BIRCHELL'S COOLNESS.
NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 12.-Birchell's NIAGARAFALIS, Ont., March 12.—Birchell's behavior since the morning of his arrest is a marvel of callous indifference. And yet indifference seems hardly the word by which to express his extraordinary demeanor. His actions are more like those of a child, as if his intelligence had not yet matured and he had no realization of the awful shadow which is hanging about his head. Chief of Police Thomas Young, who made the arrest, says that he found Birchell in bed at the time. He was awake and had breakfasted with his wife in his room. When the Chief was admitted and announced his errand, the prisoner replied, "All right," as he might have said, "How d'ye do," and calmly, leisurely got up and completed his toilet. He did not utter another word, nor even ask the officer why he had been pounced upon. He laughed as heartily as anybody in the court room when there was anything te laugh at, and while the witness (Hay) was looking keenly at him. During his hearing he amused himself by writing imaginary lines upon the air and examining his well-kept fingernails.

Sir John Thompson rose to defend his colleagues against Sir Richard's charges, which he characterized as wide of the resolutions. He said he was not here to defend Mr. Rykert or to apologize for a single expression in his extraordinary correspondence, but he understood him to appeal for an opportunity to be further heard, asserting that he had evidence to submit that had not been laid before the House. He did not now wish to enter upon a discussion of the merits of this correspondence or to indicate what his personal vote would be, but moved that the debate be now adjourned to give the member for Lincoln a better opportunity to produce evidence in his own defense.

Hon. David Mills met the old charge of Mr. Rykert that the Mackenzie Government had made a questionable lease of timber limits to Mr. Hugh Sutherland and Mr. H. H. TORONTO, Tuesday, March II.
The House put in a busy day to-day. A good deal of hard committee work was got through, especially on the Mining Bill and tho Liquor License Bill. The bill to provide a means of extinguishing forest fires—Hon. Mr. Drury—was read a first time.
The following bills were read a third time and passed: Respecting the establishment of houses of refuge—Mr. Ross (Huron). To provide for the appointment of junior provide for the provide for the appointment of junior provide for the provide for the appointmen

There was no discussion until the clause concerning procedure on appeals was reached. Then Mr. Meredith objected that by the proposition to limit the right of appeal to a judge in Chambers, providing notice is given within five days, the Government was likely to work grave injustice. NOTES.

Dr. McLaughlin gives notice of a bill, the object of which is to give power to municipalities to grant aid to the University of Toronto for the renewal of the library, museum, apparatus of the School of Practical Science, etc.

Mr. Charlton showed that Mr. White had voted against a motion to that effect offered by the Opposition a few years ago and Mr. Charlton went on to make a rattling attack on the old timber limit brigade.

Mr. John Small, Mr. Dawson, Dr. Hiekey and Dr. Sproule endeavored to break the force of Mr. Charlton's charges.

Col. Tisdale, charged that Mr. Charlton had got a timber limit from the Ontario Government, out of which he had made a great deal of money.

Mr. Charlton showed that he had got his limit at public auction, and contrasted the moest and advantageous policy of the Ontario Government with that pursued by the Ederal authorities.

Dr. Bergin argued that Mr. Rykert was bameless.

Mr. Weldon, of Albert, broke away from party moorings and in a foreible speech and claded upon his associates to preserve the dignity of Parliament and the good name and advantage of the work of the debate was carried by 94 to 72, only Mr. Weldon, Mr. McNeill and Colonei O'Brien voting with the Liberals. "When Ayer's Sarsaparilla was recommended to me for catarth, I was inclined to doubt its efficacy. Having tried so many remedies, with little benefit, I had no fath that anything would cure me. I became emeciated from loss of appetite and impaired digestion. I had nearly lost the sense of smell, and my system was badly deranged. I was about discouraged, when a friend urged me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and referred me to persons whom it had cured of catarth. After taking half a dozen bottles of this medicine, I am convinced that the only sure way of treating this obstinate disease is through the blood."—Charles H. Maloney, 113 River st., Lowell, Mass.

THE English sparrow was introduced into this country because it was believed to be an exterminator of bugs and grubs which were injurious to the farming and fruitgrowing community, but it has been conclusively proved that the little bird is a fraud-that it invariably prefers a meal of fruit or grain to an insect—and indeed is a nuisance. The British farmers put a similar estimate upon the sparrow's usefulness. In a lecture before the Paxton branch of the Chester Society of Natural Science, Mr. Beecroft, a Cheshire farmer, said that some idea of the loss occasioned by sparrows would be gained from the fact that taking the acreage of wheat grown in Cheshire at 19,940, the loss at four bushels per acre at 4s. 6d. per bushel represented the sum of £17,946 to Cheshire alone, and if the acreage of wheat grown in England was 2,321,-504 and the loss taken on the same basis it would represent a total loss of £2,089,353 12s. It was not only in this branch that the destruction was carried on, but the sparrow destroyed a great quantity of early women for occasion, one object of which was to see that the streets—the highways and by ways of the American metropolis—were properly cleansed. There is a new commissione since this request was preferred, and we are now so hopeful of its being granted upo renewal that we are having the circulars printed. Our idea is to have the circulars given to all the police captains and let them distribute them to their men. No policeman is to go off of his regular rounds, and he can easily leave the circulars at each house in a single day or less without neglecting other duties. We thought that by this means we might make an impression the servant-girl mind, which would regard with apathy a circular left by a gentleman, but stand in mortal terror, or admiration, of a policeman." In order to secure official backing, the New York women will prepare a badge for each member, and will apply for authority from the Board of Health and the street-cleaning department to display it whenever they witness a violation of the health regulations, and to make complaint in case their well-meant interference is dis-

It is gratifying to learn that a similar movement to that now in full swing in New York city has been started in Brooklyn and other cities in the neighboring State. The ladies of London might ith propriety follow suit. They would strainly be exonerated from the charge of meddling with that which does not concern them if they made a united effort to rid the streets, the back alleys, and the yards of the tons of refuse which we all know is permitted to lie there till it rots and corrupts the public health, causing disease and death in many an unsuspecting home. The fact is that woman is the chief sufferer by the present habit of accumulating the rubbish the year, or of a series of years, in

Confessions That Should. Drive the Writer from Public Life,

In order that Advertiser readers may be made fully acquainted with the extraordinary proceedings of Mr. Charles Rykert, M.P. for Lincoln, we reprint from the records of the Dominion Parliament the full resolution proposed in the House of Commons last night. It will be seen that Sir Richard does not travel outside the record established by the documents and letters subscribed to by the accused M.P.; in fact, condemns him by his own authority. Sir Richard's motion is in the following terms:

Whereas, it appears from certain documens and letters published in the votes and proceedings of the House that John Charles Rykert, member for the county of Lincoln, did on or about the beginning of the month of April, A.D., 1882, apply to the Government of Canada for a grant of certain timber limits in the local of the proceedings of the House that John Charles Rykert, member for the county of Lincoln, did on or about the beginning of the month of April, A.D., 1882, apply to the Government of Canada for a grant of certain timber limits in the local of the proceedings of the House that John Charles Rykert, member for the county of Lincoln, did on or about the beginning of the month of April, A.D., 1882, apply to the Government of Canada for a grant of certain timber limits in the local of the control of

following terms:

Whereas, it appears from certain documents and letters published in the votes and proceedings of the House that John Charles Rykert, member for the county of Lincoln, did on or about the beginning of the month of April, A.D., 1882, apply to the Government of Canada for a grant of certain timber limits in the Northwest Territories, at or near Cypress Hills, in the name of one John Adams, and that at or about the time of such application he procured an agreement to be white oats. One member thought the total plication he procured an agreement to be plication and the procured and the pr

eld. And again on the 16th April, 1882: And again on the 10th April, 1802.

The order was passed several days ago.
Laidlaw is to meet me in Hamilton to-morrow, the has not yet got his order, and is now of the opinion that I have more influence than Mecarrhy, who told me he was refused by the Gayerment.

And again on the 21st April:

And again on the 21st April:
The order-in-Council has been finally passed, and this although every effort was made to induce the Government to alter their minds.

And again on the 24th April:
Laidlaw offered to bet me $1,000 I could not get the order passed for you, as he had been refused in January and again in February.

And again on the 10th May:
Laidlaw only got his order passed this week, and he had to get me to help him, so you see who had the influence with the Government after all.

And again on the 1st August, 1882:

And again on the 1st August, 1882:

who had the influence with the development after all.

And again on the 1st August, 1882:
It will be satisfactory to know, after my hard fight with the Government, that I did get what you anticipated. I would not go through the same difficulty again for twice the amount. I never spent such six weeks before as I did while endeavoring to force the department to do justice, but the delay and refusal. Poor Laidlaw! I am pleased he did not get the start of this child. He thought he was very smart and had all the influence of the country at his back. I think another time they will recognize the fact that J. C. R. is not very easily defeated at anything. And whereas it further appears that the said limits were subsequently sold by and on behalf of the said Adams and Rykert to one Louis Sands at and for the sum of $200.000, and that the said John C. Rykert did on the 16th of January, A. D., 1883, receive from the said John Adams the sum of $74,200 out of the said purchase money, and which sum was payable under the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John C. Rykert or his wife in the said John Sands for $39,200, payable in one and two years; all payable to the order of Mrs. N. M. Rykert, and in full of the moneys payable to her under agreement.

(Signed) J. O. RYKERT, her attorney.

And whereas it appears from the Han.

the House:

The honorable gentleman has asked me several questions, and I propose now to answer them. I neither directly nor indirectly drew them oney he spoke of, nor put any sum in my poket except professional fees, and professional fees, and professional fees, and professional fees only. I deny that I negotiated any timber lease for Mr. Adams or any other person. On the contrary, Mr. Adams had his own bargains, and I had nothing to do with it and did not pocket the money the honorable gentleman has spoken of. On the contrary, I advised Mr. Adams not to dispose of the limit, but to work it. The honorable gentleman on several occasions has made remarks outside of this House to the same effect, and I am glad now to have an opportunity to give it an emphatic denial.

ter further on:

And in the same letter:

And in the same testing I had no right to expect and which I should not be called upon to undertake. If it costs all we spoke of we had better do it than let it go.

And in another letter, dated 5th March, 1883, he says:

I have not yet succeeded in getting anything done in the limit matter. I have brought Macdonal the limit matter, I have brought Macdonald and Tupper from Winnipeg, and hope they will be able to induce their fathers to act promptly in the matter. I am almost discouraged at the delay. Sands is writing me daily about it. He knows all about it. Some persons sent him the papers containing the statements. Will make an effort this week authors. And in the letter of 18th March:

And in the letter of 18th Materix

I find difficulties surrounding us in every way in reference to a limit, and I find that the
C. P.R. have certain ministers working for
hem. I am afraid it will cost us $6,000 or $7.

003 to work of me, and have agreed to pay them well if they succeed. Muckle was here, and told me the limit was all within the belt. I am afraid they will do their very utmost to defeat me. I want to be satisfied that you are sure if and doing what is right, and also that you well back me up in all that I do in the way of pay ment.

Again on March 28, 1883:

Again on March 28, 1883:

I have a hard time with the limit matter. It will cost us each at least $5,500 to get this through. I have laid my ropes so that I expect to have it settle! in a few days. I have a dozen at work for us. You must be prepared to pay the amount of your share at any time, as it will have to be all cash. When this is settled we must get rid of all the notes, and have an end of it. It has completely used me up. The excitement and strain is too much for me. I had Tupper and Macdonald brought from Winnipeg, and they have been working hard for me.

And whereas it is apparent from the said documents and correspondence that the said Rykert did make use of his position and influence as a member of this House in the matter of the said limits for his own pecuniary advantages, and that he did afterwards make a statement from his place in this House with regard to his connection with and the obtaining of the said limits entirely at variance with the facts, and calculated to mislead the House and the country; and that he made further statements in his correspondence with the said Adams to the effect that he was obliged to resort to corrupt practices with members of the And whereas it is apparent from the said to the effect that he was obliged to resort to corrupt practices with members of the Cabinet and members of Parliament and other Government officials in order to perfect the title to the said grant of such limits, which statements have been challenged as false by members of the Cabinet, from their places in the said House, and admitted by the said Rykert in his place in the House, so far as members of the Cabinet are concerned, to be untrue;

untrue;
Therefore, resolved, that the conduct of the said John C. Rykert in the premises is and has been discreditable, corrupt and candalous.

The incident in the House of Common on Monday night, in which Minister Bowell and Mr. Rykert figured did not improve the position of Rykert and his late bosom companion, who are now so anxious to unload him. Mr. Bowell read some letters, further exposing the member for Lin ters, further exposing the member to have coin to humiliation. They were from Messrs. Tupper & Macdonald, barristers, Winnipeg, and gave the lie to Mr. Rykert. The latter reproved Mr. Bowell for not the latter reproved Mr. Bowell for more than the manner of the member showing them to him. Thereupon the Minister said he had shown them, and said he was to read them, thus once more flatly contradicting the little man. It was humiliating spectacle.

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced

Coughs, Croup

Allen's Lung Balsam was introduced to the public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases had been fully tested. It excites expectoration and causes the Langs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; changes the secretions and purifies the blood; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digostive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory form and is warranted to break up the most distressing cough in a few hours' time, if not of too long standing. It contains no opium in any form and is warranted to be perfectly harmless to the most delicate child. There is no real necessity for so many deaths by consumption when Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. For Consumption, and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases that lead to it, such as Coughs, neglected Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma and all diseases of the Lungs, Allen's Lung Balsam will prevent it if only taken in time. A street car horse surprised its driver today in a most unexpected way. The animal took fright at a passing train near the Tecumsch House and bolted, disconnecting itself from the car rather suddenly. The driver hung on to the reins and was pulled over in front of the car. The man had a narrow escape of being run over, but the car was stopped just in time, and he was rescued. He was not much hurt, but awfully surprised.

I must, however, inform you of one thing, which I learned from the old man. He had at one time spent some years in Paris as apprentice to a very learned Jew, but of his life there he always refused to speak, until he had become aware that my learning was more advanced than that of the other villagers. He then told me of some strange sights which he had seen while in Paris, and also how he had seen while in Paris, and also how he had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Jew had succeeded in copying part of a very ancient manuscript which the Je

"I have, perhaps, already in the course of my narrative made mention of the younger brother, and it so I have called him younger brother, and it so I have called him yenders. He was the gardener at the Conjunction of the Holy Sisters, and, in truth, that was the reason why I first entered the employ off the brothers. I thought that perhaps after a time had elapsed and I had become better known, I might, with the influence of the brothers, succeed him in his position at the convent, and my hope was not without reason.

even obliged to use a stick with which to steady himself.

"I see you are not surprised at this, my friend, and deem it but the natural consequence of his advanced years, but you must remember the brothers were not men who would succumb easily to old age. They had both been famed for their great strength and powers of endurance from their youth up, and indeed it was commonly related by Jacques—the one of whom I have been speaking—that when he was a young man one day a large bear came down from the forests back of the convent and he killed it with no other weapon than a short stick. No, I think it must have been his unceasing toil that played such havoe with his strength in his old age.

"I remember well, upon one occasion, having to lend the old man my assistance to enable him to reach his home. It cocurred one evening, and I mention it thus particularly because it was during that a first entered the service of the brothers.

"I was returning along the quiet little."

"I was returning along the quiet little road that leads to the convent down past the house of the brothers, and then taking a turn south, runs on through the village. I had been looking at the convent. I do not know just why I went. I had been there many times before, always with the secret hope that I might see her face, and always I had been doomed to disappointment. This occasion had been no exception. I had already tried every means in my power to obtain admittance within the walls of the convent, but without success, and the day when I should do so seemed now as far distant and unapproachable as if it had been seven months before, when I first arrived in the village.

"Ah, my friend, in the cold stone that arched itself above that gloomy convent portal might well have been written the awful words which the divine poet saw above the gate hell: "All hope abandon, ye who enter here." And yet, although it was my neighbor so to be, I was not discouraged. I would say to myself each morning. 'It "maybe that I will see her to-day,' and again when the sun had lowered, and the evening was come, 'Ah, well, it maybe to-morrow.'

A Second Success.

The second presentation of "The Twelve Temptations" at the Grand Opera House was as worthy of praiss as that of the previous night. The ballet was again very creditable and the various specialties, including a daring ladder-balancing feat by a Japanese and a female, were splendidly put on. The stage settings and mechanical effects in the piece are better than in any which have been seen by a London audience for several seasons. The closing scene was one of such gorgous character that it baffles any attempt at brief description. "The Twelve Temptations" is a clean, light and very pleasing show which has evidently cost much money to mount. That more ladies did not patronize the show was a matter of comment.

Keep It Up, Gentlemen. It Does Us Good. Figures Won't Lie!

Notwithstanding the combined efforts of jealous rivals to put as under, we are out on top as usual. Look at the record for 1889. Policies issued for nearly $3,500,000. Not bad for a young company, you will say. True, it took some of the old fogies 10 years to write up the same amount. Why, we declined more applications last year than some of the other companies wrote up altogether. How do we account for it, you say. Well, we have plans to suit everybody. Our premium rates are as low as any other company. Our policy is the most liberal, being nearly unconditional; almost a simple promise to pay at death or maturity, as the case may be. The policy-holders are entirely free from all liability; but are, nevertheless, allowed to participate in the control of the Company's affairs and to monopolize nine-tenths (9-10) of the profits of the business. Each policy-holder has one vote for every $1,000 of insurance held by him in this Company. These privileges are secured by the act of incorporation. If you are not insured, or want more insurance, take a policy in the MANU-FACTURERS'.
