S. H. Parsons & Sons, Photographers,

Corner of Water and Prescott Streets,

Submit to the Artistic loving public a new line of Xmas Cards suitable for the coming season. They are called "The Picture-quest," and comprise 8 local views in box with envelopes complete ready for mailing. We recommend placing orders early, as the supply is limited.

We are also showing a new line of Calendars suitable for Xmas gifts.

All the above are the very latest from London, and only need seeing to be admired.

We cannot conceive a more delightful gift for Xmas than a photograph from our Studio. A photograph is truly the "Gift of Kings."

A possession of great charm is a portrait in the "Natural colours of Life." Briefly—these portraits are produced on a Special Sepia paper, just a convincing likeness, with the colour of the hair, the eyes, the face, suggested delicately in water colour.

The Cosway is another new Style of Portrait we are showing; suitably framed it makes a charming present at any time. Ask to see them.

A choice display of some of our latest work can now be seen in the Vestibule, Water Street entrance.

Our Xmas trade has now begun, and it is imperative that orders should be placed as soon as possible to avoid disappointment.—nov2.s.m.w.s

Your Hair is Fluffy, Beautiful and Lustrous in a Few Moments

GIRLS! GET A 25 CENT BOTTLE OF "DANDERINE" AND TRY, THIS. ALSO STOPS FALLING HAIR; DESTROYS DANDRUFF.

Your hair becomes thin, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once

Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

A Terrible Tangle.

CHAPTER III.

A Shocking Revelation.

And though for a brief while her soul recoiled in horror from this thing that Lillian had done, her nobility of nature, the tender love she had cherished for her young sister, was still too great to let her contemplate punishment falling on Lil with equanimity. It was no new thing for Beth to know that Lillian was neither wise nor reliable. She had never deceived herself in this respect, but she had judged Lil's faults to be superficial and natural, and she had loved the girl all the more because of her helplessness. She had been a veritable mother to her stepsister, and had set herself the task of standing between Lil and all difficulties.

To her the girl had hardly grown her childhood, and it was terrible for Beth to be forced to see that the pretty nonsense, the fairy-like selfishness, had been but a cloak to other and baser qualities. She knew only what she had gathered from Barostan's fierce words, but Beth dared not let herself hope that there was some mistake. He could hardly have come to her with such a story on his lips if there was no truth in it. Malice, and hatred, and desire to punish her might go far, but not so far as that; and the knowledge that his brother lay dead, that so fair and promising a life was ended in so tragic a way, chilled her to the soul.

In such an hour, face to face with such trouble, she felt the need of some one else to advise her, to help her; in such a dark hour she awoke to the fact that she was herself really very young, and that all the maturity which she had endeavored to cultivate, and which, to a certain degree, circumstances had forced upon her, did not really belong to her, and was not deeply rooted.

She climbed the stairs to her old room wearily, with an unusual sense of age upon her, and when she had locked the door she sat down and read the letter which she had been supposed to write to Basil Barostan.

Her bold handwriting had been imitated fairly well, but such a letter as she read Elizabeth could never have written. It was rude, brutal in its frankness, even a little vulgar. It represented her as a hard, worldly woman, and Lillian as a victim. But for Elizabeth's intervention there would have been no marriage with Henry Garland, and Lillian would have been left to follow the path that young love had set down for her.

It was cleverly done, and Elizabeth could well understand how such a letter had given a death thrust to the heart of an imaginative, overstrung, highly sentimental young man.

She sat with her eyes covered with her hand for a long time, trying in vain to see her roadway out of this tangle, and feeling her marvelous love for Lillian and her pride in the girl recede slowly from her. She had always been so open with Lil, she had trusted her so entirely, she had dealt with her so gently, believing, we know, that the other girl lacked the strength of character that would make her a sensible woman. It seemed incredible to her that Lil could have lived through these eight to ten months harboring such a secret, and more incredible still to realize that her sister should have had even the smallest acquaintance with Basil Barostan.

For that it was Lillian's hand that had set down this miserable epistle she dared not doubt. There were numerous signs to force this home. The paper used was some she had had in her room for a long time, the writing, laborious as it was, could only have been done by one who knew his characters as Lil did; but, more than all this, it served Lil's purpose to write such a letter, which could signify nothing to a stranger.

So much Elizabeth remembered, now—Lil's nervousness and haste to be married—at one time Beth had argued a little delay—her secrecy about her letters, her impatient intolerance of all the things appertaining to her old life.

Instead of taking delight in going to Warminster, she had pretended that the weather was too warm, that she was too busy. Her clothes were all sent from London; and then, thinking it all out in a bitter, relentless way, Beth recalled how the dean's wife had once spoken of Basil Barostan before Lil and herself, and had declared that the young fellow had gone abroad to study.

"He means to be very great," she had said.

It had, Elizabeth wince now to remember how Lil had laughed at this when their guest had gone. But then, no one had been more ready to fling hard words at the glen people than Lillian; no one had been more openly intolerant of the Barostan emmits. Whenever their name had been introduced, Lil had always been ready with a sneering remark, for one or another of the young men, and all the time she had been carrying on a desperate flirtation with one of them. And Elizabeth was conscious now that Lil must have been perfectly well aware that on young Barostan's side the matter had been serious and earnest.

Long after the servants had gone to rest and the house was wrapped in silence did Elizabeth pace the floor of her room.

Her ready imagination helped her to fill in the picture which Barostan's fierce words had sketched before her.

Rumor had told her much about the love that David Barostan had lavished upon his younger brother. She knew that the boy had always been very delicate, that his mother had died when he had been born, and that the elder brother had been the boy just what she had been to Lillian. She had heard, too, David Barostan had been exceedingly proud of his brother's talent, and months ago Warminster had commenced to talk about the young fellow's marvelous musical talents.

He had written some coral music for the cathedral, and had played his own compositions at some of the concerts given in the town during the winter; it must have been this that had given Lil the chance of meeting him.

Abroad, doubtless setting himself the task of planning out a new career to satisfy Lil's ambition, Basil Barostan must have been in ignorance of all that was passing at Heathcote, and this letter—such pitiful evidence of her sister's treachery to herself, and to the man she had fooled—must have been forwarded to him, bringing him back in hot haste, perhaps on the very day that saw Lillian married and lost to him.

It was almost dawn before Elizabeth could bring herself to go to bed, and she awoke from her all too brief sleep the next morning with a feeling of weariness that not even the joyous sunshine could dispel.

CHAPTER IV.

BETH'S PROMISE.

All the morning Elizabeth remained passive. She went through her numerous duties in a dull, mechanical fashion. The news from the glen was brought her by several people in fact, there was great excitement about this death, and, unpopular as David Barostan was, no one denied him sympathy. Lillian's grand marriage, and all to do with it, was quite swamped by this other extraordinary event. Rumor was busy with the dead man's name.

It was given out that he had been shot by accident, but everyone felt that there was something unusual in such a death, and many heads were shaken doubtfully. A few more read to assert that some shame was attached to his death. According to these, things had been going badly at the Glen Farm; ruin all but stared the elder Barostan in the face, and he had encouraged his brother to devote himself to the "tomfoolery" of music instead of utilizing him in the business of the farm, he had only himself to thank for the present misfortune.

Much of this harsh comment reached Elizabeth's ears, and, while shocked her, it did not move her. What pity which would have come to her so naturally under other circumstances.

She dreaded Barostan so much, his fierce, rude attack on her drove from her her usual courage and calm.

"The Only Cure for Piles"

Writes Mr. Taylor in Telling His Experience With Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. M. Taylor.

Because Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost immediate relief from the dreadful itching, burning, stinging sensations of piles, it is well worth the attention of everyone suffering from this annoying disease. In most cases, even after years of standing, Dr. Chase's Ointment makes a thorough and lasting cure of itching, bleeding and protruding piles. Mr. Maxwell Taylor, Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes: "To all sufferers from piles in any form I would recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the only cure. Over a year ago while in Boston I became afflicted with a dreadful itching. I went to a doctor, who gave me some ointment, which made me no better. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and by the use of two boxes I was entirely cured. You may publish this statement in order that other sufferers may profit by my experience." Dr. Chase's Ointment can better prove its value by the relief it affords than by all the words we could use in its praise. 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

A Table for You and Me.

BY RUTH CAMERON.
Once upon a time a Married Lady with a Perfectly Good Husband and Three Remarkable Children met a Long Lost Friend of her Girlhood in a Tea Room.
Now the Friend of her Girlhood was still a Spinster, or, as she preferred to call it, a Bachelor Girl. Instead of a Perfectly Good Husband and Three Remarkable Children she had a Vocation. She painted Miniatures on ivory and she lived in a Studio with another Bachelor Girl and Three Angora Cats.
Now after these Two Friends had fallen upon each other's necks in truest and Pretended to listen to the andrew off and began to talk as fast as they could.
For awhile each one asked questions about the other's Special Interests and Pretended to listen to the answer, but before very long they began to act more Natural, and this is the way the dialogue ran:
The Married Lady: "My dear, you must come and see me. We have the loveliest little house on Rose Street. It has eight rooms and two baths, and the cunningest little yard for the babies to play in!"
Girlhood Friend: "Is that so? I wish I had a yard for my cats, but I have to give them their airing on the roof."
The Married Lady: "Is that so? Ruth has a little kitten. I wish you could see her play with it. She's too cunning for anything."
Girlhood Friend: "Yes, dear. I know she must be. I've been painting some pictures of children lately. They are rather hard subjects, but Mrs. L. thought I did wonders with her little girl. You probably know Mrs. L., the suffrage leader?"
The Married Lady: "No, dear. I never heard of her. Speaking of pictures, I think Gretchen is going to have artistic talent. She draws the nicest pictures on her slate. You can almost guess what they are meant for without her telling you."
Girlhood Friend: "How nice! My dear, I met the stunningest man the other day. Just the type you used to love, dark hair and grey eyes and thin. And so interesting!"
The Married Lady: "How nice! Do you know my husband has grown quite fat. I tell him I shall have to get another cook if this one has that effect on him. We have the best cook in town I do believe. We get her at R's employment Bureau."
Girlhood Friend: "Did you really? As I was saying, that man is one of the most interesting people I ever met. He is a Journalist and he knows the nicest people. He promised to have a tea in his studio and invite some of them to meet me."
The Married Lady: "Did he really? I used to go to a lot of teas, myself, but I can't now—I have the babies. You know Gretchen is rather sickly. She is only five and has had the measles, the mumps, whooping-cough and scarlet fever already."
At this juncture the Girlhood Friend remembered an appointment, and they kissed each other good-bye Adoringly and promised to meet again soon.
That night the Married Lady told her Perfectly Good Husband that she had met her Girlhood Friend. "And she paints pictures and goes around with Bohemian people," she said. "And she can't talk of anything else. I never saw anyone so self-centered."
That night the Bachelor Girl told the Other Bachelor Girl that she had met her Married Lady Friend. "And all she could talk about was her husband and her babies, just like all the rest. Strange how narrow married women get!"
And do you know, neither the Bachelor Girl nor the married Lady ever suspected that she was the least bit funny.

WOMEN TAKE NOTICE!

A man cannot understand the torture and suffering many women endure uncomplainingly. If the majority of men suffered as much pain and endured with patience the weakening sicknesses that most women do, they would ask for immediate sympathy and look for a quick cure.
Many women have been saved from a life of misery and suffering by turning to the right remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy which is safe to take because containing no narcotics, alcohol or injurious ingredients. It is an alterative extract of roots, made with pure glycerin, and first given to the public by that famous specialist in the diseases of women—Dr. R. V. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y.
Mrs. LIZZIE M. HESSINGER, of Lincoln, Neb., 333 "C" St., says: "I send a testimonial with much pleasure so that some suffering woman may know the true worth of your remedies. I was a great sufferer from female troubles, but after taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which a friend advised me to take, I found myself very much improved. After taking three more bottles, and using two boxes of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets, I found myself on the road to recovery. I was in poor health for five years but now I am cured."
"I hope all women suffering from female weakness will give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a fair trial."
Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, tiny granules.

Fashions and Fads.

Soft materials are used for the mannish shirt, they are made with soft turnover collars and cuffs and welted seams. The turnover collars are quite high and button through at the front.
Some of the prettiest new necklaces of the inexpensive sort are in cream, white or rose beads, clasping with rhinestones centered with a pearl; also necklaces of amber are immensely smart.
Among the new features of footwear we find the rubber-soled and rubber-heeled shoe. These shoes come high and low, for both men and women. These cuts are fashionable and very comfortable.
Accordion pleated net is very much used for young girls' dresses. There are lovely little gowns, simply made of this material or of gossamer pearl, white chiffon, into which is spliced a panel of shadow lace, pleated to match.
East Indian effects in jewelry are prominent among the novelties of the season. Heavily chased and carved rings, bracelets, necklaces, pendants, earrings and mounted jewels for the hair are being made in designs copied from the East Indian museum pieces.
Very chic is the gown made of wonderfully soft material with a groundwork of crêpe de chine, and a design of embossed velvet almost covering the surface. A gown of this material in white, trimmed at the foot with a strip of black fox, is very becoming.
Among the small furs now in fashion are narrow ties finished off with short bat ends. A medium-sized muff to match is usually made in stripes to give a welted effect. Other small neckpieces have shaped collars ending with animal finish in front the brush and claws arranged to fall down the center in front.
The sleeves of evening gowns have lost their identity in the draperies that go over the shoulders. Sometimes they are composed of the smallest string of brilliants over the shoulder, on afternoon gowns, waists and a few evening gowns they are long lace-trimmed and show increasing fullness.
Fashion experts have discovered that bright contrasts of color makes the point of difference between the gown that is admirable and the one that leaves no impression. Blue and maze color, violet and geranium rose, deep purple and gold, emerald green and pale rose are some of the effective combinations.
A simple and girlish gown is made of soft white chiffon trimmed with garlands of green satin leaves, applied to the bodice and skirt in border fashion. They outline the round neck of the bodice, the high waistline in the form of a girle and the edge of a draped tunic where it was caught up with a green satin bow. The sleeves are also caught up with a green satin bow.

SCARLET FEVER.—Yesterday afternoon three new cases of scarlet fever were reported in the city. The patients are children and have been removed to the Fever Hospital.
WHALING CREW LEAVES.—The whaler Cabot, which undocked Monday will lay up all winter on the South Side. The captain and crew left by the Pomeranian for Norway.
GIVEN UP VOYAGE.—All the local fishermen have given up operations and their boats taken out of the water for the winter. The voyage on the whole has been excellent.
SEAMEN NOISY.—Last night five seamen entered an East End Restaurant. Thinking they were in the forecastle of their ship, they started to kick up a dust, but were ejected by a peacekeeper from H. M. S. Sirius.
BAD WEATHER PREVAILS.—Messages received here yesterday state that during the past week bad weather has prevailed along the Labrador Coast. S. E. gales with snow are frequent and the residents are taking to their winter quarters.

IN THE YEAR 1932
how much will you have accumulated at your present rate of saving? Most men will have little or nothing saved if conditions are at all similar to those of today.
Every prominent young man appreciates the wisdom of accumulating for his own benefit at least, and looks forward to an old age of comfort and enjoyment relieved from want and worry. And every thoughtful man endowed with manhood feels that a duty rests upon him to make some provision for others' dependent upon him.
The safest, simplest and most profitable way to accomplish all this, and to be sure of a snug competency by the year 1932, is by investing in a Canada Life Endowment Policy for $5,000 or $10,000, according to your means and requirements. The policy can be bought on easy instalments and facilities are provided to assist in carrying and enjoying the insurance.
Send in your name and age and let us submit to you a good proposition.

Hr. Grace Notes.
Mr. Thomas Freeman took some very nice photographs of the Brigades and others gathered at the Dock last week at the time of the opening.
These postals make nice souvenirs to send to absent friends.
Mr. A. Collis returned by Saturday's train from his trip north, where he had been extremely busy for several months tuning pianos, organs, etc., and doing some agency work. His visits included all the harbours to Moreton's Harbour. We hear that Mr. Collis is soon to start housekeeping in this town, and has taken the property owned by the late Henry Webber on Harvey Street. His mother will soon come here from Trinity to reside. Dame rumour talks of a very pleasant event in which Mr. Collis will be the principal, to take place in the near future. Congratulations in advance.
A voice over the telephone from Heart's Content tells us that wedding bells are sounding there to-day. Mr.
Carberry, of the Anglo Staff, and Miss Wilcox, daughter of Mr. James Wilcox, also of the same staff, are being united in marriage. All their friends wish them a very pleasant journey through life.

The Please U Theatre opened last night, and a full house crowned the efforts of this company. The pictures were good, and the hearty applause of the audience showed that they thoroughly enjoyed the evening.
These shows are cheap and good, and the company deserves the patronage of the public for giving us an opportunity of spending pleasant evenings.
Mr. Thomas Burke, an old resident of Riverhead, passed away this morning, after a short illness. Mr. Burke was 84 years of age. He was born on the South Side, but lived here for a number of years with the late Denis Shea. Mr. Burke was well known in this town.
While coming from the theatre last night many people were heard to ask where the police were, as a horse and team were standing on the sidewalk by the Post Office. On enquiry we found it to be the mail coach, as the train had just arrived. Now we are not anxious to find fault with His Majesty's mail carrier, but the police should inform him that he must not bring his team on the sidewalk to the disadvantage and danger of pedestrians, any more than other people.
We hope it won't occur again.

Mr. James Lilly (cooper), who has been working in St. John's, was compelled owing to sickness to give up work and come home on Saturday last. Mr. Lilly is very ill.
Mrs. James Kent, wife of Sergeant Kent, of Placentia, returned home on Saturday last after a pleasant visit to her sisters, Mrs. John Griffin and Mrs.
P. Scanlan.
We have been asked to draw the attention of the Road Board to the wretched state of the roads at Bear's Cove. The people want good roads and must have them. Get to work,
Mr. Chairman.

Is Your Child's Tongue Coated.
If Cross, Feverish or Stomach Sour, it Means Waste-Clogged Bowels.
Children dearly love to take delicious
"Syrup of Figs" and nothing else cleans and regulates their tender little stomachs, liver and 30 feet of bowels so promptly and thoroughly.
Children get bilious and constipated just like grownups. Then they get sick, the tongue is coated, stomach sour, breath bad; they don't eat or rest well; they become feverish cross, irritable and don't want to play. Listen Mothers — for your child's sake don't force the little one to swallow nauseating castor oil, or violent calomel or harsh irritants like Cathartic pills. A teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs will have your child smiling and happy again in just a few hours. Syrup of Figs will gently clean, sweeten and regulate the stomach, make the liver active and move on and out of the bowels all the constipated matter, the sour bile, the foul, clogged-up waste and poisons,
without causing cramps or griping.

The Appetite.
Oh, this fact
will bear repeating, that unless you're fond of eating, everything will seem discordant in this world that we inhabit; if your appetite is slender life will have no joy or splendor, and you'll think that this republic is skeddadding galley west. Brooding prophets, gloomy Daniels, say we're going to the spandels, government is all corrupted and we're headed for the dump; but if they were only able to get busy at the table, things would seem far more attractive, and their gloom would take a slump. Nearly all man's earthly troubles would be evanescent bubbles, could all people eat with gusto, morns and eves and sunny moons; could they shovel in their craters beef and beans and boiled potatoes, succotash and ham and s-inach, macaroni, pies and prunes.
They could not be drawn with horses to the courts to get divorces if their appetites were working in the good old fashioned way; they could find th's life less hollow if they had desire to swallow buckwheat cakes and eggs and doughnuts, scrambled rice and shredded hay. Life should be and is a blessing, and the wails and sighs distressing come from folks with balky stomachs, though they oft mis-place the blame. Learn to eat with frenzied ardor, take a fall out of the larder, and you'll soon be quite enamored with this cheerful human game.

HENRY BLAIR.

TEETH.

BY H. L. RANN.

Teeth are an affliction in the form of small, light-colored pegs which are set in the human mouth by an unscrupulous providence. These pegs are of a nervous and excitable disposition, and have to be operated upon several times a year by a cold-blooded mechanic known as a dentist.

Teeth are attached to people early in youth, and begin to cause trouble, fifteen minutes later. The baby does not have any teeth at the start, but soon starts out to accumulate a set during which process everybody in the same block becomes incipiently nutty. These first teeth are merely for introductory purposes, and are later elbowed out of place by some permanent fixtures, which remain in one spot for several years and collect cavities ranging from the head of a pin to the main entrance to a bushel basket.

Some teeth are considerably more durable and clinging than others, and never have to be counterfeited at an expense of $8 for a perfect fit. People who enjoy this kind of teeth usually take pains to have them patched up from time to time and decorated with gold bands and other luminous trimmings, including the usual porcelain inlay, which is always coming out just prior to some social function.

The most treacherous tooth in any language is the wisdom tooth. Nobody asked to have this tooth sent, and it is good for nothing except to puncture the refractory history nut. It is located in the northeast corner of Section 18, west of the 5th P. M., and can be reached only with the aid of a step ladder. When the dentist wishes to do business with a wisdom tooth, he stands the patient on his head and backs in with a reversible searchlight.

The eye tooth is a bundle of nerves which lie close to the surface and can be found without any difficulty whatever by an agile drill. There is also the supine bi-cuspid, which is continually giving out in a new place and swelling up like a pouter pigeon. After a man has been punched in the face for twenty-four hours by an irascible bi-cuspid, death at the stake will look sweet to him.

Anniversary.

The anniversary of the Church Lads Brigade takes place on Monday next, the 11th inst., and active preparations are now on to celebrate it fittingly. On the night of Wednesday, the 13th inst., a supper will be served to the whole Battalion of the Brigade in the village hall, at which time, all the Old Comrades will be invited to a pleasant time in store for the lads. After the supper a dance will be held in which the officers will participate and the music will be furnished by the band of the Brigade. On Sunday, the 10th inst., the last church parade for the season will be held when the Brigade will proceed to Divine Service at the C. E. Cathedral, the service beginning at 3 p.m.

Erik Reported.

Messrs. Job Bros. had a message from Capt. Bartlett of the S. S. Erik which is now at Battle Harbour. It reads as follows:

"Erik here for coal. Ragged Island and Sloop Cove crews with their fish on board; about 2,000 quintals. Crews all belong to Carbonar and want to be landed there. Advise. Was north to Illak."

A message in reply was sent to Capt. Bartlett requesting him to return south to land the crews as quickly as possible.

Damage by Storm

As a result of the storm that prevailed on Thursday and Friday last much damage was wrought to fishing gear at Quidi Vidi, and which will take several hundred dollars to replace. Some of the fishermen of the village lost heavily, having had a considerable amount of property destroyed. Nearly all the boats that were in the water during the storm were smashed in on the beach and smashed up, caused by the upheaves of the sea. Three or four fishing stages were also swept away.

Old Feildians Hockey Club.

A meeting of the Old Feildian Hockey Club was held in the College last night to prepare for the coming hockey season. It was largely attended and great interest manifested. Mr. R. R. Pinsent, Collier and C. E. A. Jeffrey. The Club propose getting a new uniform for this season.

Gun Man Abroad

Last night shortly after 8 o'clock quite a snarl was caused on Queen's Street where a man who was half crazed with liquor and evidently a foreigner, entered a house there and taking out a revolver began brandishing it. The house is occupied by a woman whose husband is at sea, and she was badly scared. The woman rushed out of the house and made an outcry when the intruder, quit hurriedly crossed George's Street and turned into Gower Street and disappeared. The police were apprised and tried to track the fugitive but without result. They have, however, a fair description of him and may capture him to-day.
