GREATEST TRIUMPH OF THE AGE.

THE CALORIC SHIP ERICSSON.

Successful Experimental Trial of the "Ericsson."

The Caloric ship Ericsson, whose beauty of model has for some time attracted the attention of passengers up and down the river, as she lay at her dock at Williamsburg, was the cause of increasing attraction yesterday. Owing to rumors being spread around that unsuccessful endeavours had been made on board for some days past, to start the machinery, the owners determined yesterday, in order to prove their falsity, to start the engines at work. Accordingly, fire was applied to furnaces for the first time yesterday afternoon, and resulted in the triumphant success of the experiment. At first the wheels made three turns per minute, and shortly afterwards reached five turns per minute, at which point she continued working for several hours, and would be kept in motion the whole of the night. This is much more than the most robust of the frigates of the invention had reason to expect. As the experiment was made at the dock with the vessel made fast, the opposition of the water was naturally much greater than if she had been under way. Five turns, when stationary, are said to be equal to eleven or twelve miles per hour, a rate of speed very rarely exceeded by first class steamships.

We are informed by a gentleman who was on board, that the machinery worked to admiration, the smoothness and regularity of the movements being unsurpassed by even the most perfect of the present day.

It is contemplated to keep the wheels in motion for two or three days to satisfy, by ocular demonstration, the great curiosity in the minds of the public regarding the matter, although it was not contemplated to set her at work at present, as she is far from being considered in a complete state.

We understand she will not be ready for her trial trip for two or three weeks yet, it being determined to have her in a perfectly complete state when she leaves the harbour, when it is intended to take her to Baltimore and probably to one or two other cities, in order to give her a thoroughly satisfactory trial before commencing her voyage to Europe.

THE GREAT WASHING RECIPE.

Directions.—Take five quarts of soft water, add half a gallon of lime water, one pint and a half of soft soap, half a pound of hard soap, and two ounces or two table-spoonsful of sal soda.

Method of Washing.—Soak the clothes over night. When the above mixture is at boiling heat, put in the clothes that have been soaked, rubbing those parts with a little soap, that are unusually soiled. Boil them one hour, then take them out and drain them, rinse them thoroughly in warm water, then rinse them in indigo water as usual, and they are fit for drying.

The same water will do for three assorted lots of clothes. The best and finest things should be done first—the coarse and dirtiest last.

The Lime-Water above mentioned is made as follows: Take two table-spoonsful of un-slacked lime, and add to it three quarts of boiling water, which will give two quarts of clear lime water, which is the quantity wanted above. It will be well to keep the lime-water on hand, which can be easily done by filling a large stone jar with the article in the proportions and manner above mentioned. The clear liquor only should be used, and care taken to reject all the settlings at the bottom. The lime used should be quick and fresh.

By attentively following these simple directions, the washing that would occupy a whole day may be easily done in two hours. The mixture will not injure the finest fabric, nor affect the hands, and the clothes will be uniformly handsome and white. This method is, of course, not applicable to flannels and colored articles, but for every thing else it can be used with the greatest utility and advantage. Every family will save at least ten dollars a year by adopting this method of washing, together with the great additional saving of time and trouble.

After the clothes are all washed, the mixture remains is still valuable for cleansing silver, brass, copper, or any household metal. For cleansing floors and paint it is also excellent.

We earnestly request our fair friends to give the above novel plan of washing a fair trial. We are confident of success, and of the numerous benefits and blessings arising from its use. It will greatly tend to make Home happy; to keep wives beautiful; husbands cheerful; children healthy; friends faithful; business prosperous; and clean sheets, skirts and shirts abundant.

MORAL PHILOSOPHY.—Ain't it wicked to rob this ben-roost, Jim? "Ah, Bob, that's a great moral question. Hand down 'em!"

POETRY.

A GEM.

BY HERNARD BARTON.

The following touching lament for his wife was published in his first volume:

O thou from earth for ever fled!
Whose relics lie among the dead,
With daisied verdure overgrown,
My Lucy!

For many a weary day gone by,
How many a solitary sigh
I've heaved for thee, no longer nigh,
My Lucy!

And if to grieve I cease awhile,
I look for that ennobling smile
Which all my cares could once beguile,
My Lucy!

But ah! it vain—the blameless art
Which used to soothe my troubled heart
Is lost with thee, my better part
My Lucy!

Thy converse, innocently free,
That made the fancies of fancy flee,
Ah! then I felt the want of thee,
My Lucy!

Nor is it for myself alone
That I the early death bemoan:
Our infant now is all my own,
My Lucy!

Couldst thou a guardian angel prove
To the dear offspring of my love,
Until it reach the realms above,
My Lucy!

Couldst thou angelic spirit stray,
Gleeful companion of my way,
As onward drags the weary day,
My Lucy!

And when the midnight hour shall close
Mine eyes in short, unclouded repose,
Couldst thou but whisper of my woes,
My Lucy!

Then, though my loss I must deplore,
Till next we meet to part no more,
I'd wait the grasp that from me tore
My Lucy!

For, be my life but spent like thine,
With joy shall I that life resign,
And fly to thee, for ever mine,
My Lucy!

For the Girls.—Why is a State Coach
Like the heart of a Flirt?
Because there is always room for another.

"My son," said Mr. Spriggins to his little boy, who was devouring an egg—it was Mr. Spriggins's desire to instruct his boy—"my son, do you know that chickens come out of eggs?"

"Ah, do they, father?" said the young hope; "I thought that eggs came out of chickens."

The elder Spriggins drew back from the table, and gazed sadly on his son, then put on his hat, and went to work.

FRESH AIR.—Every breath we draw, we take into the lungs from 11 to 2 pints of air; so that it requires about 21 gallons of pure air a minute, or 60 hogheads every 24 hours, properly to supply the lungs. How important then to health, to have houses well ventilated, and not to sleep in small close rooms!

TEMPERANCE PUIS wood on the fire, flour in the barrel, meat in the tub, vigor in the body, intelligence in the brain; it diffuses happiness and prosperity, gives health to enjoy the plenty which surrounds us, and a grateful heart toward the God of all these blessings.

CONUNDRUMS.

What promise is the most binding?
The compromise.

Why is a practical Phrenologist like a blind boy learning to read?
Because he feels for the characters.

Why did woman exist before man?
Because Eve was the first maid (made.)

When did the yacht America perform the greatest wonders?
When she made the Balls look astonished at Cotes, and admit the superiority of American Scurrs.

Why may the Hon. Daniel Webster be considered as having peremptorily adopted the profession of a Tallow Chandler?
Because he says he was right in the affairs of Greece (reece) in 1829, has remained so ever since, and wishes to try it out in Hannanary.

WANTED ABOVE.—A distinguished physician of Chester County, gave the following beautiful story in a letter to a friend:

At the commencement of my practice, I was called to see an Irishman's child who was laboring under a severe attack of pneumonia. The poor little fellow grew worse for several days until on one of my first visits I found him very low, his breathing very difficult, and the exertions almost ceased. The family saw clearly and felt deeply the danger. When I left the house the father came out of the door and as I mounted my horse he said—

"Doctor, dear de ye think little Jemmy will come out of it?"

I replied, "the case is very doubtful, but there is some hope."

"Shure doctor, an' I have no hope at all none in the world, as I have n't. His mother an' we have very often been speakin' about him. Such children can't be reared, I doubt; they never live long."

"Why?" said I.

"Ah doctor, he's so crafty. Ye wouldn't believe what talk' nirs he has w'd him—he's wanted above among the blessed!"—Ash-ton's Phil. Gaz.

A PERPETUAL WEATHER TABLE.

The following Table was constructed by the celebrated Dr. Henschell, upon a philosophical consideration of the attraction of the Sun and Moon. It is confirmed by the experience of many years' careful observation, and will suggest to the observer what kind of weather will probably follow the Moon's entrance into any one of her quarters. As a general rule, it will be found wonderfully correct.

If the Moon changes at 12 o'clock noon, the weather immediately afterwards will be very rainy, if in summer, and there will be snow and rain in winter.

Between 9 and 1 o'clock, P. M.; changeable in summer—fair and mild in winter.

Between 4 and 6 o'clock, P. M.; fair in both summer and winter.

Between 6 and 10 o'clock P. M.; in summer fair, if the wind is North-west; rainy, if South or South-west. In winter, fair and frosty, if the wind is North or Northwest; rainy if South or South-west.

Between 10 and 12 o'clock, P. M.; fair in summer and frosty in winter.

Between 12 at night and 2 o'clock A. M.; fair in summer and frosty in winter, unless the wind is from the South or Southwest.

Between 2 and 4 o'clock, A. M.; cold and showery in the summer, and snow and storm in the winter.

Between 4 and 6 o'clock A. M.; rainy both in winter and summer.

Between 6 and 8 o'clock, A. M.; wind and rain, in the summer, and stormy in the winter.

Between 8 and 10 o'clock, A. M.; changeable in summer—rain with a westerly, and snow with an easterly wind in winter.

Between 10 and 12 o'clock, A. M.; showery in summer, and cold and windy in winter.

A PRODIGE HEK.—John Lalaye of this town has a hen of the Cochon China breed, that laid during the last summer, 153 eggs in 156 days. Four eggs of her production John exhibited in our sanctum, which weighs 15 ounces. The story is a big one but the eggs are decidedly bigger, as we can verify.

—Lebanon Waig.

That a hen should lay 153 eggs in 156 days, is rather an uncommon occurrence, but that an editor's sanctum should weigh but 15 ounces, is almost incredible to believe.—Concord Reporter.

PAY THE MON IN HIS OWN MONEY.—Pocket-book dropping.—The following incident, says the New York Times, is said to have recently occurred in West street: A Scotchman and another, from Green county, as they went ashore from a steamer on the North River side, were met by a "dopper," with a pocket book he had just found, telling the old story, that he must leave town, could not stay to get the reward, &c., offering the pocket-book to them for $22. The Scotchman wanted it; the other said, "Don't take it." "Yes I will," said the Scotchman, "and I will pay the man in his own money." And he did so. If our friends from the country will only remember to "pay the man in his own money," they will find it a perfectly safe operation. If the money is good, and worth a reward, take it—take all the pocket-books offered; but never forget to "pay the man in his own money," and you will soon put an end to "pocket-book dropping."

GRAND INCIDENT.—The public are cautioned of a most audacious impostor, who, a few days since, immediately after a funeral procession had left a house in this city, rang at the door, and asked to see some one respecting the removal of the corpse. He apologized for coming at such a time, as he knew of the event, but intended calling at such an hour as would not interrupt the solemnities of the occasion. He presented a card, with the correct name of the owner of the house, street, &c. &c. There were but two persons left in charge of the premises, who declined delivering the piano, as they had received no instruction. The rogue (with a good coat) politely then asked leave to measure the instrument, as a rough box was ordered to be made to take it to Worcester. The lady present consented, and drawing his rule from his pocket, he took the dimensions and withdrew. One of the servants saw the man at the time of the funeral and presumed him to be one of the assembled friends.—[Transcript.]

A COMMERCIAL TRANSACTION.—It will be some time, if not longer, before we shall awaken the echoes of our quiet sanctum with a laugh so irrepressible as a guffaw which has just escaped us, at a mercantile anecdote intimately related by a German friend. An old fellow living at Frankfurt on the Main, sent to a business correspondent at Frankfurt on the Oder, a large consignment of cotton stockings, and at the same time an equally large consignment of cotton night-caps, the product of his own manufactory. He wrote to each the price at which they were to sell, but the sum designated was found to be too large, of which fact they took occasion to inform him. He yielded a little in his demand, but still there was no offers for his wares.

Again he writes, in reply to other letters of his correspondents, naming a yet smaller amount and still no sale. At length he writes to each correspondent to make some disposition of his manufactures; if they can't get money for them, at least to exchange them, no matter at what reasonable sacrifice, for any other goods. Under these instructions, the stocking-factor calls upon the night-cap agent, both unknown to each other in connection with their principal, and "names his wares." He wishes to exchange a lot of superior cotton stockings for some other goods; he is not particular what kind, as the transaction is for a friend, who is desirous of closing his stock. The man at first can think of nothing which he would like to exchange for so large a supply of stockings; but at length a bright thought strikes him. "I have," said he, "a consignment of cotton night-caps from an old correspondent, which I shall not object to exchange for your stockings." The bargain was soon closed. The stocking-factor wrote back at once that he had at length been enabled to comply with the instructions of his principal. He had exchanged his stockings for a superior article of night caps, in an equal quantity, which he was assured were likely to be much in demand before a great while!

The next day came a letter from the night-cap agent, announcing his success, and appended to the letter was a big bill for commissions! As Yellowplush would say, "Fancy that gent's feelings!"
