When Sickness Comes.

DR WILLIAMS PINK PILLS SHOULD HE USED TO BEING BACK HEALTH.

Sickness comes sooner or later in the life of everyone. Many who for years have enjoyed the best of health are suddenly seized with some one of the company of the life of everyone. Many who for years have enjoyed the best of health are suddenly seized with some one of the company of the life of everyone an impoverished con.

Eight, of all denominations, to be supported to the company of the company o wears have enjoyed the best of health are suddenly seized with some one of the throat of the world in curing sick and ailing people. These pills actually make new, rich, red blood, strengthen every nerve in the body and in this way make people well and strong. Mr Alphonse Lacous siere, a well known young farmer of St. Lean Quer proyees the truth of these statments. He says:—'About a year ago my blood gradually became imporerished. I was weak, nervous and generally rin down. Then suddenly my trouble was aggravated by pains in my kidneys and bladder, and day by day I grew so much worse that finally I was unable to rise without aid. I consulted doctors, hu' any relief i gained from their medicine was only temporary and I began to despair of ever being well again. One day I read an article in a newspaper praising Dr Williams Pink Pills and I decided to try them. I got six boxes and before they were all gone my condition was so greatly improved that I knew. I had at last found a medicine to cure me. I continued the use of the pills for a while longer, and every symptom of my trouble was gone, and I have since enjoyed the best-of health. I think so much of Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale Pople! on the wrapper around every box. partment store? Even though in a few instances he stands to gain in dollars and cents, in the long run does it pay? Suppose he were altogether dependent upon the city department store. Think of the inconvenience of such a contingency. And yet when a country purchaser sends regularly to the city store for goods which he can obtain at the town or willage store, he is doing all he possonally can to bring about such a condition. There are limits beyond which it is impossible to go in buying from far-away stores and still find it profitable, and that limit is reached just as soon as it commences to affect, the retail trade of a community. However much they may buy in that way, there are always numerous articles that they must get from the marby dealer; and if they pensist in sending the letter part of their business away it may happen at last that the local retail man will either have to go out of the business or charge high prices for the few articles that the gets the consumer who thinks he is saring money by buying from catalogue houses finds that he is losing what has awas by having 10 say higher prices on the little he buys from the man on whom he depends so much at the corner. Or perhaps the corner convenience disappers allogether and he must go without or depend upon some 'small' shop that cannot give him satisfaction.

Ol course this is an extreme case, yet it is a logical possibility of this system of buying. We think the consumer would do well to remember that he owes something to the merchant is not there expressly for the convenience of consumer, i.e. may be the merchant is not there expressly for the convenience of consumer, i.e. may be the merchant is not there expressly for the convenience of consumer, i.e. may be the merchant is not the incidental profit there may be in doing business. But he is a convenience he may be to consumers as of the incidental profit there may be in doing business. But he is a convenience he may be to consumers as of the incidental profit there may be in doing business. But he is a convenience as possible in any case it is a good policy to throw as much as possible in the way of the man nearest one; for it is with his that one's interests are most tied up.

It is surprising how little interest the average fruit growers have taken in the insurance on their apples. Ask of anyone, not excepting the bulk of the speculators if their apples are insured and they will tell you they guess so, but do not know upon what conditions until a boat fetches up at the Azoreso-what-is worse the comera demand freight on an unsaleable cargo landed at London.

Punishing Drunkards.

The National Temperance Advocate contains the following information concerning methods of dealing with the offence of drunkeness in different countries from which it will be noticed that civilization is much more tolerant of this offence than are countries that we are apt to look upon as comparatively backward in the march of progress.

In this country $z$ and costs.

In Persia So lashes on the soles of the feet.

In Turkey the bastinado to a more severe extent.

In Albania death.

In the three latter instances the extreme penalty is given above. Before the officials give a man up as confirmed in his cups they lecture him. In Fersia they put him on the blacklist and forbid hia, the bazaars except in certain hours, and then under police supervisions, and asplaces of amuaement and worship.

In Turkey the oftender receives an admonition and is fixed for the first of-der police supervisions, and also places of amusement and worship.

In Turkey the oftender receives an admonition and is fined for the first of fence, and the beatinade is applied a terward if the crime be repeated. Among the mountaineers of Albasia and Montenegro drunkeness is regarded as a political offence and for that reason is considered more serions than if it were a moral one.

Among the mountaineers fighting and drinking are not considered to got together, and to be able to fight the first duty of a citizen. Therefore the drunkard is harsally dealt with the farst duty of a citizen. Therefore the drunkard is harsally dealt with the feative tippler, but when that fails and he persists in making the mountain peaks ring to his Monteuegro substitute for We wou't go home till morning I'he is declared to be a danger and a disgrace to his tribe and his country and is quietly assassinated by the local chief.
