FREDERICTON HAD SUICIDE OF EXCITEMENT LAST NIGHT

Daring Attempt to Crack the Safe in the Gleaner Office—Load of Hay Burned on the Street—Two Alarms of Fire

FREDERICTON, N. B., June 4.—A number of miscreants made things lively here last night and this morning by making quite a record for itself. The list includes an attempt to crack the safe in the Gleaner office, the burning of a load of hay on King street, and the sending in of two alarms of fire. The attempt on the Gleaner safe was a bold piece of work. The safe is a Taylor one about four feet high and stands in the back office, the office being separated from the general one by a glass partition. The burglars cut through the top and bottom of the two hinges and endeavored to drive the bolts through. In this they were evidently unsuccessful for the safe when discovered this morning had all the appearance of a battered condition but the door still remained solidly locked. It is difficult to see even if the hinges had been entirely removed how the door with its combination lock would have given away. The burglars, it is presumed, made their entry through a cellar window which had been left open.

Mr. Turvey, an employee of the office, and doing night work, left the building shortly before 12.30 and returned to his home. About 1.30 a city clerk McCready walked up Queen street and noticed as he passed the Gleaner building a light in the inside office but paid no attention to it as he had seen lights in the place quite late recently. The robbers were at this time probably at work and from appearances they must have continued on their job for a long time. There were only a few dollars in the safe at the time. Besides the breaking of a large pane of glass in the back office nothing else was disturbed. Money and nothing else was what they were after. Up to noon today the police have no clue of the guilty parties.

Yesterday a farmer from a river brought to the city a large load of hay. While opposing the old canoe factory on King street, the cart broke down and the farmer was obliged to abandon the hay for the night. Money and nothing else was what they were after. Up to noon today the police have no clue of the guilty parties.

The trial of Sweeney Chase charged with stealing a sum of money from one William Lewis of St. Mary's was concluded this morning and resulted in a verdict of acquittal. The court opened at ten o'clock. J. H. Barry, C. C., addressed the jury on behalf of the prisoner and B. H. Hanson, C. C., addressed the jury on behalf of the crown. The judges charge followed and the case was given to the jury. At 11.30 after an absence of some minutes, a verdict of not guilty was returned and the prisoner discharged.

NOTHING MUCH DOING IN TARIFF REVISION Congress Committee Will Not Be Called Together—Taft, If Elected, May Do Something.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The fact that Chairman Payne, of the House Committee of Ways and Means, which is to inquire into the subject of tariff revision, does not intend to call his committee together during the recess of Congress, is attributed to a desire not to encourage Tariff Revisionists. "All that will be done," said Mr. Payne yesterday, "is that the executive departments, notably the treasury department, will be asked to collect certain data in regard to tariff schedules and have the information ready in time for the next regular session of Congress."

The administration programme, now, it is asserted, that Secretary Taft in the event of his nomination and election, shall convene a special session of the sixty-first congress immediately after his inauguration to take up the subject of tariff revision. In the event that a Democrat is elected this fall, President Roosevelt will call Congress together for tariff revision next November.

IN THE COURTS The case of Day vs. Crandall was continued before Judge Wedderburn in the County Court chambers this morning. Mr. R. G. Murray, who appears for the plaintiff, is endeavoring to establish a lien on logs that were in the lot at Westford and which he is alleged not mixed in with the defendant's logs and are now being put through the mill. Mr. A. H. Hamilton contra. In the Exchequer Court today the case of Mrs. Caroline Colpitt vs. The King was concluded before Judge Cassels. The evidence being all in this morning, argument of counsel was heard and judgment reserved. Mr. George W. Fowler for the plaintiff, Mr. E. H. McAlpine for the crown. Judge Cassels will leave this evening for Ottawa.

The Northern Pacific and the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul west from Deer Lodge are under water or washed out. The Missouri River rose steadily last night as the result of heavy rains yesterday. Butte last night was in darkness as the result of the bursting of White's Dam below the city, flooding the power plant. The lives were lost in northern Montana yesterday, a rancher and his wife drowning in the high water in a cove.

CARLETON CO. MAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Lee Slipp Cut His Throat—He May Live. Robert Caldwell, Wealthy Contractor, Died This Morning in Vermont—He Was Quite Wealthy

WOODSTOCK, N. B., June 4.—Robert Caldwell, retired contractor, died this morning at St. Johnsbury, Vermont, after an illness of several months duration. He was a native of this town and early in life engaged in the hotel business but later went into contracting in which he was highly successful. A number of years ago he retired from business, his last undertaking being a big contract on the Boston Subway. Since then he has spent his time in looking after his investments which comprise large mining properties in Mexico and the west, in addition to big mortgage and real estate holdings in various parts of the country. Here in town his holdings are estimated at $40,000, and the total estate may run well up to a quarter of a million. Deceased who was about 74, had never married. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. E. W. Williams, of Woodstock, and Mrs. Robert Barker, of Great Falls, Montana. The remains are expected here Saturday.

Word comes from Bethel Settlement, a few miles from town, that Lee Slipp, a prosperous young farmer, was found last night unconscious and with a terrible gash in his throat. Two doctors are with him and hope to save his life. No reason can be assigned for the deed, it being believed that it was self-inflicted in a fit of temporary insanity.

NEW YORK INTRODUCES A DRASTIC FISH LAW No Trout May Be Sold in the State, Nor Sent Out of It.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 4.—Under the provisions of the Fish and Game laws as revised this year, trout taken in this state cannot be sold, or offered for sale, according to a statement given out today by the State Forest, Fish and Game Commission, relative to the interpretation of the new laws on the subject.

"The only exception to this," continues the statement, "is that trout taken on Long Island, where trout fishing is permitted by law, may be sold in this state and taken out of the state by express or other means, provided the trout are accompanied by the actual owner, and the law provides that no person shall take or transport at any one time more than ten pounds of brook trout. The effect of this law is to prevent shipments of brook trout from Canada or points outside of the State into New York State. If such shipments were permitted the fact would be taken advantage of to market wild brook trout which were taken in the sea.

"As a result of the provision of the trout law, it is apparent that the hotels outside of New York city cannot secure wild trout for their guests locally. With this fact in view, and in view of the fact that the trout season is now open, two changes were made in the law relative to the trout season and one of these, trout raised by private hatcheries were exempted from the provisions of the law. The law provides that hatcheries were also exempted from the provisions of the law, limiting the amount shipped at one time and making the shipment conditional upon the trout being accompanied by the owner."

LOOKING FOR MURDERER NOW IN THIS PROVINCE Giuseppe Stefani, Wanted in Maine, for Killing Angus Grant.

(Bangor Commercial.) Extradition papers were issued Tuesday for Giuseppe Stefani alias Joe Stevens, who is wanted at Millinocket, charged with the murder of Angus Grant of Bangor on the afternoon of Oct. 27 last. The papers are signed by President Roosevelt, Elihu Root, secretary of state, and Gov. Cobb and Sec. Brown of Maine. Stefani is now somewhere in New Brunswick.

The crime with which Stefani is charged caused great excitement in Millinocket at the time. On the afternoon of Sunday, Oct. 27, Angus Grant, Charles McKenna and Ronald McDonald, went down into the Italian settlement at Millinocket known as Little Italy. They went to the shack of Fred Feluso, where they expected to obtain some beer, of which the Italians always have a plentiful supply. According to the stories of McKenna and McDonald the Italian who the officers are now seeking was in the place and offered to get the men some beer. Grant gave the Italian a dollar and the Italian started off, saying that he probably would be some time getting the beer. This didn't agree with the wishes of the three men and an altercation ensued between Grant and the Italian. It is claimed the Italian suddenly pulled a revolver and fired point blank at Grant. The bullet struck Grant in the left cheek, passing through the brain and out at the back of the head and causing instant death.

After firing the shot, the Italian took to his heels. It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon when the shooting occurred and Mr. Grant's companions were able to give a very good description of the man who did the shooting. After firing the shot, he disappeared quickly in the gathering darkness and no one was able to give a description of the man who did the shooting. After firing the shot, he disappeared quickly in the gathering darkness and no one was able to give a description of the man who did the shooting.

Major Dreyfus, accompanied by his brother Matthew, who was the first to strike the assailant after he fired, with Dr. Pozzi and several other friends was in the place opposite the Pantheon, where his office was dressed. The doctors found that the bullet had entered the skull and was in the meantime a cord had been formed about the assailant, who under the direction of Mr. Legins, was conducted to a side entrance of the Pantheon.

At this time the vast multitude packing the sidewalks, crowding the windows and streets, and converging in the Pantheon had no suspicion of the crime that reigned within the temple. The appearance of President Fallières at the portico had been greeted with a great cheer which drowned the cry of "Down with Dreyfus" which came from a band of about 500 men belonging to a Catholic association known as "La Jeunesse Catholique" who had stationed themselves on a corner opposite. Soon after this cheering regiment after regiment came swarming by to the blast of trumpets and the sound of martial music.

After having his wound dressed Major Dreyfus was taken to his home where he was rejoined by his wife, who was with him when he was shot. The news spread like wild fire through Paris and caused a veritable panic, as was at first believed that President Fallières had been killed.

The crowds around the Pantheon were driven back and all the streets leading to the temple were barred. Twenty arrests have been made by the police.

ATTEMPT TO KILL DREYFUS CREATED A PANIC IN PARIS

During Ceremony of Placing of Zola's Body in the Pantheon, Two Shots Were Fired—Dreyfus Wounded in the Hand Great Excitement Followed.

PARIS, June 4.—At the conclusion of the ceremony this morning in connection with the placing of the body of M. Emile Zola in the Pantheon, and while the procession was emerging from the Pantheon to witness a detail of the troops, a member of the staff of the "France Militaire" who gave his name as Gregori, fired two shots point blank at Major Alfred Dreyfus. The blank at Major Alfred Dreyfus. The attempt on the life of Major Dreyfus was made at the foot of the Pantheon, directly in front of the Tribune from which M. Doumergue, the minister of public instruction, delivered an eulogy on M. Zola's matchless courage in arousing the conscience of the nation to the necessity of doing justice to Dreyfus.

As the last refrain of the magnificent "Chant Du Part" was floating away through the marble columns of the classic temple and as President Fallières and the members of the presidential party, after shaking hands with Madame Zola, and her daughters, were proceeding towards the portico to review the guard of honor, a report of a shot startled everyone believed that President Fallières had been shot. A scene of incredible confusion followed and many women present shrieked and fainted.

The crowd then surged forward, but quickly broke and scattered when the members of the guard, who lined the portico, rushed to the spot where the attempt had occurred. The assailant of the major was struck down. A fierce mob of soldiers and civilians were struggling over Mayor Dreyfus and his fallen aggressor, when the coroner of the Associated Press, respondent of the Associated Press, who was witnessing the ceremony from the Tribune occupied by the court of cassation, reached the spot. Major Dreyfus, with hawklike features, pale complexion, but manifesting complete composure, was helped up holding his hand where the blood was streaming, while the soldiers could with difficulty prevent the crowd from rushing to the spot and kicking the man on the floor.

Upon the sharp command of the prefect of police, who was on the scene, the assailant of Dreyfus was dragged to his feet. He presented a pitiable spectacle. From a blood stained face, his wild eyes looked around appealingly as if for sympathy, but they met only the angry and menacing glare of the crowd and his ears heard only their hissing and kicking the man on the floor.

The man's clothing was in shreds and his coat and vest had been literally torn from his body.

Major Dreyfus, accompanied by his brother Matthew, who was the first to strike the assailant after he fired, with Dr. Pozzi and several other friends was in the place opposite the Pantheon, where his office was dressed. The doctors found that the bullet had entered the skull and was in the meantime a cord had been formed about the assailant, who under the direction of Mr. Legins, was conducted to a side entrance of the Pantheon.

The maid of honor wore a costume of cream lace and pink carnations and pink roses. The ceremony was performed in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives. PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY IN WINNIPEG

Church Union to the Front Again SOME BIG QUESTIONS Delegates Note Many Changes in Western Metropolis—Retiring Moderator's Sermon

WINNIPEG, June 3.—This city welcomed its general assembly for the third time in its history. In 1887 just document whatever. It is a notable fact that the gospel as at first spoken during the lifetime of the apostles seems attested by the literary form which it assumed when it was embraced afterwards in the written word. It will not do for us, therefore, to deny tradition altogether, to deny its undoubted influence or even its right to the consideration in framing our creed. John assures us that all was written which has never been written in his keeping, there would be no help for us but to accept it. But the author of the third gospel in his significant introduction gives it as a reason for writing it that his friends might know the certainty concerning the things he was taught about Christ, implying that the period had come when it would be no longer safe to trust to tradition. Two other remarks are in order here—the first that tradition shall not teach anything contrary to the written word, and secondly, that the Church of Rome, assuming its view has been recent to its duty in falling so far from the truth, has committed to its care, one important dogma authoritatively seeing the light only in 1854, and another in 1870.

HAILEYBURY, June 3.—Murder was committed at Reynolds' construction camp, Trouphs Falls, about 130 miles north of here, Saturday night. Eric Young, a boatman, of Stanhope, Quebec, is dead of his wounds, and Thomas A. Wright, foreman, in the employ of the Reynolds Company, is under arrest, charged with the murder. Two other men from the camp, Michael Morris and James Quinn, are also charged with aiding and abetting Wright in the murder of Young. The three prisoners are now awaiting trial and are confined in jail at New Liskeard. It is believed that the murder was committed with some words between Young and Wright over the former having left two boats up the river in order of bringing them down to camp. Wright is said to have come out of the tent where the other two men, Quinn and Morris, were sitting and told them he would knife Young with the knife he had purchased that day. The men urged Wright to fight with his fists instead and all three returned to the tent, where the fight in which they all took part, ensued. The cook, a Frenchman, named Brisson, was in the tent, and was asked to separate the men, but when he went to lift Young to put him out of the tent, he found the man, Quinn, and Morris, who were sitting in the stomach. Young begged to be taken to McDougall's chutes, and the men wrapped him up in a blanket and started in the heavy rain about 11 o'clock on Saturday night. About five miles up the river they decided to camp for the night. Young was in too serious a condition to be moved, so they left him in the boat. When they returned next morning the man was dead.

THE CUTTING CASE. The case against Frank Costantano, the Italian, for cutting and wounding George Merriss on the night of May 16th, was taken up in the police court yesterday afternoon. Police Constable Smith told the court of hearing of the assault, and how it happened. Officer Marshall made the arrest. Geo. Merriss, the wounded man, said he had known the defendant about three months and had worked with him for John DeAngella, and left on May 16th to work in a Union St. store. Defendant helped him move his belongings. That evening while he was standing in Papageorge's store on Main street defendant came in and without any provocation struck him on the head, cutting him badly. Dr. Pratt gave evidence regarding the dressing of the wound. Peter Petropolis testified that on the day in question he met defendant who said Merriss had agreed to work with him, but had left DeAngella's place, and said that he would fight all the Greeks in town. The case will be resumed at two o'clock this afternoon.

SOCIALISTS FOR DIET. BERLIN, June 3.—The Diet elections were held throughout Prussia today. The most noteworthy result up to midnight is the election of five Socialists members of which five were victorious in Berlin and the suburbs and the fifth in one of the Hanover districts. This is the first time that the Socialists ever elected a member of the Diet. It is possible that other districts will return Socialist members.

INDIAN CHIEFS INTERVIEW MINISTER OF THE INTERIOR. OTTAWA, June 3.—A deputation of fifteen British Columbia Indian chiefs arrived here last night and interviewed Hon. Frank Oliver and Frank Hedley, superintendent of Indian affairs. This afternoon to present a number of grievances. They were assured the government here would protect their timber rights on the reserves. On the question of giving greater freedom in fishing and hunting by a relaxation of the present regulations, they were told that the issue as to provincial or federal control of Indian lands in the province of British Columbia would be decided by the privy council. Meanwhile the government would consider all their requests. The deputation included Jo Caplano and Chilletessa, the two Indians who went over to London a year or so ago to lay their grievances at the foot of the throne. The inquiry by Judge Cassels into the charges made against the Marine Department in the civil service commission's report, will probably be resumed in a week or so on Judge Cassels' return from holding court in the Maritime Provinces.

THE RECORD TALKER.

Mr. George E. Foster will go down in Canadian history as the greatest long distance talker on record. He holds the championship since confederation and in the sixty odd years of his life has probably wasted more lung power than any man now living in the Dominion. Setting aside his childhood days when his parents' home was brightened by his cheerful chatter, skipping over his early youth when he attended the common schools and the U. N. B.; even sitting by his career in Edinburgh, Heidelberg and his term as professor at Fredericton, and coming down to only the last twenty-five or twenty-six years of his life since he entered politics. Mr. Foster is a striking example of the endurance of the human tongue. In 1882 he entered politics and has been a member of Commons practically ever since. During that period he has probably occupied more time than any other three members of parliament together. Almost by his own efforts he has succeeded in stretching out the parliamentary session of three or four months to seven or eight, but on the other hand where he was formerly regarded as an eloquent orator he is now looked upon by both friends and opponents as an unmitigated bore. In the brief sketch of his own career furnished by Mr. Foster for Morgan his chief recreations are given as fishing, boating, cricket and cycling. Talking, the most important of all, should have been put in first place. If Mr. Foster owns at sixty-one years of age could be induced to go fishing some of these days or to take up some other of those recreations of which he says he is fond, the business of the country would move along a little more rapidly. But just imagine the awful agonies of those who he has talked in the last quarter century.

CAR LINE TO ROCKWOOD.

It is most unfortunate for the people of St. John that the Street Railway Company finds itself either unwilling or unable to extend the line to Rockwood Park. It could scarcely be expected that a corporation whose first duty to its shareholders is to earn a dividend would build a line of perhaps a mile or a mile and a half in length and operate it at a possible loss, merely as a matter of convenience to the public. But there ought to be some method whereby a car service to the park might be provided. St. John does little or nothing for the amusement of citizens and their families. Other cities in addition to the usual grants for parks and gardens, provide band concerts and support other forms of entertainment during the holiday season. In St. John it is so long since a band concert has been given out of the public funds that only the older residents can remember it. A car service to Rockwood Park might pay during three or four months of the year if economically managed. The deficit in no case would be great. The principal annual outlay after the line was built would be interest on the capital invested. If rails were extended from Wright street up around the gardens, passing near the south side of Lily Lake and down Burpee Avenue to the corner of Winter and Wall streets, grades could be found over much difficulty by run. A road such as this would carry visitors to within a stone's throw of what is now the most attractive portion of Lily Lake. At present women and children going to the park are tired out before they reach the lake and the anticipated pleasure is usually lost. If this line were built it would not be necessary to operate a continuous service, but cars might be run at varying intervals during the busy portions of the day. Such a service would attract ever increasing crowds and would be a real blessing to the city. The corporation of St. John might well enter negotiations with the railway company for the construction and operation of such a line. In return for benefits already received the company would, no doubt, be willing to undertake the service, if guaranteed interest on the cost of the road, and a fair profit on the service. It might cost the city a few hundred dollars annually but certainly not very much more, and it would be money well spent.

U. S. CAPITAL FOR CANADA.

United States Consul Jones of Winnipeg, is responsible for the statement that fully ninety per cent. of the business enterprises in Western Canada have made use of at least some share of American capital. The flow of money is northward, and this is quite the reverse of what took place a quarter of a century ago when Canadian banks lent to the assistance of the agricultural country around St. Paul and Minneapolis. At that time Canadian financial institutions scarcely appreciated the possibilities of the country to the west of them and indeed there was little to indicate that such great development as has occurred would take place. They saw, however, that across the line were many opportunities for profitable investment. Since then the tide of prosperity has turned northward and now Canadian banks are unable to meet the demands in the west. The condition is somewhat similar to that of Minnesota twenty-five years ago. Continuing, Mr. Jones says: "Located at the gateway of a vast and immensely productive country, Winnipeg offers opportunities for investment which the banks of the section lying south of Manitoba fully appreciate. New settlers from all over the world, many of them from the United States, pour in a steady stream into Western Canada, and the wheat crop, which has been hovering around 100,000,000 bushel mark, will soon reach 150,000,000, and in a few years double itself. To this yield of wheat must be added other millions of bushels of coarser grains, all of which make up no inconsiderable factor in the sum total of those things which call for presence of money in large amounts for the purpose of financing their transportation and sale."

THE DAY OF THE CIRCUS HORSE.

It was a fiery circus horse, That reared and stamped and neighed Till every creature in its course fled frightened and dismayed. The chickens on the roadway's edge Arose and flapped their wings, And the making for the sheltering hedge Flew off like crazy things. Nor iron gates nor fences barred That mottled steed's career. It galloped right across our yard And filled us all with fear. And when it tossed its head and ran Straight through the pantry door Cook almost dropped her frying pan Upon the kitchen floor.

It neighed and pranced and wheeled about And scampered off, but then We scarcely saw the creature out When it was in again. And so throughout the living day, Through house and yard and street, That charger held its fearsome way, And only stopped to eat.

But when at dusk, a little way, It slowly climbed the stairs, Behold! a gentle lady came And made it say its prayers. Now, what a wondrous change you see! 'Sh! Come and take a peep— Here lies, as tame as tame can be, A little boy asleep!

THE BOSS HELPED HIM OUT.

It was the day of the ballgame and the office boy, approached the head of the firm, and stammered, "If you please sir—"

"Come, hurry up!" said his employer. "Don't take half a day." "But that's just what I was going to ask you if I could take," said Willis.

HERE'S A CHEERING THOUGHT.

When the ice trust gets its work in and the price soars out of sight, Just sit down in some shady spot and start your wheels to going right. Try to console yourself by thinking that a chance will come at last. For the coal trust cannot sting you till the heated term is past.

FOLLOW NO. 2. I'VE GOT MY BIRTHDAY AND IN THIS HEAT, TOO.

Friend—"What is the matter with your husband today?" "Why, the poor fellow took a draught of water by mistake, and he's had to keep sipping beer all morning to take the taste out of his mouth."

HIS MANNER CHANGED.

His manner was so courtly, His eyes with kindness shone, Of course that was before I had asked him for a loan.

OH, THESE WOMEN.

"He—'Marriage is like a lottery; you either draw a prize or a blank." "She—'Exactly. You drew me and I drew you."

THE LAND OF THE FREE.

"The United States is a free land, ain't it, pa?" said Bill, the other day, and he looked up from a circus poster full of cuts of somersaulting automobiles, of balloon races and of elephants revolving two by two in the "Merry Widow" waltz.

BRIEF DESPATCHES.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 3.—The Delaware and Hudson Company today applied to the Public Service Commission for permission to issue $50,000,000 bonds to be secured by a first mortgage on all its property rights and franchises, to mature in 1945 and to bear not over four per cent. interest.

LAPORTE, Ind., June 3.—Further investigation into the Guinness case suddenly stopped today, the county commissioners deciding that they cannot legally use the five thousand dollars allowed the commissions office for anything but payment of a reward for the production of Mrs. Belle Guinness alive.

SANDY, Scotland, June 3.—The Norwegian bark Oskar, from Tonsberg, May 27, for Canada, is ashore near Start Point on a rocky bottom and is leaking. She probably will be a wreck, but her crew have been saved.

PARIS, June 3.—The Paris newspapers continue to present various views of the murder mystery and considerable prominence is given to the incident of the discharged servant who swore vengeance.

AMERICANS TO TEACH GERMANS ENGLISH

Distinguished Professor Says They Speak the Language Better Than Britons

Correct Accent Now More Regarded in Public Schools Than Formerly.

BERLIN, June 3.—Professor Alois Brandl, the most distinguished German authority on the English language and literature, is of opinion that English is quite as well spoken in America as in England.

The professor is president of the German Shakespeare Association and professor of English at Berlin University, and has just returned from England, where he was made an honorary member of the Royal Society of Literature.

During his stay in London he was distressed to hear at some of the board schools which he visited in the west of London, school children who recited passages from Shakespeare say that the quality of mercy was not "strange" but that it droppeth as the gentle "rains" from heaven, was "twice" blessed, and so forth.

This intrusion of the cockney element coupled with the influence of the various dialects upon colloquial English, leads Professor Brandl to the conclusion that the English spoken by the English is on the whole not a whit purer than the English spoken by the Americans, of which he has made a close study.

DRAWING LEVEL. He puts the English of the ordinary educated American quite on an equality with that of the English educated Englishman, basing his opinion on systematic observation during twenty years' continual contact with American students at German universities, and secondly, on observations made when he visited the United States as representative of academic Germany at the recent Benjamin Franklin centenary celebration in the United States.

Professor Brandl states that when in America he not only studied the English spoken by American students at the various universities and colleges, but also listened to speeches delivered by thirty-five Americans coming from all parts of the United States.

"Of these thirty-five orators," he says, "the American whose English was most un-English was Andrew Carnegie, and he is a Scotchman."

The professor believes that the American twang is rapidly dying out, and that it will in time become a thing of the past. He believes that the great studies now being made in the education of the masses will result in the extinction of the twang.

The average American, says Professor Brandl, is being educated into consciousness of his accent, and is beginning to criticize and eradicate it.

EXCHANGE OF TEACHERS.

The Prussian Ministry of Education recently consulted Professor Brandl regarding the advisability of arranging an exchange of teachers between Germany and the United States, the plan being for German teachers to go to America to teach German in the schools there, while American teachers would come to Germany to teach English in the schools here.

A project to arrange an exchange of teachers of this kind between England and Germany fell through owing to lack of support in England. Some of the advisers of the Ministry of Education feared to recommend the importation of American teachers, on the ground that they might teach English with a bad accent; but Professor Brandl has sent in an official report declaring that the English taught by the average American tutor will be quite as good as the English taught by the average English teacher.

Professor Brandl assured the Ministry of Education that the quality of the English which would be acquired by German children from the American teachers will be quite as desirable as that which would be acquired from English teachers. In consequence of his recommendation, the exchange of teachers between Germany and America will be carried out without further delay.

HERE'S A NEW CULT, INCORPORATED, TOO

High Priestess of Corporation of Commonwealth to Teach Babies

New York Woman Proposes to Take 600 Infants to Raise, Sixty a Year

NEW YORK, June 3.—Mrs. Florence Fairview Wieland, the vibratory baby-raiser, has incorporated herself for a period of 108 years, under the title of "The Corporation of the Commonwealth."

"Mrs. Wieland is a High Priestess of the Corporation, which consists of her husband and Benjamin Franklin, and has just announced her intention of adopting 600 babies a year, for the purpose of educating them in the laws of vibration. Their instruction is to begin at the age of three months, and to continue until they are ten years old.

Mrs. Wieland was found sitting by the fire in her home, holding on her lap a little Russian baby twelve weeks old, the first student to matriculate in the new college.

These babies will pass into the hands of the "Commonwealth." It is incorporated under the laws of the State, and has a tract of eight acres at Red Mill, Rensselaer Heights, N. Y. Here the members purpose to form a community "for education in health and sanity, motherhood, for the training of infants and children, and for research in the laws of vibration."

"What is vibration?" repeated Mrs. Wieland, in reply to a reporter's question.

"Life, health, sanity and sex can be controlled through the understanding of the laws of vibration. In fact, no life, health or sanity can be real except through vibration, the law of the development of the soul."

"Every individual has a soul color, number, keynote and name. The number indicates the age of the soul, and your name indicates the color of your soul. If you have not the right name, that means that your soul is not sufficiently developed. It must pass through more bodies, it must come back again until it has worked its problem out, then you will have the right name given you unconsciously."

"In my own physician and nurse then you will have the right name given you unconsciously."

"When I was a child I thought that boys were so much freer than we girls. When I grew older the world taught me that a woman is not free until she is married, when my physical care, I have had four girls and have called them Christa, Calma, Cosma and Celestia; one half-hour after the birth of each, I have selected my work as usual. I have selected girls, because the world is in need of brainy, brave, balanced women."

TRUESON'S CONFESSION IS PROVEN UNTRUE

LAPORTE, Ind., June 4.—Another part of Jule Trueson's confession was exploded yesterday, when Sheriff Snitzer received a letter from David Hicken, of Waukesha, Wis., saying that a letter had been received from Frank Riedinger, now in Lincoln, Neb., to the effect that he is alive. Riedinger, while living at Deland, Wis., corresponded with Mrs. Guinness and claimed her, and according to Trueson's confession, she murdered him and he helped bury the body.

If Rip Van Winkle on waking from his twenty years' sleep had walked down King St. to No. 55 he would have received the greatest surprise in his life, in seeing the fine stock of jewelry carried by Walter H. Irving, and the very moderate prices asked.

AMUSEMENTS.

Chas. H. Yale's "Devil's Auction" Company.

One of the most prominent features of Chas. H. Yale's "Devil's Auction" and, by the way, a feature that is not only presented by any other spectacular organization, is the Transformation Scene.

In former years a spectacular performance was not considered complete without its final scene of transformation, and, in the case of the original "Black Crook," "The White Fairy," and later in David Henderson's show-places, were spent in representing this magnificent spectacle of the scenic painter's art.

Of late years the promoters of spectacular entertainments have discarded these effective stunts to their performance, possibly to save what they consider an unnecessary expense. In any event, the scene has been cut out in the majority of fair productions, with the exception of the "Devil's Auction." Manager Yale, however, has each year offered his patrons a beautiful series of stage pictures, and in this, the twenty-sixth edition, promises a radical change from anything hitherto attempted in this line.

The new transformation is entitled "Amor" (Love) and is claimed to be one of the most handsome misadventures ever presented.

Kirk Brown Tonight.

Tonight Kirk Brown will ensue a big second appearance in this season with another magnificent production of Nelson Barrett's masterpiece "The Sign of the Cross." The advance sale indicates a large opening night, induced perhaps by the fact that "The Sign of the Cross" was Mr. Brown's most popular play during his last engagement here. A special magnificent scene production of the beautiful play "East Lynne" will be the drawing card for the extra matinee tomorrow. Other plays will be the selection for Friday evening, "The Pirates of Penzance" and "The Christian" Saturday evening. Saturday night will be the last matinee and at the conclusion of the performance which will conclude Mr. Brown's theatrical season, there will be farewell addresses by Mr. Brown and his company. The night will be a "jubilee night."

New York's Song of the Hour at the Nickel Today

"Take Me Out To The Ball Game" is the most contagious thing in popular songs the great city of New York has heard in many years and everybody is singing or whistling it. At the baseball grounds cheerleaders rattle the opening team with it and burly guards grind it out by the hour. Today at the Nickel Miss Wren will give it a spirited rendition and tomorrow the boys will have it down "pat." Mr. Cairns is to be heard in the strongly emotional ballad, "Dream On, Dear Heart, Dream On." The new show of pictures was admirably last night and large crowds say it. The bride's dream was a surprising novelty, and Oscar's Elopement put everybody in fits of laughter. The Little Chimney Sweep was both pathetic and dramatic.

Dolly the Circus Queen at Princess

The same clean, edifying and amusing offerings which have given the Princess Theatre its excellent reputation continue to be presented. The motion pictures are up to date, and the leading film, Dolly the Circus Queen, is something entirely different from any that have ever been produced. It lifts the veil that surrounds circus life and gives us a view of the hardships and trials of those who follow this calling. A Good Thief, is the name of another picture and it is safe to say that it is one of the best ever put on the road. The last picture on the bill is a bright, clever bit of comedy, entitled How Do You Like Our Drawing-room? The new singer, Mr. A. Munroe Dorr, continues to draw large audiences at every show, those who have not yet heard this famous singer should not miss the opportunity now offered. Miss Evelyn Ellis is heard to excellent advantage in her new song, "Yankee Roses." This varied and interesting

DISCOVERIES AT THE RUINS OF BABYLON

The report of the German Oriental Society on the extensive explorations carried out on the ruins of ancient Babylon, which has just been issued under the editorship of Dr. Friedrich Delitzsch, is a document of more than usual interest. It describes in detail the work of ten years which the society, ably supported by the Government, have accomplished on this site.

It may cause disappointment that it does not record any important discovery of the north-east angle of the city, the place before us for the first time the real area of the city in the prosperous days of the New Babylonian Empire, from B. C. 606-538.

FEATURES OF THE CITY.

The first work of the director, Dr. Koldewey, set himself, was the identification of the sites of the chief buildings in the city. In this he found a great help in the famous building inscription of Nebuchadnezzar II, now in the Indian Museum. The enumeration of his great works, the building of walls or forts, temples and palaces, may be very monotonous to the general reader, but the inscription furnished a splendid guide to the explorers.

Within the groups of ruins there are four important mounds. On the north is the mound of Babil, still retaining the name of the old city. This mound is about one hundred feet high and proves to be the site of the great palace-fortress, which the mountains, which the King built to protect the city, were the Babylonian youth. South of this is a very large, irregular mound known as Amran-ibec-All, which, from bricks and other remains, is identified as the ruins of the great temple of Bel-Merodach, known as E-Sagila, the House of the "Lifting Head." This mound has not as yet been fully excavated, but there must be remains of an immense temple beneath it.

BELSHAZZAR'S FEAST.

The next mound, which has been excavated, is the "Palace" mound, and here was found the remains of two great palaces, one built by Nebuchadnezzar, the other by Nebuchadnezzar. Both were most complex in plan, containing hundreds of rooms for the accommodation of retainers, officials in the royal family. The two palaces are separated by a street. The latter or new edifice is a large and well-walled enclosure of several groups of chambers, arranged round quadrangles separated by a wall. Some scattered pieces of the largest of these is the royal quadrangle, to which entrance is given by a long passage.

On the north side of this square is the southern facade of the royal quadrangle, which is a fine example of the architecture of the time. The quadrangle was forty feet wide and had been

AT THE UNIQUE

Lovers of good pictures should not fail to see the programme that is now being shown at the Unique. Four of Pathé's latest subjects, Looked Up, are the best comedies ever seen in this city. A private in a regiment of cavalry obtains leave of absence from his barracks until ten p. m. He makes an engagement to meet his sweetheart, and on his way to the meeting place stops at a hotel to wash his hands. He is shown into the lavatory, and as he goes in the door he notices a sign which says push. When he has completed his toilet and endeavors to leave the room by pushing the door outward, which of course he cannot do, as the door is closed by spring hinges and has no knob. He endures for some hours to find a way in which he can escape from his predicament, but is at length forced to abandon all hope and spend the night on the lavatory floor. He is very much surprised in the morning to find how easily the door opens when pulled inward. On return to the barracks he is arrested and thrown into prison for being absent so long.

Howard at the Palace Again This Evening.

So great was the attendance at the West End Palace last evening that hundreds were unable to gain admission. Every seat and all available seats and standing room was occupied. To accommodate those who could not hear Howard last evening, and the hundreds who would like to repeat that pleasure arrangements have been completed for the talented Scotchman to give another performance this evening. Mr. Howard was greatly handicapped last evening. Having arrived late, was impossible to rehearse with the pianist and consequently he was compelled to omit some of his best selections. However this difficulty will be rectified this evening and Mr. Howard will give his entire show, as it is to be presented at Hammerstein, the latter part of this month. This will include some imitations of Harry Lauder, in his most popular selections. There has probably never been a better ventriloquist in the city than Mr. Howard, and the manner in which he threw his voice while smoking was quite remarkable. He will this evening have one of his dummies sing a solo, while he himself is drinking water. There will be no indication whatever, but that the air is being sung by the dummy, while during the singing Howard will be enjoying a refreshing drink. Besides the programme of amateurs this evening, as owing to the length of the programme they could not be placed on the bill last night, Friday evening will be another big night as a handsome gold watch will be given away by the lucky ticket holder. Also a candy matinee Saturday for the little ones.

SLIMNESS IS LATEST ESSENTIAL TO BEAUTY

Style of Dress Now Demanded by Fashion Needs Figure Almost Attenuated

LONDON, June 3.—The fashionable woman is controlled by the immediate necessity of cultivating excessive slimness.

Whether it be the ultra-Directoire gown as it started a Paris race-course gathering or the extremely graceful and absolutely irreproachable toilette created by fashion designers in the West End, but inspired by the Directoire influence the style of dress to be approved by fashion demands a figure that can only be described as attenuated.

On this point every dressmaker and women's tailor in the West End is unanimous. The fashionable woman must be made to fit the new dresses.

Already changing with the momentary whim of the fashionable woman is apparent. A skirt that is sheathlike in its outline, an abnormally high-crowned hat, a light-tinted blouse, a long sleeve to the arm and so long as almost to cover the back of the hand, a sloping shoulder line and a box of extremely small dimensions, all contribute to the attenuated appearance which is the height of present-day smartness.

The assistance of the beauty doctor, the physical culturist, the masseuse and the cosmetician, among other specialists in the art of figure-changing, is being invoked by thousands of women who want to adopt the new fashion of dress.

The fashionable cosmeticians are introducing corsets cut extremely long over the hips. A corset warranted to do wonders in the way of figure-reducing is supplied with no fewer than three sets of lacing over the hips, and another novelty is a peculiar woven material, which moulds itself to the figure like a glove.

"The skilled corsetmaker," said a West End cosmetician yesterday, "can produce a slender, graceful outline without producing the slightest undue pressure or in any way restricting the movements of the body."

The beauty doctors and physical culturists are recommending a variety of ways of getting slim. "Manipulation," a message, call it what you will, is the basis of everything in figure-changing," said one Bond street masseuse who is finding her work very profitable. HISTORIC CHAMBER.

What a historic chamber this is! Here Belshazzar's feast was held, and received homage on his conquest of Jerusalem. Perhaps in this very chamber Belshazzar's feast was held, and the plaster-covered walls had received the terrible message. Here Cyrus the Conqueror was enthroned in June, B. C. 538, and perhaps in this very chamber Alexander of Macedon held the fatal revel after his overthrow of the Empire of the East.

ONE SQUARE MILE

The exploration of the walls commenced at the Bab fort, with buttresses every sixty feet. The line of the walls was traced to the south-east angle, until it bent to the west and joins the great quay on the banks of the river. This portion was pierced by only one gate, the gate of Babil, flanked by tall towers decorated with friezes of lions and dragons in encaustic tile work. On the north it was traced to the river bank. The whole enclosure covered an area of a little over one square mile.

Space will not permit me to describe many of the other discoveries, especially the two temples of "The Great Lady" and "The War God." One point cannot be passed unnoticed. Nebuchadnezzar speaks of richly decorated palaces and of a palace of a prevailing feature of all the buildings was the dull monotonous brick work, void of decoration. It gold and silver and precious stones, cedar and cypress wood had been used, all disappeared long ago.

Much has been done on this historic site, but much more remains to be done, and it is to be hoped the enterprise of the British Society will be rewarded with more important discoveries.

BEAUTIFUL GARDEN IN HOLLAND

I visited recently a garden which spread much from the canal bottom. Over the complete part the mud is now spreading, and it is a slimy mass with widening cracks and almost ready for the gardener.

What most struck me about the completed garden, was, so to speak, the perfection of the crescent. It was an epitome of all gardens; the open vegetable garden, the fruit garden, the bulb garden, the cold-frame garden, the marionette garden, the greenhouse garden, each dapper and neat and effective beyond compare. The daffodil, hyacinth, and tulip beds were trim rectangles of pure color. The raspberry canes—two shafts to every plant—were each bent over and severely trained to a horizontal line with an integral evenness of curve, adapted for the greatest ease in picking. The tall pea-sticks made as level avenues as Kentish hedges, and between the rows ran the two lines of spinach as straight as the bars of a spectrum. Even the plants in the square patches of rhubarb—of which a good deal was grown—seemed to come up an even height.

Throughout the garden was a considerable excess of sand, a species of soil, however, that has many virtues. In a Dutch garden you never see a man put his foot on a sward, the dry coherence of a well-worked and sanded lawn yields to treatment too easily for that. The sharp Dutch spades slip into the soil, which just keep the integrity of each sward, with an aluring roundness that makes digging one of the lady-like rather than the glodshopper art.

In a corner of the waste you come with little warning on a hollow which, with some little help from nature has been converted into an oasis more rich in stuff with the finest gardens at all. Some scattered pieces of water and down one flanking slope; a little plantation of trees along the blind alley eye level. Some scattered pieces of water and down one flanking slope; a little plantation of trees along the blind alley eye level.

On the east and north of the Hague is a wide waste of sand as arid as the Sahara except on the occasional slopes. Here the government with great pains have tried to induce the growth of marrum grass, the Dutch water plants capable of binding sand together.

THE PERFECT MODEL.

In a few years the base of the hollow, a circle of some twelve acres, had become a good garden and the squatter in the desert had a self-supporting colony. He carries his own produce to market. He keeps enough cows and hens and bees to supply his own house, and year by year began to employ more workmen. Today the garden is regarded as a perfect model even by the Dutchmen.

But the owner is not yet content. He had made a great lawn and the squatter is not proceeding to transplant a marsh that fasters at one end of the garden. He has cut off a large breadth of this pond or marsh with a wall some four feet high into the half-acre space behind his house. He has set up a couple of hundred yards of hns to carry down sand from the hill in a rough truck. The sand and rubbish were pitched in over an improvised slope—a sort of put root. At the top of the sand and rubbish he

PRIEST HAD BIG FORTUNE HE FORGOT

Laid Away Bank Stock Received as Gift It Turns Out to be Worth $68,000

CHICAGO, June 3.—The Rev. Maurice J. Dorney, pastor of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic church, has just come into possession of $68,000, the proceeds of the sale of his stock in the Live Stock National Bank which he had forgotten he owned. The stock was given him twenty years ago when the bank was organized by John B. Sherman, one of the kings of the stockyards. Father Dorney was then a young priest and Mr. Sherman sending for him one day, presented the block of stock to him.

As years went by the gift passed from the mind of the priest and it might still be lying in the old bank vault but for the fact that the directors recently decided to retire the institution from further banking business. National Bank examiners were called in and discovered Father Dorney's stock and also that no dividends had been drawn against it. They figured it out and decided that the priest was entitled to $68,000 and placed that amount to his credit in the depository that took over the old bank's business. Father Dorney is using the money for improvements on his church and school and for the benefit of the many poor members of his large flock.

Hills and Home.

By LULU JOHNSON.

(Copyrighted, 1908, by Homer Sprague)

The porter called cheerily as Miriam emerged from her berth and made her way down the aisle toward the dressing room.

"Good mornin'," he observed, as he sprang to take her bag. "This yer's a shore-bad day. 'Er din't cah' 'll be on 'n her 'n hour."

He surrendered her bag at the door of the dressing room and returned to his work. There were few berth left to make up, and Miriam had been the last to rise.

Another woman and half a dozen men constituted the passenger list on the through car, so when Miriam returned to her berth it was all in order. The car, too, was deserted, as the first call for breakfast had summoned all her fellow passengers to the dining car, glad of any break in the monotony of travel.

Miriam followed the others, rejecting in the conductor's assurance that in the evening she would eat her supper on firm land, for at nightfall they were due at Schofield, the little station where Miriam Bradley was to change for the slow stage coach that would carry her to Muddy Bend and her new field of labor.

She was glad that there remained but ten hours of train travel. It had proved a tiresome trip, though back home she had looked forward with eagerness to the journey.

Once she had run down from the Vermont home to Boston, and there had been short visits to nearby small cities but she had anticipated much pleasure in the novelty.

But after all, she had found the long journey disappointing. The long, bare stretches of prairie were a novelty at first, to this girl, brought up in the heart of the Green mountains, but they became intolerable, and now her eyes hungered for the sight of her native hills.

Under the driving rain the sudden plain looked more dreary than it had the day before. She tried to fix her thoughts on a book, but the letters danced before her eyes, and she caught herself looking through the car window and wondering if there were no hills at all in this dreary expanse.

Back home there must be snow on the ground, and the boys and girls were doubtless enjoying the coasting, while the evenings would call out the big "bobs" and her own crowd would take part in the fun that she never knew the delights of the long, swift journey down the glittering white incline, and she sighed for the little valley she had always known as home.

Yet she thought sternly that she had done the one possible thing. The field in the east was already overcrowded with teachers, and she had heard that only in the great and growing west did a new-comer have chance for advancement. And teaching it must be—or marriage, with Jimmy Meeker, even now with hundreds of miles between them she could feel her face flush as she recalled how he had asked her to marry him that she might have a home and his protection.

Her mind went back to the time, but she had not spoken until her need of support made his offer ring with pity—and she wanted not pity, but love from the man she married.

It had all seemed very dignified, almost heroic at the time, but with the vastness of the unknown prairie settling down upon her like a black shadow, her heart somehow had room only for his answering plea, that he could not ask her to be his wife while he was a struggling lawyer and she the only heiress of the comfortable Bradley estate.

As the day passed and she was hurried through the flat, dismal country, both her reason and her heart rose in rebellion, and when the call for luncheon was sounded, nervousness had done its work. She wanted nothing to eat.

The porter had seen that this board of homesickness before, and he asked permission to bring some tea and toast, at least, to her section, abashed by the tears that came to her eyes at his friendly suggestion, he sought another car and the conductor, then this kindly official sat down beside his tired young passenger and tried to make conversation. They were just passing a section house with its few surrounding buildings and tiny schoolhouse. Near the latter was an improvised "slide."

"That's the way the prairie children make hills," he said, little dreaming that he was touching a very raw spot in his companion's heart. "They pile up the snow industriously, pour water on it just before sundown, and in the morning it is a jolly fine slide."

After that Miriam watched for the manufactured hills. The pitiful substitute for the sport of her childhood somehow made her feel more despondently than ever the mighty chasm she was cutting between her old life and her new.

And when she was not watching for hills," she was trying to drown the recollection of a certain tender, pleading voice in the incessant, insistent song of the revolving wheels beneath her.

G. M. JARVIS, DISTRICT SUPT. C.R., DIES SUDDENLY IN ROYAL HOTEL

After eating a hearty supper at the Royal Hotel last night, G. M. Jarvis, division superintendent of the I. C. R., took suddenly ill and died a few minutes later of heart failure.

The deceased arrived in the city on Tuesday to attend the exchequer court, and appeared to be in the best of health up to a few minutes before his death. About six o'clock last night he was talking to several people in the hotel and did not complain of being unwell. He afterwards went to the dining room with his secretary and partook of a hearty supper. He left his secretary after the meal, saying he was going to his room. A short time afterwards a telephone message was received in the Royal Hotel office from Mr. Jarvis, stating that he was ill and asking that some one come to his room at once.

Found Lying on Floor T. Reynolds, head clerk at the house, hurried upstairs and found Mr. Jarvis lying on the floor in his room, gasping for breath. When asked what was the matter he said he did not know, but that he found it difficult to breathe. Dr. T. D. Walker was hastily summoned, but when he arrived Mr. Jarvis was breathing his last.

Friends of the deceased say that Mr. Jarvis suffered from indigestion and it is believed that the indirect cause of his death was due to this trouble in an acute form. The remains were taken to Mr. Jarvis' home at Truro on the Halifax train last night. Several friends walked from the Royal Hotel to the station.

Mr. Jarvis was born in St. John fifty-eight years ago, and started his railroad career when a young man. He began as an operator and afterwards became one of the chief dispatchers on the Intercolonial Railway. While in St. John his home was situated near Haymarket Square, and for years he was highly respected as a citizen of this city.

Mr. Jarvis was held in high esteem by all railway men. Very Popular in Truro TRURO, June 3.—The news of the sudden death of G. M. Jarvis, superintendent of the Truro division of the Intercolonial, received here tonight, proved a great shock. Mr. Jarvis had been in his usual health and was attending to his duties regularly up to the time he left for St. John. He was always a most obliging official and very popular in his official capacity on his division.

Mr. Jarvis was the son of C. R. Jarvis of Moncton, and his mother was Miss Marter, a St. John lady. Deceased was born in St. John, where his parents resided in the fifties. He entered the Intercolonial employ thirty years ago. For fifteen years he was chief train dispatcher at Moncton. In 1888 he was appointed district superintendent, with headquarters at Truro. He married Miss McDowell of Truro, sister of the wife of T. G. McDowell, lumber king. One son, Ralph, and two daughters, Misses Beale and Jessie, are left with their mother to mourn their loss. The whole family is well known in St. John, having visited there with deceased. Mrs. Jarvis, mother of the deceased, died at his home here four weeks ago.

A meeting of the representatives of the interscholastic sports was held in this city last evening. It was decided that the place and date for the next meet be left in the hands of the executive committee.

Some minor details were arranged and yesterday's sports were discussed at some length. The results of yesterday's sports will stand as records.

Moncton, through their manager and physical trainer, S. A. Eymann, protested the hurdles on the ground that they were not the regulation height.

Mr. Eymann told The Sun last evening that he was not protesting the race on account of the points to be gained, but from the principle involved.

In one mile match race on the Marsh road yesterday afternoon Laundry Girl, owned and driven by H. H. Mott, won in easy style from Lucy Smith, owned by Hazen Campbell, and driven by James Latture. The start was at the Two Mile House and the finish at McIntosh's. Two heats were trotted. Laundry Girl taking both.

Lucy Smith did not seem to be in very good condition. The arrangement was that the race would go to the winner of three out of five heats. At the end of the second heat, however, the owner of Lucy Smith withdrew her, giving the race to Laundry Girl. There was $50 on Lucy Smith against $25 on Laundry Girl. A large crowd saw the race.

SIGNORINETTA WINS DERBY

LONDON, June 3.—A rank outsider, Signorinetta, owned by E. Ginierelli, and quoted in the betting at 100 to 1 against, today defeated all the American, British and French cranks and captured the Derby stakes, valued at 6,000 sovereigns and the greatest prize of the turf world. The Italian horse simply cantered her way from the hotly divided second horse, the Duke of Portland's Premier, and the third, Barclay Walker's Lavagnon. Signorinetta is the first filly to win the blue ribbon since the victory of Showtime in 1822.

Headed by Richard sixth, King Edward's Perrier thirteenth, Norman III, fifteenth and Asote, the milk-faced horse seventeenth. Signorinetta's time was 2 minutes and 29.4-5 seconds.

Wm. BELYEA MOURNS THE LOSS OF HIS KNEES

Harbor Pirates Are Becoming as Bold as They Were a Few Years Ago.

A few years ago the police were successful in the arrest of a few harbor pirates, and the practice of thieving along the harbor front ceased to a certain extent. At that time, junk, tools, rope and many other articles that were left on the wharves, or lighters, were often stolen during the night. The pirates are again at work and nearly every night some person loses property. Fishermen complain of fish being frequently stolen from their boats while they are away. The latest work of the pirates is the theft of two heavy wooden knees, the property of the government. Wm. Belyea, a ship carpenter, has the contract for making repairs on the government dredge which is laid up on the West Side. On Tuesday he had worked into a boat and was to have put them in position yesterday. He was surprised yesterday morning to find that during the night some person had stolen the knees, and so far there is no clue that will enable the police to find the thief or the person or persons are prowling along the harbor front in a boat and lifting everything that is not fastened. During the past few years many valuable pieces of machinery was thrown over the wharf, and was later found by a person who was grappling. Sailors have aided boatmen in the stealing of rope and one of the most daring thefts was the stealing of a heavy engine from a motor boat as she was lying on the deck of a vessel.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY WAS NARROWLY AVERTED

By Lizzie Burns Leaving Her Place Before Her Employer "Weltered in His Blood"

Lizzie Burns, a domestic, objected to being called lazy, and was the complainant in a civil court case today when she sued A. W. Gay for $10, which she claimed was due her as salary for the month of May. H. O. McInerney appeared for Miss Burns and S. B. Bustin for Mr. Gay. Miss Burns gave evidence that she hired at the Gay home on May 1st and was to receive $10 a month wages. On May 15th Mr. Gay told her she was lazy, swore at her, and threatened that if she did not leave the house he would see that she would have to be carried from it. She then picked up a broom to defend herself but Mr. Gay did not injure her. He had not paid her for the time she worked for him. Mr. Gay took the stand and said he had agreed to pay Miss Burns ten dollars a month on trial. He arose on the morning of the 15th and lighted the kitchen fire which afterwards went out and he found that Lizzie had prepared the kitchen stove without putting any kindling in. He asked why she had not done so, and she replied that it was after ten when she arrived home and it was too dark to go to the shed for some. It was then he told her she must have been too lazy. She said she would leave his employ and would also leave him waltering in his own blood. He informed her if she left before the month was up she would not be paid. The Judge reserved judgment.

J. A. McQueen, sheriff of Westmorland County, passed through the city at noon today on his way to his home in Dorchester. Mr. McQueen has just returned from Chicago, where he was attending the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum. He was the only representative from the maritime provinces, the other Canadian representatives being three from Ontario and one from Quebec. The reports presented to the council show the order to be in a prosperous condition. Mr. McQueen returned via Washington and New York. He was shot at during a hearing of the death of G. M. BETTER CONNECTION WITH SEASIDE GARS

There is some complaint on the part of those people living in the vicinity of Seaside Park that the street car from the West side ferry does not connect with the one for the park. Formerly, before the cars ran to the boat, most persons bound for the Seaside section went by way of the bridge, but now the ferry has become the natural route, as if connection is made, some twenty minutes can be saved on the trip. But the car leaving the western end of the suspension bridge for the park passes Tilton's Corner just a minute or two before the arrival of the one from the boat, and passengers crossing by the ferry must either wait at Tilton's Corner or walk to their homes near the park. They feel that the schedule might without difficulty be changed so as to afford closer connection.
