approve of their acts. The majority of bankers have spoken out against them; the law forbids what they have been doing, a number of well-informed journals have a number of well-informed journals have deprecated the practices; and not another country can be named where bank stocks can be speculated in like here.

The Mail's article reads very much as if it were inspired in a broker's office on Toronto street, where all its financial articles ronto street, where all its financial articles for weeks past would seem to have originated. Instead of The World being inspired by brokers who are short of the stock it would appear that certain brokers who are would appear that certain brokers who are the stock it would appear that certain brokers who are the stock in the stoc up to their eyes in the stocks in question sud decorous. The Federal bank was pointed to as sinning in this respect, and being interrogated on the subject, the cashier, Mr. Strathy, is reported as saying :

"The Federal bank has not loaned any mercial Loan & Stock company, of which I am managing director, make advances on stock and keep their accounts at the Federal bank. The company, however, exists under a separate charter, has a subscribed capital of $500,600, and is entirely distinct from the Federal bank."

from the Federal bank."

By the device of the Commercial Loan & Stock company, one bank, at least, has admittedly succeeded in evading the spirit, if not the letter of the law declaring admost among bank stocks illegal. We recovered by the wily bankers and brokers, so long as the former is willing to make, and the latter to accept advances upon bank stocks. The one sure remedy will ultimately be found in a sincere and honest desire on the part of bank managers to act up the spirit of the existing enactment. If that desire is created, the law as it stands is adequate, but if bankers are determined to transgress whenever an accumulation of is adequate, but it owners are determined to transgress whenever an accumulation of funds prompts them to seek a temporary and ready avenue of investment outside of legitimate channels, it will require a wonderful skill to draft such a law as will thwart

The discussion of this question of loans The discussion of this question of loans upon bank shares has drawn an article from the Globe in defence of the practise. There is no valid reason," says that journal, "why a bank should not be permitted to hold the stock of other banks as security for loans. Such a transaction is in feet an exceptionally safe one." We cannot gree in this conclusion. Those who can recall the discussions in the press and in parliament some three or four years ago, when the subject was being warmly debated, will remember that some valid reasoned. MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 6, 1882.

Nothing could be better in form and Nothing could be better in form and spirit than Mr. Mowat's reply to the recent deputation on this question. He admitted that up to a very recent period the existing law on the subject had not been familiar to him, but stated that he had, in view of the interview looked into it to some extent. That he had done so to some purpose was manifest from the clear and accurate supposition of it which he gave in his remarks. The present law and regulations on the subject he reminded the delegations on the subject he reminded the delegations of the superintendent of education. He reminded them also that they have remained unchanged for thirty years, the only recent official utterance on the subject being Mr. Crooks' answer to a deputation which waited on him a few years ago.

And how far do the regulations go? In the first place they make all clergymen school visitors. By giving a minister the right to enter a school wherever he pleases, and get as much information about its working as he can, they enable him to see how far the official recommendations are carried out, and give him the right to spirit than Mr. Mowat's reply to the rethe headings: "The Ready Lie," "One of the Great Garbler's Whoppers," and such like. It now turns out there was not a word of truth in the copied article, and the Mail acknowledges the fact and "cheerfully gives Mr Buck's denial." The papers of a country are part of its institutions as much as are its governments and schools and it is much to be regretted that what is recognized as one of the leading papers of Cansda should find perpetual delight in casting out mean insinuations, and making petty accusations, and gross charges, some of which, like the present it is compelled to retract, while others are so flagrant and puerile that the good sense of the country laugh at them. The worst feature in connection with the Mail's loose and silly thougue is that the country at large is the sufferer. Even if the individuals themselves are not, the country is very much belittled in the eyes of foreigners. No one who has the welfare and honor of this country at heart can feel anything but contempt for such outrages on deency as the party organs of this country are guilty of.

I would suggest to "A Father" that instead of a "punishment room" he should have a room in his house where he would teach his room in his house where he would teach his children to love and respect him, otherwise I venture to predict that his "punishment room" will lay the seeds of present fear and future hate and rebellion in the hearts of the boys who with "calmness and deliberation get "whipped before they go to bed," and ere manhood comes they will fly from a home so distasteful to them and ever look back with abhorrence to that "punishment room" and the parent ever ready to use the room" and the parent ever ready to use the

How to Get Rid of Rats.

A writer in the Scientific American says: We clean our premises of these detestable vermin by making a whitewash yellow with copperas and covering the stones and rafters in the cellar with a thick coat of it. In every crevice where a rat might tread we put the copperas, and scattered the same in the corners of the floor. The result was a perfect stampede of rats and mice. Since that time not a footfall of either rats or mice has been heard about the house. Every spring a coat of the same yellow wash is given to the cellar as a purifier as possible it would not be in itself a bad thing; quite the contrary. To believe anything else would be to believe in the power of evil to overcome good in the world and accept the doctrine of human depravity in a form which would make even "Holy Wille's" theological stomach which was certainly accustomed to "strong meat."

THE MAIL'S LOOSE TONGUS.

The readers of the Mail must be aware how very ready that organ always is to bring forward anything calculated to belittle our provincial secretary, or any other member of the Ontario government. The Mail recently copied from the Brantford Telegram an article in which Mr Hardy was accused of making false statements. Not only did it reproduce the article in full, but it added such epithets as there in the headings: "The Ready Lie," "One of the Great Garbler's Whoppers," and such like. It now turns out there was not a contained and thing; quite the contrary. To believe anything in a provincial secretary to be a scale appointed guide. He had led the trong away whên the young married people reached the tomb. They formed a well able to protect itself in the enjoyment of its liberties. An Irish Heiress Marries a Constable

Two years ago Miss Eilard, the owner of fine estate at Newtonellard, Ools, was fired at, but both she and her coachman fortunately escaped the bullet of the assassin. Shortly afterward police protection was afforded Miss Eliard, two subconstables being drawn from the New Pallas station and appointed to that Pallas station and appointed to that duty. The guards appear to have acquitted themselves to her entire satisfaction, and one of them, Sub-Constab a Sheehy, a brave, dashing young fellow, proved himself so highly agreeable that ahe resolved to ender his protection a permanent duty. The young, wealthy and accomplished hady has, in plainer words, given her hand and heart to Sub-Constable Sheehy, who is now the husband of a beautiful wife and a landen proprietor, with an income, it is stated, of £10,000 a year.

We believe we are quite correct in waying that the independent existence of the Manitoba Sou hwestern railway ended on Monday last, when the contract was signed which handed it over to the St Paul. Minneapolis & Manitoba railway company—not the Minneapolis & Manitoba railway company—not the Causdian Pacific railway company. This may be a distinction with aut a difference. We are inclined to the opinion that the difference in this case is a material one, and that the future relationships of the St Faul, Minne polis & Manitoba railway company and the Canada Pacific railway company may not be so intimate as they have hithertobees. Mr "ill is gradually acquiring a larger interest in the former road. What the future of the Manitoba Southwestern will be must be left for time to determine. We believe however that as any rate its name must be retained. Will it push on to the west? Will it go to the boundary? Will it remain stuck where it has stood these many months past—at the end of the swamp? Will it be effected so far south and only so far south as to join the Southwestern extension of the Canadian Pacific and there stop? We know nothing on these points. But we do know than an enterprise, of great willity and promise has bad at last to succount to the pressure brought to bear up it. a pier in the lake when their attention was attracted by a great roaring and they descried a regular cyclone approaching. Before the hurricane came a long, unbroken wave, at least fifteen feet in height. Knowing that this would sweep the whole line of the pier, all present beat a hasty retreat to the shore.

When at a safe distance they turned to gaze upon the scene. While thus employed they were startled by a tremendous roaring to the northward and a moment afterward a cyclone from that direction struck the a cyclone from that direction struck the lake. This sent before it a huge wave, which had soon attained the height of that which had soon attained the height of that coming from the southward.

In a few minutes the two waves came together. When they struck, a column of water and spray was sent into the air to the height of at least 100 feet. The collision of the two waves was followed by a report that sounded like a heavy clap of thunder. A moment after this grand shock of the waters five or six huge waters outs of the waters five or six huge waterspouts made their appearance, all within an area of three or four miles, and carried great columns of water and spray to the height of several hundred feet. After about fifteen minutes of the elemental warfare the lake

Miss Jenness on the Stump From the Boston Herald.

A most novel feature in political campaigning is about to be introduced by the democratic managers in the campaign now in hand. It will undoubtedly prove attractive as well as novel, as the feature consists in a beautiful young lady named Missi-Annie Jenness taking the stump in behalf of the candidacy of Gen. Butler. Miss Jeanness belongs to the renowned family of that rame in New Hampshire, and is a near relative of ex-Mayor Jenness of Haverhill. She is 23 years old, was educated in Boston, is a brunette, with lustrous black eyes, and proved sufficiently attractive in the eyes of the Ohioans to help swell the opposition of Gov. Foster into an overwhelming majority against him. She will probably speak in Baintree and other towns during the week, and will doubtless address herself to the fair sex, with the view of impressing on them the importance of having their brothers, husbands and fathers support and help elect Gen. Butler. paigning is about to be introduced by the afternoon, when the Rev. J. A. Beil, M. A., preached. He took for his text Romans 16, 7 and 8 verse "Render therefore to all their dues tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom;

whom fear; honor fear to whom fear; honor whom honor. Owe no man anything, but love one another, for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law." In the preceding a candidate in opposition to Mr. J. W. part of the chapter Paul impresses upon every soul the necessity of subjection to the magistrate, for they are ordained by God. On these two verses the foundation of orangeism rests. Wherever these principles prevail we have a pro-perous and law abiding people. We have an example of this in the case of Ireland. The districts in which orangeism prevails are prosperous, whereas in the others we have nothing but bloodshed, misery, boycotting and entire disregard of the laws. He then entered into the remedies tried by He then entered into the remedies tried by the two great state parties to give tranquility to that country. The Irish first thought that if church was disestablished, the whole question would be settled; they got it, but that did not give tranquility. Then came a land scheme, but it did not give tranquility. This was followed by educational enactments, the only effect of which was to call large funds into the treasuries of Roman catholics and caused greater disturbances. Lastly welhave the land act of last year, which is contrary to all principles of interior economy, and will have no effect whatever.

The question really is not one of politics,

The question really is not one of politics, education or land, but a religious one. In support of this theory he referred to Mr. Gladstone's views on the ultramontanes' teachings of popery to the effect that it is a poison which when received into the extern makes a real poor, which the same a poor, while the same and the same are same as the same and the same and the same and the same areas and the same areas and the same areas areas areas and the same areas areas are same areas areas are same areas areas are same areas areas are same areas areas are same areas areas are same areas areas are same areas are same areas are same areas areas areas areas are same areas areas areas areas areas are same areas areas are same areas areas areas areas areas areas areas are same areas system makes a man a poor subject. As some might not agree with that gentleman, he quoted from the life of Charles Dickens quoted from the life of Charles Dickens when he was trvelling in Switzerland and had passed from a protestant into a Roman catholic canton. In the former all is peace and prosperity while in the latter he met with indolence with its many at-mdam evils. Dickens again says, speaking of Ireland, that he fears religion lies at the ro tof all her troubles. Then look at the present state of Ireland. Why is the protestant Ulster now denuded of troops when there are more in the other districts that fought at Waterloo. A circuit judge when in that province recently, said that there was much less crime in it than in any of the other provinces. The reason of this is that in Ulster we have the bible in our hands.

The object of our society is to distribute the Irish Bible among the Irish and also teach them to read and study it. As the result of this, there is one district contained in a circuit of five miles, in the heart of the most disorderly part of Ireland, in which a church has been built, and the bible studied. Instead of being a scene of disturbances, the people are perfectly law-

The ballet dancing in Around the World created much comment in town last week. Almost every one who saw the performance, passed some criticism on it, either in public or private. However in the west end especially, it received much notice. One afternoon last week two ladies, well known in the west end, and supposed by every one to be very quiet, astonished some known in the west end, and supposed by every one to be very quiet, astonished some of their friends by practicing the ballet in a house on Brant street. Catarrh-A New Treatment.

From the Weekly (Toronto) Mail, Aug. 24. Perbaps the most extraordinary success that een achieved in modern medicine has been att ousand patients treated during the past onths fully ninety per cent have been cured months fully ninety per cent have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent of attents presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefited, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most sclentific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissue. Mr.
Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination—this accomplished, he claim—the catarrh is practically cured and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him two years ago are cures still. No one else has ever attempted to cure catarrh in this manner, and no other treatment has cures still. No one cise has ever attempted to catarrin in this manner, and no other treatment over cured estarth. The application of the rem is simple and can be done at home, and the present of the year is the most favorable for a spe and permanent cure, the majority of cases be cured at one treatment. Sufferers shall compone with Mr. A. R. Dixon; 305 and 307 King street, the proof of the p
