TROUBLE IN GERMANY

By Courier Leased Wire

Along the western battle line as well as on the mountain and Piave sectors of the battle front, the Allies await further enemy efforts. Infantry activity is limited to local actions at various points.

It is believed that the German command is about ready to launch another stroke against the Allied lines. The artillery activity remains about normal on important sectors, but aerial fighting has increased remarkably. Thirty-six German machines were brought or forced to land in a damaged condition Tuesday by Franco-British airmen, while Berlin claims the destruction of twelve Allied planes the same day.

German airplanes raided Paris Wednesday night. There is much sickness prevalent among the German troops, but this is not believed to have any effect on plans for a renewal of the enemy offensive.

In a minor operation, the British last night captured a German strong point in Flanders, west of Vieux Berquin, on the western side of the Lys salient, together with prisoners and some machine guns. Only artillery activity, which was rather lively near Couvres, southwest of Soissons, and raiding activity in the Vosges is reported from the French front. The Italians are busy taking count of the guns and material captured from the Austrians who fled across the Piave. In the mountain zone the fighting has died down to local attacks. Unconfirmed reports received in Switzerland from Berlin are that Foreign Secretary von Kuehlmann will resign in consequence of his speech in the Reichstag Tuesday.

Hours of labor shall not be more than nine hours a day.

Showers have occurred in some localities in the western provinces and Northern Ontario, but the weather has been mostly fine.

Forecasts Moderate easterly and southerly winds, a few scattered showers, but for the most part fair and moderately warm to-day and on Friday.

Conscription Not Abandoned French Warns

Will Be Enforced in Ireland the Voluntary System Fails

GOVT. IS DETERMINED

By Courier Leased Wire London, June 27.—When his proclamation calling for Irish volunteers was issued there was no idea of abandoning the possibility of conscription, Viscount French, the lord lieutenant, declared in a speech Wednesday at Belfast.

If the military requirements set forth in the proclamation are not satisfied voluntarily, he added, the Government must deal with the situation in the interests of the army. Fifty thousand men would be accepted as Ireland's contribution, but if compulsion had to be resorted to, the number would be regulated by population.

"I must say plainly and emphatically," Lord French asserted, "that the Government in Ireland will carry out its duty in this respect unflinchingly without fear or favor and in the face of whatever opposition—whether of criticism or of actual force—may unfortunately or inadvertently be attempted."

REPORTED MURDER OF EX-CZAR IS REPEATED

Word From Kiev Insists That Nicholas Romanoff Was Assassinated by Bolsheviki Troops in Retreat on Yekaterinburg

By Courier Leased Wire.

Bulletin, Paris, June 27.—A dispatch from Kiev, under date of Wednesday, June 26, declares that the report of the assassination of former Emperor Nicholas of Russia has been confirmed. It is declared he was killed by Bolsheviki troops during the retreat on Yekaterinburg.

The Kiev message was received at Basel, Switzerland, and forwarded here by the Havas correspondent in that city.

The first report of the assassination of Emperor Nicholas was received in Copenhagen through Stockholm on Tuesday, although it appears that rumors that the former emperor had been killed by the Bolsheviki had been circulating in Russia for some days previously. The Copenhagen message quoted the Russian Vite as saying that Russian Red Guards had murdered the ex-emperor in his residence at Yekaterinburg, where he was removed recently from Tobolsk.

An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow, dated June 21 and received in this country on Wednesday, declared there was no foundation, however, for the rumors of the assassination, and dispatches from German sources last week reported that the former emperor was not at Yekaterinburg, but had been removed to Moscow for safe-keeping.

Several Epidemics Spreading Among Troops on the West Front—German Deteriorating in Marksmanship, and Spirit of Disaffection Spreads

With the British Army in France, June 26—By the Associated Press—German troops on the western front are suffering from an epidemic of grippe which incapacitates them for a week or ten days. There are also many cases of typhus and dysentery within the German lines, southwest of Lille. There is no evidence, however, that these illnesses are responsible for the postponement of the new offensive. It is believed that the German high command has nearly completed its preparations for the next great attack against the Allied front. The artillery activity in the last two days has been rather below normal.

The German infantry in Flanders has been complaining of the bad shooting by German batteries. Captured German orders show many turpitudes of this kind and it is indicated the German troops have been suffering badly from the British fire. The order shows that the spirit of the enemy troops had deteriorated in consequence.

A captured order signed by a colonel of a German regiment shows the anxiety of the German command to ascertain the exact strength of the Allied forces opposite. The order complains of the failure to secure prisoners and raise a renewed attempt by an ambush patrol because information of the dispositions of the British behind the front is scanty. The patrol went out as ordered. The officer in charge was captured by the British and the men with him bolted back to their own lines.

French Official Bulletin: Paris, June 27.—Lively artillery duels south of the Aisne are reported in the official statement from the war office to-day. In the Vosges, the French took prisoners in raids.

The statement says: "The activity of the artillery is rather lively south of the Aisne in the region of Cœuvres (north of Villers-Cotterets). In the Vosges we took prisoners in various raids."

British Official Bulletin: London, June 27.—British troops last night took a German strong point west of Vieux Berquin, east of Hazebruck and captured prisoners and machine guns, says the official statement from Field Marshal Haig to-day. The German artillery has been active on the Lys salient.

The statement reads: "By a successful minor operation during the night, we gained possession of a hostile strong point west of Vieux Berquin and captured a number of prisoners and some machine guns. The hostile artillery has been active at different points between

KUEHLMANN UNDER CRITICISM FOR HIS SPEECH IN REICHSTAG; MAY BE REMOVED FROM POST

Retirement of Foreign Secretary Quite Probable—His Reference to Peace by Negotiations, Not by Military Decisions, Most Contentious Point—Internal Unrest in Central Powers.

By Courier Leased Wire. LONDON, June 27.—One of the most criticized points in the Reichstag speech of Foreign Secretary von Kuehlmann, was his reference to negotiations, not military decisions, ending the war, according to dispatches reaching London.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, the National-Liberal Leader, Count von Westarp and others, protest warmly against this statement. Dr. Stresemann said the speech had a most depressing effect. It offered the German people, he added, stones for bread. The deputy declares that not negotiations but hammer blows brought peace in the East, and said the reason the world refused to believe in German victories because German statesmen are almost afraid to mention them.

In reply the foreign secretary explained that what he meant was that military success must be followed by diplomatic negotiations. Chancellor von Hertling also emphasized the same point, declaring that von Kuehlmann's statement must not be regarded as weakening the German determination for victory.

MAY BE REMOVED. London, June 27.—The removal from office of Dr. Richard von Kuehlmann, the German foreign secretary, can be anticipated judging from comment in conservative and his German newspapers on his Reichstag speech, the Berlin correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung says, according to a Central News Dispatch from Amsterdam.

AUSTRIAN SITUATION. Paris, June 27.—Austria is in serious difficulties, but there is great danger in hoping too much from them, says a French official summary commenting on the situation in the dual monarchy. Little hope is seen in the possibility of a successful revolt. Austria cannot negotiate a separate peace and it would be a "bad policy to extend a hand to her now."

Submarine Effort Has Definitely Failed

Offensive by Sea Maintained During May, But British Shipping Losses Were Light—U-Boat Campaign Has Collapsed

By Courier Leased Wire. London, June 21.—The offensive by sea was being still maintained during May with the utmost vigor, but in spite of the unprecedented number of submarines sent to sea, only 224,000 tons of British tonnage was lost, as compared with 374,000 in May of last year, says Archibald Hurd, distinguished naval authority, discussing the figures for May, just published.

"In spite of the fact that losses from marine mines were 'unduly heavy' it can now be said definitely that the enemy's effort to cripple us by sea by an offensive with attacks on the western front has failed definitely.

"The Austrians are submissive and have not the energy to start a strong revolutionary movement. Besides the two trouble-making elements in the country could not combine easily. In Vienna the Labor Party is German, while in Budapest, it is Magyar. Their claims are quite different from the Nationalist claims of the Czech-Slovaks and other races and no union between them is likely. "The army itself is never influenced by Labor trouble and it is always possible to oppose the latter by mere military force. "Austria is in no way ready to negotiate separately, but as an ally of Germany she is only a deadweight. It would be a bad policy to extend a hand to her now for our attitude would be used against the nations which stand against her. It is our interest to support these nations in their claims."

Three movements are in progress and we can view such of them with satisfaction. Firstly, the measures adopted by the Admiralty last year for combating the submarine, including thousands of mines manufactured for Straits of Dover and for the intercepting with the freedom of movement of enemy craft through the northern exit to the North Sea, are proving very fruitful. Secondly, the steps taken to defend merchant shipping against mines and U-boats—patroling ships with other mine protection and organizing convoys—are showing admirable results. Thirdly, apart from the wonderful record the Americans are putting up on shipbuilding, British yards are making headway owing to the fact that plans drawn up several months for the extension of yards and engine shops are beginning to be put into effect.

By Courier Leased Wire. London, June 27.—Alexander F. Kerensky, the short-lived dictator of Russia, whose sudden appearance before the British Labor Conference yesterday, startled not only the laboring men, but the British public generally, looks towards America as the goal of his journey. He hopes to receive there, as the spokesman of his countrymen, and plead the cause of the new born Russian democracy.

To-day Kerensky has promised to address the Labor Conference. Within a few days he will go to France and thence to the United States. His friends say the former premier does not like the word "intervention" in relation to Allied aid to Russia, but prefers the phrase, "help and reconstruction."

How Kerensky escaped from Russia and how his comrades aided him from Bolsheviki cannot be told until the time comes. That probably will be when they are not endangered by the revolution, as at present he is evading all unwelcome visitors. Kerensky's sudden arrival apparently caused more excitement in newspaper offices and among book publishers, photographers and motion picture agents than has occurred in Europe since Dr. Cook appeared in Copenhagen with equally startling suddenness from out of the northern mist.

No conjurer milking a white rabbit from a silk hat ever started an audience of wild-eyed children more thoroughly than Arthur Henderson surprised the British Labor Conference yesterday in introducing Kerensky. Amusement pervaded the meeting hall, to be followed by cheers as a slight, youthful, dark-haired and smooth shaven, foreign-looking man stood up beside Dr. Henderson. Kerensky told the Labor delegates that the Russian people, fighting against tyranny now, would soon take part again in the lists against the Central Powers. The situation in Russia to-day, he summarized as follows: "One can break the Russian people, but one cannot subdue them."

The morning newspapers devote much space in their news columns to Kerensky's appearance in London, but only two of them comment editorially upon the event. ### Douglas Porter Takes to Salt Water—Off in Merchant Marine

NEWS FROM SIMCOE

(From our own Correspondent)

Simcoe, June 27.—Four days ago we published extracts from a letter to County Treasurer John Porter, from his son, Douglas, giving some detail of his experience on Lake Michigan, and the beaching of the steamer Bangor on which he was look-out. The Bangor struck more than once and had to dock for repairs. Douglas hit Chicago in time to find a new boat, the "Lake Chelan," just ready for her maiden trip. He was accepted as wheelman, and a letter written in Cleveland on Saturday reached here on Tuesday, stating that Douglas was off for salt water, and bound for France or Buenos Aires, he did not know which. It is quite probable that the young Simcoe passed the Long Point light on Sunday night or Monday morning, and perhaps his boat was reported through the canal early in the week, if such boats are reported.

Picture Show War Lectures—Well Received.

The scribe had his first opportunity last evening of observing the attitude of the audience at the local picture show towards the five-minute war lectures that have been given here once a week for some months past. The time allotted is between the first and second programs and the management apparently give the speakers deputized for the work a most encouraging and cordial reception. The audience of the first show are requested to remain, and the great majority do so. Those coming in become seated as far as possible, quietly, or stand attentively in the rear. The order and attention is good, and there is no trace of unrest

AIR RAIDS ON PARIS FUTILE

Few Bombs Dropped Last Night, And No Casualties Were Caused

By Courier Leased Wire

Paris, June 27.—(Havas Agency).—Few bombs were dropped and no casualties were caused by the German airplanes which raided Paris last night, according to The Petit Parisien's representative of the German attempt at an air bombardment. It appears, says The Matin, that there were two groups of the Gothas. The greater part of them had to change the direction of their flight because of the vigorous barrage fire and in the effort to regain their base safely got rid of their bombs rapidly.

It is pointed out that whereas the Germans had made six attacks upon Paris by the air route early in June they had made no attempts upon the city previous to last night, since the night of 15-16.

SEMIPOFF ADVANCES

London, June 27.—General Semenov, the anti-Bolshevik leader in eastern Siberia, again is advancing into Siberia from the Manchurian border, according to 'The Peking Dispatch' of 'The Times', dated June 22. The Bolsheviki forces opposing General Semenov, it is added, have been ordered to return immediately to Irkutsk to defend the Soviet cause in western Siberia, which is reported threatened by a counter revolution.

PRISONERS CONTROL IRKUTSK

Harbin, Manchuria, Tuesday, June 25.—Austro-German war prisoners are in complete control of Irkutsk on the trans-Siberian railway, according to reports received here from that city. The prisoners are commanded by Austro-German officers.

Berlin advice transmitted through Copenhagen to London Tuesday reported that Czech-Slovak troops, under General Ahrerff, the former commander-in-chief, the Czechs and Slovaks, having served in the Austrian army formerly were prisoners in Russia. This may account for the conflict in report on the situation at Irkutsk.

THE GERMAN STRATEGY.

Well-Known American Authority Feels Interesting Facts

At the outset of a discussion of the terrible military operations now going on, it is essential to revert for one moment to the conditions of the German gamble; for it was and is a gamble. Germany has staked all she has on the possibility of a military triumph—a decision, a win-the-war victory over Britain. These conditions are at once political and military.

With the collapse of Russia, Germany was at last able to reap a rich harvest as a result of her great efforts. Taken with her Balkan achievements and her final destruction, to be sure, mainly accomplished by Trotsky and Lenin, Germany had now reached a point where she could erect new states and arrange new frontiers to the east and to the south, desirable to her future both politically and economically. Russia and the Balkans, together with Asiatic Turkey, were hers to exploit in the future, provided only she could get such a peace from her western foes as would leave her eastern arrangements undisturbed.

By negotiation Germany could not get such an arrangement. Her western foes were all the more determined to fight it out as they perceived the character and ultimate consequence of Germany's eastern settlement. The fate of Serbia, of Roumania, the still surviving German determination to enslave Belgium and to mutilate France still further—these were considerations which continued to weigh in the minds of the Western Allies who began the campaigning season of 1918 with as firm a resolution to go forward to victory as they had when they began the year 1915.

In this situation the German leaders felt the sheer pressure of time. The German people were becoming so weary of the strain of war that the prospect of a new campaign of great length might produce a grave weakening of morale. It was likewise impossible for the Germans to await attack, because the delay would give the Allies fresh American aid and it would disperse the temporary enthusiasm and confidence of the German people, evoked by the eastern settlement.

Thanks to this settlement, and to the improved German prospects due to Russia's collapse, the German people believed that they could still win the war and make France and Britain pay the costs. They were willing to listen to military chiefs who told them that a short, tremendous effort would end the struggle and put the western enemies out as Russia had been put out. But they were no longer so content as to insure their continued consent to a protracted struggle and another blood bath like Verdun, but even more costly in life.

The German High Command, accordingly, determined upon one tremendous effort; a concentration of every man and gun available upon the western front; a super-Napoleonic campaign for a super-Napoleonic victory. From Russia all the best troops were brought west. From Russia and from Austria vast masses of artillery were transported. All the captures of guns and material from Russia, Roumania and Italy together with the best of Austrian artillery were brought over the western front.

As between the British and the French, the Germans decided to attack the British because they reasoned that a defeat of the French might put France out of the war without disposing of Britain, while a total defeat of Britain would inevitably compel France to make peace. They argued, also, that it would be easier to defeat the British than the French, because the British were a newly constructed army, while the French was a professional army officered by men who had made the problems of war the study of a lifetime. With the Verdun experience in mind the German elected to assail the British. How far his bitterness for the English influenced his decision one may not say. But in the main the decision grew out of the fact that Britain had become the principal enemy, the one great obstacle to German success, the cornerstone of the alliance against the Central Powers.

Bamboo Organ at Shanghai.

After fifty years of service the bamboo organ in the Church of St. Francis Xavier, Tungksadeo, Shanghai, is still in fairly good condition. It is stated that there is one other bamboo organ in the Orient, but it is not possible at this time to secure any definite information relative to its whereabouts or condition. As metal pipes are to replace the bamboo in the Shanghai organ, that notable instrument will lose much of its public interest. In a recent issue of the North China Daily News (British), of Shanghai, the following comment appears regarding the tone of the historic bamboo organ: "It would be better if it were completely in tune, for a long wave beat similar to the short one which gives the beauty of the tremulous wax ocellus, betrays the fact that it is flat. Possibly it never was, for bamboo does seem refractory stuff for organ building. Despite this, however, the tone is sweet, if somewhat 'woolly,' and the whole instrument speaks volumes for the skill of those men who, using only materials immediately to hand, were able to devise an organ pleasing to the ear and able to defy the severest test—that of time."

COUNTER OFFENSIVE STILL SUCCESSFUL

Italians Have Captured in Neighborhood of 18,000 More Austrians By Courier Leased Wire Rome, June 27.—Italian troops on the southern part of the Piave front have not only completely re-occupied the Cape Sile bridgehead, but have extended it and held the gains against Austrian counter attacks. The extension was effected yesterday. During the fighting nearly 400 prisoners were taken. The war office made this announcement to-day. On the remainder of the front the fighting was confined to artillery duels and patrols. Italian Army Headquarters, June 26.—(By the Associated Press)—With the capture yesterday of between 2,000 and 3,000 prisoners, the total captures by the Italian forces during their counter offensive are brought up to the neighborhood of 18,000 men. In the higher Alps, there are evidences of renewed activity. Italian Alpini, surprising the enemy on the summit of Cavello, 10,500 feet high, in the Tonale region, took 60 prisoners and captured several machine guns. North of Monte Grappa, detachments of the fourth army after violent artillery and machine gun preparation, made thrusts and secured advantages despite severe enemy resistance.

The Situation Now that the Piave line is again intact, the Italians have begun operations on the mountain front, looking for further improvement of the positions there. On the north-western slopes of Monte Grappa, between the Brenta and the Piave, the Italians have gained considerable ground and taken more than 1,500 prisoners. Italian attacks on the mountain front probably are for the purpose of forestalling any intended enemy effort there, as well as to improve the Italian positions. Strong raids are being carried out also on the Asiago plateau. The Italian gain on Monte Grappa however, is most important, as the mountain is the key position to the terrain between the Brenta and the Piave, and dominates the hills southward to the Venetian plain. It was on this height that the Austrians met with failure in their attempts 10 days ago to reach the plain from the north. In completing the recapture of the western bank of the Piave, the Italians added 1,600 prisoners to the already large numbers taken from the river districted the Austrians who had crossed the western bank, the river fell during the enemy retreat, but again has risen, hampering the Italian pursuit on the eastern bank. Apparently the Italians have been content to hold the strong bridgeheads on the eastern bank rather than to attempt to pursue the enemy any distance eastward.

"DAMN" SAID REV. SAM AND BISHOP SAID "OK"

Even a Y.M.C.A. Man Gets Ruffled at the Kaiser London, June 26.—(Correspondence.)—Sam rhymes with "dam," but in no wise ordinarily could it be connected with a minister named Sam. And yet— The Rev. Dr. Sam Leland, New York Methodist minister, was on his way to France. The boat was the Oronso and history tells what happened to it. Three minutes after a British destroyer picked up the survivors, Rev. Dr. Leland approached A. B. Hungerford, leader of a group of Y.M.C.A. secretaries. "Can a man resign from the Y.M.C.A.?" he asked. Hungerford looked at him, trying to determine if the minister was scared. "To enlist in the army?" continued Leland. "Of course," said the Y.M.C.A. leader. "Damn!" said Rev. Dr. Sam. "I'll do it!" A famous English bishop was told the story to see what he thought of the use of a swear word at such an hour. "It was the only language justified," he said.

Here Are Some War Bread, Owing to the shortage of wheat the powers that be have been experimenting to see whether satisfactory bread cannot be made from other cereals. They have come to the conclusion that they can—very much so. The chief grains which the researchers have added to our food-stuffs, are cotton-seed meal, kafir corn, felerita, grain sorghums, and milo. So far all these have been used to feed to stock, but it is found that they can all be milled and made into bread. Not only that, but the bread is more palatable and much more nutritious than wheat bread; overthought of being. For instance, cottonseed meal contains about forty-five per cent of proteins, whereas wheat only contains about nine per cent. Of these new grains, Kansas, Texas, and Oklahoma can supply enough to make up this year's wheat shortage, while next year with more planted, the supply will be abundant. Texas is capable of supplying the whole country alone if necessary, so that there is no danger of a bread shortage.—Popular Science Monthly.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES

Ottawa, June 27.—Casualties: Wounded—3,247 C. Van Every, Galt.

Experiments on injecting various solutions into plants were those of Erhart and Reichard, who published their results in 1873. A few years ago F. Weber succeeded in influencing the unfolding of winter buds by means of a water injection. A few others have carried out similar experiments. A further contribution to the subject has been reported by Yasutaro Yendo, whose experiments were made at the University of Tokio. His object was to determine the mode and extent of transport of the injected substance in plant body, rather than the ultimate effects. Solutions of lithium nitrate, copper sulphate, rosain, and aniline violet were injected into various branches of the vegetable kingdom. His results show that the rate of transport of an injection varies according to the nature of the injected substance; that the injection is mostly carried to that part where transpiration is going on most rapidly; that there is a relatively slight but perceptible transport of injected lithium in deciduous trees treated during the winter; that upward transport is always conspicuous, downward transport generally less so, and transverse transport very feeble. The speed of transport of an injected solution varies according to its concentration. The solutions are carried mainly through the phloem parts; other tissues conduct them to some extent.—East Suffolk Gazette.

THE SITUATION.

The Italians continue to clean up in good style after the recent rout of the Austrians in the fighting on the Piave. Several more prisoners have fallen into their hands and also additional material.

The Americans by the capture of Belleau Wood, northwest of Chateau Thierry, recorded the most important event they have yet achieved. There was hand to hand fighting and 1,200 of the Teutons were wiped out.

From Washington comes the announcement that it is hoped to have 1,450,000 soldiers in France by August and that Congress will soon be asked to ratify further plans looking to a maximum of fighting effort.

Lieut. Jean Cenal of the "Blue Devils" (French Chasseurs), now visiting Canada, said in a speech at Montreal last night:

"A lot of people ask me how long the war is going to last. They want to pin me down to a date. Will it last three months? Six months? One year or ten years? We don't know, and we don't care. This war will end when somebody's licked, and we are not going to be licked."

Therein he voiced the true spirit of magnificent and long sustained French heroism.

THE TRIBUTE OF A NEW YORK PAPER.

It is impossible to imagine a safer loan than one to the Canadian people at the present time. Surely our bankers and our government itself can find some way to relieve the momentary stress upon our nearest ally and closest friend.

Time was when Canada and Canadians did not take very high rank in the estimation of the bulk of the people in the United States. For the most part we were regarded by them as a backward people living on tomahawk soup and fricasseed snowballs, with an ornate cold that it was necessary to go out and be hugged by a polar bear in order to feel warm.

BRITISH WOMEN IN THE WAR.

According to official announcements there are, at the present time, 4,538,000 women and girls employed in classified trades that are under the jurisdiction of the British Board of Trade. These figures are exclusive of women employed in small trades and on the land.

Less than 200,000 women were employed in Great Britain before the war began and these were mostly in textile mills. The report is for 1918-19 in government offices exclusive of civil service and local government.

Nothing better for the children these warm days than a pair of those Strap Slippers at $1.24. Coles Shoe Co., 122 Colborne street.

all these lines and the response has been to the tune of 15,000 a week.

The spirit of these women is wonderful. Difficult work and dangerous work is not shunned but taken up cheerfully. Extra hours are taken as a matter of course. "We're not tired," is their motto, and when holidays are mentioned the reply is: "What will our men at the front do if we go holiday making?"

Skilled workmen have been glad to teach these brave and plucky women the secrets of trade efficiency. Excavating for factories, actually laying the bricks and doing the carpentering is being done every day in order to release men for the front.

"Farmerettes" is a name which carries a pleasant suggestion of picturesque employments, but too often it stands for such unlovely tasks as cleaning pigsties or such nerve-racking work as tending horses when one is actually afraid of the creatures.

Kerensky has escaped from Russia. It would be well if his country could just as easily escape from his betrayal of her to Germany.

It is stated that an influenza epidemic among the German troops is halting preparations for the next big drive. That's the most influential thing recorded of them for some time.

Judging from the number of liquor permits certain doctors are issuing, they might as well take out bar tending licenses and avoid any further camouflage.

Judging from the reports, the recent session of the Reichstag was a mighty gloomy affair. A good deal of the starch has been taken out of the Hun outfit, and the process has only just commenced.

FLEE FIRE IN NIGHT CLOTHES.

Brookville, Ont., June 27.—The residence of William Moore, 1011 Main Street, was totally destroyed, with its contents, by fire early yesterday morning.

BRING 8,000,000 FT. OF LUMBER.

Sarnia, Ont., June 26.—Work on the raising of the steamer Anstraker is progressing rapidly. A bulkhead is being put in.

The tugs Whalen and Sarnia City have arrived with 8,000,000 feet of lumber, bringing it into the bay in two sections this afternoon.

The Harmonic cleared for Duluth to-day, with passengers and freight.

GRANT GRADED CERTIFICATES.

London, Ont., June 27.—At last night's session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Society of Stationary Engineers, Dr. W. A. Riddell announced that graded certificates would be granted the stationary engineers of Ontario, and that application for certificates will be received by the board of examiners after January 1, 1919. There will be four grades.

Dear Sir,—After reading Schools of To-morrow, by Dr. John Dewey, of Columbia University, a very able book, I feel in duty bound to correct some of the statements he has made regarding the Montessori method.

Dr. Dewey says: "The American school teacher says to give the children work which represents truly the conditions they have to deal with out of school."

Dr. Dewey also says in the Montessori system, "Freedom allowed the child to create, he is free to choose which material he will use, but never to choose his own ends, never to bend a material to meet his own ends."

Margaret Garrett's Husband. BIANNE PHELPS. CHAPTER XXII. Anger and Fear Combined. I had stopped weeping and sat stoutly silent. What had I done that such misery should come to me?

no breakfast but drank two cups of strong coffee. "I want you to promise me something, Bob," I said to him. "What?" "That you will see a doctor this morning."

"To please me, dear" I tried to speak naturally. "I know you are ill. Perhaps you have been overdoing."

"I am ill," he said slowly. "Yes, I am sure of it. No man who has decided to do—what you will consent to do when I return."

"I got stiffly up and went upstairs. I undressed and took a hot bath. By the time I had finished Della was up and before I was dressed the children had awakened. I dressed them and then waited for Bob to appear.

"Good morning, Margaret," he said quietly, as he kissed the boys. "He was very pale and had great dark circles around his eyes. He ate mand on the blackboard. One child wrote: Alice, go to the piano. Run around the room, etc."

"But I was indubitably amazed when one little girl 5 1/2 wrote, All go over to see the alligator, and spelled alligator correctly."

Several weeks previously the children had written a short sentence about the stuffed baby alligator, in their writing books, and without any drill in spelling, or writing the word again, she had retained the spelling of alligator all that time, ready for the time to apply the word.

If this is not creative work I do not know what is, especially as the children range in age from 3 to 7 years. Lastly Dr. Dewey says physically the pupils of a Montessori school are free but, intellectually they are not free.

This statement is not true as I have pointed out and can be confuted, because it stands to reason, any one who is free being physically, stands free morally and mentally than one who has not the asset of physical freedom.

Hence the specific use of some of the Montessori material just as the saw has its specific use, but that does not eliminate the creative ability in the child, neither does the Montessori equipment, any more than a tool like the saw.

In other words the Montessori materials are tools to develop the child, physically, intellectually and spiritually.

In a personal letter from Dr. Dewey he tells me the chapter in his book on the Montessori Schools was written by his daughter and not by himself.

U. S. LINES EXTENDED. By Courier Leased Wire. With the American Army in France, June 26.—(By the Associated Press)—In an attack upon the German lines on the Marne troops extended their line northwest of Belleau wood. Up to ten o'clock this morning 218 prisoners had been counted together with a number of machine guns and other booty. Additional prisoners are coming in.

The new sector held by American troops in Alsace is in the region northwest of Gebweiler. This sector is not far from the famous Hartmanns Weckert, the scene of so much hard fighting in the past.

FOOD LAWS NOT BEING OBEYED AS THEY OUGHT

By Courier Leased Wire. Ottawa, June 27.—The attention of the Canada Food Board has been called to the fact that the new regulations applicable to picnics are not being observed as strictly as they should.

Churches and other organizations are reminded that the regulations applicable to public eating places now apply to public entertainments, lawn socials, bazaars and tea meetings, public luncheons, dinners, lodge, club and fraternal societies meetings, and all such places of a like or similar character.

In some cases the regulations are being evaded by arranging for each person to bring a basket, which upon arrival at the picnic ground is handed to a committee to prepare the meal. This is contrary at least to the spirit of the order.

Henry B. Thomson, chairman of the Canada Food Board, said to-day it was realized that the restrictions on the use of wheat products and meat would cause some difficulties, so far as arrangements for picnics were concerned, but that it was imperative that we should conform to war necessities. The Food Board is confident he added, "that no Sunday school or other organization in Canada would willingly impose further hardships on the soldiers and civilians overseas for the sake of a pleasant outing, and this is what it means to ignore or violate the regulations passed to conserve the much needed wheat and meat."

Physical Director George Mesely of the Y.M.C.A. received word this afternoon from George Goulding, champion walker of Canada, that he will be in Brantford on Wednesday of next week for the twilight athletic meet, bringing with him one of his most promising juniors, who will talk against him in a purely exhibition race.

The eight Chinamen who were caught in a round up on Sunday and accused of gambling on the Lord's Day, appeared in police court this morning. The case was dismissed owing to insufficient evidence. Sam Kowicki and John Guskovka charged with keeping liquor in an unauthorized place was remanded till Tuesday. The charge against William Turnbull of breach of the Motor Vehicles Act, was dropped.

The regular meeting of the Mission to Lepers was held on Tuesday in the club rooms of the Y. W. C. A. After opening exercises, conducted by the president, Mrs. W. H. Whitaker, the Rev. Mr. Brown gave a very helpful Bible reading, "Love's Postponement." Most interesting papers on the closing years of the life of Rev. John Davis were read by Mrs. Ferguson and Miss Tanton. A solo, "Some Day We'll Understand," rendered by Mrs. Booth, was very much appreciated. Mrs. Ritchie led in prayer, which brought one of the most inspiring meetings of the society to a close.

Draft Numbers Are Drawn in U.S.

By Courier Leased Wire. Washington, June 27.—The drawing of numbers to determine the order in which youths of the classes of 1918 will be called into military service was conducted to-day with much the same ceremony which marked the great drawing of a year ago. The drawing was held in the conference room of the Senate office building with Secretary of War Baker, blindfolded, taking the first gelatine capsule with a number enclosed from the glass bowl. It was No. 246. Numbers 1168 and 818 were the second and third capsules drawn, and thus the drawing continued to the end. Big black boards for checking the record were placed against the wall at the rear of the room. The numbers were written on the board as drawn and then the board was photographed to make a permanent record.

After Secretary Baker had taken the first capsule several senators, congressmen and military officers stepped up to draw. A woman clerk in the provost marshal general's office drew the eleventh number and proceeded to draw all the others, which represent 44,500 men, the majority of whom will be enrolled in the military forces of the United States in a few months.

By Courier Leased Wire. Kingston, June 27.—Dean Starr was called to Montreal to conduct the funeral of the late Corp. ## Nuptial Notes

HAWTHORNE—TIMBLECK. The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Timbleck, 71 William street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their second daughter, Margory, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. R. J. Hawthorne, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawthorne of this city, on Monday last.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Gordon, pastor of St. Andrew's church, in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Ila Stuart, the bride entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her father. The young couple were married under a magnificent archway of roses and white satin. After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served by four young lady friends of the bride, who, daintily gowned in pink and gray satin, presented a charming appearance.

The bride's gown was of blue silk crepe granite, with a large blue hat to match, her travelling costume. She carried a bouquet of orchids.

With showers of best wishes the young couple left on the 6 p.m. Grand Trunk train for Brockville and points east. On their return they will reside in Toronto. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome gold octagonal wrist watch.

Progress Reported At Last Night's Meeting of Trades and Labor Council

CO-OPERATION URGED

"We don't want to knock everything good just because there are capitalists hoarding the same lines. If we wish to be recognized, let's co-operate." Such was the note of last night's Trades and Labor Council. Though Socialism was advocated by several delegates, the delegate reminded that this was not in compliance altogether with the Labor movement.

Del. Kite reported that the Organization Committee had met with good success. The blacksmiths and blacksmiths helpers are forming a strong union, and no trouble has yet been met with.
 A communication from Organizer Fleet of the American Federation of Labor, offering assistance in organization was read.
 Delegate Noble, reporting for the Machinists' Union, read a resolution, commending the granting of titles to people of Canada. On the motion of Del. Kite, the resolution received the endorsement of the Trades and Labor Council.

Del. Nell suggested that the city council be asked to have an assessment roll in the press every year. The present system, the delegate declared unfair. The matter will be furthered at the next meeting of the Trades and Labor Council.

Del. Kite remarked a copy of a church notice "with a union label on it." "Surely this is a sign of the times," he volunteered.
 Arising from a discussion in regard to the relations of the Trades and Labor Council to the Board of Trade, opposition was taken. Del. Innes declared that instead of indifference, the Trades and Labor should co-operate with anything that would mean the advancement of all men.
 The Grand River Improvement Committee a Board of Trade sub-committee, said Del. Stinchcombe, while Del. James acted as president. "No. Therefore should I go on their motor trip of inspection to-morrow. I am not representing this body to the Board of Trade body." There was some objection, but President Stinchcombe was finally given full authority to represent the Trades and Labor Council.
 "If we don't like what the Board of Trade does, why not have representatives at their sessions to give our opinions?" asked Del. Stinchcombe while on the floor.
 "It appears Del. Kite and I are in the wrong pew," said the chairman James. "We are Socialists, the others are Labor men."
 At a recent T. and L. meeting a resolution was passed which meant the "termination of negotiations" of the T. and L. to the Board of Trade. Though he himself believing the motion, itself to be a proper procedure, Chairman James claimed it had been passed, though out of order. No notice of motion. Del. Kite offered to bring the matter before the next session of the T. and L.
 Success was reported by Del. Innes, reporting for the Bakers' Union. One firm from whom some differences were held, has "come across," and harmony is almost general in the Union of Bakers. Another firm, however, was somewhat lax in keeping union views, and the company will be addressed by the special committee.
 It is not known whether or not an election of officers will be held at the next session in two weeks' time.

 Continued from page one (ed Press).—The number of prisoners captured by the Americans in their drive on the German positions in the Belgian wood sector Tuesday night was officially increased today to 311. The Americans also captured eleven big machine guns, ten automatic rifles, a quantity of small arms and ammunition and other materiel.
 The Germans have not yet made any attempt to counter-attack.
 Last night was comparatively quiet on the whole Marne front. The Americans were kept busy consolidating their new positions. The additional prisoners, mostly were stragglers found hiding in the wood, under rocks or in the shrubbery, where they had been isolated by the American Hqs. They were unkempt and hungry.

Saving As Never Before
 London, June 28.—The British are saving money as they never have before, notwithstanding the increased cost of everything.
 Sir Robert Kindersley, chairman of the National War Savings Association, stated that it is remarkable that there are 16,750,000 holders of British war securities, and more than 13,000,000 accounts in savings banks.
 "It may be safely alleged, not only that saving has been commenced by many millions who before the war never saved, but that there is every evidence that the effort of these savers increases in intensity as the war proceeds.
 This situation is ascribed to the fact that thousands are receiving more pay than ever, and thousands of women, who, prior to the war, earned nothing, are now engaged in remunerative work. Also the incentive to spend money has been removed to a certain extent by the regulation of food and drinking purchases, and curtailment of amusements.

BASEBALLS ON ICE SNATCH A VICTORY

George Moreland Responsible for Pirates' Win by Icing Pellets

Passing strange are the reasons baseball rules have been changed. For years nobody could open a box of balls except the umpire. Although this is not followed any more, the man who made the rule necessary tells the inside story of his scheme which is interesting, and can be believed or not.

Pittsburg and Boston were billed for an important series back in 1893. George Moreland, then an official of the Pirates, kept the boxes of balls in a safe and had exclusive charge of them. One day, for an experiment, he took all but one of the balls, and put them on ice. He didn't remove the cover or break the seal.

Followed the Tip. The next afternoon, the day of the big series, he went up to Al Buckenberger, the Pirate manager. "Al, I had a dream last night. I dreamed that Nichols was pitching for the Beans and that we went to bat first. Smith singled, Donovan sacrificed and Stencil singled, scoring the only run of the game. We went to bat first, see that's my hunch."

What He Dreamed. "Now, remember," cautioned Moreland, "tell the boys I dreamed that Smith singled, Donovan sacrificed and Stencil singled. Then that Jake Beckley fouled the ball over the fence. It won't come true unless it is all followed." "I'll never forget that," much to the surprise of the fans, and Moreland tossed out the only ball that hadn't been placed on ice. The umpire took off the cover and threw it to Nichols, who was the pitcher, as Moreland had dreamed. "I'll never forget that," game," laughed Moreland. "Everything came out exactly as I had dreamed. Smith cracked out the pill for a single and Donovan sacrificed. Smith scored when Stencil crashed a single."

Then Came Iced Balls. "Jake Beckley, always good at fouting them off, lost the ball over the stand, and I threw one of the iced balls out to the umpire. It was encased in its separate box and cover, so nobody suspected anything.

"Several of the balls were used before the battle was over. They were like punk. It was all but impossible to drive them past the infield. The infielders on both sides certainly were kept busy on assists. "Under the conditions nobody could get a run and the game ended with Pittsburg, victorious, 1 to 0. Everybody was hollering about the balls, but they looked all right. Covers were on and the seals unbroken.

"It wasn't till long afterward that my secret came out, and then a rule was passed making such a proceeding impossible in the future. Some dream, I claim."

Knitting Socks From Dog's Hair Newest Fad in England

War is responsible for many new and unexpected industries not the least of which is the manufacture of knitting wool from the combings of dogs. A few ladies conceived the idea from utilizing the combings in this way and after long and patient experimenting the process of spinning was perfected. Scientists have become interested in the discovery and Albert Museum has been set aside for an exhibit of the work. Important propositions have come from the commercial world which was quick to see the possibilities of this new industry, but while the war lasts there is no commercial side to the undertaking.

Long Wool Best. Long-haired dogs furnish the material used, and wool of unusual softness and fineness is spun from their combings. A pale gold sock of light as silk, but whose warmth is instantly realized when the sock is held to the cheek or against the forehead, is the whitest and softest of socks for the wounded comrade from the combings of a white poodle. RICHEST MAN IN THE WORLD. John D. Rockefeller's Income Tax Totals $38,000,000.00

There is one man in the United States whose federal income tax this year is $38,000,000. This statement is made to me by a high official with the assurance that it represents absolute knowledge. Further, I am assured that everybody's first guess as to the individual who pays $38,000,000 income tax is correct. It is the largest tax paid by one individual and my informant told me that John D. Rockefeller is the payer.

For many years there have been occasional speculators about the great fortunes who have undertaken to demonstrate that John D., after all, isn't the richest man; what he has given away so much that what might have been the premier fortune has dwindled to a secondary position. I have heard interesting analyses to show that another Rockefeller who has not been so liberal a distributor, or four other very rich men have their backers for the pre-eminence; but the income tax data, it is declared, places the founder of Standard Oil strongly in first place. The case of an income tax of $38,000,000 is hard to calculate; parts of it may be subject to very different rates. But on the whole it will produce a pretty good approximation if you assume that that tax represents 50 per cent. of the net income. The man paying $38,000,000 income tax has an income of about $76,000,000. If a net income of $76,000,000 is capitalized at 5 per cent., it implies a fortune of about $1,520,000,000—which seems to be about the standing of Mr. Rockefeller. Commissioner Roper is compiling a report from data in his bureau dealing with the corporate incomes of the country, which is going to be of the greatest value and interest.

BRIGHT STORY OF ESCAPE OF TWO FRENCHMEN. If You Are Clever You Can Break From German Prison. Lieutenant Pat O'Brien's escape from prison in Germany after a seven-day flight, across Holland has been equalled. It is not surpassed by that of two French aviators, M. M. Garros and Marchal, who were in London on March 1. As quoted in "The London Aeroplane," the account of their escape ran thus: The escape was organized by Marchal, who was aided therein by his perfect knowledge of the German language. Passing before the first line of sentries, he cried out, "One can never take too great care to prevent those dirty Frenchmen from escaping." The second line of sentries respectfully made way for him, but a third sentry asked to be shown Marchal's papers. "But," replied the aviator, "this is the second time I have shown them," and suitably the action to the words, he put his hands to his pockets, as if to produce them. The sentry, thus convinced, did not insist on seeing them. In this way the aviators made good their escape, after having put on other clothes, leaving their own behind with a letter of irrefragable well planned to them.

When they got to the railway train Garros was somewhat nervous, but Marchal chatted in the purest German. The first part of the journey was accomplished in this

U-BOAT SINKS TWO C.P.R. SHIPS

Pomeranian and Medora Reported as Victims of German Submarine

STORY OF ENGINEER Mysterious Disappearance of 60 of Crew, Who Are Regarded as Lost

An Atlantic Port, June 26.—The captain of a steamship which arrived to-day from England brought the news of the sinking by German submarines of the Pomeranian and the Medora, both owned by the Canadian Pacific Steamship Services of Montreal. "The sinking of the Pomeranian," said the captain, "is a mystery. I have shipping men in England and to the Admiralty, because only one member of the crew was saved, the second engineer, who said that he never saw a single member of the crew of sixty officers and men after the attack. He was on duty in the engine-room about 6 a.m.," he said, "when the steamship lurched heavily to starboard after a muffled sound from the forward end of the ship like an explosion in the hold. He stood by the throttle waiting for orders to stop the engines. As the signal did not come, and the ship continued to heel over, the engineer stopped the engines and went on deck. He could see nothing except the shore, which was about ten miles away, and he climbed up the foremast rigging on the port side, where he remained until the steamship touched bottom and righted herself. Then the engineer climbed into the upper crew's nest, which was clear of the water, and stayed there four hours until he was picked up by a patrol boat.

No Trace of Bodies. "When questioned by the officer in charge, the second engineer said he thought the lifeboats had floated off the top deck when the ship went over. A search was made by divers for a radius of twenty miles around the place where the Pomeranian was resting on the bottom, but no trace of boats, rafts or wreckage or bodies of the crew was found.

The captain said the Medora, also westbound, was sunk a short time after the Pomeranian, off the coast of Ireland. The explosion of the torpedo near the boiler room was so slight that it did not rouse the pilot.

who was taking forty winds in the chart room, and he could not believe that the ship had been hit and was sinking. When the crew had got away in the lifeboats the submarine appeared, and the officer on deck demanded that the captain, chief wireless operator and chief gunner should be delivered to him. At first the crew said the officers were not in the boats, but the German commander said sternly and in perfectly good English: "Stop that nonsense. If the captain, chief wireless and chief gunner do not give themselves up at once I will send you all to the bottom."

"Not wishing to sacrifice his crew, the captain stood up in the first lifeboat, and the Marconi operator followed his example. They there was a search for the gunner, and the second gunner gave himself up to the commander of the submarine with the chief's cap on, because the latter was a married man with a family, and the other was single, with no domestic ties. The three men were taken on board the U-boat, and then the commander turned to the lifeboats and said: "Give my compliments to Lloyd George."

FABULOUS PURSES UNKNOWN IN OLDER DAYS OF THE RING

Imagine Willard and Fulton Battling For Four Dollars and Forty-Eight!

There was a time not long ago when prize fighters did not get so much for their pains as they do now. I recall many a battle in which the money at stake would not have netted the winner as much as a suit of clothes.

There is one man in Chicago today, once the leading boxer of Chicago, who will bear me out in this proposition.

I refer to Capt. Jack Dalton, for many a day commander of the tugboat Tempest and once known from one end of the Great Lakes to the other as one of the gamest boxers that ever lived.

The Chicago tugmen in the olden days used to go to the Hibernal rink out to Downer's Grove, to Brighton, or somewhere else, and at these picnics there were a thousand fights.

Brave Jack Dalton used to lick the best of them, and became famous when he took the law of Curly Brown, who at one time boasted of a victory over Jerry Donovan, considered by all Chicago's best rough-and-tumble man.

Went to St. Louis. After whipping the best man here Dalton went out into new worlds to conquer, and he opened his career on the road by going to St. Louis to meet Jack King, then the leading heavy of the Mound City.

They were to fight for fifty per cent. of the gate receipts, the winner to take 75 per cent. and the loser 25 per cent.

It was on a night in August that they battled. The battleground was the stage of the People's Theatre and the ring was pitched in the centre of the stage. There have been some hot nights in St. Louis, but this was the hottest ever. The only people with nerve enough to enter the theatre were the principals and their seconds and a few personal friends and admirers.

Their seconds were armed with ice-cold bottles of beer and buckets of water.

King, broken-hearted at the sight of long, low rows of empty chairs, drank heavily of the beer, and when the battle started—so heavily that when time was called he aimed a fearful blow at Captain Jack's head, missed it a mile, landed on a stage wing and broke his right arm.

Dalton got the decision, of course. St. Louis was so elated over it that he bought wine for all. His 75 per cent. of the receipts, which amounted to $3.13, was not enough to pay for one round of drinks.

King got $1.15. King's share was $1.15 and a broken arm. He went back to hod carrying and explained to his friends later that there was more money in that than in the other calling.

Undoubtedly the fiercest fight fought in this country for the least money was the battle between Jack Loney and Jim Coburn, fought in St. Louis away back in the '90's.

Those were the days when fists ruled in politics and when you could not win without stout arms and hard fists to back up your claim to public office.

In New York, John Morrissey, Bill Poole, Izzy Lazarus and Joe Coburn were the boys who did the fighting at the polls.

At Chicago, Mike McDonald had for his lieutenants such famous rough-and-tumble men as Jimmy Elliott, Jerry Dunn (who later killed Jimmy), Jerry Donovan and others.

At San Francisco, Yankee Sullivan, the Kellys and other bare-knuckle fighters fought at the polls, just as the Dennis Carney men did later.

Loney ran things at St. Louis to suit himself until one day the other side sent an S.C.S. call to New York. In response Jim Corbin, a brother of the notorious Joe, accompanied by a select squad of badmen, hurried to St. Louis.

There were fist fights galore at the general election, and both sides claimed a victory. To settle the whole business, Coburn challenged Loney to a battle under the old London prize ring rules with bare fists and all that sort of thing.

Just to make matters more interesting, each side put up $50, and for this stake and the championship of St. Louis they went at it. The battle started at 3 in the afternoon, and when night came Jack had proven as good as his master. They had gone seven rounds, when, on account of darkness, the referee suggested they postpone further action until the following day.

When Coburn saw that Jack was determined to fight it out, he said to the stakeholder: "If I admit Loney is the best man, give him the money."

To-day's call combined with that for 230,000 to be mobilized July 22-25 ordered by General Crowder last night, and with the various special calls previously issued will remove from civilian life during July a total of 367,961 men, the largest number of men summoned in any one month since the draft became operative.

Bohemians Now Aspire To Sever All Connection With Austrian Empire

THE war has brought to light, from time to time, some odd political situations. For instance, Austria, moved by the desire for Balkan conquest, has been subjugated by Germany while the two remain nominally allies in a war against right and justice. Furthermore, as she was against the enemy outside her gates, Austria finds still more dangerous enemies within in the shape of those Slav nationalities of the Dual Monarchy whom she has vainly endeavored to take to her cruel heart. At that heart lay the sharp, piercing points of a brutal despotism against which they have been thrust. But those nationalities have refused to be sacrificed; their statesmen and people rise in protest; their soldiers march and desert to the enemy; and their civilian compatriots in other lands arm and join the Allies on the fighting front. The Slavs seek and are determined to have their national independence, and to-day there is not much doubt among the twenty-two nations now lined up in the great crusade, that, at the peace table, the claims to national organization and liberation of the peoples dwelling within the Austro-Hungarian empire must be satisfied. If a permanent peace is ever to be established.

It is notable that Lord Robert Cecil, British Minister of Blockade, has not only publicly recognized this factor in the international problems of the war, but has expressed himself in sympathetic terms concerning the Czech national movement. There is no longer any hesitation in allied ranks, about the need of politically disintegrating Austria as a powerful weapon in winning the war. That need determines in part the Allied active policy, so that it is important to emphasize, as did Lord Robert, that neither the Bohemian nor the Jugo-Slav movement is the product of an artificial agitation on the part of a handful of politicians and literary men. The Austrian has read the lessons of history too well ever to make such a mistake. Austria's recent measures of repression of Bohemia, where the country has been divided into so many arbitrary districts, for the purpose of placing a preponderating power in the hands of the German ruling elements take the Czech movement as a serious political blow aimed at Austria's disintegration. That a scholar like Dr. Masaryk is today at the head and front of Bohemian resistance is proof less of an academic movement than of a determination to lead the Bohemian people to victory by the enlistment of the clearest thinkers of the country. Bohemia presents an organized people proudly in arms. Austria knows it, and dreads the consequences. The day in her significance to the Austrian of this writing of the wall. To the outsiders, looking on at the intestine struggle of this small Slav nationality amid its political German damming, the writing is equally clear-cut and convincing. More than ever, it becomes apparent that the power of the German ruling elements in Bohemia, as to the rest of the Slavs, is as necessary to the world's freedom and material welfare as the return to France and Belgium of their ravished lands.

The Bohemian political representatives, as already pointed out, constitute an attempt to secure for the German imperial power the inferiority in numbers. Formerly there was one stadtholder, or lieutenant-governor, appointed for the whole country, but now there is a condition what Dr. Masaryk has termed twelve "pashas," appointed from Vienna, who by administering all the provinces, will hope to break up the power of the Czechs, destroy the Czech majority in the Vienna Reichsrath, and finally bring about the total dismemberment of Bohemia. The Austrian Reichsrath, it is plain, is to be Germanized through and through, so that it will be unable to raise even a finger against the policy of the Government. Austria is determined to preserve its imperial status, and of a happy, harmonious family, when Parliament meets again, and to see that Pan-Germanism has its day. But the registration of the census, the twelve "pashas" policy, the answer to that Italian-Slav agreement and support which may yet make of Austria a mere geographical term, may after all have come too late.

Sauerkraut and Pretzels. Just as many Germans are to-day anxious to prove that they were born in Alsace and are more French than German, so the manufacturers of sauerkraut and pretzels endeavoring to prove that these foods are not German in origin. A large pretzel company declares that a historian states that the pretzel is of Roman origin, and that the name is probably some Roman derivation from the middle Latin "bracellum," a little arm, compared to the Hanseatic "bracellum," a baked article similar to the pretzel. Another authority says that in the early Christian church the pretzel was a gift of the priest to the children, a reward for learning prayers, and that the form of pretzels suggests folded hands.

Population of the World. In 1787 the population of the earth, according to Buechling, was about 1,000,000,000; in 1800, according to Fabri and Stein, only 300,000,000; in 1835, according to Stein and Hovellman, 972,000,000. In 1858 Dietrich estimated it at 1,266,000,000 and Kolb, in 1865 at 1,220,000,000. According to the latest calculations the earth is inhabitable by 1,400,000,000 happy human beings.—New York Tribune.

President Wilson is to be given the freedom of the city of Florence, Italy, on July 4th. The cause of a Slav legion is the chief feature of the new $12,000,000 U. S. army bill.

MAKES SLAVES OF FINNISH REDS

Thousands of War Prisoners Offered at Wholesale to Any Farmer of Contractor

Stockholm, June 27.—The trial as charged of the defeat Red Finns is proceeding rapidly and is yielding an army of slaves. The men are sentenced to long periods of compulsory unpaid labor under the bayonets of armed guards. The Whites have adopted the German exploitation of war prisoners as slaves with this difference that the Finns are penalizing their own fellow countrymen after the conclusion of peace, which procedure without precedent in any civil war outside of Asia or Africa within modern times. More than 7,000 Reds have already been tried in the Tommarfors Court. Eight hundred have provisionally been set at liberty. The remainder, branded as criminals, have been offered at wholesale to any farmer or construction contractor who applies for them and provides cattle sheds to protect them from rain and fir branches for beds. They are also to provide a minimum of root food, varied with a little remainder of bread and quarters, rations and pay for the guards who are under orders to shoot down those who try to escape or refuse to work. Practically no doctors or inspection facilities are provided. The men, sick or well, are at the mercy of their guards.

PEACE OR REVOLT. CRY IN HUNGARY

Dutch Bankers Get Reports of Rapid Deterioration Throughout the Dual Monarchy

Amsterdam, June 27.—Reports are reaching Amsterdam banking circles to the effect that things are deteriorating very rapidly in Austria while Hungary the monarchy is confronted with the dilemma: Peace at any price or revolution. This has often been reported as likely to happen but now it is not a prediction, but stern facts which Emperor Charles has to look in the face. Not only are war sickness and war misery universal throughout Austria-Hungary, but the state itself is unable to stand the stress of war.

The empire's finances are reaching a stage of absolute decay. One reason for this is the unwillingness of the government to increase taxation, as this would cause intense dissatisfaction among the wealthier classes. It prefers to let things drift and to meet every financial emergency with a continual issue of banknotes. No Help From Germany. Not only are the Austrian finances decaying, but the same is true of the morale of the people who have suffered far more than Germany from famine. What adds to the intensity of the people's desire for peace is that they believe they could easily have made terms with Italy and that Austria's true ally, Germany, they are therefore fighting merely for the benefit of Germany. Popular feeling in Austria has risen to unexpected heights. In spite of the censorship the truth slowly leaks out and comes to neutral Holland.

The people of Austria have decided that this war must stop soon not only because Austria's position from a military point of view is unacceptably good, but because there is no reason why Austria should keep on fighting, and finally because Germany, for whom she is fighting is unable to give the least assistance either in food or gold.

DISARMAMENT URGED. London, June 26.—It is announced officially in Moscow, says a belated Reuter dispatch from that city, that some of the most influential leaders of the Czech-Slovaks are advocating the disarmament of their revolting followers, the number of whom declining to submit to the Soviet Government is increasing. The Soviet Government has invited the Czech-Slovaks to come to a peaceful understanding on the basis of disarmament.

"THE LITTLE AMERICAN." Mary Pickford's new Artcraft production, "The Little American," staged under the personal direction of Cecil B. De Mille, contains many thrilling incidents, one of which is the torpedoing of the great transatlantic liner, the "Veritania," while a ball is in progress. The spectator sees the beautiful ballroom suddenly submerged and the throng of beautifully gowned dancers thrown into the water. By a strange coincidence, these big scenes were taken on the second anniversary of the sinking of the "Lusitania." "The Little American" will be shown to-day, Friday, Saturday and the Rex.

The Western Fair

If space is required for an exhibit at London's Exhibition, September 6th to 14th, it should be applied for at once, as several of the buildings are already filled. The Government is sending a number of Exhibits of unusual interest. For the Art Gallery a loan of excellent pictures has been received from the National Art Gallery Ottawa, which will make a visit to this building of great interest to all lovers of art. The Agricultural Building will have several Government Exhibits relative to agricultural pursuits and should be of special interest to the farmers who make up to such a large extent the thousands of visitors at the exhibition. Government Exhibits of eggs and wool, will be shown in the Dairy Building which will be very attractive. All the buildings will no doubt be filled with exhibits of special interest. All applications for space and anything pertaining to the Exhibition should be addressed to the secretary, A. M. Hunt, London, Ont.

TEMPLEARS TO RAISE RATES.

Hamilton, Ont., June 26.—Rumors of the alleged insolvency of the insurance department of the Royal Templears of Canada, elicited the following statement to-day from Dr. C. Van Norman Esq., the Dominion secretary. "Only one or two fraternal societies in Canada are actually solvent. The fact that this society is not one of them is no cause for alarm. Insurance matters of this society are not in as good shape as we would like, but they are not in bad shape. As required, we have prepared an actuarial statement which has been forwarded to the government. I must admit it does not show us to be actually solvent. We have practically decided our rates must be substantially advanced. We are waiting to hear from the Government's actuarial department. We expect word within a week." VON WAUGENHEIN
PROUDLY SPILLED
POTSDAM BEANS

Late U. S. Ambassador to Turkey, Publishes Story of an Interview With Boastful German Ambassador
at Constantinople; Kaiser Was the Chief Plotter

If you have any doubt as to where the responsibility lies for the greatest of all tragedies involving the human race: If there is any question in your mind as to whether or not the world war was planned and precipitated at the notorious Potsdam conference held July 5, 1914, here are enlightening facts on the subject
as told by the United States Ambassador to Turkey, Henry M. Morgenthau, in The World's Work. The history of the conference was related to Mr. Morgenthau by Baron von Wangenheim, then German Ambassador to Constantinople, who was present at the conference at the command of the Kaiser, and who was very proud that he should be consulted as to the working out of the details of the tragedy. Mr. Mor-genthau says:

"The German Ambassador left
for Berlin soon after the assassination of the Grand Duke, and he now revealed the cause of his sudden disappearance. The Kaiser, he told me, had summoned him to Berlin for an imperial conference. This meeting took place at Potsdam on July 5. The Kaiser presided; nearly all the ambassadors attended; Wangenheim came to tell of Turkey and enlighten his associates on the situation in Constantinople. Molke, then Chief of Staff, was there, representing the Army, and Admiral von Tirpitz spoke for the Navy. The great bankers, railroad directors, and the captains of German industry, all of whom were as necessary to German war-preparations as the Army itself,
also attended.

Kaiser the Chief Plotter.
"Wangenheim now told me that the Kaiser solemnly put the ques-

Lemon Juice
For Freckles

Girl! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons
into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard wafle, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard wafle for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes!
It is harmless.

On July 5, 1914. One of the chief participants flashed with his triumph at the apparent success of the plot, told me the details with his own mouth. Whenever I hear of any arguing about the responsibility for this war or read the clumsy
and lying excuses put forth by Germany, I simply recall the burly figure of Wangenheim as he appeared at August afternoon, puffing away at a huge black cigar, and giving me his account of this historic meeting. Why waste any time discussing the matter after that?"

Effect on Stock Market.
The imperial conference took place on July 5. The Serbian ultimatum was sent on July 22. Says
Mr. Morgenthau:

"That is just about two weeks interval, which the financiers had demanded to complete their plans. All the great stock exchanges of the world show that the German bankers profitably used this interval.
Their records disclose that stocks
were being sold in large quantities and that prices declined rapidly at that time. The markets were booming profusely until this movement Wangenheim's explanation clears up any doubts that may still remain.
Germany was changing her securities into cash for war purposes.

"If any one wishes to verify Wangenheim, I would suggest that he examine the quotations of the New York stock market for these two historic weeks. He will find that there were astonishing slumps in quotations, especially on the stocks that had an international market. Between July 5 and July 22, Union Pacific dropped from 155 1/2 to 127 1/2;
Baltimore & Ohio from 91 1/2 to 81;
United States Steel from 61 to 50 1/2;
Canadian Pacific from 124 to 123 1/2;
and Northern Pacific from 111 1/2
to 108. At that time the high professionals were blaming the Sinamons-Underwood Tariff Act as responsible for this fall in values;
other critics of the Administration
attributed it to the Federal Reserve
Act—which had not yet been passed.
How little the Wall Street brokers
and the financial experts realized that an imperial conference held in Potsdam, presided over by the Kaiser, was the real force that was then depressing the market!

"Wangenheim not only gave me
the details of this Potsdam conference, but he disclosed the same secret to the Marquis Gironi, the Italian Ambassador to Constantinople. Italy was at that time technically Germany's ally."

LADY'S FOUR PIECE SKIRT.

This good looking panel skirt has the advantage of being appropriate for slender as well as stout figures. For this reason the pattern runs as high as 84
inches waist measure, but if a larger size is required it is a very easy matter to slash the side pore through the line indicating the straight of the goods and then spread the pattern on the material to get the desired size. The front panel is curved in from hips to waistline, and pockets may be inserted if desired. The back panel is fitted, and the edges are almost straight. The side gares are gathered to the slightly raised waistline.
The lady's four piece skirt pattern No.
8744 is cut in six sizes, 24 to 34 inches waist measure. Width at lower edge of skirt is 1 1/2 yards. The 26 inch size requires 2 1/2 yards 44 or 54 inch material.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents to The Courier office, or two for

WILL FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

Regiments of Bohemians Have Joined With Allies.

Bohemian hopes of independence
from the domination of Austria-Hungary assumed a more concrete form recently in a large city near the Italian front, when a regiment of Bohemian troops received a battle flag on the eve of their departure for the fighting line. Under their own red and white banner and their own officers, the Bohemians are now ranged in the rank of the Entente allied forces in battling against these oppressors.

The formation of the Bohemian regiment gives a definiteness to the recent congress held in Rome of representatives of the various Slav elements which seek to throw off
the Austrian yoke to Serbs, Croats, Slovenes, Czech-Slovaks and Poles.
The Serbs, Croats and Slovenes have an independent national organization known as the Jugoslavs, while the Czechs and Poles, and the northern Slav also are working toward independence. All are bound together by the bond of Slav sympathy, and are animated by the aspiration to throw off the tyranny of Austria.

In addition to bringing all the Slav elements into accord, the meetings in Rome have also brought the Jugoslav element in strongest infused accord with the allies. The close relations established between Italy and the Jugoslavs are of special importance to the harmony of the allied forces, together, the Italians and Jugoslavs completely encircle the Adriatic. Italy pro-dominates on the west, and her aspirations extend to beyond Istria.

The Slav element is strongest in Croatia, Bosnia, Herzegovina and Montenegro. This extensive Slav frontage on the eastern coast of the Adriatic is now in complete harmony with Italy and the allied cause.
Albania was the only one of the Adriatic communities not represented at the recent congress. The Al-banians are not Slavs, but are an ancient race with a language of its own. An Italian army now sustains the burden of holding back the Austrians in Albania, and the Italian Government, by road and sea, is doing much to open Albania to civilization.

The simultaneous action of the congress of oppressed Slav nationalities, in agreement with Italy, has the Entente, and the giving of a battle flag to the Czech-Slovak regiment,
were parts of the same great convolution going on among the Slav communities, as they seek to throw off the rule of Austria and establish an independent existence.

Carpeting a River Bed.

The Mississippi river, most capricious
and pampered of all streams,
which Uncle Sam has spent millions of dollars to keep in proper place, is now having a carpet made for her at an expense of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. Whether the carpet is made of cotton or wool, but of dress and branches. Some of the carpets are a mile in length and 200 feet in width.

They will be used to carpet the bed of the river near Memphis, Tenn., in order to prevent the stream from changing its course and leaving the city high and dry. The Mississippi is a number of times, and the excessive habit of cutting new channels and deserting towns upon its banks that have grown up into thriving centres on account of their position on the stream. These are some of the towns that have been left, sometimes several miles back from the new river bed. Of course, this results in the ruin of the deserted town.

In the case of Memphis, the consequences of the river cutting a new channel several miles west of its present bed and leaving a city of more than 100,000 population stranded would be so dire that the Government has come to the rescue of the threatened town. Immense carpets of willow branches, firmly fastened together, have been laid over the bed of the river.
These great carpets, heavily weighted with stones, sink to the bottom.

The carpets when properly laid are planned in place by piles driven down through them into the bed of the river. That stops the erosion of the river bed and keeps the channel in place.—N. Y. Sun.

Servants in Paris.

Paris may be said to be to-day a deserted city. One would say thought with thousands of women left in the metropolis to carry on the work of the man at the front.
It would be so difficult to find plenty of domestic help. The master of domestic servants are quite as attractive as munition factory pay.

The most incompetent general servant can demand as much as $25 a month, without even so much as a blush. A capable general cook and what the French call a "bonne a tout fait" has no difficulty in obtaining even $40 or $50. This, considering the tremendously great cost of food and fuel, is a very princely wage.

All classes of servants are demanding more "time off," a thing which a French mistress doesn't readily understand. The good old custom of sounding references and investigations of servants before hiring them
seems to be gradually disappearing.
A servant to-day is a servant, whether she carries a reference or not.

Soldiers Producing Food.
The food shortage is recognized as so serious in Europe that the soldiers are cultivating 50,000 acres between the lines in France, 7,000 in Belgium and approximately 20,000 in Mesopotamia, Egypt, Palestine
and Cyprus. In Egypt, Palestine and Salonica the British armies will this year grow all their own vegetables and a large part of their hay and straw. All the military camps in England are being cultivated also. At Aldershot, where 28 acres were being cultivated 18 months ago, 1,500
acres are now under cultivation.

Same Spirit of Dumas' Famous

Same Scenes

There is an old saying that the ghosts of dead heroes haunt old battlefields. It must be true of the heroes of fiction as well as of fact. At least, that is what one reads of the great conflict in Picardy to-day, one thinks of those gallant heroes of Dumas' "The Three Musketeers," whose names and deeds are—perhaps more famous than those of any historic warriors who really battled in France.

D'Artagnan, Athos, Porthos and Aramis rode to battle for the Fleur-de-Lis over the same roads that are now traversed by Allies and Teu-tons.

At Amiens, Lys, Arrmentieres,
Lens, Behreun, Bapaume, Arras
and a hundred other places where their exploits glorified. Where they fought the Spaniard and the English;
where the Frenchman, Briton and American now war on the face of freedom.

Scenes Familiar To-day.
So well did Dumas regard details and the topography of France and Flanders that even the woods, the hills, and the small streams which come daily into prominence on the western front of 1918 are recognized as familiar scenes described in the "Three Musketeers" and in its sequel "Twenty Years After."

When D'Artagnan made his trip to London to obtain Queen Anne's diamond studs, the gift of Louis XIV, which she had secretly presented to Buckingham, he and his companions stopped for breakfast at Chantilly. That is only twenty-three miles from Paris. The Germans have not reached Chantilly
but D'Artagnan's next stop, Beauvais, has long ago received its he-most of fire, and has several times been only a few miles from the front. It is said that until recently the Inn at Beauvais, where Porthos lay wounded and was cared for by his valet, Musquetier, still stood.

When Athos Lassoed Wine.
Perhaps the cellar is yet there,
from which Musquetier "snared" the best wine for his master by jangling
the bottles through the roof.
—a trick he learned from a Norman who had travelled in Mexico. A little further on they lost Aramis, who on account of a wound in his shoulder tarried at Crevecoeur,
about six leagues from Chantilly.
Amiens was their next stop.
Amiens is eighty-one miles from Paris, and it was nightfall when D'Artagnan and Athos arrived there.
Dumas records that the roads
were bad and that at the start "Ara-mis was afraid to dirty his boots in the slough and that the roads were full of ruts." It seems, according to war correspondents on the Somme front, that these same roads, over which are rumbling huge army trucks and through which thousands of marching men in khaki are pressing forward, have not lost that mud in the last three hundred years. Athos was left wounded at

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES
AND DARKENS HAIR

Don't stay gray! Sage Tea and Sulphur darkens hair so naturally that nobody can tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray
or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark handsome hair, and your youthful appearance
within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
