- Euler, Hon. William D. (North Waterloo)
Address in reply, 605. Any improvement experienced by country during last few months largely result of policies of President Roosevelt in United States; failure of present administration to carry out promises made to electors; opposition of Mr. Bennett to higher wages; low wages in Kitchener, 606; Mr. Bennett's statement in Toronto that the government had nothing spectacular to offer by way of solution; need for changes in our manner of meeting existing conditions which will recur again and again; spread between the wages of capital and the wages of labour, 607; our difficulties in great part come from our participation in late war; introduction of labour-saving machinery and consequent unemployment; need for shorter hours of labour and unemployment insurance; unwise and unnecessary difficulties placed in way of business by administration of the tariff necessity for balancing the budget; whole debt of country, federal, provincial and municipal, amounts to eight billion dollars; loss to every class in community except government bondholders, 608; saving that could be effected by reduction of interest on federal indebtedness to three per cent; seventy-five per cent of federal bonded indebtedness held inside Canada; proportion of bonds held by insurance companies and banks, 609; repudiation by United States of gold indebtedness under its bonds; repudiation by the government of its moral responsibility to pay interest and full interest in the matter of the Guelph railway, 610; our difficulties in connection with our national railways, responsibility for taking over of Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific, 611; desirability of amalgamation of the two great railway systems; discrepancy between return to labour and return to capital under our present economic system, 612; effect of the doctrine of "rugged individualism"; government policy one of drift during the last three or four years, 613

Budget, 3057. Speech of the Minister of Railways; belief of both parties in the fiscal policy as the secret of economic advantage or prosperity; low tariff parties have never put low tariffs into effect; two main criticisms advanced by opposition this session; existence in every country in the world of a capitalistic surplus of goods; debtor nation must export more than it imports or be in default, 3058; Liberal contention that a policy of lower tariffs would bring about economic prosperity in Canada; preservation of the principle of representative government; failure of the Liberal party to present an alternative and constructive program as a substitute for the government program; remedy for unemployment and debt lies in economic reconstruction, 3059; major facts which should be the basis of our political and economic policy in the near future; financial reform the first step to be taken in distributing the abundance of goods in Canada; amendment, 3060.

Amendment (Mr. Ralston), 3009. Point of order that amendment of Mr. Ralston not in order, inasmuch as it deals with matters already dealt with by the house, 3009; objection taken by Mr. Mackenzie (Vancouver) to subamendment of Mr. Spencer and subsequent ruling of subamendment out of order by Mr. Speaker; question of credit being dealt with by the banking committee; question of unemployment already dealt with in motion moved by Mr. Coote

Absence from the house, comment of Mr. Turnbull, 979

Address in reply, 512. Rules of the house should apply to all in an equal manner; confidence the bond which must exist between governments and those they rule; unanimous support of the United States behind President Roosevelt in his recovery plan, 512; unequivocal and definite results in recent by-elections and provincial elections; trend of public opinion in the province of Ontario; consolidation and support of the government because of the fear of dissolution, 512; life of the government dependent upon confidence of the people; situation of the Conservative government in 1921; dissolution of parliament by Mr. Gladstone before expiry of term of office because of adverse by-election results; right of opposition to protect constitutional doctrine of responsibility of parliament to public opinion; failure of all the policies initiated by the government, 514; breaking down of the world economic conference; Secretary Cordell Hull of the United States on the evils of economic nationalism; translating patriotism into terms of tariff barriers, 515; Ottawa conference another link in the chain of harmful policies hampering world trade; reasons given by Sir Archibald Sinclair
