Agricultural Classes in the County.

As previously announced the Advisory Committee of the County Agricultural Office decided to extend the scope of their work and to hold courses at various towns in the county.

One of these was held at Inwood from Dec. 4th to 16th, 1911. A special two days class in stock and seed studies was put on at the last. The course was eminently successful. For the first week the weather was fine and from forty to fifty young men gathered daily to the lectures and practical work. The second week the weather and roads were exceedingly bad, but from thirty-five to forty were in attendance daily. During the special course although the weather and roads combined to do their werst, there were present about seventy-five at there were present about seventy-five at the morning sessions and from one hundred and seventy-five to two hundred in the afternoons. A farmers' club with an initial membership of over fifty was organized to continue the educational work started by the course.

A similar class is now being conducted at Brigden the dates being from Jan. 8th to the 20th, and it is hoped that an equally good report will be made for this course. A feature of the course is the special two days' course on Jan. 10th and

WATFORD, JANUARY 12, 1912.

A unique experience was that of four Indianapolis prisoners, who were taken for an automobile ride of ten miles the other day, and saw in an hour the developments which have taken place in 40 years. One convict had served 40 years, one 35 years, one 17 years one 13 years. All are lifers. The ride was from Michigan City to Laporte, where two of the prisoners saw for the first time trolley cars, automobiles, and many other evidences of modern achievements hidden from them by prison walls. So great was the sur prises that two of them utterly colapsed from nervous excitement.

"It restored our little daughter to health and strength after everything else had failed. It tastes so good she loved to take it-not a bit of cod liver oil taste.-Mrs. C. W. Stump, Canton,

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up puny, delicate, ailing children, is because it is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics-the medicinal body-building elements of cod liver oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron.

Shiloh's Cure

An Ideal Remedy for Coughs, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Weak Chest.

After having made a special study of the treatment of the throat and lungs for twenty years, Prof. D. Jackson states that in his opinion no preparation for general family use is so efficient. so healing, so certain to cure

As Catarrhozone,
As his reasons for making this claim for Catarrhozone, Dr. Jackson says:
"Catarrhozone is free from opium.
"The patient can breathe its rich,
balsamic fumes direct to the diseased spot.

"It is a remedy that treats and cures causes—prevents disease spreading.

"Reaches the innermost recesses of the throat, nose, bronohial tubes, and lungs.
"Alleviates chest soreness.
"Stops coughing instantly.
"Prevents bronchial irritations.

"Relieves clogged nostrils." "Cures sniffles and nasal catarrh. "Prevents La Grippe,
"Has proven itself a cure for weak lungs, loss of voice, speakers' sore throat, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh,
coughs, colds, and winter ills."

coughs, colds, and winter ills,"

Catarrhozone is unquestionably the world's greatest breathable cold, cough, and catarrh medicine, and being free from all drowsy drugs, entirely safe for children and old folks; it makes an ideal family remedy. Recommended by the medical profession, and sold by all reliable dealers. Beware of imitations, get "Catarrhozone" only; large size lasts twomonths, and is guaranteed, price $15; smaller sizes 25c and 50c. By mail from The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

THE PRICKLY PEAR.

This III Natured Fruit is Remarkably Tenacious of Life.

The prickly pear is said to be so tenacious of life that a leaf or even small portion of a leaf, if thrown on the ground, strikes out roots within short time and becomes the parent of a fast growing plant.

Mischieveus though the African prickly pear may be, it is not without its good qualities. Its julcy fruit, though rather deficient in flavor, is delightfully cool and refreshing in the dry heat of summer, and a kind of treacle is made from it.

Great caution must be exercised in peeling this curious fruit, the proper way being to impale the fruit on a fork or stick while one cuts it open and removes the skin. The individwho undertakes to pluck this treacherous fruit with unguarded fingers meets with an experience be does not soon forget. Concentrated essence of stinging nettle seems all at once to assail hands, lips and tongue, and the skin, wherever it comes in contact with the ill hatured fruit, is covered with a group of minute bristly hairs, apparently growing from it and venomous and irritating to the last de-

In dry weather these spiteful little stings do not even wait for the newly arrived victim, but fly about, light as thistledown, ready to settle on any one who has not learned by experience to give the prickly pear bush a wide

Mineral Microbes.

Some interesting experiments have been made with ancient medals, vases and so forth of lead that are gradually disintegrating in the museum of Clu-After a certain number of years they fall into dust. The cause, it is thought, lies in the presence of minute quantities of saline matter with which the objects have become impregnated during their long burial in the soil or under water. These microscopic impurities play the part of bacteria and microbes in living bodies. In other words, the lead is "sick" and unless the noxious matter can be removed will inevitably perish. Curiously enough, it is found that if traces of salt are imparted to a fresh mass of lead it is attacked and eventually falls to pieces like the objects in the museum at Cluny.

Sea Springs.
In the very hottest district in the world-the shores of the Persian gulfthere is no rain whatever, nor rivers, nor oases. Yet water is got-from the bottom of the sea. Six miles off the shallow coast there is a long line of bubbling springs of ice cold fresh water. Divers capture it in goatskin bags and retail it inland at very moderate prices. Even in an annual drought, which lasts from January to December, and in a temperature that ardly ever sinks below 90 degre often rises to over 110 the natives have no werry about their water supply.

SUFFER NO MORE. -There are thous ands who live miserable lives because dyspepsia dulls the faculties and shadows existence with the cloud of depression. One way to dispel the vapors that beset the victims of this disorder is to order them a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are among the best vegetable pills known, being easy to take and most efficacious in their actions. A trial of them will prove this,

When You Think

Of the pain which many women experience with every month it makes the gentleness and kindness always associated with womanhood seem to be almost a miracle. While in general no woman rebels against what she regards as a natural necessity there is no woman who would not gladly be free from this recurring period of pain.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well, and gives them freedom from pain. It establishes regularity, subdues inflammation, heals ulceration and cures female weakness.

Sick women are invited to consult us by letter, free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Write without fear and without fee to World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 50 one-cent stamps to pay cost of wrapping and mailing only, and we will send you a free copy of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser — revised, up-to-date edition, in handsome French cloth binding.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night and in the morning feel so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration os slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my should begin to brood over the chance that I should soon be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleep-less nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicine and mixtures Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave methe first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't grips and acted as naturally as didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged up system. My spirits rose, I feit much better, the sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color, and ambition to work returned and have remained. # HER MASTERPIECE.

She Intended to Write It, but Was Interrupted.

By MATIE K. NAWN. ******************

Coming through the hall Fred Dickson stopped to examine the long envelope lying on the hall rack. In one corner was printed "Barber's Publishing Company." He smiled in brotherly derision.

"Oh, Marge," he called. "I guess this is your manuscript. Back from Barber's," he added maliciously. Marge went to the door of her room and called down irritably: "Well, you needn't publish it!"

It would be better if they did," flung back her brother.

"It's funny," he mused, "but the things you don't want published are always getting into print, and the things you want to see in print end up in the 'masterpiece' trunk," this in reference to an old box in which his sister was wont to deposit her effusions after they had gone the rounds.

Marge came downstairs, digging her heels viciously into the carpet at ea "Where is it?" she asked.

noying as possible her brother replied, "Where's what?" Marge treated him to an eloquent silence. Suddenly she spied the envelope and pounced upon it. Then she flung into the sitting room and flopped

"It wasn't any good," she confided to herself. "It was too long and too prosy, and the idea was old. Still," she added in self justification, "I've seen just as bad stuff as that pub-

Her mother entered the room. Marge looked up at her with grieved eyes.

"It came back," she said in explanation of the pile of paper at her side, "and they'll keep coming back as long as I stay here. I'm tired of the city. If I could get away into the country, where I could be absolutely alone day in and day out, I could collect my thoughts."

Her brother chuckled irreverently. "I could collect my thoughts," she repeated. "My brain is just seething with ideas, but the moment I begin to write somebody interrupts, and when I get back to my work the inspiration is gone. And," she added somewhat bitterly, "here I'm elbow to elbow with the everlasting economies we're forced to practice. It's always ma-terial things that receive the first consideration-it's the coal or the gas or something—all the time. If I could get out into the country for a couple of months, for a month even, where nobody knew me, where there was nothing to remind me of the interest and the water taxes, where I could feel for once in my life that writing was a recreation and not a grind, t could write a story that would be worth while. I know I could."

Mrs. Dickson stood silent during her daughter's tirade. The look of sympathetic understanding in her eyes gave place to a harmonious twinkle. "Marge is very young," she reflected, "and she certainly was never meant to be a writer."

Marge had been a stenographer to a successful author, but had lately resigned her position, electing to support herself and keep the family in luxury by writing. Mr. Bergen wrote little stories without beginning or end. for which he received fabulous checks. It was easy. She could do it too. She had "written," but her stories had all come back, and now she demanded to go away.

Mrs. Dickson sighed, "You were such a good stenographer," she said, but stopped abruptly at sight of her daughter's face. She took refuge un-der cover of the "previous question."

"I don't see how we can manage it, dear," she said gently. "There are so many mills to be met, and soon the insurance money falls due. We might let that stand for a month or so," she said, avoiding her son's eyes.

"We can't do that," he said with as-"Marge can write here as well perity. as in the country. She rattles on about the 'artistic temperament' and its 'requirements' and the 'proper environment' and all such nonsense. I've heard her at it time and again. Now, I don't know anything about the 'artistic temperament,' and I don't want to, but up to date I've furnished the 'requirements' and the 'environment, and that is where the 'artistic temperament' has got to sit up and take notice. As far as I can see, the 'artistic temperament' is a constitutional inability to turn brains into money. If Marge had had any sense she would have stuck to her typewriting and stenography. She was a good stenographer.

The girl's eyes filled with tears.
"And," her brother went on, "it isn't too late yet. You can write your 'masterpieces' on the side." he added humorously. "Tell you what, Marge," he continued more gently, "why don't you go to work for a couple of mouths and save enough for this trip?"

Mrs. Dickson brightened at the sug-"But I've lost my speed," said Marge disconsolately. There was a moment's dead silence Then her brother strode out of the room and slammed the door.

"Don't mind him, dear," said her mother. "Men are all like that." . . . .

Shortly after lunch next day the bell rang, and Mrs. Dickson opened the door. A small boy confronted her.

"They's a telephone fer Miss Dickson at the drug store. She's to call her brother up," he said and was gone. "Marge, oh, Marge!" called Mrs.

Dickson. "Yes, mother?" "You're to call Fred up at once. The boy just came with the message." Marge came downstairs and took her hat from the rack. "I wonder what he wants," she said and left the house. Fifteen minutes later she returned. breathless. "Fred met Mr. Roberts at lunch, and he told Fred he was in an awful fix. His stenographer had been taken very ill and had gone home, and he asked Fred if he knew a good girl who could substitute until she was well. Fred told him I would help him out, and it's $18 a week," she finished excitedly. Her mother sighed, but there was a contradictory twinkle in her eyes. "It's too bad you haven't kept up your speed. Of course you won't be able to take the position," said her mother.

"Won't I? I guess I will! He wants me right away. It's the Mr. Roberts," said Marge lucidly.

Mrs. Dickson smiled. "And you can go to the country now, dearle," she suggested.
"Yes, if his stenographer only stays ill long enough-poor girl," she amended, feeling that her remark was more human than humane.

For a month Mr. Roberts' stenogra-pher lay ill. When she came back, late in May, Marge packed her trunk and went into the country to "write her masterpiece." Her letters home were frequent. In one she wrote:

"The country is glorious at this time of year. It grows lovelier each day. This morning as I sat beneath a fine old maple tree awaiting inspiration I was startled by a familiar voice, and who do you think it was? Mr. Roberts. He said he was city tired and wanted a whiff of pure country air. He doesn't know how long he'll stay. He says it all depends. I find him very congenial, although he laughs at the idea of women wanting a career. * * * I intended working this afternoon, but he has asked me to take a walk, so I shall have to postpone work until to-

OUR SENSITIVE PLANET.

Constant Changes In the Shape of the Earth's Crust.

One naturally thinks of the earth's crust as being exceedingly solid and stable, except perhaps in volcanic regions where earthquakes are of fre-quent occurrence. As a matter of fact, however, the shell of our planet is extremely sensitive and most delicately balanced, so that under the in-fluences of causes that seem altogether insignificant in comparison with the gigantic bulk and weight of the earth it yields and fluctuates in a most amazing manner.

To an eye so placed as to be capable of taking in at one comprehensive glance the whole round outline of the globe it would not appear of precisely the same shape during an entire day or even an hour. Most of the changes referred to are, of course, very slight when compared with the size of the earth itself.

The operation of atmospheric and oceanic and other similar causes is continually bringing about changes in the shape of the earth's crust. One of the most interesting of the agencies whereby such alterations are effected is the carrying power of rivers. Wherever a great quantity of sand and gravel is being brought down from the interior of a continent and poured into the sea, as, for instance, along the northwestern coast of Europe or the gulf coast of the United States, the weight of the earth's crust is slowly increasing, and the consequence is seen in the gradual subsidence of the

Such a sinking has been going on for thousands of years along the North sea coast and on the continental side of the British channel. A similar depression is occurring on the eastern edge of our own country and along the gulf of Mexico. It has been esti-mated that the gulf coast is sinking at the rate of nearly two feet in a century.

Corresponding elevations must, of course, occur elsewhere. And to these slow changes in the level of the earth's crust earthquakes are due as well as to the more violent local disturbances created by volcanic action.-Harper's

Were a soap bubble to be magnified to the size of the earth and the molecules magnified in proportion, then the whole structure would be as coarse grained as a globe of small leadshot touching one another at their surfaces.

In the blowing of a soap bubble there is presented the spectacle of the stretching of a liquid to the extreme limit of its capacity. In this way we come nearer to a sight of the invisible molecules of matter than could be got in any other way no matter how elaborate the experiment.—Exchange.

An East Indian Amulet.
In India a variety of gems and stones are used as amulets. The most common is the salagrama, a stone about as large as a billiard ball and which is perforated with black. This is supposed to be found only in Gandaki, a river in Nepaul. The person who possesses one of these stones is esteemed highly fortunate. He preserves it in a clean cloth, from whence it is sometimes taken to be bathed and perfumed. He believes that the water in which it is washed, if drunk, has the power to preserve from sin. Holding it in his hand, the dying Hindu expires in peace.

The Recipe.
"Your novel is pretty good," said the publisher to Scribley, "but, after all, it needs just a little more thrill. Can't you put something stirring in it?" "Why, I might," said Scribley, "though just how to stir things up I don't know."

"Well," smiled the publisher, "suppose you try just a little more spooning. Nothing like a good spoon for stirring, you know."—Harper's.

AESCHYLUS.

Curious Fate That Overtook the Father of Greek Tragedy.

Aeschylus, the celebrated Greek dramatic writer, is universally referred to as the "father of Greek trage-dy." Born of a noble family at Eleusis, in Attica, 525 B. C., at the age of twenty-four he first presented himself at the festival of Bacchus as a competitor for the public prize and fifteen years afterward gained his first victory. The pre-eminence which he thus acquired was successfully maintained till 468 B. C., when he was defeated in a similar contest by his younger rival, Sophocles.

Aeschylus, mortified at the indignity he thought this put upon him, quitted Athens and went to the court of Hiero, king of Syracuse. Of the remaining period of his life but little is known, except that he continued to prosecute his favorite pursuit, and that his residence in Sicily was of some duration may be inferred from the fact that it was sufficient to affect the purity of his language.

The thirteenth and last victory of Assembly was gained in 458 B. C. On Aeschylus was gained in 458 B. C. On the manner of his death, which was singular, the ancient writers are unan imous. While sitting motionless in the fields his bald head was mistaken for a stone by an eagle which happened to be flying over him with a tortoise in her bill. The bird dropped the tortoise to break the shell, and the poet was killed by the blow.

Aeschylus is said to have been the author of seventy tragedies, of which only seven are now extant.

LITTLE WORRIES IN THE HOME.

It is These That Bring Wrinkles and Make Women Look Prematurely Old.

Almost every woman at the head of a home meets daily with many little wor-ries in her household affairs. They may be too small to notice an hour afterwards, be too small to notice an hour afterwards, but it is these same constant little worries that make so many women look prematurely old. Their effect may be noticed in sick or nervous headaches fickle appetite, pain in the back or side, sallow complexion, and the coming of wrinkles, which every woman dreads. To those thus afflicted Dr. Williams. Pink Pills ofter a speedy and certain cure, a restoration of color to the cheeks, brightness to the eye, a healthy appetite and a sense of freedom from weariness. Among the thousands of Canadian women who have found new health and women who have found new health and new strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. W. C. Daerr, London, Ont., who says:—"About two years ago I found myself so badly run down that it was almost impossible to perform my household duties. I fell off in flesh, was weak and very pale, had no appetite, feet constantly-cold, and to further make my life miserable I was afflicted with those other ailments from which so many women suffer. I tried many ed with those other ailments from which so many women suffer. I tried many kinds of medicine, but got no benefit, and began to feel that I was slipping into chronic invalidism. I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I felt somewhat hopeless decided to do so. To my delight after taking the Pills a few weeks, I felt much better, and a further use of them brought me back to my old time health. I have since recommended the Pills to many others, and those who have used them have aland those who have used them have always been benefitted."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
