

ST. GEORGE, N. B.
 Dec. 5.
 A number of the friends of Mrs. T. R. Kent gathered at her lovely home on Wednesday evening last. The day marked another milestone in the age of their kind hostess on many occasions, and that her kindness had been appreciated was well shown by the number and variety of the remembrances of the day brought by the visitors. Mrs. Ollie Kennedy also came in for felicitations, it being her birthday also. A very pleasant evening of music, dancing, and games followed.

Miss May Epps entertained a large number of young friends on Wednesday evening, in honor of her visitor, Miss Hanson, of St. Stephen. Miss Hanson left for her home the next day.

The "Ever Faithful" met at the home of Miss Helen Taylor on Tuesday evening and at Mrs. Kent's on Wednesday.

Mrs. James Brydon entertained the members of the Red Cross on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Several sleighing parties drove to Littleton on Tuesday evening, and spent a few hours with friends.

Manager Plude, of the Pulp Company, in order to save a day, drove to St. Stephen on Wednesday and brought back the casing for the power wheel. The mills, pulp and granite, have been shut down the past two weeks awaiting the arrival of the machinery from Sherbrooke. Train accommodations are very bad since the change of time table on the N. B. Southern. Express parcels do not come every day as formerly and the train service is wretched.

The political contest is quiet, voters are doing more thinking than usual. Many former active workers are conspicuous by their absence from party headquarters, and experts are prepared for a big surprise. Canvassers that in former elections proclaimed good results are meeting with contempt in this contest and leaders are in the air, to a great extent.

BOCABEC, N. B.
 Dec. 3.
 Instead of joy bells the people of Bocabec rang Telephone bells on Tuesday when it was learned that Pie, Curtis G. Lowery, a hero of Vimy Ridge, had returned home. Curtis looks hale and hearty, with the exception of a game arm. On Thursday, Nov. 29, a well-attended political meeting was held in the Bocabec Hall. Max Groom, acting as Chairman, made a few remarks of welcome to the speakers, and in turn introduced the Liberal candidates, W. F. Todd, and Dr. Alexander and Edward McGrattan, of St. George, and Mr. Wright, of Beaver Harbor. Again on Friday evening, Nov. 30, Chas. McCullough presided over a meeting held in the interest of the Union Government, the speakers being Union candidate, Thomas A. Hartt, Dr. H. E. Taylor, of St. George, and Dr. Wallace Broad, of St. Andrews. All the speakers received a perfect hearing and at the close of each meeting there was the feeling of goodwill that has always been felt at election time in St. Patrick.

 Paints and Varnishes

Fire may never come, but the deteriorating effect of the weather on buildings of every kind is certain, unless protected by paint.

Unprotected wooden surfaces crack and become open and porous, then decay and rot starts. This means expensive repairs, which can all be avoided by the regular use of paint.

Examine your buildings now—A little money spent in painting at once may save you much larger expenditure a little later.

Sherwin-Williams Paint, Prepared, is the ideal paint for outside use. It is made of the purest and best materials, thoroughly mixed and ground by powerful machinery according to special formulae, the result of years of experiment and experience in paint making.

PROGRESS OF THE WAR

In the week under review the war entered the forty-first month of its course, and the situation was such that the end could not be even dimly perceived, though the final result was more positively assured. In the Western campaign occurred some of the very fiercest fighting of the war, in the Cambrai salient, pretty well over the whole of the new front from Moeuvres through Bourlon Wood, Marconing, La Vacquerie, and Gonnelleu to Villars-Guislain.

THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN

UNDER the above caption we referred in our last issue to the organized interruption in Quebec Province of all public meetings held in favor of Union Government candidates; and about the time the article was being written there occurred at Sherbrooke a disgraceful scene which we describe in another column. This brutal outrage, and the outcry of indignation throughout Canada which followed it, seemed to have impressed upon Laurier Liberal campaign leaders the undesirability (to put it mildly) of continuing such methods of political warfare, only comparable with the German outrages perpetrated in France, in Flanders, and on the high seas.

RT. HON. SIR ROBERT L. BORDEN

SUPPORTED BY TWO "HIDE-BOUND" LIBERALS SPEAKS IN THE INTEREST OF UNION GOVERNMENT AT AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING IN ANDRELEOUE HALL.

The Premier of the Dominion, Sir Robert Borden, was accorded a splendid reception when he addressed the people of St. Andrews on Tuesday afternoon. The Andreleo Hall was crowded with an earnest and enthusiastic audience. The first speaker to be introduced to the meeting by the chairman, Mr. Wallace Broad, was the former M. P., and it is hoped the future Unionist M. P., for the County of Charlotte, Mr. T. A. Hart.

between St. John and St. Andrews that the number of visitors to the town from that quarter could be greatly increased. It was always a pleasure to come to St. Andrews. Sir ROBERT L. BORDEN In introducing Sir Robert Borden, the speaker for whose address the audience had been eagerly looking forward and whose coming forward was greeted with prolonged cheering, the chairman said that Sir Robert's patience in the conducting of affairs of state could only be likened to the patience of Job, but even Job indulged in language that he believed was unprintable when provoked beyond endurance, and it seemed that the time had come for the Premier to throw aside some of his patience.

our common enemy. He had realized that more troops must be sent to them from Canada and that more were forthcoming by voluntary enlistment. To enforce compulsory service was hard, but it was the only alternative, and it was a new law in the Canadian Statutes. In 1904 Sir Wilfred Laurier enacted a compulsory service law which included men from 18 to 60 years of age, who were to be selected by blind chance. The present law required the services of men from 20 to 45 years of age and allowed for the selection in the fairest way possible to devise in order to get the best service for the country's good. No man who was being served by his country by producing food or ammunition was, in the final appeal, refused exemption; and secondly to the highest court, a supreme Judge of exemptions had been appointed last at Ottawa. Even if a man who was needed at home for other genuine reasons was drafted into the army, he could be returned to his home by the military authorities. Laurier said that a referendum was necessary before conscription could be made a law. If Laurier is returned to power he will have with him seventy or seventy-five men who do not believe that Canada should stay in the war. Should Canada back out now her name would be covered with shame. The Russians have carried a referendum, and we know the result. We do not realize the awful man than Borden. Now was the time to good work now. Now was the time to forget. We just had to decide if we would vote for the Kaiser, Bourassa, and Willie Todd; or for the King, Union Government, and Tommy Hart. He asked Pte. McQuoid how the soldiers in the trenches wanted to vote, and was told they wanted us to vote for the Union Government. Procrastination was suggested for us, and he was reminded of a horse story. Maurice said Lewis a horse man told him that the horse could trot in 2.10. Lewis entered the horse for forthcoming race and trotted pretty heavily as the horse trotted in 3.10. Maurice's reply to Lewis's complaint was "Well, it he trotted in 3.10 instead of 2.10 couldn't you have waited a minute." We did not wait to wait a minute and lose this war. He had been a staunch Liberal until Laurier's manifesto was published, he was all through with Laurier then. He did not believe that Laurier was a greater man than Borden, he had lived in a better age than that was all. Did we know that he felt sorry for Will Todd and Laurier? They did not know what they were up against. This was not a time for politics, all members should have been returned by acclamation, for the cause at stake was a matter of life and death. We are living in an age that cannot be repeated, and Canada at war would be disgraced if she did not vote to support a joint government of Liberals and Conservatives and against procrastination which would bring the Germans into our midst.

SOME UNUSUAL WAYS OF SERVING CANNED SALMON

There are about 60,000 tons of salmon taken on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts in an average year, and the bulk of this catch reaches the consumer prepared for use in the familiar can, but the number of ways of serving canned salmon is almost unlimited, and below will be found some of the less common methods.

Salmon Chateaux: Soak two tablespoons of gelatin in one half cup of cold water. Put one tablespoon of chopped onion, one tablespoon of chopped carrot, and one bay leaf in two cups of cold water and bring to the boil and boil for four minutes. Add dissolved gelatin, strain and add the juice of one lemon, half a teaspoon of salt, and a few grains of cayenne. Put a layer of this in the bottom of a jelly mould, and when firm cover with a layer of canned salmon then pour over the remaining portion of the gelatin. Serve with a mayonnaise dressing if desired.

Salmon Croquettes: Make a white sauce with half a cup of milk and one tablespoon each of butter and flour; when the sauce thickens break into it the contents of one can of salmon and add a little lemon juice. Form the mixture into balls, roll in bread crumbs and fry in hot lard.

Salmon Salad: Flake one can of salmon fine and mix with it one cup of finely chopped cabbage, one cup of finely chopped celery, a pinch of salt, and a little paprika. Chill and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

Salmon Salad: To one large can of salmon put one cup of chopped celery, one cup of chopped nuts, and four or five sweet pickles. Mix well with cream mayonnaise.

Salmon Sandwiches: To a one pound can of salmon add one tablespoon of salad dressing, two tablespoons of finely chopped sour cucumber pickles, one teaspoon of onion juice, and half a teaspoon of mixed salt and pepper. Mix all thoroughly and spread between thin slices of bread.

Baked Salmon Loaf: Grease a good sized baking dish and sprinkle it with browned cracker crumbs and then line with mashed potatoes. Drain the oil from a can of salmon and remove the bone and skin. Season the salmon with salt and pepper and pack it into the dish. Cover with mashed potatoes and a layer of browned cracker crumbs, and put a few pieces of butter on the top. Bake for one half hour in a fairly hot oven. To serve turn it out of the dish and pour parsley sauce over it.

Salmon Turnovers: Make a light dough as for shortcake; take one can of salmon and remove the skin and bones, and drain of the liquid from a can of peas. Roll out a piece of dough about six inches across. Place on the dough one tablespoon each of peas and salmon, a little salt and pepper and some butter. Moisten the edges of the dough with cold water, turn them over and press them together with a fork. Bake in a moderate oven until a delicate brown.

Potted Salmon: Scald and drain three cans of salmon; remove skin and bones. Rub together in a bowl half a salt spoon of paprika, half a teaspoon of mace and a level teaspoon of salt. Mix half of this spice mixture with the salmon and place it in an earthenware baking-dish. Wash free from salt one half pound of butter; put half the butter and one clove of garlic, thinly sliced, over the salmon. Cover and bake for half an hour. Remove the salmon on to a platter; now put the remainder of the washed butter into the baking dish and set aside until the salmon is cold; then add the remainder of the spice mixture to the salmon and another clove of garlic, peeled and mashed; rub the salmon until smooth, then pour the contents of the baking-dish over it and mix well. Pack into small jars, and it will be ready for use in twenty-four hours. Covered with melted paraffin it will keep in a cool place for weeks.

Scalloped Salmon: Make a white sauce of a tablespoon of melted butter rubbed smooth with a heaping tablespoon of flour, and a pint of milk. Cook until it thickens, stirring constantly; add a little salt, pepper, and paprika, to taste. Remove the skin and bones from a can of salmon and separate the flakes with a fork. Butter a pudding-dish and place in it first a layer of bread crumbs and then a layer of salmon with white sauce poured over it, and continue till the dish is full, letting the top layer be one of bread crumbs. Put bits of butter on top and bake in the oven for about twenty minutes, or until thoroughly heated through and brown on top.

Salmon Hash: Flake coarsely one can of salmon. Melt two tablespoons of butter in a hot saucepan and stir into it one cup of rolled cracker crumbs, and then the salmon; mix together and season with pepper, salt, and a little cayenne. Mix one-fourth of a teaspoon of dry mustard with the oil that was on the salmon, and stir it into the mixture; then add one cup of milk. When the whole is well heated through and thick it is ready to serve. This makes an excellent dish to prepare on short notice.

Salmon Stuffed Hot Rolls: Take ordinary full-crust rolls. Cut off the tops of the rolls, scoop out the crumbs, brush inside and outside with melted butter, and put into a hot oven until they are a delicate brown. Fill the heated cases with creamed salmon, cover and serve.

Savoury Salmon: Cook in two heaping tablespoons of butter one finely-chopped green pepper, one minced onion, and one chopped tomato (or half a cup of canned tomatoes). Add one cup of milk, and stir until the pepper and onion are soft; add one can of salmon, drained and minced; simmer and serve hot.

"Fine pair of spurs you have there, Colonel." "Yes." "I suppose you won them on some battlefield." "No," said the Colonel, with some embarrassment. "The fact is, I won these spurs at a raffish."

ANIMAL CRACKERS

ANIMAL crackers, and cocoa to drink. That is the finest of suppers, I think. When I'm grown up and can have what I please, I think I shall always insist upon these.

What do you choose when you're offered a treat? When Mother says, "What would you like best to eat?" Is it waffles and syrup, or cinnamon toast? Is it cocoa and animals that I love most!

The kitchen's the coziest place that I know. The kettle is singing, the stove is aglow, And there in the twilight, how jolly to see The cocoa and animals waiting for me.

Daddy and Mother dine later in state, With Mary to cook for them, Susan to wait; But they don't have nearly as much fun as I.

Who sits in the kitchen with Nurse standing by; And Daddy once said, he would like to be me, Having cocoa and animals once more for tea!

AN APPEAL TO THE WOMEN VOTERS

To the Women of St. Andrews:

There has been nothing more beautiful since the war began than the devotion of the women-folk of the soldiers to their men, living in discomfort and danger. The women have, in the great majority of cases, abandoned every other interest in life, and given themselves up entirely to working for the boys at the Front. They knit them warm socks for the wet trenches, they send them heavy sweaters to keep out the searching cold of a Flemish winter, they ship them all sorts of comfortable garments and familiar delicacies.

Their minds can dwell upon nothing but their best beloved ones on the battle front, how they can comfort them, sustain them, keep them in good health and good heart, and enable them to press on like good soldiers. Is it conceivable that they will work night and day to give these soldier boys of theirs mere bodily comfort and then will not spare half-an-hour to cast a vote, which will give these men the one thing they most covet—the reinforcements which will bring Victory? Surely, the woman will be hard to find who will desert her husband, father, brother or son, who is risking his life to insure her safety while he is in the very act of facing a deadly enemy whose bullets to some cry to heaven. His women are called upon to vote whether or not reinforcements are to be sent to support and to relieve him. Strangers might be indifferent to his sufferings, his danger or his fate but assuredly not his very own. If his loved one in his own home cannot be trusted to do all in their power to enable him to "carry on" and take this deadly risk for a longer time, who else will do it?

It is impossible to believe that this appeal from the fathers, husbands, brothers and sons of the Front will be disregarded by their sincerely loving, and anxiously listening, and devotedly laboring women-folk at home. They will vote as they have been working and longing and hoping. They will not give their beloved everything else, but deny them this one thing most desperately desired.

This is the time of great testing. Party allegiance is a strong tie; old associations and friendships are hard to break; old shibboleths have force long after their meaning is lost. But hundreds of good Canadians have to choose to-day between fond, familiar phrases and their own deep-seated sense of duty to their own country. Over in France, Grits and Tories, French and English, Orange and Catholic, are fighting together and sleeping peacefully side by side under the same white cross. Their cause is our cause. More than that, they themselves are our cause, their sacrifice is our debt, their blood a bond we must redeem. We sent them and we must support them there until their work is done, with the King's peace over all.

THE WOMEN'S UNIONIST ASSOCIATION
PARTY CAMOUFLAGE
Beware of the candidate who says he is for Laurier but stands for conscription. Such a man is straddling the fence, in a dishonest attempt to get votes on both sides. The candidate who stands for Laurier cannot stand for conscription; the two are absolutely and utterly irreconcilable.

There is also the candidate who seeks to give the impression that Laurier in office would not interfere with the first draft of one hundred thousand men. No more flagrant game of deception for vote-getting purposes could possibly be played. Laurier is against the present draft and all other drafts, and if he is elected to office a man will leave Canada under the Military Service Act. Here are his own words, expressed in his manifesto: "As to the present Military Service Act my policy will be not to proceed further under its provisions until the people have an opportunity to pronounce upon it by way of referendum."

There is no mistaking the intent and meaning of this language. It means that in the event of Sir Wilfred being returned to office not only will the Military Service Act be repealed, but the men who may already have been drafted will be disbanded and sent back to their homes. In the light of this clearly expressed certainty, talk on the part of Laurier candidates that the first draft of one hundred thousand men will not be interfered with by Sir Wilfred is the clumsiest kind of camouflage, deceiving no one except those who want to be deceived.

Money invested in STORM WINDOWS brings handsome returns to-day. It is a well proven fact that the judicious use of them will save fuel and increase comfort and health.

With the necessity of conserving your coal so it will last as long as possible, and that you may not be inconvenienced the latter part of the year, should there be a shortage, together with the unusual economy made possible by saving fuel now, you should seek the additional protection of STORM WINDOWS and STORM DOORS this year, if you have never done so before.

Orders for stock sizes filled promptly. Special sizes made to order.

When you want Pretty Patterns in Linoleums and Matting see Ours.

Dear Mary:—

I've just finished "putting down" my new linoleums and matting. How neat and clean my kitchen looks! How cool my bedrooms are and how easy to sweep and keep tidy!

My "girl" just sings as she works. She was getting cross before. I don't blame her. I ought to have been considerate of her surroundings as well as my own.

When you come over and see how refreshed my whole home is since I've fixed the floors, you too will get some new linoleum and matting.

Come over—HELEN.

P.S. You get yours where I got mine—from
