McCULLOUGH CHALLENGES STUDENTS.

Thursday morning George McCullough, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail. spoke to the Economics and Political Science students. His main theme was the necessity of becoming politically conscious in an attempt to clean up the field of "corrupt" politics. He put the problem right at everyman's door. If there is corruptness in politics "look in the mirror" for the man responsible. "Choose your association," he said, "and get in and work. Politics is corrupt clean it up."

If we as university students do not accept that challenge, how can we ever expect to get good government? How can we expect the best man to get elected when so many men prostitute their right to a secret ballot by accepting a bottle of cheap liquor for their vote? It will be a hard battle to enter an existing political machine and clean it up, but that is just what we must do in some cases.

Every person has a responsibility toward his government. He should take a definite part in it, otherwise he is not fit for citizenship in our country Canada, a country which has perhaps the greatest future of any land in the McCullough suggests that we each join the political organization of our interest and then fight for it in a search for truth. He did not say we should particularly join his party. The important point is to take part in polities. We have three parties in our immediate political field.

BUDGET MEETING TONIGHT.

Tonight the S. R. C. is having its yearly budget meeting. How the students' money is spent during the term will be determined by our S. R. C. representatives, but they will be influenced by students' wishes. If you have any complaint about the way student levies are being used, go to that meeting and speak your opinion. There are many interesting points in this term's budget such as $850 the Flying Club is budgeting for, or the two dollars ladies' baske ball teams budget for oranges and gum when the men's teams budget only for one dollar for their oranges and gum. Go to the S. R. C. meeting and all these things will be explained.

U-Y Wants Co-eds

"But where are the co-eds?" was the momentous question which was unanimously shouted by a large gathering of hopeful U. Y. members.

Drinking Song (La Traviato)

The cause of this sudden outburst on an otherwise peaceful Sunday evening was brought about by a conscientious (?) gentleman who had asked that since there was nothing in the constitution to prevent it, why weren't there members of the opposite sex enrolled in U.Y. He dded that it was of his opinion that girls might liven up the U. Y. meetquickly agreed upon by the other kins. members. After much wild clamoring and very little discussion, practically all the gentlemen, voted to welcome all co-eds who might be so intelligent as to wish to belong to uch an organization.
