WE ADVISED HIM TO PROTECT HIS HOME AND BELONGINGS WITH AN INSURANCE POLICY, BUT HE HESITATED—FINALLY REJECTED OUR WARNING. THEN THERE WAS A FIRE—CAUSE UNKNOWN. ALL HIS EARTHLY POSSESSIONS WERE DESTROYED—HIS LIFE SAVINGS LOST. HE WAS LEFT DEPENDENT ON THE KINDNESS OF FRIENDS—CHARITY. NOT A VERY BRIGHT OUTLOOK. BUT WHAT ABOUT YOU! IS YOUR PROPERTY ADEQUATELY PROTECTED? IF NOT LET US ISSUE A POLICY TO COVER YOU TO-DAY, AND SO GUARD AGAINST SUCH A CONTINGENCY. TESSIER'S INSURANCE AGENCIES—"Insurance that Protects."

The Mystery of Rutledge Hall

— OR —

"The Cloud With a Silver Lining"

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Sidney glanced up in surprise, and following the direction of his eyes, her own rested on Jesse Burton, who was sitting with her partner on an ottoman on the other side of the room. The expression of admiration in the earl's glance was unmistakable, and Sidney could not wonder at the sudden blush which rose in Jesse's pretty cheek as her eyes met his for a moment across the room.

"I hope there is no legal impediment in the way," said his lordship, smiling. "Is there, Mrs. Daunt?"

"I do not think so," Sidney answered, smiling also.

"And you will wish me success, and not think me terribly fickle?" he said, bending toward her.

"I wish you all success," she replied cordially. "I am very glad your wound is not a deep one, Lord de la Poer; and if Jesse is destined to heal it I shall be still more glad."

"Thank you," he said; and there was a little silence, during which, looking her fan from her, he fanned her slowly. "Mr. Daunt is not here?" he asked presently.

"No, he returned home on Monday."

"His devotion to business is intense," the earl said, laughing. "I wonder you are not jealous of those mills, Mrs. Daunt."

"Do you?" Sidney questioned, languidly.

"At least I should wonder if I thought there was anything in the world of which you need be jealous."

Another silence.

"This is a pretty sight," said the earl, "but not so pretty as Lady Eva's ball. Lambwold is the place of all others for a fancy-ball. One might have thought that some of the old

Let Your Child be First

Some children lack "go." They are low in their class, not much good at sport. Don't let your child be a second rater.

No child can do well unless properly nourished—give energy to do better by giving Virol.

Virol not only contains all the vitamins, but presents them in a scientifically balanced diet rich in those qualities in which ordinary everyday diet is deficient.

The food can take the place of meat for growth and development. It is because Doctors and Health Authorities recognize this that ties. Presently a yellow gleam and a faint roseate hue appeared; and then, as if taking courage, suddenly the sun rose in the east, and the gray sky became one blaze of golden glory, which rested faintly on the beautiful pale face leaning against the glass, as if with a promise of brighter things to come when "the darkest hour before the dawn" should have passed away.

And for Sidney Daunt that darkest hour was at hand.

On her return from the Pavilion she had caused herself to be undressed, and had even gone to bed to set Bessie's anxiety at rest; but, as soon as the old nurse had left her, she had risen, and, wrapping herself in a warm dressing-gown, had waited for the day.

A strange calm was upon her; the nervousness and dread which had distressed her so greatly during her convalescence had disappeared; she was quite composed and collected, every sense was keen and quick, her nerves were strung to their utmost tension, and she thought, one ruling wish in her mind—to go to Stephen, to warn—perhaps to save—him from the doom which threatened him.

After the terrible paroxysm of dread which had seized her when she left the hall-room, and which struggled against vainly during her short drive home, was over, she seemed conscious of one thing only—Stephen was in danger, and she must warn him and save him, if possible.

For this purpose it would be necessary for her to be strong, she thought; she must not let herself be overpowered with weakness or exhaustion before her work was done; and, sitting in the solitude of her own room, she fought desperately against the burning tears which rose to her eyes, and which it would have been such a relief to let fall. They would only weaken and unnerve her, she thought, as she forced them back and moved restlessly about the room—restlessly, yet noiselessly—for, if it was necessary for her to be strong, it was equally important for her to be secret; no one must suspect what her motive was for going to Stephen.

Her maid had brought her some hot soup on the previous night, on her return from the ball; and, to Bessie's satisfaction, she drank it all and took some wine also; and, when she had been alone and the temptation seized her to walk about in her restlessness, she would not yield to it—she needed all her strength, and she must husband it for the purpose she had in view.

Crouching by the fire, she made her plans; she would leave a note for Dolly to prevent her being anxious, and the first train in the morning should take her to London, and then she would get a train for Ashford.

However early she left home, and however accommodating the trains might be, she could not reach Ashford before dusk; and it was a terrible thought that so many long hours must elapse, and that so much might happen during them. Once the thought of telegraphing to Stephen flashed across her; but she did not entertain it for a moment. She dared not telegraph, she dared not trust any medium of communication between herself and her husband in this terrible strait. There was but one course open to her, and she must follow it. She must go at once to Easthorpe, keeping her arrival there, if possible, a secret, and she must prevail upon her husband to fly from the punishment which threatened him.

Car Shortage

IMPERILS POTATOES WORTH $500,000.

(Charlottetown Guardian, Nov. 10.)

A meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade was held Friday night, specially to deal with the shortage of cars for the handling of potatoes.

Vice-President Rowe presided, and in addition to other members there were also present Secretary Higgins, Mr. A. E. Dewar, representing the Potato Growers' Association, N. Rattenbury, Ltd., R. E. Mutch & Co., and DeBlais Bros., who were among the principal shippers represented.

Superintendent Grady in explaining the situation stated that on Sept. 9th, he had asked for 325 refrigerators to be delivered for November 1st. From Oct. 15th to Oct. 31st, 100 refrigerators were received. From Nov. 1st to Nov. 6th, 39 refrigerators and 44 Eastman Heaters. Yesterday afternoon there were in the railway yards 166 standard cars, and 131 narrow gauge, all loaded with outward freight, mainly potatoes. There were actually required last night 70 box cars, but there were only 10 on hand, 130 refrigerators, and 175 narrow gauge cars, and none available. The Charlottetown yards were so completely filled with cars that it was necessary to store 45 cars on the main line of the Murray Harbor branch approaching the city. The sidings at Royalty Junction are full, and there are over 100 narrow gauge cars under load at sidings east of Royalty Junction, and a large number on the sidings of the Murray Harbor branch.

A general discussion took place in which Messrs. Grady, Dewar, Clark, Mutch, Rattenbury, Pomeroy, Rowe and Higgins took part. The shippers urged the great necessity of having the cars sent away particularly as the potatoes were mainly for the Boston markets. They had to pay the duty, and in the event of frost coming on they would be liable to be subjected to considerable loss.

Secretary Higgins read a telegram from the Board of Trade to Sir Henry Charlton, notifying him of the situation, and asking that potatoes being carried in box cars at the railway's risk of frost. Sir Henry replied advising that the situation was fully appreciated, and that he was moving protected cars eastward to this territory as rapidly as possible.

OLD MAN'S BATTERED BODY IN LOCKED SHOP.

The body of John Porter, 60, a fitter and engineer, of 27, Blackwells-row, Cobridge, Stoke-on-Trent, with the head terribly battered, was found in a fitting shop at Alexandra Pottery, Cobridge.

A blood-stained hammer was found in a tool chest, and it is supposed that Porter was murdered by a tramp or some other person whose motive was robbery.

The wages (£2 18s. 10d.) which were paid to him on the previous night could not be found.

Porter was last seen alive in the works. No anxiety was felt about his failure to return home, as he frequently worked all night.

Girl Sentenced to Death

For the first time in many years a young woman has been sentenced to death in France without recommendation to mercy from the jury.

She is Germaine Lefevre, aged 18, who shot her lover, a soldier, at Gen while they were walking in a lane. Afterwards she opened his veins with a razor to make sure that he would bleed to death. She then placed on the body postcards, ostensibly written by the man, in which he announced his intention of committing suicide.

TO-NIGHT'S BIG SPORTING ATTRACTION—5-MILE RACE AT PRINCE'S RINK.

Gruesome Contest Anticipated. All roads lead to the Prince's Rink to-night, the scene of the much talked about 5-mile race, between Jimmy Hawboldt, the Canadian flyer, and five of Newfoundland's speediest long distance runners, viz., Ronald O'Toole, the Champion; John Bell, the Veteran and ex-Champion; Cover Stone, Jake Ralph and last, but not least, Clifford Stone, the half mile and one mile champion.

Scidom has there been such a galaxy of runners, in the pink of condition, to appear before a St. John's audience, and that the race will be a gruelling one from start to finish goes without saying. There is no need to make special mention of our own local runners, as their reputation in the running game is already well known. As for "Jimmy" Hawboldt, the Westville runner, all that we can say is that he comes to Newfoundland for a first time, with a splendid record as a runner, and it is his intention to do his mightiest to-night to win honor and fame for his own country. Hawboldt is a speedy runner for five miles, as in a race held at Charlottetown over this distance a few months ago, he finished first in the splendid time of 24 min. and 34 sec. This is roughly 28 seconds quicker than O'Toole's time.

Mr. S. P. Cullen, Captain of the track, will crack his pistol at nine o'clock, the signal to send the runners off over the course of eighty laps, the official five-mile distance.

No Smoking Please.

The Committee in charge would feel very grateful to the sporting public in attendance to-night, if they would kindly refrain from smoking during the performance. It not only gives everyone an opportunity of viewing clearly the event, but to the athletes it is a complete necessity. A runner cannot be expected to put forth his best efforts in a smoky atmosphere as has been witnessed in the Rink on previous occasions. Should this very easy regulation be carried out by all, the success of the race will be a foregone conclusion. The Judges conducting the affair to-night, are as follows:—Messrs. F. James, A. H. Thomas, J. I. Vinicombe, T. Butler, Timekeepers, Messrs. J. M. Tobin and C. Hall.

The Rink will be open at 7 o'clock for the admission of patrons, and holders of reserved seat tickets will enter by the southern door near the Curling Rink. The C.C.C. Band will be in attendance and will render a programme of music during the race and for a promenade dance afterwards.

TO-NIGHT'S BILLIARD GAME.

What promises to be an interesting exhibition of billiards takes place at the B.I.S. rooms at 7.30 to-night, when E. Fox (Masonic) and D. J. French (B.I.S.), will try conclusions. Both players are ranked amongst the best in the city. No doubt a large attendance will be on hand to witness the cueists in action.

Tasker Celebration at "Gaiety" Hall

The Annual Tasker Celebration, held on Saturday afternoon at the Gaiety Hall, was attended by upwards of 350 children. Misses Sheelgrove, Turk and Mr. Butt, three of the instructors who were engaged in playground work the past summer, were present and helped in no small way to keep the young guests in continuous enjoyment. The Masonic ladies were in charge of the supper arrangements and they had prepared a beautiful supply of those things which are so relished by the younger folk. The hearty manner in which supper was partaken of was the best appreciation of the ladies' efforts. After supper a moving picture show was given, with Mr. Ash manipulating the machine, whilst Mr. Delmar sang several comic songs. The children spent a most enjoyable afternoon and the older folks derived almost as much pleasure from the success which attended their efforts at entertaining their guests. After the afternoon's programme concluded, a very enjoyable dance was held by the adults, the music for which was supplied by Pushie's Orchestra.

"PLAY THE MAN."

"Play the man," a good old-fashioned battle cry, which has not yet come to mean in this country at least "Act the Brute," is still considered good tactics in a game, and by all but a few is considered sportsmanlike in the best sense of the word. There is no need yet, so clean is sport in this country to enter the fray clad in the full armour of a knight of old. So go to it, my hearties.

INDOOR SPORTS MEET.

Prince's Rink, Wednesday Night. The Indoor Sports Meet, under the auspices of the St. Bon's and Guards Clubs, will be held in the Prince's Rink on Wednesday night, commencing at eight o'clock. The programme prepared by the Committee, which consists of twenty-one events, is all that can be desired, and those who patronize the big meet will have an interesting night's amusement. There are four relay races on the programme, in each of which the competitors, three to a team, will run two laps each. It was the intention of the Committee to run a Mercantile Regatta Race, but this item has been changed to a relay race instead.

FRACTURED RIGHT HAND.

ALTONA, Pa., Nov. 9—Tiger Joe Herman, Toronto, fractured his right hand in the eighth round of his bout to-night with Andy Tomasky, of Wilmerding, but the Canadian fighter gamely carried on through the remaining two rounds to a draw decision.

STRIKING WINS.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 8—"Young" Strikings won a decision over George Cook, of Australia, in a 10-round bout here last night at the Municipal Memorial Stadium. Cook was floored in the eighth round but was able to finish the fight.

FRENCH CHAMPION LOST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9—Lucien Vinexo, of France, making his first appearance here as a lightweight champion of Europe, to-night lost a judges' decision to Charley Rosen, of New York, in a 12-round contest. takes the greatest care to protect and nourish her skin and not to give the fatal wrinkles a chance to form. After cleansing her face she rubs in with an upward and outward motion a generous amount of Three Flowers Skin and Tissue Cream. The pure oils it contains are quickly absorbed by the tissues. The lady whose skin is inclined to be dry finds in this splendid cosmetic the means to replace the natural oil her skin lacks, while the woman whose skin is inclined to be too oily finds that a thorough cleansing with Three Flowers Skin and Tissue Cream opens the overloaded pores and helps them throw off the excessive oils. Thus does this beautiful cream benefit every woman's skin.—oct22,8,m,tf

SOMALILAND CHIEF'S CAPTIVITY. An inquiry concerning the deportation by the British authorities of the chief of a Somaliland tribe to the Island of Seychelles may be heard before the Privy Council shortly. Ebo some time prior to July, 1919, Mahmud Ali Scherary was administering thousands of miles of territory at Lo-Koral, a British Protectorate in Somaliland, on behalf of his father, Sultan Ali, a monarch nearly 100 years of age. During the war he with members of his tribe, materially helped to defeat the forces of the Mad Mullah. On several occasions he distinguished himself by conspicuous bravery. In July, 1919, the British Government caused his removal to Mollie, Seychelles, where he has since remained under conditions which practically amount to "open confinement." Repeated efforts have been made to secure his release, so that he may return to his aged father, his wife, and five sons, but hitherto without success. Dr. Seyid Majid and Mr. Wilfrid Rutherford, barristers-at-law, have been retained on behalf of the captive chieftain, with a view to securing his early release. When Parliament meets, questions on the subject are to be put to the Colonial Secretary, and, in the event of the replies proving satisfactory, a writ of habeas corpus is to be applied for. In this way the Privy Council will be moved to inquire into the whole matter. The

Wrong Parties Lined Up

TORONTO, Nov. 9—A solemn comedy threatened a religious ceremony recently. At a church attended by Polish people in West Toronto, a Canadian minister had been called in to marry two young Poles. Accompanied by two others of the same nationality, for bridesmaid and best man, they took their places before him. Slowly and solemnly the minister began the service. "Do you take this woman?" the man before him seemed to nod assent. "Do you take this man?" the bride also nodded. Suddenly there was a commotion at the back of the church. An elderly man rushed down the aisle. Seizing the young man standing beside the bride, he shoved him to the left. Grasping the other young man, who stood near the bridesmaid, he pulled him alongside the bride.

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

NOTHING TO BE PROUD OF.

To be bored is to be unhappy. Sure anyone will acknowledge that, whether or not they can subscribe to the opposite, that not to be bored is to be happy.

Yet, don't you think that people who are bored by the things that please others are apt to pride themselves on the fact, to plume themselves on their inability to extract pleasure from what other people enjoy?

And Then She Yawns.

You speak with anticipation of your evening at the movies. You are looking forward to seeing one of your favorite stars in a dramatization of a book by one of your favorite authors, and your work-to-day is leavened by that anticipation and your work-to-morrow will be leavened by your memories. But your neighbor does not kindle. "I never saw her," she says. "I almost never go to the movies. They bore me dreadfully. I have tried it once or twice but really I couldn't stay through the evening. And she languidly stifles a yawn at the very thought.

She is telling you of a misfortune—her incapacity to extract enjoyment from that which is a source of pleasure to millions. Does she tell it in the tone of one relating a misfortune? Far from it. Her tone and manner indicate plainly that she feels she has demonstrated her superiority to you and the rest of the common herd.

Pitying The Wrong One.

Then there's the person who does not enjoy the radio. What pride he takes in the fact! How scornfully he speaks of the people who spend their evenings "listening to bedtime tales."

(to hear him talk you would think there was never anything else broadcast.) How proudly he tells of the time a friend tried to get him to listen to their radio and the static broke in! How much fun he makes of the radio fans who spend whole hours at their instruments. "They'll soon get over it," he prophesies, "when the novelty wears off. Perhaps they will and perhaps they won't. That's as may be. Meantime, they are getting a lot of fun that he is missing and if anyone's to be pitied it's not they."

"Canned music" was a phrase coined by people who take pride in their boredom, to show their contempt for another form of amusement that brings pleasure to millions. Some of the people who use that phrase have never even heard the finest music rendered on a first class instrument. Some have heard but having made up their minds to be bored, or perhaps having a native incapacity to enjoy music have still gone on shrugging their shoulders at "canned music."

But Why Feel Superior?

All sorts of people are a sheer waste of time to some people; the fan people have at picnics arouse cynical derision; the great enjoyment to be had at a contest of wits like bridge is incomprehensible to many. And, of course, it is inevitable that we shouldn't all enjoy the same things. Why feel superior about it? Why encourage oneself in being bored by exalting that boredom into a virtue? Why cultivate the bored habit of mind? Why refuse to give any of these diversions a fair show before one loftily condemns it as a waste of time?

Modern civilization has given most of us a great deal of spare time comparatively speaking. We all need to cultivate a capacity for small pleasures. It that time is to be a blessing and of a curse.

Little Jack Rabbit by David Cory

By the time Lady Love and her little rabbit boy reached the Three-in-One Cent Store in Rabbitville, Mr. Happy Sun was shining brightly from the sky. Just as they were stepping out the door, it opened and there stood dear Uncle Lucky Letthindfoot, the old gentleman rabbit.

"Goodness gracious meebus!" he exclaimed, "whatever brings you out so early?" and taking his gold watch and chain from his pink waist-coat pocket, he added, "Just eight o'clock by railroad time."

"I had some shopping to do," explained Lady Love, with a smile. "Cousin Cottontail is coming over for lunch, so I made an early start. It was very beautiful through the Sunny Meadow and the Pleasant Pasture. All the grass and leaves were a-sparkle with hoar frost."

"Those frosty diamonds will be gone by the time we get back," laughed Uncle Lucky. "Mr. Happy Sun will see to that. When you have finished shopping, hop over to the bank. I'll stop there for a minute or three. Then I'll drive you home in the Luckmobile," and away hopped the nice old gentleman rabbit, President of the Rabbitville Savings Bank and the Welsh Rarebit Club.

It didn't take sweet Lady Love long to close shop. She knew what she wanted when she wanted it. Wet, indeed. And in a few minutes she was hopping down Lettuce Avenue to Uncle Lucky's bank on the corner of Pumpkin Square; and that famous avenue, the Main Street of the quaint little town of Rabbitville.

Little Jack Rabbit followed close behind her, carrying a basket of clothsops. Dear me, I forget to mention before that somebody had stolen Lady Love's clothsops. It had happened on Monday, the day this pretty little rabbit lady hung out the clothes to dry. She had left the basket of clothsops in the little yard while she had carried in the clothes. But dearest me and dearest you! On coming stovepipe hat on his head and his gold watch chain shining against his pink waistcoat.

"Ha, ha!" he laughed merrily. "Now we'll have a jolly ride. It's such a lovely cool morning. Maybe the Luckmobile feels frisky," and in hopped nice Uncle Lucky. The next minute off he went, Little Jack Rabbit by his

The Evening Telegram

THE EVENING TELEGRAM, LIMITED, PROPRIETORS.

All communications should be addressed to The Evening Telegram, Ltd., and not to individuals.

St. John's, Newfoundland, Monday, November 16, 1925.

THEN AND NOW

The Globe invites comparison between the methods followed in expending public monies to-day and the profligacy which marked the career of the administration with which this country was saddled during the years 1919 to 1923, and we very willingly accept it.

There was road work, it is true, but where are the roads? Thousands of dollars went into the highways leading from St. John's, but the only section deserving of the name that remained a few months later was that boulevard, some three hundred yards in length known as the Road de Luxe, because it was paved yards in length and known as the Road de Luxe, because it was paved with $25,000 of the taxpayers' money.

Considerable land was cut up and considerable money paid out in the making of a road which paralleled another from Merrymeeting Road to somewhere in the direction of Portugal Cove Road. Neither the beginning nor the end nor the middle was ever completed, and all that indicates the route to-day is a scar across the landscape.

Then if we remember rightly there was to be another highway also running from the city to join the Topsall Road. The contract, we believe, was given to certain individuals who did not even profess to know the first thing about road construction, but that was neither here nor there with those responsible for the administration of public funds.

There were other operations in the Deer Lake and the Badger country, but the Auditor General's stinging comments regarding the expenditure there have already been quoted, and it is unnecessary to repeat them in full. He takes fully into consideration the distressful conditions existing and the necessity for relief, but declares that the projects were ill-considered and the outlay was unjustifiable.

Possibly the stone-breaking operations were part and parcel of the road building programme. Such would seem to be the case if the cost to the country was any indication. Rock at $25.00 a ton should certainly have furnished the kind of material that those roadmakers considered necessary, but even that figure fades into insignificance when compared with the amount paid for excavating gravel from privately owned pits, or for the trees uprooted on certain estates. The owners of course might have become destitute but for this ready aid.

Now for the operations during the past season. Again and again it has been declared by the critics that the whole system of roads devised by the Highroads Commission has been planned and carried out for the benefit of the motorists of St. John's. What are the actual facts? During the past season work on but one road leading into the city has been in operation, namely, the Topsall Road, and even that was the last to be put into condition. Who is better aware of that fact than the writer of these false reports? In his own motor car he must have bumped over the holes and ruts on the suburban roads during the past summer, those roads upon which so much money was expended in his balmy days. His colleague's cars had the same experience, and that gentleman who is supposed to be a good judge of road matters, must also admit the sorry wreck left of the highways on which he laboured so expensively.

The plan of operations, it is true, has for the most part been limited to the Peninsula of Avalon, but who has been one of the strongest supporters of beginning with this area? In a book called the Nfd. Road Booster, the author of which is R. Hibbs, M.H.A., it is written "The activities of the Road Commission must, for the present at least, be confined to the Peninsula of Avalon." Further he stresses the importance of completing the main road around Conception Bay. "The road to Ferryland," he adds, "is also of great importance. . . . The Salmonier, St. Mary's and Placentia roads are also considered important factors in the scheme of highways."

The author must surely feel flattered, unless he is aggrieved for personal reasons, that his proposals have been adopted almost to the letter by the Highroads Commission.

This admirable book, written to awaken in Newfoundlanders a "better roads spirit," was issued early in 1924, or immediately after the collapse of the administration of which the author was a member. It is reasonable, therefore, to conclude that he was not voicing sentiments to which his colleagues were opposed. The elaborate road building programme, of which he was such an enthusiastic advocate, was part and parcel of a tourist policy for Newfoundland, as he clearly states. In that movement he expressed implicit faith, and may it not be taken for granted that if the election, which was being contested while the "Booster" was in process of being printed, had resulted in a victory for his party, the projects mentioned would have been undertaken immediately?

In the policy being carried out to-day can be seen the plans of the Opposites, and they have occasion to feel gratified, but instead their voices are rancorous in their denunciation. Truly the hands are Esau's hands, but the voice is a voice of an impostor!

It is perfectly correct that to-day money is being expended on roads in large sums, but the difference between past and present expenditure makes a striking picture.

In the years to which reference has been made there was no considered plan. To-day there is a definite programme.

Formerly the work was under the supervision of a number of gentlemen who, while deserving of the highest credit for the time and energy which they generously gave to the matter, did not for a moment claim to possess any practical experience, and there was no one to direct them. To-day the road building is under the control of a highly qualified engineer, and the immediate supervision is in the hands of an expert, whose qualifications have been demonstrated both here and abroad.

So demoralizing to the community were the extravagances

and mismanagement of the public funds during those years of squander that one member of the administration actually confessed in the House that it was impossible to obtain thirty cents worth of work from the labourers for a dollar's pay. During the past season nothing in connection with the road work has been so gratifying as the splendid service the workmen have given and the keen interest taken by them in their occupation.

As a result of the money spent on roads in those days of stress, was there anything accomplished which has not required doing over again, apart from Mr. T. A. Hall's concrete bridges? In the brief period of four months permanent roadways, far superior to anything of that nature ever before constructed in the Island, have been made from Topsall towards the city and around Conception Bay, and a considerable portion has been completed on the Salmonier-Placentia route. Operations are also well in hand on the Whitbourne-Colinet road, and surveys have been undertaken in the district of Bay St. George. Not only has a splendid surface been laid, but the obsolete wooden "bridges" have been replaced by concrete conduits over a considerable portion of the various routes.

There, in practical form, is value for money spent. At the same time some hundreds of men have been honourably and industriously employed. And the Globe would term them paupers? It claims that this has been "relief" work, a term used to describe the unproductive labour of a few years ago—stone breaking, snow shovelling and so on—occupations intended only for those in the direst straits, and the pay for which was the demoralizing dole in another form! Why hurl an insult, in the desire to injure the Government, at men who earned their bread and who had nothing whatever to do with the policy criticized?

With time at our disposal we might account for certain other portions of the $60,000,000 futter, which produced nothing of value to the country. We could describe, for example, the Coaker Navy which is not, and the air fleet, which never took the air. We might further comment upon the railway operations as conducted by the Commission and the private cars placed at the disposal of various individuals. Reference might also be made to the items on various expense sheets turned in by certain members of the party. Items such as soap, matches, and even other articles which are generally provided in public conveyances. There were literary gentlemen in those days whose talents demanded proper recognition by the public. To-day many a shelf in the Colonial Secretary's Department is laden with such compilations as 5,000 Facts about Newfoundland, Guide Books which were to awaken the world to the value of the country as a tourist resort, and other works from the same fertile brain, which unfortunately serve no other purpose now than to accumulate dust. But why continue? Was not most of this money expended in the sacred name of Charity?

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES.

Nov. 14th.—Talking this morning with Mons. de Champlain, whom I met with at the Banque, he gives it as his opinion that the Labrador Boundary case is little like to come before the Privy Council, being that he thinks a settlement will be made on the basis of a 10 million dollar payment to Newfoundland, which indeed I doubt.

Again and again it has been declared by the critics that the whole system of roads devised by the Highroads Commission has been planned and carried out for the benefit of the motorists of St. John's. What are the actual facts? During the past season work on but one road leading into the city has been in operation, namely, the Topsall Road, and even that was the last to be put into condition.

In the policy being carried out to-day can be seen the plans of the Opposites, and they have occasion to feel gratified, but instead their voices are rancorous in their denunciation.

It is perfectly correct that to-day money is being expended on roads in large sums, but the difference between past and present expenditure makes a striking picture.

In the years to which reference has been made there was no considered plan. To-day there is a definite programme.

Formerly the work was under the supervision of a number of gentlemen who, while deserving of the highest credit for the time and energy which they generously gave to the matter, did not for a moment claim to possess any practical experience, and there was no one to direct them.

So demoralizing to the community were the extravagances

On Friday last the Municipal employees completed laying a sewer on Stewart Avenue, but apparently the work was faulty as the surface gave way on Saturday when a well known taxicabman tried to back his car over it. The machine went down to the axle and was not extricated until two hours later, when the assistance of the Council's truck was procured. The guard rails which were removed from the place on the completion of the job were then replaced.

AN INVITATION

TO THE LADIES AND GENTLEMEN

Contesting as Councillors

IN THE FORTHCOMING MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN.

With the object of giving the Citizens of St. John's an opportunity of meeting the candidates who are standing in the forthcoming Municipal Election and of hearing each candidate's views, personally, I invite every lady and gentleman contesting the coming election as Councillor to join in a Public Meeting to be held at the Majestic Theatre (if available) on a convenient date, to be announced, between Nomination Day and Polling Day.

The following will be the necessary conditions:— 1. The meeting will commence at 7.30 p.m., and EACH SPEAKER WILL BE ALLOWED TEN MINUTES TO COVER HIS ADDRESS. This is absolutely necessary as it is hoped to have all the twenty or more candidates take part and even with ten minutes apiece it will mean a long meeting. I would point out, however, that it is possible to put in a Ten Minutes address as much matter as would occupy two columns of a newspaper.

2. I propose the following order of speaking though I am prepared to change this if it is the desire of the majority taking part. The present Council will speak first in their order of Council Seniority; then the lady candidates in alphabetical order; then the new gentlemen candidates in alphabetical order. My idea in putting the present Council first is not to give them any advantage over the new candidates,—rather the reverse. Under the programme outlined, the present Council (who have been "in the limelight" anyway for the last four years) would be finished their remarks by 8.30 by which time the attendance at the hall would probably be the largest, and this arrangement would give the ladies and new candidates the privilege of addressing a larger percentage of citizens.

3. Candidates taking part in the meeting will be expected to pay their share, pro rata, of the expenses connected with the meeting. These expenses will be rent of hall, advertising the meeting and police protection and, if all candidates take part, should work out at something less than $10 per head. Detailed accounts will be rendered. The meeting will not go ahead unless at least ten candidates signify their intention of taking part.

4. LADY AND GENTLEMEN CANDIDATES WILLING TO TAKE PART IN THIS MEETING MUST INFORM ME IN WRITING ON OR BEFORE SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 21ST, IN ORDER THAT THE NECESSARY ARRANGEMENTS CAN BE MADE. (My address is P.O. Box E-5294).

Yesterday's Thank-giving Service at Anglican Cathedral

SERMON PREACHED BY HIS LORDSHIP THE BISHOP.

Yesterday—Thanksgiving Day—the preacher at the Sung Eucharist at the Anglican Cathedral was the Lord Bishop of the Diocese who took as his text the words of Psalm 100, verse 3, "Go your way into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise." His Lordship spoke, in part as follows:—

THANKSGIVING. Psalm: 100, 3. "Go your way into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise."

Perhaps you are already aware of the fact that for the first time in our history the Church's Day of Thanksgiving in our Diocese coincides with the date named in the Proclamation of His Excellency, the Governor of the Colony—so that we are in the happy position of being able to feel that the whole Colony, and not only the Church of England portion of it, is called by authority recognized by all bodies of Christians, to bear witness to the good hand of God upon us all in our several capacities. The gain, thus acquired is to my mind very great indeed. For while it is true to say that in other days, when our Church, following a time-honoured custom, kept its Annual Day of Thanksgiving, we did try to bear in mind that we were not to think only of the mercies granted to our own Church and people, there was a sense of something wanting—our act was more or less an isolated act—while we were a large proportion of the Colony, as a Colony we were not united in doing what is so obviously right and fitting—we were not capable of that family feeling which the united observance of such a day makes possible. Whether the entire population of Newfoundland have caught hold of the idea that they are summoned to-day to appear before God to offer Him thanks and praise is not for me to say. Whether they will do so or not is another matter; but I am persuaded that it is a thing greatly to be desired that the Colony should, of set purpose, openly public through its official head that God exists, that God provides, that God blesses, and that in consequence God should be thanked by those whom He has helped.

The Colony of Newfoundland, then recognises God—the Empire, in the person of its sovereign does the same. Now while I would not overestimate what might be found to be a mere convention, if it were only that, in these days it is something to be grateful for when we find that God is reckoned with at all. Especially in the Councils of nations. It has been said of late with increasing frequency that the failure to see that God cannot be left out of the affairs of nations as He too often has been is the very reason why men have so long found no way of easing the sense of insecurity, of mutual distrust, and deep seated bitterness which has prevailed. Those who in recent years have controlled the destinies of our Motherland have perhaps not told us plainly as we could have wished that they would base the nation's policy towards other nations on Christian principles; but in the difficult task of securing the future peace of the world England is exhibiting a spirit of good will and generosity that reflects a temper that is born of Christian purpose. She is, too, honest in meeting her obligations to other nations, and is bearing, so many think, more than her share of post-war burdens.

There is, therefore, real reason why we, as part of this Empire should be grateful to God for giving to our nation those qualities which are enabling her to restore to a shattered world some measure of strength and stability. Gratitude becomes us to-day for the national blessings which are ours.

Again, speaking with some appreciation, at least of the contempt with which many feel obliged to speak of our Mother Church of England, I believe there are sufficient grounds for thankfulness for what our Church is, and stands for, and for what she attempts to do. Believe me it is not without good reason that our Church dares often times to court unpopularity, and to win from some quarters the contempt of which I have spoken. Perhaps there is no higher commendation than unpopularity at a time like this. There are it is true a vast number of "thoughtful" people, truth seeking, and sincere in their search for truth, who want to know before everything else what the Christian faith really means, and where it may be found; but who do not feel drawn towards the system which the Church maintains. We have no quarrel with these. But there are others who speak as though the ancient creeds are nothing more than pious opinions which may at any time be supplanted, and the threefold ministry nothing more than a convenient arrangement which men are free to adopt, or even abolish if they so desire. They do not seem to be able to grasp the position that for us a valid ministry is a prerequisite if we are to have valid sacraments, and that there is such a thing as authority bestowed not from beneath but from above—continuing from the ancient days until now. Perhaps in none of the great questions which confront the Christian world, and which challenge it, is there greater cause for thankfulness than the position which our Church takes in the matter of the reunion of Christendom.

Is it for mere opinions that she runs the risk of being misunderstood or even ridiculed? There is more than man's opinion at stake if history tells the truth. The Church of England believes that the guidance of the Divine Spirit was as real at the beginning of her ordered life as it is now and she has no reason to think that He contradicts in one age what He has led men to do in another. And hence, when she invites other Christian communions to consider the tragedy of the divisions of Christendom, and expresses the hope that a way may be found whereby those divisions may yet be healed, she feels obliged to add that the history of the past and the permanence of the faith of the days that he ahead demand that the Sacred Scriptures, the Ancient Creeds, the Sacraments that Christ Himself ordained, and a ministry accepted and acceptable by the whole Church of Christ are essential to the reunited body. The Church of England has never suggested that she has revised the conviction so plainly written down in the Prayer Book "That it is evident unto all men diligently reading Holy Scriptures and ancient authors, that from the Apostles' time there have been these orders of Ministers in Christ's Church: Bishops, Priests, and Deacons." And men are wise enough to see that this principle must continue if we are to be one with the great historic churches of East and West. I have dwelt upon this feature of the reunion movement because there is a real danger arising from an impatience which would bring men together without making due provision for the maintenance and preservation of the essentials of the Christian faith. And also because we should be sincerely thankful that our Church has been granted courage and patience and steadfastness in the face of many temptations to seek peace at the sacrifice of what we believe to be the truth. In the words of the Archbishop of Canterbury uttered a few weeks ago, "With my whole heart do I believe that, by the mercy of our God, we have in such a goodly heritage."

And lastly, we appear before God to-day to praise and thank Him for the manifold mercies with which He has blessed us and ours in our individual and private capacity. If we think at all seriously about this matter we cannot but be aware how out of all proportion to what we can possibly deserve, God, our Heavenly Father has bestowed His gifts upon us. And perhaps amongst the very greatest is His forbearance with us from day to day seeing how slow we are to make any adequate response to His calls and His claims. Think only for a moment, if you will, what it would mean if for one single day you were to stand absolutely alone, with only your unaided power defend either your body or your-soul; with no wisdom other than your own to help you in finding an answer to the thousand questions which need be answered every day; no judgment but your own in life's decisions; no ear to hear your cries or perplexity and distress; no refuge to flee to when trial and sorrow, pain and loss break in stormy waves across your life; no Saviour when sin holds you in its merciless coils. No! we have no experience to tell us what being thus alone would mean, for however unmindful of Him we have been God has been near us all the while.

On all counts, then, we may well have grateful hearts, and here in God's house lift them up in thanksgiving. And let us make our own to-day the familiar words of our Eucharistic prayer, and here we offer and present unto Thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy, and living sacrifice unto Thee."

St. Mary's Church

THANKSGIVING DAY SERVICES.

Thanksgiving Day was duly observed in St. Mary's Church. At 8 a. m. a large number of parishioners attended Holy Communion. Shortened Matins was followed by a second celebration of Holy Communion at noon. The rector occupied the pulpit and spoke on "Reasons for Thankfulness."

At 3 o'clock there was a Children's service conducted by the Rector. Offerings of toys, books, candy, etc., were received and will be forwarded to the children at Flower's Cove. The presentation of gifts by children of all ages was an inspiring sight. A brief talk on "How to render thanks to God" was given by Rev. A. B. S. Stirling.

At Evensong the church was filled to overflowing. There were present in the Sanctuary the Lord Bishop, attended by Rev. H. L. Pike as Chaplain, Rev. J. Goodland and Rev. A. B. S. Stirling. A full choir, numbering nearly forty, led an offering of praise that was in keeping with the great theme of the day—Thanksgiving. The Rector and Assistant Priest read the Office of Evensong. Rev. H. L. Pike taking the Lessons, the Lord Bishop delivered a most impressive sermon on Thanksgiving. In chaste language His Lordship dwelt on several causes for thankfulness to the Almighty—our British citizenship, our homes, our Church, our country, etc. The rapt attention of the immense congregation indicated that a great impression was being made on the hearers.

At the conclusion of the Service a solemn Te Deum was sung—the Bishop and Clergy standing before the altar and the choir facing east. Then came the final outburst of praise and thanksgiving in the recessional hymn "Now thank we all our God"—and the worshippers went out to show their thankfulness not only with their lips but in their daily lives.

The International Tribunal at Washington

MR. C. E. HUNT EXPLAINS CLAIMS AND AWARDS.

Mr. C. E. Hunt and Inspector O'Reilly, who had been at Washington in connection with the Pecuniary Claims Arbitration, returned home by Saturday's express.

Interviewed by our reporter, Mr. Hunt stated that the hearing before the International tribunal extended over a fortnight, at the close of which a decision was given. The president of the tribunal was the Hon. Senator Nerinx of Belgium and the Hon. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, former Chief Justice of Canada, and Hon. Rowce Pound, former Judge of the Appeal Court of Newbranks and at present Dean of the Law School of Harvard University.

The American claimants were represented by Messrs. Nielson and Udy, Counsel for the State Department at Washington, and F. H. Tarr of Gloucester. These counsel as well as Messrs. Morine and Hunt addressed the tribunal.

The claims that came before the Tribunal were of two classes, one being the claims arising out of the herring fishery at Bay of Islands and Bonne Bay and the other being three special claims. The claims in the first class were nineteen in all and involved the sum of $23,431.00. They were dismissed on the ground that the vessels that came there were trading and not fishing. They were for the years prior to 1911 and it follows that, if the claimants had been successful, further claims for the years 1911-1925 would have been made. The decision is also important in that it affects the future herring fishery, and sustains the contention of Newfoundland that nets and provisions coming in American vessels and bartered in exchange for herring must pay duties.

The special claims were originally five of which six had been withdrawn. The first claim heard was that of the "Sarah B. Putnam," which was prevented from purchasing bait in 1889. She held a Canadian license and it was held that, as the Newfoundland Government had agreed that Canadian licenses would be valid in this colony for one year from date of issue, she should not have been prevented from purchasing bait. Her claim was allowed.

The claim of the "Horace B. Parker" arose out of her being refused permission in 1905 to purchase a riding sail. It was held that her right to make repairs under the Treaty of 1818 included the right to purchase a sail to replace one that had been blown away and, therefore, her claim was allowed.

The claim of the "Thos. F. Bayard" was for damages caused by her being ordered to leave Bonne Bay in 1888. It was held that under the Treaty of 1818 the vessel could remain there, and that the notice that her presence was in violation of the Treaty should not have been given. Her claim was also allowed.

The total amount awarded in these three special cases was $13,000.00.

Daring Burglar at Work on Kilbride Road

On Friday night last a series of robberies occurred at Kilbride, when the country residences of Capt. Ed. Moores, M. Aylward and Edward Skeans were broken into and everything movable in the shape of bed clothing and wearing apparel was removed. In the house of Capt. Moores the thief or thieves ransacked the basement and got away with a large quantity of preserves. The marauders were evidently undisturbed in their work, and not a trace of anything was left behind for the police to work upon. The two former houses are vacated for the winter, but in the Skeans' home the family were asleep at the time.

Wesley Church Notes

THANKSGIVING DAY.

In all the hymns and worship yesterday the spirit of thanksgiving to God for His mercies was manifested. The pastor was absent at Briggs for Missionary meeting. Rev. E. C. French in the morning preached from the words "But thanks be to God who giveth us the Victory through our Lord Jesus Christ," I Cor. 15th chap. 37th verse. He proceeded to enumerate a number of causes for thanksgiving as he reviewed the year, the favourable harvest of the fields and of the sea, of the employment afforded, and the activities of our business firms which seemed to be assuring of the blessing of the Almighty on our country for which we had reason to be thankful. And apart from these individual mercies there was cause for national thanksgiving, the rest from the clamour and tumult of war, the apparent welding of the nations together into a better spirit. He believed the Federated Churches under the leadership of able and consecrated men had been the means of bringing about the League of Nations. It had already accomplished great things and this wonderful movement, he felt, would develop and become so widespread in its potency and tremendous in its powerful influence that the whole world led by the Christian Church, would revolt against war and a possibility of a repetition of 1914-1918. The vision of Tennyson's "Locksley Hall" fitly described what this great peace movement when it became universal.

"Till the war drum throbbed no longer and the battle-flags were furled. In the parliament of man, the Federation of the world."

When glancing back to many victrories of the Church of Christ during the past fifteen hundred years the speaker was both informative and inspiring, and it was to this largely that we owe our religious and national liberty. God was our hope and defence in this last great struggle, and when the nation got to its knees and the Generals sought the leadership of God. Thank God, yes, the tide of battle was turned and victory so secured liberty for our civilization and our children that the time can never come when our patriotism and sacrifice shall have such a demand for

"He has sounded forth His trumpet, that shall never call retreat. He is sifting out the souls of men before His judgement seat; Oh, be swift my soul to answer Him, be jubilant my feet! God is marching on."

The Anthem, "To thee O God we fly. Thou are our hope," went splendidly. It was particularly suitable after such a patriotic sermon. Mrs. W. Vay sang the solo, "Give peace in our time O Lord" very effectively, and the basses were in good strength.

At the evening service the church was so full that several doors had to be opened, and we are afraid that listeners by radio were at a disadvantage in hearing the preacher's voice and the singing. Rev. Mr. Lench is such a popular preacher that strangers in the city from the outports gravitated to the "homely church." Taking as his subject Paul at Athens he then described the city, its Acropolis and other buildings, the plethora of gods and goddesses, so many in multiplicity that there came a deadlock, the critics acknowledged failure, but as the only alternative erected one "to the unknown God." To his much interested audience of philosophers and famous scholars, he undertakes to become their instructor and from their own poets writings he proved to them who was the God they sought after, "It was in Him we live and move and have our being. We are also His offspring." Paul then showed them where their philosophies were defective, solved many problems, and had the solution for every question. But when Paul began to speak of the resurrection and a judgement day, and showed how a man should live to be right with a just God, this was a new thing, and a lot of them got nasty and broke up the meeting; others began to mock and make light of the change God that Paul said "Whose I am and whom I serve." There have been mockers at truth since Noah's time, they wondered where he was going to get water enough to float his big clumsy boat. Haman ridiculed Mordecai's piety and langu on his own gallows. Daniel's enemies found themselves in the same lion's den, and some who mock at preachers now get the hoist with their own petard. The procrastinators said, "We will hear thee again on this matter," but sometimes they don't get the chance. "Death comes down with reckless footsteps to the hall and hut." Now is the accepted time, now is the day of salvation. But the service on Mars Hill was not a failure, there were some believers. Drouynists was a man of importance; he afterwards became a martyr. Damaris, probably a prominent lady, but nothing more is known of her. The names mentioned suggest that Christianity is alike suited to each sex, there is room for all. His next point was: "In the twentieth century pulpit keeping up in advance of the first? He thought it was. There were very able preachers in all the churches on both sides of the Atlan-

The usual crowd of members of Parliament gathered in the House of Commons this morning in preparation for the short session, which is to resume its work left unfinished when adjournment was taken in August. The public are not showing any special interest in the session which is expected to last four or six weeks.

English papers referred to the Archbishop of Canterbury's regret about poor sermons, but the two best preachers he had heard in the Old Country last summer were Anglican Ministers, and one of them asked him to read the lessons in his church, and also introduced him as a missionary from Newfoundland. We have space but to say the speaker contended that the old, simple but wonderful story of the love of Jesus is still being told by thousands of living, earnest Ambassadors of the Cross, and is the only preaching that will prevail. A male quartette "Abide With Me" arranged by Dr. Monk, was sung by Messrs. Chaplin, Mercer, Snow and Thomas. The harmony was good and the Hymn "Saviour again to thy dear name we raise" to a new setting by Couper went very nicely.—A.W.M.

Magistrate's Court

Three drunks were each fined $1.00 and blacklisted.

A resident of Carbonear taken in for safe-keeping was released.

A case for non-support was withdrawn.

A man for keeping a dog in a prohibited district was ordered to have the animal removed in a week and pay costs.

A resident of Rosstter's Lane was charged with being a loose and disorderly person in the public street. The defendant was placed under arrest by Const. Fritchard at 2.45 a.m. yesterday on New Gower Street, and is at present held in custody, as it is believed that he knows something about the Dock office which was broken into a few hours previous to his arrest. The constable, who was called to give evidence, stated he received a report from the watchman at the railway station that he saw a man enter the dock office about 12.45 a.m. The constable, upon investigating, found nothing had been disturbed, and having received a good description of the man, he set out and made the arrest. When the man was apprehended by the police constable, he said his name was James and lived on Bannerman Street. Upon being more closely questioned by the officer, he gave his name as Reardigan, a son of Fire Const. Reardigan, but upon being brought to the lock-up, he said his real name was Walter Fewer, from Rosstter's Lane. In the meantime, the police are working on the case, and it is likely the defendant will be arraigned again to-morrow.

A city clerk was charged with a breach Section 8 of the Firearms Act. The accused, through his counsel, admitted the selling of a revolver, but the defendant was unmindful that an Act was in force forbidding such a sale. Under the circumstances, the Judge was convinced that defendant had no malicious intent and dismissed the case with costs.

An Act relating to Firearms and other weapons was passed on April 3rd, 1925, Section 8 of which reads as follows:—"A person shall not sell a firearm or ammunition to any person unless such person produces a firearm certificate granted to such person under this Act and in force at the time."

To Bar Peddlers. Montreal Retailers Will Move to Prohibit Issuance of Licenses.

Montreal, Nov. 8.—It was learned this morning, that the Retail Merchants' Association intends to ask the city council to discontinue the issuance of licenses to peddlers with a view to entirely eliminating their trade. The Association believes that it has the support of the public, and states that the house to house method of salesmanship is unjustifiable and destructive to legitimate retail trade in general.

Citizens of St. John's

SOME THINGS YOU KNOW AND SOME THINGS WHICH ARE KEPT CAREFULLY FROM YOU.

- 1. That there are fifty-five miles of streets in the City of St. John's.
2. That there is not a street or sidewalk in the City which is worthy of the name.
3. That the City is entitled to Seventy thousand dollars per year from Special Grants from whatever Government happens to be in power, towards the "up-keep and maintenance of city streets."
4. That the City has never received more than Six thousand dollars out of the Seventy thousand dollars due them.
5. That letters to the Government (any Government) from the City Council on this subject are not welcome and are answered with the official "rubber stamp" used by the Governments for replying to communications from the Municipal Council. This "rubber stamp" reads: "The matter will receive the attention of the Executive Government."
6. That this important matter never does receive the attention of any Executive Government.

CITIZENS: What are you going to do about it? I, personally, have been fighting since early 1923, in season and out of season, to get the City its share of this grant. I believe I can get it if I have you behind me in demanding it! Do you wish me to continue to fight for your rights?

3rd TIME.

THIS IS MY THIRD TIME OF ASKING.

That my actions at the Council Board the first time were appreciated, over eleven hundred people testified at the last election, and now at the request of a majority of those electors, I have again decided to comply with their request, and to ask you Ladies and Gentlemen voters, for a continuation of that confidence at the coming election. Should I again be elected, I will pledge myself to help carry out to the best of my ability, any sane scheme that will tend to the making this my native town a brighter, better and cleaner city, having due regard to the cost to those who will have to pay for it.

A word in season, however. Should those contemplated improvements be carried out, I am convinced that extra taxation will have to be put on an already overtaxed people, for I am one with Mayor Cook who, a short time ago told the people that they cannot make brick without straw.

Thanking you in anticipation, yours truly.

LADIES & GENTLEMEN.—As you were kind enough to give me your valued support on the many previous occasions I sought election at your hands, I have decided to again solicit your esteem and confidence for four years more as one of your civic representatives.

During the several terms I have had the great honor of being a member of the Municipal Council Board I have consistently practised the policy of conforming to your desires in so far as the civic revenue permitted.

I shall be very pleased indeed to again do my utmost towards bringing about many more essential improvements that are still necessary, and, therefore, feel that as you have so highly approved of my civic record in the past you will be pleased to again remember me on polling day.

A SPECIAL WORD TO THE LADY VOTERS.

You may have many friends to choose from ladies, but as a special favor will each one of you please be kind enough to record a vote for me.

Nose Vaccine for Colds

Protection Against Influenza—Small-pox Serum Fore-shadowed.

The possibility that by applying an appropriate vaccine to the lining membrane of the nose we may be able in the near future to obtain protection against colds, influenza, and other inhaled diseases is fore-shadowed in a report to the Medical Research Council on his inquiry into the virus of cow-pox and small-pox by Dr. Mervyn Gordon, consulting bacteriologist to St. Bartholomew's Hospital.

To deal with big outbreaks of these diseases it is desirable that an efficacious method less troublesome than inoculation should be discovered.

Having found that the virus of cow-pox heated to 55 degrees Centigrade and injected under the skin of a rabbit produced immunity (protection against infection), Dr. Gordon applied the same dose to the mucous lining of the rabbit's nose and produced equal protection. He writes:

"Further experiments are desirable to determine the extent to which this physiological property of the nasal mucosa can be exploited for the practical production of immunity.

"Since all that is required is the free application of the antigen (microbic substance) to the nasal mucosa, it is conceivable that ultimately immunisation by the nasal route may be found to possess a high value in the case of threatened epidemics of respiratory-borne diseases, a contingency in which preventive medicine is at present gravely at fault.

"As in such infectious maladies the virus is air-borne, the nasal mucosa is the surface in the body most exposed to attack. This site would appear to be the outpost where specific immunisation is most needed and most likely to prove successful in checking the spread of such inhaled infection."

Small-pox Hopes.
The results of the investigation promise a practical method of preventing not only cow-pox, but also influenza, scarlet fever, and other diseases due to living microbes.

The Medical Research Council points out that the problem of filter-passing one of the most important of the day. A cordy advance in the case of "infectious" them—which Dr. Gordon's investigation promises will be most valuable.

An immediate application is the discovery of a means of diagnosing influenza with certainty and distinguishing it from chicken-pox. With the rabbit serum prepared against cow-pox will eliminate equally with the virus of small-pox, it does not exultinate a similar suspension containing the virus of chicken-pox.

From other evidence described in the report there is ground for hoping that before long it may be possible to prepare an effective serum for the treatment of small-pox.

Late Woodrow Wilson

Attack in Senator's Posthumous Book.
The bitter feud between the late President Woodrow Wilson and the late Senator Lodge is continued beyond the grave through the posthumous publication of the latter's book, "The Senate and the League of Nations."

In his book, with the same bitterness as marked their relations from 1918 to the time of Mr. Wilson's death, Senator Lodge picks every conceivable flaw in America's war-time President. He places the entire blame for the Senate's failure to ratify the Versailles Treaty on Mr. Wilson, whom he calls an intense egoist, who "Thought of everything in terms of himself." The book says that he lacked "real courage and was merely willful and that he was no real idealist, arguing that if he had been he would not have sacrificed the League covenant through a refusal to accept modification.

Moose Fights Bear

Northern Ontario Hunter Bags Both As Result of Combat.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Nov. 9.—Reginald Anderson was out hunting a few days ago when he heard the howling of a moose. Coming closer, he saw a strange sight. The moose was fighting with a giant black bear.

Bruin had obtained a hold on the neck of a great bull moose, while the bull drove at him with his fore feet. Eventually the bear brought the bull to his knees. Anderson fired twice. The bull moose toppled over on his side and the bear collapsed, dead.

Anglo-American Friendship a Guarantee of Peace

SIR ESME HOWARD'S SPEECH AT ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—The greatest guarantee of world peace is understanding between Great Britain and the United States, the British Ambassador, Sir Esme Howard, told a meeting to-night of the English-speaking Union at St. Louis.

Those who were trying to build up that understanding and friendship, he said, are not trying to establish a world-dominating alliance, but rather are endeavouring to erect what will become a real temple of peace in all parts of the world where men of English speech come together.

"If I believed Anglo-American friendship would develop into a big, brutal, bullying power," he asserted, "I never should desire it to take root. But because I believe, in spite of lapses which are unavoidable in view of human imperfections, the British-American ideal in life is just and square-dealing, therefore, I for my part, shall continue to advocate a clear, frank understanding between our two countries as long as there is any breath in my body."

Growth Is Proof.
The growth of the English-speaking Union, the Ambassador said, is a proof of the feeling that friendship between all branches of the English-speaking world is a necessary factor for the well being of the world.

This idea of the necessity of a good understanding between the United States and Great Britain is not new," he continued. "We find it in many British and American writers of distinction, including Thomas Jefferson, before, during and after the revolution. They realized the advantages that would ensue to these countries as well as the world at large from a frank and friendly feeling between them and from a free and voluntary co-operation, unfettered by any formal alliance."

The Ambassador praised the Locarno Security Pact as bringing a sense of safety between France and Germany, not felt since the Empire of Charlemagne was broken up in 843. Europe, he said, is at last learning to settle her own matters, and insofar as Great Britain is a European power, she has, "I say with pride, taken an active part in promoting this great and wonderful European covenant."

Under the world over, the black abyss hangs in the den clefts, deeper than the hills, always narrow and often that one must almost creep down, I have seen, and touched, the main, the chief, the early 800,000, fashionable, early 800,000, who chased down long 60 years before the Hebrews, c. Adm.

Les Byztes, the centre of the vast region of the Adami, the valley always in which is significant to every. In plain, a mile wide, debouching of what was the big Stone. Only tricks of its water, the tributary of the Jordan, a few feet deep. Towering seemed limestone cliffs like eys. For 50 to 150 feet the sheer, with here and there a tree jutting precariously off. Then, generally, cool fissure of 10,000 years' forming an unstable ion, pressed over, with a slope like gray embankment. And, being narrow meadows that in St. John's time was the river bed. Children have had a good that have not now translate down-up talk—good for the landscape around this place of the base of the St. John's is creeps. If you are to atmosphere, you feel the something strange, touching Atlantic memories back to you, and you have a sense, far-etched, alienation: you watching in your arms hills and basins of those white cliffs, in the ponderous, slightly man-made in the come right up to their. On the sunsets, and you the overhang, now black the luminous sea of the rish. You feel that any moment a suddenly they appear.

cliff meets the base of the cliff proper, is the Cave of Font de Gaume which contains the richest collection of cave art in the world. The narrow path winds in among the rocks and bushes, among patches of purple heather and clusters of maidenhair fern.

At the very end of the cave, where the fissure comes to an end in the diverticule final, are the great treasures of Font de Gaume, the only paintings yet found of that great fearsome foe of Stone Age man, the woolly rhinoceros. They are painted in red. One shows the whole beast, the other a head. Another interesting picture nearby is one of the rare representations of a lion, facing, and perhaps seen as attacking, a group of wild horses that show an excellent mastery of line.

It has often happened that a widow is ill advised as to investments, a boy rash, a girl thoughtless in expenditures. You will not be here to guide them but you can safeguard them by creating a trust under your will that will provide a steady income for your wife, and insure your children's support and education.

IT MAY BE WORTH YOUR WHILE TO READ THIS.

Every Fall a number of people complain about the amount of their Electric Light Bill. This occurs in all towns and cities the world over, whether the cost per kilowatt is 35 cents or 5 cents per hour. This is mainly due to additional hours of darkness and more hours spent in the home.

The cost of living has gradually increased from year to year, the cost of lighting has become less.

Think of the convenience a touch of the button and you have Light, Heat, Cold or Power.

The price of any commodity depends upon the quantity sold. If a manufacturer builds 20 automobiles he may be able to sell them for $5,000.00 each; if he increases his production to 40,000 he can sell the same car for $1,500.00. This applies to everything. Your coal bill varies from month to month, but because you do not keep a strict account of the cost of each scuttle or each month's consumption; because you do not get a monthly bill for your coal to compare with last month's cost, you do not complain.

Electricity gives you more, dollar for dollar than any commodity you purchase. The cost per Kilowatt will depend on the quantity consumed, managements and bad debts occurred, whether obtained by water power, steam or combustion engines and whether you are getting it as a by-product or directly made for your benefit.

Big Dramatic Role for Colleen Moore

STAR SCORES GREAT SUCCESS IN "SO BIG," FROM EDNA FERBER NOVEL.

"Big, Bigger, So-o Big!" That is how Colleen Moore, with a flourish of her arms, describes her ambitions for the future of her baby son in "So Big," her new First National picture, at the Star Theatre.

Edna Ferber, who wrote the novel, has drawn a vivid world picture of the dream every mother builds about her son, and Miss Moore has given it an amazingly real visualization.

The story takes Colleen out of her erstwhile flapper characterizations, which won her fame in "Flaming Youth," "The Perfect Flapper" and others. It shows her as the wife of a poor truck farmer near Chicago a generation ago, wrestling on her hands and knees with the weeds in a cabbage patch.

As far as I know this same performance has never been performed, in any part of the world, with a rock the weight of the one I will use.

In the Supreme of Newfoundland Between Newfoundland Trust Corporation, Ltd. and The Reid Newfoundland Company, Ltd. (Mines & Power) Limited and Land Power & Paper Co. Ltd., Defendant. JUDGMENT OF MR. JUSTICE (Continued.) Under the arrangement December, 1919, and in the Reid Company, through its Vice-President, created in and closely with the Trust, and Mr. MacDonald were given their exclusive services. Further, the Reid had secured the existence of an organization through which he was not prepared to make a general agreement and business meeting in London could be transacted. The Trust did later become the Reid activities in to be referred to by them as "the Trust."

In the Supreme Court of Newfoundland.

JUDGMENT OF MR. JUSTICE KENT.

Under the arrangement made in December, 1919, and January, 1920, the Reid Company, through its President and Vice-President, became interested in and closely associated with the Trust, and Mr. Greenwood and Mr. MacDonald were enabled to give their exclusive services to the business. Further, the Reid Company had secured the existence in London of an organization through which, though he was not prepared to enter into a general agreement of agency, and business needing attention in London could be transacted; in fact, the Trust did later become the centre of the Reid activities in England and to be referred to by them as the "London office."

This arrangement made no real difference in the nature of the relations that had previously existed between the parties. It gave stability and permanency to the Trust and its relations with the Reid Company. Each party retained its freedom of dealing with the other, the Trust was free to take options from the Reid Company, or co-operate with others in doing so, and the Reid Company was free to sell them to the Trust or to dispose of them to others with or without the intervention of the Trust. There was no special agreement of agency between them or any binding contract as to the sale of any of the property. The proposals made by Mr. Thomson on behalf of the Reid Company in his letter to the Trust on November 5th, 1920, seem to have remained unaffected by this agreement. These proposals were not really options binding the proposer to sell, but mere offers to sell some of the properties on stated terms and to negotiate terms of sale of others when the parties were ready to do so. It is not material to enquire whether these proposals were acted upon by the Trust or not, as the question in this case is what, if any, remuneration the Trust is entitled to for services rendered in these transactions, in which it acted as agents for the Reid Company. So far as the properties in connection with which these services are alleged to have been rendered, the position in January, 1920, did not differ materially from that in which they were when Mr. Thomson went to London in April, 1919; the Reid Company still owned or controlled the Humber Valley and the Gander Valley and other properties and assets of great potential value awaiting development and it expected the Trust, instead of Mr. Thomson, would obtain the capital required for their development.

On January 7, 1920, Mr. Reid wrote to the Trust renewing the offer made through Mr. Thomson on November 5th of an option on the Humber Valley property for the purpose of a scheme for the fixation of nitrogen. He says: "When the question falls due upon us to which of the powers will be selected we are prepared to give you an option subject to prior sale . . . when the sale is further advanced."

In the summer of 1919 the Reid Co. contemplated grouping its properties and placing them before investors as a whole, but Mr. Thomson advised them against doing so, as he thought it better to deal with each property separately as originally intended. The Reid properties naturally fell into separate groups each forming a unit for the purpose of development. The properties to which the claim made in this case relates are distinguishable as follows:

- (1) The Humber Valley property, consisting of water powers on the Humber River with timber and pulp lands on the West Coast.
  - (2) Gander Valley property consisting of water powers on the Grand River with pulp lands surrounding.
  - (3) Little Bay and Tilt Cove mines held under option by Messrs. H. D. and R. G. Reid.
  - (4) St. John's Light and Power Co. which owned the hydro-electric plant at Petty Harbour and operated the St. John's Street Cars and the electric light and power activities of the city.
- These properties were each dealt with separately in all subsequent negotiations conducted by the Trust.

In February, 1920, Mr. Greenwood returned to London, accompanied by Mr. R. G. Reid, Vice-President of the Reid Company, and of the Products Company. Mr. Thomson went to British Columbia in connection with his own business affairs but he promised Mr. Reid that on his return he would come to Newfoundland and assist the Reid Company to solve the difficulties and disputes outstanding between the Government and the Reid Company under the Railway operating contracts. Mr. Thomson came to St. John's in March, 1920, and remained until December. He attended to his duties as a director of the Reid Company, particularly to the dispute with the Government.

As a result of Mr. Thomson's visit an arrangement was made that the Government take over and operate the Railway for one year, from June 30, 1920. The Reid Company was thereby temporarily relieved from its obligations to operate the Railway. The Reid Co. paid Mr. Thomson a fee of $25,000 for his services in that matter, and no claim is made in connection therewith in this action.

In 1920 the Reid Company put into effect plans it had been considering for some time of dividing up its properties by divesting the Reid Company of such as were not connected with the operation of the railway and transferring them to subsidiary companies to be promoted by it for that purpose. The facts of this transaction are according to the evidence as follows:

In 1901 the Reid Company, under its charter, took over the railway operating contract of 1898 between the late Sir Robert Reid and the Government together with the franchises and assets held by him in connection therewith. The Charter provided also for the merger in the Reid Company of the following companies, namely: of the St. John's Street Railway Company which had been incorporated by legislative charter in 1898 and which owned the Electric Light and Power business as well as the Street Railway services in St. John's, the Reid Land Company, Ltd., which was incorporated by Sir Robert Reid in 1900 and owned the lands granted to Sir Robert Reid under the Railway operating contracts and the Reid Steamship Co., Ltd., also incorporated by him in 1900 which owned the coastal steamers; so that all these various properties vested in the Reid Company.

In 1918 Mr. Conroy, K.C., who was then a Director and legal adviser of the Reid Company, drew the attention of the President, Mr. H. D. Reid, and the Directors to the inconvenience of this consolidation of all the Company's assets in a single company and advised that the assets should be segregated from the Railway and should be managed through other companies to be formed for that purpose. In May, 1919, Mr. Conroy at the request of Mr. Reid, gave his opinion in writing upon the power of the Reid Company to carry out this scheme of the segregation and the method by which he thought it could be carried out. Nothing had been done to accomplish this segregation prior to Mr. Thomson's visit to St. John's in the summer of 1918.

When the Trust was formed in October, 1919, and the question of taking options upon the various properties of the Reid Company was under consideration, the question of separating from the Reid Co. its properties other than the railway properties was regarded as necessary to facilitate the realization of the plans for development of those properties. The Trust recognized that the questions at issue between the Reid Company and the Government in relation to the Railway were an undefined menace to the titles of those properties so long as they remained vested in the Reid Company which would prevent the investment of capital in these developments, and thought it advisable to separate them from the Reid Company.

In January and February, 1920 the matter was discussed by Mr. Thomson and Mr. Reid, and it was decided to organize subsidiary companies and to transfer these properties to them as advised by Mr. Conroy in May, 1918.

About this time the Bank of Montreal, which already held a mortgage on four of the Reid Company's steamers, requested a further mortgage on its remaining four steamers. Sir William Reid, a large shareholder of the Reid Co., was antagonistic to the other directors, and they and the other shareholders believed that he would oppose giving this mortgage to the Bank of Montreal. The charter of the Reid Company required that a two-thirds majority in value of the shareholders present, in person or by proxy, at a meeting, to authorize the mortgage, but if Sir William Reid voted against it the required majority could not be secured. To meet this contingency Mr. Conroy suggested that a Bill embodying a Company's Clauses Act, which would provide amongst other matters that a bare majority vote be sufficient for such resolution in the Companies incorporated by charter be prepared for presentation to the Legislature. He considered such an Act necessary to the proper functioning of such companies. On his suggestion Mr. Elliott, the solicitor in Montreal of the Reid Co., drafted the Bill. The Reid Company believed that the Government then in power in Newfoundland was hostile to it and would not facilitate the passing of the Act through the Legislature if it knew of the Reid Co.'s connection with it. The draft bill was sent through Mr. Thomson to Major MacDonald in London with instructions to hand it to the Trust's solicitor in London, Mr. Barker, to be sent by him to the Attorney General of Newfoundland, intimating to him that the legislation was necessary to obtain British capital for investment in Newfoundland and to request the enactment during the then approaching session of the Legislature. These instructions were carried out by the Trust and Mr. Barker; but the bill was not submitted to the Legislature as the Attorney General did not have time to give it proper consideration.

In the meantime on the suggestion of Mr. Conroy the Attorney General in 1920 put through the Legislature an amendment to the Companies Act by inserting therein those parts of the English Company's Act, 1906, that enabled a company incorporated by charter by a majority vote of its shareholders to register as a Company under it. In November the Reid Company registered as the Reid Newfoundland Company, Ltd., under the Companies' Act as amended. In December it promoted three subsidiary companies, namely the Mines and Forests (Nfld.) Ltd., St. John's Light & Power Co., Ltd., and the Newfoundland Dockyards, Ltd., and entered into contracts with each of them: with Mines and Forests for the sale of 100 acres of the land of the Reid Company; with the St. John's Light & Power Co. for the transfer to it of the Light and power plant including the St. John's Street Railway business; with the Newfoundland Dockyard Company for the transfer to it of the Dock and premises in St. John's Harbour. In return for the transfer of these properties the Reid Co. received from each company the allotment to it or its nominees of its entire share capital. In this way the Reid Company carried out its plan to segregate its assets and to give the Bank of Montreal the first mortgage it required. The Reid Co. did not ask the Trust to "accept" the request through Mr. Thomson to hand Mr. Elliott's draft of the proposed Companies' Clause Act to Mr. Parker with instructions as to what he was to do with it. This constitution it gave to the question of the separation of those properties from the Reid Co. was incidental to its own work, not at the request of the Reid Company. So far as Mr. Thomson was concerned, he was at that time a Director of the Reid Company and his connection with these matters was in that capacity. I think therefore that the Trust is not entitled to any remuneration in connection with this subject of the separation of the assets, but it is entitled to be paid for the work it did in connection with the draft legislation sent over from Montreal by Mr. Elliott. I have no means of estimating the value of these services, but I allow the Trust an amount to be assessed hereafter.

In February and the following months of 1921, the Reid Co. endeavoured to procure the English Capitalists who would take over the Railway and operate it under a new contract to be arranged with the Government. Nothing, however, came of these negotiations. The Trust rendered some services in London to the Reid Co. in furthering this project. I think the Trust is entitled to be paid for these services. These services had, in my opinion, nothing to do with the Company's contract of June 8, 1923, under which the Government bought the Railway, Steamship and other properties of the Reid Company, or to the negotiations which led up to that agreement, further I am of the opinion that the Trust took no part in the negotiations which led up to that contract or with the contract itself. I therefore disallow all claims made by the Trust in connection with them.

I shall now consider the claim of the Plaintiff to have transferred to it by the Reid Company $141,166 fully paid shares in the Company formed to acquire the Little Bay Mines. The Reid Company, as such, had no interest in this mine. It was a personal interest of Mr. H. D. and Mr. R. G. Reid and Mr. Forbes as partners. It is clear from the Minute of the Reid Company passed on August 14, 1920, referred to as the "Commission Agreement" that it was the intention that the Little Bay Mines would, with the ungranted mineral rights in the lands of the Reid Company be transferred to an Exploration Company to be formed for that purpose. This Minute so far as it is at present material says: "It was VOTED to offer for sale through the Trust to an Exploration Company to be formed the Messrs. Reid's options on Little Bay Mines and Tilt Cove Mine, in conjunction with the ungranted mineral rights over all the Reid Newfoundland Company's lands, the capitalization of such an Exploration Company and the terms at its development operations to be settled later."

This programme was not carried out. If it had, it might be contended that the Reid Company was obliged to pay or procure the payment of the remuneration of the Trust for any services it might have rendered. Paragraph 17 of the Statement of Claim says:—"The sale of the Little Bay and Tilt Cove Mines which was contemplated at the time of the making of the Commission Agreement was not affected, but in January, 1921, the Reid Company agreed with the Plaintiff Company that the Plaintiff Company should receive ten per cent. commission upon the amount to be received by the Reid Company upon the sale of its interest in the Little Bay Mine. An agreement was subsequently made for the sale of such mine under which the Reid Company received $141,166 in shares. The Reid Company has not transferred to the Plaintiff Company the proportion of such shares to which it is entitled as aforesaid or any part thereof."

There is no evidence of the agreement alleged to have been made by the Reid Co. in January, 1921, or that the Reid Co. was a party in any other agreement in relation to this property than that set forth in the Minute of August 14, 1920. It seems to me that in this transaction, Mr. Reid and his partners, and not the Reid Company were the clients of the Trust. The commission to which it became entitled is upon the amount received by the partners. The Reid Company received no return from the sale. The Trust evidently took this view of the matter when it wrote Mr. Forbes on May 26, 1921, in a reply to his letter of May 10th saying "At a meeting of the Board of the Trust to-day, the understanding came to, namely, a commission of 10 per cent. of the amount received by Mr. H. D. Reid, yourself and partners for the sale of Green Bay and North Fame Bay, was confirmed." I am asked to make an order directed to the Reid Company to transfer these shares to the Trust. I am unable to make such an order directed, but I understand that the present holders of these shares are prepared to transfer to it the 10 per cent. the Trust now claims to be entitled to.

As regards the claims by the Trust to be paid for services rendered by it to the Reid Company in connection with the St. John's Light & Power Co., Ltd., one of the subsidiaries of the Reid Co., it appears that in August, 1920, when Major MacDonald, representing the Trust was in St. John's, Mr. Reid, on behalf of the Reid Company spoke to him about raising $1,000,000 for the use of the St. John's Light & Power Co. to be expended in improvements and extensions of that Company's business. When Major MacDonald returned to London, he interviewed financial firms in London, including Messrs. Armstrong-Whitworth Company, on the subject. Very little, however, was done until the beginning of the year 1921, when negotiations were conducted by the Trust to raise the money. A considerable amount of work was done by it in this connection, in collecting information and negotiations with the Armstrong-Whitworth Company and others on the subject. Before any definite results were reached the authority of the Trust was terminated by the Reid Company under circumstances to which I shall refer later. There had been no express agreement regarding the remuneration of the Trust for its services in the matter, but there was an unexpressed understanding that it would be paid by commission out of the amount received through its efforts. When Mr. Conroy and Mr. Reid were in London in November, 1921, after the Trust had ceased to act for the Reid Company the subject of remuneration for these services was discussed by Mr. Conroy with the Directors of the Trust, and on November the 15th an agreement was made which was embodied in a letter from Mr. Conroy to the Trust and accepted by the Trust on November 19th. This letter says:

"(1) As to the proposed bond issue of St. John's Light & Power Co., Ltd., we confirm that should the money be obtained through Messrs. Sir W. G. Armstrong-Whitworth & Co., Ltd., or other parties introduced by you, commission will be payable to the Trust at a rate to be determined by agreement, or, in default of agreement by arbitration, notwithstanding that the definite negotiations resulting in the sale of the bonds will have been conducted by us directly and not through the Trust."

By this agreement, the terms upon which the Trust was to be remunerated were settled. It was to be paid a commission only in the event of the money being obtained from parties introduced by it. The money was not so obtained. In fact, it does not appear that the money was raised at all by the Reid Co., but that the whole property was later disposed of to another concern. It seems to me that under the agreement, the right of the Trust to remuneration was conditional and that condition has not been fulfilled and that therefore the Trust is not entitled to be paid the amount of its claim on this head.

In January, 1920, Major MacDonald met Mr. Pomeroy Burton, Managing Director of the "Daily Mail." He talks with him in a general way about the proposal of the Reid Company to develop the properties on the Gander and Humber Rivers. Mr. Burton offered to interest his financial friends and paper mills in England in the matter. On February 15, 1920, Lord Rothermere, with whom Mr. P. Burton was associated, wrote Mr. Reid saying, "A few of my friends here are desirous of taking a hand in a paper making proposition. Are your Humber River lands for sale? If so, will you send particulars of price, I understand the River, if this is so, will you also send me particulars of this. My friends have a fair amount of money, but before committing themselves will require an option for three or four months so as to enable them to enquire into any proposition they will consider."

Whether this letter was resulted of Major MacDonald's interview with Mr. Burton does not appear. Mr. Reid replied by cable saying, "I immediately send your representative to see the London organization. Home and Overseas Trading Trust Company," he also called the Trust that he had done so. Mr. John Cowley, Lord Rothermere's representative, called on the Trust on March 22nd in regard to the Humber and Gander properties. He discussed them with Major MacDonald, Mr. Greenwood, and Mr. R. G. Reid, who was then in London. He thought it was Lord Rothermere's intention to buy outright one or other of the properties. After some negotiations in relation to both properties, Lord Rothermere's interest finally centred on the Gander Valley properties. In April negotiations were confined to the Gander property and on the 4th of June an agreement was arrived at between Mr. R. G. Reid, representing the Reid Company as vendor, and Mr. John Cowley, representing Lord Rothermere as purchaser, whereby it was agreed in consideration of £2,000 paid by the purchaser "That the purchaser shall have the option of purchasing the Gander Valley lands and water powers as described in the schedule hereto, option to be exercised not later than the 31st July, 1920. If the purchaser exercised the option, the vendor was to sell and the purchaser to buy the lands and water powers in the schedule for the sum of £454,000 on the terms specified. The purchaser, however, did not exercise the option, and save as his reason for not doing so, that the Reid Co. failed to show title satisfactory to him to all the properties and the sum of £2,000 paid for the option was returned to Mr. Cowley. Shortly afterwards, on July 24th, Mr. Cowley made another offer to take an option on the part of the Gander Valley lands known as "the Reid Lots," but the Reid Co. refused to entertain this offer.

In the meantime, the Trust was dealing with the Humber Valley properties and the proposed scheme for its development. It was originally the intention of the Reid Company to utilize the water powers on the Humber River, to establish an industry for the fixation of nitrogen. On January 5, 1920, it had offered an option to the Trust of these properties for that purpose, but nothing was done under it. Early in February the Reid Company decided to combine the nitrogen project with the establishment of pulp mills on the Humber and on the 6th of February it instructed the Trust by cable accordingly. The Trust had the assistance and advice of Professor Harker, a man of practical experience under the British Government in connection with the production of nitrogen. It was proposed to construct a large hydro-electric plant on the Humber with which to operate, first a pulp mill, then a nitrogen plant, and finally electric furnaces for the smelting of ores. The Trust asked the Reid Company for information regarding the properties to enable it to fix the price at which it could be offered. The proposition was introduced in March to Mr. Ragnarvald Blakstad, a Norwegian, who had had extensive experience in Norway in the development of water powers and the establishment of industries in connection with them. The Trust gave him reports on the properties and suggested that he make a proposal to arrange first to join the scheme. In the meantime, the name of the Trust had been changed from Home & Overseas Trust & Trading Co., Ltd., to the Newfoundland Banking & Trust Corp., Ltd. The Trust conducted some negotiations with Mr. Blakstad and was able on the 24th of June to send Mr. H. D. Reid, saying:—"Bay of Islands believe option will be accepted on payment £1000 signing and £10,000 29th November cash balance purchase money to be paid on March 31st. Will undertake also commence operations on or before March 30th, 1921. Syndicate will be formed immediately consisting ten financially powerful. Power and pulp to be developed first, electrical smelting chrome and production nitrate after they investigate. Buying price would likely be half cash the remainder in shares of parent company. In quoting price cost moving railroad must be remembered in water-power development. Price to be given for Humber including pulp water powers minerals and Town-ites."

Negotiations on the proposal were conducted by the Trust with Mr. Blakstad in London, and the Reid Company was kept informed by cable of their progress until Major MacDonald, on behalf of the Trust, visited Newfoundland in August, 1920 to discuss with the Reid Company matters connected with the business of the Trust. During his visit he discussed with the Directors of the Reid Co. the various matters then being handled by the Trust and the relations between it and the Reid Company. The result of these discussions was embodied in the following minute of the proceedings of a meeting of the Directors of the Reid Company held on August 14, 1920:—"Meeting reconvened on Saturday, August 14th, 1920, at 11 a.m., the full Board being present.

"1. Upon the consideration of the advantage to the Company to be derived from the establishment in London of the Newfoundland Banking & Trust Corporation, Ltd., whose principal business is to assist in promoting the sale or other disposition of the Company's lands and in forwarding projects launched by the Company, and of the desirability of having adequate representation on the Board of the Corporation. (Voted by Messrs. Powell, Conroy and Forbes, the other Directors not voting) that steps be taken to procure the election of Messrs. H. D. Reid and R. G. Reid as Directors of the Nfld. Banking and Trust Corporation, Ltd., and that this Company provide them with the shares necessary to qualify them as such Directors, and that all the profits accruing to them from the said shares in the Corporation be for the account of this Company.

"The Messrs. Reid intimated their consent to become Directors of the Corporation on these terms.
