Mayor Wenige Will Run If Beck Is Candidate

"M'GREGOR," ARRESTED WITH SIDNEY MURRELL, IDENTIFIED AS NORTON BY BIRRELL AND DOWN FROM PHOTOS RECEIVED BY ADVERTISER TODAY

Local Authorities Believe Most Puzzling End of Murrell Tangle Is in Their Hands

GAME IS UP

If Police Are Right Only William Murrell Remains — Sidney's Adventures in California

"Pat" Norton, mystery man of the Murrell gang, has been run to earth.

First exclusive photographs received in London this morning by special delivery from Susanville, California, and reproduced herewith by The Advertiser, were positively identified at noon today by Chief of Police Robert Birrell and Detective Sergeant Harry Down as that of Sidney Murrell, the long-sought desperado, and the mysterious "fourth bandit" of the Melbourne robbery, Ernest "Pat" Norton.

The photo was subjected to a painstaking comparison with others in possession of the police department, and though the mystery man, held in California under the name of McGregor, has assumed a down-cast expression that somewhat alters his appearance, the positive conclusion was that both are the London gunmen.

"I am quite certain that he is the same," Chief Birrell stated when the scrutiny had been completed. "I have believed that probable since he was arrested with Murrell, but the photo confirms my view."

Detective Sergeant Down who arrested Norton for the St. Thomas police and delivered him safely to St. Thomas, said he was sure before the Melbourne affair probably knows the man more familiarly than any other member of the police department.

"He is the man," is the judgment of Chief Birrell. "I have tried to forget him. I have nearly succeeded. His forehead seems the same. He is more puffy under the eyes. She abandoned the examination, uncertain as to what to say."

"Our reports of him," said Detective Sergeant Down, "are that he has been drinking and dissipating a good deal since he left London, and that his face is a good deal puffed and bloated, especially under the eyes, as compared with his rather alert and clean-cut appearance at the time of the Melbourne robbery."

If the conclusions of Chief Birrell and his detective force are confirmed, and the chief is confident that there can be no mistake, the arrest of Murrell and his companion has cleared one of the most sensationally untamable crimes in the annals of the Dominion.

In the early days following the Melbourne robbery and murder the police chose to give the impression that they knew nothing of the identity of the "Mysterious No. 4." Murphy and Wafer, who had participated with the Murrells and Norton in the theft of an automobile owned by J. L. Bell, dropped a hint after their arrest that the man was known either as "Pat" or "Pat."

"I met him at a dance over at Murrell's house the night before the Melbourne robbery. There were a lot of fellows there, and I didn't say much attention to what his name was when I was introduced to him," said Wafer to a reporter. He professed candor in saying that he had not seen the man before or since. The hideous "Pat" had been the life of the party and had made the roof reverberate with the thumping of drums and traps, stolen by the Murrells with the complete orchestral equipment of the Allen Theatre. This lot was recovered following the swift raid made on the Murrell house in Manor Park after the Melbourne robbery.

But the police were in possession of much more definite information from the first grilling third degree to which they had subjected Slim Williams, another member of the quartet, that attempted the raid on the Melbourne bank.

Here are the photographs of the men who were the law in both Chatham and St. Thomas. He had worked out of St. Thomas as a railroad, and coming to London later he had secured employment as a Grand Trunk fireman. He was arrested in a Central avenue boarding-house for the St. Thomas police by Detective Down, and thus that officer had the most definite recollection of his man.

His Past a Mystery. Norton's past is a mystery even to his own relatives. He disappeared in youth and was not heard from for years. Later when he followed his wife, who had been cast upon her own resources, to a farm near London, he entertained the small boys of the neighborhood by displays of his sure death marksmanship.

One small lad tells a story of having thrown pennies in the air for Norton, who knocked down seven out of ten with a small revolver. He then said that he had been a member of the Northwest Mounted Police and that he had deserted.

"He was a particularly alert, snappy fellow," Down said today. "His movements were all sudden, almost nervously so. He was a well-set-up, ruddy complexioned man, and was well able to handle himself."

This he proved to the farmers of the Melbourne district who caught him in the act of robbing a house. Turn to Page 2, Columns 2 and 3.

Murrell and "McGregor" Like Two Wolves At Bay Battled Photographers

Arrest For Petty Auto Theft Flung Shadow of Gallows Across Their Path—Broke Jail With Crude Saws.

Further dispatches received today from California give more detailed information concerning the arrest of the pair, and reveals Sid Murrell in his habitual role of the scheming, braggart desperado, Murrell, traveling under the alias of Robert W. Brooks, and his confederate, George McGregor, identified today as "Pat" Norton, the fourth bandit, arrived early in May in Susanville, in Lassen County, Cal., a town of seven or eight hundred population in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, not far from the Nevada state boundary, and in a district once associated in a measure with the gold rush of '49. They were then accompanied by three other men, who subsequently were identified as ex-convicts. Two of these men were soon afterward overhauled by police at Hayward,

California, in a stolen automobile, and were rugged with bullets. Two of the younger men had recently escaped from the Preston Reform School, where they were serving a term. On Monday, April 23, according to the brief news item carried on the front page of the Lassen Advocate, a weekly newspaper in Susanville, "Pete Mantredini left his Nash car in front of his house on Pine street, when he retired for the night. The car had been stolen. Sheriff Carter received word yesterday that the car had been recovered at Ely, Nevada, and two men giving the names of McGregor and Brooks were arrested and are being held pending the arrival of Sheriff Carter who is leaving for Ely tomorrow."

which the Murrells escaped that fine September evening two years ago. The saved bars of the empty window, the police circular, the insignificant newspaper clipping, the California sheriff, and finally the portraits of the fugitives, are links in the long story whose moral, in the words of Murrell's mother, is: "You cannot escape the law."

Cartier, who is leaving for Ely tomorrow. A Wolf at Bay. Harassed by the knowledge that his fingerprints were on record in every criminal identification bureau in America, and that the shadow of the gallows had fallen a step ahead across his path, Murrell must have faced his predicament like a wolf at bay.

The fact that they were in possession of the stolen motor car from Susanville was the direct clue leading to their capture in that connection. The men had in their possession a number of suitcases and club bags all filled with new clothing. They were brought back to Susanville under escort, and there the contents of the suitcases was identified as loot taken by burglars a few days before when a raid was made on The Golden Rule Merchandise Company of Lovelock, Nevada.

Sheriff Carter, who had been elected to office a short time before under the American system, had recently installed a Bertillon criminal identification bureau, and with the aid of a new official, he worked to uncover the true identity of the captives.

STORY OF CRIME AT MELBOURNE IS TOLD AGAIN

Witnesses Repeat Evidence in Case Against Sidney Murrell.

HOW CAMPBELL DIED

Brother Swears He Saw Sidney Murrell Fire the Fatal Shot.

J. C. Elliott, today, in a special sitting of the police court, took evidence in the Murrell case, which he is forwarding to the attorney-general's department in Toronto.

Robert McCandless, who was teller in the Home Bank at Melbourne at the time of the robbery, and is now manager, said: "I was in the cage at the time. A man whose name he did not know came into the bank, and Sidney Murrell, who followed, pointed his revolver over the first man's shoulder at me. He was about eight feet from me. He turned me round, facing the wall."

"He ordered me to the safe and told me to open it. Then he hit me on the head with his revolver and I heard shots behind me. I was partly stunned, but went out to the door, and saw Russell Campbell lying between the alleyway and the door. I think he was dead at that time. There were some people in the doorway. I then went back to the bank and got my revolver and went on to the road. There I met John Linn, who returned me the satchel containing the $1,500 stolen from the bank. I was within a few feet of Sidney Murrell when he was captured."

Mr. McCandless identified the official photo of Sidney Murrell when it was shown to him.

Brother of Victim. Stewart Campbell, a brother of the man who was killed, said: "I entered the bank on the morning of the robbery with a 22-calibre, unloaded rifle, which I had picked up. There were two armed men at the door of the bank, one of whom was standing outside the door. They turned and went down the alley. They were Williams and William Murrell. I saw Sidney Murrell coming out of the teller's cage, with a revolver in one hand and a valise in the other. I covered him with the rifle; he simply fired at me. I went around to the back door, and saw my brother and Sidney Murrell wrestling. Murrell was stooping over my brother. He had a revolver in his right hand. I heard a shot and I saw a flash from Sid's gun. The shot struck my brother under the left arm, and he fell."

"I dropped my rifle and grappled with Sidney. He shook me off. Then my brother, Robert, and others chased him. I followed and caught him about 250 feet west of the bank."

He had dropped the satchel in his run. When I got back to the bank I found Russell lying on his face dead in the alley."

John Little of Melbourne, giving evidence said, "I saw Sidney Murrell and Russell Campbell in the alley on the morning of the murder. I saw a revolver in his hand. He had not seen Russell killed though he had heard the shots. He identified Sidney Murrell as the man who had been tied to the telephone pole that morning in Melbourne."

Helped in Capture. Robert Alexander Campbell, another brother of the murdered man, stated that he had seen Williams and Sidney Murrell on guard in the bank. He went through the bank after the shooting to the back door and found his brother lying in the roadway. "I jumped on Sidney's back," he said, "and though he shook me off, I followed him in the chase through the town."

Dr. Robert Dewar who has been practicing in the village of Melbourn for twelve years in giving evidence said that he had known the dead man for some years. He was in good health and was of medium size and strength. He had made the post mortem examination. The bullet was found just below the skin on the right side of the body and he had traced its course from just below the left arm where it had entered the body.

Byron Dawson, jailer of the county of Middlesex, swore that the copy of the commitment which is being sent with the evidence is the exact copy of the original found by him in the jail records and J. C. Elliott entered a statement in which he stated that he thought the evidence which had just been taken was sufficient to warrant extradition proceedings to be taken in the case of Sidney Murrell on the charge of murder.

ALONE AND POOR, "DOLLY" WHITING ENDS HER LIFE

Drank Strychnine in Richmond Street Apartment and Died Before Reaching Hospital.

COULDN'T GET WORK

Discouraged because she could not find work and wishing to put an end to her loneliness, Mrs. P. (Dolly) Whiting, who was living with her mother in the McCallum Apartments at Maple and Richmond streets, took strychnine at 10.15 this morning and died just as she was being taken into St. Joseph's Hospital from the E. C. Killingsworth ambulance.

The young woman, who was about 23 years old, is described as being exceedingly attractive, had dark eyes and wavy hair. She came, with her mother, to London from St. Marys about two months ago, and as far as can be learned, besides her mother, had no immediate relatives in this city. She was married only a short time.

Mrs. Kennedy had gone to work as usual this morning to the Hall Dent shop in the McCallum apartments in the neighbourhood.

Heard Screams. Miss Mary Turner, a milliner in the next room, was at her work about 10.15 when she heard someone screaming her name. She rushed into the hall and immediately recognized the voice of Mrs. Whiting. The door to the girl's room was locked, so opening it with her own key she entered and found the girl lying on the sofa evidently in great pain.

Miss Turner asked the girl what was the matter with her but could not get any answer. She called for a mother and a doctor, but as far as she could tell, she was dead.

Dr. W. J. Tillman soon arrived on the scene and asked the girl repeatedly what she had taken. After some questioning she told the physician that she had taken strychnine. When Dr. Tillman arrived a call boy immediately sent from Miss McEwan's fancy goods store on Richmond street for the police ambulance, but it is alleged the officials at the police station declared that the ambulance could not be sent as it was not an accident.

After trying one or two more in vain, the funeral parlors of E. C. Killingsworth was called, and an ambulance arrived in a few minutes.

Dies in Ambulance. The girl was rushed to the hospital, but just as the stretcher was being borne through the doors she passed away.

Mrs. Kennedy was frantic when she heard that her daughter had poisoned herself, and cannot seem to realize that the smiling girl she left at the apartment this morning has gone to the great beyond.

The mother and daughter have only resided in the McCallum apartments for about six weeks, and they have very few acquaintances in London. Occupants of other apartments in the same building have only seen the mother when she was going to and from work, and the daughter very seldom.

It is said that the young woman was employed in a local millinery store for two weeks after her arrival in the city, but except for that short period has not had any other employment.

Coroner Cameron Wilson was called, and after an investigation stated that an inquest was unnecessary.

'ANDY' HICKS FIGHTING FOR HIS POLITICAL LIFE

HICKS TO BATTLE TO GET FARMERS' SUPPORT IN HURON

Generally Believed He Will Not Be Given Nomination.

SAYS NOT WANTED

A. Munn Declares "Andy Has Been Cutting Up Too Much."

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Reporter.

Hensall, May 31.—Andrew Hicks will battle for his political life at a convention of the South Huron U. F. O. this afternoon, and the odds are against him. General feeling among the farmers seems to be opposed to Hicks, and it is predicted that either W. G. Mead or W. D. Standers of Exeter will be the next candidate.

"Andy has been cutting up too much, and we don't want anything more to do with him," A. Munn, president of the South Huron U. F. O. said this morning when interviewed by The Advertiser.

It is expected, however, that Hicks will speak in a desperate effort to win the nomination. Several hundred farmers from all parts of the riding are attending the convention.

SERGEANT LAYS CLAIM TO FIREBUG REWARD

Finance Committee Turns the Matter Over to Police Commission.

Another step towards securing for Sergeant Thomas O'Connor the reward offered for the capture of John Isen, firebug, was taken last night when the finance committee of the city council referred to the police commission a letter from Sergeant O'Connor with instructions that the matter of laying the information be thoroughly investigated.

Isen, who was responsible for many fires throughout the city, was caught by Sergeant O'Connor as he was endeavoring to set fire to a portion of the barracks where he was stationed. The sergeant ordered the man under arrest and informed his commanding officer as to what had occurred.

The O. C. in turn told Sergeant Birtwhistle, who went to the local police station and went through the formality of laying the information which resulted in Isen's conviction.

Sergeant O'Connor wrote to the finance committee setting out his claims to the $500 reward offered by the city, pointing out that it was he who had discovered the man.

APPOINT JAIL MATRON TO FILL THE VACANCY

Mrs. Frank E. Ross Will Take Over Duties of Miss Jane Doyle.

Mrs. Frank E. Ross of Hensall has been appointed the new assistant matron at the county jail to fill the vacancy left by the superannuation of Miss Jane Doyle.

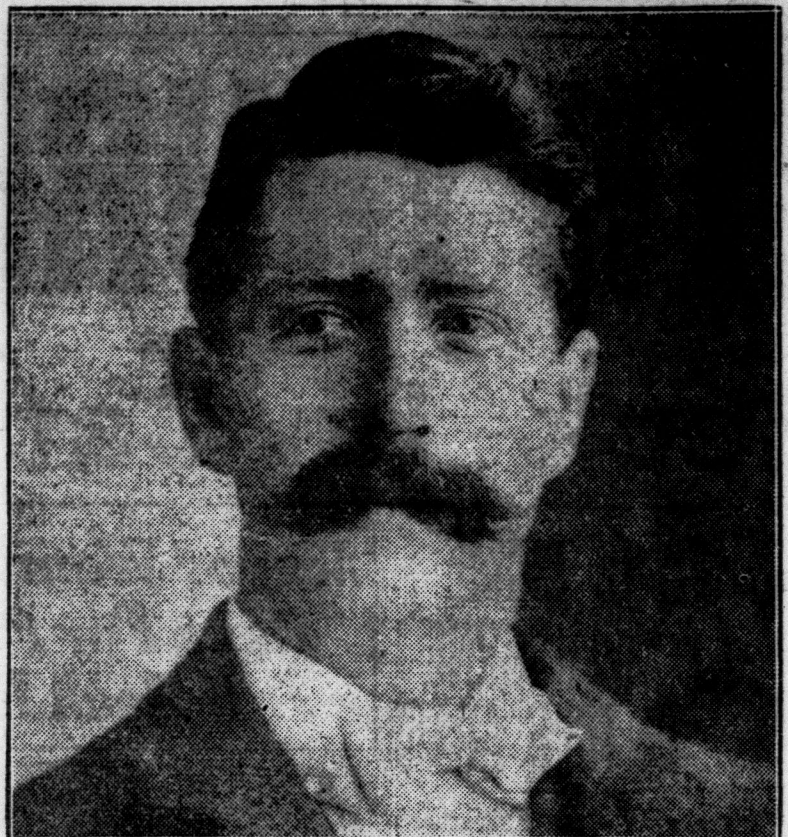

Mrs. Ross, who is a trained nurse of wide experience, and a graduate of a London hospital, will commence her duties this evening as night matron. Her apartments in the county buildings are being renovated, and within the next few days Mr. and Mrs. Ross will be residing in their new quarters.

Miss Doyle has been assistant matron at the county jail for more than thirty years, and the county councilors at their January session decided that since Miss Doyle was getting up in years, she should be superannuated, and a bylaw was passed releasing her from her duties and setting aside of $30 a month for her pension.

"M'GREGOR" IDENTIFIED BY BIRRELL AND DOWN

For a long while the theory that he organized the escape of the Murrell brothers from their county jail was given little credence by the police. Subsequently, the evidence accumulated, until today it is believed certain that Norton may well be regarded as the criminal master mind of the Murrell gang. There is much evidence to substantiate the claim that Norton returned not only to London, but to the cell window of the Murrells within the jail walls, and while they hacked away at the bars with saws which he provided, he took his turn in cutting through the steel from the outside.

It is the belief of the police that Norton may have returned on more than one night to assist in the cutting, and that the slots notched in the tedious process were filled by him with a soap and lampblack disguise that concealed the progress of the jail delivery. He, too, it is thought, fixed the time for the escape, assisted in bringing the men safely over the jail wall by means of the ladders and ropes left inside by contractors building a county works storage, and provided the motor car in which they left the city.

Part of the story has been unfolded. What happened after the prisoners got again beyond the grasp of the law is for the meanwhile a mystery. Where they spent the first night after their escape, how soon they made the break across the international line; whether major acts of banditry and homicide have been their stock in trade since where Bill Murrell is now, remain for the time a mystery.

Stole Another Car. Displaying a physical endurance few of his pursuers could equal, he distanced the posse and lost himself in a woods soon afterward to reappear at a farm a mile or more away. The stolen motor car, the radiator of which had been drained to prevent damage by late spring frosts. He rushed out to the road, menacing the members of the household with his automatic pistol, and was soon lost to view. The rural telephone lines broadcasted the word to the people of the whole community, now alert to the call to avenge the embattled people of Melbourne. Two men with light rifles as their only weapons to join action with the "fourth man's" arsenal soon picked up the trail of the stolen car and swiftly drew in upon it. The waterless motor had practically run its limit. Overheated and in difficulties, the desperado was unable to force it further. The pursuing car was close upon him when, again resorting to his wits, he swung the machine on a rabbit turn into a farmer's lane. The driver following, not suspecting the move, over-ran the turn and before he could stop saw his man leave the machine well down in the fields and again strike off, running toward the swamps.

The bandit was nearing exhaustion, but his brain was working. Pretending to abandon the attempt to avoid arrest, he dropped his gun on the ground and stood as if to surrender. The leading pursuers, too, lowered their weapons and proceeded to close in and apprehend him. But when the leader was less than a hundred feet from the fugitive, the bandit, again grasping his German army pistol, laid its muzzle across his up-lifted left forearm and, taking deliberate aim down the gleaming barrel, he fired. The bullet whistled past the farmer's ear and he escaped the death intended for him.

Slipped the Net. Other shots crashed around the poorly-armed or unarmed people of the countryside, and the chase ended. The Fourth Man, scarcely recognizable in the excitement, plunged into the dense undergrowth, and when daylight returned next morning, he had slipped the net.

But with the threat of the hangman's noose clutching at his throat the bragging gangster Murrell could not resist the impulse to boast of his escapades in the evasion of the law. "I have been in jail one place and another every year since I was 16 years old, and I never saw one yet I couldn't break," he told a fellow-prisoner.

That night, while the jail night watchman was on his rounds about the building between 2 and 3 o'clock, he was attracted by a noise on the roof, and two slinking figures moved across the cornice dimly silhouetted against the moon.

Cook, the watchman, promptly covered both men with his gun and ordered them down. They parleyed for a moment, claiming they were unable to do so, but a shot through the night sent them back the way they had come. With the turnkeys aroused to the emergency, the watchman entered the building, and Murrell and his partner were again safely in the toils.

With two ordinary clasp knives, knicked out and fashioned into a saw by the crude expedient of rasping one against the face of the other, they had sawed through the bars of a patented and supposedly impregnable cage. Then with the same tool they had hacked a hole through the plaster ceiling, and saved an opening in the boards of the roof. Through this opening, they reached the roof, and in a moment later would doubtless have reached the ground and again eluded the law.

Sherriff Played Safe. The attempted jail delivery coincided with receipt of telegraphic information from London, Toronto and Ottawa that Murrell was wanted here with a price on his head. Sheriff Carter, realizing that he was dealing with an ordinary criminal, and justified in the suspicions that incited him to pursue his inquiries, procured authority from the state authorities to transfer Murrell without delay to a stronger prison in San Francisco.

The last word from Susanville was that McGregor was left in that place.

Then the flash of the word to the provincial police and the attorney-general's department at Toronto to the chief of police at London, and thence on to the British consul at San Francisco. "Hold Robert McGregor, alias Sydney Murrell, bank robbery and jail breaking. Warrants for his arrest held at London, Ont."

REV. W. E. MILLSON MADE PRESIDENT BY METHODISTS

Chosen To Head the London Conference at Today's Meeting.

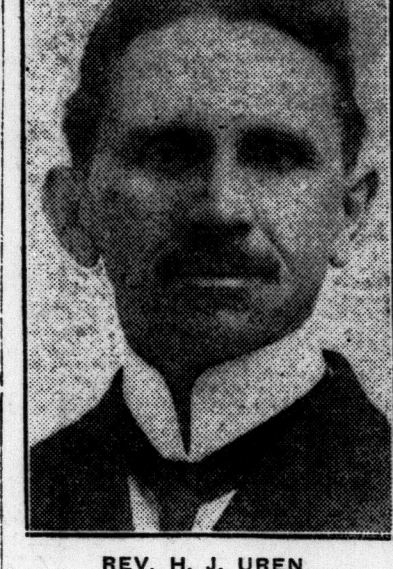

CAME AS SURPRISE

Generally Conceded Honor Would Fall Upon Rev. H. J. Uren of Mitchell.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, May 31.—Rev. Walter E. Millson of London, field secretary of the department of evangelism and social service, was elected president of the London Methodist Conference at its session this morning. Mr. Millson's election came as a surprise to many delegates present, for it was generally conceded before the conference convened that the honor would fall on Rev. H. J. Uren, of Mitchell, incoming pastor of Colborne Street Methodist Church, London.

MOTOR BUS PROJECT IS AGAIN DISCUSSED

Mayor Wenige Seeks Demonstration of New Type of Vehicle.

The municipally-owned motor bus project is revived at the city hall today.

Representatives of a large American firm expect the arrival this afternoon of one of their latest types of equipment, and Mayor Wenige is trying to arrange for a demonstration for the edification of the citizens and the city councilors.

Ald. Drake contends that the city should purchase one or two omnibuses for auxiliary purposes, and while the mayor has frequently urged the inauguration of a complete city motor bus system as a solution of the local transportation problems, he has been remarkably silent in this respect lately.

The cars suggested for the city would cost in the neighborhood of $11,000 each, and it is just possible that the council may decide before their term of office expires to send a motor bus proposal to the electors for consideration next election.

Says Flivver Aeroplane To Be As Popular As Car

French Aviator Invents 15-Horsepower Machine To Sell at $750, Which He Hopes To Popularize Throughout America.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, May 31.—A $750 flivver aeroplane of 15 horsepower that can be flown down Main street and parked in front of the office, or wheeled into the garage in the back yard was introduced to America today by George Babot, French aviator, who recently soared across the English Channel in a seven horsepower monoplane.

Babot said in an interview that he came to the United States to make the plane as popular as the automobile. He will attempt to demonstrate the practicability and safety of his plane by flying from New York to Chicago next week.

The plane weighs 600 pounds, is 15 feet long, and measures 40 feet from wing to wing. Six gallons of gasoline will keep it in the air for eight hours, traveling at 60 miles an hour.

MOTOR HOUSES ROLL TO PACIFIC COAST

Traveling to the Pacific coast and back on two Overland chassis on which were built houses seven feet wide and fifteen feet long, and not spending a dollar on either motor for repairs, was the satisfying experience of Jay Wilson of Astoria, Illinois.

The houses were equipped with electric lights, running water and all the conveniences of a home, and the party of eleven people in the caravan camped out each night during the entire trip.

NORTHERN SLAYER SHOT BY OFFICERS ON SHORE OF LAKE

Leo Rogers Trained to Death
Following Second Murder.

BODY BROUGHT IN Raised Rifle To Fire, But the Police Guns Speak
First.

Canadian Press Despatch.
North Bay, May 31.—At 8 o'clock last night the news was flashed over the telephone from Callander that Leo Rogers, convict and murderer of both Planchette and Judge Leask, had been shot dead in the bush and the body would arrive shortly after at the North Bay dock. So great was the excitement that the approach of the body was required to keep them from rushing the motor boat as it arrived. The body was taken from the boat and driven rapidly to Marty's undertaking parlors. It lies in a room, but by special order of Inspector Moore, not the same room as that where the body of Sergeant John Urquhart awaits its burial.

The chase, which began two weeks ago tonight, when Rogers fled over the local police into a trap near McLaren's garage on the shore of Lake Nipissing, ended at 6 o'clock this evening. The reward of $1,000 offered by the provincial authorities for information leading to Rogers' arrest will in all probability go to Allan Johnson, a farmer living near Nipissing village, 20 miles from here. Mr. Johnson traveled to Callander this morning to inform the police that a man answering Rogers' description had beached a skiff on the shore of the lake at Johnson's Point, about 400 yards from his own house.

Sends Entire Force.
The story rang so true that Inspector Moore threw almost his entire force into the region. Inspector Storey's party, traveling by motor, while another party started out across the lake by motorboat. At about 5 o'clock Storey's party reached the point, and with the aid of field glasses, from the bush watched a man tinker with the engine in a boat drawn up on the shore. Several times he dipped his hands in the water, as though to wash off blood, which seemed to be bothering him. Identification of the man as Leo Rogers, the escaped convict, was made by Provincial Constable Hornbeck of Cobalt, who had previously known Rogers, while the latter was serving his term at Kingston Penitentiary.

Several shots were fired. Inspector Storey himself leading the fusillade. Rogers fell just as he was raising his rifle in the direction of the motorboat that was approaching from the lake. In his body was a bullet hole in the right shoulder, the bullet piercing his shoulder, lungs and heart, and emerging from the left side. There was another bullet wound in the left leg.

Will Hold Inquest.
A formal inquest will be held tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Nipissing village where Rogers was run to earth is approximately twenty miles by road from North Bay, but several miles shorter by water. With the discovery of Rogers came also the recovery of a motorboat and canoe stolen recently from boathouses owned by Mayor Ferguson and Judge Leask. Apparently when he escaped this morning Rogers made his way to the water where he had hidden the boats and immediately set out for the other side of the lake.

When the desperado was found he had with him a bundle of food and a new pair of heavy rubber boots. An interesting discovery was a package of newspaper clippings dealing with his escape and recording the efforts made by provincial police and others during the past two weeks to bring about his arrest.

Leo Rogers, who was born in England of Polish parents, escaped from the court room at North Bay, where he was being tried on a charge of having firearms in his possession, on Wednesday, May 15, two weeks ago. In making his escape, when cornered by a posse of provincial police a day later, he shot and killed Constable Fred Leckie and wounded Constable McGovern. Following the shooting he disappeared completely and was not heard of until early this morning, when he returned to his home for food and clothing. He was cornered by the police who were in hiding near the house, but in attempting to arrest the desperado, Sergeant John Urquhart was shot dead. Rogers escaped.

Provincial police officials state the case is the worst in the history of Northern Ontario. Rogers was known as an extremely dangerous criminal. He began his career of crime at the age of fifteen. Dr. C. K. Clarke, noted alienist, at one time pronounced the lad insane, and he was known to have a mania for guns.

Stary for shopbreaking at North Bay, evidence taken showing that he had not stolen money from hardware stores burglarized, but stole guns, rifles, revolvers and ammunition. He served six years at Port Arthur penitentiary, and was then let out on parole. After a short stay with his parents, Rogers is alleged to have visited Toronto and stolen forty revolvers from two sporting goods stores. It was shortly afterwards that the bandit was arrested in North Bay and made his sensational escape from the courtroom by holding up officials with an imitation revolver.

CASE IS ENDED.
Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 30.—General Victor Williams, commissioner of the provincial police, expressed great satisfaction when he received the wire which told him that Rogers was no longer a menace to the north country. Inspector Alfred Cuddy, head of the criminal investigation branch of the provincial force, had prepared to take the lake evening train to the north country and to take 14 additional constables with him. News of Rogers' death, was, however, received in time to have these arrangements cancelled. "The case," General Williams said, "when Rogers' removal from society had been made known, is now entirely out of the hands of the provincial police and their connection with it is ended." Rogers' body, he supposed, would be turned over to the coroner in North Bay for the holding of an inquest.

ADVISES FINAL ACTION ON CHURCH UNION ISSUE

Rev. Dr. George M. Milligan
Breaks Silence Maintained
For Many Years.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 31.—Dr. George M. Milligan, the veteran Presbyterian preacher and pastor emeritus of Old St. Andrew's Church, has broken the silence maintained for many years in his retirement and has spoken out with emphasis on the church union question, upon which final action will be taken at the general assembly in Port Arthur next week. Dr. Milligan's deliverance is in the form of a message to the Presbyterian union movement committee, and is as follows:

"Having had a great deal to do with the church union question at its inception, being moderator of the general assembly when it was first introduced in 1904, and having taken an active part in promoting the movement for some years, I am disgusted at the persistent cavilling of certain men over a question that has been thoroughly considered and finally decided. The general assembly should not be guilty of any weakness in departing from what the church has already done, and it should not allow itself to be diverted from that which it knows to be its duty."

ARRANGE SPECIAL SATURDAY SHOW OF JUNGLE FILM

Management of Loew's To Screen Trailing African Wild Animals, For Children.

NEWSBOYS INVITED

Manager Fred Jackson of Loew's Theatre, appreciating the fact that many children of London will be unable to witness the screening of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnston's startling picture "Trailing African Wild Animals" at Loew's next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, has arranged a special morning showing Saturday at 10 o'clock, when every boy and girl will be admitted to the special show for 10c, accompanied by a coupon which appears on page two of this issue.

Children are especially requested to clip coupon and present same when purchasing tickets. This is a special concession to the children of London and affords them a real opportunity to view this mighty educational feature. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston traveled over one thousand miles in the course of making this wonder picture in darkest Africa.

Nairobi, in British East Africa, was the starting point of the expedition. Traveling in a northeasterly direction the party crossed the equator in the slopes of Mt. Kenya, and from there proceeded to the edge of the Lorain swamp region. The party traveled northwest to Marsabit, and then journeyed over plains, through densely wooded sections, over swamps and deserts in land rarely visited by human beings. After reaching Lake Paradise, the goal of the trip, the expedition returned to Nairobi via Lakes Rudolph and Victoria.

Manager Jackson has also extended a special invitation to the newsboys of The Advertiser to attend this special matinee in a body. Special tickets will be issued by the management of The Advertiser to the boys.

Each Year Sees an Increase in Canada's Concrete Paving Yardage

The revolution in road traffic, due to the automobile and the heavily laden truck has created a positive use for permanent, skid-proof, fuel saving highways of Concrete. Governments, Municipal and Provincial, have come to a realization that economy in road building lies in building for permanence. Permanent highways of Concrete pay for themselves. They lessen the taxpayer's burden by reducing upkeep to a minimum. They lower haulage costs, attract tourists and promote the comfort and well-being of every community they serve.

Evidence of the increasing popularity of Concrete is found in the figures of total yardage year by year in Canada. The table below gives this illuminating information.

CONCRETE PAVING COMPLETED IN CANADA
Square Yards Laid Each Year and Total Yardage Year by Year

Year	Western Provinces	New Brunswick and Nova Scotia	Ontario and Quebec	Total
Prior to 1912	197,882	—	145,101	342,983
During 1912	45,794	—	168,274	214,068
" 1913	146,421	1,199	231,889	468,000
" 1914	90,328	18,679	446,125	655,132
" 1915	37,480	17,439	627,495	682,414
" 1916	52,918	9,742	446,998	589,758
" 1917	—	16,748	462,538	479,286
" 1918	10,869	4,899	131,118	146,886
" 1919	98,624	2,609	686,189	887,422
" 1920	55,711	11,734	659,044	726,489
" 1921	74,465	—	1,237,878	1,312,343
" 1922	—	—	1,549,463	1,549,463
Total end of 1922	805,669	26,015	6,777,700	7,609,384

There is every encouragement in the fact that Canada is using Concrete on a rapidly increasing scale in order to carry adequately the motor driven traffic which is becoming such a factor in modern transportation.

"It's the little they cost to maintain that makes Concrete Pavements Economical."

MOTHER AND HER THREE CHILDREN DROWN IN RIVER

Fatal Accident Occurs Near Yarmouth, N.S., When Boat Capsizes.

GOING TO NEIGHBORS

Canadian Press Despatch.

Yarmouth, N.S., May 30.—Mrs. Edward Hatfield, 23, and three of her children, the oldest seven years, were drowned in Tusket River, at Forks Quinlan, Yarmouth County, today.

The four were crossing the river in a boat to ferry two neighbors from the opposite bank, when the craft was upset by the three children moving to one side, and the mother adding her weight to theirs in an effort to put them back to their positions.

The four were plunged into the rapidly flowing river and Mrs. Hatfield was later seen with one of her children tightly clasped in her arms being carried downstream. The bodies were found about a mile from the scene of the drowning. The bodies of the other children had not been found tonight.

Mrs. Hatfield lived near the river, and when she answered the call of her neighbors to row them across the stream, she left her youngest child in the house. She is survived by her husband and the infant.

Chatham, May 30.—A traveling basket, started around the city by Mrs. Manson Campbell, is a new way of raising funds by the Ladies' Assisting Society of the General Hospital, Chatham. The basket will contain attractive and useful articles for sale and citizens are at liberty to place in it articles or donations.

With Mrs. W. G. Merritt presiding, arrangements for the travel were made at a recent meeting of the society. Plans were also made for the graduating exercises of the nursing class on June 19 in the First Presbyterian Church, and for a tea at the home of Mrs. Bryce Kendrick, the secretary, on June 15. Reports included a favorable report of the visiting committee, Mrs. Bogart and Mrs. Stover. Mrs. W. A. Moore and Mrs. J. Baker were appointed the committee for June. After receiving a report regarding improvements to the nurses' home, the ladies decided to have the building re-painted soon. At the tea hour, all the members, and a happy social time was spent. Mrs. J. H. Duncan invited the ladies to her home for the June meeting.

Tilbury, May 30.—Last Sunday was observed as "Woman's Sunday" in the local Methodist church, when the evening service was entirely in the hands of the Women's Missionary Society. The choir seats were occupied by about 20 ladies, and the musical part of the service reflected credit upon the organist, Mrs. Scharp, Mesdames W. J. Taylor and C. W. Case acted as ushers and received the offering, and Mrs. J. E. Scribner offered the opening prayer. The speaker of the evening was Mrs. M. E. Tillman of Walkerville, district organizer of W. M. London Advertiser

THURSDAY, MAY 31, 1923.

He Has Had Many Views.

Mr. Ferguson has made a statement about the O. T. A. in his own riding, and it was a very fair statement for any man to make. It contained an admission that the O. T. A. was made by the people, and it could only be altered by these same people.

The regrettable thing about Mr. Ferguson's statement on the O. T. A. is that he did everything else under the sun first before making a definite pronouncement.

Some months ago Hon. Mr. Ferguson was addressing a meeting of Conservatives in Hamilton. We quote the following from the Hamilton Herald news columns:

"Asked by an auditor if there was any truth in the report that the Toronto Conservative Club had passed a resolution proposing amendments to the O. T. A. making the control of liquor here the same as in Quebec, Mr. Ferguson replied: 'I'm not responsible for the Toronto Conservative Club, and I don't know if they did pass such a resolution. We have no platform regarding liquor. Do you think it safe for a party in opposition to have a platform? Don't you think it best to let the other fellow show his hand first and then play your cards?'"

There was a case where the Conservative leader dodged the issue clearly. He was many miles from the point where he has found it convenient to locate himself on the eve of an election.

On the 4th of May, 1922, Mr. Ferguson brought out another brand of temperance proposal. It was one that was going to please everybody. Before the Toronto Conservative Club he said:

"I am not here to make pronouncements of policy or prophecies of what will happen, but when the proper time comes to announce our policy I will be prepared to submit to the province a policy which will appeal to every broad-minded, reasonable man in the province of Ontario, and which at the same time will meet with the approval of every real temperance man of the province of Ontario."

Again at Picton, in May, 1922, Mr. Ferguson made reference to this strange policy he was going to bring forth. He stated then:

"When the House prorogues I will announce a policy to the people of the province regarding the O. T. A. which will be satisfactory to all classes, be they rabid temperance or anti."

Mr. Ferguson was surely an original, but not an intrepid campaigner, an excellent juggler for time and a wonderful adept at asking his followers to stick around for a few months and see what would happen.

Now, when the election is less than a month away, when the candidates are in the field, and when Mr. Ferguson has been around the country enough to know that he cannot fool the people with any of his top-spinning ideas about a Janus-faced policy, he comes before his own people and boldly announces:

"Prohibition must prevail and be observed until the people by their votes pronounce against it."

And about this time Col. J. A. Currie, a Conservative candidate in Toronto, gave his views:

"I don't say that the O. T. A. should be repealed, and I don't believe in a referendum. We can amend it so that it will be a perfectly good bill. We will have real temperance and everybody will be satisfied."

The mantle of satisfying everybody has fallen from the shoulders of Mr. Ferguson to those of Mr. Currie. The coat of many colors was a little too noisy and uncertain for the leader himself to wear.

Mr. Ferguson's candidate in East Wellington against the attorney-general is Col. J. Craig, whose policy can fairly be interpreted as reading: "A reasonable amount of whiskey at a reasonable price."

Mr. Ferguson, after boxing the compass, has come to the conclusion that he had better make a straight O. T. A. pronouncement. It is the first good word he has had to say for it.

Hon. W. E. Raney, in his nomination address at Fergus, in East Wellington, stated:

"I do not recall a single friendly word for the O. T. A. from the Conservative quarter of the House since Mr. Ferguson became leader, except from Mr. John Joynt of Center Huron."

If Mr. Ferguson's temperance pronouncement were the expression of the convictions of a sincere man, it would be first-rate, but unfortunately it comes now as the most expeditious word from a man who has tried out everything else first and found that he had to come to it.

Living Within the Income.

Hamilton city council was asked for $2,000 to help entertain delegates to the Canadian good roads convention in that city. The council answered that it had not the money.

The next request was for $1,500, and finally the request contracted to $500, both of which met the same fate as the first.

Mayor Juttan was courteous about it all, and claimed that the city's income would be $420,000 less than last year, and there was much work of importance to be done.

His stand is quite right. He knows how much money the city has to spend, and what the city needs most. A good road or a new street opened is of more lasting value than entertaining delegates to a convention.

Municipal backbone is a better crop in 1923 than for some years past.

A Typical Morrison Speech.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, speaking at Zurich, talked political organization along U. F. O. lines, and although speaking for two hours never mentioned the name or the work of Premier Drury.

His silence on this score is impressive. Is it possible that he has not a word to say for Mr. Drury, who has done more toward giving political expression to the views of the U. F. O. than any other man? Could Mr. Morrison not even say that he approved of Mr. Drury?

In the beginning, Mr. Morrison admits, it was not the intention to go into politics. The thing was overdone at the last provincial contest. Mr. Morrison had something to do with bringing Mr. Drury from his farm at Crown Hill to lead the new government, but it was because he considered it was going to be impossible for the government to carry on. From the day that Mr. Drury demonstrated that he could bring together a sufficient number of men to carry on, Mr. Morrison dropped him, and no man knows this better than Mr. Drury himself. Today, in face of an election only a few weeks off, Mr. Morrison has not one word to say for Mr. Drury.

Mr. Morrison referred several times in his address to a "rush fund." At one time he said, "Do you want to become a new political party, run with rush funds, and all the machinery of the old party?"

By "rush funds" Mr. Morrison means the corruption purse, or campaign money. If Mr. Morrison has any definite information on this matter he would be doing a splendid service by coming out plainly and openly and giving facts and figures. Mr. Morrison might rest easier were he to know that in a good many centers the matter of financing a campaign is the one serious problem that remains unsolved. It costs money to run an election now, more money than it did some years ago. There are voters who must be driven to the polls; there are workers in many cases to be paid as scrutineers, as they claim they cannot afford to lay off work and lose their pay. Advertising and promotion work is carried on more extensively than ever before; rents are higher, and a considerably larger outlay is needed today than some years ago.

The members who put up money to carry on this work, according to Mr. Morrison, must be contributing to a "rush fund," and in like manner then members of the U. F. O. who put up money for election purposes are contributing to a similar fund. The Liberal campaign fund chest in this district is quite empty, and financing will have to be done by contributions from the rank and file of the party. It may suit Mr. Morrison's purpose to dangle before his audience the picture of "rush funds," but he is overdoing the thing.

The absence of campaign funds is not an undesirable thing; it puts the control of the situation in the hands of the people. They are putting up the money and they are going to have their full say.

It is hardly a fair thing for Mr. Morrison to try to paint political conditions all black, particularly when he brings forth no evidence to back up his claim.

So They Fined Him $15.

A high school student was fined $5 in Peterborough and ordered to pay $10 to the library board for mutilating a book. The chances are he cut or tore out something that appealed to him.

An annoying thing to the next person who got the book or magazine, no doubt, but a good trait as far as the student was concerned.

No doubt these magazine whittlers must be put in their place, but the fact that a student tears out a page, or an article, provided it is worth while, shows he is interested. He wants to put the information away or refer to it again.

Money might much better be spent replenishing books or magazines out of which students had torn pages or clipped sections, than providing a lot of trash that is not worth clipping or stealing.

Does Not Trust Mr. Ferguson.

Toronto Telegram, self-appointed champion of hydro interests, does not trust Hon. Howard Ferguson. In advising electors to kill Drury, the Telegram uses these phrases:

"Hydro Conservatives cannot save hydro by going to battle against the possible ultimate enemy of Hon. Howard Ferguson to the hydro cause."

And this one:

"If Hon. Howard Ferguson be the foe of hydro, Mr. Ferguson either never tried to make or never succeeded in making the Conservative party the foe of hydro in the past."

And while the Toronto Telegram, Sir Adam Beck's greatest admirer, names Hon. Howard Ferguson as a possible enemy of hydro, Conservative leaders in London link the name of Ferguson with that of Sir Adam as great leaders of the Conservative party.

Sir Adam should be more particular of the company he is thinking of getting linked up with.

THINKS SIR ADAM SHOULD NOT RUN.

From the Hamilton Herald (Independent). It is to be hoped that he (Sir Adam) will not run. There are several reasons why he should not. One is that if he were to accept nomination from a Conservative convention and be elected, the hydro cause would be associated with the Conservative party and Conservative interests, and this would be most unfair to the Liberal party, many of whose members are not less loyal to the hydro cause than are any of its Conservative supporters. Another reason is that it is hardly expedient that a highly paid public official, holding an important position under the government, should sit in the legislature as a public representative. A third reason is that, if the claims of the Conservatives be well founded, it will not be necessary to have a special champion of hydro interests in the next legislature, for the Drury government will not be in existence after the elections, and hydro and Sir Adam will be in no danger of being harassed by the Drury government. A fourth reason is that, in order to keep party politics out of hydro management, hydro ought to be kept out of party politics as much as possible—at least it should not be thrust into party politics, as it would be if the chairman of the hydro-electric commission were to be elected to the legislature as a Conservative representative.

ADVICE TO GIRLS.

Doth not your master pay tribute?—Matthew xviii, 24.

The question of taxes is one that comes home, in Daniel Webster's phrase, to our "business and bosoms." Thoreau went to jail rather than pay a tax which he thought unjust. Jesus Christ cheerfully paid tribute to a government which he neither loved nor approved.

Of the two examples I prefer that of Christ. Certainly under democracy it is unreasonable to refuse, and dishonest to evade, taxation.

If you do not like the system, you can vote against it. That is your lawful weapon of resistance.

WHY MODERATION IS WISE IN THE USE OF SALT ON FOOD.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D., United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

For years and years there has been a great dispute over the effects of salt. Some contend that the system suffers from excessive quantities; others say it makes no difference how much is taken.

Our blood and all the fluids of the body contain a rather constant salt content. We must take enough salt every day to supply this amount. If an excess is consumed, it is eliminated by the kidneys.

When salty food is taken, there is great demand for drinking water. This is called for to carry away the excess. Such an unusual supply of water may raise the general blood-pressure.

With such unaccustomed consumption of water, greater demands are made on the heart. If this organ is weak, there may be harmful results. A healthy kidney and a healthy heart will respond to this extra work. There may be complaint, but no real harm may result. If, however, the organ is on the verge of kidney trouble, the continued overwork of this organ by reason of excessive salt consumption may hurry the onset of real disease.

An appetite for salt is frequently associated with excessive indulgence in spices, pepper, relishes and other condiments. These, too, place strain on the kidneys and may raise blood-pressure.

It has been estimated that the average man eats fully ten times as much salt as the body requires. The vegetarian needs more salt than the meat eater, because the potash salts of vegetables drive out the common salt. But whether you are one sort of an eater or the other, you are probably numbered among those who overdo the use of salt.

There is always a middle path—a sensible course. "Temperance in all things" is a splendid motto. Do not begin your activity at the table by sprinkling salt over everything on your plate. Practice a little self-denial.

Everything you take into your stomach must pass through the machinery of the body. If you are in different to that machinery and don't care how soon it wears out, you need give no thought to your consumption of food. If you are wise, you are most careful and considerate of your digestive tract. Long life depends on the temperate treatment of your appetite.

Salt is needed and must be had, but be careful to use it moderately. Bring up your children to make sensible use of the spices and flavorings. Simplicity is a good rule in eating as in everything else.

Answers to Health Questions. M. L. F. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what to do for my hands?

They are always very red and rough.

2.—Kindly advise me about — A.—Each night before retiring mass. your hands with mutton tallow and when possible rinse your hands with cold water after bathing them in hot water.

2.—If you will kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, restating your question, full particulars will be given.

Y. T. Q.—I am a young man 22 years old and 11 years ago I was struck with a baseball on the nose. My nose has been one-sided ever since. Can this be corrected, and if so, where can I go for an examination and treatment?

A.—Such conditions can very often be overcome by plastic surgery. Consult a nose specialist or attend a nose clinic for an examination and treatment.

G. R. R. Q.—My heart does not beat regularly. Will this cause serious heart trouble?

A.—It would be advisable for you to have your heart examined and place yourself under the care of a physician for systematic treatment.

N. M. K. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what causes my hands to be red at all times?

A.—This condition is usually due to a nerve affection. However, an examination, including a blood-test, will determine the true cause.

R. N. Q.—Will you kindly tell me how to reduce a double chin?

A.—To make your chin less noticeable, try massaging it with an upward motion.

H. H. A. Q.—About a year ago I had my tonsils removed. Will you please tell me if it would be harmful for me to sing?

A.—No, it will not harm you in any way to sing, provided your throat is in good condition. (Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.)

Looking Abroad

Students of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, Are To Celebrate the 800th Anniversary of Its Founding By An Oldtime Fair.

The students of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, or "Bart" as it is universally known throughout England, are planning to celebrate the 800th anniversary of the foundation of that institution by offering London all the old fun of Bartholomew Fair. Balthere, that pleasant-witted gentleman, when he founded his priory, endowed it with a charter in which the king gave the priory leave to hold a three days' fair on the feast of St. Bartholomew, and forbade any man but the prior to levy dues on those that charter there was a market in Smithfield, which, week by week, brought buyers and sellers to the priory gates.

The fair, which was established within the precinct, soon became and long remained the great cloth mart of the kingdom, and its name lingers still, as the old chronicles tell, "comes out of Smithfield." Not only traders, but pilgrims to the miracle-working shrine of St. Bartholomew, for them there were religious plays, and it is on record that the parish clerks in London played "Matter From the Creation of the World" for eight days running, "after which followed jousts."

The period, however, which the students of the hospital have chosen to furnish the model of their twentieth-century fair is the Tudor. Before Queen Elizabeth was on the throne, the priory had gone and the pilgrims had ceased to come, the merchants were not so many, and the fair had become a fortnight event.

On his arrival, so a traveler of 1598 writes, "the mayor should begin to wrestle before him two at a time, and the conquerors receive rewards from the magistrats; after which a loose among the rabbits should be turned out among the commons, and the boys and men on show and dancers on the tight-rope, and, above all, the motions, which, in their popularity as well as their manner, suggested the 'movies.' They were puppets of some elaboration. "Oh, the motions that L. Lanthorn Leatherhead, have given in time!" says the man in Ben Jonson's play of the fair. "Jerusalem was a stately thing, and so was Nineveh and the city of Norwich and Sodom and Gomorrah, but the Gunpowder Plot, there was a getteny!" Mr. Leatherhead had shown it to a twenty-pence audience nine times in an afternoon.

It was his experience that other producers "put too much learning into their things nowadays." The regular theatres closed at fair time, and many of the plays were set up in booths in Smithfield. Doggett and Pinkethman, Kitty Clive and Mrs. Pritchard, Woodward and Shuter all trod the boards of St. Bartholomew. But the fair dwindled despite so much talent. It pained the refined taste of Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe," to see the "delicate shop" pigs, with sweet sauce, "could retain for it in a changing world the suifrages of the respectable."

In 1850 the lord mayor who went to proclaim it open found it unworthy of his dignity, and lord mayors made proclamations no more. But the student body of the hospital, which is past to draw upon, and though they will doubtless be obliged to use art in selection from the rich embarrassment of shows contrived by their ancestors, London is confident that they will outdo the prosperity of all the showmen of the past from Leatherhead to Richardson.

According to the provisional program, the observance will begin on Tuesday, June 5, with a service at the priory church of St. Bartholomew-the-Great, the Bishop of Chester (Dr. Paget), preaching the sermon, this will be followed at noon by what is designated the "Solemnity," in the great square of the hospital, which will be attended by delegates from various universities and the governors and friends of the institution.

The Augustinian canons now in England will sing their ancient hymn, and a brief representation of two episodes in the history of Bart's will be given. These episodes are being arranged by Richard Atkins, of the Old Vic. Theatre, while Arthur Boucher will, not for the first time, represent Henry VIII, his dress being a reproduction of his majesty's by Holbein, in the committee room of the institution. In the afternoon, the Prince of Wales, as president of St. Bartholomew's, will pay a visit to the Guildhall for the reception of addresses from the delegates.

Many Canadians visiting Europe this year undoubtedly will be attracted much further north than the usual route of the tourist lies by the celebration of the 800th anniversary of the foundation of that Swedish city. It is one of the most interesting of all the Scandinavian centres, and if politically it is the second city in the kingdom, ranking after Stockholm, the capital, Gothenburg is undoubtedly the first commercially. Spread out on the banks of the Gota River, where it flows into the North Sea, it links the ocean with the lakes of Sweden inland and the Baltic on her eastern shores by the Gota Canal, and is Sweden's chief outlet to the western world.

Founded by the great Gustavus Adolphus, Gothenburg was to take the place of the two ancient towns of Old and New Lodeon, one dating from the 13th century and the other from the 15th. As these two towns were situated some distance up the Gota River and too distant from the sea for commercial purposes, the progressive Swedish king decided to build a port that would have every advantage in locality both as regards inland communication and access to the trade sea routes.

In its early days Gothenburg was invaded by wave after wave of settlers. First, following the grant of the Royal Charter in 1523, the inhabitants of the two Lodeons migrated into it to barter their timber, from and with the Dutch for the colony's needs. A large Dutch colony was thus formed which dominated the city for many years. In time, however, the trade with the Hansatic towns grew and the Dutch were ousted by the Germans to such an extent that German became the second language in the town and was spoken with Swedish in the courts of law.

In turn, however, the Dutchmen and the Germans were displaced by the astute and enterprising Scots. These settled in Gothenburg in large numbers and associated and intermarried with the Swedes instead of forming a colony apart as had the Dutch and the Germans. It was not long before Scotsmen in the influential in society and controlled the shipping and commercial interests. These early settlers were the ancestors of the nobles, the Dicksons, the Setons, the Ramsays, the Chalmers, the Murays and the Montgomeries who today are among the leading families of the Swedish East India Company and was for many years its director. Gothenburg has always shown a decided partiality for English thought, manners and culture, and spoke English next to Swedish when the court of Gustavus III, and the Swedish nobility spoke French, and studied French literature.

During the Napoleonic wars Gothenburg alone dared to defy the Continental blockade. It became the port where British goods were landed, which from there found their way all over the continent. By a secret arrangement between the governor of the town, Count Rosen and Admiral De Saumarez, commanding the British fleet, no fewer than 1,250 British ships in one year landed their cargoes along the coast quite unmolested by the Swedish authorities in spite of Napoleon's threat to send French soldiers to aid in maintaining the blockade.

In celebrating her tercentenary with the present fair which opened on May 8, Gothenburg also exploits the progress of Sweden and in fact the entire Scandinavian peninsula. And apart from the exhibition of industries, manufacturers and exporters there are historic days of nature to convey to visitors a comprehensive knowledge of the development of Scandinavia.

ROGERS' CRIME CAREER STARTED AS BOY OF 15

MAY NAME NANTON
AS NEW DIRECTOR OF COLONIZATION

Will Be Asked To Accept the Chairmanship of Board of Management.

RAILS CO-OPERATE

Believed Federal Government Shall Undertake To Finance
New Organization.

Associated Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, May 31.—Sir Augustus Nanton, prominent Winnipeg financier, has been asked to head the reorganized Canada Colonization Association. It was learned last night from an authoritative source, according to the Free Press. Strong pressure is being brought to bear to have him accept the chairmanship of a board of management which will in future conduct the affairs of the organization, the newspaper states.

This board will comprise three representatives each from the Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and three representatives from the Dominion Government. D. C. Coleman, vice-president, P. L. Naumy, of Calgary, and Col. J. S. Dennis, commissioner of immigration and colonization, will be the representatives of the C. P. R. on the board. W. D. Robb, vice-president, A. E. Warren, general manager of western region, and E. A. Field, lands commissioner, will represent the C. N. R. The newspaper says.

Selection of the Dominion Government representatives has not been finally made, but it is understood Dr.
W. J. Black, deputy minister of immigration, will be on the board.
Complete reorganization will be effected at an organization meeting here in June. It is understood that the Dominion Government and the two railways have undertaken to finance the organization, the extent of $1,000,000, spread over a period of five years.

Steps have already been taken to run special settlers' excursions into Canada during the present summer
from all parts of the United States, and the railway companies have granted specially-reduced fares for this purpose. Headquarters for the organization in the United States has already been established in St. Paul,
and about 250 agents have been appointed south of the line, according to the Free Press. These men will be supplied with listings and maps of vacant lands in the western provinces.

HERR HOHENZOLLERN
COMES TO WINNIPEG

Accompanied by Wife, the ex-Kaiser's Son Pays Brief
Visit to West.

Associated Press Despatch.

Winnipeg, May 31.—Adalbert Hohenzollern was in Winnipeg for a very short while a few days ago, according to the Free Press. He told of the recent lifting of the embargo against the entry into Canada of German enemy aliens to cross Canada.

Herr Adalbert was accompanied by his wife, who was Princess Adelaide of Sachsen-Meiningen. They boarded a Canadian Pacific trans-Canada train at Vancouver and went east in Canada as far as Montreal,
where they caught connections for
New York, the newspaper states.
Where the couple had come from they did not say. Where they were going, they did not reveal. What they were doing in Canada they did not explain. "They were not issuing press communiques or newspaper reporters to interview them," the Free Press states.

L. & P. S. COMMISSION
MUST GIVE PAY LISTS

Dr. Stevenson Says They Must Obey Resolution of City Council.

The city council should not subject themselves to undue worry about the London & Port Stanley pay lists, asserts Dr. Hugh A. Stevenson. The aldermen should go ahead and pass a resolution demanding the same and the commissioners will have no alternative but to comply with their wish, he declares.
"The council should not experience
any further difficulty in this matter," he reasoned today. "Sir Adam Beck and his associates on the London &
Port Stanley Commission are appointed by the city council and are supposed to comply with their wishes. They represent the city's opinion on that board.
I am absolutely favorable toward the move to secure these lists," Dr.
Stevenson concluded.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY
WILL GIVE NO PREMIUMS

H. Hartley, president of the London Horticultural Society, announced today that the customary premiums will not be given to members this season.
The premiums were ordered in France, he states, but were dried up upon arrival as to be useless. Consequently there will be no spring premiums, but arrangements have been made to give double premiums during the autumn.

CHALLENGE DRURY
TO SHOW PLEDGES
ARE CARRIED OUT

Ferguson and Hay Launch Attack On Head of the U. F. O. Government.

PREMIER IS ACTIVE

Will Address Meeting of Supporters at Massey Hall on Friday.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, May 31.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, in the eastern part of the province, as leader of the Conservatives, and F. Wellington Hay, the Liberal leader, who is in the north,
continue their challenges to Premier Drury, the head of the U. F. O.-Labor Government, to show where the administration has carried out its pledges of wise and economical government of the province.

Government supporters in Toronto are preparing for a big meeting in Massey Hall here on Friday night,
to be addressed by the premier and Attorney-General W. E. Roney and the local Drury candidates. It is expected that the premier and his followers will at this meeting make reply to the allegations levelled at the administration.

Premier Drury is at present campaigning in the Ottawa Valley, where at Pembroke and Iqaluit yesterday
he made a spirited defense of the government record.

Early nominations are continuing,
and the indications are that the expectation of three-cornered contests
in the majority of the constituencies will be realized.

CHINESE UNDERWORLD
CLAIMS DRUG AGENT

Violators of Dope Laws Believed To Have Revenged Themselves on Joseph Peak.

By JUNIUS B. WOOD.

Special Cable To The London Advertiser

and Chicago Daily News, Copyright.

Canton, May 31.—Joseph Peak, widely known throughout the United States as a former government narcotic agent and later as a prohibition enforcement official, has disappeared into China's great unknown underworld. American consuls in the Orient have been notified in the hope of securing trace of his whereabouts.
In the course of his law enforcement activities, Peak has placed more than 200 Chinese violators of the Harbin drug law in American prisons, and persistent Chinese underground drug ring has finally enmeshed the American official.

Peak arrived in Canton a fortnight ago, and registered at the Asia Hotel as "Joseph McGee." He confided to American Consul Raymond Tenney that he was in China seeking the lost daughter of a wealthy American client. He showed Consul Tenney a Memphis police identification bureau picture of a Chinese woman, the kidnaper of the girl. That night he started on a tour of Canton's flower boats.
Since then he has been missing. His baggage and confidential papers remain at his hotel.

CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL
FIRE ENDANGERS LIVES

Associated Press Despatch.

Pittsburg, May 31.—Fire today swept the Children's Hospital on Forbes street, endangering lives of scores of tiny patients. Early reports were that all had been removed safely to the Elizabeth Steel Magee Hospital nearby.

FIREMEN, NURSES, PHYSICIANS AND

volunteers aided in the rescue. Little hope was held out for saving the structure, which was devoted exclusively to caring for child patients.

MANY NAMES ADDED TO LIST.

City Clerk Sam Baker reports increased interest in the provincial election. More than 200 names have been added to the voters' list since
the court of appeal opened Monday.
Ward four residents have until tonight to register claims.

EAST END TAXES WILL BE TURNED OVER TO MAYOR

City Treasurer Holding Checks
For Further Instruction
From Council.

NO RECEIPTS GIVEN

Whole Matter of Additional Annexed Area Tax Will Likely End in Litigation.

Mayor Wenige doesn't seem to know just what course to pursue now that all industries located in the annexed districts of East London
have refused to pay additional school tax imposed by the 1923 city council.

This worship "presumes" that the tax will be collected in due course
by the city tax collectors in the manner customary with delinquent citizens.

City Treasurer Bell reported today
that since yesterday afternoon none of the industries located in the annexed districts has paid their taxes in full, but had proffered what they considered to be fair.

The treasurer directed that no receipts be issued, pending action from the council, and their checks are laid aside temporarily. While instances have been noted whereby goods and chattels of delinquent taxpayers
have been seized, the city officials are obviously unwilling to adopt such drastic action in this instance without further support from the council.
From present indications, litigation
seems inevitable.

The agreement with the city, drawn at the time of annexation, they are still entitled to a fixed assessment for another four years. They submit that the city council has illegally smashed their contract, and they evidently propose to battle in the courts,
as predicted by Ald. Albert Judd,
chairman of the finance committee,
who warned the mayor and council
that this would happen.

The city treasurer states that he will hand over the entire proposition
to the mayor tomorrow.

KIWANIS TO ELECT
OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Virtually Certain Denver Will Be Awarded Next Annual Convention.

Associated Press Despatch.

Atlanta, Ga., May 31.—Election of officers, choosing of the next meeting place and disposition of routine matters occupy the delegates to the seventh annual convention of the International Kiwanis Clubs here today.

Edward Turner of Chester, Penn., and Ed. F. Arras of Columbus, Penn., are prominently mentioned for international president, to succeed George H. Ross of Toronto. Delegates say it is virtually certain Denver, Col., will be awarded the next annual convention.

Rogers' Career of Crime
Started When Fifteen

North Murderer First Sent to Kingston Penitentiary in 1916 For Shop-Breaking.

North Bay, May 31.—Yesterday a murderer was shot by the police and sentenced to a seven-year term in the Kingston Penitentiary.

Leo Rogers, the hunted desperado,
was run down at the edge of Lake Nipissing, and the body brought back to North Bay.

Thus ended a life of crime spread over seven years, started by Rogers
when a mere boy of fifteen.
Today he lies dead, only 21 years old, yet feared by all in the north as the murderer of two men.

Following is a summary of the crimes:
1916—Convicted of shopbreaking
and sentenced to a seven-year term
in Kingston Penitentiary.
1920—In jail made murderous attack upon Inspector Walter Duncan,

MILTON WILL RECEIVE
$28,500 PRIZE MONEY

Second and Third Racers at Indianapolis To Get
$10,000 and $5,000.

Indianapolis, May 31.—Tommy Milton, two-time winner of the 600-mile sweepstakes auto race, will receive $28,500 for his victory.

Of this amount, $20,000 will be first prize money and $8,500 for leading in 85 of the first 100 laps of the race.
Milton also won the first money in 1921 and is the only driver to twice carry off the first prize in the classic contest. Other prizes were: Hartz, second, $10,000; Murphy, third, $5,000;
Hearne, fourth, $3,500; Corum, fifth,
$3,000; Elliott, sixth, $2,200; Durant,
seventh, $1,800; Salior, eighth, $1,600;
Deceuria, ninth, $1,500; Morton, tenth, $1,400. The race was run in $2,000 in lap money, Murphy $1,100,
Durant $400, and Hartz $100.

NOTED FRENCH POLITICIAN IS SUFFERING BREAKDOWN

Associated Press Despatch.
Paris, May 31.—Raoul Peret, president of the chamber of deputies, is reported to have entered a sanatorium
at La Malmison suffering from a nervous breakdown, which has made him seriously ill. Paul Des-champs, M. Peret's predecessor as president of the chamber, was a patient at the same institution for several months after he resigned the presidency of the republic.

TWENTY-SEVEN WOMEN
QUALIFIED AS LAWYERS

Associated Press Despatch.
London, May 31.—Twenty-one woaminations for the British bar. Five of them passed their final examinations, thus bringing the total number of women now qualified as barristers, up to twenty-seven.

Melba May Seek Parliament Seat

Noted Prima Donna Says She Has Brains and Can Speak Well.

Associated Press Despatch.
London, May 31.—Mme. Nellie Melba, the prima donna, contemplates seeking election to the British parliament, but has not yet made a definite decision because she is still convinced from a recent operation.
"The idea has been suggested to me," the famous opera star said to the Daily Mirror, "and I am not opposed to it. After all, I can speak well and I have a few brains."

FAIR GRANT NOT NEEDED.

The contemplated additional $20-000 grant to the Western Fair will not be necessary at this time, Mayor Wenige reports. The association will be in a position to proceed without it until next year, he says. In all probability the people will be asked at the next municipal election to sanction this further expenditure.

JEWISH PEOPLE
BUILDING FINE
NEW SYNAGOGUE

Cost of Structure at Colborne and Horton Streets Will Be $20,000.

REPLACES OLD ONE

Will Be Thoroughly Modern and Have Accommodation for Congregation of 1,000.

A synagogue that when completed
will rival in beauty and architecture
the best of the Jewish churches in this province is now in the course of construction at Colborne and Horton streets. No effort is being spared to make the structure modern in every detail, and those in charge of the work have estimated it will cost between $18,000 and $20,000.

The building is being erected to take the place of the smaller edifice
that has stood on this corner for a number of years but of late has proven inadequate for the holding of the special services on Jewish festivals and on ordinary occasions as well.

In speaking to The Advertiser this morning, B. Lewis, who is directing the work, stated that the Jewish residents of London have felt for many years the need of an up-to-date house of worship and decided that there was no time like the present to erect a modern synagogue. A considerable sum has already been raised by the Jewish population to finance
the venture, Mr. Lewis said.

The building will be of red brick and about 45 feet square. Both the inside and outside will be decorated elaborately, and the building will seat
1,000 people.

In keeping with the progressive educational policy of the Jewish citizens of the Forest City concerning the training of the child, it is planned to devote the entire basement of the new synagogue to a children's school.
For this purpose the basement is being constructed 11 feet in height.

According to present plans, the structure will be finished late in the summer and the conversions will probably be laid within the next month, an occasion that will call for special and joyous ceremonies.
A synagogue of this kind and beautiful as the one that will in a short time add a touch of beauty to the district in which it will stand will call for the best in everything, and a committee is now investigating the matter of obtaining the services of a competent chief rabbi to take full charge of the synagogue.

MANY AT FUNERAL
OF DUNCAN GRAHAM

C. N. R. Yardman, Victim of Tragic Accident, Buried Yesterday.

Duncan Graham, popular yardman
of the Canadian National Railway,
who was fatally injured in the London yards Monday afternoon with all the loving ceremony that is due to one who was everybody's friend and whose whole life was pervaded by a fine spirit of fellowship and concern for those in distress.

A large representation of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, together with members of Union Lodge No. 330, of which Mr. Graham was a member, attended the services
at his late home, 169 Elizabeth street, and at Woodland Cemetery, where
the body was interred.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. R. McIntosh, pastor of King Street Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Graham was an energetic member. Floral tributes from relatives and friends were many, and were expressive of the esteem in which the well-known yardman was held in this division.

The services at the grave were in charge of the worshipful master of Union Lodge, while members of the lodge acted as pallbearers.

PRINCIPAL MOONEY SENDS RESIGNATION TO BOARD

Secretary W. A. Tanner of the board of education has received the official resignation of Principal W.
H. T. Mooney of the Central Collegiate.

The official resignation is a written request to be relieved of his duties
at the conclusion of the present school term, and like the verbal announcement of his intention to resign, gives impaired health and need of a rest as reasons for resigning.

FEAR QUEEN IN DANGER.

Years are entertained throughout Egypt for the safety of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, whom the natives believe has incurred the wrath of Pharaoh owing to her presence in

DID MYER'S BEER
PACK MORE KICK
THAN IS ALLOWED?

Case of O. T. A. Violation Against Myer Gootson Adjudged Pending Analysis.

ONLY "NEAR BEER"?

Defendant Claims He Had Nothing More Than Usual
Local Option Tipple.

Myer Gootson, described in police court this morning as the "richest man in the south end of London," appeared to answer a charge of having liquor in other than a dwelling house.

Pending analysis of the contents of three bottles of beer which Gootson claimed were merely local option stuff, and not more than two per cent alcohol, he was remanded until Monday.

The question of the analysis of the
"swag" engaged the attention of the court for some time. Gootson evidently goes on the theory that the police were trying to put something over on him, asked that he might be allowed a small breathwork of analysis from which he thought would make sure that the liquor actually tested was the same stuff taken from him by the police.

He had been running back and forth between the trees and the lake
as the police crept along, but had stopped to remove his shoes and rubbers and a pain in his back had obviously with the intention of dashing through the swamp.

One of the squad tried to push the sand at Rogers' feet. He leaped and ran.
Other shots were fired at the instant and he fell.

Fearing he was hamstringing the police pushed slowly and watchfully towards him through the tangled brush. When they arrived he was gasping his last breath.

The place was so inaccessible that it was nearly two hours before word reached North Bay.

AHEAD OF LAST YEAR

Value of Permits Since January 1 Almost $30,000 in Excess of 1922.

Building activity in London continues in excess of last year, according to the regular monthly report submitted today by Inspector A. M.
Piper.

Building and alteration permits to the value of $13,850 have been issued since January 1, as compared with permits aggregating a value of $10,495 during the corresponding period of 1922.

The past month has been particularly busy for the building trades, as permits were issued for work estimated at $500,930, as against $489,825
in May of last year.

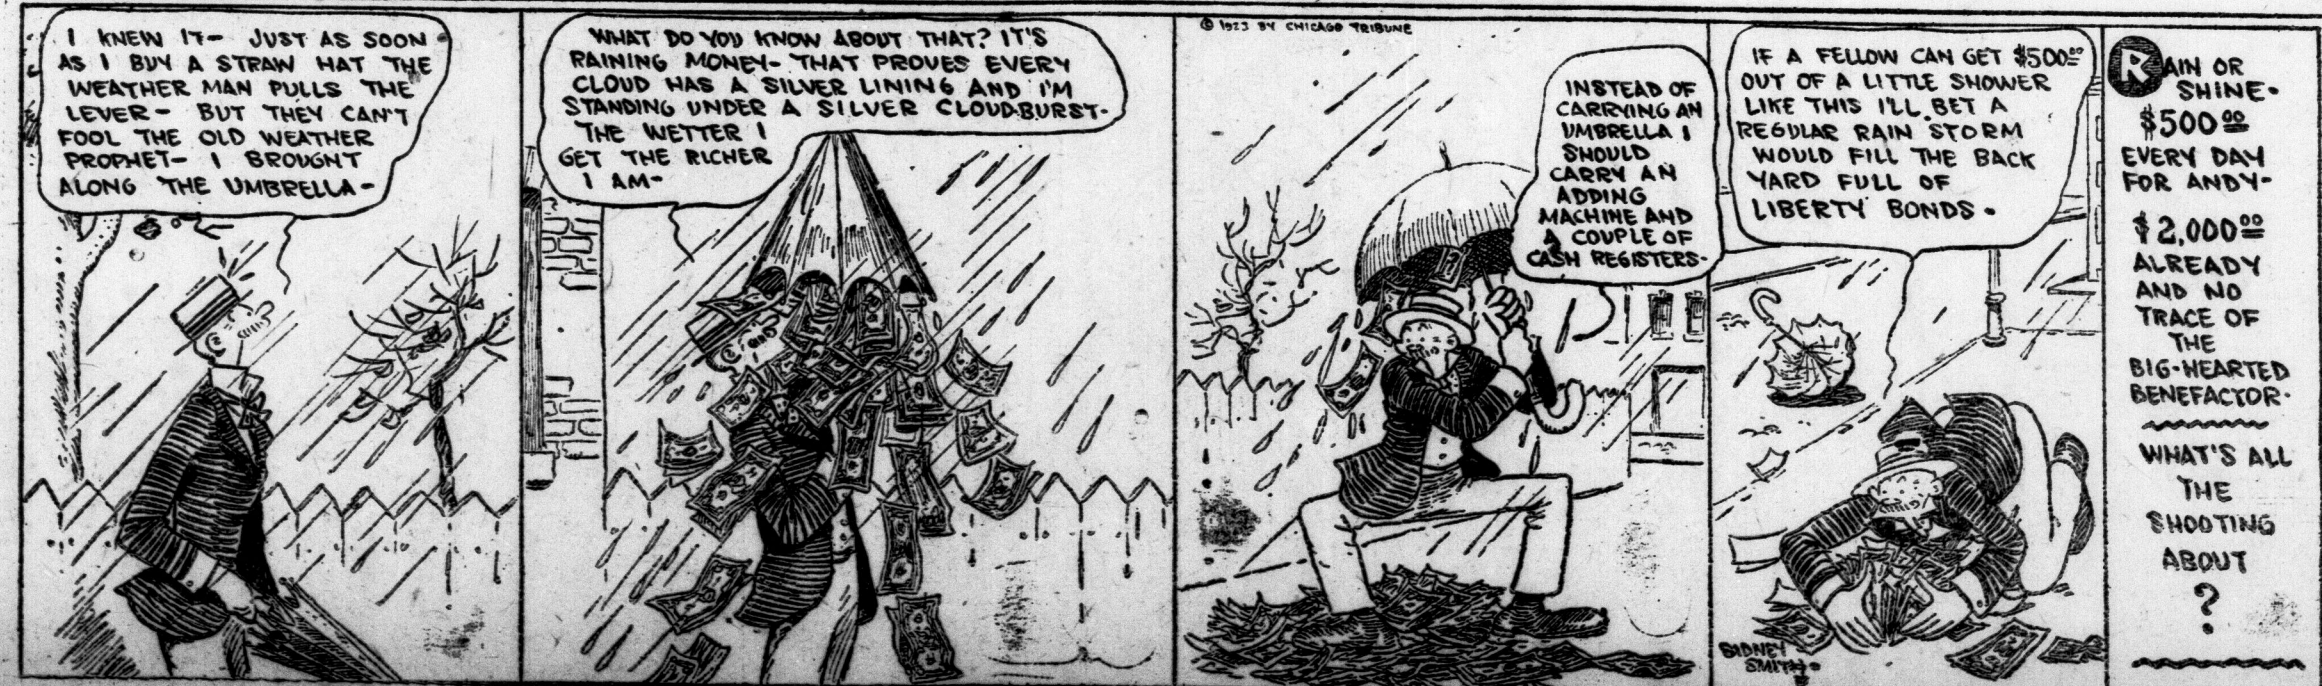

BOGUS OIL SALESMEN
ON TRIAL FOR FRAUD

Lee Family Deny Knowledge of the Masquerader Who Directed Fake Company.

Associated Press Despatch.
Fort Worth, Texas, May 31.—The government today continued to introduce witnesses in the trial of the defendants, Charles Sherwin, H. S.
Schwarz and "General" Robert A.
Lee in United States federal court
here.

The government yesterday launched its attack on the state of the defendant "General" Lee that he is a descendant of the famous Confederate general, Robert E. Lee. Two witnesses, G. T. Lee, nephew of the general, and Mrs. Harriett Lee Mon-tagne, descendants of the Virginia
Lees, testified that they were well acquainted with the descendants of their family, and they knew of no
Robert A. Lee or Aaron Lee, the defendant's father.

THE GUMPS—A SUMMER SHOWER

Trading is Confined to Industrial Issues

Impression Grows That Speculative Interests Are On the "Bull" Side.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.
New York, May 31.—Today's stock market strengthened the impression that important speculative interests were at work on the bull side. Following the precedent, however, set under all similar circumstances last year, these moving spirits were proceeding at a slow pace. They were in no hurry to push any advantage, and were willing to allow frequent lapses into dullness accompanied by reaction.
Again interest today was confined to a limited number of stocks, nearly all of them industrials, while the rest of the list was left to take care of itself. Speculative Petroleum was the only stock to do anything to speak of. It made a new high under buying operations similar to those which have been carrying the price forward for the last 30 points.
Studebaker responded to the talk of some extra declaration at the July meeting, despite the fact that this meeting is nearly two months off. This was not a real move, but on the contrary was rather encouraged in quarters which, in the past, have had a pretty good line on what the Studebaker interests were doing.
Baldwin Locomotive, at above 136 in the early trading, was above 136 in the early trading, and American Locomotive had a like gain. The latter was sold off, as did American Can, which was one of the early favorites.
Mack Truck, at above 110, was 110 points from its recent low. This rise was not, however, founded upon expectations of an immediate dividend increase, but rather upon the prospect of a very favorable showing in the earnings for the June quarter.
American Smelting was the only metal stock in which any activity developed. The buying in this case was based on the anticipation of the stock going on a $5 dividend basis in June and upon estimates of current earnings, which would make this action appear quite conservative.
General Electric's jump was due to belief that a recapitalization plan is in the making. But outside of this the advance in General Electric, as well as in Westinghouse, had a strong background in the knowledge that these companies are doing a remarkable business.

WALL STREET FEATURES.

Studebaker.—In connection with the recent strength of Studebaker further attention has been paid to the street to late figures on the company's operations since the first of the year. These show that the buying in this case was based on the anticipation of the stock going on a $5 dividend basis in June and upon estimates of current earnings, which would make this action appear quite conservative.

Everything the Farmer Trades In

Grain Markets

Winnipeg, May 30.—Some early buying by export houses followed the sharp decline in the opening of the wheat market here today and brought about price advances, the close being higher for May and 1/4c up for July, unchanged for October. The opening prices were the low for the day, while on the advance May touched 11 1/2c, and the fact that the U. S. markets were closed today tended to make the local pit somewhat quiet. While limited export trade is being worked from day to day, the foreign trader continues to show conservative attitude in his buying operations. A better foreign demand is looked for in June and July trading was not heavy on coarse grains but the market has a better undertone. Trades were steady. There was an easier tendency to the flat market, May closing 1/4c lower.

WANTED.

London property to exchange on farms. We have many good farms near London, the owners of which will exchange for London Real Estate.

$2,600—$1,000 down, south, white brick store and dwelling, now doing good business, 3 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, kitchen, summer kitchen, new 3-piece bathroom, etc. All in good shape.

$2,200—$800 down, Adelaide St., large frame cottage, 4 bedrooms, living-room, kitchen, 2-piece bathroom and furnace, 2 bedrooms up and 2 down. All nicely decorated, basement, hydro, gas, driveway.

READ CAREFULLY.

$2,500—$1,200 down, balance $15 monthly, to include principal and interest at 6 1/2 per cent. It is seldom we get terms such as this. Fine large frame cottage, 4 bedrooms and den, parlor, dining-room, kitchen, summer kitchen, hydro, gas, water, basement, veranda, very attractive-looking house, lot 60x154. This is a real speculation.

THIS ALSO IS GOOD.

$2,500—$500 down, good brick cottage, east, near Hamilton road, 3 bedrooms, parlor, dining-room, kitchenette, oak floors in parlor and 2 bedrooms. Wired for stove, base plugs, full basement in 3 parts, new 2-piece bathroom, 2 extra lots at $300 each must be purchased with this house, but all can be had for $500 down.

$5,300—North, on paved street, 1 1/2-story red pressed brick, very attractive, 3 bedrooms, 4 1/2-piece closets, hydro, gas, living-room, dining-room, kitchen, den, 3-piece bathroom and furnace, hot water, full basement, driveway. Owner must sell immediately.

SUITABLE FOR TEAMSTER.

$3,500—East, frame cottage, 6 rooms with 2 large barns. Four-fifths of an acre of land that can be sold off lots.

$7,000—Adelaide St., fine large 2-story brick, hot water heated, 4 bedrooms, 4 living-rooms, fully modern in every respect, sunroom and veranda.

MONEY TO LOAN.

$8,500—Centrally located, fine large frame pressed brick and stucco, square plan, 3 bedrooms and den, large living-room with fireplace, bright dining-room, modern kitchen, full basement with combination furnace.

Individuality is surely the keynote of this enchanting eight-roomed house. Its spacious living-room, with fireplace, oak floors and many large windows is noteworthy. A spacious veranda with wide overhanging eaves adds much to the appearance.

768 DUNDAS,

"Up From the Death Cell" The Story of a Man Who Won a Fight Against Big Odds

BY JOHN W. KANE.

Help Arrives Just In Time To Save Kane From Being Killed By Negro Prisoner

SYNOPSIS. In this story, Curly Kane, a wild lad, kills two street car men in a western state, in 1904. A second trial changes the death sentence to life imprisonment. He decides to reform his life, wins advancement and studies law. A chapel sermon leads him to decide to become a writer. After a year of failure he sells three stories for $150 in all. An insane negro prisoner traps him in his cell by a ruse.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

"What pipe?" I asked, standing perfectly still and wondering what I ought to do—I could see the man's gleam in the negro's rolling eyes.

"This one right here." He indicated the large steam pipe that extended along the wall on the floor.

"Get down and sight along it with one eye closed. If you're a mechanic, w-y, all right; but if you're not—and if he don't say what a mechanic would say about the pipe—w-y, you'll never get up from that alive—that's all."

I hesitated.

"Get down then," he repeated in that same slow drawing voice peculiar to southern negroes, "or I'll have to help you down." And he drew from inside his shirt front a short, heavy plumber's wrench that he had gotten hold of in some way.

I got down, and then began inwardly to curse myself for a fool for doing it. Why didn't I take my chances with him while I was on my feet? How long would it be before he would call on me to say the thing that he was expecting?—and if I failed to say what he wanted me to, would he smash in my skull with that wrench? What a mess I'd gotten myself into! Could there be any way by which I might humor him? What a piece of management it was to allow an insane man to run loose among other men! Why didn't someone come in? As a rule men were passing in and out there every few minutes. The boys out there were waiting for me; how long would they wait before someone came down to see what I was doing?

The Madman Kicks.

"Hey, Jack!—why don't you answer? What are you doing?" the fellow confined to his cell above called out the third time, and his voice told that he was uneasy.

"Don't talk, Steve," I called back. "Maybe I can manage it."

The madman's heavy shoe came against my side.

"And don't you do any talking, either," he growled. "You jest stick that and sight."

While my fear was as great as at the beginning, my strength was seemingly returning. That kick angered me greatly, and I very nearly acted upon an impulse to jump to my feet and close with him in a grapple. The next thought was that I would simply remain inactive and keep on sighting down the pipe.

After delivering that kick he walked across to the upright bars between that front and the side corridor, and leaned against them. Presently, because of the fact that my knees were aching from contact with the cement floor, and my head was aching also, I thought of trying to change my position.

"I always could sight better with the other eye," I remarked, without looking up, "and if it's all the same to you, I'd like to get at that end of the pipe and sight this other way."

He did not move a muscle.

"What makes yer voice shake that a-way?" he asked. "I'm not a-tryin' to scare ye—like ye tried to scare me up there."

"I know you're not," I replied, getting hopeful. "I know that you're a friend of mine; and the only thing in? As a rule men were passing in tried to scare you—but I didn't."

"Look out, now," said he, straightening to his full height and taking a step toward me. "A good mechanic don't lie that a-way, and a lyn' mechanic ought to be killed. Sometimes it's the duty of a man to kill a lyn' mechanic—and he took a new hold upon the wrench and stepped forward—and I'd rather kill one than a rattlesnake."

My Name Is Called.

I did not try to answer.

And just then I heard the voice of a third baseman, Murphy, calling my name. I knew at once that he was out in front of the building, calling out the window near my desk.

"Oh, Jack! Jack! They're waitin' on ye; they're ready to play!" And then, after another moment, "Are you up there, Jack? They're waitin' on ye!"

The sound of Murphy's voice seemed to attract the crazy dork's attention. He listened for a moment, during which I heard Murphy's foot-falls as he came up the outer steps kind of mumbled to himself.

Then the mad creature's eyes gleamed anew as he took another step toward me and began to raise his wrench.

At least four times in my life I have believed that I was near immediate death, and I surely believed it then. I felt positive that he would strike me without further waiting, and I almost cringed to feel the blow. My senses were wide awake.

It seemed an age before I heard Murphy's foot strike the cement inside, and the moment it struck I could tell that he had his spiked playing shoes on.

Then out of the corner of my eye I could see Murphy's feet and legs. I saw him stop suddenly, then saw his feet move quickly forward—and I saw him raise on his toes.

The next instant I felt the whole weight of the crazy man's body fall upon me, and I was knocked over upon my side. I scrambled to my feet.

The Spikes Land.

"God have mercy!" Murphy jerked out excitedly, taking one glance at me; then in a fraction of a second I saw him fly at the prostrate form of the negro. Right onto the dork's head he lit with his spikes and began to kick it.

"Don't, Murph!—Don't do that; the man's insane!" I pleaded, as I saw the tearing and cutting those spikes were doing. And I grabbed the angry and excited Murphy and almost jerked him to the floor.

"What do you mean?" Murphy asked, excited and stuttering. "Don't you know he'd 'a' killed you?"

"Yes, I do," I answered, "but don't you lose your head and kill him." Then the fellow on that next floor broke in again. "Say!—What's goin' on down there? Are you down there too, Murph?"

By that time Murphy was himself and stood for a moment panting and gazing at the negro on the floor. Then he took hold of his own right hand with the left and felt it.

"I hurt me first on his jaw—I caught 'im a little too high up. My feet slipped just a bit as I swung—it's a good thing I was close enough."

"Hey, down there!" came the confined man's voice again. "Why don't some of you answer me—what's goin' on?"

I took three or four steps on the stairway so my face would be even with the next floor, then I told the man hurriedly what had happened.

"And is he out yet?" he asked.

"Yes," I answered; "he's still straightened out here, and breathing rather jerky."

Mum's the Word.

"Let's get out of here and leave 'im come to by himself," was Murphy's suggestion, and then he called to the man above, "Hey, Steve! Keep mum about this—we're goin' on out to the yard."

"Sure," answered Steve. "But say, Murph, you must 'a' handed 'im some wallop."

Murphy started out without answering.

"We don't want to leave him that way," said I.

"Come along," said Murphy by way of reply. "I don't want to get locked up about this—he'll be around pretty soon anyway."

While in a way it was against my will to go so, because of Murphy's insistence, I went along with him and left the negro lying there. I wanted Murphy to let me tell the whole circumstances to the front office, but because he feared the consequences of his spiking the crazy man would be at least a couple of weeks' confinement for him, I promised just to let it go as it was.

Murphy went right on and played a fine game of ball, but I was too much unstrung to enjoy it as usual.

The negro must have come around all right, because the word was soon going the rounds that he had been found by a guard over between the shops and the boiler-room, and that he had either fallen somewhere and been cut and scratched terribly or someone had been working on him with a club.

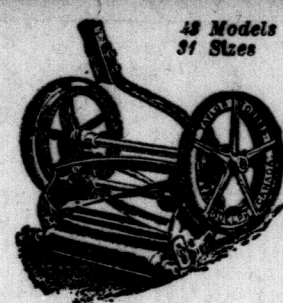

Later that afternoon another guard found the wrench and some blood on the floor and that steam pipe, and he expressed an opinion that someone had assaulted the poor harmless dork just because he could. The only three persons who, so far as I know, ever knew the straight of it were Murphy, Steve and myself.

Murphy's sentence expired four months after that and against the advice of the warden, who did no more than advise me, I transferred him enough money to pay his fare back to Chicago. The warden told me that he believed no man could make any poorer investment than I did in giving Murphy that money. But I knew something that the warden did not; and I knew that for what Murphy had done for me, a fare from there to Chicago was indeed poor recompense.

BIRD'S ROOFS

for real protection

SPARKS cannot ignite Bird's Twin Shingles. They are absolutely fire-safe and endorsed by fire-chiefs everywhere.

RAIN cannot penetrate Bird's Twin Shingles. Storms cannot blow them off. They will not curl or crack.

Safe from Fire and the Elements

THE same qualities that make Bird's Asphalt Twin Shingles impregnable to the elements, make them permanently beautiful and practically everlasting.

Their beautiful coloring—Red, Green or Blue Black—is that of the natural crushed slate with which they are surfaced. They cannot fade.

Being twin shaped and self spacing, Bird's Twin Shingles save time and labor in laying. They are the most economical in the end. Ask your dealer to tell you more about these famous shingles, or write for our free booklet "A Roof the Owner is proud of".

New Stories By O. HENRY

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

There is an item going the rounds of the press relative to the well-known curiosity of woman. It states that if a man brings a newspaper home out of which a piece has been clipped, his wife will never rest until she has procured another paper to see what it was that had been cut out.

A Houston man was quite impressed with the idea, so he resolved to make the experiment. One night last week he cut out of the day's paper a little two-inch catarrh advertisement, and left the mutilated paper on the table, where his wife would be sure to read it.

He picked up a book and pretended to be interested, while he watched her glance over the paper. When she struck the place where the piece had been cut, she frowned, and seemed to be thinking very seriously.

However, she did not say anything about it, and the man was in doubt as to whether her curiosity had been aroused or not.

The next day when he came home to dinner she met him in the door with flashing eyes and an ominous look about her jaw.

"You miserable, deceitful wretch!" she cried. "After living all these years with you to find that you have been basely deceiving me and leading a double life, and bringing shame and sorrow upon your innocent family! I always thought you were a villain and a reprobate, and now I have positive proof of the fact."

"Wh—wh—what do you mean, Maria?" he gasped. "I haven't been doing anything!"

"Of course you are ready to add lying to your catalogue of vices. Since you pretend not to understand me—look at this!"

She held up to his gaze a complete paper of the issue of the day before.

"You thought to hide your actions from me by cutting out part of the paper, but I was too sharp for you," the Houston man who has no further curiosity about woman's curiosity.

Hungarian Musician Comes To St. Peter's Cathedral

New Organist Learns His English Aboard Ship On the Way To Canada—Was Prisoner In Russia.

Straight from Budapest, Hungary, with but two weeks' knowledge of the English language as it is spoken, and that acquired only after he had boarded ship on the way to Canada! That is how things are with Louis Balogh, Ph.D., distinguished musician, who arrived in London this week to become organist at St. Peter's Cathedral. Mr. Balogh is a small man, but gives the impression of being filled with vitality. He managed to converse very well, in spite of his two weeks' knowledge of the language, but he confesses the simple Canadian by the insertion of every now and then of a French word or a German word or even a Latin or a Russian word, to help out.

He loves music, naturally, but he hates "Jazz" with a true musician's hatred, although he confesses that he has composed some "Jazz" accompaniments on "33's."

Mr. Balogh is a graduate of Budapest University in philosophy and music. He was held as a prisoner in Russia, where he was held for two years. He is not so very old even yet, although he is a master of organ music and is a composer, as well as an ardent student of orchestral music. His studies were interrupted during the late war, when he fought on the Russian frontier in the Hungarian army and was taken a prisoner to Russia, where he was held for two years. In St. Petersburg he was forced to act as musical conductor for the "Reds." For a time he was held in Siberia as a hostage. Mr. Balogh says that most Hungarians are really sympathetic towards France and England, whom they have always looked upon as friends.

Although his plans in connection with his office at the cathedral are not yet complete, Mr. Balogh expects to regulate his music according to the liturgical, motu proprio of Pius X. Mr. Balogh is now a guest at St. Peter's Seminary.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair With.

If you want to keep children's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multifid will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multifid will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather and shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

You can get Multifid coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure and ask for "Multifid" imitations. Look for the name Watkinson on the package.—Adv.

CLEVER PIANO RECITAL GIVEN AT INSTITUTE

Pupils of Thomas Martin Avere Assisted By Pupils of Miss Abbott.

A very fine piano recital was given last evening at the Institute of Musical Art by the pupils of Thomas Martin, assisted by the vocal pupils of Miss Dorinda Abbott. The orchestral accompaniments were played on a second piano by Mr. Martin.

In every number excellent musicianship was displayed, and a keen knowledge and appreciation of the masters. The piano program throughout was a difficult one, but was executed with brilliance.

The program opened with the first movement of the Bach Concerto in C Minor, played by Miss Mildred Chantler and Mr. Martin, and this number set the tone for the whole program, which was a delight until the very last strains of Miss Laura Kirkwood's rendition of Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12."

The vocal numbers were also artistically sung, and gave variety to an already enjoyable program.

The program follows: Concerto for two pianos in C Minor, first movement (Bach), Miss Mildred Chantler and Mr. Thomas Martin; "Danse Creole" (Chaminade), "Country Gardens" (Grainger) by Miss Helena McIntyre; Sonata for two pianos in D Major, first movement (Mozart), by Miss Gladys Roedding and Mr. Thomas Martin; "Aria di Poppa" (Agiropino), (Handel-Bibb), "Jeunes Filles" (Weber), "There Are Fairies at the Bottom of Our Garden" (Lohmann), by Miss Edythe Vann; "Andante" from the Concerto in G Minor for piano and orchestra (Mendelssohn), by Miss Louise York; "The Swan" (Saint-Saens), "Rendezvous" (Godowsky), by Miss Mildred Chantler; "Capriccio Brillante" in B major, first movement (Chopin), by Miss Evelyn Jarvis; "Boat Song" (Ware), "Snowflakes" (Mallinson), by Miss Alicia A. Eleman; "March Winds" (MacDowell), by Miss Gladys Roedding; Concerto for piano and orchestra in G Minor, first movement (Beethoven), by Miss Evelyn Jarvis; "A Spirit Flower" (Campbell-Tipton), by Miss Edythe Vann; "Etude in Concert" (MacDowell), by Miss Margaret Cook; "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12" (Liszt), by Miss Laura Kirkwood.

SIX CHILDREN CARRY LILACS TO HOSPITAL

Plant Their Own Gardens. So As To Supply Little Patients.

Six smiling little misses, happy because they were helping in making the lives of other little children less fortunate than themselves brighter, journeyed to the Sick Children's Hospital yesterday afternoon bearing armfuls of fragrant lilacs for the sick people.

These girls, who call themselves the "Little Gardeners," have pledged themselves to carry flowers each week to the hospital. They have planted gardens, and with the assistance of their parents are caring for them and hope to supply the patients with flowers during the summer months.

But their good work has not just commenced, as they have been meeting weekly during the winter, preparing for a bazaar, which they held recently, the proceeds amounting to $17, which they have given to the hospital committee.

The bazaar was held at the home of Mr. Hamilton, Wellington street, grandfather of one of the members, Miss Margaret Hamilton. Candy, dusters and dolls' clothing were offered for sale, and a charming little program was presented by the children.

Miss Mary Boucher is the active little president and Miss Elizabeth Fisher is secretary-treasurer. The other members are Misses Patricia Grant, Margaret Hamilton, Helen Stultworth and Norma Switzer.

I. O. D. E. LADIES VISIT WALLACEBURG SCHOOLS

Special to The Advertiser.

Wallaceburg, May 30.—Several members of the Selkirk of Baldoon Chapter, I. O. D. E., visited the public and separate schools and heard the essays on General Wolfe, which will be judged shortly and prizes awarded.

James F. S. Fraser, E. U. Dicken, son, J. Stearns, I. Wickens and Clayton Baughman were the judges.

A program of sports run off on the fourth side campus and a very pretty maypole dance by 22 little girls were big features of the day of the visit.

The Harriet Newkirk Chapter, I. O. D. E., then presented the North Side school with a big Union Jack.

At the South Side school the pupils, under the direction of their principal, Miss Josie McCallum, went through their exercises.

Be the woman with a bountiful supply of delicious Jams and Jellies on the home shelf. Let CERTO help you!

With CERTO there are no re-boilings, no wasted batches of fruit and sugar—anyone can make perfect jam or jelly with any fruit. Only one minute's boiling required; this saves color, fragrance and flavor. No juice is boiled away; with CERTO you get one-half more product at less expense per jar.

CERTO (Surejell)

CERTO is a pure fruit product; Mother Nature's own jelly-maker concentrated. It contains no gelatine nor preservative. With CERTO you can make the best jam and jelly you ever tasted. CERTO is sold by grocers (free Recipe Book wrapped with every bottle).

Douglas Packing Co., Ltd. Cobourg, Ont.

For this jam it is necessary that each berry be broken up. Therefore, crush about 2 quarts ripe berries in separate portions, so the berry is mashed. This allows fruit to quickly absorb the sugar during the short boil. Measure 4 level cups (2 lbs.) crushed berries into large kettle, add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for one full minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (about 1/2 cup) CERTO. From time jam is taken off fire allow to stand not over 5 minutes, if in jars seal at once and invert for 10 minutes to sterilize the tops. Use same recipe for Strawberry, Blackberry or Logberry Jam.

Pineapple and Strawberry Jam. Crush well about 1 qt. ripe berries. Put pineapple through food cutter, or chop very fine. Measure 2 level cups (1 lb.) of each into large kettle. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard for 1 minute, remove from fire and stir in 1/2 bottle (about 1/2 cup) CERTO. Skin and pour quickly.

Dean Sherwood Fox and Mrs. Fox, accompanied by their daughter Catharine, are motoring to Toronto on Saturday, and will spend the week-end with another daughter, Miss Emma, who is attending Moulton College.

Mrs. Robert Tagg and Mrs. James Hendry expect to attend the Sons of Scotland convention to be held in Toronto about the 28th of June, when they will represent the local branch of the Daughters of Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Burnham, son of Winnipeg, were recent guests with their son, Mr. John Burnham, and Mrs. Burnham, Lorne avenue, going on to visit friends in Montreal. Mrs. Burnham upon her return to London will make an extended visit in the city.

Mrs. George T. Carley of Lambeth entertained recently in honor of Mrs. Freeman Doyle of Iowa and Mrs. Joseph Humphries of California. Another function to be given in honor of Mrs. Humphries and Mrs. Doyle is a tea on Thursday, at which Mrs. Wesley Woodhale is the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Murray have taken up their residence in Burwell street, having returned from the west, where they spent several months with their son, Dr. Thomas F. Murray, in Calgary, and their daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Philip Smythe, in Big Valley, Alberta.

Mrs. B. C. McCann, dominion treasurer for the Catholic Women's League leaves next month for Halifax to be present at the Dominion Council, Women's League convention being held there on June 14. She will be accompanied by Mrs. George Dawson of Sarnia, the voting delegate for the London district.

Mrs. Wylie of Kamloops, B.C., accompanied by her daughter, Miss Marion Wylie, who has been attending Toronto University, are guests with Mr. and Mrs. George P. Brickenden, Queen's avenue, for a day on Tuesday night. Mrs. Arthur Brickenden arranged a small theatre party in honor of Miss Wylie.

Nine London ladies have entered the provincial championship golf tournament to be held in Brantford next week. They are Mrs. Ronald Harris, president of the London Club, Miss Helen Baker, secretary, Miss Marion Beck, Miss Audrey Farncombe, Mrs. G. Quintin Warner, Mrs. W. G. Webster, Mrs. Ernest L. Willems, Mrs. Basil Sterling and Miss Jo Belmont.

Miss Kathleen White and Miss Lorraine White were joint hostesses of a charming bouquet shower, given at the former's home on Dundas street yesterday in honor of Miss Margaret Johnston, whose marriage takes place next month. Many dainty gifts were received by the guest of honor, and later tea was served from a table attractive with spring flowers. Mrs. Fred White and Mrs. Frank White presided at the tea hour. The guests were: Miss Johnston, Mrs. Oat Rehnitzer, Misses Jean Jarvis, Doris Belton, Gwen Scandrett, Connie Masurek, Dorothy Durand, Kathleen Coles, Bessie Chisholm, Shirley White, Marian Stoddart, Kitty White and Margaret Coleman.

ASK RESIGNATIONS FROM MEMBERS OF COMMISSION

Finance Committee of Council Seeks Pay List of
L. & P. S. R.

WILL RETAIN WRIGHT

Mayor Wenige refuses absolutely to argue and bicker longer with Sir Adam Beck and members of the London and Port Stanley Railway Commission and at last night's session of the finance committee he moved that their resignations be sought immediately.

His recommendation goes to the city council Monday night next coupled with a further suggestion from Ald. Gordon Drake that the council tender another request for the pay list before such drastic action is contemplated.

As to be expected, Ald. William Arthur Wilson opposed both measures.
"I vote against this if I have to vote alone," he asserted, and he voted alone, as all the other members were quite willing that the mayor's proposal go to the council for a definite ruling.

Ald. John Colbert will support Mayor Wenige upon one condition—that Donald Wright be retained and Sir Adam Beck, chairman, Percy
Moore and Frank Harley be retired.
His worship agreed, pointing out that Commissioner Wright was ready to accept the council's request—
the publication of the L. & P. S. R.
salary list in the municipal year book.
"Last night's development, long expected, projects the pay list squabble into the provincial arena, and the vengeance, and is accepted by many close observers of the local political situation as a sure indication that Mayor Wenige is massing his batteries prior to his entrance into the fight against Sir Adam.

Questions Method.
"That's a pretty stiff recommendation," ejaculated Ald. Drake, as the mayor moved for the resignations of the entire commission.

"Well, you told me to get that list
and this is the only way," retorted Mayor Wenige.

"Listen, now, I'm not opposed, but I didn't quite catch that motion," Ald.
Burdick hastened to explain.
"It's easy to catch on to. It only requires the nerve," advised Ald.
Colbert.

"We want this information and we can't get it from Sir Adam and his associates. What are you going to do about it?" demanded the mayor.

"I understand that Commissioner Wright is willing to give this data," pointed out Ald. Colbert. "Why should you include him?"

"It is not necessary. We'll remove the others," concurred Mayor Wenige.
"They are appointed by separate by-law and we'll rescind each one."

"Then I'll support you," promised Ald. Colbert.

At this juncture Ald. Gordon Drake acknowledged that he was getting "cold feet," although he declared
the session that he would ultimately vote to "clean them all out."
If they still refused to pass over the pay list after another request from the council.

"I'll not vote for this," asserted Ald.
Wilson, acting chairman. "You may
as well know that much now."

"Are there other members of the commission who will give the list
other than Commissioner Wright?"

of Health.

Rock E. Boisseau, 1334 Chabot street, Montreal, Que., is still another popular young citizen to come forward with a public endorsement of Tanlac.

"Tanlac did me so much good," he states, "that every member of my family except my father has taken it, too, and all have benefited. As for myself, I was in a badly run-down condition, and felt weak and worn out all the time. I gradually lost weight, and was a long way from my usual good health."

"But a few bottles of Tanlac made me feel like a different man. I began to gain weight, my old-time energy came back, and my work is now a real pleasure. Tanlac is the best medicine I ever saw."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37,000,000 bottles sold.

ture's own remedy for constipation.

Why Do French Women Always Look Young

In France mothers and daughters
look like sisters. How are the women there able to retain their youthful looks until long past middle age? It is known that they are much given to the use of mercurial. This is a poisonous and remarkable absorbent property which quickly removes the fine particles of cuticle which are the immediate cause of an old-looking complexion. Thus the French, healthier younger skin beneath is given a chance to breathe and show itself.
You can try this treatment yourself.
In less than two weeks your complexion
will be as clear, soft and beautiful as a young girl's. One ounce of mercurial will suffice. (all Canadian druggists have it) will suffice. This is put on night-like cold cream.

DORCHESTER CHURCH PLANS LORD'S SUPPER SERVICE
Special to The Advertiser.
Dorchester, May 30.—The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed next Sunday in the local Presbyterian Church. The pastor, Rev. D. Stewart, will be assisted in the service by Rev. J. H. Anderson of Chatham, New Brunswick. Mr.
Anderson is a commissioner to the general assembly, which meets next week at Port William. He is stopping at his way to pay a visit to his sister-in-law at the manse, Dorchester.

How about Frank Harley?" asked
Ald. Drake.

"Commissioner Harley is sitting in the middle of the fence," reported the mayor.

"Are you not entitled to get this list as a member of that commission?" the mayor was asked.

"Yes, but I can't get it in the proper form and I haven't the time to prepare it suitably for the council," he explained.

"You have me in a corner," countered Ald. Drake. "I move that we ask again as the council."

Wilson Opposes.
"We don't want any further discussion here," admonished Ald. Wilson. "In any event, I am voting against it if I vote alone."

"Well, that's your privilege," cautioned Ald. Burdick. "I'm not saying how I will vote in the council."

"Well, you'll see how far you will get," forecasted Ald. Wilson. "See what Harley has said."

"I don't care what Harley says," retorted Ald. Drake. "In any event, I may vote to fire them all before we get through."

At the investigation of the mayor
also the committee surveyed the Victoria Park controversy, and a resolution was passed that the council recommends that the police commissioners that they enforce the council by-law of 1922 that vehicles be kept out of these grounds.

"I second that motion," declared Ald. Drake. "We want the police to enforce this law just as they would
the law pertaining to a person carrying a gun."

It will cost $750 to engage the services of the citizens' research bureau
to investigate both the police and fire departments, Mayor Wenige reported, and a recommendation was forwarded to the council that the terms be accepted.

During the consideration of a request from the authorities of the age-people's home, that the city advance its fee per patient from 60 cents to $1 cents, Ald. Greer suggested that this institution also come under the notice of the research bureau as much information may be obtained.

The committee will seek information as to rates from other institutions. It was a decision of the request from the public utilities commission for sanction of a $250,000 debenture issue, of which $15,000 represents a proposed waterworks department expenditure for meters to save millions of gallons of water.

Advices Caution.
Mayor Wenige directed the attention of his colleagues to their resolution passed early in the year that they do not sanction debenture issues for amounts in excess of what they were raising. He stressed the fact that to accede to the wishes of the commissioners they would have to upset their adopted "pay-as-you-go" policy.

Ald. George Burdick was the only member who gave any indication that he would stand by the resolution, and Manager Buchanan, answering the question if they could get along without this money, stated that they could and "close up shop."

Mayor Wenige protested that any project should be in a position to get aside, an adequate sum for future development or else it was not being conducted properly. He maintained that they should look constitently toward a lowered debt charge,
and not continue to regard the financial situation as in past years—how much more can we borrow. He contended that interest was responsible for 14 mills of the present tax rate.

Manager Buchanan and members of the committee disputed the mayor's argument throughout, and the request was finally referred to the council to halt all further parley.
Application for the $250,000 was offered by the city council for information leading to the arrest of Leon,
the recently convicted fire-bug, was received and laid aside until the police department can furnish definite detail as to who did actually lay the original information.

A tax bill of $12 was presented by the Hamilton Taxicab Company, purporting to be for service—conveying Detective Harry Down from Grimsby to Hamilton while engaged on duty concerning the Murrell case. It was referred to the police commission.

Why the bill ever came to the committee was questioned, and it was explained that there had been some dispute in connection with it. The committee ruled that it was none of their affair.

Lord Curzon's Note In Reply Is Sent To Leonid Krassin, Bolshevik Envoy.

Associated Press—Despatch.
London, May 31.—A British memorandum dealing with Russia's last reply to Lord Curzon's note was communicated to Leonid Krassin, the Bolshevik representative yesterday,
according to the Daily Herald. It accepts, with slight reservations, Russia's offer regarding the payment of compensation for the seizure of British travellers and for the execution of Charles F. Dawson, and the arrest and detention of Mrs. Stan Harding, a newspaper correspondent, and for the withdrawal of the two Weinstub-notes written in reply to the British protest over the prosecution of church officials, which notes Great Britain considered offensive.

It is asserted that the memorandum
also tacitly abandons the charge that the Soviet is financing British Communist but declares the Russian reply with respect to Russian propaganda in Asia is unsatisfactory, and demands that the Russia representatives at Berne and Kabul shall be withdrawn.

According to the Daily Herald, the memorandum affirms Great Britain's willingness to take the initiative in calling an international conference to settle the question of the extent of territorial waters.

Special to The Advertiser.
The number of delegates registered
for work in Northern Ontario,
particularly in the Cobalt district. He said that although some of the churches there had been closed,
they had done good work while they
existed, and had been the means of
passing new life along to other
churches in new districts. Mr.
France was certain that with the
increased development of mining
there would be an opening that should not be allowed to pass.

Quiet Hour.
Mrs. T. Doolittle of Forest conducted an impressive "Quiet Hour,"
while Mrs. A. F. Matthews of Den-
field gave a reminiscent sketch of the history of various mission circles.

Miss L. M. Jones, missionary, on furlough from India, was introduced
to the association. The Baptists are responsible for reaching 5,000,000
people in India, and to do that they have only 91 missionaries. There was
a danger, she thought, of present-day
life being spoiled by thinking too
much of pleasure and entertainment

were presented at the first day's meeting of the golden jubilee session
of Middlesex and Lambton Association of Baptist Churches, circles and bands. The sessions are being held in the Strathroy Baptist Church and will be continued on Thursday and Friday.

The number of delegates registered
for work in Northern Ontario,
particularly in the Cobalt district. He said that although some of
the churches there had been closed,
they had done good work while they
existed, and had been the means of
passing new life along to other
churches in new districts. Mr.
France was certain that with the
increased development of mining
there would be an opening that should
not be allowed to pass.

Quiet Hour.
Mrs. T. Doolittle of Forest conducted an impressive "Quiet Hour,"
while Mrs. A. F. Matthews of Den-
field gave a reminiscent sketch of the

Miss L. M. Jones, missionary, on furlough from India, was introduced
to the association. The Baptists are responsible for reaching 5,000,000
people in India, and to do that they
have only 91 missionaries. There was
a danger, she thought, of present-day
life being spoiled by thinking too
much of pleasure and entertainment
for self, rather than service for others.
