NO. 20

Belle Isle

Mrs. Lyle is visiting her relatives at Fredericton, N. B.

Our school for this year will be conducted by Miss Alida Foote, of Truro.

Miss Florrie Edwards, of Halifax, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Fenwick W. Harris.

Mrs. Susan Brooks, of North Range Digby County, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Archibald Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. Saville Johnson, of Danvers, Mass., were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Hoey.

Mr. Charles Inglis and daughter, Pearl, of Tupperville, were guests last Sunday of Mr. A. Clifford Bent and his sister, Annie.

Miss May Marshall, of Hampton, and Misses Grace and Lulu Brooks, of Centuria, were guests of Mrs. Frank Hogan last week.

Messrs. Charles and Alfred Hogan have purchased a gasoline engine to drive their threshers. They are doing fine work just now and lots of it.

Mrs. George W. Young and Mrs. W. A. Pigott, of Granville Ferry, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph MacLean, of Bridgetown, attended service at the Church of St. Mary on Sunday last.

Mr. Charles W. Parker left on Saturday for Halifax, where he has charge of the educational department at the Provincial Exhibition, in place of Supervisor McKay who is attending the Provincial Educational Association at Truro.

Miss Carrie L. Wade, of New York, who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. M. O. Wade, entertained a number of her young friends on Friday evening last at an ice-cream and cake party. Dancing was the most enjoyable feature of the evening.

Captain Clayton Collins, of the S. S. Granville, with Mrs. Collins and little daughter, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Fraser, Miss Bessie Kent, of Tupperville, and Miss Edna Sartan, of Parker's Cove, are also guests at their hospitable home.

Miss Lillian Troop wishes through the columns of the Monitor to thank her teacher, Mr. Edgar Hunt, for the beautiful volume of Milton's poems, which he presented to her for her marked proficiency in her studies during the past year. Miss Troop is a remarkably bright little lady of eight years. Who knows but what in the years to come the hand of Time may write her name in Halls of Fame.

Centre Clarence.

Services for Sunday Sept 5th were held by Rev. J. H. Balcom 11 a.m. 8.55. 10 a.m. B.Y.P.U. consecration meeting 8 p.m.

Our school teachers have gone to their respective places to begin work for another year. Miss Harris of Granville has been engaged to take charge of the school at Central Clarence.

In the congregation on Sunday many visitors were present who listened with interest to the impressive sermon delivered by Pastor H. H. Samuders.

Miss Primrose Elliott and brother of Granville Ferry are visiting Mrs. L. W. Elliott.

Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Cropley and child returned to Mass the 29th inst. John. They were delighted with our province and the cordiality of acquaintances made.

The ladies of the W.M.A. Societies will hold their annual gathering in the church on Monday night. Tea served in the vestry at 8 o'clock.

Your correspondent enjoyed an outing at Port Lorne in company with J. A. Balcom and family of Margareville. While there had the pleasure of seeing the steamer Ruby L. arrive in port. Several passengers left for St. John.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Jackson are visiting friends in Truro.

An interesting Missionary program was given on Sunday evening which was as follows:

Mr. F. W. Ward.—Leader.

Miss Mary Beals.—Organist.

Music.—Trusting in Thee.

Rev. William Inglis Morse, Distinguished in Theological Circles Receives Recognition of Literary Talent and Issues Book of Verse.

Rev. William Inglis Morse, who is well-known as a theological scholar, being ordained to the ministry of the Episcopal Church of the United States by Bishop Lawrence, of Massachusetts, in 1901, has also received wide recognition of his talents as an author and was elected member of the Canadian Society of Authors in 1905. A collection of his poems, some of which have appeared in the Canadian Magazine and other periodicals, has been published in book form under the title of "Acadian Lays and Other Verse."

The opening poems of this little volume are patriotic in sentiment, some of the titles being "The Canadian Abroad," "Acadia," "French Cross," "Watch-word for Canadians." The remaining verses are miscellaneous in character, a number of the best breathing high sentiment with purity of expression. "The Song of the Shadow" is one of the longer poems, and is a graceful piece of imagery.

THE SONG OF THE SHADOW.

A shadow-life and shadow-dance
I live within a world of chance,
Eternal wanderer am I
Across the earth and sea and sky;
Without goal, without a home,
My fate forever is to roam.
Within dim temples I abide
Where truth and beauty e'er confide,
I graze the dark cathedral lofts
And hear strange music wander soft
Above the cloistral aisles of stone
Where pilgrim stands entrapt, alone
A vision in his soul there wrought—
Or presence that he long has sought—
Tis here where towering pillars rise
Beyond all glory of sunrise,
I wind and wind forever round
The vaults and arches from whence sound
The lyric of the days gone by
And joys that e'er recur to die.

Where is my home? I ask and seek—
Unstable will—at morn to weep
My anger on the purple hills
And day that every valley fills,
Unwearied still when time is through
Some path again I tread anew,
As in the old, old, happy June,
When all the world went to the tune
The trusting birds played out so well
Within some chantry of the dell.

'Tis mine to suffer naught of fears
That mark the rising, falling years:
Without a harbour for my sail
I onward fit upon some trail;
Far out my skiff moves toward the night,
While all around a golden light
Stings peace to drifting memories
Afloat upon the western seas.

O'er wintry roofs I fit at dawn;
Whirled by the winds I hasten on,
Out of a place of rest at night,
Uttering in my ceaseless flight,
No landmark ever 'bides for me,
Nor passing ship upon the sea,
In every house where men have been
There I have followed, entered in,
Unbidden guest of banquet halls
Where music's charm the heart enthral,
I softly tread the polished floor
While human shapes fit o'er and o'er.

Through misty colored ways and dim
O'er glassy lakes where minnows swim,
Where far the sun pours burning gold
O'er the spreading seas of old,
Through empty mansions, bleak and gray,
With these, lone shadow, we would stray.

Across each human life I fall
At natal hour or funeral pall,
And days that are both dark and bright
Just as the hour of evening light,
Like some dim ghost of mystery
Thus on I haste, alone and free,
Unthought of all, remote and near,
My virtue never quails at fear,
Poor wanderer forer am I
Through nature, life, eternity.

A tender bit of verse called "Motherhood" is one of the gems of the collection.

MOTHERHOOD.

'Twas in an hour of falling rain at dawn,
With her thou camest to this world's fair day,
Out of the darkness of that vale called Death,
Thy spirit like an angel's fluttered near,
Her trembling heart, and gave her courage then

To face the glory of the gates ajar:
And all the pain, wherewith was wrought anew,
That old and wondrous miracle of Life—
Sweet Motherhood, the rose-wreath crown that glids
The brow of her who gives to earth a Child.

A series of poems on Nature show a sympathetic and responsive spirit as in the following quotation—

A LATTER DAY IN FEBRUARY.

Once more the gladdening song of birds
Sounds tremulous from the pine-clad steep,
While far across the stony waste
The brook hath roused itself from sleep.

'Tis joy that here flows back once more,
And mellow music seems to creep
Up through the vistas of the world
Where life had lain itself to sleep.

And far within a joy I feel
Of life's sure promise on the wing—
God's benison that crowns again
In these brief lines, with which our quotations must close:

THE LIPS OF LOVE.

One perfect moment, then my dream
Grew clear,
Love's strange and unaccustomed
Lips I felt draw near,
Press mine with infinite and yearning
And all the longings of a thousand
Years of bliss
Were gathered up in that swift, velvet touch,
Which held not one sweet dream too much.

One instant with her lips on mine
And lingered, clung, then turned
Upon her silent way
That seemed to lead to distant
Realms, where sound and sight
Are lost in visions of a heavenly flight—
And the crude world's uncouth day
Brings searchings for the dreams of night.

Annapolis County will watch with interest the future career of one of her sons who gives evidence of his high attainments while yet in early manhood. We append a brief sketch of his life herewith.

William Inglis Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, born at Paradise, Annapolis County, N. S., 1874, of English parentage, who emigrated from Plymouth Colony about the time of the Revolution. He was educated at Paradise Academy; graduated from Horton Academy, 1893; graduated from Acadia College, taking B. A. with honors in literature, 1897; graduated from Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., taking B. D., 1900; one year in Post-graduate School at Harvard in Philosophy and Ethics; Master at Westminster School, Ct., 1900-1902; ordained to the Diaconate of the Protestant Episcopal Church of United States, May, 1900; ordained to the Priesthood by Right Rev. William Lawrence, D. D., Bishop of Massachusetts, June, 1901; Curate of St. John's Parish, Stanford, Conn., 1902-1905; Rector, Church of the Incarnation, Lynn, 1905; elected member of the Canadian Society of Authors, August, 1905; author of "Acadian Lays and Other Verse," 1908.

Capt. Meisner Married

Captain Daniel D. Meisner, of Lunenburg, was married this morning to Miss Hattie L. Wentzell, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Wentzell, of this town. The marriage took place at the home of the bride and was attended by friends of the families of the contracting parties. Rev. Mr. McCreey, of the Lutheran church, officiated. The happy pair took the H. & S. W. train for Annapolis amid the congratulations and farewells of many friends and acquaintances. Captain Meisner will join his ship at Annapolis which sails today for Cuba Mrs. Meisner making the voyage with him.—Lunenburg Progress.

Surplus of Harvesting Labor

A Winnipeg despatch to the St. John Sun says:

According to reports received here, a very unusual number of harvesters have been unable to secure work and although conditions may improve slightly, as the late grain becomes ready for cutting, it appears that already there is a surplus of harvesting labor in the country beyond all possible requirements with the inward flow of wheat.

It is hardly fair to blame the railway companies entirely, for the conditions have been peculiar. At the time the first estimates of labor needed were sent out on which exonerations were based there were good prospects of very big crops, with a possible total of wheat average of nearer thirty than twenty bushels.

Unexpected drought coupled with unusually early frosts have cut down the wheat average to nearer fifteen than twenty bushels, and has cut the oat crop in half. At the same time these conditions have resulted in the crop being very easy to harvest, with unusually short straw. Added to this the desire on the part of farmers to cut down the harvest expenses to a minimum, and sufficient reasons are present for wide margin between original estimates and actual requirements in the harvest field.

A Regina despatch says that two hundred harvesters are out of work and some are destitute. They held an indignation meeting last night, protesting against the C. P. R.'s refusal to ship them home. The railway says the men are not entitled to return tickets till they have done thirty days' work, and the men claim they cannot get one day's work.

They allege they were brought in on misrepresentations by the C. P. R., who issued circulars broadcast in the East announcing an enormous demand for harvesters. They claim only 650 men were required in Saskatchewan and the company shipped in two thousand, with two more loads to come. Over one hundred are huddled in the C. P. R. depot with not fifty cents amongst the crowd, many having come all the way from Nova Scotia, with no prospect of ever getting back.

The Provincial Exhibition

The Provincial Exhibition at Halifax by the time this reaches our readers will be in full swing. The Management has left nothing undone that could be accomplished to make the Exhibition thoroughly good in its regular as well as in its amusement features. The Exhibition comes at a season of the year when a visit to Halifax is especially pleasant and a large attendance is expected. For the accommodation of visitors the Commission have opened a Lodging Bureau on Hollis Street, near the big hotel, under the Superintendency of Mr. W. J. Butler. Those in need of accommodation should immediately proceed to Mr. Butler's Office, 139 Hollis St., where they will be promptly and satisfactorily provided for.

A change has been made in the racing programme. One of its features is the 2:30 STALLION TROT for Saturday Afternoon of this week.

MONDAY of next week, "LABOR DAY," will be one of the greatest days of the Exhibition. The attendance from the City and Province will be large, and in addition to the Horse Races, patrons of the Grand Stand will see the great long distance foot-race. The Commission are expecting to be able to hold "Longboat" and some of the other runners who are here to compete in the Canadian Championship, over until Wednesday to take part in the Road Race at the Track.

The St. John Sun says that unless there is an improvement in the lumber market the mills in New Brunswick will all close down this fall.

Sudden Death of W. E. Crowe

W. E. Crowe, the well-known Halifax grocer, brother of Mrs. W. H. MacKenzie of this town, passed away very suddenly and unexpectedly on Thursday last.

Tuesday he was about his business as usual. In the evening he left for his summer home at Prince's Lodge, apparently in the best of health. He was seized with illness through the night and in spite of medical assistance promptly sent from the city he passed away on Thursday, the cause of his death being hemorrhage of the brain.

Mr. Crowe was only 52 years old. He was for many years connected with the Kandy Kitchen on Barrington street. Recently he devoted his full attention to his large grocery business on Gottingen street.

Mr. Crowe was an enthusiastic member of the Oddfellows. He was a Past Grand of Mystic Lodge, I. O. O. F., being connected with that lodge for more than a quarter of a century. He was also very active in Halifax Encampment, I. O. O. F. No. 3, of which he was a Past Chief Patriarch. The funeral was under the management of the order.

Mr. Crowe is survived by a widow and one son. The latter is in St. John's, Nfld., employed with his uncle, Harry J. Crowe. Four brothers and a sister also survive. The brothers are J. Frank, of Halifax; Harry J., of St. John's, Nfld.; E. P. Crowe, of Windsor, and Fred M., of St. John's, Nfld. Mrs. W. H. MacKenzie, of Bridgetown, is a sister. The sympathy of a wide circle of friends, among whom Mr. Crowe was always a jovial and much liked companion, will go out to the widow and family.

A later despatch says:—

The high esteem in which the late W. E. Crowe was held was testified to yesterday afternoon by the large number of citizens who attended his funeral which took place from his late residence, 252 1/2 Robie street. There was a general outpouring of his personal and business friends, his fellow church members and his comrades of the fraternal societies. Myrtle Lodge, No. 88, I. O. O. F., and Mayflower Division, Sons of Temperance, attended in a body. Practically all the Gottingen street merchants were to be seen in the cortege and in tribute to Mr. Crowe's memory the stores on that street, with which his name is so indissolubly connected, closed at half past two o'clock. The body was interred at Camp Hill.

SUFFOCATED TO DEATH.

Charles E. Cossaboom, aged about 80 years, was found dead in his room at the home of his son, Kelsey Cossaboom, in Smiths Cove, Digby County, on Monday morning. His death was due to suffocation from smoke caused by the explosion of a kerosene oil lamp.

BEAVER FLOUR
A PERFECT BLEND OF MANITOBA AND ONTARIO WHEAT

Manitoba wheat contains more food value than any other. It makes the most wholesome, most nutritious Bread and Biscuits. But it contains so much Gluten (Nourishment) that the dough won't rise properly, and the bread is both heavy and gray.

That is the reason, too, why Manitoba wheat flour does not yield good pastry.

Ontario wheat does not give as nutritious bread as Manitoba wheat. But what it lacks in food properties, it equals by its Biscuits, Cake and Pastry. For Pastry, alone, Ontario flour is better than any other flour made of a single variety of wheat.

But there is no need to go to the expense of buying two flours.

is both a bread flour and a pastry flour. It is a blend of Ontario Fall Wheat and Manitoba Spring Wheat. It contains just the right proportion of each to make the most nutritious Bread—the whitest Bread—and the lightest, most delicious Pastry of all kinds.

Beaver Flour also yields MORE Bread, etc., to the barrel, than any other.

No matter what other flour you are using, you are not getting the best results because you are not using the best flour.

Order a trial sack of Beaver Flour. The first baking will prove its quality.

TOURIST BUSINESS.

The tourist travel is reported to have been heavier than in any previous season, notwithstanding hard times.

Or perhaps the "hard times" situation had something to do with sending so many people to the provinces on their vacation.

Travelling rates from the New England States to Nova Scotia on all lines are very reasonable, and board is cheaper here than can be obtained at the summer resorts across the line.

Nova Scotia does not yet fully appreciate her advantages in this respect. Her tourist business is capable of immense development.

F. E. BOWEN, of Halifax, has been making a study of this traffic recently and, as a result of his observations, makes the following statements:—

The enormous proportions to which the tourist business has grown may be instanced by the fact that about thirty years ago the valuation of the seaside and inland resort property of the State of Maine was less than $500,000, while for the present year the valuation is $113,000,000.

All this has been brought about almost wholly by the development of the tourist business, "tourist trade" the Maine people call it.

The amount of money brought into the Pine Tree State by the tourist business three decades ago is estimated would not approximate $250,000 a year.

The statistical bureau of the Boston and Maine Railway (this road handles the lion's share of the travel to and fro) estimates that during the last few years the tourist business in Maine has amounted to about $20,000,000 annually.

The Portland Board of Trade, which is quite alive to the situation, estimates that the tourist business is worth to the City of Portland $1,000,000 a year.

SALMON.

(Newfoundland Trade Review.)

There appears to be a great demand for salmon just now, but nobody appears to be able to supply them.

The catch on the Newfoundland coast has been the smallest for years, and the Labrador voyage, whatever its size, is not yet available.

The small catch on the Newfoundland coast this season does not of necessity mean that the fish are scarce, but the fact is, nobody has been looking for salmon (to cure) for the last year or two, owing to the price offered.

The salmon fishery in the neighborhood of St. Johns, the last few years, is purely a fresh fish trade, and is only engaged in before the opening and after the closing of the regular codfishery season.

The price has advanced very rapidly the last few days, and this morning a first-class article of prime No. 1 large is worth $22 a tierce.

WRESTLING IN FUN HAD FATAL RESULTS.

A distressing accident occurred at Sheet Harbor last Thursday, when Percy Tupper, a fifteen-year-old boy, received fatal injuries, while he and a couple other boys were skylarking.

They had been playing on a wharf, and while lifting deals the Tupper lad failed to do something one of the others had succeeded in, and one of the other boys, Chisholm, commenced teaching him.

The two boys started wrestling, and Tupper, losing his balance, fell backward, his head striking a large deal which was lying on its edge.

The lad's skull was fractured, and he passed away almost instantly. The sad affair is reported as purely an accident, as Tupper and Chisholm were the best of friends. An inquest was held.

The Parents' Problem

Boys are a problem. Many parents have admitted it, in irritation, grief, despair or utter bewilderment, according to their various natures. There is a certain use which the term 'hobbledehoy' seems to express better than any other, at which boys are in everybody's way, including their own. G. Stanley Hall, who writes about it in the August number of 'Appleton's Magazine,' calls it the 'awkward age.' Nor is mere awkwardness the worst of it, in many cases.

'In the last few years,' he says, 'I have received several hundred letters from parents and friends who do not understand how tardy the development of the ethical nature is prone to be in boys. The burden of these is: 'My boy is well-grown, is a good student in school, is healthful, but is an incorrigible liar.' Or 'My boy, all right otherwise, is very obstinate,' or 'very profane,' or 'loathes school and is a chronic runaway.' The parents or relatives are at their wits' end, ready for almost any desperate remedy.'

Dr. Hall holds that one trouble with the American boy is that he has been left too much to the women. The 'hoodlum age' he says, is the time when the mother should turn the boy over to his father. Fathers, however, seem painfully inclined to shift their responsibilities in this respect, and as a consequence America is full of 'young cubs,' half-orphaned, and left to female guidance in school, home and church. It may seem a slight thing that city gangs defy the police, or commit petty depredations, break into a store to steal fruit or cigarettes, collect pistols, half of them toy ones, in cellars, sheds, or other lairs; plan petty robberies in dark alleys, scare or insult school girls, play tricks on passersby, swagger and bully each other; but these are nurseries where the criminals of the future are being reared.

Yet no one, according to Dr. Hall, is more easily influenced than a young boy, if one goes at it in an understanding way. 'To the right influence he yields himself almost with abandon.' But how is the father to supply this influence—how is he to deal with this strange, young, puzzling, restless bunch of energy shooting all at once out of childhood into manhood?

To establish a level of confidence—that is the secret. The boy, lately quite indifferent to the affairs of grown-ups, begins to be interested in the world in which men live. He begins to reach up to man's estate. Powers stir in him which he comprehends dimly or not at all, but which make him very curious. This is the time when he needs 'moral fatherhood.' Intimate talks with his father in which the man not talking down to the boy, not talking for effect, not indulging in reserves—which the young are quick to detect—shall share with the boy the lessons he has learned in the school of life. These are what boys crave and need. 'It is not enough,' says Dr. Hall, 'to induct the boy betimes into the father's business methods. Little by little the father should share with his son his views on men and morals, politics, religion, ways of spending time and money, civic duties, how to keep well—and not only that, but also his thoughts and experiences concerning women, marriage and parenthood. He should be told his father's errors and mistakes and the heredity he has to grapple with. Talk like this, says Dr. Hall, more than anything else, stimulate and flatter a boy and wake him up to think and do his best.

S. S. Picnic at Clementsport

The St. John's Sunday School held a picnic on the rectory grounds at Clementsport, on Friday, Aug. 28th. The day was perfect and the hay ride much enjoyed by the children. The teachers were driven up in one of Mrs. York's teams.

About thirty from Clementsport and Deep Brook joined the Bear River school and a bright, happy day was spent. Running and jumping matches were some of the pastimes, 1st prize for the best running of the older boys was won by Reginald Purdy, Bear River; 2nd prize by Clyde Bishop.

1st prize for the best running of the younger boys was won by Herbie Purdy, Deep Brook; 2nd prize won by John Rawding, Clementsport.

Best running match between three girls, prize won by Laura Dittmars, Deep Brook.

Running match between the Purdy twins, Olive and Irene, prize won by Irene.

Running match between three younger girls, prize won by Olive Bishop, Bear River.

High jump between the older boys, a tie, each boy given a prize.

High jump between the younger boys, prize won by Herbie Purdy, Deep Brook.

Running match between two little boys, prize won by Cecil Jones.

Apple race, between six little girls, 1st prize won by Laura Dittmars, Deep Brook. 2nd prize, Vera Rice, Bear River.

These contests were open for all the children who cared to try them. The prizes were provided by the superintendent, L. V. Harris, drugist, Bear River, and distributed by the two clerymen, Mr. Lockward and Mr. Withycombe.

For the older members of the Sunday Schools, there was Lawn Tennis and a dance in Ely's Hall.

After supper three cheers were given for Rev. and Mrs. Lockward for their kind hospitality, the teams were loaded up for home, and delighted with their days outing.—COM.

NATURE A VERY SKILFUL PHYSICIAN

Puts Up Her Medicines In Most Tempting Form.

Have you ever tasted anything more delicious than the fresh, ripe, luscious fruits? These are Nature's medicines. A regular diet without fruit is positively dangerous, for the system soon gets clogged with waste matter and the blood poisoned. Fruit juices stir up bowels, kidneys and skin, making them work vigorously to throw off the dead tissue and indigestible food which, if retained, soon poisons the blood and causes indigestion, Headaches, Rheumatism, Neuralgia and a host of other distressing troubles.

But there is a quicker way to stimulate the organs to do their work properly. Take one or two "Fruit-a-lives" tablets every night, besides eating some fresh fruit every day. "Fruit-a-lives" combine the medicinal properties—many times intensified—of oranges, apples, prunes and figs, with the best tonics and internal disinfectants added.

Their action on bowels, liver, kidneys and skin is as natural as Nature's own, but quicker and more effective. Sold by all dealers—5c. for trial box—50c. for regular size—6 boxes for $2.50. Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

SUCCESSFUL SKIN-GRAFTING

(St. John Star.)

One of the most remarkable cases of surgery has been performed at the general hospital.

On June 2nd, T. Eugene McAllister, the boy actor and son of the well-known comedian, Jere McAllister, was thrown from the Pacific express at the I. C. R. depot, and so bad were the injuries that it was found necessary to amputate the left limb well up in the hip, and it was thought almost impossible for the boy to survive. However, "Gene" is a boy with an iron nerve, and told the nurse in one of his most critical moments that "I'm as good as ten dead men yet."

The little fellow has undoubtedly assisted greatly towards the success of his case by his gameness. The case has been given special attention by Dr. White, and as each day comes the young patient steadily improves. In speaking of the case yesterday, Mr. McAllister said that nothing but the excellent attention at the hospital and the work of the doctors "had robbed death of a victim."

After the limb was amputated there was not enough skin left to cover the immense wound, and it has been found necessary to graft skin on the wound so as to close it up. When informed that some persons would be needed as volunteers to supply the necessary skin, Mr. McAllister said that about a dozen friends of the boy gladly offered their services. One day last week John Taylor went to the hospital to offer a piece of his leg for the grafting. Mr. Taylor will be remembered as one of the young boxers of a few years ago, but during the past year or two has been in the theatrical line. At the hospital a piece of skin about three inches by one and one-half was removed from the calf of Mr. Taylor's leg and then placed on the wound. This grafting process has proved a success, and the skin is growing where it was placed.

It has been found, in the United States that the skin from the stomach of a young pig proves better for grafting than that taken from a human being, and it is to be given a test on the boy at the general hospital. Mr. McAllister has secured a very young pig, and it will soon be toned up to a fit condition to be relieved of some of its skin for the benefit of making a final cure of the boy's wound. It is said that the pig skin not only takes better, but makes a tougher and stronger stump than the skin from a person's leg.

Unshrinkable

The only possible way in which underwear can be made unshrinkable is to take the "shrink" out of the wool, before garments are woven.

This is the way Stanfield's Underwear is made.

That is why

Stanfield's Underwear

is absolutely unshrinkable, 3 weights—all sizes. At your dealers.

THE HOME

USEFUL BAGS.

Have you never heard a house mother say, "I have been looking all the morning for a piece of cloth to patch Helen's dress. I am sure there were some pieces of it left?" It saves time to have a sewing room or closet devoted to all the odds and ends of sewing, but if that is not possible we may at least have a wide shelf in one, and numberless bags. In one bag may go the rolls of good pieces left from dresses and waists. This can be looked over twice a year, and as the original garment is worn out or cast aside, the pieces can be given to some child or the rag bag, since the day of piece work is very nearly past.

Cast-off garments should be washed and breadths that may be of future service rolled together, and the rest put in the rag bag. It is much easier to get rid of useless things as soon as possible—it saves extra dust and sometimes moths.

Have a button bag or box for the odd ones, another bag for the left-over laces or embroideries, as well as the new; another box or bag for white pieces—old sheets, bodies of nightgowns, and flour sacks—that so often come into use. If you gather all of these odd things together, believe me, there will need to be little searching for anything—it will just be a matter of selecting the right "bag."—Harriet Burch Wharton, in "Christian Work and Evangelist."

A HARDY AND HANDSOME PERENNIAL.

If your peony plants are doing well do not transplant them unless necessary, for when once planted in a favorable location they will flourish for years without special care, and should be at least half a dozen years without removal.

One frequently sees strong old clumps that have been growing the old crimson flowers for twenty years, and do not appear to require a change if one can judge by healthy foliage and flowers.

For grand effect the peony does best planted in masses, or in front of a shrubbery, especially if due regard is paid to varieties and time of bloom it rivals the rose, and some on may easily be prolonged a month. They require a rich soil, in fact it can hardly be too rich, and a top dressing of manure should be applied in November, and dug deeply into the soil in spring. A plentiful supply of water must be given at all times, especially when the flowers are opening.

One of the strongest claims to popularity of the peony is the fact of its hardiness, for it will endure a rigorous climate without any suffering and is free from insect pests and disease.

In brilliant coloring and perfection of bloom it rivals the rose, and some varieties are very fragrant. Though the blossoms are large they are not coarse, and though gay they are not gaudy.

Many of the newer shades are exquisite in coloring and range from pure white to pale rose with mauve tints and shades of blush to crimson. Bitter vigilance is the price of roses, but the peony will take care of itself and each succeeding year adds to the size of the clump and the number and beauty of the blossoms. If possible make the surroundings fit in to the peony and do not transplant unless imperative, and then with as little disturbance as possible. For decoration purposes and as cut flowers they are very lasting if picked when just opening, and always give a cheerful aspect to a room.

THE KEY-NOTES OF GOOD DRESSING.

The well-groomed woman is not always the most expensively dressed woman, nor does she dress her hair in the most extreme fashion. But when you look at her once, you are bound to take a second look—she is so pleasing, so harmonious, so restful.

Her hair is clean and well brushed. If she wears a switch, or a few puffs, you may be sure that she buys good hair that matches her own carefully, and then combines the two so cleverly that the line of demarcation cannot be seen. The fashion in which the would-be stylish girl openly flaunts her false hair this season is not good grooming.

She does not apply powder in excess until her face looks like a mask, nor does she go to the other extreme and assume a complexion so vivid that the cosmetics can be recognized by the most inexperienced eye.

She never allows a spot to remain on her frock, and she does not wear a soiled petticoat under a freshly laundered shirt waist suit. Her neckwear is immaculate and her skirts and blouses always meet firmly. Her short skirts do not sag in the back and the ship went down to the bottom and her boot-heels are never crooked or "run-over." A missing shoe but ton she abhors, and her laces and ties are always fresh and well-tied. She never wears a trained dress when walking on the street, and she never goes downtown shopping, even in summer, in a low-necked blouse. She wears a simple hat with tailored suits, and her gloves are subdued in coloring. She does not wear heavy brown ties with a silk or mull frock to a party, and neither does she wear fancy slippers with a short tailored skirt. Cleanliness and harmony—these are the keystones of good grooming.

FINED THE DRUMMER.

The Gravenhurst Banner says:—There is altogether too much scrap paper on the main streets of Gravenhurst, which, blown hither and thither by the wind, is apt to frighten horses, to the menace of life and limb. Parties getting mail at the post office think nothing of throwing newspaper wrappers, envelopes, etc., into the street, with a sublime disregard for tidiness. The other day I came upon a young man deliberately tearing some old letters into infinitesimal fragments and strewn them upon the sidewalk. In other towns there is a statute prohibiting such slovenliness. In Deseronto, last week, a Kingston traveller whose duty it was to collect certain coupons from merchants who handle his firm's goods, came out of a store with a handful of the papers which he immediately proceeded to tear up and throw in the street. The watchful eye of the chief of police caught the act. "It's against the by-law to throw paper on the street," warned the chief. "Better pick it up!" "I'll think about it," said the drummer. "It sometimes costs money to think about doing things instead of doing them," commented the chief. The drummer still refused to pick up the tiny bits of paper. The chief thereupon hastened away and swore out a summons for the appearance of the traveller in the police court the next morning. The magistrate imposed a fine and compelled the traveller to go back and pick up the paper.

The examination of A. R. Bayne, of Five Islands, charged with bribery and corruption at the by-election in Colchester County last fall, began in Truro, Wednesday, before Stipendiary Magistrate Crowe. The exposure and probable punishment of the offender in this case will, no doubt, teach a needed and wholesome lesson, whereby future elections may be to some extent at least purified from the degrading practices with which elections are commonly associated.

In The Fog

BY

Richard Harding Davis.

Copyright, 1901, by Robert Howard Russell.

"The unknown is a man of taste and of some fortune," he said, "not the sort of man to send a stupid peasant to guard the woman he loves. So I am not content to believe, with Mr. Sears, that the servant is a boor. I believe him instead to be a very clever ruffian. I believe him to be the protector of his master's honor, or, let us say, of his master's property, whether that property be silver plate or the woman his master loves. Last night, after Lord Arthur had gone away, the servant was left alone in this house with Lord Chetney and Madame Zichy. From where he sat in the hall he could hear Lord Chetney bidding her farewell; for, if my idea of him is correct, he understands English quite as well as you or I. Let us imagine that he heard her entreating Chetney not to leave her, reminding him of his former wish to marry her, and let us suppose that he hears Chetney denounce her, and tell her that at Cairo he has learned of this Russian admirer—the servant's master. He hears the woman declare that she has had no admirer but himself, that this unknown Russian was, and is, nothing to her, that there is no man she loves but him, and that she cannot live, knowing that he is alive, without his love. Suppose Chetney believed her, suppose his former infatuation for her returned, and that in a moment of weakness he forgave her and took her in his arms. That is the moment the Russian master has feared. It is to guard against it that he has placed his watchdog over the Princess, and how do we know but that, when the moment came, the watchdog served his master, as he saw his duty, and killed them both? What do you think? Lyle demanded.

"WHY IN THE NAME OF COMMON SENSE," HE CRIED, "SHOULD I HAVE CHOSEN THAT MOMENT?"

"I was only too willing to hear any theory which pointed to any one else as the criminal than Arthur, but Lyle's explanation was too utterly fantastic. I told him that he certainly showed imagination, but that he could not hang a man for what he imagined he had done.

"No," Lyle answered, "but I can frighten him by telling him what I think he has done, and now when I again question the Russian servant I will make it quite clear to him that I believe he is the murderer. I think that will open his mouth. A man will at least talk to defend himself. Come," he said, "we must return at once to Scotland Yard and see him. There is nothing more to do here."

"He arose, and I followed him into the hall, and in another minute we would have been on our way to Scotland Yard. But just as he opened the street door the postman halted at the gate of the garden, and began fumbling with the latch.

"Lyle stopped, with an exclamation of chagrin. "How stupid of me!" he exclaimed. He turned quickly and pointed to a narrow slit-cut in the brass plate of the front door. "The house has a private letter-box," he said, "and I had not thought to look in it! If we had gone out as we came in, by the window, I would never have seen it. The moment I entered the house I should have thought of securing the letters which came this morning. I have been grossly careless." He stepped back into the hall and pulled at the lid of the letter-box, which hung on the inside of the door, but it was tightly locked. At the same moment the postman came up the steps holding a letter. Without a word Lyle took it from his hand and began to examine it. It was addressed to the Princess Zichy, and on the back of the envelope was the name of a West End dressmaker.

"That is of no use to me," Lyle said. He took out his card and showed it to the postman. "I am Inspector Lyle from Scotland Yard," he said. "The people in this house are under arrest. Everything it contains is now in my keeping. Did you deliver any other letters here this morning?"

"The man looked frightened, but answered promptly that he was now upon his third round. He had made one postal delivery at seven that morning and another at eleven.

"How many letters did you leave here?" Lyle asked.

"About six altogether," the man answered.

"Did you put them through the door into the letter-box?"

"The postman said, 'Yes, I always slip them into the box, and ring and go away. The servants collect them from the inside.'"

"Have you noticed if any of the letters you leave here bear a Russian postage stamp?" Lyle asked.

"The man answered, 'Oh, yes, sir, a great many.'"

"From the same person, would you say?"

"The writing seems to be the same," the man answered. "They come regularly about once a week—one of those I delivered this morning had a Russian postmark."

"That will do," said Lyle eagerly. "Thank you, thank you very much."

"He ran back into the hall, and, pulling out his penknife, began to pick at the lock of the letter-box.

"I have been supremely careless," he said in great excitement. "Twice before when people I wanted had flown from a house I have been able to follow them by putting a guard over their mail-box. These letters, which arrive regularly every week from Russia in the same handwriting, they can come from but one person. At least, we shall know the name of the master of this house. Undoubtedly it is one of his letters that the man placed here this morning. We may make a most important discovery."

"As he was talking he was picking at the lock with his knife, but he was so impatient to reach the letters that he pressed too heavily on the blade and it broke in his hand. I took a step backward and drove my heel into the lock, and it burst open. The lid flew back, and we pressed forward, and each ran his hand down into the letter-box. For a moment we were both too startled to move. The box was empty.

"I do not know how long we stood staring stupidly at each other, but it was Lyle who was the first to recover. He seized me by the arm and pointed excitedly into the empty box.

"Do you appreciate what that means?" he cried. "It means that some one has been here ahead of us. Some one has entered this house not three hours before we came, since eleven o'clock this morning."

"It was the Russian servant!" I exclaimed.

"The Russian servant has been under arrest at Scotland Yard,"

Joker's Corner.

NOT THE FAULT OF HIS INSTRUCTOR.

The colored boy was up in the children's court for the fifth time on charges of chicken stealing. This time the magistrate decided to appeal to the boy's father. "Now, see here, Abe," said he to the old darkey, "this boy of yours has been up in court so many times for stealing chickens that I'm sick of seeing him here!" "Ah, don't blame you, sah," returned the father. "ah's sick ob seeing 'im yah, too." "Then why don't you teach him how to act?" Show him the right way and he won't be coming here!" "Ah has showed 'im de right way, sah," declared the old man earnestly. "ah has suttely showed 'im de right way, but he somehow 'keep gittin' caught comin' 'way wid dose chickens!"

WHICH BANK?

Dr. McNamara, a member of the British parliament, tells of a school-teacher who was endeavoring to convey the idea of pity to the members of his class. He illustrated it, "Now supposing," he said, "a man working on the river bank suddenly fell in. He could not swim and would be in danger of drowning. Picture the scene, boys and girls. The man's ardent fall, the cry for help. His wife, knowing his peril and hearing his screams, rushes immediately to the bank. Why does she rush to the bank? After a pause a small boy piped forth: "Please, sir, to draw insurance money."

A cabman having received from a stout lady the smallest fee the law allows, wished to say something witheringly. "Would you mind," he asked politely, "walking around the other way and not passing in front of the horse?"

READY FOR THE DOLLAR.

Marjorie, aged nine, had not been having very satisfactory reports from school. Her father finally said: "Marjorie, for the first hundred you get I'll give you a dollar." Time went on and the reward could not be claimed. One day the child was taken violently ill. Her mother sent for the doctor. When he had gone, Marjorie said, "Mama, am I very ill?" "No, dear, your temperature is a little over a hundred, but the doctor thinks you will be all right in a day or so." Smiles broke through Marjorie's tears. "Now, mama, I can have my dollar. Papa said he would give it to me if I could get a hundred in anything."

WILLIAMS AND TIBERT

Ogilvie's Royal Household

THE maxim of many housewives is, "When in doubt blame the flour." This is unfair.

If your baking goes wrong, investigate—find the cause. Look to your stove, your yeast, your baking methods.

If you succeed in pinning the trouble down to the flour—if you clear yourself—then take up the flour question in dead earnest.

Consider that flour, to be successful from a baking standpoint, must be fine to produce light bread or pastry, pure to make that bread or pastry wholesome, and rich in nutriment to make it nourishing.

The good housewives all over the country are learning that has these three qualities in the greatest degree.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is milled by the most modern methods, purified by the only process that makes for absolute purity and made only from Manitoba Hard Wheat which contains the highest percentage of nutriment.

Royal Household Flour, in competent hands, never disappoints. Your grocer will guarantee this and gladly furnish the flour.

Poor tea is poor economy—use "Salada" and you will appreciate the excellent qualities of high-grade tea.

In order to relieve the pressure in our mechanical department, the Monitor has been issued this week in somewhat condensed form.

The Harvester's Excursion advertised for September 8th has been cancelled. No more laborers are required to harvest the crop.

Rev. H. A. Harley has been appointed managing director and secretary of the Church School for Girls Windsor, in succession to the late Dr. Hind.

The members of Olive Branch Division intend holding their annual picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rice, on Thursday, September 3rd, at five o'clock.

The Liberal political campaign opens at Sydney tomorrow, 3rd instant. Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. William Patterson and Premier Murray will be among the speakers.

So far as we can learn the Bridgetown boys who went west with the Harvester's Excursion succeeded in obtaining work at fair wages, but will be glad to return to old Nova Scotia when their time is up.

Mr. J. B. Stewart, Superintendent of the Boys' Institute of Industry Boston, gave an interesting and instructive "chalk talk" in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening last. Mr. Stewart is doing a noble work among the waifs and strays of Boston and the results of his labors have been wonderfully effective.

A dance was given in Lonley's Hall, Paradise, on Thursday evening last by the Misses Jackson. About seventy-five guests were present. Violin and piano furnished the music for dancing. After the serving of refreshments, in the few hours of the evening, the guests left for their respective homes, expressing their hearty enjoyment of the event's pleasure.

A number of our young people will take up higher studies this year at various centres of learning. Lemorne Juggles, Robert Roberts and Arthur Dodge will go to King's College; Frank Johnson, Miss Nettie Bishop and Miss Jennie Fellows will go to Pictou to take the "A" course at Pictou Academy. Miss Hetty Cropper will return to Acadia Seminary. The Monitor wishes them all the best of success.

A very pleasant surprise was in store for those worshipping in St. James' Church last Sunday evening in the shape of a delightful solo by Mr. Walter Kiley, of Boston. Mr. Kiley undoubtedly possesses one of the best voices heard in Bridgetown of late years and should he adhere to his present intention, viz., to continue studying with a view to a musical career, we venture to predict for him a splendid success. His voice is a rich, powerful baritone.

The annual re-union of the Paradise and Clarence W. M. A. S. will be held in the Clarence Church on Monday afternoon next at three o'clock. A number of visitors are expected, including the society at Port Lorne. The afternoon session will be conducted by Mrs. Saunders, president of the Paradise Society. In the evening a public missionary meeting will be held. This is anticipated with special interest as a number of speakers from abroad are expected to participate. A silver collection for missions will be taken during the evening.

The lecture of Professor Carruthers "The World Gone Mad," was listened to by a very appreciative audience at the Court House on Monday night. The reverend lecturer is master of the art of entertaining an audience, and his lecture, illustrating the facts and fancies with which human nature is beset and deluded, was presented in such a manner as to hold the attention with untiring interest and pleasure. This lecture will be followed by a second entertainment which will be a recital of sketches from the "Bonnie Brar Bush," presented in Scotch dialect in which Prof. Carruthers, who is a native Scotchman, excels. This will be given on Monday evening, 21st inst., and no one who appreciates refined humor and pure pathos, as contained in this masterpiece of literature, should fail to reserve the date.

BRIDGETOWN SCHOOL.

The six departments of the public school opened Monday. Our information of last week regarding the opening proved to be incorrect. Some misunderstanding having arisen in consequence of the supposition that the teachers would attend the Teachers' Association in session this week. It was not known definitely until Principal Bastin arrived on Saturday whether the schools would open on Monday or not.

The school has been augmented by the opening of a new room in the building, which will greatly facilitate the work of the school year.

The primary department being the largest is divided, with Misses Beas Hoyt and Florence Cochran as the teachers, their classes occupying separate rooms. The next two grades are presided over by Miss Bessie Crowe, who comes from the Middleton Consolidated School. Successive grades are under the instruction of Miss Emma Graves, who devoted last year to normal training, Miss Mollie Johnson, daughter of Rev. G. F. Johnson, pastor of Providence Methodist Church, and Principal Bastin.

GOOD WORDS FOR REED'S EARTH CURE.

Mrs. Andrew Nickerson, of Charlesville, Shelburne, N. S., says: "Four months ago I fell and bruised myself badly; my sufferings were intense. Our Dr. did not help me, neither did I begin the use of Reed's Earth Cure; one twelve oz. box has cured me. I believe it to be the best remedy we have for injuries such as mine was. Some of my neighbors tell me they have been cured of acute rheumatism by using the Earth Cure."

A TRAVELING MAN'S EXPERIENCE.

"I must tell you my experience on an East bound O. R. & N. R. R. train from Pendleton to LeGrande, Ore.," writes Sam A. Garber, a well-known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said, 'There is a woman sick unto death in the car.' I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic, her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a deathlike look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suit case and got my bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of the medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect, and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I save the bottle to the instant to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into Le Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car."
