CHAPTER XXXII.
Forgiven!

That meeting had not yet taken place; but Kittle knew that it must come some day, and her heart shrank at the thought of it. Lashmore, of course, also knew it must come; but, for Kittle's sake, he avoided it.

One day Osborne, who met them frequently, came with an invitation. It was from Lady Lorchester. She begged that Lord and Lady Hernalde would come to see her that same evening.

"Sir Talbot and Miss Lyndhurst will be there, Lashmore," said Osborne quietly; "but perhaps it would be as well if you did not mention the fact to Lady Hernalde."

Lashmore understood, and nodded as he pressed Osborne's hand. Yes, they would go; and he would say nothing about Eva Lyndhurst to Kittle.

"I suppose I shall have to be very smart to-night, Harry dear," she said all unsuspectingly.

"Yes, I should put on all your war-paint," he replied.

And when she came into his dressing-room in her smartest frock, with the Hernalde diamonds sparkling on her white neck and arms and in the soft raven hair, he kissed her, and holding her at arm's length, said to himself: "Surely no man, not even a woman, could be hard on so beautiful, so tender a creature! If I could only save her from this—but I can't, I can't!"

Lady Lorchester was alone when they arrived. She started when she saw Kittle, for the resemblance not only amazed, but puzzled her; but the dear good lady concealed her astonishment as well as she could, and greeted Kittle very warmly.

"Your husband is an old friend of mine, my dear," she said; "and I am delighted to meet you. I never did like that other man, there was always something about him—but I mustn't speak of him. It's very tactless of me! But I'm a foolish old woman; and I must say how delighted I am that your husband has proved to be the right man. Come and sit down, my dear, and let us have a talk before the others come."

Kittle was grateful to the old lady for her kindness; and they were talking together quite confidentially when a footman threw open the door and announced: "Sir Talbot and Miss Lyndhurst, and Mr. Osborne."

Kittle's eyes turned slowly toward the door, the blood ebbed from her face, and, unconsciously, she rose, her face white as death, her eyes fixed, with a piteous appeal, on the face of her double. Eva turned her head, as if she felt that gaze, and, starting, stared with amazement at Kittle. Naturally enough, there was something more than amazement, there was a touch of anger and indignation in her face and attitude, for she could not forget that this other woman had stolen her name, had taken her place. The two women gazed at each other in profound silence; and at that moment Kittle's punishment was complete in all its bitterness.

His heart melting with love and pity, Lashmore went to her and, taking her hand, led her up to Eva.

"My wife!" he said, in a low voice. Eva drew a long breath and her eyes looked over Kittle's head. She bowed; she wanted to put out her hand, but she was too confused, too bewildered at the moment to do so. Before she could regain her composure and offer the hand, Sir Talbot, with a cry, hurried to Kittle and seized, rather than took, her hand, gazing at her with an almost painful scrutiny.

"You are Mr. Lashmore's—Lord Hernalde's wife? This extraordinary resemblance—forgive me!—there is some mystery, but I think I can explain it. Will you tell me your name—I mean your maiden name?"

Kittle knew what was coming; she could scarcely force her trembling lips to answer; but presently, in the intense silence, there fell from them the words:

"Norton—Kittle Norton."

Sir Talbot uttered an ejaculation.

"I thought so! I suspected the truth!" He swung round to Lady Lorchester. "You remember my younger brother, De Courcy? Poor De Courcy! He disappeared. He was wild and reckless—nothing worse, nothing worse!—he cut himself off from us, disappeared. He made an unfortunate marriage!—I beg your pardon, my dear—I should have said that he married beneath his station. My father was angry—you know what he was, Emily? De Courcy cut himself off from us and we saw no more of him. He was proud, like the rest of us; too proud to have anything to do with the family who would not acknowledge his wife—my dear, I assure you there was nothing but difference of station. You must be his daughter—that accounts for the extraordinary resemblance between Eva and you! I suspected that this was the solution of the mystery. I ought to have solved it before this—but I have been busy, worried."

Kittle clung to her husband's arm, her breath was coming painfully, her eyes were downcast. Eva stood, breathing as painfully as Kittle, and looking at her with quite a different expression to that with which she had before regarded her. For blood is thicker than water, and Eva's heart was melting at the sight of Kittle's distress.

Sir Talbot swung round to Eva. "You understand, Eva?" he said. "This is your cousin, my niece. Her father called himself Norton; but his name, hers, was your own, Lyndhurst. You don't look surprised, my dear?" he said to Kittle.

"I—I knew," faltered Kittle. "I discovered it from—some papers of my father's."

She swayed a little, as if she were about to faint, and Lashmore drew her nearer to him; but Eva went to her and took her hand.

"Let her come with me," she said in a low voice.

She drew Kittle into the ante-room, the curtains swung behind them, and Kittle would have fallen, but Eva took her in her arms and supported her. Both women were crying.

"Oh, forgive me, forgive me!" implored Kittle. "If you knew all—I loved him, loved him so very much!"

"To know all is to pardon all," said Eva very gravely, but very sweetly. "I do forgive you. No, don't thank me. I am too happy to bear malice. You have the man you love; and I—I shall gain by what you have done. Don't cry! We are cousins. I am glad! But," she laughed, "we shall have to wear a label when we go out together, or else we shall be taken for the other woman!"

THE END.

A Child of Sorrow.

CHAPTER I.

She was extraordinarily quick with her fingers—and her tongue; was possessed of that peculiar pluck which is the birthright of the young English girl, and was firmly convinced in her mind that her mission in life was to act as special providence to the beautiful sister whom she worshipped as a goddess of beauty and genius.

At intervals, as she worked at the blouse, she glanced at the lovely face now bent slightly over the keys of the piano, now, slanted, as the deep blue eyes gazed dreamily at the rather grimy ceiling; and there was love and admiration and that peculiar tenderness which only women's eyes can wear in every glance; and this commingling of affection and worship made the shrewd, green-grey eyes very pleasant to look upon.

Presently Maida's long, white fingers struck a chord softly, a quiet one, she bent still lower over the piano, then, with a slight start, as if she had awakened from a dream, she looked round and in a voice, remarkable for its clear and mellow tones said, with a touch of gentle self-reproach:

"Are you there still, Carrie? I wish you would not! You have been working so long—how long is it? I have forgotten! Will you not put it away, to please me, dear? It does not matter, indeed, it does not. I can wear my old one; it looks very nice and fresh."

"Oh, no, you won't," said Carrie, cheerfully but emphatically. "The old one never was very nice and certainly is not fresh; anyhow it is not good enough for such an occasion as this, an occasion which, like father's whiskey, is 'extra special.' I'm afraid you're selfish, Maida; you want all the glory. If there should be any reports there—and of course there will be, for don't all the swells insist upon having accounts of their entertainments in the society rags—"

"Rags?" murmured Maida, as she leant against Carrie's chair and drew the girl's long hair between her fingers.

Carrie nodded.

"Ricky again. A rag, my sweet and simple maid, is a paper—see? You'll want them to rave about your voice and your—what is it, 'rendition'—"

—what a word! I wonder whether half of them know what it means?—but I want them to stick in a line about your toes—sorry, but it's so much easier than costume—Miss Maida Carrington who so exquisitely rendered Owen Meredith's masterpiece, has been greatly favoured by the gods, who, in addition to great mental and histrionic gifts have endowed her with charms of form and feature beyond those which fall to the lot of most women. We noticed that her attire—this is where I come in, my child—was as instinct with a grace and taste which matched the extraordinary talent displayed so lavishly before the brilliant audience gathered in the salon of the hospitable Countess of Glassbury—"

Maida laughed softly.

"I'm afraid they won't say anything half so nice, Carrie; though I admit they ought to grow enthusiastic over the blouse, dear. It will be very kind of the 'brilliant audience,' as you call them, if they condescend to listen to me—as a rule they begin to talk as one goes to the piano—"

"Not when you're playing," put in Carrie, decidedly. "You forget that I've been with you once or twice, Maida. You could have heard a pin drop—I wish I could hear them drop; I shouldn't lose so many for father to pick up in his feet when he's hunting for his slippers. Do you think it will be a success to-night? But it is sure to be. It is a new thing, isn't it?"

"I don't know. One minute I'm afraid it will not be, the next I am hopeful. I would try it over for you, but you know how nervous I am, and how I dread making it stale. I haven't said it myself yet, not plainly; I want it to come quite fresh and spontaneously, a surprise to myself as well as to them. If I rehearse it aloud—ah, well, it is like taking the bloom off a peach, the dew from a flower—Are you laughing at me, Carrie?" she broke off.

"Laughing at you!" responded Carrie, indignantly. "What are you thinking of? Laughing! I should as soon think of laughing at the Church Catechism."

There came a knock at the door, and a boyish head was thrust round it.

"Learning the Church Catechism? Dear me, I was under the impression that you always confined yourselves to the Marriage Service. Ah, would you?" he broke off, a reel of cotton propelled by Carrie's skilful and by no means weakling hand just missed his laughing face. "May I come in, or is it something I oughtn't to see? Say the word and I retire with my usual grace and modesty."

Without waiting for permission the boy entered. It was Richard, otherwise Ricky—Clark: a youth articulated to the law and lodging in the attic above; the friend of the family in general and the playmate, the butt, and the pleasing torment of Miss Carrie Carrington in special. The two had made acquaintance on the stairs common to the whole house, an acquaintance which had rapidly ripened into one of those unrestrained friendships which are the blessed privilege of the young. Carrie and the boy fought each other with a candour and freedom which always amused the absorbed and dreamy Maida, and sometimes filled her with amazement and a dread lest their quarrels should be permanent; but though Carrie's sharp tongue would often send Ricky banging out of the room, he always returned the next day; and Carrie invariably received him as if nothing of an unpleasant nature had occurred.

"We, the inhabitants of Bauline, some time ago petitioned the Government, requesting the extension of the telephone system from Pouch Cove to Bauline, but hitherto no action has been done in this connection (except as we know), and as St. John's East is at present represented by one member only, and whilst we deeply regret the death of one of our members, Mr. John Dwyer, we rejoice and congratulate the other, Mr. J. Fishery North

The following is a report on the fishery between Twillingate and Trump Island, as received by the Board of Trade. The total catch is only 60 qts. and prospects are not good at present. Owing to the rough water and prevailing strong S.W. wind blowing on the shore, only a few traps could be set, and these in very sheltered places. One in a school berth did very well for three days but owing to the increasing wind could not continue. Four traps are being set, but no dorries, skiffs or boats and regular operations have not commenced.

L.S.P.U. Meeting.

"Union Man" Writes Again. Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—I see in this evening's issue Mr. McGrath's answer to my letter of the 23rd inst.

Now, Mr. Editor, I was expecting some kind of a reply from Mr. McGrath, but was hardly prepared for what I got.

He says that I must have deliberately made up the falsehood. I wrote that letter in defence of the Union; I write this one to defend myself. I did not go by what anybody told me; I was present at that meeting and speak from experience. Mr. McGrath don't deny that they brought men from the club rooms and he tries to prove my letter false by publishing the proceeds at that meeting, $180.

Now, Mr. Editor, that don't in any way bear out his point, for I have often went to a meeting with three men's money and I ask Mr. McGrath how many men's money he brought to the hall and paid.

He says the meeting in question was one of the largest in the history of the Union. Now, is that untrue; besides there was lots of men and women that paid money after that conscription business was over, and I will ask him again how many women and children did help that night to make up that $180.

He says the Union is sold to a man for no conscription. Mr. McGrath is hardly in a position to say that, but I will remind him that the Union men don't see eye to eye with him as they did not in the Municipal contest, and I will ask him how many men that night paid 75 cents and $1.00. And I notice that Mr. McGrath refrains from saying anything about the influence of the men that bear on the members that night.

Now, Mr. Editor, if Mr. McGrath gets after me any more I will have to get a scribe to dictate a letter for me. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I will be pleased if you will publish this in your much read UNION MAN.

If You Want Evidence

That Hemorrhoids, or Piles, Can be Completely Cured Read These Letters—Both are Sworn Statements.

Toronto, Ont., May 29th.—Next to personal experience the sworn statements of reliable people is the strongest evidence obtainable. If you have any doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment will positively and completely cure piles, these letters should convince you.

Mr. Samuel Parker, fruit grower, Grimsby, Ont., has made the following declaration before Mr. W. W. W. Kidd, Notary Public of the same place: "I do solemnly declare that I was troubled with bleeding piles and was advised to go to the hospital to have an operation performed. My wife said 'No, get a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment.' I did so and have used it according to directions while living in Manitoba and obtained a complete cure, for I have never been troubled with piles since. I am now seventy years of age and want to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all sufferers from piles. My wife has used it for itching skin and obtained complete cure."

Mr. Donald M. Campbell, Campbell's Mountain, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment with great success for hemorrhoids or piles for fifteen years standing. After trying all kinds of so-called pile cures, three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment gave me a complete cure. I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and there are no others so good. You may use this letter, if you wish, for the benefit of others who may suffer as I did."

Sworn before me, Murdoch Gordon Campbell, J.P., in the County and for Inverness County.

If you would like to try Dr. Chase's Ointment at our expense, send a two-cent stamp to pay postage and we shall mail you a sample box free. Full size box 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS—"Equity."—The matter to which your letter refers has been investigated and the appointments have all been justified. We do not think that you can be conversant with all the facts. It is likely that some public statement will be made. Meantime we do not wish to re-open an old controversy, which might be the effect of publication of your letter.

Business clothes should never be lounged in, but taken off and put on hangers as soon as possible.

Citizens' Committee.

An Energetic Body of Hard Workers—Secretary's Smith's Report Completed. The sixty-second meeting of the Citizens' Committee took place last night at the Board of Trade Rooms, Mr. A. Soper presiding. The attendance was large.

After disposing of the usual reading of the minutes of the previous meeting some additional sections were added to the Secretary's Report, which on being put before the meeting for its final approval was carried by acclamation. Before closing the report it was decided that the Committee recommend that the present term of office of the City Council be extended to December, 1918, so as to eliminate a grievance which has been set forward by newly-elected Councillors who have to work for six months on the rules and regulations laid down by the former Councillors. The first election under the New Municipal Bill would then take place in December of next year.

The first election under the New Municipal Bill would then take place in December of next year. The greater bulk of their business has been disposed of and a few more meetings may be sufficient to conclude their labours. Technically speaking, the Committee will, however, remain in existence until such time as our local Magna Charta has passed its final stage in both branches of the Legislature and is signed by His Excellency the Governor.

Having attended fully ninety per cent of its meetings dating from its inauguration at a mass gathering of taxpayers in the Casino Theatre early last year, we have watched very closely the actions of this Committee and are in a position to state that no other body of citizens have done more to forward the best interests of the community than have the gentlemen who have been constant in attendance at its meetings.

Mr. Giles, in a brief address, proposed a vote of thanks and appreciation to the Chairman, Mr. A. Soper, for the very able manner in which he performed his duties, as also for his constant attendance at the meetings. Mr. T. Peel seconded the motion, also paying a high tribute to Mr. Soper for the masterly manner in which he conducted the meetings. The vote was carried by acclamation.

Mr. Levi Chafe proposed and Mr. Pike seconded a similar vote to the Vice-Chairman, Mr. W. A. O'D. Kelly, for the valuable assistance he has rendered the Committee and for presiding in the absence of the Chairman. Mr. Kelly by his arguments has been instrumental in bringing forward much of interest that showed him to be a deep student of civic affairs.

Mr. Chafe also tendered the thanks and appreciation of the Committee to the Secretary, Mr. Smith, for his untiring efforts in attending to and disposing of such a large volume of business in a legal and business-like manner. These sentiments were endorsed by all present.

Last but not least, Mr. Joyce proposed and Mr. S. Merris seconded, supported by Mr. N. Andrews, that a vote of thanks be tendered the Press, particularly the papers whose representatives have rendered the Committee's work so much easier by giving a fair and unbiased report of the meetings. The vote was heartily accorded.

The Russian Crisis.

The curtain is raised to-day upon an alarming picture of economic conditions in Russia. It will prepare us still further for another picture which is daily assuming shape, that of Russia retiring wholly from the war, sacrificed, and with her it may be her future for years to come, to the ignorance and selfishness of her labouring classes. It is the most pitiable object-lesson that could be conceived of the effect of a failure to appreciate the most elementary of truths. It would be impossible to believe that any workman, however unenlightened and whatever the position he occupied in the industrial scale, could not perceive that his wages must be paid out of the profits of the business for which he works, if proof were not so common everywhere. We have it even here in our own midst in the continued antagonism of employer and employe, of merchant and fisherman, who will not see that their interests run together and not counter. If the Russian workmen continue to insist on wages which no enterprise can pay the result is obvious. The enterprise will fail and instead of receiving what he wants the workman will receive nothing at all. And yet, he holds the helm hard down and steers the country straight out to the rocks. It is just possible that rescue may come from a quarter which has already furnished it, and that American sympathy and capital will be poured in and hold the dissolving fabric together. But it is a forlorn hope, and even American generosity cannot be expected to fill willingly a man which demands more with each granted exaction. The Allies must be prepared to lose Russia, and they probably are.

Fortunately they have gained in the United States help which will in time more than counterbalance the loss. Though it is primarily and essentially Russia's war which they are waging, they can't win it without her. If necessary it can be won on the single front in France. Italy is pursuing tenaciously and valiantly her victorious course in the drive upon Austria, and if success crowns her aims it will not be merely her Irredenta which will reward her, for with the capture of Trieste and Pola she will give almost a quietus to the submarine activities in the Mediterranean. There has been a strange silence for days over the operations of the Allies in the West, but it is broken to-day by a hint of impending success for the French which will have a tremendous effect. They are moving slowly but irresistibly downhill from Craonne upon Loon, driving further the wedge which will split asunder Hindenburg's army if it does not first retire. The British are resting upon their oars, but only in preparation for another spurt. If Petain forces Hindenburg back upon the Meuse, Haig will force him back upon the Belgian border. Even the denuding of the Eastern front—and we are a long way from that yet—may not avail to buttress the crumbling line, for we have the measure of the enemy in the heavy guns, against which no living rampart can stand. Before long Pershing's divisions are expected to take over the Belgian front and the great triple alliance become an accomplished fact in the field. From that moment the German soldier will see his fate clearly written before his face. If the prospect in the East is deplorable, that in the West is brightening visibly. The apparent standstill is simply the tension that is reaching breaking point. It will soon come.

Military Presentation.

Father Decorated with Son's Medal. At eleven o'clock this morning His Excellency the Governor, accompanied by Capt. Riley, M.C., visited the Headquarters of the Newfoundland Regiment, and acting in his official capacity of Colonel of the Regiment, presented Mr. D. Carroll of Conche, with the Military Medal awarded to his son, Corporal Bernard Carroll, for bravery on the battlefield. Corporal Carroll was reported as missing on April 14th. His Excellency in tendering the much coveted medal congratulated the proud father on the patriotic and brave action of his hero son, of whom it is sincerely hoped that he may yet be accounted for as a prisoner of war in Germany. Mr. Carroll in a brief reply, thanked His Excellency for the honour conferred upon him. The presentation was made in the presence of all the volunteers now in training, and of the following officers: Major Patterson, Capt. Ayre, Capt. O'Grady and Lieut. Chit, of the Regiment, and Major Sullivan of the Forestry Companies. Mr. Carroll will return to his home on the next trip of the S.S. Prospero about Thursday evening.

Another Burglary.

The police have heard of another burglary to add to their long list. This time a house on Rennie's Mill Road was entered and ransacked. This residence is believed to have been included in the itinerary of the Morgan rascals, who are now in quad, as they were suggested by the occupants of the house putting in coal one day last week. These youthful house-breakers will come up for trial on Friday morning next.

COST STOKER A FIVE SPOT. A city stoker, whose next birthday will round out the second score for him, was found by Sergt. Mackey and Constable Green on Duckworth Street, last evening in a booze frenzy and indecently exposing himself. He was escorted to the police station. It was first thought that he had primed himself on some of the toilet preparations or wood preservatives that have been occupying such a prominent place on the beverage list since the enforcement of the Prohibition Law, but it was discovered on searching the inebriate that he had imbibed to excess the "genuine article." On being asked this morning where he got the rum he stated that he had been treated generously by a "friend" whom he did not know; he strongly repudiated the suggestion of his having procured a script from a medico. Though he did not remember anything of the indecent exposure, he was told by Mr. Hutchings, J.P., to-day that drunkenness was no excuse and a fine of $5 or 14 days was imposed.

TOLL OF THE SEA

Further Particulars of Terrible Marine Tragedy.—Bodies Identified. Further particulars, though meagre in detail, are to hand concerning the schooner found bottom up off Ramea Island with two bodies lashed to the rigging. Yesterday we refrained from giving the name of the vessel to avoid causing unnecessary anxiety to the relatives of the victims of the tragedy. The smitten schooner was the Elsie Burdette, of 130 tons, and carried a crew of six all told. She was owned by Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., Ltd., who purchased her in Nova Scotia last year, and was commanded by Capt. Leo Coady. The schooner left here a fortnight ago with a load of salt for Hr. Berton. After discharging the salt for St. John's at noon on Wednesday last, May 23rd. The assumption is that the vessel encountered rough weather, as indicated by the men being lashed to the rigging, and being light in ballast, capsized; but that is only a matter of conjecture, as there are none of the crew living to tell exactly what happened. The Elsie Burdette's crew and positions on board and where they belonged, are: Leo Coady, captain, St. John's; Wm. Kehoe, mate, St. John's; Edward Snow, bosun, St. John's; Hemen Grady, cook, St. John's; Allick Olive, seaman, England; John Collins, seaman, England. Thus it will be seen that St. John's has been hit hard. The two bodies taken off the Elsie Burdette and brought into Belleoram by the banking schooner Rita M. Cluett, have been identified. One body the initials W. K. (Wm. Kehoe) was tattooed on the right arm, tall man, thick set, dark complexion, heavy moustache, about 45 years of age; the other body had tattooed on right forearm L. C. (Leo Coady), medium height, fair complexion, dark brown hair, clean shaven. He had a time cheque of Hudson Bay Company in his pocket. Capt. Coady worked with the Hudson Bay Co. up to about a year ago. The bodies are already confined and sent on here for burial. Capt. Coady was 25 years of age, and a reputable young mariner, having already established a record for making quick foreign going voyages. He was favorably known and well liked in St. John's. He has a brother, Fred, in charge of another of Job's vessels and another an employee of the General Post Office. A sad coincidence is that his widowed mother had been seriously ill before hearing of the loss of her son, in whom she took much pride. The firm of Job Bros. also regret his loss deeply. Mate Kehoe and cook Grady were married and have families living in the West End of the city. Bosun Snow resided near the Roperwalk. Seamen Collins and Olive belonged to the Old Country. To all the bereaved relatives and friends the Telegram tenders its sincere sympathy.

Entertainment and Dance at Killbride

Last evening a most enjoyable concert and dance was held in the Killbride school house in aid of the new church building fund. A number of ladies and gentlemen from the city went out by carriage at 7.30, and for over 2 hours rendered a programme of songs, choruses, negro sketches and dialogues. Messrs. Petrie, Thorne and Ryan; Messrs. Lynch, Wiseman, Walsh (2), King, Brown (2), Wheeler, Doyle and others assisting. The sketch by Prof. Wheeler and his boy Tommy during the second part of the performance, brought down the house, and the audience trust it will not be long till they have another visit from the general Professor. The singing of "Rule Britannia" and the National Anthem brought this part of the performance to a close. Mr. Richard Walsh, the promoter of the affair, on behalf of the people of the Parish, thanked the ladies and gentlemen from the city for their kindness, in not alone affording them the pleasure of the evening from the entertainment, but the assistance rendered in the good work they have undertaken. The price, a piece of silver tableware, offered by a friend of the parish, was drawn for and won by M. W. Myrick, Esq., Military Road. Dancing was then commenced and kept up till 3 a.m. when all dispersed voting the affair the most enjoyable.

ALARMING TENSIONS

The industrial situation that accompanied the termination of the war, M. Shingaroff, save the country from ruin. The denials were so enormous it seemed impossible that industrial wheels would stop of their own accord. The only possibility of the difficulty was war to a close. Government must commission to investigate the conditions between capital and labor. The industrial situation that accompanied the termination of the war, M. Shingaroff, save the country from ruin. ALARMING ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA.

PETROGRAD, To-day. The industrial crisis in Russia is so acute that according to a recent utterance of the Minister of Finance, M. Shingoroff, only a miracle can save the country from economical ruin. The demands of the workmen were so enormous, he declared, that it seemed impossible to keep the industrial wheels going for any length of time. Socialist Ministers at the recent Ministerial Council, stated that the only possibility they saw of settling the difficulty was to bring the war to a close. Neither the Coalition Government nor the newly appointed commission to regulate the difficulties between capital and labor, has yet found a way to settle the industrial crisis. The commission is composed of Ministers of Finance, Trade, Industry and Labor, but since there is a wide divergence of views between the Minister of Finance and the new Socialist Minister of Labor it seems probable that this commission will be confronted with the same difficulties that attended the previous effort at reconciliation. An investigation into factory conditions in Petrograd leads to the alarming but inevitable conclusion that unless the Government soon finds a means of adjusting the present difficulties, most of the industrial enterprises working for national defence will be compelled to close within a few months. The outstanding features of the labor situation are as follows: An investigation shows that virtually the same difficulties that prevail in all the big factories in Petrograd are apparent from authentic reports from Moscow. The Dunetz and Ural districts indicated a general disorganization. In many factories the demands by the workmen for increased wages are actually greater than the entire profits of the factories under the best conditions of production. The workmen through their committees are in virtual command of the factories, and all business has to be submitted to them for approval. The wages of a majority of the factories have already been increased from one hundred to one hundred and fifty per cent., but there has yet been no offset by an advance in the prices of the output. In one of the works at Petrograd the workmen recently demanded an immediate payment of 13,000,000 rubles, normally 6,500,000 dollars, to cover an increase of 15 kopeks per hour for each workman since the beginning of the war. The Directors of the organization immediately communicated with the Government and asked to be placed under voluntary arrest as a protest against the threats of the workmen, which as usual accompanied the demand. The Directors were two days housed at the Ministry of Justice. The Government finally informed the Directors that the matter would be considered, and with the demand of the workmen held temporarily in abeyance the Directors returned to the factory. The eight hours day has become effective in all the factories. Not only have the prices of the products not met the advance in wages, but payment has been so slow that industries are in urgent need of working capital. The manufacturers find it difficult to borrow money as the banks naturally are not eager to extend credit to factories which are in control of temporary workmen's committees. As a result of this information, according to this information, will be compelled to close within a month. No man in a factory can be dismissed without the consent of the committee. Idleness is prevalent. Pres. Kutler of the Union of Trade Industry attended a recent conference, showing that the demands of the workmen of the Dunetz and Ural districts far exceeded the profits which any of the concerns could hope to realize. Socialist Ministers who were present declared that the only possibility they saw of settling the question was winding up the war first of all. In some works, according to a statement, the representatives of the union of owners decided to cede all profits to the workmen, but even this did not meet their exorbitant demands. In the Ural the increase in wages demanded reached 20,000,000 rubles, while the annual business doesn't exceed 200,000,000 rubles.

ONLY TWO MEN AMONG THEM. QUEBEC, To-day. Only two members of the Quebec City Council, Alderman Frank Dinan and George Gibson, voted against the anti-conscription resolution which was passed on a division of 19 to 2.

CHILE TO FOLLOW BRAZIL'S LEAD. SANTIAGO, Chile, To-day. Chile will support Brazil in adopting vigorous measures against Germany, says the Diario Ilustrado, commenting on the new aspect of the international situation, brought about by the action of President Braza, of Brazil, in urging Congress to revoke the decree of neutrality in the war between the United States and Germany and to authorize measures for the defence of the nation's dignity. "It is no longer a question of a Congress of American neutral nations nor of the formation of a theoretical policy to bring about united action," says this newspaper. "Recent events have wrought a great change in Pan-Americanism and the Monroe Doctrine have a deeper meaning now than ever before. Brazil has accused Germany of acts prejudicial to Pan-Americanism. To-day it is Brazil. Two other nations will make the same charge for safeguarding maritime traffic. Several nations will offer facilities for the United States warships engaged in this work, Chile will be as friendly to the United States as Brazil and Uruguay."

ULTIMATELY GERMANS WILL RETIRE TO THE MEUSE. WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES NEAR CRAONNE. To-day—Steadily through one entire week a battle has been raging around Craonne, which may ultimately force Germany's retirement to the Meuse. The French communiqués have not mentioned the fighting except incidentally, but it has continued incessantly, bitterly and victoriously for the French. Already the French have descended from the Laon Plateau into the Valley of the Ailette. To-day they were steadily driving the edge of a fatal wedge into the German lines. Once this wedge is sufficiently plunged into the enemy's front the French can turn either north or south, or in both directions simultaneously. A successful movement in either direction will be sufficient to force a German retirement to the Meuse line to save Hindenburg's front northward through Laon, St. Quentin, Cambrai, and Douai. Already the battle has advanced sufficiently to insure this result if it continues favorable to the French, but several weeks of continuous operations are likely before the decisive moment for this stroke is reached. That the Germans appreciate the exact degree of the menace was indicated to-day in the number and fierceness of the enemy counter-attacks launched against the French.

2.00 P.M. FRENCH SUCCESS.

PARIS, To-day. The French have captured a German post north of Vacheraville in the Verdun region, according to an official announcement issued by the war office this morning. Two German attacks in the region of Hurlbise on the Champagne front were repulsed. The Germans attacked after a violent bombardment.

NEGRO DISTURBANCES IN ST. LOUIS. EAST ST. LOUIS, Mo., To-day. A mob of two thousand went to the negro quarters, shot one colored man, seriously wounding him, beat a score into unconsciousness and drove several hundred negroes across the Mississippi River Bridge into St. Louis, Mo., and then dispersed early today. The assault began after a report had been circulated that a white woman had been insulted and two white men held up by negroes, just after a committee from the Central Trades and Labor Union had attended a meeting of the City Council to make a protest against the importation of any more colored laborers into St. Louis.

SPANISH VICTIMS LOST. LONDON, To-day. A despatch from the Spanish port says that all hope has been abandoned of rescue of the missing from the sunken Spanish liner C. De Elaguirre. The victims include twelve women and five small children.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS REUNITED. PARIS, To-day. The long standing split in the French Socialist party was healed at a meeting of the National Council yesterday. The result was due to a new element introduced in the debate by M. Moutet and Cochon, two Russian delegates. From the Central Trades and Labor Union had attended a meeting of the City Council to make a protest against the importation of any more colored laborers into St. Louis.

THE WORK OF THE BELGIANS. Headquarters of the Belgian Artillery Establishment beyond the Allies Front, May 9.—(Correspondence of A. P.)—Here where the Belgian army is making its own cannon, its own rifles, its own shells, its own transport wagons, its saddles and harness, one can appreciate how other outstanding features of the war have unduly obscured the Belgian military effort since the battles of 1914. The Belgian Army has six divisions of infantry and two divisions of cavalry left to hold a line of approximately eighteen miles, or just about four men to the yard of a front where particular vigilance is required because of the German tactics of constant trial attacks. No part of the Allies' line is more closely watched and explored by the enemy's patrols; a weak spot anywhere would provoke an immediate offensive.

The Belgian army has had to work incessantly to keep its breastworks and at the same time put up an unrelenting defence. That defence, it may not be sufficiently remembered, is an important factor in giving to the British and French armies liberty of movement in operating on other parts of the line. Belgium lost all her manufacturing establishments and all her resources in raw materials in the defeat of the Allies at Charleroi and in the retreat from Antwerp, yet the Minister of War has built up on the hospitable soil of France artillery and munitions establishments that not only enable the Belgian army to reply shot for shot to the Germans on the Yser front, but also to contribute to the armament and supplies of the Allied armies.

According to the police report Taylor fired in self defence while on guard at a manufacturing plant. Binderman, the police were informed, was ordered away from the property and raised an iron bar in an attempt to strike Taylor.

Married Women in Business.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The man who sells is an important factor in any business. But not so important as the man who buys. It is at least so a business man told me recently. In the business of married life, in nine cases out of ten, the women are the buyers. One often hears married women complaining because their work is so monotonous and uninteresting and wishing they could go into business where they would have some chance to use their brains. Yet in the majority of cases these women are not using their brains in their share of the world's business. In fact the small income is the hardest to spend wisely. To spend even a small income in the wisest, most efficient way is truly a task for all a woman has not only brains but of character. Take the brain side of it first. A first class buyer, the kind who if she were a man would be offered positions by other houses, will know the value, not only the price, of all she buys. In the matter of food she will understand cuts of meat, she will know about the food values of various articles, she will see everything she buys instead of shopping by telephone. It is not the people who have the least money who buy most carefully. A settlement worker told me of a woman who had six dollars a week to feed a family of five and included in her budget a head of lettuce a day (ninety per cent. water). The Woman Who Fills, Not Just Fills Her Job. In the matter of dry goods she will

WILD OATS.

Wild oats is a term given to that period in a young man's life when he is harder to control than a two-cylinder runabout sliding down a clay hill in the mud without chains. When a boy has made love to every girl on the town site and is able to run fifteen balls from the break, he is considered eligible to the wild oats class and is not worried about by anybody but the night watch. Wild oats are sown at various ages, the symptoms becoming most violent between eighteen and twenty-four. Some boys secure a promising stand at sixteen and have to take a post-graduate at the reform school. One of the saddest sights on record is that of a staid business man who comes down to middle age with a gossip-proof reputation and then starts sowing a crop of wild oats that makes the best effort of his oldest son look like raising grape-fruit in Alaska. Wilder runabout sliding down a quiet and devout life, breaks out of the barn and begins to feed gin-fizzes to the ladies in the front row of the circle, he is putting in a crop that will stand up and grin at him long after his boy's escapades have been forgotten.

There would be considerably less wild oats sowing in this republic if more fathers would interrupt the poker game at 2.00 a.m.

There would be considerably less wild oats sowing in this republic if more fathers would interrupt the poker game at 2.00 a.m. with a stern air and a shingle. The boy whose parents never know whether he is at the Carnegie library or on a beer drink twelve miles in the country wouldn't be up to his ears in devilry if he knew the "old man" was on picket duty. The father who thinks more of ten hours sleep than he does of preventing his son from becoming a pickled inebriate will have something to face on the judgment day that will not have any gold medals strung on it. Wild oats make an expensive crop, but the expense can be put up with easier than the anxious eyes and whitening hair of a good mother. If a boy has the stuff in him he will come through with his head up, ready to take his place in a world where a real man is worth more to his country than a battleship. It is better to put up with a touch of wild oats than rear a triple-plate sissy with concave legs who lives on hot-house grapes, monogrammed cigarettes and French fiction.

Household Notes.

Stimulants are more effective given hot. Never put a bandage on so tight that it will interfere with the circulation. All the water should be drawn from the tub before the ice cream is packed. Carrots scrubbed clean and shredded raw are good added to a hot dish like soup. Choose the coolest place in the kitchen for the refrigerator to stand in.

Everyday Etiquette.

"When my girl chum brought her brother over to meet me for the first time should I have risen when I greeted him?" asked Alice. "A hostess should always rise when introduced to a man or woman. It is not necessary for a lady to rise to greet a man but when she is introduced in her own home it is a mark of hospitality and good breeding to greet the friends with a welcome handshake and a cordial remark," remarked her aunt.

The Gas Range!

The Gas Range means comfort for the housewife; shorter kitchen hours for her, and a cleaner kitchen. It is a great mistake to think that cooking with gas is expensive. Whenever a woman becomes used to gas for cooking, thoughts of a coal or wood stove fill her with gloom. A Gas Range is so much easier to operate, so efficient for all kinds of cooking, and so much cleaner, that the idea of going back to the old style methods is decidedly unpleasant. Yet in winter many housewives think they must use a coal or wood stove, because there is no other way of heating the kitchen. THERE IS ANOTHER WAY AND IT IS FAR BETTER THAN THE OLD. THE CLOW GAS STEAM RADIATOR WAY. may 23, 17

Household Notes.

A tightly rolled piece of cloth is an excellent thing for rubbing spots off clothing. Don't regard any time-saving method of doing housework as shiftless; it isn't. Sometimes a plain meal can be made interesting by adding a very good dessert. Don't rely on inspiration in the getting of meals; it is far better to plan definitely. Bread to be wholesome for any member of the family should be thoroughly baked. Turpentine will destroy many of the insects that are objectionable around the house. Meat fried in the oven does not need the attention which meat fried on the stove does. When potatoes are so high, economy can be practiced by cooking them with the skin on. Mayonnaise dressing is a trifle too heavy after a full dinner, French dressing is more suitable.

SUBMARINES.

The submarine still sinks and slaughters, and is the terror of the waters. Regardless of the laws of nations, a and scorching rules and regulations, it roots around the grieving ocean, where'er t h e blamed t h i n g takes a notion, an sinks all vessels that are sailing, and all complaints are unavailing. That dippy man, the ruling German, whose brain is full of bats and vermin, has run amuck, no laws can cool him, the ethics of scrap can't rule him. Combatants, neutrals, are knocked silly, all look alike to Nutty Willie. A shocked world watched what he was doing, the sea with shattered wreckage strewn, and none could stay this fierce disaster: the madman was the ocean's master. But now our Uncle Sam gets busy, and we shall see the U-boats dizzy. Just watch American "invention" rig something up, too quick to mention, to stop the Kaiser's submarining, and leave him on the dump fence leaning. You can't do up our Uncle Sammy, on land or on the billows clammy. No trap's so good, ach, donnerwetter, that he-can't dig up something better!

MADRID TO SEVER RELATIONS.

MADRID, May 28. Resolutions were adopted at a mass meeting in favor of the Entente Allies, held here yesterday, and were presented to the Spanish Minister of the Interior to-day. The resolutions were to the effect that, first, Spain should not remain isolated in the European conflict; second, that Spain should change her policy toward France and Britain and their allies; thirdly, that following Germany's breach of Spanish neutrality, Spain should break diplomatic relations with Germany, and should accept at the consequences from the action which she is compelled to adopt for the defence of her dignity.

ITALIAN SUCCESS.

ROME, May 28. The Italians have crossed the Tivoli River and occupied the village of San Giovanni, northwest of Dupino, near the Gulf of Trieste, the war of the day, and they have captured nine six inch guns, on the Julian front, although hampered by weather conditions. The official statement reads: Our troops extended their positions yesterday and strengthened those previously captured on the Carso. After effective artillery preparations, further strong fortified trenches east southeast of Jamiano were taken from the enemy.

DAMAGED BY AIR RAID.

LONDON, May 28. Folkestone was the town where the most damage was done in Friday's air raid.

BATTLE RAGING AROUND CRAONNE.

NEW YORK, May 28. A News Agency despatch published here to-day follows. With the French Armies near Craonne: Steadily throughout the week the battle has been raging around Craonne, which may ultimately force the Germans' retirement to the Meuse. French communiques haven't mentioned the fighting except incidentally, but it has continued incessantly, bitterly and victoriously for the French. Already the French troops have descended from Laon Plateau.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, May 28. The official from British headquarters in France to-night reads: We captured some prisoners this morning in a successful raid east of Vermeilles. Early this morning a party of about 50 of the enemy attacked one of our small posts northeast of Ypres. One of the garrison is missing. There was considerable artillery activity on both sides during the day south of the Scarpe, and in the Ypres sector. Reconnaissance and bombing raids were continued actively by our airplanes. Three of our airplanes are missing.

CONSCRIPTION.

OTTAWA, May 28. "If both parties agree on conscription," said Lieut.-Col. Blondin, to-day, "there will be very little trouble in enforcing it in the province of Quebec. I am not worrying over that agitation down there. As soon as possible my province will understand that both parties are behind conscription and united to carry the war to a successful issue, and there will be little opposition to conscription. The campaign of General Lesard and myself has resulted in a great change of opinion on the military situation." While the labor leaders now in Ottawa are content to remain in an attitude of "watchful waiting," the interests of organized workers throughout the Dominion on whose behalf they recorded strong protests against the selective conscription measure, there is plenty of activity, for scores of messages are coming in from unions from all parts of the country endorsing the stand taken by the Executive Council of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which contain local resolutions of strong protest against the compulsory service bill. Interest now among a number of men seems to hang upon the submission bill. In the Commons debate there will be closely followed on Friday of this week a big convention of labor men, representing eighty international unions, who will convene in Ottawa to discuss all war measures which the Government has announced or which they have in view.

BERLIN SAYS NOTHING DOING.

BERLIN, May 28. The German official issued this evening says: "There is nothing of importance to report."

PETITIONS AGAINST CONSCRIPTION.

TORONTO, May 28. Petitions against the passing of conscription are in circulation in Toronto, says the Daily News. There was a story abroad to-day to the effect that some sixty telegrams were sent out bearing the names of a number of prominent Roman Catholics, said to be one hundred, asking co-operation of the recipient by sending a request to Sir Wilfred Laurier to declare against conscription.

OTTAWA, May 28. ing Commons, in the Chamber. His half hour address, given in closely reasoned, beautifully dictioned style of the master of debate, was in sharp contrast to the moving oratory and emotional appeal of M. Viviani, spokesman for France, who addressed Parliament two weeks ago. The crowd in the galleries and on the floor of the House was larger to-day, and the reception accorded the representative of the Motherland was enthusiastic. Viviani's appeal to the heart of his auditors stirred the Commons as it has never been stirred before. The appeal of Balfour to-day was not an emotional appeal, but it was none the less compelling in its call for universal patriotism among all sections of the people, and the sinking of natural divisions of party in one common effort for one common purpose. Balfour spent fifteen minutes in a brilliant summing up of the reasons why we are fighting. The other fifteen minutes of his speech was devoted to laying down the fundamental principles as to how we should fight, namely, with a whole-hearted common effort that coordinated democracy might triumph, liberty and civilization be preserved, and that in the end democracy might come out of the struggle, not merely conquerors in a military sense, but with strength in the belief that freedom is the only path to national greatness. The fight is the fight of all Canadians who love liberty and justice. "Gentlemen, get together, concentrate your efforts, help us to win." That, in brief, was his message. The address, although given without notes, had evidently been carefully prepared with a view of having some practical effect on the present political conditions in Canada and with a view to bring home to all Canadians a keener realization of the vital things at stake in the present war struggle. Sir Robert Borden, in moving that the historic address be made part of Hansard and form part of the permanent records of the House, declared that Balfour could take back to the Motherland a message that this Dominion would solve the difficulties of concentrating her efforts on the war to the exclusion of all other considerations. Sir Wilfred Laurier, in seconding the motion of the Prime Minister, was eloquent and apt. The welcome accorded Balfour, he declared, was due not only to the name of Balfour, but it was associated also with the name of England, the champion of Liberty and mother of free nations, England, the hope of civilization and terror of its enemies. Report to the people of England, concluded Sir Wilfred Laurier, and an outburst of cheering, report to the Empire and the world, that we in Canada stand to-day prouder of our British allegiance than we were three years ago. At the close of the proceedings the members of Parliament filed past Balfour at the foot of the Speaker's dais, and were presented to him. To-night a banquet was given in his honor at Rideau Hall, at which his chief dignitaries of State and leaders of Parliament were present.

STRIKE SITUATION IN PARIS.

PARIS, May 28. The strike situation in this city was stationary to-day, because of the holiday. Indications were that most trade differences would be adjusted. The Government's appeal to employers and employers to reconcile their differences as a matter of patriotic duty, has had favorable effect. There was complete calm to-day in all quarters where the strikers had been most active.

CHINA'S NEW PREMIER.

PEKING, China, May 8. The Chinese Senate to-day approved the nomination of Li Chung Hsi as Premier in succession to Tuan Chi Jui who was dismissed by the President. The vote was 365 to 31. The Chinese House of Representatives approved of his nomination on Sunday.

It says it is intended to bring together a large number of Polish elements living not only in France, but in various Allied countries, who will fight under the Polish flag for the re-establishment of the ancient Polish Kingdom. The Temps adds, the project which has been under consideration for some time, is on the point of being realized.

RIO JANEIRO, May 28. The Brazilian Government to-day passed the first reading of the Government measure revoking Brazil's neutrality in the war between Germany and the United States. The vote was 136 to 3.

War Apathy in Britain

London Daily Telegraph:—There may be various reasons for the apparent slowness, some of them local in their character, others of more extended application; but it is a lamentable fact that even now in certain parts of Britain there is not a sufficiently acute realization of what it means to be involved in a tremendous Continental war. Even in London one sometimes wonders whether all classes of the population make any attempt to understand the far-reaching issues of the great European conflict, and the very fact that we are spared all the horrors of an invasion, that we do not see before our eyes ruin and desolation overtaking our fairest cities, helps to atrophy our sensitive nerves. We acknowledge with our lips the portentous menace, but our hearts remain unaffected, as though war were some incredible thing not entering within the circle of our daily thoughts and occupations. It is this spirit of apathy against which we have still to fight at home. We believe that many things will tend to dissipate it, above all, perhaps, the scarcity of food supplies, a fact which comes home to the business and bosoms of all members of the community. Apart from this, however, there is, we fear, a degree of selfishness at the bottom of our negligence.

Your Boys and Girls. No Trouble Over Conscription in the States.

Everybody Working Heartily Together

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Preparations to register 10,000,000 men on June 5 for military service are proceeding swiftly throughout the country. Advice reaching the War Department show that forty-two States have their machinery already organized, ready to proceed with the work. The reports mean that central boards have been established in county and city for each 30,000 population, that blanks and forms have been distributed, and that nation-wide machinery stands ready to take the military census in the shortest time ever allowed for such a huge undertaking—one twelve-hour day. The plan was evolved by Brig.-Gen. Crowder, Provost Marshal General, as well as Judge Advocate General, of the army, and its efficiency rests upon its simplicity. The scheme is to co-ordinate the vast electoral machinery of every State under one central authority. At one step all local conditions are met in this way. All doubts as to the wisdom of turning this task over to the States was dispelled by the nature of the Governor's messages. A fine spirit of co-operation and desire to join in the national teamwork for which the President has asked in his proclamation has been displayed. "Ohio is ready," reported Governor Cox. Governor Withycombe of Oregon telegraphed: "Oregon completely organized for registration, even most remote precincts and mining districts." Governor Goodrich of Indiana sent word: "All boards and registrars will serve without pay." "No doubt of success," wired Governor Beckman of Rhode Island. Other messages were of similar import, and showed the enthusiasm with which the States were undertaking their task.

In British Hands.

(Christian Guardian.)

There are really two Babylons, one the Babylon of to-day, the other the Babylon of Nebuchadnezzar. The former is the little town of Hillah, with only a few hundred inhabitants and its buildings all of mud bricks, like Babylon of old. The ancient Babylon lies all around Hillah, and is practically a suburb of Bagdad. Before the war there were a dozen German scholars living in Babylon and pursuing research work for the German government at a cost of about $20,000 a year. But the members of the staff of this research party were all German officers, and their researches were not confined wholly to ancient-Babylonian records and relics. A railway was projected to run from Berlin to Bagdad and one hundred miles of it ran north from Bagdad to Semaria, and this is now in British hands. It is an interesting thing to note that Kut-el-Amara, also famous in this war, is on the edge of the ancient Ur of the Chaldees, which was Abraham's dwelling-place when he heard the voice that called him to "go out, not knowing whither he went." And now over this section and over ancient Babylon flies the well-known Union Jack, and Britain's soldiers guard what was once the centre of the great Babylonian Empire.
