a good one.

