CHAPTER III.

To soothe her aunt, Diana made light of the letter, and treated it as quite an ordinary one; but she lay awake a greater part of the night wondering who Mr. Fielding was and what his communication could be.

They caught the early train from Lowminister, fortunately a quick one and, reaching London, took a cab to 106 Lincoln's Inn. During the journey Mrs. Burton had scarcely spoken and for a greater part of the time had sat with closed eyes; and as they approached the office her pale, wan face assumed an expression of dogged resolution, as if she were preparing herself for some ordeal.

A clerk in the outer office received them with solemn dignity, and went to announce their arrival to Mr. Fielding. The office was a very old-fashioned one, handsome but grimy. There were cobwebs in the beautifully moulded cornice; dust lay on the furniture and the rows of books; but the clerk had moved noiselessly; an air of silence, a hint of mystery, as if the place were haunted by the shade of dead and gone secrets, brooded over the building. Diana began to grow nervous, for the first time. The inner door—there were two, one being covered with thick baize—opened and the clerk, with a gesture and a bow, as if speech were golden and not to be wasted, ushered them in.

Mr. Fielding rose from his chair at the table, and looked from one to the other with a piercing gaze, which was masked behind a smile of welcome. There was a faint surprise as well as keenness in his sharp eyes, as if he had not expected to see so beautiful, so ladylike a girl. He was a middle-aged man with a clean-shaven face and thin, set lips, and his expression, when the smile had faded, was that of alertness, of watchfulness, as if he were on guard and standing ready to parry a thrust or deliver one. The hand he extended to the two ladies was soft but firm, and it closed over Diana's as if he were taking her into custody.

"I am delighted to see you, Miss Bourne," he said, in a low but soft voice. "And you, Mrs. Burton. You are looking extremely well," he added to the latter, "and not in the least changed since I had the pleasure of seeing you last." He uttered the conventional falsehood without a flicker of the eyelid, and waved them courteously to the chairs that had been placed for them by the clerk, so placed that the light fell directly on their faces, enabling Mr. Fielding to watch them easily. "I hope my letter did not alarm you. A lawyer's letter, whatever its nature is, I know, never very welcome to a lady. You are still at Wedbury; still at the school? You see, I know your whereabouts, your movements." He smiled, and nodded at them both impartially.

"Oh, yes," replied Diana, "I am still schoolmistress there; and hope to remain so."

"Ah, yes," he assented, looking above her head and beyond her, his lids half lowered. "Let me see, they give you—your salary is—"

"Eighty pounds a year," said Diana, with modest pride. "And an extra sum for light and firing."

"An extra sum for light and firing," he repeated, quite gravely. "Just so; an extra sum for light and firing. And I take it that you are quite happy and contented?"

"Oh, quite, quite!" Diana assured him, her eyes glowing, her lips parted in a smile. "It is the dearest little school and the coziest little cottage. And the children—ah, well, I don't think that there are such dear, good children in any other part of England. I wish you could come down and see them. Perhaps you will some day? Wedbury is a very pretty place, and the scenery is famous."

"I am afraid it is very improbable that I should ever visit Wedbury; for if I went it would be to see you, Miss Bourne; and I do not think you will remain there much longer. I beg of you not to be alarmed," he added quickly, as Diana changed color.

"I was afraid the inspector had been making some complaints," she said, apprehensively.

"Not at all," he said. "I happen to know that everybody concerned appreciates your work. What I meant was that it is probable you will be leaving Wedbury at once and of your own accord."

He paused for a moment, then he looked at Mrs. Burton. "Miss Bourne does not remember her father, I suppose?" he said softly. "Ah, no, it wasn't possible."

"My father died when I was quite a baby," said Diana, in a low voice.

"Just so," he assented; "at least so, for the best reasons, you were given to understand; but it was not quite accurate. As a matter of fact, your father died only a few months ago."

As he spoke, he filled a glass with water and unobtrusively placed it on the table within reach of Mrs. Burton; but she disregarded it, and sat, with white face, staring at the wall before her. Diana uttered an exclamation half of grief, half of surprise. She scarcely realized the significance of the communication, but was conscious of a sense both of injury and bereavement. Why had she been kept in ignorance of her father's existence; why had he never come to her, sent for her? As if he read the unspoken question in her face, Mr. Fielding said, in the same low, deliberate voice:

"Your father, Miss Bourne, was a somewhat singular man; he was eccentric and erratic—a man who was so fond of traveling that he could not remain for any length of time in one place."

While he was speaking, he was watching the elder woman, and, though his eyes were not turned to her, he managed to convey a warning, to put her on her guard. It was skillfully done, and Mrs. Burton was conscious of his intention, and sat rigid and stone-like.

While he was speaking, he was some years ago—he never returned—he was a poor man. He went to America, where he met with the trials and the opportunities which poor men find so abundant there. For some time, he endured the usual hardships of the man who is struggling to exist, and years elapsed before I heard from him. I was his lawyer."

He paused, and glanced openly at Mrs. Burton, and with a distinct warning.

"He was then at a place in South America called Chaquetta—rather a pretty name, evidently Mexican. At that period, it was quite a small place, and your father was, in the parlance of business, quite a small man; but Chaquetta grew, and so did your father. There are mines of various kinds in Chaquetta, and your father became connected with some of them. He engaged in other enterprises, and made money. From time to time, he forwarded me certain sums, to hand to Mrs. Burton, who had charge of you."

"I have kept an account," said Mrs.

Burton hoarsely. "I have still some left; all that was spent was spent on Diana—"

"Aunt Mary!" exclaimed Diana, remonstratingly, the tears starting to her eyes.

"My dear lady," said Mr. Fielding quickly, "I am quite aware of that. I think I ought to tell you that I have kept myself acquainted with all the details of your and Miss Bourne's life since her father died—left England. I am quite sure you have been an efficient and affectionate guardian."

"Oh, yes—yes!" Diana broke in. "Aunt Mary has been all the world to me—mother, father, brother, sister—all the world."

"Quite so—quite so," said Mr. Fielding reassuringly and soothingly. "Let me see; where was I? Eighty pounds a year, I think you said, and light and firing? A nice little income—very nice. But, as I said, I think you will have to surrender it. As I told you, your father died three months ago." He tapped some papers on the table. "I have all the dates and particulars here, and will give them to you before you go, so that you may look them over quietly, and by yourself. He died—suddenly, but he had, fortunately, made his will. It was a very short one, on a sheet of weather-stained paper; but I am glad to say that it is quite valid. Glad to say, because—let me read it to you."

He took up one of the papers, and with a glance at Mrs. Burton, read aloud and impressively:

"I Benjamin Bourne, leave everything of which I am possessed, to my daughter, Diana Bourne, who lives in England, under the care of my sister, Mary Burton.

(Sgd.) "BENJAMIN BOURNE."

Diana's eyes were full of tears. "My father! Oh, why did I not know him? Why did he keep away from me? He must have remembered me, must have been fond of me, to have left me this money."

Mrs. Burton did not speak. Mr. Fielding looked from one to the other silently, as if to give Diana time to recover from her very natural emotion. Then he said:

"As Mrs. Burton is aware, your father's remittances ceased some time ago, and I feared that he had fallen into bad luck."

"I do not care—about the money," said Diana. "It is his thinking of me—"

"But there was some money," said Mr. Fielding. "You do not ask how much. I think you will be surprised when I tell you that it was a very large sum. In fact—eighty pounds a year, with light and firing I think you said, Miss Bourne!" he broke off, with a curious smile; "in fact, when your father died, he was interested in all, or nearly all, the flourishing concerns in this place with the queer name—mines, factories, land, house property. He died worth, as far as I can ascertain, considerably over a million of money."

Mrs. Burton drew a long breath, and clutched the arms of her chair, and Mr. Fielding, as unobtrusively as before, pushed the glass of water a little nearer to her. As for Diana, her still tear-dimmed eyes opened widely and her lips parted, as if she were amazed; indeed, she scarcely realized the significance of the lawyer's statement.

"A million of money?" she said, at last. "Do you mean that he left this money, all of it, to me?"

"That is exactly what I have been trying to break to you," responded Mr. Fielding, "and I trust I have succeeded in breaking it gently. Good news is often a greater shock than bad. And now you understand why it is not very probable that you will remain at Wedbury, teaching school at eighty pounds a year, and light and firing." He leaned back, and smiled, and rubbed his hands together with an air of satisfaction and enjoyment.

Diana put her hand to her brow, and shut her eyes. She was trying to realize this thing that had happened to her; but, for the moment, all that she could think of was that she was going to leave Wedbury, say goodbye to the children she loved.

"Let me think," she said. "A million of money. It belongs to me. Then we are rich!" She stretched out her hand, and clasped her aunt's, and smiled at her through a mist of tears. "Rich! Oh, Aunt Mary, the things I will buy for you!"

Mr. Fielding nodded approvingly.

"There are a few things better even than money," he said, with a smile. "And one of them is a loving and a tender heart. I congratulate you,

Miss Bourne, and you, Mrs. Burton—on its possession. Oh, yes, you can buy all sorts of things; in fact, there are not many that you cannot buy. And you want to begin at once. Of course, of course! Now, here, I can help you." He took some bank-notes from a drawer, as if he had put them there in readiness, as he had, and held them out to Diana. "There is a little money to go on with. Of course, I will open a bank account for you. Presently, you will be spending a great deal of money. You will want to buy a big house, a large estate in the country, a house in London. I know of one in Park Lane that would just suit you."

Diana had pressed the notes into her aunt's hand, and she turned to Mr. Fielding, with a rather frightened air.

"A big house, an estate—a house in London?" she breathed.

He regarded her with a smile; then he glanced at Mrs. Burton. "It was a questioning glance, and she answered it by a flicker of her eyelids and a twitch of her thin, pale lips.

"Ah, well; no, not at once," he said. "All that may come a little later. Just at first, you will like to become accustomed to this vast fortune of yours. Now, I wonder if I might venture to advise you?"

Strassburg.

BY GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Sluash."
Strassburg, whose citizens wake up early each morning and run for the paper to see what country they now belong to, is situated thirty miles east of a parapet line called the French-German boundary. It is a city of 157,000 people and 20,000 soldiers and is the capital of Alsace-Lorraine.

Strassburg has been a military stronghold ever since the eight legions of the Romans occupied it, 1,800 years ago. The French captured it in the Fifth century and in the Tenth century the Germans took it over, and ran it until 1681, when Louis XVI. of France grabbed it and the long-suffering inhabitants had to change their language once more. In 1870 the Germans landed before Strassburg with several hundred large, vicious guns and shot it so full of holes that it resembled fine Brussels lace when it surrendered, seven weeks later.

Strassburg has been a German city since 1870. It is the only city in the world which possesses a tombstone. In Paris there is a monument to departed Strassburg and on the city's birthday large mourning wreaths are hung on the statue. France is spending billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of lives to get Strassburg back. It is fine to be so popular, but as the Strassburg sits in his cellar waiting for the solid shot and shrapnel festivities to begin he wonders what he could be overlooked for a little while.

Strassburg is a beautiful old city, with quaint, handsome houses, built long before plumbing was heard of, and a cathedral with a spire 465 feet high. It has a university, a library with 900,000 volumes in it, and large numbers of the new buildings, which are completely overlooked by the tourists in their eagerness to find the rheumatic old restaurants with the hand-carved fronts.

Strassburg manufactures energetically and also fattens geese for the pate de foie gras business. It has more canals than railroads and had a harbor of 210 acres connected with the Rhine two miles away. American economists who sob over the folly of improving American rivers should take one look at the shipping at Strassburg, which comes from the narrow gauge, insignificant little Rhine, and then play upon their bladders with a fire extinguisher.

Stomach Always Balked, Had Constant Indigestion.

Smell of Cooking Made Him Sick—Bilious Two Days a Week.

Cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Clemmons' experience is not unusual. Nowadays poor stomachs are more the rule than the exception. But the proper treatment is sure to make a quick cure. You can always depend on Dr. Hamilton's Pills, they reach the trouble at once, go right to business, work while you sleep and have you feeling better if not cured next morning.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P. O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart, for often at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon grew within me. I can now eat, sleep and live like a live man."

Be advised—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c. per box. Buy for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers or by mail from The Catarhizone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

An Appreciation.

At all the Masses in the R. C. Cathedral yesterday, a letter of appreciation from Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V. G., Administrator of the Archdiocese, was read to the congregation. The Rev. Administrator wished to thank the congregation generally for their expressions of sympathy on the death of the late Archbishop, and also the members of other denominations, prominent in Church and State, for their sympathetic references to the memory of the deceased Prelate. He also wished to thank the Officers and members of the C. C. C. and the different societies, for the assistance rendered during the obsequies.

The Real Reason.

"This was inevitable was," the candid monarch cries; "there's no use hunting for the cause, when it's before your eyes. For years and years, with frantic haste, we've piled up armament; and could we let it go to waste, the money we have spent? We've drilled about five million men, with endless pain and toil and could we let them idly then go back and till the soil? Our colonels and the other chaps were all athirst for war, and asked us, if we can't have scraps, what are we drilling for? You arm a man with guns and knives, and he for strife will groan, and he will take some other's lives, unless he drops his own. And we have armed until we limped beneath this burden punk; for years we saved and slaved and skimmed to buy the warlike junk. We taxed the man of humble birth until he groaned aloud; we taxed him when he tilled the earth, we taxed him in his shroud. We robbed the farmer of his oats, the ditcher of his moat, despoiled the herdsman of his goats, to buy a modern gun. And having lined with trench and forts the rivers and the woods, we simply had to scrap, old sport, to show we had the goods."

College Football.

METHODISTS WIN.

The first game of the final round of the inter-collegiate football series was played at St. George's Field, Saturday afternoon, the contestants being the Methodists and Pelicans. Owing to the high wind the players found it difficult to control the ball, and as a result very little combination was in evidence. During the first half the Bishop Field boys had the wind in their favor, and when the half time whistle sounded they had secured one goal to their opponents' nil. Upon changing ends the same turn-out in favor of the Methodists, who succeeded in netting four goals. Very little good play was seen throughout, both teams being handicapped by the strong wind, for about this afternoon the St. Bon's and Methodists will try conclusions, and as both teams are in the running for the championship to-day's match promises to be an interesting one.

Obituary.

JOHN HART.

There passed away at his late residence, Theatre Hill, yesterday morning, a well known citizen in the person of John Hart. Thought the deceased had been ailing for about three weeks, death came rather unexpectedly. He was in his 61st year. Besides his many friends in the city, many in the outports will regret to hear of his demise. He was a carpenter by trade and was associated with the erection of many church buildings throughout the country. He is survived by a widow, four sons, four daughters and three brothers to all of whom the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

C. M. B. C.

The opening session of the Cathedral Men's Bible Class, was held at the Synod Hall yesterday afternoon. The meeting opened with prayer by Rev. J. Brinton, Chairman of the Class, after which a hymn was sung. Before proceeding with his discourse, the rev. lecturer made reference to the ten members of the class who had gone with the First Newfoundland Regiment. He then delivered the first discourse on the Life of Christ, which was followed with closest attention by the large number present.

Nfld. Industry Recognized.

A shipment of over one thousand overcoats, to be used by members of Kitchener's new army, was sent by the R. M. S. Mongolian, which sailed from here on Saturday last. The order was secured from the British War Office by the Newfoundland Clothing Company, and the workmanship was of the usual high standard.

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

Morwenna Arrives.

Naval Recruits for Active Service in Europe.

We direct the attention of our readers to an advertisement by the naval authorities. It sets forth that five hundred men are required immediately for active service in Europe. This is a call of recruits who must be either seamen or fishermen, and it is made clear that their services are required immediately. The Admiralty knows its business, and we must take it that they have an immediate use for 500 young men from Newfoundland who are used to the sea, and that the services to be performed will be of an active kind. We hope that the response will be prompt and sufficient. The Admiralty has done excellent service in winning the silent victory by keeping the seaway open, by conveying troops from India and Canada to Europe, by assisting the forces along the Channel and by keeping a watch and holding themselves in readiness for the German fleet in the Kiel Canal. The position however is that the Admiralty is asking for 500 naval recruits immediately and an opportunity is afforded our fishermen and sailors to emulate the five hundred young men of Newfoundland, mostly landmen, who are getting on Salisbury Plain, to do their duty at the front, when Kitchener sends them there.

According to a message appearing in the Montreal Star, on Trafalgar Day, twenty-two new fighting ships, from Dreadnoughts to mosquito craft, have been put in commission for the sea since the war began.

Assault Case.

The attention of the Magistrate's Court was occupied all this forenoon in the hearing of the assault case between Constables Whelan and Elsworth against an outport man named Augustus Carter. The latter was charged with (1) loose and disorderly conduct and (2) assaulting the police. The evidence summarized was that on Saturday night the defendant and four companions were chatting together on the sidewalk. They were seen by Constable Whelan on the other side of the street and he came over. Each caught hold of one of Carter's arms, placing him under arrest. After proceeding about 300 yards, Carter said he was not going any further. The policemen then threw their hands to handcuff him but did not succeed. All three rose together again. After grappling with the prisoner another couple of minutes, the police threw him to the ground a second time, but failed to handcuff him. In the melee it was testified by the constables today that Elsworth was bitten in the finger. At this juncture, Carter who was attempting to get out of custody was struck by Constable Whelan five strokes of a baton on the head. Then a large crowd gathered yelling at Whelan. Meanwhile the prisoner escaped and ran. Bailiff Cross, who was a voluntary witness, gave evidence that Whelan acted improperly by hitting the prisoner on the skull. Witness on being questioned by I. G. Sullivan as to what the duties of a policeman were, he (Cross) was an ex-constable, said that in self-defence of one's life a constable could use the baton on a prisoner's legs or arms or other parts of the body, but never on the head, and there was no necessity for such in this instance. There was much credence given to Mr. Cross's testimony, and the Inspector General thanked him for his statement of the facts. His Honor in summing up the evidence dismissed the charge of disorderly conduct against Carter, in view of what he had suffered, but for hitting the police imposed a fine of $10 or 30 days; intimating that the Inspector General would deal with Constable Whelan.

GERMANY HAS LOST 750,000 MEN.
COPENHAGEN, To-day. The Leipziger Volkszeitung says the total German losses so far cannot be less than 750,000. A Berlin Military critic estimates Germany's standing army at two million, first line Landwehr at 80,000 (?). With the extra reserves including untrained troops, Germany possesses nine million.

CANADIAN TROOPS IN EGYPT.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Antwerp says the following message has been received at Berlin from Constantinople: According to the news received from well informed quarters in Constantinople, the British Government during the last few days has sent numerous Canadian troops to Egypt and fourteen thousand men have been stationed along the Suez Canal. At Honiolu in sight of the Marine observers at the mouth of the harbor, the Japanese battleship Hizen captured on Saturday the German steam schooner Aelius, supposedly from Marshall Islands.

HUGE PATRIOTIC SUBSCRIPTIONS.

LONDON, To-day. The private subscriptions which have been raised in England for war purposes, have reached remarkable proportions. The National Relief Fund, known as the Prince of Wales' Fund, to-day totalled more than $15,000,000. The Times Fund for the sick and wounded already amounts to more than $2,500,000. Queen Mary's Fund for providing work for women has reached nearly $400,000. The Daily Telegraph has raised nearly $200,000 for Belgians in shilling subscriptions in a few days, since the fall of Antwerp, while the Pall Mall Gazette previously has turned over to the Belgian Minister in London $125,000 from its subscribers. A fund for wounded and needy Indian soldiers started a few days ago by British people who formerly lived in India now amounts to $275,000. Princess Mary's appeal to purchase Christmas gifts for men at the front, has yielded nearly $90,000 and readers of the Daily News have sent in $5,000 for Christmas puddings. Canada's Patriotic Fund is now about five millions.

FIVE GERMAN AEROPLANES DESTROYED.

LONDON, To-day. According to the Paris correspondent of the Express, five German aeroplanes were destroyed by the French on Saturday. Two Taubes were brought down at Rheims by a single French aviator; two other German "Birks" were hit by the guns of the Mt. Harcourt forts near Mont Didier.

FORTIFYING LEMBERG.

LONDON, To-day. According to a despatch from Rotterdam, a Berlin paper says that the Russians who had withdrawn most of their troops from Lemberg, have now sent 30,000 men there who are strenuously fortifying the town. The Russians, the paper says, are clearly determined to keep Lemberg at all costs.

CROWN PRINCE'S ARMY SEPARATED.

LONDON, To-day. The Bordeaux correspondent of the Daily News sends the following regarding the fighting in the Argonne region. After fighting on the Marne, the Duke of Württemberg's army retreated to the western side of the Argonne while the Crown Prince's army followed along the eastern side of the forest, halting finally around the Varennes. Ever since two armies have been trying to join hands. The French have now gained possession of the villages of Meusecour in the middle of Argonne and commanding the route to the Valley of Aisne. As long as they hold this key the Crown Prince is out in the cold, separated by a difficult route from the rest of the German line.

GERMANS SEIZE TIMBER SHIPS.

LONDON, To-day. German warships yesterday captured four Swedish steamers in the timber trade for British ports. The German naval commander stated that Germany considers that all wood-cargoes bound for Britain are contraband. A despatch from Helsingborg, Sweden, announces that one Norwegian and six Swedish steamers have been seized off Falstoba, a small seaport off Sweden on the Baltic Sea.

Russian Wounded Tongues Cut Out.

German Atrocities are Reported From the East.

Petrograd, Oct. 22.—Two stories of atrocities were told by wounded Russians who had just been allowed out of the hospital. One, with his wife, who had come to Petrograd to fetch him, was leaving by train for the province of Pskoff, and comrades were seeing the other off to the same province.

The first man had had his tongue cut away and a bullet in his knee. By signs and interpretations of his wife and comrades of the same regiment the following account was obtained:

"I was hit in the knee and fainted from pain. When I came to as the result of a kick in the ribs I found a German officer with a couple of men standing over me. When he ordered me to put out my tongue I thought he was a doctor. I did so, and one of the men caught it and cut it off."

The comrade of the man first interviewed had a wound in his arm and his tongue had been cut out by the root. Not only was he minus his tongue altogether, but all his front teeth had been knocked out and his lips mangled. I understood that this had been done by a rifle butt, because, seeing what had happened to others, he would not show his tongue. The blow made him unconscious, and when he came to his tongue was gone. These men say that seven wounded they personally knew of were so treated.

LADIES' MACKINTOSHES, In Black Enamel, Opened on Saturday. $5.50 each. S. MILLEY.

The Crescent Picture Palace. Begins the week with an all-feature programme. "The Badge of Policeman O'Roan," An American Standard 2 reel feature. The Earl of Ardsley casts off his son, who goes to America and as a volunteer takes part in the Spanish-American war, and later becomes Policeman O'Roan of the New York Mounted. "OUT OF THE PAST" is a pathetic melo-drama produced by the Crystal Company, featuring Pearl White. "MRS. LACEY'S LEGACY" is a very funny comedy. Mrs. Lacey is left $5,000.00. How she loses it and finds it again is comically illustrated in this picture. FREDERICK KNIGHTS, Tenor, sings "The Message of the Violets" from the great New York operatic success "The Prince of Pilsen."

Let no Patron Miss this Program at The Nickel To-Day! With the Belgian Defenders, 25 colored war slides, realistic scenes direct from the front. Why Tars Wear Blue and White!

The selection of blue and white as the color of our naval uniform came about in a curious way. In the middle of the 18th Century it was decided to have a regular uniform for the Navy, and the then Admiral of the Fleet was summoned to attend a meeting to settle on the color. The Admiral was for blue and red, these being the national colors. But the Duke of Bedford, who was present, spoke up and said that the King, George II., had seen the Duchess of Bedford riding in a habit of blue faced with white and that the color of this dress had so taken His Majesty's fancy that he had appointed it to be the color of the uniform of the Royal Navy.
 Since that time the Royal Navy Blue has become a standard, and we are pleased to announce to all British subjects everywhere that in the dyeing of garments to this color we give complete satisfaction.

OCTOBER 26.
 New Moon—19th.
 Days Past—298 To Come—66
COUNT VON MOLTKE born 1800. The great German military organizer whose chief title to renown is in the organization and preparation of armies, and not in the direction in the field.
HOGARTH died 1764, aged 67. Celebrated English painter. The chief of his pictures are "Industry and Idleness," "Marriage à la Mode," and the "Rake's Progress."
ALFRED THE GREAT died 901, aged 52. He occupied the English throne for thirty years, during which he repulsed the Danish invasion, codified the laws, established schools, translated numerous valuable works into English and gave England her first fleet.

A SCRAP OF PAPER.
 A scrap of paper—that is all! Why, what are statesmen at To niggle at the tearing-up Of such a thing as that?

Why not ignore that it exists, And tear it bit by bit, What though our word of honor was By both upon it writ?

Come, tear it up. Kings can afford To play these traitor games; Let's rend our honor into shreds And cast it in the flames!

A scrap of paper! Just reflect What infamy you're at; For Magna Charta's self was writ On such a scrap as that.

America's Independence was Writ in a bygone age, Upon one other simple sheet— Who'd dare to tear the page? So shall this paper honored be, Whatever else may hap, Who threatens War? Then let War come! Just for this scrap—a scrap!

At the Crescent.

Mr. Frederick Knights, we are pleased to say, has got over his cold and will appear at the popular "Crescent Picture Palace" to-night and sing "The Message of the Violet" tender song from "The Prince of Pilsen," the greatest New York operatic success of recent years. The picture programme to-day is an exceptionally good one. The feature picture is a two-reel masterpiece by the "American Standard" Photo Play Company, and is most varied in scenic plots; the acting is sustained by such artists as Rusa, Koch, Alec Francis, Robt. Frazer, etc. A pathetic melodrama is "Oh of the Past," story of how arriving at a rash conclusion wrecks the lives of husband and wife. A very funny story told in "Mrs. Lacey's Legacy," the lady inherits a fortune in cash and as she thinks securely hides it, Mr. Lacey unwittingly gives it away, the trouble before it is found is the funny part, this show is up to the Crescent Standard, don't fail to take it in.

The Swing of Death

BY SERPENTELLO.
 For a real clever exhibition of wonderful derring, all should see this great circus act; never has the like been seen here before. Serpentello the clever dainty little contortionist and acrobatic performer on the flying ladder, or Swing of Death, as it is known in the circus profession, to-night at Rossley's, will show some real marvelous feats. She is only 18 years old and stands away up in the business; the only trouble with her at the present time is that the ceiling is not high enough. She works without the aid of any net or other appliance. The Human Frog Man will also be seen on the trapeze, another wonder. There are some elegant new pictures, a great shipment having come by the s.s. Digby, together with one of the best machines ever brought into the country, and slides of every description. For seats be in time.

POLICE ASSAULTED.—A disorderly scene occurred on Water Street, Saturday night, and a crowd collected and witnessed an outport man assault Constable Tivworth, who was trying to arrest him. The latter bit one of the Constable's fingers and then ran away. The prisoner is known and will be arrested.

Substitution.
 The imitator is like the counterfeiter. He enters the field of business with a cheaper, lower grade article of merchandise, made as a substitute for the genuine, and generally sold at a cheaper price, arguing, as usual, that it is "just as good." The dealer is persuaded to handle it on glowing promises of enormous profits—much larger than the regular legitimate profit which is made on the genuine article. The imitator succeeds in paying upon man's natural avarice, places his goods on sale with the dealer, and instructs him to take advantage of the public by substituting the false article for the genuine at every opportunity. You can be pretty sure that whenever you ask for a well-known product and the dealer tells you he has something else that's just as good, or even better, the dealer is going to make a greater profit on that article than the one you call for, and in nine cases out of ten you will get a much inferior article. Some buyers are easily imposed upon, and this encourages the "cut-throat" schemes to increase their substitutions. This also discourages the legitimate manufacturer who is putting out articles of merchandise that represent honest value for the consumer. Where a man has devoted years of his life in perfecting an article that he knows cannot be excelled in quality, where he has spent thousands of dollars in advertising his goods, and where sometimes great injury results by permitting substitution to rob him of his market and at the same time rob the consumer by selling him a doubtful article at practically the same price. There is no law through which such evil practices can be stopped. The sole remedy is for the legitimate manufacturer to ask the dealer to direct him to patronize dealers who try to substitute a cheap article for the kind wanted. All first class dealers know that it is poor business to try to substitute anything else for the article wanted.

These pictures have been received direct from the front, and will be of the greatest interest to all. The two-reel film is entitled: "Romance and Duty." Too Good to Be True.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"Jack is so foolish," said a Lady across-the-way to another neighbor in a street spring. "What do you suppose he has done now? He's bought puncture-proof tires for his automobile. He really believes that they are practical and that he will have no more punctures."

"Aren't there any really puncture-proof tires?" asked the other.

"Of course not!" said the first speaker. "Don't you suppose that if there were really puncture-proof tires everybody would have them?"

"I suppose so," said her neighbor.

"Now I don't know anything about the merits of puncture-proof tires. But I do not believe that the argument the Lady-across-the-way used is a final one, by any means, even though it may be a popular one."

Most of us subscribe to the old adage, "Be not the first by which the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside." Hearing of something new and novel, designed to add to our comfort, efficiency or peace of mind, we are inclined to discount its claims. "If it were as good as they say, everybody would use it." And so we wait and see.

It is human nature, I suppose to eye askance anything better than what we are accustomed to. It is that sense of distrust that one New York banker understood when he told another that if he should try to peddle five-dollar gold pieces for fifteen cents on any street corner, there would be no buyers.

One of my friends recently heard of a house for sale. The neighbourhood itself seemed well built and well planned. The people who were selling it were above reproach. She told another friend of her prospective purchase. "Don't buy it," said the latter. "It can't be such a bargain as it seems, or else someone would have bought it. There must be something wrong about it."

Now it is well to proceed slowly and cautiously when the value seems too good to be true. There is always a strong chance that there may be something wrong, but to declare when every other point has been covered that a thing really can't be a bargain because it seems one, is to forever bar the chance of buying at an advantage.

Scepticism has its uses, but it also has abuses. When we persuade ourselves that if a thing is good it is too good to be true, too good for us, we get caught in a vicious treadmill of mediocrity.

For him who has an open mind and who is willing to judge not by axioms and prejudices, but by the reality, the best things of life are waiting.

A Thought for the Times

THE WAR—CHAPTER XXII.
I. C. MORRIS.

By the consolidation of Empire is principally meant the unity and closer relationship of those foreign powers which now pay homage to the Throne of England, and which acknowledge her as the Mother of Empire. But in addition to the solidarity of the Empire, there must of necessity follow great industrial enterprise and expansion, which will promote the commercial interests of the age. While this enterprise will be general throughout the Empire, it will be in Northern Canada that the greatest developments must take place. The highway of preparation for this development is embodied in the Hudson Bay railway, which is now under construction, and which, within a few years will be an accomplished fact. This line will reduce the distance of transport from Western Canada to Europe about a thousand miles, and create many new industries in its wake. We are aware that there are those who do not approve of the Hudson Bay project, and who think it all a mistake, and who imagine that this successful operation is almost impossible. This same spirit of stagnation has been pitted against many of the world's greatest enterprises, but in spite of it they have been successfully established. The excavation of the Panama Canal was at first ridiculed and the canal's utility doubted; but now it is an accomplished fact, and this great marine highway which connects the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, is a standing proof to those who opposed its construction. The Canadian Pacific Railway was also keenly opposed and bitterly denounced by its opponents, but for over thirty years it has united the eastern and western extremes of the Dominion. Our own railways were treated in the same way, but who would abolish them to-day?

And thus we might go on, but our topic is of the future. The volume of trade between Europe and America will annually increase, and among the principal commodities of transport will be grain, lumber, pulp and ore, and it is in these branches of commerce that the steamers plying on the Hudson Bay route will engage. July, August and September and probably October constitutes the open season of Hudson Bay, and there should be a period of one hundred days.

Considering then that the grain is to be stored in elevators, and that every utility of speedy shipment will be availed of, it is not difficult to foresee that for the open season the traffic on this route will be large. Hudson Bay as a shipping centre had much in its favor before the war began. But when the war is over and the channels of trade are restored and the commerce of the world is again adjusted, and that wider vision which must soon dawn upon mankind, comes, the conditions which shall then prevail, will greatly favour settlement in North Western Canada, and especially the shorter route via Hudson Bay.

The millions of acres of land, and the vast forests, and the mighty watercourses of the Dominion of Canada, have yet to hum with industry. The valleys and plains have had their long day of silence, but with the growth of the twentieth century the spell of the ages shall have passed away. This transformation was coming, but now that war has so devastated the Old World, the tide of emigration will flow this way with greater volume than ever before, and the vast Prince Rupert's land will awaken to the value of its future relationship to the commercial interest of the world.

The application of natural science will do much for this great territory. Its water courses will supply ample power to generate sufficient electricity to light the continent from shore to shore—and also enough for heating purposes. The immense coalbeds of anthracite will yield millions of tons annually, and though the season is short, a great deal will be done towards the comforts of life by scientific cultivation of the ground.

This forecast has been conceived by many of the greatest of Canadian Statesmen, and it will be realized the sooner, now that war has quickened the Empire.

The duty of the hour is for us to keep ourselves well posted in the events of this war, and to exercise confidence in our leaders and in our men. The struggle and the stress are theirs, and they look to the public for help and sympathy. Our safety today at home is due to their alertness. They are doing their duty let us do ours.

This is all that we wish to say at present on the war. What we have written has been in a general, more than in a specific sense. The city editors are doing their part in the matter of detail and statistics. Perhaps what we have written has not been worth while; however, if we have done any little good, or have in any degree deepened the faith of our people in the success of British arms, and in the future of our own land, then our efforts have not been in vain.

We may further add that when the war is over and peace declared, we hope to visit the scenes of conflict, and there, amid the carnage of desolation behold enough of tragedy to fill out a small book entitled: "A Rumble Over the Battlefields of the World's Greatest War."

Since beginning these notes we had the privilege of visiting one of our nearby outposts and while there we gleaned a few facts which may prove of interest to the public. We will, therefore, continue our notes under the same heading for a few chapters more, on Saturday next.

Two Kinds of Culture. Sulphate of Ammonia.

In the retreat from Mons, an artillery man, slightly wounded, asked a German for water, and was refused. On the Aisne last week the artillery man recognized the same German among a party of wounded whose cries for water couldn't be attended to quickly enough.

The recognition was mutual, and the German stopped his crying, thinking he was sure to be paid back in his own coin. The artillery man took out his water bottle and handed it to the German without a word. You never saw anybody look so abashed as that German. —A Corporal of the Highland Light Infantry.

STAFFORD'S LINIMENT FOR SALE BY THE BOTTLE.

St. John's Gas Light Company. Dear Sir—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works, and I found 20.5 per cent. of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Yesterday's Parades.

C. C. C.
The C. C. C., about 250 strong under command of Lt.-Col. Conroy, attended last Mass at the Cathedral yesterday, the line of march being down Long's Hill, along Gower Street and Military Road. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Dr. Greene, after which the battalion returned to the Armoury by way of Military Road, Duckworth Street, Church Hill and Long's Hill. The band, under Captain Arthur Bulley rendered excellent music including many stirring patriotic selections, along the line of march.

HIGHLANDERS.

The Newfoundland Highlanders held their last church parade for the season yesterday, attending Divine Service at St. Andrew's Church, where Rev. J. Sutherland officiated, and also delivered an impressive sermon. The battalion was under the command of Capt. McKay, the turnout was a large one, and included the recruits who have recently joined the ranks. Return to headquarters was made by way of LeMarchant Road, Bartlett's Hill, New Gower and Duckworth Streets, and King's Road.

The Penalty of Chivalry.

"A patrol of ours was out one day and came on two Germans looting an orchard. They were a bit squeamish about shooting the two chaps with their backs turned, so they gave a shout to let the Germans have a chance of defending themselves. Like lightning, one of the Germans turned about and sent a bullet crashing into the brain of the man who had been the first to suggest that they should be warned. We fired after that and we didn't miss." —A Private of the Gloucesters.

Stop Coughing.

It's quite as foolish as it is annoying to keep on coughing since "PHORATONE COUGH MIXTURE" is guaranteed to soothe and heal the irritated parts at once, and to rapidly destroy the very cause of this aggravating nuisance. Hundreds of persons are complaining every day about the cough or cold they have had for a long time, and they are not able to get rid of it.

Don't let a cough or cold hang on to you day after day and run the chance of catching and developing the "cough" that is not easy to throw off. You will avoid all this worry (about the cough or cold you have) by obtaining "Phoratone Cough Mixture" at once.

Sold at Stafford's Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and Stafford's Pharmacy, Duckworth Street. Price 25c.; postage, 5 cts. extra.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuzar

Through a Glass Darkly

Shamed and humiliated, Marian walked on and on. She would gladly have wiped the last six months completely out of her life in exchange for the assurance that the things the two women had discussed had never happened.

She flayed herself, now that it was too late, for not having questioned the acceptances of her various manuscripts. She wondered that it had never occurred to her that there was something odd and strange about her good fortune in finding such ready markets for her mediocre wares.

She realized now that pure vanity and egotism had led her to accept the mere surface indications of events.

Why had she not made an effort to pry beneath the glamour of the surface into the real, true heart of things?

Staring on and on, she saw life darkly. Sick with the thought that her sojourn at Placid Inn, her life lately in New York, and now her stay here had been financed by charity, pure and simple, her chagrin and disgust knew no bounds. In a way, she mused, it had been sweet of Meadows, after her refusal to accept a loan, to try to help her over some of her bumps. But she hated patronage like poison. She hated herself. She hated life and its forces which had hurled her into a world of sharp and bitter competition for which she had known no adequate preparation.

Lashed by this annoying mood, Marian began for the first time since her arrival at Atlantic City to dislike the place. Walking up Tennessee avenue, a thoroughfare cluttered and jammed with hotels and boarding houses, cheap restaurants, arrays of suggestive post-cards on street vendors' stands, and a thick lather of vilifying pedestrians, she hurried on her way, wishing to escape the street's sights and sounds.

Scantly clad men and women in their bathing suits were strolling vulgarly down the street. The clatter of the newest rag-time airs, hammered out of poorly attuned pianos, came out of the fetid doors of the hotels. In their lobbies stood the never-fading scales, surrounded by little groups of people, avid for knowledge as to their weight. Callow youths in cheap flannel trousers, abridging neckties, and end-of-the-season bargains in straw hats, were swinging cheap canes and flirting with passing young women.

Reaching the business section of the city, Marian caught sight of a telegraph office. She entered hastily, poised a pencil for a moment, and scribbled the following telegram to the editor of the City Dweller: "Have my stories been paid for by some philanthropist? Wire answer immediately."

Having dispatched this wire, Marian felt partially relieved. She had no doubt what the answer would be. Yet in her frenzied mental condition it had been imperative to take some kind of step. She was glad she had obeyed the impulse to send the telegram.

Emerging from the telegraph office she caught sight of none other than Challoner. He was the last person on earth she wanted to talk to just now. Remembering her broken engagement for the first time she never-the-less started quickly in the opposite direction, determined to make good her escape and give herself over to further thought and planning.

"Miss Winthrop! Just a moment!" she heard presently, however. Challoner, having caught sight of her departing figure, had hurriedly followed and overtaken her. "Discovered, you little devil!" he laughed.

Looking into his kindly face she was glad that he had found her. She tried to answer his greeting, but choked. Her lips trembled, and swift tears dashed down her cheeks.

"Why Marian, what's the matter?" demanded Challoner in astonishment. "Oh, Mr. Challoner," she burst out, "I'm the most miserable person in the world!"

OFFICIAL REPORT.

PARIS, Oct. 24. The following official report was given out this afternoon: "The battle continues on our left wing. The enemy has made progress to the north of Dixmude and in the vicinity of La Basee. We have made very perceptible advances to the east of Neuport, in the region of Langemarck, and in the region between Armentieres and Lille. It is a question of inevitable fluctuations in the line of combat which however maintains itself as a whole. On the rest of the front several German attacks by day and by night have been repulsed at various places. We have made slight progress in the Woerze district. Our advance has continued in the direction of the fortress of Montmarne, to South Thiaucourt aid in the forest of Lepreire North of Pout-a-Mousson.

In Russia the Germans are retreating to the South of Warsaw, as well as to the West of Ivanogrod and Nova Alexandria. Desperate fighting continues in Galicia, on the Sandomier front. At Przemysl the Russians have taken 2,000 Austrian prisoners.

LONDON, Oct. 24. Governor, St. John's: During October 23rd a British flotilla of monitors and other vessels bombarded the German right, causing heavy losses, as testified by prisoners.

German submarines persistently attacked the flotilla and fired torpedoes, without effect, at the Wildfire (sloop of 1,140 tons), and the Myrmidon (Torpedo-Boat-Destroyer, 370 tons). No loss was sustained by the flotilla.

All German attacks on Neuport have been repulsed.

GERMAN SUBMARINE SUNK.
LONDON, Oct. 25. A German submarine was rammed and sunk by the Destroyer Badger (800 tons), Commander Fremantle, on the Dutch coast.

ADMIRALTY REPORT.
LONDON, Oct. 25. The Admiralty has issued the following: All of yesterday, Monitors and other vessels of the British bombarding fleet fired on the Germans right wing, which they searched thoroughly and effectively in consort with the operations of the Belgian Army. All German attacks at Neuport were repulsed and much damage was done to the enemy by the naval fire, which enfiladed the German lines. Prisoners taken yesterday and the day before testify to the heavy losses the enemy has suffered from this cause. Fire was opened in the afternoon on the German batteries, near Ostend. Admiral Hood has a fine flotilla of vessels, suitable for this work, but at the same time not of great value. During the day our ships were attacked by the enemy's submarines, and torpedoes were fired without success. Other British vessels again attacked the submarines. Naval aeroplanes and balloons aided in direction of fire. No loss was sustained by the flotilla yesterday.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED.
LONDON, Oct. 25. The Sunday observer prints a dispatch stating that through cutting of dykes in the low country east of Dismude, a large German force has been flooded out. Estimates placed the German loss at 5,000 drowned, and 30,000 killed and wounded. Fighting in this region is most desperate.

MAJOR RIVERS BULKLEY KILLED IN ACTION.
OTTAWA, Oct. 25. A cablegram received at Government House announces the death of Major Rivers Bulkley, Comptroller of the Household of the Duke of Connaught. He was killed in action at the front. Major Bulkley last year married Miss Ruby, Lady-in-Waiting to the Duchess of Connaught.

FROM THE FRENCH EMBASSY.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. The following despatches were received to-day from the French Embassy: "In the region of Santerre certain partial successes are announced, and also in the region of Verdun and Pont au Mousson. In order to understand the results accomplished by the Allies, it is necessary to consider the conditions as reported at the end of last month, when the left wing of our army was in the Oise region, at Compelgne, and those portions which were disposed further to the west, and hardly reached the Somme, in the vicinity of Amiens. Today, however, the battlefront stretches 200 kilometres to Belgium, reaching the ocean, where our left wing co-operates with the English fleet."

OFFERING FEEBLE RESISTANCE.
PETROGRAD, Oct. 25.—(Official.) Our troops beyond the Vistula are pressing the enemy in retreat, north of the Pilltzar River. The Germans are offering only feeble resistance, and have been driven back as far as Skiernevliewe. South of Pilltzar they have forced the Austro-German troops to engage in a serious battle.

BATTERIES DESTROYED.
PARIS, Oct. 25. The destruction of three German batteries on the heights of the Meuse was officially announced to-day at 2.30.

THE BOER REBELS.
PRETORIA, Oct. 25. Col. Maritz attacked Kermos (Cape Province) on Thursday, with a force of over 1,000, including several Germans, with artillery and machine guns. Casualties, one killed and ten wounded. The enemy left two dead.

ANTI-GERMAN RIOTS.
LONDON, Oct. 25. Anti-German riots occurred during the night in the Clapham district of London. A German baker shop was wrecked. The German Athenaeum Club, one of the finest in London, closed its doors on Saturday night.

SIR CHARLES DOUGLAS DEAD.
LONDON, Oct. 25. General Sir Charles Douglas, Chief of Staff of the British Army, and First Military Member of the Council, died to-day, aged 64.

WILL RESPECT MONROE DOCTRINE.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. The German Ambassador, Count Bernstorff, said to-day that early in the European war he had assured the United States that whatever the outcome of the conflict, Germany would respect the Monroe Doctrine.

KITCHENER LORD RECTOR.
LONDON, Oct. 25. Lord Kitchener has been unanimously elected Lord Rector of Edinburgh University.

GERMANS CROSS YSER CANAL.
LONDON, Oct. 26. Each day is but a repetition of previous days' battles which have been fought in West Flanders and Northern France and Poland. One side gains a little at one point, only to lose an advantage at another. It appears from official reports issued from the German and French headquarters that the Germans, finding it impossible to advance along the coast towards Dunkirk owing to the fire to which they were subjected from British and French warships, took a route further inland, and have succeeded in crossing the Yser canal, which the Belgians have been defending stubbornly for a week past to the west of Dixmude. They have also made progress to the northwest of Ypres, and are still in possession of Roulers, towards which the Allies were advancing last week, and were one time reported to have captured. The Germans claim to have taken five hundred British troops while fighting in this neighborhood. Of gains claimed by the Germans, the French reports make no mention, dismissing the matter with the sentence: "There is no change to report between the sea and the region around Arras. To add to the trials of the troops engaged in the desperate fighting, a short spell of fine weather has given place to another downpour of rain, which will convert the lowlands of Flanders into great lakes. Of the battles on the centre and left wing the German report does not say, but the French declare they are maintaining their positions in Argonne and on the heights of the Meuse, and have destroyed three more German batteries. From unofficial sources it is learned that the French have made some advance in the mountains in Alsace border. In Poland a very heavy battle is now in progress between the fortresses of Ivanogrod and Radom.

where the Germans and Austrians, who were defeated in their first attempt to cross the Vistula, have made a stand against the Russians, who have followed in the hope of destroying them. Both sides, according to their own reports, made progress and captured guns, but the battle which extends over a front of 20 miles, has not yet been decided.

RUSSIAN VICTORIES.
PETROGRAD, Oct. 26. The following communication was issued last night by general headquarters: On the 23rd and 24th the Russian troops inflicted several defeats to the German rear-guards, who were attempting to hold positions along the rivers Ravka, Skernerka and Ryka. Several positions were taken by bayonet attacks. The Austrians retreated with Germans. On the roads near Rodan, having received reinforcements, and profiting by the waded character of region, they offered stubborn resistance. Our offensive developed into considerable dimensions and we captured prisoners, cannon and rapid fire guns. Along the River San, south of Przemysl, desperate fighting continues. An attempt by the Austrians to turn the Russian left wing, south of Przemysl, failed, with heavy losses to the Austrians. An Austrian column which descended the Carpathians, near the town of Dolina, have been defeated and dispersed.

The following was issued by the French War Office last night: Action continues under the same conditions as on preceding days. A battle of a very violent character is in progress between Neuport and the River Lys. The German forces have succeeded in crossing the Yser between Neuport and Dixmude. To the west and south of Lille spirited attacks by the enemy have been repulsed. Between the Oise and Argonne there is nothing to report, except that several small advances by our troops have occurred. To the northwest of Soissons and in the region of Croisne, on the heights of the Meuse, there are artillery engagements. In the Woerze region our heavy artillery holds five roads connecting Thiaucourt, Non-sard, Brussels and Joinville, which is one of the main lines of communication for the Germans near St. Mihiel. It is reported that yesterday in the Argonne region, an entire regiment of German infantry was annihilated during the operations.

NO TIDINGS OF WOMAN.—Search parties were all over the country yesterday looking for the missing woman Landy, but no trace of her was found. Hopes of finding her are now beginning to be despaired of.

Fishery Gear!

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the GILL NETS, used by Messrs. Job Brothers & Co. in the Straits this year. They have been successful at a time when traps had partially failed. We make them in all sizes to order.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of COTTON DRIFT NETS, such as are used in the North Sea Herring Fishery. As the catch of Herring will be interfered with during the war, a good opportunity occurs for use of these Nets in Newfoundland.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of the celebrated STANDARD brand of Herring Nets, which is universally acknowledged to be the very best Net on the market. We are now making the CRESCENT brand Herring Net, which is the best and strongest LOW PRICED NET MADE. It is mounted just the same as the Standard Net, and it is barked for preservation, not merely dyed like other cheap Nets.

WE ARE MANUFACTURERS of SQUID TRAPS, which are now legal; we make them in any size required, to order.

We manufacture TARRED COTTON LINES, all sizes, for Bankers' use; strong, durable and easily handled.

We make COD TRAPS, COD SEINES, CAPLIN SEINES, ETC., to order, in all sizes.

All the above fishery gear we can strongly recommend, and we would urge our fishermen to patronize articles of home manufacture, in order to give employment, which is so much needed this year.
