it has reached this state; particularly where it falls down, and is in danger of souring or rotting. When this happens, it should be cut, whatever state it may be in, because if it remains on the ground it will spoil, and the fermentation which takes place, will de-strow the roots. Another great advantage in cutting grass before the seed forms is, that the roots are not so much exhausted, and that after growth is much more vigo-

In the rate of the appearance of the animals which are fed on hay thus managed, is evi-dence enough of its worthlessness After grass is cut and partly dried, it ought never to be exposed to dew or wet. The best way is to spread out the mown grass evenly, as soon as the wet has dried off from the spaces between the swathes, and before the data in the evening, rake it and put in cock. Where the crop is heavy, con-inderable time will be gained in making, by this plan. If it is only wilted when it is put in cock, it will, in a short time, undergo a sweed, which will much facilitate its making when it is again opened to the sun. HAY MAKING. We think it best to cut grass for hay, as near as possible to the time when it is in ful-lest bloom. Of course, if it is cut when most of it is in this state, some may be little past, and some fray not have quite reached tull bloom. We know there has therefore been some difference of opinion as to the stage grass should be when it is cut, but we believe the experience of the best farmers is an agreement with the position above assum-ed. Those who are in the habit of curing herds, cut them when in this stage, because it is known that they contain at that time the most of that peculiar principle from I'll sell it, whatsoe'er it bring ;-The world at auction here to day !

THE SLAVE TRADE .- In the Commons on the 15th, Lord Palmerston moved for a return showing the total number of negroes landed on the Islands and continent of Am-erica, from the year 1815 and 1843, both inclusive, so far as the return can be made up from documents in the possession of her Ma-jesty's Government. The noble lord lauded all the steps taken by the late Government, with a view to the suppression of the slave trade, intimating that the present ministry, in following out the same object, was beset by difficulties of its own creation, though an avenue of fame was still open to them, if they could put an end to the traffic denounced by every friend to the welfare of the human race. The motion of the noble lord was followed by Sir R. Peel stating that Spain and the Brazils were responsible for all the horrors con-sequeut upon the perpetration of the traffic, and without their cordial co-operation it would be impossible to suppress it effectually he assured the House that the present Gov-they are truly Elysian scenes, where "grea-alleys windingly allure." More fortunate than the inhabitants of most English towns, the people of Hamburg have spots of com-pletely roral retirement, within a minute's walk of their commercial and bustling city. Woods, walks, and water are so combined as to form some of the most beautiful retreats that the fancy can conceive. These continentials certainly know how to better their situation than we English do; at evening In Paradize, before our first parents fell, there were no weeds. > The Bible Says Se - We cannot begin too soon to communicate principles to the young which shall govern their minds for life .--Lasting impressions are made on them at a much earlier age than many persons suppose. It is remarkable, that the most important and sublime truths are, at the same time, the simplest. For instance, a very young child may be taught that there is a God ; that we are made to do his will : that there is to be a udgment ; that Christ died for summers ; and those who love God shall be fer ever happy in heaven.

Children should early be taught that the Bible is the great authority ; and that when it speaks any point, the question is settled forever. They should be taught to get di-rectly to the Scriptures, to find what is good and what is bad, what is tue and what is false. Thus with the blessings of God, they will acquire the habit of constantly giving ap their own notions, and inclinations when they find a plain declaration of Scripture -I therefore think it a good sign, to hear a child often use the expression, the Bible says so.
