WAS BIG DAY FOR PITTSBURG PLAYER

Carey Equalled Major League Fielding Record.

Some Deals in Baseball—Notables in Golf Competition in U. S.—News of Ring and Other Late Sport.

New York, July 26.—In aiding Pittsburgh to win over New York yesterday, in the only game played in the major leagues, Max Carey, center fielder for Pittsburgh, equalled the major league fielding record by catching 11 flies hit by Giant batters, made two doubles, two singles, scored half of his team's six runs and called it a day.

It was Carey's spectacular playing that was a material factor in Fletcher Hube Adams' second consecutive victory over McGraw's clan. Any hopes that the Giants entertained of routing Pittsburgh from first place in the present series likewise were eliminated. The Pennsylvanians now are four games ahead with three to play.

The transfer of Emil Meusel, hard hitting Philadelphia National outfielder to the Phillies adds another chapter to the series between New York and Philadelphia clubs this season.

In the trade New York gave the Phillies Curtis Walker, an outfielder and Walter Henkin, a catcher. The last named, now with the Indianapolis American Club, has been the property of the New York club since last fall. A few weeks ago McGraw traded Eddie Ryan, Lee King and Lance Richbourg to the Phillies for John Rawlings and Casey Stengel. Another deal was the exchange of Monroe and Winters for Fitcher Causey.

The new giant is a brother of "Bob" Meusel, Yankee outfielder. He is George Kelly's nearest rival for home run honors in the National League, having made twelve to date.

Nearly Out.

Cincinnati, July 26.—Johnny Ray, of Pittsburgh, bested Frank Tucker of Los Angeles here last night. Ray tried in every one of the nine innings to get a knockout and almost succeeded in the ninth, when he hit Tucker to the mat for a count of nine, but Tucker struggled to his feet and managed to hold on. Ray is to meet Jack Lawlor here on next Monday night in a ten round bout.

Nearly 150 golfers, including practically all the stars who played in the national tournament, with the exception of Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, were entered for the meeting. Although Jock Hutchinson was not among the entrants, he would make his appearance tomorrow as an added star. The entry of Fred McLeod of Washington was received last night.

Chicago, July 26.—George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, British professionals, today will face Chick Evans, Jr., and Charles Mayo, Edgewater Club professionals, on the Edgewater links. As Hiram Sees It

"Hiram" said the Times reporter to Mr. Hiram Hornbeam, "when you find a team of horses is overloaded, what do you do—call the neighbors in and put on more load?" "Say," said Hiram, "when did you begin asking fool questions?" "Since we begin to discuss the harbor commission act," said the reporter. "It is claimed that the load on our harbor is too great and in order to relieve the situation we are asked to let a harbor commission come in and increase the load, the theory being that you can't pile on too much as long as there is anything left to put on. Is that how you haul in your hay?" "I don't cut no more hay at one time than I kin take care of," said Hiram, "an' if I want to put a lot I git the neighbors to help. Now, you fellers git the rest of Canada to help with that harbor, instead of puttin' the hull load on the harbor the way that these commission act does, you'll be gittin' somewhere. D'you suppose I'd go an' give away my loss if I found he couldn't do no, siree! I'd git some help—By Hen!"

BRUSSELS STREET CASE GONE INTO

Intimidation Charge in Connection With Power Company Work.

In the police court this morning the case of John Short and John Mabee, charged with intimidating employees of the N. B. Power Co., were taken up. W. M. Ryan appeared for Short and H. H. Leach, Jr., represented the company. Mabee was not represented by counsel. The morning was taken up with examination and cross-examination of Frank Mersereau, the complainant in the case. Adjudgment was made until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

At the opening of the case the magistrate told the accused that they had the option of being tried by him or going before the supreme court. Both elected to be tried in the police court and scheduled to sail on August 1.

Frank Mersereau was the first witness for the prosecution. Examined by Mr. Leach he said he was a laborer with the N. B. Power Co. and knew both of the accused by sight. He said that on Tuesday afternoon, July 18, between two and three o'clock he had gone to Brussels street in the course of his employment and had seen Short sitting on a door-step, that Short had called out "scab" several times. He (witness) had stopped there and then started down Brussels street towards Haymarket square.

Mr. Chambers was working with four or five laborers of the company, and as he (witness) had started down street Chambers had moved his men in the same direction to get clear of a crowd of about forty or fifty spectators who were standing by. At this point, he said, Short got up and said that failure of being tried by him or going before the supreme court. Both elected to be tried in the police court and scheduled to sail on August 1.

Into Pawnshops and Hands of Collectors, Says Toronto Globe.

"War medals issued to Canadian veterans for the great war are already beginning to find their way into the pawnshops and also into the hands of collectors and stores which supply collectors, in great numbers.

"In one downtown store there are to be seen several D. C. M., a number of Mr. M's. Mons Stars, Victory Medals, General Service Medals and others. Even the mother's medal finds a place.

"One veteran who received his not long ago, the Military Medal, the Victory and General Service Medals, promptly took them to a store and received $7 for them.

"In a good many cases the medals have been sold because the recipient was in actual want and had nothing else of value to dispose of. In very few cases have medals pawned been redeemed, and most of them have been sold outright, in place of remaining in the possession of the man who won them. They will ultimately become the property of collectors."

NORTHCLIFFE ON IRELAND

Discusses This and Other Big Questions With New York Reporters.

Lord Northcliffe, who arrived in New York last week on his trip around the world, accompanied by H. W. Steed, editor of the London Times, who will go as far as Vancouver, and three others.

In an interview given to the reporters in the suite which he occupied on the starboard side of the Aquitania, Lord Northcliffe declined to commit himself on the Japanese question or the policy of the Allies in the Far East.

He was asked to say whether he was already made known his views upon that subject.

"I am not troubling myself about the cutting off of the Foreign Office news from the newspapers in Ireland, and as we have a good staff of correspondents in all parts of the world, I am sure we will always rely upon," he said.

"What do you think of the Irish question?" he was asked.

"It is a great problem that has been unsettled for 700 years and it is rather too much to expect to settle it in seven days. I wonder if the American people know," Lord Northcliffe continued.

PARLIAMENT AND IRELAND

There May be an Autumn Session if Irish Settlement is Reached.

London, July 26.—Austin Chamberlain, government leader in the House of Commons, said today that he hoped parliament would be prorogued August 26, but he foreshadowed the possibility of its being summoned again in November or December to pass legislation necessary to give effect to an Irish settlement.

Disband Black and Tans. Belfast, July 26.—Plans for the complete reconstruction of the Irish police force are under consideration by the Irish executive, the points under discussion include the early disbandment of the auxiliary forces and the complete re-organization of the Royal Irish Constabulary and the merging of the Dublin Metropolitan police in a newly constituted force in which all the men now serving are to be retained.

It is regarded as certain that the auxiliaries will be disbanded at an early date, but will be given the choice of rejoining the new organization, the same as any other members of the police force.

Members of the Royal Irish Constabulary, being intimately interested in the proposed changes recently organized a meeting of delegates of various ranks, including officers, at which definite proposals were formulated.

These are to be submitted to the Irish executive today, when assurances will be asked from the government on several points.

ALL JEWISH RESIDENTS of this city are requested to attend a mass meeting to be held at the new synagogue, corner Carleton street and Wellington Row on Wednesday evening, July 27th, at 8 o'clock, to arrange for the reception of the Chiswick 2132-728 England.

THE FREDERICTON TROTTER PARK. Getting Near Decision in the Matter of Purchase as Part of Exhibition Plant.

Fredericton, N. B., July 26.—Definite decision as to whether or not the trotting park property, consisting of approximately twenty-three acres and owned by the Odell estate, will be taken over by Agriculture Society No. 24 and made a part of the Fredericton exhibition plant is expected this week.

Terms had been placed before a meeting of the exhibition directors, and it is understood these include a suggestion that the site be purchased for $100,000 with an option to purchase at the end of that time, also a price at which the owners would sell outright.

In addition to the proposal to have the site arranged for the exhibition changed so that the racing will be part of the fair plant and the vandevan exhibition will be produced in front of a large grand stand both in the afternoon and evening, those who have been urging the acquisition of the property say additional ground is required for the ordinary purpose of the fair and especially for parking automobiles.

STREET RAILWAY MATTER TODAY. The allotting of the first payment of $1,800 strike benefits to members of the local street railwaymen's union this morning, so Ira D. Farris, the president, said this afternoon.

Mr. Thomson has addressed a letter to the mayor, pointing out that the N. B. Power Co. pays an average of $18,000 a month into the city funds for the maintenance of streets, etc., and asking if it is not fair to expect that the city should not be expected to pay a proportionate amount.

It is expected that the type of bus to be used by the Union Bus Co. on the city service will be decided at the afternoon meeting of the directors of the company. A committee now has the matter in hand.

The work of track laying in Brussels street was continued today and there was no interference reported.

BRUSSELS STREET CASE GONE INTO

(Continued from page 1.) who had later gone to Sydney, N. S. On Monday he had seen a man with Short but was unable to give a description of him.

He didn't know whose door-step Short was on. He saw no man in standing with the crowd and there was no trouble there. He said he heard Short call out "scab" to men working in the line and swore it was to these men that he was calling.

He didn't know that Short was a former member of the power company. He had received no pay for the Saturday previous, as he had not worked that day, though he had not worked previously. There were three or four other days on which he had not worked. Nothing had been said to him when he went back to work, though he could not come and go as he liked. He had had no conversation with Mr. Chambers that afternoon. When he worked Chamberlain was his boss. He boarded at 48 Harrison street.

Mr. John Mabee the witness said that he had seen him on the right hand side of Brussels street, going down and that he was standing up. He had not heard Mabee calling anyone a scab or insulting anyone, but he had heard him passing remarks, though he did not know what they were.

The case was postponed until tomorrow morning.

RIO DE JANEIRO PAPERS WILL STOP SUNDAY WORK. Rio de Janeiro, July 26.—Work in newspaper offices in Rio de Janeiro between the hours of eight o'clock Sunday morning and eight o'clock Monday morning is prohibited under the provisions of an act passed by the municipal council.

Shareholders of the two Sackville silver fox ranches, The Canada Foxes and Dominion Black Foxes, Limited will be pleased to learn of the success of these companies both in raising pups and in marketing them. Between forty and fifty pups were in January last shipped to London, England, where many were sold at auction by C. M. Lampton and Co., at their sales in February and April. At the close of the April sale there still remained in the hands of Lampton and Co. ten Canadian silver pups, which in the ordinary course of sales were expected to be sold in the next few days ago.

When did the mayor and commissioners decide to become the owner of the elevator and wharf built by Canada many years ago?

Why should the revenue of our harbor in 1921 have to pay to the minister of finance of Canada interest at the rate of 3 1/2 per cent per annum upon the cost of the elevator and wharf built by Canada many years ago?

Can any one of the writers or speakers in favor of the act, answer fully the above questions?

In view of many of the provisions in this act, can any reader of the act truthfully say that it is to the advantage of our city to vote in favor of commission under this act?

Without any doubt with the provisions of the act before them, every taxpayer every man and woman should vote against commission.

Let there be a big vote against this harbor commission act.

VOTER.

ST. JOHN PEOPLE SEE HOW GAME FRENCHMAN LOST

Pictures of Dempsey-Carpenter Bout Remarkable Record of Contest - Big Imperial Crowd of Men and Women Present.

The first authentic pictures of the famous Carpenter-Dempsey battle for championship honors were screened before packed houses of men and women at the Imperial yesterday afternoon and evening.

The pictures show the progress of the big fight, round by round, just as if one had gone to Jersey City to see the ring action of France and America battling for supremacy.

From the time Carpenter, the challenger, enters the ring, interest in the big fight is at fever heat. He is closely followed by the champion Dempsey, who enters, preceded by six policemen.

The assembly through give both the challenger and title-holder a great ovation, one almost hush of the roar of welcome from the 8000 throats gathered to witness the memorable event.

Then Announcer Dempsey steps to the center of the ring and introduces the two men. In viewing the film one becomes imbued with the same spirit of suspense as if they were present in the great arena.

A battery of twenty cameras, each with their hawk-eyed lenses trained on the center of the ring then kept grinding away with a result that not a moment of the great fight is lost.

The second round in which the challenger opened up on the champion with such a force that Dempsey, for a time, did not know what was taking place, is clearly shown, and is an irrefutable document in support of the argument that Dempsey had followed the advice of his manager and trainer, Dempsey to "keep away" that his chances of winning would have been much greater.

During the course of this famous second round, one sees the hall of blows, as fast as lightning with which the challenger rocked the champion. One sees the wonderful right hander which Dempsey delivers to the challenger with the quickness of a flash. He backs Dempsey to the ropes under the fusillade of blows, and the crowd rises in a frenzy of excitement.

But Carpenter never faltered, he came back strong in the third despite the injury to his hand. It is in this round that the film shows the giant punches gradually wear the contender down, and the round comes to an end amidst a whirlwind of powerful blows, Carpenter vainly trying to get the better of his opponent, and Dempsey working hard to put over the punch which would crown him king of champions.

As much as the film shows the superiority of Dempsey in fighting at close quarters, it is a silent tribute to the greatest light fighter who ever stood before a champion. Carpenter is seen sneaking back in the fourth and last round to fight against the greatest of he has ever encountered. He strives hard to continue the fight, but Dempsey with a powerful blow sends Carpenter to his knees to the floor. At the sound of nine Carpenter rises to his feet, and the champion floors him with a fusillade. Here is where the film records the gameness of the French fighter.

While the seconds are being counted the struggle to regain his feet, using every ounce of strength in his body, but Dempsey the supreme effort collapses, defeated.

For a dramatic moment, there is not an equal in sporting annals. The popular soprano, Grace Maxwell, pleased the audience with an earnestly Carpenter to his corner. The film shows both men leaving the ring after the fight, one can see Dempsey acknowledging the cheers of the people, and can even follow Carpenter as he returns to his dressing room, being acclaimed by the throng, still great in the hearts of sporting fans, even in defeat.

St. John never saw a more comprehensive record of the abilities of two pre-eminent aspirants for the laurels of leadership—their training, bouts with sparring partners, methods of preparation, personal touches, all leading up to the actual test in the roped arena. It was naturally a very exciting hour and a half and when the orchestra stopped playing when the fight started the comments of the watchers in the theatre gave atmosphere to the exhibition, as the saying is nowadays. An hilarious three-reel Harold Lloyd comedy, "Now or Never" professed the sporting film and set everybody in the Jollist of humor.

good all the way through and did not lag for a second. Several specialty numbers were introduced consisting of a quartette, made up of Jack Poye, the Bilger Sisters and Veronika Leaky. Erna O'Hara received hearty applause for her piano speciality, as also did Baby Edna, Mary O'Rourke and Jane Herd when they appeared in the trio dance. There is plenty of good clean comedy in the show, with a splendid array of costumes and scenic effects.

The feature picture is one of the best seen in this city for some time "The Road to Ambition" featuring the matinee idol Conway Tearle. Elaine Stern's story provides the star with many opportunities and he makes the most of them all. From the time he makes his first appearance as Bill Matthews, foreman of the Bethel Steel Works, he has the spectators right with him. His ideals are but the reflections on the screen of the ideals of the average man, and when at the climax of the story, Bill Matthews reaches the top, every one in the audience sits back with a sigh of satisfaction, as if the success of the screen character had been their own.

There is also another chapter of "The Avenge Arrow" which concludes a show that is 100 per cent. entertainment.

GUARD LOSES LEG IN POLECAT BATTLE

Exciting Night on Rockefeller Estate - In Height of Battle a Shot Goes Wild With Painful Results.

Tarrytown, N. Y., July 26.—The polecat of Pocantico Hills and the watchman of John D. Rockefeller's estate fought each other early the other morning with gas and gunfire. One of the watchmen was so badly wounded by the latter that his leg had to be amputated in Tarrytown hospital.

It was on the orders of Mr. Rockefeller that Edward Lockwood and Joseph Latham, two watchmen on the oil king's estate, went on duty last night with their guns. Mr. Rockefeller and everyone else in the neighborhood had smelt the approaching polecats, and it was decided that they were excellent animals to shoot on sight.

About two o'clock Latham and Lockwood came upon a flock of polecats. The "immediate result was a heavy and overpowering smell. Latham was in the trigger and the cartridge exploded. Lockwood got the shot full in the leg. He was only six feet away. Superintendent Delap was aroused and Lockwood was rushed to the hospital. The leg was amputated by Dr. Sweet. There is hope that he will recover. Mr. Rockefeller has instructed the hospital authorities that no expense be spared in attending to the wounded watchman.

The odor of battle was still heavy on the green when Mr. Rockefeller went out for a bit of golf this morning. He managed to play nine holes, and then was forced to quit. The residents of Pocantico Hills are AUTOISTS YIELD A RICH REVENUE. The fee-paid Constables Around London Are Reaping a Harvest.

London, Ont., July 26.—London Motor Club has received numerous complaints from Western Ontario motorists, including members of the Woodstock Motor Club, who allege that fee-paid constables are infesting roads in the vicinity of this city in a deliberate attempt to commercialize summer traffic on whatever pretence the law can be stretched to afford.

The constables, who have adopted the operation of speed traps as a full time occupation, are reported to be making hundreds of dollars weekly out of the fees, collecting large sums by dealing with scores of cases at each sitting. The corner of Wellington Road and Brick street, south of the city, has now been made a trap, and it is claimed that practically every motorist who passes that corner is charged with driving at a speed exceeding twelve and a half miles an hour.

In an effort to frustrate the constables many motorists are now adopting a set policy of coming to a full stop on the intersection. The Motor League has advised the local club to renew the campaign for the abolition of the fee system by petitioning the county council.

ARE WE BEGGARS?

Under the harbor commission act the federal government is not pledged to spend one dollar for the improvement of St. John harbor.

The Times makes this assertion deliberately and challenges any advocate of the act to prove the contrary.

In the past the federal government has spent millions of dollars for harbor improvement at St. John, and has not charged up one cent against the city or harbor revenue.

But what does the harbor commission act provide? It provides that hereafter the harbor revenue must pay three and a half per cent per annum on the cost of that grain elevator and those government wharves, including the very costly marine wharf.

Does any member of the Board of Trade or any shipping man dispute this statement? He cannot dispute it, for it is there in the act.

The act not only throws upon harbor revenue the interest on past expenditure which it never had to bear before, but throws upon it the burden of interest and sinking fund for all new expenditure.

Does any member of the Board of Trade or any shipping man say this is not true? He cannot, for it is there in the act. And the act is supplemented by the declaration of government policy by Hon. Mr. Ballantyne to the effect that harbors under commission must hereafter pay interest and sinking fund out of revenue.

The only thing the advocates of the act can say is that while it says one thing the government intends to do the very opposite. Is that the way contracts are made? What business man would sign a contract on a verbal assurance that it did not mean what it said?

The people of St. John own the harbor. Without giving up ownership they have been able to get the government to spend millions of dollars as a national work. The government did not ask that harbor commission be adopted.

Neither the C. P. R. nor the C. N. R., both of which have great shipping interests, wants a harbor commission. Why is an attempt being made to convey the impression that it is the harbor commission act or nothing? Defeat the act and insist upon getting one that will pledge the government to do something.

St. John is not a beggar standing at the door of Canada asking for crumbs. The self-respect of the citizens will resent such an imputation. This is a national port. It has been so recognized by two governments, which in turn spent millions for its development.

There are only a few days left in which the citizens may fully familiarize themselves with the harbor commission act. Upon what they do next Monday much depends. Read the act.

Verdict of $35,000 Against Wealthy Detroit Man. Detroit, Mich., July 26.—A verdict for $35,000 was returned by the recorder's court today that considered the suit for alleged breach of promise brought by Miss Monica Hatton against Arthur Stott, wealthy Detroit.

It does not give any assurance that harbor development will be more rapid than in the past. It does not relieve the taxpayers of St. John of responsibility for the present harbor debt.

It does not provide for the payment of one dollar in cash to the city. It does not say river traffic will be exempt from harbor dues.

mission which is only authorized to make such expenditure (after providing its own high salaries and expenses and paying three and a half per cent per year on the cost of the grain elevator and government wharves) as the traffic of the port will bear.

These are the simple facts about the commission act. All that its advocates can say in reply to the facts is that the government does not mean what it has set forth in an act of parliament, and that it will really do what it says it will not do.

All the sophistry in the world cannot change the facts. The act speaks for itself. If St. John gives up its harbor on such terms it will be false to the faith and the works of past generations of people who believed in St. John.

NOT BY THE GOVERNMENT. Some citizens still appear to think that the government stands behind the harbor commission to pay its bills. They base their belief on this clause from the commission act:

"And for the balance, that is to say, the sum of six hundred and fifty-seven thousand, two hundred and eighty-two dollars and forty-five cents, the corporation shall issue to the city its debentures payable at the end of twenty-five years from the day of issue, and bearing interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable half yearly, which debentures the corporation are hereby authorized to issue, in such form and for such amounts as the minister of finance of Canada may approve, and if the said debentures or the said interest are not paid by the corporation as and when they and it from time to time become due, such debentures and interest shall be paid by his majesty."

This is the only instance in the whole act where the government assumes any responsibility. But the reader cannot overlook the fact that even here the government fully protects itself, for in Section 20, which gives the order in which payments are to be made out of harbor revenue, the third charge to be paid is this:

"The payment of interest due on the debentures issued by the corporation to the city under the authority of this act."

Thus the interest is provided for out of harbor revenue, and a little farther down it is declared that the principal must also be paid from the same source. The government gives with one hand and takes away with the other.

In today's Times a letter from Mr. A. P. Paterson gives a business-like and dispassionate review of the harbor commission act, with brief reference also to Montreal, Quebec and Vancouver. It will help those who have not given careful study to the whole matter to gain a clearer knowledge of the situation as it is presented to the people of St. John.

Mr. Paterson deals in a very clear manner with the salient features of the act and gives cogent reasons why it should be rejected unless an act that would be fair to the city has been submitted.

The citizens who attend the public meeting in the Seamen's Institute this evening do not wish to listen to assurances of what the government will do. They will want to hear what the harbor commission act says. That is what the people are asked to vote upon. It is an act of parliament, and cannot be changed by the city council or by the government. If any speaker says the government wishes to lift a load of the backs of the people, let him cite the proof of it from the act and not from any mental process of his own.

Mr. H. R. McLellan, by holding a public meeting in the large auditorium of St. Vincent's on Wednesday evening, will enable the people of that section of the city to hear the harbor commission act publicly discussed. Public discussion is needed, for a campaign of misrepresentation of what the act provides is in full career.

There are only a few days left in which the citizens may fully familiarize themselves with the harbor commission act. Upon what they do next Monday much depends. Read the act.

L'AFFINITE.

(By Nellie Brown McCool.) Out of the dark that shadows me, Black as the depths in the bowl of night,

My soul is finding its way to thee, Swift as an arrow goes in flight.

Into the love that will hover me, Unknown as the space whence winds intrude,

My heart, with wings of a halcyon feer, Speeds onward, twined with thine, straight home.

Out of the travail of all time Shall rise, unconquerable still, The life that is my way with thine, Submissive ever to His will.

Leveol. Out of the light of eternal day Shall shine as sunbeamed shafts of gold,

The love that sought and found its way, To God, His rest and peace untold.

His Request. A lawyer was known to be a bit grasping. He had just made a will for an old lady client, who was passing away. The next day the old lady, very near the end, said to him: "About my will, I've added something to it. I've given you—"

"Just one minute," my good friend," said the lawyer, wishing to have witnessed for the remark. So he hurriedly called the family in, and when all were assembled he said to his client: "Now say what you were going to say."

"I've given you—and she stopped, her breathing becoming more and more labored. "Yes, yes," urged the lawyer. Then she finished:—"a great deal—of trouble!"—Ladies Home Journal.

PROBLEM FOR LENIN

(New York Evening Post.) Famine has stalked into Soviet Russia and, bending over Lenin's writing table, will soon be dictating to the dictator of the proletariat new amendments to Communist doctrine. Famine has reversed the program which Lenin had set for the Soviet Union.

Lenin's recent compromise with the "talking" both at home and abroad were forced by the necessity of finding food for the cities. There was food in the villages, but the peasants would not surrender it in return for Soviet rubles. The bayonets of the requisition squads were the only means of exchanging in circulation as between town and country, and they were not effective enough to keep the cities from starving.

Now the situation has changed. It is the peasants who are protesting. They are protesting against the requisitioning of peasants in the Volga provinces are threatened with famine. To think of these famine victims flocking to the cities is tragedy. Collapse of transportation has resulted in a condition approximating that recently witnessed in China, where hundreds of thousands perished because of lack of food.

If the threat of large-scale misery now so imminent has become a reality, we take it that the sympathies of the outside world may rally to the Russian people in disregard of what such relief may do to bolster up the Soviet autocracy. But it is still a question whether the Communist vocabulary will permit Russia's rulers to ask frankly and humbly for that aid, or whether appeals for help will still be accompanied by those tactful remarks about rapacious Western capitalism which have been so effective an instrument as any in choking off the world's sympathy for the Russian masses.

Lenin's promise to dampen the Allies' fire of Communist oratory, to make real his promise of a change of heart in the direction of democracy, and to help the outside world forget, to the extent that it can forget the rulers of Russia for the sake of the people of Russia.

JONNART'S TRIUMPH.

(New York Times.) The re-establishment of diplomatic relations between France and Vatican brings the Pope one step nearer a seat in the Council of Nations. Charles C. A. Jonnart, a wealthy and devout Catholic, the owner of half a dozen beautiful chateaux, a man of the world, a statesman and a diplomat, has been accredited to the Holy See as ambassador extraordinary. Mr. Bonaventura Cerretti, archbishop of Corinth and secretary of the Congregation of Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs, has been sent to represent His Holiness Pope Benedict XV. "near" President Miller and at Paris.

Mr. Jonnart is not only very wealthy himself, but he has a rich wife, the daughter of M. Aynard, an influential deputy from the Department of the Rhone. He was first deputy and then senator from the Pas de Calais—thus he knows from personal observation and loss what the German hordes inflicted on the occupied regions. Having given prestige, both social and financial, to half a dozen ministers, and having been suggested for president of the republic, in the summer of 1917 he was selected by the extent to settle the Greek business. This he did so effectively that King Constantine, with his family, was soon on his way to Switzerland.

Fire broke out yesterday on the steamer Mauretania, at Southampton, and developed into a serious conflagration. The fire is thought to have originated from a lighted cigarette dropped on the deck. The first-class dining saloon and the staterooms on E and D decks were burned out. The damage is estimated at many thousands of pounds, and it will take months to repair the vessel.

BRITISHERS IN NEW YORK ON PROHIBITION

Two M. P.'s Investigating Working of Act—Lord Northcliffe in a Humorous Vein.

New York, July 26.—Two members of the British parliament today started a serious investigation to ascertain how prohibition is working out in the U. S. The two, Chas. H. Stieh, member for New South Wales, and John E. Davidson, member for Smithwick, Birmingham, said they would report their findings to the labor party, of which they are members.

Both took occasion to deny predictions of U. S. reformers that England would be dry within ten years, asserting there was little dry sentiment at least in the labor party. The visitors will spend two weeks in New York and then visit other cities and towns.

New York, July 26.—Lord Northcliffe, who is enjoying the lure of the metropolis for a short while before resuming his trip toward the far east, has exhibited a sense of humor in discussing matters appertaining to the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement. Asked what he thought of prohibition, he said: "Take me to a place where there is prohibition and I'll tell you what I think about it."

Which recalls that a Roumanian prince once asked that he be taken to New York and asked: "When does prohibition begin?"

LABOR SAYS NO TO WAGES CUT

Toronto Building Trades Refuse to Consider Any Reduction.

Toronto, July 26.—Nineteen representatives of the building trades union in a second conference with the representatives of the building contractors yesterday refused to consider any reduction in wages and had no other proposals to make. The contractors had asked for a voluntary wage reduction of 10 per cent on July 25.

Representatives of the contractors declared that if they would run the unconditional answer, that they were making no profit at the present time; and that they were desirous of their work to stop their faces. The meeting adjourned without any steps being taken to avoid a deadlock.

Three Gordons Were Murdered by Savages in the New Hebrides.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., July 26.—A tablet dedicated to the memory of Gordon Nicoll Gordon, his wife and their two children, Douglas James Gordon, missionaries from P. E. Island, who were murdered by savages at Ermanah, in the New Hebrides, near the end of the last century, was unveiled in the Presbyterian church in Alberton, P. E. I. It was erected by relatives of the missionaries, and was unveiled by Douglas Gordon of Summerside, a nephew.

London, July 26.—The Allied supreme council will meet in Paris on August 4, according to an official announcement. It is understood that the session will be brief, dealing only with the Silesian question. Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs, and A. J. Balfour, lord president of the council, will represent Great Britain as it is improbable that Lloyd George will be able to leave London.

THREE DECKS OF MAURETANIA ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

Southampton, July 26.—Fire which broke out yesterday on the steamer Mauretania while she was lying at her dock here, was extinguished at four o'clock this morning. Decks C, D, and E were completely destroyed amidships. Passengers scheduled to sail on the Mauretania on Saturday will be accommodated on the Denebria and the Carmania, while stowage people will be distributed among other ships of the Cunard Line.

called upon Cohen at his place of business and on her suggestion accompanied her to the hotel. Immediately after Cohen and his companion had been assigned to a room, a crew from the Olvany Detective Agency, accompanied by the plaintiff, broke in the door, according to the evidence.
"This is not the first time Miss Allen Griffith of 140 West Eighteenth street has been mentioned in this court," said Justice Kelly. "In another divorce action she appeared and went through the same performance. In the latter case the scene was in the Hotel Hampton in Albany, and within a few days of the incident in this case. She had previously registered at the Hotel Ten Eyck. I have compared her signature at that hotel with the signature produced by the defendant in this case, and there can be no doubt that the same woman wrote both signatures."
"Strangely enough, the Olvany Detective Agency were the sleuths in the other case and two of their employees have appeared before me and with solemn, stung faces have testified that they never saw this woman before," continues Justice Kelly. "I believe that Allen is sent out by this detective agency or by its employees. It is of course plain that she never intended to commit adultery. The always timely arrival of her confederates prevents any such eventuality. She is simply engaged in the hazardous and nasty employment of manufacturing evidence so that the Olvany agency can get men to testify with an appearance of truth to incriminating situations made to order. "It is against public policy to allow trafficking of this kind to continue. A divorce cannot be purchased over a detective agency, counter like so much merchandise. The whole case reeks with perjury. I find on the facts that no adultery was committed and therefore dismiss the complaint."

PRESBYTERIAN SEMINARY GIVES WOMAN A "B. D."
"Women stand with men in the classrooms of universities. Then why not in a theological seminary?" asks Mrs. Vesta Clement Lukens, who is the first woman in the United States and probably in the world to receive the degree of Bachelor of Divinity from a Presbyterian institution. Mrs. Lukens and her husband were graduates together from the San Francisco Theological Seminary, at San Anselmo, Cal., in the class of 1921. "I believe that every young woman interested in religious work should take religious training," she adds. "Why should any one pity a minister's wife? I love the work of the ministry and my husband and I have chosen it quite deliberately." It was during a religious conference in the summer of 1918 that these two young people felt the challenge of the now somewhat neglected calling. Mr. Lukens was a lawyer, having been admitted to the bar only in the previous December, but he entered the seminary that fall. His wife, who at other schools and colleges had done enough work to have it accepted as a regular college course (a requirement for the Bachelor of Divinity degree) enrolled also.
Mrs. Lukens' theological studies included Greek and Hebrew, but she counterbalanced those with plenty of outdoor sports. She is, moreover, an excellent housekeeper.

For her thesis she chose the subject "The Status of Women in the Light of the New Testament." Having strong convictions concerning women's rights in the church, she prophesied "The day is not distant when the ordination of women and the recognition by the Presbyterian church in the United States."

The amounts supposed to have been given in exchange have never been asked for by them, and the notes and mortgages have also disappeared. BACKING CAR KILLS CHILD, HURTS SISTER

Several Fatal Auto Accidents in Toronto in Two Days—Coroner Aroused.

Toronto, July 26.—When backing his motor car last night, Myer Gorman ran over two little girls, Ray Cohen, aged 4, and Cecile Cohen, aged 6, killing the former almost instantly and seriously injuring her sister. The latter is in the hospital with two broken arms and chest injuries.

Gorman fainted after taking the children to the hospital, where they were put to bed on their arrival home. His car carried a Michigan license. The police will have the outcoming inquest on the little girl before proceeding further against Gorman.

There have been half a dozen fatal motor accidents in Toronto in the last forty-eight hours. Addressing a jury which will investigate the running down and killing of a street railway employe yesterday morning, for which Bruce Coroner Graham said:—"The public is much worked up about these auto cases. There have been four deaths in the last sixteen hours. It is getting to a pass where our streets are no longer safe and nothing is being done. We are determined that this must stop."

TRAVELERS CAN CARRY BOOZE ON THE HIP

Ontario Law Does Not Give Officers Right to Search People, is Ruling of Attorney General's Department.

(Toronto Mail and Empire.)

The man who failed to get in his stock before the 1911 law forces the long drought with an empty cellar will be interested to know that he can carry liquor into Ontario on the hip without being legally subject to a search by officers of the law. The point has been raised before, but notwithstanding the fact that there was no legal authority for officers to search the person, it has been held that they have the right to do so.

Yesterday experts of the Attorney General's Department gave their views on the subject in relation to the operation of the Sundry bill, and their verdict was unanimous that the law did not provide for personal search, though an officer who suspects the presence of liquor may search a traveler's grip or suitcase.

Officials of the Department were not alarmed at the possibility of much liquor coming into the province. It would not pay the blind-pigger to travel to Montreal and back for the odd bottle or two, but individuals who are not scared off by the chance of a $1000 fine if caught with liquor are sufficiently bold to carry it. And there is always the chance that the officer may not know he has a right to search.

"If an officer has good reason to believe a man is carrying liquor, he can arrest him and find the liquor afterwards," said an official. "The officer has a chance, that's all."

Vice-Chairman Duggan of the License Board stated that no special steps had been taken to deal with individuals carrying liquor on the person. They had no right of search and there was little they could do. Mr. Duggan said that little difficulty was being experienced in this connection. So far few applications had come in for permission to get liquor, but in all cases where they were granted the shipment was a bona fide one and the delay not the fault of the individual.

"This, of course, only applied to liquor that was in the province before the provincial authorities had no jurisdiction in respect to it."

MARINE NOTES.

The Halifax G. S. Mays, Capt. Greenlaw, with a large crew in tow and bound from Halifax, which port she left on Thursday, arrived yesterday at Moncton, on a charge of infanticide. The child came to its death by strangulation, according to the coroner's report.

Gerald, son of Alfred Allen of Amherst, was drowned in Embury's pond by the stomach and being up with his companions, had taken a long swim and he was apparently seized with cramps. The body was recovered after the pond had been drained.

SPAIN IS NOT IMPERIALISTIC, KING DECLARES IN SPEECH

Madrid, July 25.—"Spain is not, and does not desire to be, imperialistic," said King Alfonso, in a speech delivered at the Exposition of Retrospective Art at Burgos.

"Spain," the monarch added, "possesses no intention of empire for the property of others. Her own soil, with the territories legitimately connected with it on the one side of the Strait of Gibraltar, suffices for her. Spain, which knew how to realize great enterprises alone, is sufficiently great to prevent the foreigner from treading on her soil."

The auditors widely applauded the King, who added:

"I have faith in Spain, and know that the citizens and Spaniards are united in working for the aggrandizement of the nation."

AGAINST THE PRESENT HARBOR COMMISSION ACT.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Harbor commission and the effect its acceptance or rejection may have on this port is a subject I have given considerable study to since the scheme was resurrected about two years ago. At that time I felt that some benefit might be derived from its acceptance but after a careful perusal of the act and getting all the information that I could regarding the prospects of future development of the harbor, I am convinced that it would be a mistake to accept the harbor commission scheme in its proposed form.

Montreal harbor, previous to Confederation, belonged to Canada and became the property of the Dominion at that time. It was first governed by a corporation known as Trinity House, appointed by Montreal interest and the governing body became known as harbor commissioners; in 1854 a new act passed which provided for the appointment of eleven commissioners, six appointed by Montreal interest and five by the government. This form proved unsatisfactory and in 1895 was changed to a board of three commissioners to be appointed by the government, and this form still obtains.

During all these years, whether the management was good or bad, the traffic passing through Montreal increased and the funds to provide facilities to handle it have always been forthcoming; but I cannot see that the increased traffic or the generosity of the government can be attributed to the fact that Montreal harbor was controlled by a board of commissioners.

Quebec harbor is also controlled by a board of commissioners and that city has been fortunate in having had sufficient influence to induce the government to provide extensive facilities for the handling of traffic at that port but the fact that she has a harbor commission and facilities for handling traffic has not been a factor in her success. Quebec is very much dissatisfied. She has developed on her own interest and, I understand, having obtained the consent of both political parties the government has taken care of her deficit.

Yankee harbor was placed under the control of a commission similar to the Montreal commission in 1913 and, apparently, the commissioners were unable to obtain any government funds for the development of that harbor until 1916, six years after their appointment.

Halifax harbor is not controlled by a commission. The N. B. government provided extensive facilities at that port for the handling of traffic and, I understand, the change in management to the present day has not been a factor in her success. I feel that we should consider the harbor commission scheme in relation to the cost of the government elevator and wharves. As it is not likely that the commissioners could derive sufficient revenue from the harbor to provide for these bonds, especially if they borrow any money for new development (the interest on any money they may borrow ranking as the fourth claim) it would seem that the city would still be liable for the payment of these bonds. The act does not give the city permission to operate the ferry nor to use the wharves and piers now being used as public highways. It makes no provision for vessels trading on the river, and does not authorize the sale or disposition of the value of elevator and wharves on which the commissioners are expected to pay the cost of the government elevator and wharves. ADVERTISE FOR CLERGYMEN

Toronto Churches Say Need in Western Provinces is Desperate.

Toronto, July 26.—The shortage of clergy for the ministry and the mission field especially is emphasized by the fact that an advertisement appears in a local paper for "three or four single, strong clergymen" to fill mission posts. Advertising for ministers is an innovation which Toronto leaders of the big churches justify on the ground that the need of the western provinces for clergymen is desperate.

CHANGE OF WATER WAS THE CAUSE OF DIARRHOEA

People moving from place to place are very much subject to diarrhoea on account of the change of water, climate, diet, etc. Prompt treatment with DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY in such cases relieves the pain, checks the diarrhoea, and thus does away with the suffering, the weakness and offensive collapse associated with an attack of this kind. It does this by checking the too frequent and irritating stools, soothes the stomach and brings up the weakened system, thus rendering it without a peer for the treatment of all bowel complaints of both old and young.

Mrs. Ernest S. Beaton, Grayburn, Sask., writes: "Coming out here from the East, my two little girls were very sick, the change of water, etc., giving them diarrhoea. They were so pale, and used to vomit everything they would take, so I finally got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and I must say it certainly helped me. I have also used it when my children were teething and it is all you claim for it."

Seventy-six years' reputation stands behind this remedy. Price, 50¢ a bottle, obtainable only by T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SPAIN IS NOT IMPERIALISTIC, KING DECLARES IN SPEECH

Madrid, July 25.—"Spain is not, and does not desire to be, imperialistic," said King Alfonso, in a speech delivered at the Exposition of Retrospective Art at Burgos.

Her own soil, with the territories legitimately connected with it on the one side of the Strait of Gibraltar, suffices for her. Spain, which knew how to realize great enterprises alone, is sufficiently great to prevent the foreigner from treading on her soil."

AGAINST THE PRESENT HARBOR COMMISSION ACT.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Harbor commission and the effect its acceptance or rejection may have on this port is a subject I have given considerable study to since the scheme was resurrected about two years ago. At that time I felt that some benefit might be derived from its acceptance but after a careful perusal of the act and getting all the information that I could regarding the prospects of future development of the harbor, I am convinced that it would be a mistake to accept the harbor commission scheme in its proposed form.

Montreal harbor, previous to Confederation, belonged to Canada and became the property of the Dominion at that time. It was first governed by a corporation known as Trinity House, appointed by Montreal interest and the governing body became known as harbor commissioners; in 1854 a new act passed which provided for the appointment of eleven commissioners, six appointed by Montreal interest and five by the government. This form proved unsatisfactory and in 1895 was changed to a board of three commissioners to be appointed by the government, and this form still obtains.

During all these years, whether the management was good or bad, the traffic passing through Montreal increased and the funds to provide facilities to handle it have always been forthcoming; but I cannot see that the increased traffic or the generosity of the government can be attributed to the fact that Montreal harbor was controlled by a board of commissioners.

Quebec harbor is also controlled by a board of commissioners and that city has been fortunate in having had sufficient influence to induce the government to provide extensive facilities for the handling of traffic at that port but the fact that she has a harbor commission and facilities for handling traffic has not been a factor in her success. Quebec is very much dissatisfied. She has developed on her own interest and, I understand, having obtained the consent of both political parties the government has taken care of her deficit.

Yankee harbor was placed under the control of a commission similar to the Montreal commission in 1913 and, apparently, the commissioners were unable to obtain any government funds for the development of that harbor until 1916, six years after their appointment.

Halifax harbor is not controlled by a commission. The N. B. government provided extensive facilities at that port for the handling of traffic and, I understand, the change in management to the present day has not been a factor in her success. I feel that we should consider the harbor commission scheme in relation to the cost of the government elevator and wharves. As it is not likely that the commissioners could derive sufficient revenue from the harbor to provide for these bonds, especially if they borrow any money for new development (the interest on any money they may borrow ranking as the fourth claim) it would seem that the city would still be liable for the payment of these bonds.

The act does not give the city permission to operate the ferry nor to use the wharves and piers now being used as public highways. It makes no provision for vessels trading on the river, and does not authorize the sale or disposition of the value of elevator and wharves on which the commissioners are expected to pay the cost of the government elevator and wharves. As it is not likely that the commissioners could derive sufficient revenue from the harbor to provide for these bonds, especially if they borrow any money for new development (the interest on any money they may borrow ranking as the fourth claim) it would seem that the city would still be liable for the payment of these bonds.

TO JAIL FARM TO SPEND YEAR

A Check to Career of Man Whose Sobs Got $1,100 from Government.

Toronto, July 26.—George Porter, who aroused the sympathy of the dominion government with a false sob and got $1,100, met his Waterloo in the police court yesterday.

During his absence overseas, Porter's wife, residing in Toronto, purchased victory bonds for $1,100. After the war Porter went to Scotland and there made a declaration that his wife was dead and the soft-hearted government handed over the wife's bonds to the grief-stricken husband. After spending the money Porter turned up at the Christie Street Soldiers' Hospital, where he has now been undergoing treatment for some time.

In 1919, Mrs. Porter, then living in Wilby, had a warrant issued charging her husband with non-support, but the police were unable to find him until now. He was sent to the jail farm for a year.

HOLDS WORLD COURT AGREEMENT IS TREATY

Administration Took No Action on The Ground That Power, Karpis, Senate Assent Was Needed.

Washington, July 26.—It became known at the State Department last week that a copy of the protocol embracing the plan of an international court of justice has been forwarded to the United States for ratification. However, it is explained that no action has been taken by this Government in the matter, the Harding Administration allying being that inasmuch as the protocol really constitutes a treaty, it would require ratification by the United States Senate. The protocol is understood to have been forwarded to this Government early in January of this year.

Officials explained today that the protocol was in the form of a printed circular with blank spaces left for typewriting the name of the country addressed, and apparently it had been sent to all nations whose names appear in the annex of the Treaty of Versailles.

Under those circumstances, the Harding Administration felt that no reply was necessary, as the powers were well acquainted with the fact that a treaty requires ratification by the Senate.

The protocol resulted from Article XIV of the covenant of the League of Nations, which provided for the establishment of an international court of justice. Acting under this provision, the council of the League instructed a committee of international jurists, which Ethel Root was one, to prepare plans for the international court.

Washington, July 26.—In two of his most activities alone, the Salvage Branch of the Quartermaster Corps has saved the Government nearly $1,500,000 during the last fiscal year, according to an announcement made by the War Department.

Through its various shops and plants the Salvage Branch repaired 476,960 pieces of clothing at a cost of $164,171.50. The value of the clothing after repair clamorous is estimated at $1,177,948.92, and the net saving to the Government $1,568,231.42. The greater part of these repair activities consisted of current work; that is, the repair of clothing and its return to the original wearer.

THE PASSING OF "THE SWEATSHOP"

Two New York Buildings Now House 58 Factories with 20,000 Employees Making Garments—Greatly Improved Conditions.

New York, July 26.—(By Associated Press)—The greater part of the women's garment industry of New York is now housed in the largest combined manufacturing and exhibition buildings in the world—the Garment Centre Capitol. Under this arrangement through cooperative buying of materials, lower cost floor space and other economies, the manufacturers claim the cost of women's apparel will be considerably reduced. The new garment centre—erected by a cooperative movement to improve manufacturing conditions in the industry—occupied several blocks south of Times Square in Seventh avenue. It consists of towering skyscrapers covering two city blocks, which represent an investment of $20,000,000. Fifty-eight separate manufacturing concerns with upward of 20,000 employees are concentrating their factories in these buildings. Practically all of these firms are from the Madison Square and lower Fifth avenue district, where the garment industry was formerly scattered in numerous buildings. The new building, which is one of architectural beauty, has been in course of erection for many months, there being more than 1,600 workmen employed in its construction. All of the "sweatshop" arrangements of the past have been completely eliminated and instead every factory is equipped with the most modern appliances and the ventilation system is one of the finest in the world. Provision has been made for the welfare of employees by the fully equipped club house on the top of one of the skyscrapers. This is equipped with a modern gymnasium, swimming pool and roof garden. There has also been installed a fully equipped hospital and a system of restaurants have been installed throughout the buildings.

Russia's Railways Bad, Cannot Move Surplus of Corn From South to North.

Warsaw, July 26.—(By Associated Press by Mail)—Russia's transportation difficulties, because of the general deterioration of the railroads under the Bolshevik regime, according to Moscow reports, have brought about an odd situation. While Russia has a surplus of corn and has been endeavoring to export it to Italy, northern Russia has been buying the same kind of grain from foreign countries. The railroad situation is said to be particularly bad in central Russia and only recently it was reported that the service between Moscow and Kiev had been reduced to an average of one train a week for freight and passengers. Russia's metal production is reported to have reached but two per cent, and the oil production 40 per cent.

GAS FROM WOOD

Inhabitants of Sussex, Eng., Now Being Supplied—Other Towns Follow Suit.

London, July 8.—(Associated Press by Mail)—Gas made from old oak logs is now being supplied successfully to the inhabitants of Steyning in Sussex. Other towns are rapidly following suit. It is claimed that this wood gas has practically the same heating and lighting properties as coal gas and its use means a saving of more than half a dollar per 1,000 cubic feet to the consumer. The Steyning gas works being threatened with closure owing to the prohibitive price of coal, about £5 a ton, the carbonization of wood was resorted to as an experiment, with the result that wood gas has been definitely adopted as an illuminant until the price of coal comes down. At Birmingham, old road paving blocks have been converted into wood gas with equally satisfactory results.

BERLIN'S "STREET OF MANY FAKERS"

Berlin, July 7.—(Associated Press by Mail)—"The Street of Many Fakers," the section of the Friedrichstrasse between Unter den Linden and Koch streets—may soon lose the right to its exotic title, won by virtue of the varied and questionable commerce which thrives upon its sidewalks and crossings, for an agitation has been started to "clean it up." Every article from jumping-jacks to fine Oriental rugs may be purchased from the vendors who infest the street, eternally crying their wares. The chief complaint against the character of the street, however, is that thieves use it continually as a clearing-place to market their "haul." Not infrequently a rugged, unkempt man will offer most expensive imported fabrics for selling in odd bolt lots at ridiculous figures. Much of this stuff, the police feel certain, has been stolen, but it is difficult to fix the crime on the street vendor. Victims of the various drug habits find their chief source of supply on this street.

In view of the unfavorable reports by the Department of Public Health on the City Water Supply, The Purity Bottling Works, Limited, wish to inform the general public that the water used in the manufacture of "Purity Drinks" is drawn from the famous Artesian Well at Oland's Brewery. Having been advised by experts that filtering would not absolutely purify the city water, we decided to go to the expense of pumping from this noted well.

NOT ANXIOUS TO STAY IN RUSSIA

United States Visitor Who Went Through Canada in January Has Had Enough of it—12 Weeks Without a Square Meal.

Warsaw, July 6.—(Associated Press by Mail)—Bolshevik soldiers guard the Russian border and only certain persons are given permission to leave the country, yet by bribery and other means, great numbers of persons are crossing into adjacent countries each night. Polish government officials have estimated that about 50,000 have been entering Poland from Russia every month, despite efforts of the Polish authorities to keep them out. Only a very small percentage of these people carry the proper credentials from the Bolsheviks.

A recent arrival in Warsaw from Russia was Ralph Rimar, formerly an art student in Detroit and Charlestown, W. Va., who left America, via Canada, early in January this year, with 700 other Russians. Rimar went to the United States eight years ago from a part of Russia which is now included within the Polish republic where his parents reside.

Rimar says that when he last saw the emigrants whom he had accompanied to Russia all had had enough of the Bolshevik regime and wished that they were back in the States. Rimar was in Russia three months, visiting Petrograd, Moscow, Kiev and other cities and towns. Conditions generally, he said, were gradually becoming worse everywhere. He is eager to return to the United States but, without credentials, is unable to get a passport. FINANCIAL PINCH IN SWITZERLAND

Geneva, Switzerland, July 26.—(Associated Press by Mail)—Switzerland has reached the acute stage of economic stringency resulting from the too favorable rate of exchange. The tourist season, upon which she depends to such a great extent, opened with the prospect of an improvement in the situation.

Tourists who usually visit Switzerland during the summer, are going to France and Italy in great numbers. The Swiss, themselves, to a considerable extent, are abandoning their own country to spend their outings in France where Swiss money counts for twice its value at home, or in Italy, where it counts five times the normal value.

The crisis shows not only in the absence of tourist trade but in industrial stagnation, a good many workers being already out of employment. A few weeks ago it looked as if the delegations to the second Assembly of the League of Nations, Sept. 5, would have difficulty in getting lodgings here, hotel keepers hesitating to reserve apartments for them because it would require them to refuse tourists at the height of the season.

It now appears that the hotels will welcome the league delegations unless it is an unexpectedly radical change in the travel situation.

TRADE WITH THE SOUTH

There is widespread interest just now in the prospects for Canadian trade down by the Caribbean Sea. An important incident in connection with this is the fact that Mr. H. A. Chisholm, Canadian Trade Commissioner to Cuba, is returning to Canada for the first week in August for the purpose of visiting for the purpose of visiting Canadian exporters in Havana, Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia, Panama and other ports interested in trade with Cuba, and Jamaica.

Ocean Dry, Too.

Washington, July 26.—"The ocean's dusty today," used to be an ancient vaudeville joke, but now it has graduated to the dignity of office statistics. The Weather Bureau has received a cartoon of dust, gathered on the deck of the American merchantman Santa Rosalina. Investigation proved there had been a violent sand storm in Mongolia and the substance had been blown, hundreds of miles to sea.

"Bankers Park Here"

Sold Lots of Hats.

Two signs, imitating traffic standards used in streets, painted on the glass of the big window of the Palace Clothing Co. in Tyneka, Kan., in combination with a large, red touring car with spinning wheels, at the rear, stopped crowds for a big showing of straw hats here recently.

The display appeared the day the annual bankers' convention opened, and the window was filled with every style and make of straw hats, tastefully arranged. The decorations consisted of straw and fire in the raw out of which the hats are manufactured.

But it was the action in the motor car that stopped the crowds and drew them around to the rear of the window to see how it worked. Curiously doubled the pulling power of that window because it lured men directly in front of the door leading into the store, kept them constantly looking at hats and got them to talking about a clever idea. And it pulled sales. During the week the Palace did an unusually good straw hat business and the window continued to pull many days after the bankers left. The motorcar was an inch thick, it was made out of thin boards in imitation of a sport model runabout. It was painted bright red. Its wheels were set in axles and belted to a small electric motor set in the rear of the window. All day long the motor hummed and the wheels whizzed away.

Seated in the car was the figure of a well-dressed man with a bankers' convention tag tied in his coat lapel. The figure was made of board, appropriately painted. In his upraised hand was a straw hat of the latest style, poised as if he were greeting the folks gazing in through the glass.

They Couldn't Miss

At first, when customers of the Jones Store Co. of Kansas City began to inquire why retail prices hadn't dropped, the officials of the company contented themselves with general replies, placing the blame upon one or more of the factors which are operating to keep prices up.

But when these queries became more numerous and the newspapers commented to be filled with statements from U. S. government officials and others to the effect that "retailers are refusing to cut prices," the Jones Store people realized that the widespread propaganda was beginning to have a very harmful effect and that it would seriously affect business unless something was done to prove it false.

M. B. Jones, chairman of the board of directors of the company, and N. B. Upton, of the merchandising department of the Jones Co., accordingly worked out a graphic refutation of these statements in the form of a display comparing the cost of a 100-pound sack of sugar a year ago with groceries at the present time. The result was a window which not only seriously impeded traffic, but had a marked effect upon business.

High Rents Drive Retailers Upstairs.
"Upstairs" stores are the latest results of high rents in the Syracuse retail shopping district. Reconstruction of the Rosinblom building, in the heart of the business section, made necessary to provide quarters for the Internal Revenue Bureau on the top floor, will supply space for thirty-three stores above the ground floor when the job is completed this month.

"Streets" are to be cut through the centre of each floor of the building above the ground floor with stores with plate-glass windows on each side. Efforts will be made to get as many different classes of shops as possible in these stores to attract shoppers.

The street corner where the building is located is the seventh busiest corner in the United States, according to data gathered by representatives of chain stores seeking locations near or on this corner.

The "streets" running north and south through the building will be fourteen feet wide, paved with tile, well ventilated and lighted. There will be six stores along the Salina street side of the building and five on the other side, the remaining space being devoted to elevators.

Aids Newcomers to Locate Best Stores.
The glad hand is to be extended to newcomers to the city by retail merchants of Rochester, N. Y., through an arrangement by the Chamber of Commerce under which that body is to keep track of all new residents, help them find homes, tell them the names of merchants who may supply them with anything they may need and extend any other courtesy the newcomer may ask.

The "new family list" is to be kept in a separate file at the Chamber of Commerce and will be available for retailers at all times. These cards will contain the name of the new family, the street address, the name of the town or the city whence they came, their credit record, with the retailers of their former home and all other information that the officials of the Chamber are able to secure.

COMING EVENTS IN DOMINION

(Toronto Globe.) A contemporary surmises that one of the results of the victory of the farmers in Alberta, with the prospect of similar successes in the coming federal election, may be a kind of eastern combination of men of all parties to resist the western farmers. There are no indications of such a movement. The strength of the farmers was indicated long before the Alberta election, in the defeat of the Hearst Government in Ontario, in partial successes in the provincial elections in Manitoba, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, and in federal by-elections.

or any question on which the parties differed; it was a union for war purposes only. The Liberal element in the cabinet has now disappeared; only three of the nine Liberals remain, and they are regarded as having definitely gone over to Toryism. The agreement that there should be a sort of truce on the tariff has been broken, the budget of this year being a distinct concession to the advanced protectionists.

unless all signs fall, will find themselves in a large majority in the next House, and they can hardly escape, even if they desire to escape, the responsibility of such joint action as will lead to the formation of a new government corresponding in policy to the new House of Commons. This is the condition with which we shall almost certainly be faced within a year, and it is one which demands the serious attention of public men and of the electors.

POKER IS GAME OF SKILL, SAYS JURY

Witness Says if He Had Four Aces and King He'd Drop and Die

Twelve good men and true declared at the London sessions that poker was a game of skill. They met to try David Carter, manager of the Vaudeville Club, headquarters of the White Rats, for keeping a common gambling club open in the city. The police raided the club house on May 10, they had found five men playing poker with $25 in chips on the table, and $2 in the jackpot.

"Can't some players bluff better than others?" asked the counsel for the defense. "Yes, inveterate gamblers," was the answer.

"Then if you say bluffing is 80 per cent. of the game, is it not then 80 per cent. of skill?" asked counsel triumphantly.

"But faro is definitely illegal," retorted counsel. "Doubtless you studied it in order to make professional observations."

The defence called experts to show there was skill in poker. One was asked: "If you had four aces and a king in your hand what would happen?" "I would show and drop dead," he replied. Carter will be acquitted.

SCHOOL NURSING

The following is the record of the work of the school nurses in the city of Bangor, Maine, from January, 1920, to June, 1921.

170 children operated on for tonsils and adenoids. 228 children have had glasses fitted. 1762 home visits. 1283 miscellaneous visits. 188 children accompanied to doctor. 1,800 talks in class. 1,700 tooth brushes sold at cost.

This last year Red Cross has given to many of the schools standard scales, so that all of the children have been weighed and measured every two months, a record of the same being kept in each school room. This shows how much each child has gained or lost during the year and what the normal weight should be.

The report would not be complete without mentioning the dental clinic, the dentists more generously giving their Saturday mornings and the hospital furnishing a room in which to work.

No part of the work has brought more satisfactory results than the 686 cases treated. A marked improvement has been found with the children throughout the schools and by the work of the clinic and the health talks in the school rooms many children have been stimulated to take good care of their teeth, and to go to their own dentists.

A HORRIBLE EXAMPLE

Granny Masters Died of Tobacco Habit and She Was Only 105.

In a certain backwoods section of rural New England there is a small primitive community known as Raspberry Corners. Most of its men have long white hair, straggly beards, and its women are hard-faced and wear their hair brushed straight back from the forehead and tied in ugly little knots at the back. There is a scarcity of young men in the colony, because they habitually leave it at an early age, and such as remain soon become stoop-shouldered and grow prematurely old.

Few who leave it ever return. A youth by the name of Buffington was an exception. Having worked his way through college, and having made a success in life, he returned one day to the scene of his birth with the laudable and altruistic idea of lifting the community of the century-old dry rot in which he found it and of putting it on a plane with the rest of civilization.

He realized that he had a difficult task. The community was controlled by an obstinate old fellow, Jabex Waters, who believed that a slight knowledge of the "Three R's" was "enough education for any man or child." Buffington decided to begin his campaign by striking Jabex and his followers in a vulnerable spot. He proposed to attack them on their most glaring social vice—their pipe-smoking women. He challenged Jabex to a debate on the subject. Jabex accepted, taking the negative side eagerly.

The night of the debate the town hall was crowded. It was generally regretted that Granny Masters, the oldest inhabitant, could not be present, but Granny was ill at home. Jabex held the floor for an hour. He did not attempt any flights of oratory. He called attention to the healthy faces of the women present, and referred with pride to the strength of their bodies. They might be plain to look at, he said, but they could do a "man's work—God bless 'em." He ended by pointing out that there was little or no sickness among them, and that most of them lived to a green old age. There was Granny Masters. She had smoked a pipe since she was fourteen and she was now 105. He regretted that she could not be on hand, but unfortunately she was laid up with the rheumatism.

He was making slight impression on his audience. Men and women were yawning in a bored sort of way. Yet he floundered along. Just before he finished, Dr. Saunders returned. His face was unusually grave. A woman's piping voice asked how Granny was. "Mrs. Masters," the physician replied sadly, "has just given up the ghost." The same piping voice wanted to know what the old lady died of. "Mrs. Masters," the physician rejoined, "died of a tobacco heart."

He realized that the women were listening eagerly to everything he said on the evils of tobacco. He finished in a burst of handclapping and applause, realizing to his surprise that he was the victor. Jabex was the first to congratulate him. "You won, young feller," he remarked, "but I had yer licked till Granny Masters died."

MATTERS FOR THE GOVERNMENT
Lumbermen to be Heard Next Week—Industrial and Employment Situation.
A meeting of the provincial government will be held in Fredericton on next Tuesday evening, August 2. It is understood that a delegation representing the Lumbermen's Association of New Brunswick will appear at this meeting to discuss with the members of the government the matter of stumpage rates.
Industrial and Employment Conditions.
Another matter which will likely receive attention is that contained in a memorandum which has been addressed by the minister of labor to all provincial government pointing out the seriousness of the present industrial and employment situation and the necessity of coming to some action and cooperation. The provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Prince Edward have already promised co-operation.
Premier Foster said this morning that he was confident that the New Brunswick government would go into the matter thoroughly and would offer all the assistance in its power to cope with the situation.

It is understood that an effort will be made to have the municipalities assist in the general scheme to combat unemployment by providing work to keep the population employed until building operations commence, which is hoped for by next spring.
Mayor Schofield, when asked this morning concerning the matter, said that the city had not yet been approached in the matter but he would suggest that the present situation and conditions which might arise before spring.

J. J. Donovan, president of the local branch of the International Longshoremen's Association, announced at noon today that the members of the I. L. A. were on strike in loading a schooner taking lumber here had struck, refusing to load lumber which was being handled by non-union scowmen. He said the men on another schooner were due to quit work this afternoon, he said.
The cause of the difficulty was he said, that the scowmen had agreed to accept a cut of $1 a day in wages but on an hourly basis, which was refused. And that as a consequence the men were replaced by non-union labor.
Mr. Donovan said that so far the vessels of only one shipper were affected but that the strike might apply to others. The scowmen's union, he said, was affiliated with the I. L. A.

TO DISCUSS A HEAD TAX FOR SIMONDS
The matter of imposing a head tax on non-residents working in the parish of Simonds has been the subject of several discussions by the councillors representing that area and they have decided to call a public meeting to go into the matter. On Thursday evening they will meet with the residents of the parish in the Glen Falls school house to arrange a bill which will be presented to the council at the next session of the legislature.
One of the councillors, in conversation with a Times reporter this morning, said that a great many of the residents and property owners of the parish worked in the city and were taxed there on taxes for the upkeep of the parish and county institutions and services. On the other hand, many residents of the city and elsewhere were employed in the various industries located in the parish and escaped any assessment taken. He said he did not think this was equitable and hence the present movement towards the institution of a head tax.

WILL SHARE TIME WITH OPPONENTS
With regard to tomorrow night's meeting in St. Vincent's auditorium, H. R. McEllan said to The Times this morning that he had heard a criticism of the notice in The Telegraph to the effect that he should permit more than one advocate of the act to speak. He pointed out that he must have time enough to reply, but to meet the objection he would suggest giving the first three-quarters of an hour to a speaker or speakers for the constitution act. That would give him time to reply without wearying the audience.
