The body of the man Easton, who shot himself in St. Paul's Cathedral last Sunday, was cremated at Woking on Saturday. Mr. Forder, secretary of the Secular Society, who conducted the funeral, read a portion of Bryant's "Thanatopsis" instead of the regular service.

Admiral Cuverville telegraphs the French Government that he has concluded a treaty of peace with the King of Dahomy, and has raised the blockade. The King will respect the rights of the French as to the possession of Kotonon, and will also recognize the French protectorate over Porto Novo.

The Sleeping Preacher.

LANCASTER, Pa., Oct. 6.—The Rev. David Kaufman, who is known as the "sleeping preacher," is creating much excitement in the eastern part of the county. He comes from Indiana and preaches while apparently asleep and unconscious.

The Markham Forger.

MARKHAM, Oct. 6.—Thomas Williamson, who recently skipped from this place, had been deputy-reeve of Markham township for a number of years and reeve for a short time and was for a long period president of the East York Conservative Association. The forgeries he committed that have come to light will figure up to nearly $10,000.

Death of Mrs. Woolverton.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 4.—A gloom has been cast over Woodstock College and this community by the death of Mrs. Woolverton, the wife of the former principal, Rev. R. Woolverton. She passed away yesterday at the age of 36. She was a lady of many estimable qualities, and her death will be a great shock to the friends of the family throughout the Province.

Suicide of A. Wanamaker.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 6.—A. Wanamaker, a cousin of the Postmaster-General, committed suicide yesterday at 10:45 a.m., in a room at the Eldorado House at 605 Market street. Two papers of morphine were found beside his body. A small piece of crumpled paper on which was written the following words was found in the room: "My life is nothing to me any more." He had been drinking freely and brooding over his trials.

Murdered for Three Dollars.

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Oct. 6.—While nutting Saturday, seven miles east of here, two men came across the senseless bodies of a negro man of 70 and his daughter, aged 40, with their throats cut. The woman revived sufficiently to tell a horrible story. She said they were attacked while sleeping by an unknown man, who cut their throats and then robbed them of all their money, $3. Subsequently the man died, and the woman cannot recover.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or other caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

TORONTO LETTER.

Rumored Amalgamation of the Empire and Mail.

A Report that May Have a Good Deal of Foundation.

TORONTO, Monday, Oct. 6.

The talk that the Mail and the Empire may come into closer relations is once more revived. It has been known for some time that there are too many large papers in Toronto for their own financial good, and that sooner or later the number would probably be reduced in some such way as that suggested. At one time the combination of the Globe and Mail was spoken of—the World starting the story. But there never was anything in it. There is less in it than ever, now, seeing that the Globe has been lately re-stocked by ardent Reform politicians, has secured Farrar as its principal leader writer, and established itself in a magnificent new building. The Globe is here to stay in its present shape and proprietary, and with its past and present politics unchanged. As for the Mail and Empire the case is different, and persons mutually friendly to both maintain that a modus vivendi might easily be discovered by which common business interests might be brought together without humiliation to either side.

Ex-Ald. Trees and daughter were thrown from a carriage while driving yesterday. Mr. Trees' arm was broken and shoulder dislocated.

The tenth anniversary of the Bond Street Congregational Church was celebrated yesterday. It was a dual celebration—that of the establishment of the church and also of Dr. Wild's appointment.

A lad named Wm. Gibbons fell from a tree in Queen's Park yesterday and received injury to his spine and several scalp wounds.

John Duggan, a laborer, went out on Saturday evening for an hour, and on his return found his wife lying drunk on the floor, with a can of beer by her side and her infant in her arms, quite dead, apparently smothered to death.

Several separate school trustees, taking advantage of a provision of the Liquor License Act, have made a strong protest against the granting of a license to a saloon near one of their schools.

Mrs. Mahala Ellis, has made application for a bill of divorce from her husband, Charles Shuttleworth Ellis, of Toronto, commercial traveler, on the grounds of adultery and cruelty.

John Sheehan, a G. T. Railway yardman, who lives at 273 Farley avenue, was taken to the hospital on Saturday, suffering from a broken leg received in the yard several days ago.

The fine new west end building of the Y. M. C. A., which cost $40,000, is now complete and will be formally opened on Thursday. A very attractive winter programme has been arranged, embracing a course of lectures and concerts. Educational classes free to members have been instituted. The building has a gymnasium similar to the one in the association's hall on Yonge street and equally well furnished with modern gymnastic appliances.

FATAL FIRE.

A Mother and Three Children Suffocated in a Burning Dwelling.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 6.—A special from Dubuque, Ia., says, One of the most terrible accidents ever known in Dubuque occurred this (Sunday) morning at 4 o'clock. The residence of ex-Policeman John McBee was discovered on fire. A neighbor ran across and tried to arouse the family. While knocking at the door the window in the upper story crashed and McBee fell to the ground. For a few moments he was senseless. When he recovered he began crying that his family were upstairs. The flames were extinguished and the firemen entered. At the top of the landing the mother and three children were found and quickly removed. Mrs. McBee and the oldest daughter, Rose, aged 18, were dead. The youngest daughter, Bertha, aged 16, and Charley, 5 years old, were still alive. The boy died in the afternoon. The girl cannot recover. McBee is too dazed to give a connected account. It is gathered that he awoke nearly suffocated and roused his wife. They grouped in the smoke and darkness until McBee struck the window through which he leaped or fell. The mother was with him, but remembering her children, went back to save them. When found the family were in a group with their arms about each others' necks. The building is a small two-story frame. The bodies were very slightly burned.

THE WORKING WORLD.

Scotch Iron Masters Carry Out the Threatened Lockout.

The agent of the Shearers' Union, tried at Melbourne on 29 charges of inciting men to break their agreements, was convicted and fined £155. The case has made a great sensation among union men.

The London Dockmen's Congress has adopted a resolution declaring it impracticable to limit the working day to eight hours. The delegates, however, were strongly in favor of a proposition that 48 hours of labor should constitute a week's work.

The Scotch iron masters have carried into effect their threatened lockout, and all iron workers at Glasgow, except those at the foundries at Wishaw, Caron and Dixon, are thrown out of employment. The men sent delegations to the masters on Friday with offers to resume work at the old wages, but the offers were refused. The lockout will reduce the market supply 20,000 tons weekly.

The Houston and Texas Central Railway has employed negro switchmen in its yards for several years. About two weeks ago a demand was made for their removal, the places to be filled by whites. The demand was refused and the formen have all struck.

The long and bitter struggle between the cigarmakers in Binghamton, N. Y., and their employers is ended. The cigarmakers held a largely-attended meeting Sunday evening and voted to declare the strike off. The fight has been the most disastrous one ever experienced here. Two factories have been obliged to make assignments, and on the other side there has been much want and suffering among the improvident employes. Some of the more unlucky strikers have been obliged to ask aid from the poormaster. The strike called out about 3,000 employes.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The lightermen at Hull have struck. One thousand five hundred carmen at Liverpool have struck for higher wages and shorter hours.

EVILS OF BETTING.

The Panacea Proposed by the Church Congress at Hull.

A Hindoo Girl Married When Four Months Old.

Dr. Parker Preaching One-Minute Sermons—Sacramental Wine—The Roumanian Queen's Warm Welcome in England and Wales.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Church Congress which has been sitting in Hull for the past week among other things discussed the evils arising from the betting spirit among all classes. The reverend gentlemen would make public betting an indictable offense; they would make the publication of bets illegal, and would prevent corporations from lettling out land for race courses. They would establish an anti-gambling league, and put down horse racing, and finally have nothing to do with bazars and never play whist for money. The evil of gambling, said one speaker, was involved in even sixpenny points at whist.

Comments on the McKinley Tariff.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Standard, commenting on the probable effects of the McKinley tariff law, says: We need not fear the death or even the diminution of the English iron trade with America if we only imitate the avidity of the Americans to take advantage of every improvement in manufacturing.

370 Soldiers Drowned.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—The Vossiche Zeitung asserts that it has received positive confirmation of the report of the drowning of General Bardovski and 370 soldiers through the collapse of a bridge at Kovno during the recent army maneuvers in Russia. The same journal adds that the Russian censor of telegrams has suppressed all messages in regard to the disaster.

Rudyard Kipling in Poor Health.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—All readers of Rudyard Kipling's remarkably clever stories will learn with regret that the strain necessary to their production has resulted in the breaking down of his health. The doctors ordered him to take a sea voyage, and he left yesterday for Naples. Since his departure it is said that the physicians declare he is much worse than he was at first supposed, and, in fact, it is believed he is completely broken down.

Not on the Programme.

MUNICH, Oct. 6.—There was an exciting scene at the annual fete here yesterday. There were 100,000 persons on the grounds, and Prince Regent Luitpold was among the distinguished spectators. During the inspection of prize bulls one of the animals broke loose and dashed into the crowd, trampling upon people right and left. many were injured, but not seriously. Prince Luitpold had a narrow escape.

Terrific Storms.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Terrific storms are reported in Schleswig and the east sea Provinces. The hail ruined the crops and smashed thousands of windows at Elmshorn, which was flooded by the sea. Numerous houses were unroofed and many of the inhabitants were injured. At Neustas a man was blown into a well and drowned. In the same town the tent and paraphernalia of a circus company were destroyed by the storm. At Dantzic a tram car was overturned and several of the occupants were crushed to death. Many shipwrecks attended by loss of life are reported.

John Bowden's Anxiety.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—John Bowden, who committed suicide in London on Thursday, had one anxiety on his mind at the time he died. He was afraid the coffin would not be of that superior quality that his position entitled him to. So much did it worry him that he went to the undertaker's and dropped the following letter into the letter box:

Gentlemen.—I write this for you to come to 86 Abbey street to make me a good, strong, polished elm coffin with brass nails. I have sent you the key of the front door to avoid taking my body to the mortuary. My nephew will furnish you with papers and pay all expenses. Make the box as soon as you can. Yours, JOHN BOWDEN.

Then he hurried home, and when the undertaker and the police came they found John hanging to a nail behind the door, as dead as the projection to which he was appended.

Carmen Sylva's Warm Welcome.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Queen of Roumania directly she returned from Ireland was seized by the bards of Wales again, and they have continued right up to the present time to compose odes which they invariably send her, to present addresses whenever she ventures out of doors, and to give small Welsh trifles upon every conceivable occasion. Carmen Sylva took the best course open to her. She gave the people her blessing, and fled to Balmoral to see Queen Victoria. At Barmoral she found such an array of royalty awaiting her as seldom awaits any guest in England. Albert Edward and his young heir, Beatrice and the Battenberg Prince, the Duchess of Albany, and others waited upon the platform for her, and the Roumanian Queen could have taken no exception to the warmth of her welcome. Indeed, the unusual heartiness of the English royal greeting has given rise to rumors of a possible alliance between one of the Prince of Wales' daughters and Prince Ferdinand, heir to the Roumanian throne. Ferdinand is the nephew of King Charles. He is 23 years of age, and has lived almost entirely in Germany. He has remained absent from Buchrarest while any hope remained of a direct heir being born to King Charles, but now that hope has been abandoned and political considerations demand his presence in the Roumanian capital.

Better Marriage Laws Needed.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—A movement that is being powerfully urged by intelligent Hindoos is for a reform in the marriage laws. Females are married in infancy, and their husbands take them home while they are yet children. Great strength has been added to the agitation for reform by a recent occurrence in Calcutta. A Hindoo, whose daughter had been married when she was a babe 4 months old, objected strenuously when the husband came to claim her at the age of 10 years. The husband summoned the native police to his assistance, and the girl was borne away, shrieking for help, while her father lay senseless on the threshhold of his home. No one dared claim the wretched girl as the husband had the law on his side. On the following day the girl bride died, a victim of the inhuman husband. The terrible occurrence has caused a thrill throughout India, and everywhere educated Hindoos are joining in a demand for the repeal of the barbarous law which permits such outrages. It is now 60 years since the burning of widows with their dead husbands was abolished, but more remains to be accomplished to relieve the women from their degradation.

Irish Nationalist Conference.

DUBLIN, Oct. 6.—The Conference of the Irish Nationalists called by Mr. Parnell, was held here to-day. A deputation was chosen to visit America for the purpose of laying before the people of that country a plain statement of the situation of affairs in Ireland. John Dillon, Wm. O'Brien, Thomas P. O'Connor, Timothy Sullivan and Abraham Gill were appointed to form the deputation.

One-Minute Sermons.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Dr. Parker, the well-known Congregationalist preacher at the City Temple, is now delivering a series of sermons lasting exactly 60 seconds each, by way of a strong contrast with his brother divines. Yesterday he devoted the whole 60 seconds to the subject of sacramental wine. He managed to get in 160 words before time was called. "It is high time," he said, "that intoxicating wine was banished from the sacramental service. It has driven men to their long abandoned habits of intemperance. I am also opposed to the use of the vile concoctions by which in some instances intoxicating wine has been displaced." This objection to the make-shifts of extreme teetotalers is not surprising, as a certain pastor is credited with the employment of zoedone for the purpose. The preacher concluded his oration by declaring in favor of plain water.

M'KINLEYISMS.

Jay Gould and Russell Sage on the Effects of the Tariff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The World this morning publishes letters from Jay Gould, Russell Sage and S. V. White on the effect of the new tariff law. Mr. Gould says: "The tariff has upset the country to such an extent that people now hardly know whether they are afoot or horsback. The bad results, however, will not be permanent. The country will soon accommodate itself to the change. In fact, the trouble has been largely discounted. I do not believe that the approach of Feb. 1—the limit of time for the withdrawal of goods from bond without the payment of increased duties—will cause a stringency in the money market. This cause alone will not be sufficient. If anything happens to disturb the business of Europe, creating high rates for money, there would be tight money here. If things in Europe continue in an even way there need be no apprehension so far as I am able to see, that the new tariff will cause financial distress in this country. If the tariff increases the cost of some articles people will simply use less of them. If the tariff on wool makes clothing cost more a person will get along with one suit where he would otherwise have two. Despite the reductions the iron industries of this country will prosper. The tariff on steel rails is reduced $5 a ton, but the change will not let in any more English rails. It is the same in all branches of industry. Production and consumption will have more to do with the situation than anything else. It is possible that labor may be benefited by the creation of new industries by the tariff, but I do not look for any great increase in manufacturing interest solely from the tariff."

RUSSELL SAGE.

Russell Sage says: "Now that the new tariff is in actual operation, I think it will work to the advantage of the country. Manufacturers and business men generally can go ahead with their affairs on an established basis. Manufacturers know what it is safe to produce and others know what it is safe to buy. I do not think that the approach of Feb. 1 will affect the money market to any serious extent. I look for a good, healthy money market during the next six months, but do not apprehend a stringency. On the whole, I am inclined to think the new tariff will have a favorable effect on the general financial situation. The tariff will give additional employment to labor for the reason that under it home manufactures may be stimulated. Labor is the only thing that has not liquidated. The reduction in the hours for work, combined with the advance in pay has been more than many products could stand. This may not be true in every case, but it is true in a majority of cases. The tendency of all articles has been toward lower prices on account of competition and over-production. The tariff will decrease foreign competition. The skilled labor of America possesses as high an intelligence as that of any country, and it will accept the situation when it is presented in the right light. The effect of the new tariff on the consumer will not be adverse. Home competiton will reduce the prices of all products as low as they ought to be."

S. V. White says: "I believe the tariff laws are, on the whole, very wise, and that they will not need a revision in years, and when it gets its bearings oiled the new machine will run with satisfaction to our commercial men and profit to the country."

The Proposed Niagara Tunnel.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 6.—The first sod was turned on Saturday at Niagara Falls, N. Y., for the commencement of the construction of the great Niagara tunnel. This gigantic scheme for the development of Niagara's unrivalled water power is in the hands of the Niagara Power Company, and the contract for the work has been let to the Contract Construction Company, of Jersey, for $3,500,000. It is proposed to tunnel under the present town of Niagara Falls, N. Y., commencing at a point below the upper Suspension bridge, thence to the river above the town. At this point the tunnel will be 100 feet below the surface, and thence it will be extended one and a half miles parallel with the river's shore. Along this stretch shafts will be put down, to be fed by lateral surface canals from the river. It is proposed to furnish power for Buffalo and neighboring cities, and the renowned Thomas A. Edison has been for some time engaged in devising the most suitable means for the transmission of electrical power.

THE BIRCHALLS.

Some of the Statements Made by the Doomed Man.

Another Person Implicated—Mrs. Birchall's Position—Birchall's Statement About His Wife.

According to the Globe's correspondent at Woodstock, Birchall, who is sentenced to die for the murder of Benwell, has made a number of half-statements and dropped hints and admissions, which, pieced together, form a tolerably coherent story. The value of the story, however, is discounted by the correspondent's statement: "He is such an enormous liar, however, that it would be unsafe to accept any statement he might make even with the rope round his neck, unless it were abundantly corroborated; and of course whatever he may say about what took place at the actual killing of Benwell cannot be substantiated by any ascertained or ascertainable facts." It would seem that he confesses directly that he took Benwell to Eastwood and beyond in the direction of the swamp. But as yet he resolutely sticks to it that his was not the hand that slew Benwell. Yesterday he said, not for the first time since his conviction, that he could have made a statement to the jury as to his whereabouts and doings on Feb. 17 which would have satisfied them that he was not the actual murderer, but that the statement would have established his guilt as an accessory.

MRS. BIRCHALL.

Mrs. Birchall saw her husband for the first time since he was sentenced to death at 3:30 on Saturday afternoon. Birchall did not know of her coming until she reached the jail in a cab in the company of Mrs. West-Jones. The meeting between them was a sad one, of course. Mr. Cameron, the jailer, stood by. It is now necessary to prevent Mrs. Birchall from kissing or embracing her husband. To be blunt, this is done in order to prevent the possibility of poison being conveyed to the man whom the law has claimed for its victim. The two ladies remained for a short time. Mrs. Birchall, who has been suffering intensely from nervous prostration, was completely broken down when she passed out into one of Hood's rigs and went off for a short drive with her sister,

DELUDED.

In England, as in Canada, it is felt by many, probably by all who have read the evidence, that Mrs. Birchall must have been a party to the fraud practiced upon Benwell and Pelly. She herself, however, solemnly declares that she did not know of the fraud; that Birchall deluded her as well as them, and that she is paying with a blighted life for having believed every word he told her. When Birchall was courting Florence Stevenson her father speedily inquired what his intentions were. He said that he desired to marry her, that he was well connected and rich, and that he meant to settle £80,000 upon her at their wedding. Mr. Stevenson, a canny Scotchman and a fond and loving father, said he would make inquiry into Birchall's standing. Shortly after Birchall appeared at the house again—the Stevensons live at Upper Norwood, close by London on the Surrey side—and told Florence that he had been unexpectedly called to America, that he would not have time even to introduce his high-rank friends to Mr. Stevenson, that quick dispatch was the word, and that if she loved him at all and wished to marry him they must get married at once and be off. In short, it was a runaway match. The ruffian who talked about settling £80,000 upon her was at that time a fraudulent debtor. They started almost at once for Canada, and reached Woodstock in December, 1888, where he was enrolled as a farm pupil under the name of Somerset. Now for Mrs. Birchall's story. She declared that during their first visit to Woodstock she believed him when he told her that he had a large amount of capital invested in farming and other enterprises. Wherever he got it, he always appeared to have plenty of money. When they returned to England they resided principally at her father's. Birchall had a lot of photographs of farm buildings, which he exhibited to them. These were the farms which he said he owned. He said his money was locked up in them and in his horse-buying business, and that he was a little short, but that on his return to America he would be able to realize on some of his belongings, and that the profits would be waiting for him. All this Mrs. Birchall and her father believed. When she met Benwell and Pelly at Liverpool and they got on board ship she simply repeated to them like a parot what he had described as existing facts. Sometimes she had found discrepancies in his statements, but he was always ready with a plausible explanation. She would never have left a comfortable home had she supposed for an instant that he was a penniless adventurer. Neither Mrs. Birchall nor Mrs. West-Jones ever heard a word against him when he was in England last year. They found him good and affectionate. He kept proper hours. He was doing some sort of work in the daytime, and said it was in connection with his business in Canada. They had been strictly brought up at home, and were innocent and guileless, not to say credulous. When Benwell did not come back Birchall assured Mrs. Birchall that he had gone up to London or to the neighborhood of London. She knew nothing from first to last of the murder or of the intention to murder. When he was arrested he swore that he could establish his innocence without the slightest trouble. After his incarceration in the jail here he assured her at her visits that everything would come out all right. From the day Young clapped his hand on Birchall's shoulder to the present hour, Birchall has never hinted to her that he was guilty or done aught but protest his innocence. Whether he be a murderer or not, now, he is her husband, and as a wife she intends to remain near him to the last, in the belief that she may be able to soothe his last hours and point him to the higher life beyond. He always treated her well; how can she desert him now?

BIRCHALL'S STATEMENT ABOUT HIS WIFE.

I have the authority of Mrs. Birchall and of Mrs. West-Jones for giving this brief statement to the public in their behalf. The latter has done her best to persuade her sister to return to England, but thinks now that if Mrs. Birchall were to leave him before the dreaded day she would forever afterwards accuse herself. So the two have resolved to remain until all is over. I spoke to Birchall yesterday concerning the impression prevailing here and in England that his wife was privy to the swindle if to nothing else. He was told that what he said would be cabled to England. He declared, and the tears filled his eyes as he rose and grasped the bars of the cell door, that his wife was innocent both of the fraud which he had perpetrated upon Benwell and Pelly and of the more heinous crime. "My wife," he said, with much warmth, "is a perfectly honorable woman. She knew nothing of what was going on. I deceived her. I lied to her. She believed all I said. If she found me out, or thought she had found me out in one lie I told her another. My word is of no weight now, but I tell you she is as innocent as a child of any participation in the affair. I mean that she had no hand in or knowledge of the swindling or of what happened after we got to the Falls. I hope I shall be believed in this; it is the truth."

Mrs. Birchall has aged greatly. Dr. Ivy has been attending her lately, but the weightiest part of the care falls, of course, upon Mrs. West-Jones, who is a courageous and loyal sister.

There are now four applicants for the position of hangman—one from Waterloo county and three from Toronto.

Constipation,

IF not remedied in season, is liable to become habitual and chronic. Drastic purgatives, by weakening the bowels, confirm, rather than cure, the evil. Ayer's Pills, being mild, effective, and strengthening in their action, are generally recommended by the faculty as the best of aperients.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills. I deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"I have been taking Ayer's Pills and using them in my family since 1857, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of a safe but effectual cathartic."—John M. Boggs, Louisville, Ky.

"For eight years I was afflicted with constipation, which at last became so bad that the doctors could do no more for me. Then I began to take Ayer's Pills, and soon the bowels recovered their natural and regular action, so that now I am in excellent health."—S. L. Loughbridge, Bryan, Texas.

"Having used Ayer's Pills, with good results, I fully indorse them for the purposes for which they are recommended."—T. Conners, M. D., Centre Bridge, Pa.

"THE BEST ARMOR AGAINST DISEASE IS GOOD DIGESTION."

It is a hard, uncontrovertible fact that more disease is directly attributable to disorders of the Stomach than to all the other organs combined; this is not hard for even the unprofessional to understand when we take into consideration the mass of food that it is made the receptacle of for a time, there to be churned, digested and so assimilated.

MALTOPEPSYN

(an artificial gastric juice—formula on every label) will aid the weak stomach and so cure Indigestion, Dyspepsia etc. In fact, it is a good aid to digest a hearty dinner, and can do no harm, as it is only adding an extra amount of gastric juice, does not stimulate, and so there is no reaction. Endorsed by physicians. Send 2 cts. in postage for valuable book to HAZEN MORSE, INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE, ONTARIO.

THE FALL SHOWS.

Clinton and Louth townships had a union fair at Beamsville, which was a gratifying success.

The South Waterloo fair at Ayr, held Thursday and Friday, was a great success in every respect.

The West Branch Agricultural Society's show at Dunnville, was good all round, and particularly so in horses.

The East Huron fair at Brussels was attended by 3,000 people. The show was the best the society ever had. The grounds are to be enlarged.

The village of Drayton and township of Peel held their annual show at Drayton on Thursday and Friday, and scored a greater success than ever before.

At Forest the East Lambton exhibition was attended by 3,000, a larger crowd than at any former event of the kind. A notable feature was the creditable display made by the Indians of Kettle and Stoney Points.

"Are these complexion powders warranted fast colors?" "Well, madame, I cannot say that they will wash like the natural complexion, but they won't rub off on a coat sleeve."—Life. The manufacturers of Diamond Dyes warrant every package of their dyes to be perfectly fast, whether the colors used are for silk, wool or cotton. This guarantee cannot honestly be given by makers of inferior or crude dyes. The ordinary daylight is sufficient to obliterate every trace of color in less than a week from any material dyed with these imitation package dyes.

When Dymond Dyes are used permanency of color is assured; pure and bright colors are obtained, and the material is not damaged by any strong acids. With all these great advantages Diamond Dyes are certainly the cheapest and best.

The University of Michigan opened in all departments Wednesday with the largest showing ever in its history. Without exception every department showed a gain over last year.

The fifteenth annual session of the Michigan Conference of the Unitarian and other Christian churches will be held at the First Unitarian Church in Grand Haven, Oct. 7, 8, and 9.

A syndicate of Chicago capitalists have purchased 150 acres of land a mile and a half west of Petoskey and will plat it immediately for a summer resort, and connect it with Petoskey by a street railway running to the fair grounds.

Ingalls Westveere, an old man who was brutually assaulted at Schoolcraft on the night of Aug. 9 by three masked men who entered the house and bound and gagged him and pounded him until he revealed the hiding place of a small amount of money, died from the effects on Saturday.

Charles Hulbert, a young colored man, got in an altercation with one of the girls working in the Pacific Hotel at Port Huron. He made an assault on her and struck her on the neck. The girl is in a dangerous condition. Hulbert escaped to Sarnia, but was arrested and remanded for eight days.

The grave of Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, the temperance candidate for the Presidency, in Coldwater, has been decorated with flowers by the local W. C. T. U. every Saturday since his burial. Contributions have also been sent by the unions in Sturgis, Jackson, and unions in Branch county, outside of Coldwater.

A boy named Brown climbed on top of a passenger coach at Creston, Ia., Tuesday to steal a ride west. In passing under a bridge Brown's head struck a rafter and he was instantly killed. A young companion of the dead boy held on to the body for several miles before the train stopped, and was almost dead from fright and exhaustion when found.

W. R. Schreiber, aged 26 years, has been arrested in Detroit. He is wanted at Columbus, Ind., for embezzlement. Over a year ago Schreiber skipped, taking with him $38,000 in money and $100,000 in Government bonds from the bank in which he was employed. On arriving in Canada he returned the $100,000 worth of bonds, sending a polite note to his Hooiser friends saying that he could not use the paper. Under the name of Wm. Colby he bought a barge and engaged in the carrying trade along the Canadian shore, and it is said, made lots of money. He went over from Windsor recently, thinking that the officers had quit watching him. He was mistaken, and captured. Schreiber wears elegant clothes, and big diamonds.

The conditions under which many Huron county citizens are now suffering are known in but little measure. It will be remembered that two most disastrous hail storms visited four townships about two months ago, and ruined the crops. So broad were the damages that aid to the losers was declared unavoidable. Application was made to the State, but by no authority could assistance be rendered except through a legislative appropriation or until the next meeting of the Legislature. Thereupon committees were appointed to seek help in their home county. So little has been accomplished that matters begin to assume alarming proportions. Many farmers are comparatively destitute and fear lest the winter come upon them without receipt of relief. It seems impossible that enough will be realized unless the benevolence of other counties is appealed to. The tract over which the storms passed includes mostly new farms, and a portion of the inhabitants were just getting a start in life.

THE QUEEN PAYS ALL EXPENSES.

A NEW PUZZLE.

It Looks Simple, But It's Mighty Deadly.

A new puzzle has been sprung upon the inoffensive people of this city. It is an innocent-looking affair and an inexpensive one, withal, but more deadly than "pigs in the pen." This latest brain-racking device consists simply of three columns of figures, arranged thus:

3	3	3
5	5	5
7	7	7
9	9	9

Now, the point is to add together any six of the above figures and make the total 21.

Chival suites, in walnut and oak, now in, also new stock of fancy tables plain for enamel painting, at Trafford's, 91 King street, west of market.

THE FACTORY LAWS AND THE SCHOOLS.

The Ontario Factories Act provides for the appointment of inspectors to see that its provisions are carried out. Three painstaking officials now perform that task. Inspector Barber has the Western division, extending from Yonge street, Toronto, to the extreme limits of the Province; Inspector Brown has charge of the Central district, and Inspector Rocque looks after the East. The duties of these officers are chiefly to see that the provisions of the law with respect to the safe-guarding of machinery, the employment of women and children, the ventilation of factories and the providing of sanitary conveniences and fire escapes are observed. That the position of an inspector is no sinecure may be gathered from the fact that last year Inspector Barber made no fewer than 919 inspections of factories and workshops. He reports that he finds the employers and parents generally anxious to observe the provisions of the act, though there seems to be a good deal of ignorance regarding its provisions. The act was passed, at the instance of the Ontario Government, some years ago, but it has recently been amended, and a short summary of its principal provisions may not be amiss.

A man of mature age is supposed to be well able to take care of himself, but it was deemed wise to take children, young girls and women under the special care of the law. For this reason it has been decided that no child, young girl or woman can lawfully be employed in a factory if their health is likely to be permanently injured. Nor is it lawful to employ a boy under 12 or a girl under 14 in a factory, except during the months of July, August, September, and October, when boys and girls may be employed in preparing fruits and vegetables for canning. Before a boy, between 12 and 14 years of age, can be employed he must give his employer a certificate that he is not less than 12. No boy, girl or woman shall be employed for more than ten hours a day, unless the hours have been lengthened to give a shorter day on Saturday. An hour must be given for dinner. Children and women are prohibited from cleaning mill machinery while it is in motion. When, at certain seasons of the year, the exigencies of trade demand that boys, girls or women shall be employed for a longer period than stipulated, the inspector may give permission to them to work longer hours, but in no case can they be employed before 6 a.m. and after 9 p.m., nor must they work longer than 12½ hours in any day, nor more than 72 in a week, and they must also have 45 minutes for a second meal between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. Only during 96 days in any one year may this extra labor be permitted. During July, August, September and October, women may work to a later hour than 9 p.m., but not for a longer period than twenty days at a time. All factories must be kept cleanly, and separate conveniences must be provided for each of the sexes. Belting, shafting and all moving parts of machinery as well as hatchway elevators must be properly protected and fire escapes must be provided on all buildings over two stories in height, in which work people may be employed.

At first only establishments in which twenty persons or over were employed came under the operation of the law, but it was found that this left out of account many workshops much in need of supervision, and by the amending act all workshops in which five persons or over are employed are subject to supervision.

These are the leading provisions in the act, a synopsis of which should be procured by every workman as well as by every employer. A thorough knowledge of its provisions should be possessed by all who are affected by them.

It is noteworthy that the employment of young children in factories has recently decreased. This is due to two causes: (1) The prohibitory clauses in the Factory Act; and (2) the law for compensating workmen who are injured through the negligence of their employers. As a matter of course, children cannot be relied on to be as careful in working around machinery as adults, and are far more liable to meet with accident than full grown persons. For their own protection, therefore, employers exhibit a growing tendency to avoid the risk by conducting their business with as little child labor as possible, even in those cases where the act does not circumscribe their operations.

There is another phase of this child-labor question which Inspector Barber informs us requires to be considered by those charged with the management of the public schools. The inspector finds that in the majority of towns in which factories exist boys and girls who would at one time have been set to work at an early age are now allowed to run the streets, and it is to be feared acquire bad habits—at least, habits of idleness. Now the meaning of the legislators was that these children should not be put to work in factories before they had received a rudimentary education. How are they to get that education if their parents neglect their privileges and fail to send them to school? There can be but one answer to the question, and that is the compulsory clauses of the school act should be put in operation, and a truant officer should see that every child of school age is being educated.

We shall, of course, be met with the opposition of the cranks who are opposed to compulsory legislation in matters of this kind; but we may be permitted to suggest that the State has a right to demand that privileges which it guarantees shall not be lightly esteemed, especially when their neglect is certain to result in injury not only to the neglectful one, but to the people as a whole. There is little sense in keeping the children out of the factory if they are as a consequence to degenerate into street arabs.

AGRICULTURE ADVANCING.

An article in the ADVERTISER some time ago reviewed the nature and extent of experiment station work in the United States, referring also to evidences of a general agricultural advance in Canada as well as in the republic. In connection therewith Prof. W. O. Atwater, director Office of Experiment Stations, Washington, D.C., writes: "I note with interest the statements in your editorial on "An Agricultural Awakening." As you say, it is phenomenal, and I have been much gratified to observe the extent to which it is manifested with you as well as in the United States."

THE NATIONAL SPENDTHRIFT.

From the time that he attained office over eighteen years ago down to last Wednesday Sir John Macdonald had never addressed a public meeting in Nova Scotia. His speech at Halifax, in which he boasted about his determination to keep the taxes high and to spend all the money collected, so that there would be no money for the Grits to disburse when they attain power, was unworthy of any man pretending to be a public leader. Pray, what virtue is there to be found in collecting more money from the people than is needed for the economical maintenance of Government? And why should Canadians have to mortgage their belongings, work long hours and fare hard to gratify the ambition of an old man to remain in power, even though, as he confesses, he should be compelled to bribe one section of the people with money collected from another? Surely the time has come to put a stop to a system of conducting public affairs that no honest man would adopt in managing his own business.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—The times and places for trying the Ontario election petitions will be fixed by the judges at Osgoode Hall on Saturday next at 11 a.m.

‡‡‡

—Women are not allowed to teach school in Siebenburgen, a Crown land of Hungary. This is going a step farther than keeping married women out of the desk.

‡‡‡

—The British volunteer force now numbers nearly a quarter of a million of light horse, artillery, engineers, mounted rifles, and medical staff (officers and men).

‡‡‡

—Rider Haggard will spend the winter in Mexico. The sensational novelist could not wish for a better field. A story that will put "She" in the shade may be expected to blossom in the spring.

‡‡‡

—The Hamilton Public Library Board have decreed that no person shall be allowed more than two novels in one week. So great an appetite did the Hamiltonians have for fiction that some of them were reading a novel a day!

‡‡‡

—The McKinley law, which went into force in the United States to-day, contains an important stipulation regarding the free entry of cattle for breeding purposes. In future, such cattle will only be admitted into the United States free of duty on production of a certificate of registry.

‡‡‡

—The Halifax Chronicle, taking up Sir John Macdonald's declaration that there will be no general election before 1891, points out that the "assurance has only three months to run and will not prevent a dissolution in January next should it be then thought to be in the party interest." Just what the ADVERTISER has all along been contending.

‡‡‡

—The Montreal Trade Bulletin, discussing the new trade situation, says: "In regard to the shipment of eggs to England, there is no chance at present of seeking a profitable market in that direction. Should prices here recede, however, later on England may take a portion of our surplus production." That is to say, if Canadians will sell their eggs cheap enough to compete with the pauper hens of Belgium, France and Germany, a market will be found for Canadian eggs in Great Britain. No one has ever denied this, but farmers must be prepared to accept a much lower price for their eggs than they have been receiving or would receive if complete reciprocity with the States were established.

—A sensation has been caused in Ireland by the recently-issued vital statistics compiled by the Registrar-General, an imperial officer. The information upsets some previous conceptions regarding the Northern Province. Ulster, it is now asserted, has not only the highest birth-rate, which may or may not be a good thing, but the highest proportion of illegitimate births. Again, Ulster has not only the highest percentage of marriages, but the highest percentage of marriages of minors of both sexes. This pre-eminence is hard to reconcile with the supposed superior prudence and self-control of the Northener, as well as with the notion that the Roman Catholic Church is specially given to encouraging rash marriages. It also appears that Ulster widowers are much more given to marrying again than their countrymen further south.

—In a speech at the annual dinner of the members of the Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, which was held in New York city on Friday night, Gen. Sherman made an able reply to the toast of "The welfare and prosperity of the United States." The old warrior reciprocated the cordial greeting which had been extended to him. Great Britain and the United States had much in common, he said. "The people of the States love and reverence good Queen Victoria just as much as the British do," added the General, amid loud applause.

—Thomas Ballantyne, M.P.P. for South Perth, who recently returned from a visit to Britain, was warmly greeted by his Western Ontario friends on Saturday at the London cheese market. He is looking the picture of vigorous health, and enjoyed the trip wonderfully. Referring to the Canadian cheese business he remarked that the export up to a recent date showed an increase of some 200,000 boxes over last season, indicating the continued growth of this great industry. The consuming public of Britain are more than ever particular on the point of quality. Dry, hard cheese is not wanted at all. Times are good in the mother country, in fact, never seemed better. The people have ample employment at good wages and buy freely. General prosperity appears to prevail.

—The Hamilton Spectator drops a little into the personal in the following paragraph:

John Cameron, of the London ADVERTISER, invited Gladstone to visit Canada. Which is about the same as if Prof. Gant invited the Emperor of Germany to visit Canada. The G. O. M. refused to come; but it is stated in an English paper that "an invitation to one of the foremost of Mr. Gladstone's lieutenants, Lord Rosebery," might be more successful. There is no need. Another of the foremost of Mr. Gladstone's lieutenants, Blatherskite O'Brien, has invited himself and will soon be with us. Mr. Cameron should see that he is properly entertained.

Mr. O'Brien is an able and upright man, and the only fault his traducers can bring against him is that he is too ardently a lover of Old Ireland. The ADVERTISER has no doubt that if Mr. O'Brien were to visit London, Mr. Cameron would be very happy to "see that he is properly entertained."

—In his recent speech at Halifax, N. S., Sir John Thompson said:

Comparing the condition of affairs under the old reciprocity treaty with that of to-day, under the agricultural and mining development of the Eastern and Middle States, it was impossible for Canadian farmers and miners to ever again compete with Americans in those markets.

Of this declaration the Toronto Monetary Times says:

This means, we take it, that Sir John Thompson is not prepared to accept reciprocity in coal, a conclusion which it is impossible not to deplore. On the impossibility of agricultural competition, the Ontario farmers certainly do not agree with him.

How can Canada expect to establish reciprocity with the States until it effects a change in the Dominion Government? It is evident that there is no good foundation for the assumption that the present Administration at Ottawa really favors reciprocity of any kind.

OTHER NEWSPAPERS.

BECAUSE RIGHT IS ON OUR SIDE.

Winnipeg Tribune.

The London ADVERTISER has been printing some very sensible articles upon the question of reciprocity.

THE GENERAL ELECTION.

Windsor Record.

Prepare for a general election for "the writing is on the wall," and prorogation may occur at any time.

LOST THROUGH LACK OF RECIPROCITY.

Windsor Record.

Messrs. McNaughton, Walker & Co., of Chatham, brought down to the City of Chatham to-day a large load of their eggs stored at Chatham, and the balance of the 170,000 dozen will be taken to Detroit on Monday. This firm, which distributed so much money to the farmers throughout this whole western section of Canada, has been compelled, by what the Review calls the "logic of events," to remove over to Detroit. The 5 cents a dozen on eggs is one of these "logic of events," which apply with great practical force to the price of eggs.

THE DEATH PENALTY FOR BIRCHALL'S CRIME

Detroit Free Press.

The imposition of the death penalty will be criticised by those tender-hearted individuals in this State and perhaps elsewhere who regard the Mosaic injunction, "Thou shall not kill," as binding on the State, even when the murderer disregards it. It may be worth while, however, to consider that Canada, with the death penalty, has fewer murders than Michigan without; and it may be worth while also to note that in this case the jury, a body of average intelligence, knowing full well the probable consequences of their verdict, did not hesitate, notwithstanding the evidence was purely circumstantial, to do their duty. This shows that the argument against the death penalty that juries will not convict is weaker than is sometimes claimed.

A Good Appetite

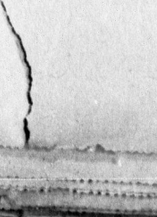

Is essential to good health; but at this season it is often lost, owing to the poverty or impurity of the blood, derangement of the digestive organs, and the weakening effect of the changing season. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, toning the digestion and giving strength to the whole system. Now is the time to take it. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. 2

"The Old Story."

The enormous and constantly increasing sales of the "Athlete" and "Derby" cigarettes add another to the many proofs that a superior article is the sure road to success.

CERTIFICATES OF STRENGTH AND PURITY

OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC ANALYST.

MONTREAL, Sept. 9, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal.

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99.90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

What is Scrofula

It is that impurity in the blood, which, accumulating in the glands of the neck, produces unsightly lumps or swellings; which causes painful running sores on the arms, legs, or feet; which developes ulcers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often causing blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or many other manifestations usually ascribed to "humors." It is a more formidable enemy than consumption or cancer alone, for scrofula combines the worst possible features of both. Being the most ancient, it is the most general of all diseases or affections, for very few persons are entirely free from it.

How can it be cured? By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the cures it has accomplished, often when other medicines have failed, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. For all affections of the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled, and some of the cures it has effected are really wonderful. If you suffer from scrofula in any of its various forms, be sure to give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

LAST OF THE SERIES.

Cornwall Wins the Lacrosse Championship.

A New Football Association Formed—Various Sporting Events.

THE STICK.

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—The committee of the Senior Lacrosse League decided on Saturday that the draw between Montreal and Toronto of Aug. 16 would not be played off, so that the lacrosse season is at an end, and the Cornwalls have won the championship. The last match of the season was played here on Saturday by the Toronto and Shamrock teams. It resulted in a draw, each team taking two games.

THE WHEEL.

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—The 25 mile bicycle race, under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association on Saturday, was made interesting by the breaking of the amateur record for that distance by W. Van Wagoner, of the New York Athletic Club, who started from the scratch. The best previous time was that of A. A. McCurdy, at Waltham, in 1886, but Saturday's time was fully five seconds lower, and was made over a muddy road. There were 45 starters. The time was 1 hour and 26 minutes.

TWO THOUSAND MILES ON A BICYLE.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Lieut. Marks, the Russian cyclist, reached here Saturday morning, having accomplished the distance from St. Petersburg, 2,000 miles, in 30 days. He proposes making a bicycle tour around England.

THE TURF.

The highest jump ever done in Australia was 6 feet 6½ inches by Spondulix at Melbourne last month.

The 3-year-old Wilkes stallion, Alcyon, was burned in a barn near Iowa City, Ia., the other night. Alcyon was owned by Dr. John Wilbur, of Palmer, Mass., and was valued at $10,000.

The Four Oaks (Eng.) racing grounds have been sold at auction. The club stand that cost £3,000 sold for £100, and the sum realized was less than £3,000 for property on which £40,000 was spent, besides £60,000 purchase money. The estate is to be cut up for building purposes.

One of the most striking cases of falling off in a horse's value is that of the noted pacing horse Arrow, sold at the Shoults sale last week. He cost Mr. Shoults $15,000 not so very long ago, yet he only brought $725 under the hammer. J. Bessey, of New York, was his purchaser.

ATHLETICS.

The Grand Rapids Democrat, of Thursday, says: The Scottish games which were held at the Fountain street baseball park yesterday afternoon were not very well attended, but there was much interest manifested by those present. The three Scotch lassies from Canada, Misses Aggie Rankin, Alice Galbraith and Edith Scott, captured the prizes for the following dances: Grand Scotch reel, sword dance, reel o' Tulloch, lome reel, sailor's hornpipe, shauntrew and Highland schottische. The games resulted as follows:

Putting heavy stone—1 Chas. Currie, 41 feet 6 inches; 2 John D. McPherson, 38 feet 7 inches; 3 Archie Scott, 32 feet 9 inches.

Putting light stone—1 Currie, 52 feet 2½ inches; 2 McPherson, 48 feet 2 inches; 3 Scott, 38 feet 10½ inches.

Standing high jump—1 McPherson, 4 feet 11 inches; 2 Scott, 4 feet 10 inches; 3 Pat Casey, 4 feet 8 inches.

Tossing caber—1 Currie, 47 feet 4 inches, 2 McPherson, 44 feet 3 inches; 3 Scott, 42 feet 8½ inches.

Throwing 56-pound weight—1 Currie, 47 feet 6 inches; 2 McPherson, 42 feet 6 inches; 3 Scott, 40 feet 4 inches.

Throwing light hammer—1 Currie, 101 feet 9 inches; 2 McPherson, 89 feet 2 inches; 3 Scott, 88 feet 7 inches.

Running high jump—1 A. Scott, only contestant, distance 5 feet 5 inches.

Hop, step and jump—1 Scott, 30 feet 9½ inches; 2 Casey, 30 feet 4 inches; 3 McPherson, 29 feet.

Hitch and kick—1 Scott, 8 feet 7 inches; 2 McPherson, 8 feet.

THE TRIGGER.

Some of the enthusiastic members of the London Gun Club had a shoot on the grounds on Saturday. The squads were captained by Teekay and Leeson, and were composed of Teekay, Gibbs, Brewer and Winfield, and Leeson, Brownell, Nichols and Graham. Each man had 50 birds. Teekay's side won, the score standing 112 to 79.

FOOTBALL.

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—The Chatham and Detroit football clubs played a friendly match here Saturday under association rules, Chatham winning by 1 goal to nil.

A NEW ASSOCIATION.

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—Saturday evening a meeting was held at the Griswold House to organize a district of the Western Football Association. The delegates represented were as follows: E. Elliott, of Windsor; A. W. Stewart, of Detroit; G. F. H. Rispin, of Chatham; F. Walters, of Essex Center. It was decided that the district should comprise Windsor, Chatham, Essex Center and Detroit. E. Elliott, of Windsor, was elected district vice-president. The name of the district is the Southwestern Association Football League.

The following schedule of matches was arranged:

October 11—Detroit at Chatham, Essex at Windsor.

October 18—Chatham at Essex, Detroit at Windsor.

October 25—Windsor at Chatham, Essex at Detroit.

November 1—Chatham at Detroit, Windsor at Essex.

It was resolved to give thirteen gold medals to be distributed among the members of the winning team of the series, points to count as follows: Winning team of each game to count two points. Drawn games to count one point for each team. Final ties to be played off. Disputes to be decided by the Western Football Association.

BASEBALL.

SATURDAY'S GAMES.

National League—At Cleveland (first game)—Cleveland 5, Philadelphia 1; second game—Cleveland 7, Philadelphia 3. Chicago-New York game was postponed on account of wet grounds, and the Cincinnati-Boston game because of rain.

FLYS.

Von der Ahe has released Campau, his leftfielder.

John B. Day is said to have lost $50,000 in baseball this year.

Pitcher Tom Ramsey, recently released by the St. Louis, team has been signed by the Syracuse club.

Sunday games—St. Louis 6, Toledo 2. Louisville and Columbus played nine innings, neither side scoring a run.

The National and Players' Leagues closed their seasons on Saturday. Brooklyn wins the National championship and Kelly's Bostonians are the Brotherhood leaders.

Manager Muir, of the New York League Club, has offered the Chicago club $7,000 for the release of Third Baseman Burns, and a salary of over $5,000 to "Tommy," whom he wanted to make captain of the "Giants" next year. Burns declined the offer it is said.

The much-talked-of baseball deal was consummated at Cincinnati, O., Saturday night and the Cincinnati Baseball Club, with all its rights and franchises, property, etc., has been sold and transferred to the Players' League. It is believed that the consideration was $38,000 cash in hand.

JOPPA TO JERUSALEM.

Talmage's Travels in the Land of Palestine.

The Return of the Israelites—Servile Condition of Women—The People of "One"—Sampson's Incendiary Act—David's Battle with Goliath.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The subject of Dr. Talmage's sermon this morning was "My Second Day in Palestine." The preacher announced as his text, Galatians, i., 18: "I went up to Jerusalem." We are in Joppa and we must start early, for by night we are to be in Jerusalem, which is 41 miles away. The horses with harness tasseled and jingling, are hitched, and, with a dragoman in a coat of many colors seated in front, we start on a road which unveils within twelve hours enough to think of for all time and all eternity. Farewell, Mediterranean, with such a blue as no one but the divine chemist could mix, and such a fire of morning glow, as only the divine illuminator could kindle! Hail! Mountains of Ephraim and Judah, whose ramparts of rock we shall mount in a few hours, for modern engineers can make a road anywhere, and without piling Ossa upon Pelion, those giants can scale the heavens. We start out of the city amid barricades of cactus on either side. We passed out amid about 500 gardens, seven or eight acres to the garden, from which, at the right season, are plucked oranges, lemons, figs, olives, citron, and pomegranates, and which hold up their censers of perfume before the Lord in perpetual praise. We meet great processions of camels loaded with kegs of oil and with fruit, and some wealthy Mohammedan with four wives—three too many. The camel stops for nothing and seems not to look down, and in the street I saw a child by the stroke of a camel's front foot hurled seven or eight feet along the ground. Here we meet people with faces, and arms, and hands tattooed, as in all lands sailors tattoo their arms with some favorite ship or admired face. It was to this habit of tatooing among the Orientals that God referes in a figure when he says of his Church: "I have graven thee on the palms of my hands." Many of these regions are naturally sandy, but by irrigation they are made fruitful, and, as in this irrigation the brooks and rivers are turned this way and that to water the gardens or farms, so the Bible says, "The King's heart is in the hands of the Lord, and he turneth it as the rivers of water are turned whithersoever he will."

As we pass out and on we find about 800 acres belonging to the Universal Israelitish Alliance. Montefiore, the Israelitish centenarian and philanthropist, and Rothschild, the banker, and others of the large-hearted have paid the passage to Palestine for many of the Israelites and set apart lands for their culture; and it is only a beginning of the fulfillment of divine prophecy when these people shall take possession of the Holy Land. The road from Joppa to Jerusalem, and all the roads leading to Nazereth and Galilee we saw lined with processions of Jews, going to the sacred places, either on holy pilgrimage or as settlers. All the fingers of Providence nowadays are pointing toward that resumption of Palestine by the Israelites. Societies in England and Russia are gathering money for the transportation of the Israelites to Palestine, and for the purchase for them of lands and farming implements, and so many desire to go, that it is decided by lot as to which families shall go first. They were God's chosen people at the first. He has promised to bring them back to their home, and there is no power to make God forget his promise. God will gather in that distant land those of that race who have been maltreated, and he will blast with the lightnings of his omnipotence those lands on either side of the Atlantic, which have been the instruments of annoyance and harm to that Jewish race, to which belonged Abraham, and David, and Joshua, and Baron Hirsch, and Montefiore, and Paul the Apostle, and Mary the Virgin, and Jesus Christ the Lord.

On the way across the plain of Sharon we meet many veiled women. Is is not respectable for them to go unveiled. A man may not even see the face of his wife until after betrothal, or engagement of marriage. Hence the awful mistakes, and the unhappy homes, for God has made the face an index of character, and honesty or dishonesty usually is demonstrated in the features. Here come these women with bundles of sticks for firewood on their heads. They stagger under the burdens. Whipped and beaten will some of them be if their bundles of sticks is too small. All that is required for divorcement is for a man to say to his wife, "Be off; I don't want you any more." Woman is a slave in all lands except those in which the Gospel of Christ makes her a queen. And yet in Christian countries there are women posing as skeptics, and men with families deriding the only religion that makes sacred and honorable the names of wife, mother, daughter and sister.

Here is Ramleh, birthplace, residence and tomb of Samuel. Now we pass guardhouses, castles of chopped straw and mud, where armed men dwell and keep the bandits off travelers. There is only one other defense that amounts to much in these lands, and that is the law of hospitality. If you can get an Arab to eat with you, if only one mouthful, you are sure of his protection and that has been so from age to age. The Lord's Supper was built on that custom, a special friendship after partaking food together. The only lands where it is safe to travel unarmed are Christian lands.

On we roll through the plain of Sharon. Here grew the rose after which Christ was named, Rose of Sharon, celebrated in all Christendom and throughout all ages. There has been controversy as to what flower it was. Some say it was a marshmallow that thrives here, and some claim this honor for the narcissus, and some for the blue iris and some for the scarlet anemone, for you must know that this plain of Sharon is a rolling ocean of color when the spring breezes move across it. But leaving the botanists in controversy as to what it is, I would take the most aromatic and beautiful of them all and twist them into a garland for the "Name which is above every name."

Yonder, a little to the north as we move on, is the Plain of Ono. The Bible mentions it again and again. As the dragoman announced it and in the Bible I read of it, I was reminded of the vast multitude of people who now dwell in the Plain of Ono. They are always in the negative. Will you help to build a church? Oh, no! Will you start out in some new Christian enterprise? Oh, no! Do you think the world is getting any better? Oh, no! They lie down in the path of all good movements, sanitary, social, political and religious. They harness their horses with no traces to pull ahead, but only breeching straps to hold back. For all Christian work I would not give for a thousand of them the price of a clipped 10-cent piece. They are in the Plain of Oh, no! May the Lord multiply the numbers of those who, when anything good is undertaken, are found to live in the Plain of Oh, yes!

Here now we come where stood the fields into which Samson fired the foxes. The foxes are no rarity in this land. I counted at one time 20 or 30 of them in one group, and the cry all along the line was: "Foxes! Look at the foxes!" Those I saw and heard in Palestine might have been descendants of the very foxes that Samson employed for his appalling feat of incendiarism when with the aid of 300 of these animals he burned the crops for miles around. All for spite. And some theologians learn one thing and some another. But I learn from it that a great man may sometimes stoop to a very mean piece of business. The fire of the foxes kindled that night in Palestine has not gone out, but has leaped the seas, and the sly foxes, the human foxes, are now still running every whither, kindling political fires, fires of religious controversy, fires of hate, world-wide fires, and whole harvests of righteousness perish. Yonder is Kirjath-Jearim, where the ark of God stayed until David took it to Jerusalem. Yonder John the Baptist was born. Yonder is Emmaus, where Christ walked with the disciples at eventide.

Here is the Valley of Ajalon, famous for Joshua's pursuit of the five kings, and the lunar arrest. And in imagination I see the moon in day-time halt. Who has not sometimes seen the moon dispute the throne with the sun? But when the king of day and the queen of night, who never before Joshua's time nor since then stopped a moment in their march, halted at the command of Joshua, it was a scene enough to make the universe shiver: "Moon! stand thou still in the Valley of Ajalon!" And you must remember that it was more of an orb than it is now. It is a burnt out world now, a dead world now, an extinct world now, a corpse laid out in state in the heavens, waiting for the judgment day to bury it. But on the day of which I speak the moon was probably a living world, yet it halted at the wave of Joshua's finger, "Stand thou still!" Do not budge an inch until Joshua finishes those five kings, who are there tumbling over the rocks, sword of man slashing them, hailstones out of the sky pelting them.

Here we pass the village of Latrun, home of the penitent thief, the village, a few straggling houses on steep hills, rising from the Valley of Ajalon. Up these steep hills, in his earlier days, the thief had carried the spoils of arson and burglary, and down them he had borne the heavier burden of a guilty heart. But higher than these hills he mounted, after he had repented, from the transfixed posture on the cross to the bosom of a forgiving God.

Now we come to the brook Elah, from which little David took the smooth stones with which he prostrated Goliath. At the season we crossed there was not a drop of water in the brook. We went down into the ravine, and walked among the pebbles that had been washed smooth, by the rush of the waters through all ages. There is where David armed himself. He walked around and picked up five of these polished pebbles. He got them of just the right size. The typography of the place so corresponds with the Bible story that I could see the memorable fight go on.

It is the only fight I ever did watch. Pugilism I abhor, but here were two champions, the one God-appointed, the other Satan-appointed, and deciding the destiny of a world. Here are two ridges of mountains 500 feet high, the Philistines on one ridge, the Israelites on the other ridge. The fight is in the valley between David, the champion for the Israelites, Goliath, the champion for the Philistines. David, undersized and almost effeminate, only a mouthful for Goliath, who was nearly ten feet high. They advance, but the Bible says that David made his first step forward. Closer and closer they come. "Come to me," said the giant, "and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air and to the beasts of the field." You see Goliath going to give David for a banquet to the vulture and jackal. He, the mountain of flesh, will fall over on that little hillock. I hear him laugh through the mouth-piece of his helmet. He will toast the little whiffet on the top of his long sword. He will call all the crows for a breakfast. "Come to me, you contemptible little fellow, and I will make quick work with you. the idea that a five-footer should dare to come out against a ten-footer! Let the two armies looking down from the ridges watch me!" David responded: "I come to the in the name of the Lord of Hosts." Aha, that is the right kind of battle shout. "In the name of the Lord of Hosts." How that cry rings through the Wady-es-Sumpt! He who fights in that spirit wins the day. The Israelitish dwarf enlarges into enormous proportions. The moment to strike has come. David takes his sling with a stone in it and whirls it round and round his head, until he has put the weapon into sufficient momentum, and then, taking sure aim, hurls it. The giant throws up his hands and reels back and falls. The stone sank into his forehead. The skull cracked and broke in like an eggshell, and the ground shook as this great oak of a military chieftain struck it. Huzzah for David!

But we must hasten on, for the danger now is that night will be upon us before we reach Jerusalem. We are climbing the hills which are terraced with olive grooves, uplands rising above uplands, until we come to an immensity of barrenness; gray rocks above gray rocks, where neither tree, nor leaf, nor bush, nor grass blade can grow. The horses stumble, and slip, and pull, till it seems the harness must break. Solemnity and awe take possession of us.

On and up, on and up, until the lathered and smoking horses are reined in, and the dragoman rises in front and points eastward, crying "Jerusalem!" It was mightier than an electric shock. We all rose. There it lay, the prize of nations, the terminus of famous pilgrimages, the object of Roman and crusading wars, and for it Assyrians had fought, and Egyptians had fought, and the world had fought, the place which the Queen of Sheba visited, and Richard Cœur de Lion had conquered, home of Solomon, home of Ezekiel, home of Jeremiah, home of Isaiah, home of Saladin. Mount Zion of David's heartbreak, and Mount Moriah, where the sacrifices smoked; Mount of Olives, where Jesus preached, Gethsemane, where he agonized, and Golgotha, where he died, and the Holy Sepulchre, where he was buried. O, Jerusalem! Greatest city on earth and type of the city celestial.

Finance Notes.

The total amount on deposit on 31st August last in the Postoffice Savings Bank and the Dominion Government Savings banks was $40,759,114, compared with $43,203,075 on 31st August, 1888, a shrinkage of $2,444,961.

The New York associated bank statement is unfavorable. The reserve decreased $2,564,200 during the past week, and the surplus is now $11,411,205. At the corresponding period of last year there was a deficiency in the reserve of $1,668,050, while in 1888 there was a surplus of $11,417,830.

Although business on the London Stock Exchange the past week was unusually limited, quotations have been generally maintained. American securities continue to be the weak spot in the market. Business in American railway securities is virtually suspended, the main cause being the extreme uncertainty felt regarding the influence of the new tariff and silver laws on American trade and industries. Bankers and investors hold aloof from American undertakings and are restricting their loans and operations in that direction wherever possible. One result of the new measures considered assured is a large decrease in the trade between England and America. The difficulties of the South African Bank have been arranged. No further bank failures are feared.

The Dairy Markets.

ODDENSBURG.

ODDENSBURG, Oct. 4.—Three thousand six hundred cheese offered, 2,000 sold at 9½c to 9 11-16c, ruling 9¾c.

LONDON.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—There was a good attendance at the London cheese market this afternoon, buyers being well represented. Twenty-six factories boarded 11,393 boxes, 9,808 boxes of it being September cheese. No sales were made on the first call. On the second, 90 boxes August were sold at 9½c, 250 at 9¾c and 180 at 9 5-16c; 525 boxes September cheese were sold at 10½c. The factorymen were generally unwilling to state their prices when requested, although one dealer asked 11c, while 9¾c for last half August and 10 5-16c for all September were refused. The Liverpool cable registered 57s, an advance of 2s over last market.

The Trade Bulletin of Montreal says the value of cheese shipped from that port to the close of last week was $5,000,000, against about $4,200,000 for the corresponding period last year. The shipments up to Sept. 27 were 990,939 boxes (after allowing for a portion of the Idaho's cheese, which went out of port twice) against 831,020 boxes for the same period in 1889, showing an increase of 159,919 boxes. The journal further remarks that the buyers on the other side are determined not to order on the prices asked by the factorymen, and the present appearances seem to favor the former. The factorymen have their shelves well glutted and the demand for cheese had fallen off considerably, thus aiding the probability that September cheese might yet be bought at the same price as that paid for August.

Mr. Creighton gave notice last Saturday that he would move at the next meeting to the effect that the call-board system be done away with. In supporting his motion to-day he stated the system was too straight-laced for him. He saw his cheese offered and had nothing to do with the selling. It had been in operation four weeks now, and members had had time to decide whether it should be abandoned or retained. The motion was seconded by Mr. Blake. Mr. Leitch moved in amendment that the discussion be postponed until next Saturday. The amendment carried with the addition that the question be brought up at 2:30 p.m. before market began, and to give members from a distance time to catch returning trains.

Mr. James Ballantyne, M. P. P. for South Perth, attended the market to-day. He is an extensive buyer.

The following factories were represented:

Petrolea Oil Market.

PETROLEA, Oct. 6.—Oil opened and closed at $1 30½ to-day.

LONDON AND ENVIRONS.

—The civil service examinations will be held in this city on Nov. 11.

—Pat Rooney at the Grand on Wednesday and Thursday in "Pat's New Wardrobe."

—The Salvation Army Band appeared in their new uniforms yesterday. The army is progressing under Capt. Mutton.

—Hon. S. H. Blake, George T. Blackstock, Q.C., Charles P. Galt and Chancellor Boyd are in the city attending the Chancery Court.

—A quorum of shareholders of the defunct London Baseball and Athletic Association was not present on Saturday night, so the meeting was postponed.

—Miss Follinsbee, of London, Ont., and Mr. F. L. Parmenter, of Gananoque, Ont., are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Parmenter, of Prospect avenue.—[Buffalo Times.

—A lengthy session of the City Council is expected this evening. The electric light question will be again considered and there is a large amount of general business to deal with.

—At the young men's rally in Victoria Hall yesterday afternoon, an interesting address was delivered by Mr. W. H. Liddicoatt. Mr. Frank Holman presided and quite a large number attended.

—Mrs. Langford, of Brampton, late of South London, is on her way to attend a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society at Chatham, and has taken advantage of the parlor concert at Mrs. Rowell's, Elmwood avenue, to stop off and see her many friends in that part of the city.

—The Chancery sittings opened at the Court House to-day, Chancellor Boyd presiding. The McIntyre will case occupied the attention of the court. This was an action brought by Catherine McIntyre, of Glencoe, to establish the will of the late Malcolm McIntyre and set aside a conveyance alleged to have been made by the deceased (who was over 90 years of age) a couple of days before he died in favor of John McNaughton. The amount of property involved is about $6,000. Case still in progress.

—At the final competition for the Evans' medal on Saturday afternoon there was a large attendance of members of the Forest City Quoiting Club. Brown and Murray played first, the former allowing the latter ten points, but Murray made 51 to his opponent's 60, thus winning by one point. The successful player then tried conclusions with Robinson, who allowed him 14 points. Murray again won, making 38 points to Robinson's 51—again winning by one point. Murray thus becomes the possessor of the medal.

Death of Mrs. John R. Peel.

Rev. Geo. Boyd, in Queen's Avenue Methodist Church, announced the death of Mrs. John R. Peel yesterday at the family residence, corner Dufferin avenue and Waterloo streets. Deceased was born in London, Eng., in 1833, and was married to Mr. John R. Peel in the old country in 1849, coming to this city in 1852. She leaves eight children to mourn her death, the eldest, John, being in the marble business with his father; Frank, living in Detroit; Mildred, the well-known sculptor, in Toronto; Paul, the celebrated artist; Mrs. Beldon, of Toronto; Frederick, Alfred and Daisy. Mrs. Peel had been lingering for nine months, but endured her sufferings with Christian patience. She was beloved for her benevolent and kindly disposition and her many good qualities by a large circle of friends, who will sincerely mourn her departure and extend their hearty sympathy to the afflicted family.

Thanksgiving Services.

The harvest thanksgiving services at Christ Church yesterday were of a specially attractive nature, and were attended by large congregations. Under the direction of the ladies the chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers and fruits, the ornamentation in the center consisting of a pyramid of flowers, ferns and fruit, being specially pretty. In the morning Rev. Prof. Williams, B.A., delivered an able and scholarly discourse from II. Samuel, xxiv., 1. Rev. Principal Millar, M.A., of Huron College, preached in the evening from St. John, iv., 32nd and following verses. He made a very favorable impression by his masterly handling of his subject united to a ready command of language and a fluent delivery. The musical portion of the service was extremely well rendered under the direction of M. E. T. Macoomb, the organist and choir master. In the evening the offertory solo, "O Rest in the Lord," by Miss Boddy, was given with much sweetness and tone. A sacred music concert will be given at the church this evening.

The Swedish Nightingales.

London music-lovers will have an opportunity of hearing the Swedish Ladies' National Concert Company on Monday, Oct. 20. This company is announced to be one of the most superb musical organizations that ever entertained concert-goers. Eight young ladies of remarkable ability and training, natives of the land of Jenny Lind and Christine Nilsson, have been carefully selected by Prof. August Edgren, choirmaster of the Royal Opera for the King of Sweden, and without exception they surpass in power, purity and richness of culture, any organization that has ever come to America. Last year was their first season, and in the great American cities, as well as in Toronto, they evoked the most unbounded enthusiasm. They have been in Sweden during the summer and have just arrived for their second tour, accompanied as before by the refined and accomplished Boston humorist, Melvin R. Day. The Swedish girls appear on the stage dressed in the picturesque garb of peasant girls of the different Provinces of their own land. A rare treat is in store for all who avail themselves of this opportunity.

THE YEAR'S RECORD.

Particulars About Those Who Passed Through Jailer Kelly's Hands This Year.

Jailer Kelly filed his annual report with the Sheriff this morning. It showed that during the year ending Sept. 30 the number of prisoners committed was 754, of whom 656 were males and 98 females. The number of prisoners remaining in custody on October, 1889, was 32, which made the total number confined in the jail during the year 786. Of those convicted this year 30 males and 6 females were under 16 years of age. The number committed for the first time was 368 males and 58 females; 62 males and 7 females for the second time, 17 males and 6 females for the third time, while 24 males and 2 females were convicted more than three times. Five males were committed for want of sureties to keep the peace, and 15 males and 12 females for insanity. The number of debtors confined was 3. Of those committed 256 males and 38 females were acquitted on trial and discharged from custody, and 52 males and 8 females were discharged by order of the court without trial. TEMPERANCE SERMONS.

Ministers Who Spoke on the Subject and Those Who Did Not.

Preparatory Steps for the Work of Evangelist Burdick.

What Was Said, by Special Request, in Each of the Protestant Churches of the City.

Yesterday was the day on which all the Protestant ministers of the city were requested to preach sermons on the subject of temperance. The Temperance Campaign Committee of the city has undertaken the arrangements for a temperance campaign which will be conducted here by Mr. P. A. Burdick, the famed evangelist. In order that all ministers and their congregations might have an opportunity of helping on the work, the following letter was sent to every Protestant clergyman in the city:

Dear Sir.—I am instructed by resolution of the Temperance Campaign Committee which met in Victoria Hall on the evening of Aug. 25, to request you to preach a temperance sermon on Sunday, Oct. 5, and to take such other steps as you may deem expedient, to interest your people in the series of gospel temperance meetings, to be conducted by P. A. Burdick, the temperance evangelist. The next meeting of the committee will be in Victoria Hall on Oct. 6, at 8 o'clock. Respectfully,

D. A. McDERMID.

With a view to ascertaining the sentiments of the various pastors ADVERTISER representatives were placed in all the churches at morning and evening services and the result of their investigation is given below:

Methodist—In London West Methodist Church in the evening Rev. Wm. McDonagh took as his text, "Can a man take fire in his bosom and his clothes not be burned? Can one go upon hot coals and his feet not be burned?" He referred to the evils of moderate drinking and considered the man who took an occasional glass as even more sinful than the drunkard. He said he had smelled liquor from the breath of some of his own congregation who did not think they could possibly become drunkards. Birchall had dallied with temptation in allowing himself to lie and the result was his downfall.——Rev. T. E. Harrison, of Elizabeth Street Church, in the course of the evening service mentioned that he had been requested to preach a sermon, but having arranged to preach on the subject, "We all shall fall as a leaf," he had postponed the temperance sermon until next Sunday. His sympathies were all on the side of temperance, and during the coming campaign his energies would all be used against the liquor traffic, and he believed God would bless the efforts made to benefit our fellow-citizens.——In the Askin Street Methodist Church at night Rev. Mr. McIntyre, pastor, preached a strong discourse in favor of total abstinence. He took as his theme the example of Daniel, and stated that while he would make no particular inquiry into the views entertained upon this subject by his flock, he would do his duty. He was supported by the Bible, which denounced drunkenness, and by the Methodist Church, which received within its membership no one who indulged in intoxicating liquors. The benefits of temperance and the degradation of intemperance were strongly set forth.——At Queen's Avenue Methodist, the prayers, hymns and sermon in the evening were all pronouncedly for temperance. Rev. Geo. Boyd occupied the pulpit, and preached a sermon against the liquor traffic and intemperance in all the various phases of the subject. He based his discourse on St. Luke, x, 30, and gave many illustrations of the debasing and ruinous effects of drink. Mr. Boyd closed his address with a plea for help and prayer for the success of the temperance campaign which is about to commence in this city.——Rev. G. W. Henderson, of Wellington Street Methodist Church, preached a sermon in the evening, in the course of which he condemned the liquor traffic in unsparing terms, and was particularly denunciatory of high license. He hoped for the speedy triumph of prohibition.——At Hamilton Road Church Rev. W. J. Little preached on prohibition in the morning. He instanced the abolition of slavery and the repeal of the corn laws, and felt sure that the liquor traffic would also be abolished completely. He urged the abolition of high licenses and the necessity of total abstinence. Total prohibition was what the State and the individual required.——In Queen's Park Church Rev. Mr. Hayhurst took for his text Prov., xxiii, 31-32. At one time alcoholic liquors were considered a food, but he was happy to say that that theory was long ago exploded. He also quoted from a lecture given by a Mr. Cook in regard to insurance companies in England, one of which declared that in 60 years only one-half as many deaths occurred among total abstainers as in the class of moderate drinkers. He would only vote for the man seeking parliamentary honors who would pledge himself to do all in his power to bring about prohibition, and hoped all would do the same, but their own conscience must govern them. The duty of those who had any sympathy for their fellow-creatures was to do everything in their power to crush the liquor traffic out of existence.——At Colborne Street Methodist Rev. Mr. Lanceley resumed his labors after an absence of five weeks at the General Conference meeting at Montreal and a holiday trip to Quebec. During the course of his morning sermon Mr. Lanceley referred to the temperance crusade to be opened this week in this city, and urged all to lend a helping hand to promote temperance and sobriety.——Rev. A. C. Courtice, in his sermon on "Iniquitous Prosperity," referred to the liquor traffic as being crowned with financial prosperity. Yet on a careful survey of its methods and its results were such as to bring it under the title of iniquitous prosperity. The tears of widows and orphans, the blood of murders and suicides and the blasted life of the gallows were among the memories of the liquor traffic. The world would be better in every way without this industry and its false prosperity.——Rev. Stephen Bond, of King Street Methodist Church, spoke in favor of prohibition, but the fact that he had but recently returned from Conference, he said, prevented him from giving it the attention he desired. He announced that he would defer speaking on the subject for that reason.

Presbyterian—Rev. Mr. Talling, of St. James' Presbyterian Church, preached on the liquor traffic to a large congregation in the evening, making a supplication for the cause of temperance in his prayer. Mr. Talling thought some of the advocates of temperance used too strong language, thereby injuring the cause. He made some strong comparisons and showed the reasons why intoxicating stimulants should be shunned. He did not believe in hating the hotel-keeper and calling him a villian when the people granted him a license to sell liquor, putting the money down in their pockets, while he was acting as their agent. The speaker made reference to ministers who were adverse to speaking on the temperance campaign for fear of making enemies, but he would stand up for the right no matter what the consequence.——Rev. Mr. Ballantyne, of Knox Church, South London, made no reference to the coming campaign. He preached a temperance sermon on the previous Sunday evening.——Rev. W. J. Clark, of the First Presbyterian Church, spoke briefly of the evil resulting from the liquor traffic, and compared therewith the infinitesimal amount of even seeming good claimed by its supporters. Referring to the "Ontario License Act," he urged his hearers to take advantage of its provisions. While thus exhorting them as to their duty as citizens, he pleaded on the high ground of love to one's neighbor for total abstinence and the inculcation of temperance principles in the home, that the next generation might wipe out the stain that the licensing of the liquor traffic is upon our civilization. In reference to the campaign about to be opened in London, he claimed that while we might not altogether agree with this method of deepening the temperance sentiment of the community, yet it demanded the support of Christian men.——Rev. Mr. Dickson, of Galt, occupied the pulpit of St. Andrew's Church, exchanging with Rev. J. A. Murray. Before delivering the evening sermon reference was made to the special temperance movement about to be started in the city. Several passages of Scripture were read bearing on temperance, and Mr. Dickson said of all the temperance books he ever read the Bible was the most pronounced in favor of total abstinence. One thing he regretted was that the statesmen of the country had not backbone enough to enact prohibitory laws, but were waiting for public opinion to force them up, instead of leading and educating the public mind in this grand reform.——Rev. Walter M. Roger, of King Street Presbyterian Church, preached a children's sermon in the morning and on the Benwell murder at night, but made no reference to the temperance question.

Episcopalian—Rev. Canon Richardson, of Memorial Church, did not mention the subject.——Rev. Canon Davis, of St. James' Church, South London, did not mention the subject.——Rev. W. T. Hill, of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, did not mention the subject.——Rev. W. M. Seaborne, of St. Matthews' Church, East London, did not mention the subject.——No mention was made of the subject at Christ Church, where thanksgiving sermons were held.——At St. Paul's Cathedral no mention was made of the subject.——Rev. G. B. Sage at St. George's Church, London West, made no mention of the subject.

Baptist—Rev. H. C. Speller, at Adelaide Street Baptist Church, took for his text Acts, iv., 12. The preacher said he was heartily in favor of "Gospel" temperance movements, but while no hand would more willingly take up the pencil to mark a ballot for prohibition than his, yet legislation, he held, was at best a rough and one-sided remedy for the evils of the world. All reform outside of salvation was only comparative and relative. He did not by any means belittle temperance, but he would put temperance on top of the foundation, not underneath. The root must be sound or the tree would die. The great need of man was to possess Christ. Mr. Speller made special reference to the coming temperance campaign, and urged his hearers to give the movement their hearty assistance.——Rev. S. J. Arthur, of Toronto, who is temporarily occupying the pulpit of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, did not mention temperance. He has since stated that he received no request to do so.——Rev. W. J. McKay, of the South London Baptist Church, announced himself as greatly in favor of the temperance campaign, and said that he would always give the work his hearty co-operation. Two recent deaths in the congregation, those of Mrs. Nichols and Master Herbert Denniss, prevented him from preaching a specially temperance sermon, but he hoped that all who could would attend the convention to be held this evening.——At Grosvenor Street Baptist Rev. Mr. Siple preached a stirring temperance sermon in the evening, taking for his text Matthew iii., 10: "And now also the axe is laid into the root of the tree." He said God wanted clean and complete work—no patchwork. If the heart is corrupt the life will be corrupt. Temperance was part of his Gospel, and he would put the axe at the root of the evil and cut off the manufacture and sale of the home-destroying, health-destroying, soul-destroying drink.

Congregational—Rev. R. Trotter Carr, of the Union Congregational Church, made a strong appeal for temperance from the text, "But suffer all things lest we should hinder the Gospel of Christ." He spoke in favor of welcoming all manner of men who appeared on the temperance platform, irrespective of religion, color or nationality. He characterized intemperance as the greatest of all hindrances to the Gospel of Christ.——At the First Congregational Church the pulpit was temporarily occupied by Rev. Dr. Leonard, United States consul, who made no reference to the temperance question.

Money in Drugs.—Mr. Shuff, the pushing druggist, who has now such an enviable name in the East End, thinks there is money in drugs down town also, for he has just concluded a purchase of the Central Drug Store in Edge Block, 400 Richmond street, three doors south of Dundas, formerly known as Dr. Stevenson's. Mr. Shuff will have only the very best of everything, and has already begun overhauling the stock and throwing out everything old or unreliable. He purposes refitting the store in modern style and largely increasing the stock with pure, fresh drugs. Mr. Platt's many friends will be glad to see his familiar face behind the counter, while a skillful dispenser will have charge of the prescription department. b

Desperate Remedies

By Thomas Hardy,

AUTHOR OF "A PAIR OF BLUE EYES," "THE TRUMPET-MAJOR," ETC.

"Don't—forget me," he murmured. She did not answer.

"Let me see you sometimes," he said.

"Perhaps you never will again—I am going away," she replied in lingering tones; and turning into Cross street, ran indoors and upstairs.

The sudden withdrawal of what was superfluous when first given, is often felt as an essential loss. It was felt now in regard to the maiden. More too, after a first meeting, so pleasant and so enkindling, she had seemed to imply that they would never come together again. The young man softly followed her, stood opposite the house and watched her come into the upper room with the light. Presently his gaze was cut short by her approaching the window and pulling down the blind—Edward dwelling upon her vanishing figure with a hopeless sense of loss akin to that which Adam is said by logicians to have felt when he first saw the sun set, and thought, in his inexperience, that it would return no more.

He waited until her shadow had twice crossed the window, when, finding the charming outline was not to be expected again, he left the street, crossed the harbor-bridge, and entered his own solitary chamber on the other side, vaguely thinking as he went (for unnamed reasons),

"Our hope is too like despair
For prudence to smother."

CHAPTER III.

THE EVENTS OF EIGHT DAYS.

§ 1. From the twenty-second to the twenty-seventh of July.

But things are not what they seem. A responsive love for Edward Springrove had made it appearance in Cytherea's bosom with all its fascinating attributes of a first experience not succeeding to or displacing other emotions, as in older hearts, but taking up entirely new ground; as when gazing just after sunset at the pale blue sky we see a star come into existence where nothing was before.

His parting words, "Don't forget me," she repeated to herself a hundred times, and though she thought their import was probably commonplace; she could not help toying with them, looking at them from all points, and investing them with meanings of love and faithfulness, ostensibly entertaining such meanings only as fables wherewith to pass the time, yet in her heart admitting, for detached instants, a possibility of their deeper truth. And thus, for hours after he had left her, her reason flirted with her fancy as a kitten will sport with a dove, pleasantly and smoothly through easy attitudes, but disclosing its cruel and unyielding nature at crises.

To turn now in the more material media through which this story moves, it so happened that the very next morning brought round a circumstance which, slight in itself, took up a revalant and an important position between the past and the future of the persons herein concerned.

At breakfast time, just as Cytherea had again seen the postman pass without bringing an answer to the advertisement, as she fully expected he would do, Owen entered the room.

"Well," he said, kissing her, "you have not been alarmed, of course. Springrove told you what I had done, and you found there was no train."

"Yes, it was all clear. But what is the lameness owing to?"

"I don't know—nothing. It has quite gone off now. Cytherea, I hope you like Springrove. Springrove is a nice fellow, you know."

"Yes. I think he is except that——"

"It happened just to the purpose that I should meet him there, didn't it? And when I reached the station and learnt that I could not get on by train my foot seemed better. I started off to walk home, and went about five miles along a path beside the railroad. It then struck me that I might not be fit for anything to-day if I walked and aggravated the bothering foot, so I looked for a place to sleep at. There was no available village or inn, and I eventually got the keeper of a gate-house, where a lane crossed the line to take me in."

They proceeded with their breakfast. Owen yawned.

"You didn't get much sleep in the gate-house last night, I am afraid, Owen," said his sister.

"To tell the truth, I didn't. I was in such very close and narrow quarters. Those gate-houses are such small places, and the man had only his own bed to offer me. Ah, bye-the-bye, Cythie, I have such an extraordinary thing to tell you in connection with this man!—by Jove, I had nearly forgotten it. But I'll go straight on. As I was saying, he only had his own bed to offer me, but I could not afford to be fastidious, and as he had a hearty manner, though a very queer one, I agreed to accept it, and he had made a rough pallet for himself on the floor close beside me. Well, I could not sleep for the lite of me, and I wished I had not stayed there, though I was so tired. For one thing, there were the luggage trains rattling by at my elbow the early part of the night. But worse than this, he talked continually in his sleep, and occasionally struck out with his limbs at something or another, knocking against the post of the bedstead and making it tremble. My condition was altogether so unsatisfactory that at last I awoke him, and asked him what he had been dreaming about for the previous hour, for I could get no sleep at all. He begged my pardon for disturbing me, but a name I had casually let fall that evening had led him to think of another stranger he had once had visit him, who had accidentally mentioned the same name, and some very strange incidents connected with that meeting. The affair had occurred years and years ago; but what I had said made him think and dream about it as if it were but yesterday. What was the word I said? I said, 'Cytherea,' he said. What was the story? I asked then. He then told me that when he was a young man in London he borrowed a few pounds to add to the few he had saved up, and opened a little inn at Hammersmith. One evening, after the inn had been open about a couple of months, every idler in the neighborhood ran off to Westminister. The Houses of Parliament were on fire.

"Not a soul remained in his parlor besides himself, and he began picking up the pipes and glasses his customers had hastily relinquished. At length a young lady of about 17 or 18 came in. She asked if a woman was there waiting for herself—Miss Jane Taylor. He said no; asked the young woman if she would wait, and showed her into a small inner room. There was a glass-pane in the partition dividing this room from the bar to enable the landlord to see if his visitors, who sat there, wanted anything. A curious awkwardness and melancholy about the behavior of the girl who called, caused my informant to look frequently at her through the partition. She seemed weary of her life, and sat with her face buried in her hands, evidently out of her element in such a house. Then a woman much older came in and greeted Miss Taylor by name. The man distinctly heard the following words pass between them:

"'Why have you not brought him?'"

"'He is ill; he is not likely to live through the night.'"

Business Across the Border.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's report very general and seasonable activity in the distribution of staple goods. At several points the volume of September business is in excess of that for September, 1889. Rains have continued to affect the cotton crop. The wine and raisin yield in California equal expectations. Hides are dull, and tend lower in price. Provisions have been a shade lower. The passage of the new Tariff Bill appears to have had an influence in enabling producers and others to advance the prices of wool and carpets, barley, tin plates and pearl buttons. Drygoods are in fair demand east. Clothing and woolens are improved in tone and in slightly better demand. Wool is in moderate manufacturing demand and very firm. Sugar is dull, and raws are 1-16c lower; refined steady and unchanged. The recent tariff changes tend to depress prices, which are 1c lower than last year. Coffee unchanged. Anthracite coal prices have advanced, and promise to go higher.

Available stocks of wheat increased 4,116,042 bushels during September east of the Rocky Mountains in the United States and Canada, as compared with an increased of 5,874,358 bushels in September, 1889. Exports of wheat, both coasts, this week are 1,593,900 bushels, against 1,155,121 bushels last week and 1,624,493 bushels in the like week of 1889. The aggregate exported July 1 to date is 25,760,201 bushels, against 25,839,207 bushels in a like share of 1889. Exports of Indian corn this week equal 876,449 bushels, against 747,772 bushels last week.

THE CHURCH SCANDAL.

A Preacher Alleged to Have Two Ways of Signing His Name.

The Deacons of the First Congregational Church Take Action.

Another Remarkable Epistle from Mr. H. B. Ashplant.

The statements from the Boston Congregationalist and from the Canadian Independent, published in the ADVERTISER, together with a letter from Henry B. Ashplant, regarding the standing of a city preacher, caused a good deal of talk in the city Saturday. The deacons of the First Congregational Church, up to that time, had stood by Mr. Neale, but the developments then laid bare proved too much for them. They accordingly held a meeting and decided that, though Mr. Neale was announced to preach at both services on Sunday, he should be kept out of the pulpit till he fully explained the charge made against him. Accordingly, the pulpit was occupied by Dr. Leonard, United States consul.

STATEMENT BY A DEACON.

An ADVERTISER reporter called on Mr. Henry Crossin, a deacon of the church, this morning, and asked what action the officials had taken in regard to the matter.

"We paid no attention whatever," said Mr. Crossin, "to the article which appeared in the ADVERTISER of Friday's edition, purporting to be a clipping from the Congregationalist of Boston. It had no date attached to it, and nothing that stamped it as genuine. There are people in the city, perhaps, who are not friendly to us, and would take any means to get in an underhanded slap; this statement, therefore, may probably be traced to that source. So you see we could take no action on the matter. But when it came to the notice of the deacons that Mr. Neale had signed his name to a marriage certificate as 'R. Moffat Neill,' we felt it our duty to make inquiry. We accordingly waited on him and requested him to abstain from preaching in the church until he could explain it satisfactorily. In doing so we are not by any means passing judgment on Mr. Neale, but had we disregarded it his usefullness among us would have been at an end, and we believed the action necessary to retain the confidence of the public. Mr. Neale is under a cloud at present, and it rests with him whether that shall be dispelled or not. As regards his credentials, we are assured he is all right, and has the requisite ordination papers from both England and Canada. I know many have insinuated that he did not possess them, but what would the congregation think of a pastor who paraded his papers as a proof of proper ordination? It would immediately arouse their suspicions and destroy their confidence. Our position is perfectly open; it rests with Mr. Neale now, and it is to be hoped he can clear himself."

WHAT THE CHURCH SECRETARY SAYS.

J. B. Hicks, secretary First Congregational Church, writes as follows: The following statutory declaration will be a sufficient answer to Mr. H. B. Ashplant's query, which appeared in Saturday's ADVERTISER:

Statutory Declaration Revised Statute of Canada, 1886.—Dominion of Canada, county of Middlesex, to wit:—I, Charles F. Colwell, of the city of London, county of Middlesex, music dealer and issuer of marriage licenses, do solemnly declare that I know the person who is now occupying the pulpit of the First Congregational Church in this city, and whom I believe is now its pastor, and known here as Rev. R. Neale; the same individual on July 13, 1889, applied to me for a marriage license; that he did in my presence sign the document R. Moffat Neill, which signature I witnessed and swore him in the usual form as to the truth of the same and of the contents of said document. I further declare the aforesaid, Rev. R. Neale, now pastor of the aforesaid First Congregational Church, is the one who signed himself as R. Moffat Neill herein stated. The document referred to is in my possession. And I make this solemn declaration, conscientiously believing the same to be true, and by virtue of the act respecting extra-judicial oaths. C. F. COLWELL.

Declared before me at the city of London, in the county of Middlesex, this 4th day of October, A.D., 1890. D. H. Tennent, a notary public for Ontario.

Mr. Hicks adds: "I would not have troubled you had not Mr. Neale emphatically denied having done so, and this called the veracity of certain individuals in question, and also that it is due to the Ministerial Association, of which I believe he is a member, as well as the Christian public in general, that any doubt regarding it should be at once set at rest. It is deeply to be regretted that circumstances seem to make it needful."

Another Letter from Mr. Ashplant.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

An affidavit having been sworn proving the identity of the person in this city bearing the two names given below, I have to ask you permission to submit the following to any whom it may concern:

On last Thursday night, as a member of the First Congregational Church, I attended the regular monthly business meeting of that body. My special purpose was to submit in a proper manner, and to those whom it most directly affected, the following question, based on information of a reliable nature in my possession. I was refused a hearing by Mr. R. Neale on grounds of a quibbling character. I was requested by the secretary to the Board of Deacons to meet their body with Mr. Neale in the vestry, there to make my statement. I consented to do this, but Mr. Neale emphatically declined. Why? Mr. Neale must therefore blame himself for a publicity, which is the only way open to me to press for an answer to the following important questions, which, I believe, most unbiassed persons will admit, are of as much public as sectarian importance.

I address the following questions particularly to Mr. R. Neale, now living on Burwell street, city, and pastor by appointment to the First Congregational Church, alias R. Moffat Neill.

(Per sworn affidavit.)

1. Are you the person R. Moffat Neill referred to in the extract from the Boston Congregationalist published in the London ADVERTISER on Friday evening last?

2. Did you ever present forged credentials to any church in order to enter its ministry?

3. Have you ever in your past history been publicly denounced as a fraud and expelled at various times from the Congregational, Baptist, Episcopalian and Presbyterian churches?

4. Have you since signing your own affidavit of marriage in this city as R. Moffat Neill presumed to sign the marriage certificate of young persons whom you married in connection with the First Congregational Church (previous to your legal appointment as pastor of same) under the name R. Neale?

5. Could such a contract be held valid in court in case of dispute if such is signed by you in a name you are not legally authorized to assume, and if at the time of performing such marriage ceremony you had no authorized credentials as a minister in good standing, and previous to your recent appointment as pastor to a church in this city?

Mr. Editor, it is not a pleasant duty to ask the above questions, but if they are not answered at once and clearly, we must not be blamed for bringing them forward. I must remind my friends in office in the above-mentioned church that they have refused both myself and Mr. Hicks, their secretary, an opportunity to place this matter before the church last Thursday night, thereby avoiding the present course. I can only hope that after consistently opposing their best friends they will not discover themselves nursing a "wolf in sheep's clothing." Yours respectfully,

HENRY B. ASHPLANT.
